Students, faculty bid farewell to Layer

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Approximately 100 students and faculty said farewell Monday to President Robert G. Layer, whose resignation was accepted as part of a compromise with the administration-sponsored student government. Layer served as SIU president for 16 months, a position he said he accepted to run hard just to catch up.

In discussing his administration, Layer said that the two major accomplishments were the establishment of a new University Senate and completion of an annexation agreement that cemented campus-city relations.

Layer also has great respect for the University Senate and said he approved of that body's right to override the president.

However, Layer was somewhat critical of the Student Senate. "During my administration," he said, "it was my policy to keep as much of an open door as possible between my office and the Student Senate.

But I was disappointed that the Student Senate did not pass enough legislation to keep that flow going. However," said Layer, "I considered the Student Senate to be just as important as any other governing body on campus, and I treated it with the same respect."

Police urge local aid in project to stop theft

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Operation Identification isn't being totally ignored in Carbondale and on the campus—but it hasn't stirred a lot of excitement either.

That seems to be the situation with the anti-theft project which provides, free of charge, engraving devices for anyone wanting to mark anything that they don't want ripped off.

Only 34 engraving machines have been checked out from local police agencies in the two weeks since Operation Identification began.

The project, which is supported financially by student government and the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, is being carried on by the city and campus police departments.

The Carbondale Police Department reported Monday that 26 persons have checked out the electric engravers, which may be used to inscribe identification numbers on objects of metal, wood or plastic.

Only nine engravers have been checked out at the SIU Security Office, police said.

Thomas McNamara, who is in charge of the Carbondale department's portion of the campaign, said a lack of public exposure was the reason for the lack of interest in the program on the part of the public.

"We intend to remedy this," McNamara said.

Members of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce will be urged to display Operation Identification bumper stickers or posters in the windows of their businesses, he said.

Steps down

SIU President Robert G. Layer (left) will step down Tuesday and return to his previous position as chairman of the Department of Economics. Layer was honored at a reception Monday at the Student Center. Also attending the reception were Layer's successor, Dr. David Derge, and Layer's executive assistant, Dan Orescanin (center). (Photos by John Lipomi.)

In regard to annexation, Layer said, "We still have problems with respect to the pressure students bring on city services, but the annexation agreement points to a high degree of cooperation between town and gown."

Layer took office in the wake of student protests that rocked SIU to a standstill in 1970. One issue that was close to the source of much of that unrest was the government-supported Center for Vietnamese Studies.

Health, Education, Welfare specialists review SIU discrimination policies

By Sue Roll
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two civil rights specialists from the Civil Rights Office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) attended a meeting of the Affirmative Action Task Force Monday to discuss their general compliance review of SIU.

Michael Colton and Donald Scott, the two specialists, began their review of SIU's policies Monday and said they expected to be done by Friday. They said they will need to return for further review of the situation at SIU but did not yet know when that would be.

The purpose of the review is to determine how SIU is complying with federal regulations prohibiting discrimination in programs and practices University wide.

HEW has the power to withhold federal contracts from employers, including universities, which do not comply.

Scott said no finding on the case of Marisa Canut-Amoros was being made to the University during this visit. He said he would return to the campus when the finding on her case would be made. Ms. Canut-Amoros, former professor of applied science in the School of Engineering and Technology, charged the University with sex discrimination last summer.

HEW did a separate compliance review of her case in August.

The task force decided that each of its committees should prepare preliminary recommendations to be reviewed at its next meeting on Feb. 14. The task force then hopes to meet with President David R. Derge on Feb. 20 to present and review these recommendations with him.

Several members of the task force said it was important to meet with Derge soon to learn where he stands on the findings. Jerry Lacey, director of Affirmative Action Program at SIU, said he had met three times with Derge. He said Derge had indicated a strong commitment for Affirmative Action to him.

