WANTED: PHILOSOPHY COURSE

Dr. Charles D. Tenney's appointment as administrative assistant to the president at the end of the fall term in 1945 brought to a close the instruction of philosophy on the undergraduate level here. During the 1946 spring quarter, Dr. Tenney taught one graduate course in philosophy, but since that date, this subject has not been included on the registration schedules.

Philosophy existed for a short period of seven years, the first course taught in 1938. As Southern expanded and branched out into the university level, eight additional courses, such as ethics and philosophy of art, were added to the curriculum, making a total of 30 quarter hours. Only 24 hours were necessary for a minor in philosophy.

It seems hardly logical that one man's resignation from the teaching profession should necessitate the elimination of a possible minor. Surely another instructor could be appointed to reopen the philosophy curriculum on this campus.

Looking Elsewhere...

NO ONE KNOWS better than the Egyptian staff just how easily typographical errors can happen in a newspaper. Sympathetic as we are, however, we still got a laugh from a recent article in the Carbondale Free Press telling of Southern's forthcoming Egyptian Speech Festival. The news release originally read "Invitations are being sent" but somehow the paper printed "Invitations are being sent to approximately 150 colleges in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, and Missouri."

WE WISH WE COULD have been at that English class in a midwest university where a college student when asked to paraphrase the sentence "She was wearing a lock at Southern" Missouri State College when students not only have to check in by 9:45 p. m. on week night, but must kiss their dates good-night early enough to make an 11 p. m. deadline over the week ends.

A QUANT LITTLE custom designated "Woman in the Week" was announced by Phi Kappa Tau, at the University of Texas, by hanging a dummy which bore the sign, "It talked to a woman" out the frat house window. Fretfully concluding by evoked a series of boos and jeers instead of the usual chorus of appreciative whistles from the brothers who were—for a week—woman haters.

IRONICALLY ENOUGH, Mr. H. W. Prentiss, Jr., accused of pro-fascist activities by Southern

WHY TEACHERS TEND BARS

A bill has been introduced in the Illinois State Legislature to increase the minimum salary of teachers from $1200 to $1800 per annum. Teachers have been underpaid for many years. At one time, the added social advantages of their position in the community compensated for the low salary they received. Today, emphasis is placed on higher wages for all kinds of labor, from the unskilled worker to the technician; but the salaries of those who mold the minds of our children are overlooked. A teacher is allowed to study for years to enter a profession, and after entrance, receives one of the lowest salaries of any type of worker.

The Southern Parade

By DAVE KENNEY
OLD MAIN SHIFTS TWO FEET EAST; (RUMORED)
If that west wind had blown much longer Southern would have found herself faced with the necessity of appealing to the legislature for help in getting herself moved to Indiana and back to her original position upon the soil of Illinois. While there is no external evidence of Old Main's having been blown off her base, how she escaped such a fate is a prime mystery.

An advanced chemistry student, working away busily on the second floor of Parkinson laboratory last Wednesday had the awful mistake of opening a window on each side of the room to allow some fumes to be blown out. Before he could manage to get the windows closed a small fortune in test tubes, beakers, and powdered sulphur had gone sailing out across Lake Ridgeway, lost forever.

HOW ABOUT SEMESTERS?

Since we here at Southern aren't hesitant about admitting that we long to be a full-fledged university and no longer a teacher's college, why isn't the semester system of dividing the year's work, which is generally employed by universities throughout the country, put into effect here? We are weary of the internal factors which we must have in order to become a great institution; surely the time has come for us to assume some of the external features of the older, better known universities.

The change in name, which is a vital prerequisite to progress, is being taken care of. The necessary change in attitude on the part of the public will only require what we appear to the public eye to be a university in fact as well as in ambition.

At present our school year is divided into three terms. That means that three times each year we must experience the expense and the confusion of registration. It means finals come around three times, too. As we do it now, it takes the better part of two weeks to end and begin a term, two weeks of time lost to more scholarly pursuits.

Since Normal is on the semester basis, it is evident that the State Teachers College Board has no ruling against it. Let us make the change and in doing so take another step toward university status. How about it, President Lay?

Now that Miss Fulkerson has been looking Elsewhere, let us see if we can't look back. Let us look back, isn't it about time some one began looking forward...?