The task force received reports from each of the areas being reviewed by it—tenure, recruitment, promotion and admission and retention in graduate school. Members of the salary committee could not be present at the meeting and so no report was received concerning this area.

The task force discussed the advantages and disadvantages of having secret promotion committees in the departments and schools. All members said that members of and persons considered by the promotion committee should at least be made public after the promotions are made.

Jeanne Thorpe, representing the Faculty Council on the task force's tenure committee, pointed out that delaying information about the promotion process until after it has happened does avoid some of the politicking and pressure that might otherwise be brought on the promotion committee by those seeking promotions.

Carleen Rasche, representing professional and administrative staff council on the tenure committee, was in favor of needing the students in the promotion committee knows.

"The time is almost up for the administration to have secret committees or somebody making a judgment and not being called upon to defend that judgment," he said. "People should be responsible for their decisions."

He also criticised the University for relying too much on crisis management and decisions of expediency at the moment, which he said was very costly to the University. "We've been a party

The machines also have a real value in detection, he said, especially when the would-be thief plans to steal stolen merchandise on the black market.

"About a lot of equipment stolen in Carbondale will be on the black market," McNamara said. "Equipment numbers will be assigned to each of these varsities and a number on the machine will be checked out to the varisty the equipment was stolen from before.

The engraving machines may be checked out free of charge at both the Carbondale Police Department and the SU Security Office.

University Professors) gets involved.

In regard to what new President Derge will do about the Allen case, Layer said that SIU should not hire Allen for another position, but Derge said he had discussed the matter with Derge, filling him in on all the details.

Derge said, in regard to relations with students and Student Government in particular, that he is planning a meeting with George Carmille, student body president, to discuss what each of the two saw as the goals of their respective offices.

"However," said Derge, "I really don't want to comment too much about it yet, because I'm still trying to find out as much as I can about the workings of this university.

The new president will find himself with a busy schedule when he assumes office.

Derge said that he is going to be leaving Tuesday afternoon for Northern Illinois University for an Illinois Board of Higher Education seminar on the Collegiate Common Market. The seminar is scheduled to begin Wednesday and conclude Friday.

However, Derge said he will return to SIU Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration, aroused at the continuing menace of hijackings, ordered all the U.S. scheduled airlines Monday to start screening, passengers and baggage for weapons or sabotage devices.

The new order will go into effect

The rule will apply to all domestic scheduled airlines, U.S.-flag international airlines and to intrastate

It will not affect the supplemental airlines, which specialize in charter service, or the foreign airlines, or air companies.

FAA Administrator John H. Shaffer said that because of the “emergency nature of the threat in the safety of persons and property carried in air commerce, due to hijacking, I find that further notice and public procedure on this rule would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest.”

Under the order, each airline must put an acceptance baggage and screener into service in effect within three days after the issue of the new order, the FAA said.

Shaffer said a number of airlines have adopted a simple and inexpensive screening system that is highly effective where it has been used. “A majority of the air pirates operating recently would have been prevented had the system been used to the fullest extent possible,” he said.

Rally will protest ‘repression’

To the Daily Egyptian:

I am writing this letter to urge people to attend the Student Government-sponsored Doug Allen Rally on Wednesday, Feb. 2, at 1 p.m. in the Ballrooms of the Student Center. I hope that in the coming months students and faculty will struggle against this clear case of academic repression and will stand up for academic freedom.

This blatant injustice is just one more example of the disastrous effects the Vietnamese Center has had upon this campus. One could cite many illustrations of how the Vietnamese Center has been the major source of disturbances and of disgrace for SIU: the student protests and the University reference to remove the Vietnamese Center, the international boycott of the center by Asian scholars, the many articles attacking SIU in national magazines and newspapers, the firing of faculty, staff and student workers who could have been retained with the huge Viet Center allocations.