And So the Story Goes

By CURTIS HISE and CLETIS HISE

ABRAHAM LINCOLN. People of the United States will observe the birthday of Abraham Lincoln on Wednesday. To some this holiday will be a consecrated one—one in which they will earnestly thank God that America had leaders such as Abraham Lincoln. But to the majority of the American people it will be merely a day of vacation from their jobs. It is shameful that Americans should be prone to observe their national holidays in such a manner.

In troubled times such as these it is easy (and perhaps not entirely illogical) for us to look backward in history and to wish that we might have the type of leadership today that we had then. And yet, we all know that great leaders must be products of their times.

JOHN L. DIDN'T CALL THIS ONE. It seems that the coal mining town of West Frankfort which in the past has seen so many strikes called by John L. Lewis, last week became the first Southern Illinois community to have their teachers walk out on strike for higher wages.

The strike, which was called by Edgar Bain, president of local 817 of the American Federation of Teachers, ended however Tuesday night just as the entire system of grade school teachers, all members of the American Federation of Teachers, prepared to strike, and thus tie up the entire educational system in this coal mining city. Among the demands being sought by the Frankfort high school teachers was a $400 annual increase.

While Frankfort has been the only city thus far to have its schools tied up by a strike of teachers, many Southern Illinois cities are seeing their grade and high school teachers demanding more pay. This week the Harrison city school teachers were reported to have been meeting with the Board of Education in that city to ask for higher wages. The Carbondale city schools are also considering the problem of more pay. Here and there throughout the nation teachers are demanding what they should have gotten many months ago—higher wages.

Many Southern Illinois boards of education have already granted their teachers increases. At Murphysboro the teachers were granted a $200 increase for the remaining six months of the school year. Chester teachers were given a $25 increase in one month by their board. Du Quoin city schools were granted a $35 monthly raise for the remainder of the year. The Springfield Federation of Teachers have asked for a $700 "cost of living" increase with the board of education offering them a $420 salary increase.

As the demands being made become louder and louder, the report comes that fewer and fewer students each year are going into the teaching profession. It seems that it is time for the boards of education in every Southern Illinois city to work out some solution to the problem and the only solution is higher wages. We must keep our teachers in Southern Illinois. The Illinois Education Association has asked for a higher state minimum wage law, but the problem must be solved this year, and it is at this time a problem for the local boards.

THE NAME IS SOUTHERN

It is highly gratifying to note that signs bearing the correct name of this institution have been placed on various campus entrances. Southern's official name should be re-registered for attempting to clarify the school's legal title.

We are a little indignant, however, at the abbreviation of the word Southern to SO. It seems to us that less emphasis should be placed on the word, normal, emphasizing the term, Southern, which is the accepted shortened title of this institution.

OVER THE G. I. BILL: WHAT

By Lloyd Schafale
Veterans are costing the Federal Government $92,000,000 dollars a year, which is more than the government's total spending in 1940, according to the February 7 issue of U. S. News. Furthermore, one out of every five dollars of national income is spent for vets; the "52-24 club" alone costs almost 1,500,000 dollars.

The question "Are the vets spending wisely?" and "How long can this last?" are being currently interpreted in this week's Newsweek, U. S. News, and last week's Time. Strangely enough, most professional news analysts agree on the answers: "Many vets are spending unwisely," and "It can last only as long as taxpayers are willing to bear the burden, which can't be much longer." The G. I. Bill is law only as long as taxpayers will support it, after that, only a mythical illusion.

Applied locally to Southern, how many vets now are making plans for "after the G. I. Bill" period? It is easier to spend carelessly now and worry about who is going to pay later. But is this a wise and sound policy? The G. I. Bill can prove only as profitable as those who use it are willing to make it. Only the taxpayers can answer the question concerning how long the bill will prove effective. Isn't that a rather thin thread to hang a future on? Will veterans wake up some day to find the G. I. Bill gone, their pockets empty, and unprepared?

DEAN REHN, KENNEY LEAD FOURTH ISU FORUM ON CHINA

Dr. H. J. Rehn, dean of the College of Vocations and Professions, spoke on "The Communist in China" last night in the Little Theatre at the fourth of the Independent Student Union forum discussions dealing with current international problems.

Dean Rehn briefly discussed the background of the present rift between the Kounfing and the Communists. Describing the Kounfing as "highly sensitive, non-democratic, reactionary, and adamant" and the Communists as "reform-bent, inflexible, and suspicious," Dean Rehn concluded by stating that his experiences in China had led him to believe that the extreme degree to which graft, greed, and corruption in things economic within the ranks of the Communists; in things political, the evidence does not appear to be so convincing.

Dave Kenney, senior from Carbondale, was student chairman of the forum.

Next Tuesday at 8 p. m., the Independent Student Union will present Dr. W. A. Pitkin, associate professor of social studies, in a forum discussion dealing with "The United Nations" Student Chairman for the discussion will be June Fulkerson.

'Education Time' Will Be Broadcast From CCHS Today

The chorus, band, and a short skit presented by the speech and dramatic department will be featured on the broadcast. Hosts: Rose Price, Carbondale, is the pianist on this program, and the vocalist is Howard Goring, McLeansboro. The announcer is Bob Curtis, Carbondale, and the Story Lady is Mary Beth Hiss, Sparta.

Over Heated Pipe Causes Minor Fire At Health Office

The Health Service office and necessary equipment have been moved in the ground floor of Harwood Hall, while a new heating system is being installed in the building.

Who's Who About Campus

By Bill Price

When a girl is modest without being reserved, frank but not unkind, talented but not pompous, she is considered queenly. Such are the attributes of Aliene Kaularich.

ALIENE KAULARICH

larch, Homecoming Queen at Southern in 1946.

Chosen for the Homecoming Court in 1945, Aliene's election to queen in 1946 came as a pleasant climax to her four years in college. When asked what her reactions were to the announcement of the selection of queen, five minutes prior to the coronation she replied, "I didn't think I was too thrilled."

Aliene is a senior in the College of Education, majoring in Music and minoring in sociology. She entered school the fall of 1942 and will graduate in June, 1947.

Al believes that varied interest and participation in different types of jobs are all part of one education. She followed the plan of working at different jobs during her summer vacations. In the summer of '44 she worked in the tin can as a secretary in the summer of '45 she worked at jobs in the United States Engineers Supply Depot in Granite City.

She considers that summer one of the most interesting of her college years. She came in contact with all types and races of persons and had an opportunity to learn the participants in no sport but is an avid fan of all sports and its competitive sports. Al is interested even in technicalities of different games to find out why a certain play or act was successful or failure. Above all, technicalities or no, she likes to see Southern win.

Aliene's only relaxations are reading (when the time is available) and playing the violin.

Stork Visits Chautauqua Project; Boy and Girl Presented To Vets

By Julia Cook

Anything can happen at the Chautauqua housing project, and it did last week when the stork paid his first visit to two veteran families living in the newly completed houses.

Jealous of the publicity his parents received in the January 24 issue of the Egyptian, six-pounder Richard Alan Gilley made his appearance first at the Holden hospital on January 27 at 1:30 a.m. in an effort to get his picture in the paper, too.

Gilley met During War Little Ricky's parents, Elmer George Harris and Charlotte Frey from Austin, Texas, met during the war when Gilley was stationed at San Marcos Army Air Field, Texas. After the usual trials and tribulations of courtship, they were married in April, 1945.

Charlotte came to Carbondale so that her husband, a junior now, could continue his studies in business and economics. Besides carrying on 15 hours, and working 100 hours a month in the alumni service office, Gilley has been a five-point student at Southern for the last three terms.

The Gilleys moved into their new home on January 16. Elmer called "Gil" by his wife, had handed the floors and started on the varnishing when the stork interrupted him. "It's rough," says Gil, "suddenly I find myself back to preschool civility, but here I am a father, student, and worker. I hope I can get the varnishing done by Thursday when my wife and baby come home."

"Gil" is Proud Papa. Pleased about being a father, though, Gilley was in the hospital job when Dr. J. B. Taylor told him he was a "poppa." The first thing Charlotte remembers after waking was her husband standing near her with excitement in his eyes.

Burelyed Dicky, who has gained six ounces since birth, has his mother's eyes and his daddy's nose. Both parents think the name is debatable, however. "He's going to be tall and lucky like his daddy," said his mother. Dicky has a stubborn chin, a deep frown, and he'll be a thinker, and his feet that make him the most precious baby in the world to the Gilleys.