Now we have another example of what happens when a university sells its soul to the almighty dollar and develops a strong vested interest in the success of Nixon's disastrous policy in Vietnam. With such an investment in a potential of millions of dollars of future contracts in Indochina, free discussions and possible criticisms of such a denial of true academic values will not be tolerated.

Thus, in 1970, the Board of Trustees attempted to fire Doug Allen because, as the chairman of the board put it, "Mr. Allen has criticized the University." So much for academic freedom when SIU invests so much money in the Vietnamese Center. Fortunately, the students and faculty made it clear that they would not put up with such political repression and the trustees had to back down.

In December, after the Department of Philosophy and the president of SIU had recommended tenure for Doug Allen, the Board of Trustees by a 3-2 vote refused to grant Allen tenure. The only reason given by the board was that Allen "has been divisive on campus." In other words, Doug Allen has not silently gone along with the board investment in the Vietnamese Center. He has dared to exercise his freedom of speech and this will not be tolerated.

This means that Doug Allen will be fired in June unless the students and faculty again stand up for academic and political freedom. The issues transcend this injustice directed at one professor. The issues get to the heart of freedom and the nature of a university.

Once again, I urge you to attend the rally on Wednesday, Feb. 2, at 1 p.m. in the Ballrooms of the Student Center.

Willing to stand up for Douglas Allen

To the Daily Egyptian:

The peculiar action of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees in denying tenure to Dr. Douglas Allen impels me to voice my impression and my experience of Dr. Allen as a professor and as a man. I feel that my impressions are pertinent, and my experience of Dr. Allen as a professor and as a man. I feel that my impressions are pertinent, and my experience of Dr. Allen as a professor and as a man.

Dr. Allen's abilities as a teacher are really beyond doubt. Any sample of his students would attest to his ability, initiative and effort to lead his class in a thinking experience. I presume that the students are the priority at a university, and I would think that the experience of Dr. Allen's students should have significant weight in this evaluation as a professor. I am not speaking about popularity, but the knowledge of his students that they have participated in a truly demanding educative process. My own observation of his classes leads me to believe that his ability to dialogue with his students is surpassed by few professors at this University.

More important, even, than his performance as a professor is Dr. Allen's integrity as a man. Those who know Dr. Allen, and who accept integrity as something more than expediency, find little difficulty in the assessment of Dr. Allen as a man of unusual integrity. In saying this, I am not denying the possibility of disagreement in a given instance. A case of specific disagreement, if not dealing with a total deadbeat, is possible at any time. My own experience of Dr. Allen is that of a man who has been able to combine commitment with humility, and that I suggest is a rare trait indeed.

I would be happy to further attest to Dr. Allen's performance as a professor and integrity as a man, at any time, under any circumstances and before anyone.

Do something for freedom

To the Daily Egyptian:

In October, 1970, Lindell Sturgis, then head of the Board of Trustees of SIU, gave the following reason for refusing to give Prof. Douglas Allen his contract:

"Mr. Allen has criticized the University and the public knows it. The board felt it was to the best interests of the University not to have people of the caliber on the faculty."

In his most recent book, the world famous scholar Naum Chomsky of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, cites this quote. Chomsky felt that this was the clearest example of political repression, of the purge of a faculty member that he could find at any university in the United States. Not that this doesn't go on at other universities, but trustees are rarely so frank about their denial of academic freedom and all dissent. This repression has continued and based upon the Board's recent tenure decision, Prof. Allen's employment at SIU will be terminated in June. That is unless we do something about this. If we really care about this University and about academic freedom, then we must stand up and show the Board of Trustees that freedom means something more than always agreeing with University policies. Without academic freedom, SIU has no right to be called a university.

We now have an opportunity to do something about this important issue. There will be a rally in the Ballrooms of the Student Center of Wednesday, Feb. 2, at 1 p.m. If you care about this University, I hope that you will attend the rally and then work to get the Board of Trustees to reverse its unjust decision.

Who are the ‘illegal 850’?