War Interrupts Lynch-Shaw Romance Coincidence is predominant in the second part of the story. William Scotty Lynch, a physical education major, met his wife, Margaret "Scotty" Shaw, a physical education major, when they both worked at Walgreen's drug store before the war. Then the war and Scotty of Ulm enlisted in the Navy.

During the 20 months that Scotty was gone, Margaret Shaw from Gilleyville had graduated from Southern, taught one year at Greenwood Park, and served as stewardess for United Airlines.

When Scotty came home, they were married; he continued his preparation for teaching and coaching, and she taught physical education the first term this year at Southern.

Last Tuesday, January 28, as Scotty was going to take a geography test, Dr. Dan Foley phoned to tell him about the arrival of a six-pound, 10 ounce baby girl, who was later named Mary Beth for both grandmothers. Scotty made a good grade on the geography test but was too modest to brag

Dr. Schneider, English Professor, Likes Handicraft and Gardening

By Dale Kittie

He came from the "river bottom" of Illinois, just a few miles northwest of Waterloo. His first recollection of early childhood was a good case of arsenic poisoning from eating green walnuts. He is fond of manual arts and useful gardening.

The lad who ate too many green walnuts and grew up to be a professor in English is Dr. William B. Schneider. He received his A.B. and A.M. degrees from the University of Illinois and his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, joining the Southern faculty in 1936.

This faculty member likes to shape things with his hands. He has developed a fine appreciation of manual arts and likes to make furniture. Dr. Schneider also does a lot of gardening, not ornamental but useful. If he owned a farm, he would have no hens nor cattle. Instead, it would be a farm covered with growing things—roots, and the like.

As to modern literature, he agrees that there is certainly a lot of it. He believes that today's literature is more sincere and honest than the literature that people read 100 years ago although it is not as good in form. To him, there is more to be derived from poetry

A library committee has recently been organized under the chairmanship of June Smith. She is assisted by Marion Middleton, Margaret Baue, Dorothy Crisman, and Dorothy Trout. This committee plans to reorganize the library, developing a system of book arrangement according to subject matter, and to repair book racks.

Several members of the S.C.F. traveled to Crainville last Sunday where they had charge of a youth service at the Crainville Baptist church. Four of them led a discussion of "What Does It Mean To Be A Christian." Bill McIntosh sang a solo. Those who attended were Fiddles Doolin, Bettye Lockman, Curtis Englebright, Bill McIntosh, Calvin Bremer, and Jean Tostleben.

Raymond H. Dey, Director of Placement and Extension Services, Attending Two Meetings Today

Raymond H. Dey, director of placement and extension services, is attending the Illinois Schoolmasters' club annual meeting at Bloomington today.

While there he will also attend a meeting of the Illinois Institutional Teachers Placement Association today and a meeting of the State Extension Committee on Saturday.

Holder-Men Invade Terre Haute Saturday

In quest of their 14th win in 20 starts, the Maroons will invade Terre Haute, Ind., domain of the Indiana State Teachers tomorrow night for a return engagement with the Sycamores.

When the two teams met before, on the local campus, Coach Lynn Holder's charges came out on top with a 67-54 decision, one which the Hoosiers were very dissatisfied with, and therefore the States will be more than anxious to even up the series with the Southerners tomorrow night.

The Maroons count as their victims the following: Onized Glass, 75-37; Clifford Mfg. Co., 46-38; Washington University, 47-43; Indiana State, 67-54; Colorado Aggies, 58-48; Evansville College, 52-41; Western Kentucky, 68-47; Cape Girardeau, 42-39; Evansville College, 46-44; Eastern Teachers, 62-33; State Normal, 67-55; Chicago University, 71-51. They have lost to St. Louis University, 83-57; Western Kentucky, 62-48; Loyola of New Orleans, 52-47; Kerkurst of Kansas City, 55-46; Cape Girardeau, 51-40; James Milikin, 62-47.

Coach Lynn C. Holder has indicated that he will stick by his starting five consisting of Oliver Shoff and Johnny Sebastian at forward, Quentin Stinson at center, and Gene Hall and Bob Colborn at guard.