To the Daily Egyptian:

I am writing this letter in hopes of finding out why the Off-Campus Housing Office has lately been so secretive and unresponsive towards the people whom they are supposed to be serving. In many of its publications, the University extends this service definition to a greater length, though I will not merely say that you can’t put much faith in what you read.

Specifically, my issue rests upon the utter failure of the Off-Campus Housing Office to release the list of 850 freshmen and sophomores who are, at least according to the University, illegally living off-campus. The figures were reported in a headline story in the Jan. 25 Daily Egyptian. A week earlier, sophomore Paula DeLeonardo, wish to clarify some of the reasons why we had to take the Off-Campus Housing Office to task for its failure to perform its responsibilities.

Truly great man

To the Daily Egyptian:

We would like to thank all of you who came to the Muskie rally for your patience and understanding, as well as your very warm welcome for the senator. The Daily Egyptian of Jan. 27 misrepresented some of the reasons why we had to take the Communications Theater. We wanted the ballrooms, but one was already reserved and the staff said there wasn’t enough room for us in the other Ballrooms, among other less reasonable reasons. The Arena would’ve cost $1,000 (after plans had been formulated), it was too large ($550) and it would’ve been too large. Shryock was denied us because it was felt that a rally would destroy the orderliness and cause damage. So we were stuck in the theater, not demanding or insisting on it.

That the President decided to speak that night was unfortunate but, as the Democratic front runner, Muskie had no choice but to listen and respond. We’re sorry that your reactions may be marred by circumstances beyond our control. What is important was that Muskie did speak and answer your questions and that through his responses one could see that he was concerned about the individual, was genuine in his response, and made sure each person understood what he was saying. We hope you found him as honest and exciting as we did once again, much thanks for your enthusiasm and response.

Donald Shapiro wrote a letter to this paper telling about a letter his parents received from the “dean of housing” stating that he is being compelled to move into University housing because he is not a junior or senior. According to Mr. Shapiro, this “dean of housing” is giving him a choice of quitting school, moving into University housing or getting a “good excuse” to live off-campus.

In the above mentioned headline article, Elwyn Zimmerman, dean of off-campus students, said that students in violation of this housing policy were not being allowed to register. Since that article was published, the University City Student Cooperative has made endless inquiries into the possibility of obtaining the list of violators so that we can give them some alternative to campus housing. We have been met with disregard by most of the people we have talked with. We feel that since these 850 students are being made to conform to regulations, then they should be “fair game” for all approved housing concerns. Apparently the Off-Campus Housing Office, which is supposed to serve us, does not believe in the fair housing and equal opportunity which are scheduled so flagrantly in their publications. All we ask is that we get equal opportunity to advertise our living area to these students. Surely this great University can not be troubled by the fact that some of these 850 students just may like our living area better than theirs!

Truly great man

To the Daily Egyptian:

Last Tuesday night (Jan. 25), I waited from 5:45 to 8 p.m. to hear Senator Muskie. It was well worth the delay, though, because I saw and heard a truly great man. I went to him afterward and told him he was the best. And you know what? He shook my hand. Frank Reynolds actually shook my hand!

China committee at lecture to learn

Concerning the questioning after Mr. Chen’s lecture, the CSC does regret that two of its members lost their control because of the groundless name-calling one of the audience had started. China’s problems are the most complicated ones. We do not expect to understand or to solve them in one day. It is the purpose of the CSC to seek objective, critical information and to exchange opinions concerning China. We are voicing our concern because in this particular instance the half-truth and distortions presented by Mr. Chen are highly misleading and are not conducive to global cultural understanding.

Many of our members are not associated with any political organizations. In fact, not one of us is a party functionary of Kuomintang. The CSC was formed completely on my own initiation. I myself to not belong to any political party. We appreciate and enjoy the freedom in this country, but we do hope that those who disagree with us should not engage in any more personal attacks simply because of our ideological differences.

Art era off shelf at last; exhibit begins at Mitchell

By Chuck Hatcher
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An art exhibit designed to bring to light an almost unknown and forgotten era of art history when young artists will open Tuesday in the Mitchell Gallery and continue through Feb. 28.

The exhibit features paintings, prints, drawings and sculptures by artists who were funded by the Work Projects Administration and the Federal Art Projects during the 1930's to 1941. The exhibit opens Tuesday and runs until Feb. 28.

The 55 items in the exhibit are part of the University’s permanent collection.

Evert A. Johnson, curator of University galleries, said the works “represent an important link of the early art of the United States and its present state—not obviously, but in an oblique or concomitant way.”

Hopefully, the exhibit “will bring to light a little recognized, yet functionally significant period in the history of American art which should be a part of the consciousness of all our people, especially the young artists,” Johnson said.

He said artists and art students “under 30” had little awareness of the federally funded art programs because art history books or critics have put little value on the art produced during the decade prior to World War II.

The exhibit features works by unknown and famous artists alike. Johnson said but, “it would be presumptuous to say that all the works are highly significant" in expression.

Strangely, he said, “it is not so much the art works themselves, but the economic and social conditions out of which they were ‘born’ that is of importance.”

Johnson described the works as mostly containing “strong elements of social realism.” There are some “abstractions,” he said.

He said the works also represent a “great need” that was partly filled by “government beneficence.”

“We are not accustomed to thinking of our national government’s role as being particularly enlightened or sympathetic to the needs of individual artists.”

Ticket available for show

Tickets for the annual Theta Xi variety show Saturday and Sunday nights in Shryock Auditorium will go on sale Tuesday at the Central Ticket Office in the Student Center.

The tickets, priced at $1.50, also will be available at the auditorium door, Rod Maravilla, show co-chairman, said.

Carbondale Mobile tenants form council

By Curt Varland
Student Writer

A council of tenants has been established at Carbondale Mobile Home Park to improve communication between tenants and park management. The announcement was made through an open letter to park tenants.

The letter stated that the park was divided into seven areas with a representative being chosen from each area. In the future, representatives will be elected, but to start the council functioning, these representatives were chosen by the park management and interested tenants.

Area "A" (trailers 1-50) George Buss, student
Area "B" (trailers 51-121) Vito Saputo, student
Area "C" (trailers 122-190) Dennis McMillan, student
Area "D" (trailers 191-271) a female volunteer is sought
Area "E" (trailers 272-306) Ron Kocynski, student
Area "F" (trailers 307-347) Herb Walker, student
Area "G" (trailers 348-632 expansion area) Marilyn Kapels, tenant

Tenant Ray Buss, a co-ordinator of the council who wrote the letter, said the representatives will receive complaints, suggestions, opinions and compliments about the park from the tenants and take them to the council meetings. In the letter, he said such matters will be discussed at the meetings with the park management, and the results taken to the tenants.

"The meetings will probably be on a monthly basis," Buss said, "and management will be represented primarily by Bill Greenwood, the park manager, and Gordon Parrush, the park owner."

"The park is not affiliated with the university, although the majority of the tenants are SIU students."

"In the past, tenants have often taken their problems to the Student Tenant Union," Buss said, "but now we hope the council will provide better communication concerning any complaints between tenants and management."

He said the representatives have been instructed to receive all communications and present them in a detailed manner at the council meetings and that tenants, when presenting their complaints or suggestions, should give every aspect of the situation.

"As far as I'm concerned, the meetings will also be open to any tenants who wish to attend," Buss said, "but we are planning newsletter to tenants to notify them about what takes place at the meetings."

The initial letter to tenants stated that one exception in the use of the council is that complaints about maintenance should be directed to the management office, but that continuing complaints about a particular problem should be presented by the tenants to their respective representatives. Names of the representatives and their phone numbers and addresses were included in the letter.