After the Indiana State encounter, the Maroons will be idle until February 14 and 15, when they will travel to Western Teachers and James Milikin, respectively. The next home game is scheduled for February 24, when the Maroons meet State Normal in a conference fray. This, incidentally, is the last home game of the season for the Holder-men.

MAROONS TRIP NORMAL 67-55

By Bob Curtis

After trailing at halftime, Southern's Maroons fought back in the last half to capture a 67 to 55 win over the Redbirds of Illinois State Normal University last Saturday night at Normal to take a commanding lead in the I.I.A.C. race.

Sparked by the brilliant 27 point performance of Oliver Shoff, the victory gave the Coach Lynn Holder basketballers a loop record of four wins and no losses, while every other team in the conference has two or more defeats. If the Maroons can complete conference play with no more than one loss, they are assured of their second consecutive championship.

Southern's big three in scoring tallied enough points among them to outscore the entire Normal team as Shoff's 27 points combined with Quentin Stinson's 11 and John Sebastian's 12 made a 50 point total, just enough to win the game.

Normal's 7th defense proved inferior to the man-to-man system employed by the Maroons. Although Normal hit a high percentage, their inability to get enough shots against the Maroons' man-to-man defense, enabled Southern to win as Shoff guided the Normal basket with long one-handed shots from the floor.

Stinson performed with his usual brilliance on both offense and defense under the basket while Sebastian, although not up to par, gathered five baskets and two free throws for 12 points.

Normal led at halftime, 32 to 29, after taking an early lead, but in the last half Southern took the lead and stayed ahead comfortably for the remainder of the game.

Also outstanding for the Maroons was the defense play of Bob Colborn and Gene Hall who held the Normal high scorers, Oliver and Baldini, to a combined total of 20 points.

SINU Opponents

By DAVE RENNEY

Recent games played in the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference have seen Macomb down Normal, 49 to 40, and Charleston emerge victorious from her second clash of the year with DeKalb, in addition to the 67-55 trimming the Southern Maroons handed Normal last Saturday.

The conference schedule is half over, since each team has played one game. DeKalb has played completely around the league with the exception of DeKalb and Charleston who have met twice. The situation at the half way mark stacks up like this. Carbondale, of course, has emerged from her four contests unopposed. Charleston has won from Normal and twice from DeKalb, while losing to the Maroons and to Macomb. De Kalb has won from Normal 11 and Macomb, while losing to Carbondale and Charleston. Macomb has beaten Normal and Charleston and lost to DeKalb and Carbondale. Normal, inhabiting the league cellar, has been beaten by each of the other four teams. The real battle, it seems, is going to be for second place, since Carbondale is well out ahead of the field, and Normal appears to be a cinch for the cellar position.

An interesting comparison between the five I.I.A.C. teams can be made as to their average records in circuit competition. For example, in winning games, Carbondale has averaged 58.25 points a contest. The other four teams have won six games at an average score of 55 markers. That gives the Maroons an average rating of 52.5 points in the conference. However, we have that the athletic department does not repeat this plan. On paper, this all-star-reserve affair looks like a natural. Actually, the game turned into a rough-and-tumble affair, with both sides committing fouls that were plainly seen by the fans as intentional. This probably was the natural result, since many of the players on both sides know each other and come into contact with each other every day. We would like to suggest that in the long sojourn between now and the end of the season, since the varsity plays only one more home game, the All-Stars schedule each with independent teams from the surrounding towns, so that they will be getting the practice, and at the same time be giving the local fans a chance to see them in action.

The edition wishes to thank Athletic Director "Abe" Martin for calling our attention to an error in last week's Egyptian, and also for digging up the correct information. Last week, the Egyptian stated that Wednesday night was the first in history with the University of Chicago. However, a check of the books by "Abe" revealed that the Maroons under the direction of the late William Alexander, lost the Chicago game in 1924, and came off of the short end of a 44-21 score. Incidentally, present coach Lynn Holder and present first-string guard, Gene Hall, were members of this squad.

PAT'S CHATTER

We have written before about the stars of today and the stars of tomorrow, but what of the stars of yesterday? Are they the successes that they dreamed of being? We will let you be the judge.

Last year one of our outstanding women was Norma Lou Brown, "Brownie," a Delta Sig alum is now teaching in Kiffinham high school. Norma Lou tells us that she is both happy and satisfied.

Another one of Southern's past successes is Pauline Potts, an alum of the Sigma Sigma Sigma. "Patsie" who has been teaching in Central high school is now temporarily relieved from her duties because of a bone infection in her leg.

Upperclassmen here remember Cleo Uim of Granite City, Cleo, a graduate of Southern, now president of W.A.A. during her last year. Now she is employed as physical education instructor in Lawrenceville.

MUSIC HOUR
Next week's Music Hour program will feature Prokofiev's "Classical Symphony" on Wednesday, February 12, at 12:30 in Main 202a.

Oliver Shoff and Johnny Sebastian, leading scorers of the squad with 222 and 198 points respectively, in the familiar positions that has led to these scoring honors. Shoff is a junior from Mt. Carmel, while Sebastian is a senior from Odin.

One of the largest crowds of the year turned out to see the twin affair offered by the athletic department last Wednesday night when the varsity entertained Chicago and the reserves took on the Intra-Mural All-Stars. We believe that this Intra-Mural game was probably the real drawing card of the evening, since most of the other Intra-Mural players were on hand to cheer their representatives, besides the regular game who turn out to see every game. However, we hope that the athletic department does not repeat this plan. On paper, this all-star-reserve affair looks like a natural.

From now on, a feature of this column will be the Converse-Dun-ken basketball rating chart of the first ten teams of the country. Today's chart will list the ratings of February 7, Kentucky—85.1; West Virginia—79.0; Notre Dame—78.5; Illinois—77.7; Michigan—72.1; Indiana—71.8; Oregon State—71.1; California—71.0; Washington State—71.0; Washington—70.8. Southern is rated 54.6.

An example of the friendly rivalry between Cape Girardeau and this school was exhibited when the Cape basketball team, recently defeated the locals, sent in a request to Radio Station WCIL to play the radio version. Who's Sorry Now? for the Maroons eager to all probability, the Southerners will remember this next year.

ON THE PREP FRONT... Tonight's schedule will find Sparta at Carbondale community, Murphysboro at Chester, Anna-Jonesboro at Pinckneyville, Metropolis at Brookport, Marion at West Frankfort, and Central at Benton.

TENPIN TOPICS

Miles' All-Stars chalked up another win Tuesday evening on the boardered tables when they defeated the Southern Vets team 24-7. There are three hole-in-one games at the Congress Bowling Lanes downtown.

Miles' All Stars, captained by Edward V. Miles, business manager at Southern, and which includes Buck Walters, Chasley Mandell, Noel Barber, and Bill Bookmeyer, who is a student at Southern, are tied for third place in the league.

The Vets quintet, captained by Gene Lambert in the absence of the regular, Herman Emsminger, led with Carl Stein, Wilbur Hammer, John Frohock, and Roy Cooper.

Lealand's Brants Boys, league leaders, will roll opposite the Vets next Tuesday evening. Finals will be held in March.

CAGERS BOMB CHICAGO 71-31

By virtue of dead eye shooting by the entire Southern five the Holdermen defeated the emphasized Chicago Maroons last Wednesday by a score of 71-31 in the Southern gym.

Southern took an early lead and was never in trouble throughout the entire game. However, in the second half Coach Holder's men really turned on the heat and exhibited some "Fancy Dan" passing and unerring shooting.

Today's chart will list the ratings of Quentin Stinson who tossed in four free tosses and five field goals for a total of 14 points. Following Stinson in close order were John Sebastian, Oliver Shoff, and Bob Colborn with 13, 12, and 11 points, respectively.

Coach Holder substituted freely during the latter whittles of the game, and every man who played scored at least once.

In the preliminary game which brought the Intra-mural All-Stars and Southern's reserves together, the Bee's emerged victorious by a 44 to 40 score.

The game was close from start to finish with the All-Stars enjoying a narrow lead until midway in the second half.

Gene Stotlar, former Southern All-American, led both teams in scoring, as he tossed in 12 points. Following Stotlar was Roy Buehler, sole scorer of the All-Stars and John Goss of the Reserves who both scored 11 points.