Buss said Carbondale Mobile Home Park is one of the largest courts in town and that an additional objective in forming the council is that other mobile home parks will adopt such an operation.

Woody storming anniversary delayed

A ceremony commemorating the second anniversary of the storming of Woody Hall has been postponed until noon Tuesday, according to a Southern Illinois Peace Committee (SIPC) spokesman.

The ceremony, originally scheduled for Monday, was postponed since the memorial to be erected in front of Woody Hall was not yet completed.

The ceremony will commemorate the police-student confrontation in January, 1969, the early conflicts at the Center for Vietnamese Studies.

Black Careers Days scheduled for Monday

By University News Service

The first in a planned series of one-a-term Black Careers Days is scheduled Monday in the Student Center, Ballroom A.

Under the sponsorship of the School of Business EBBE (Encouragement of Black Businessmen and Economists) Committee and BIB (Blacks in Business, a student organization), the event's purpose is to facilitate contacts between firms with employment and internship openings, and interested students.

EBBE internships are open for one term, spring or summer. A School of Business announcement said they may be renewable with the same firm, or a different company each year, provide competitive remuneration, and, most importantly, offer an opportunity to complement formal education with on-the-job experience in business. While all minority students with an interest in a business career are eligible for consideration, several participating firms have indicated their keenest interest will be in sophomores and juniors with a declared major in business, the announcement said.

According to Tom Nottingham, BIB president, the period from 6 to 10 a.m. will be devoted to introductions and refreshments, with the remainder of the day's agenda devoted to interviewing activities. To be assured a place on the inter-HEW grant to fund Ph. D dissertations

By University News Service

Malvin K. Moore Jr., professor of educational administration and foundations, has announced SIU is resuming its support of his two-year program to train doctoral students in educational leadership.

The funding, from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, provides for six fellowships. Moore will direct training of Ph.D. candidates from developing schools through eight quarters, consisting of one quarter of orientation, six quarters of study and internship in administrative offices at SIU, and a quarter of externship in the school from which the student came. Moore explained. Sixty-two hours of class work are involved. The externship will give the student the opportunity to test the theory of leadership while working with the president and others at his own school. Moore said adding that the student will identify a major problem of his own college which is expected to become his doctoral dissertation.

"We hope for six meaningful dissertation topics that will be applicable to other developing institutions in resolving some of the problems they will face." he said.

Students, who must meet SIU admission requirements, will receive $180.00 weekly while in the program. They will be selected by a College of Education screening committee from nominations made by presidents of developing institutions.

Other ongoing activities include a tutorial program, EBEB scholarships, a speakers series currently dormant for want of funds, and a continuing campaign designed to encourage more minority students to prepare for business careers.

Derge to visit

IBBE talks

President David Derge said Monday day will be taking part in a three-day planning conference this week at Northern Illinois University concerning the Illinois Board of Higher Education's proposed Collegiate Common Market.

The conference, the second of the three such conferences on the implementation of the EBEB's resource sharing plan, will begin Wednesday and end Friday.

Derge has been present for all but Friday's workshop session.

The conference will consist primarily of a series of speakers who are considered specialists in the area of resource sharing by institutions of higher learning.

A progress report is to be made Thursday by the committee of the Collegiate Common Market Task Force.

The Irish Republic recalled its ambassador in London, Donald O'Sullivan. An Irish Embassy spokesman called the move "the strongest protest we can make," without rupturing diplomatic relations with Britain.

Prime Minister Jack Lynch of Ireland said he is sending his foreign minister, Patrick Hillery, to New York to consult with U.N. officials.

Hillery also will visit "heads of friendly governments" in a bid to set up an international inquiry into the Sunday shootings.

In London, Miss Devlin, a member of Britain's Parliament as well as a leader of the Roman Catholic minority in Northern Ireland, interrupted proceedings as Maudling, explained the circumstances in which a force of British paratroopers opened fire during Sunday's demonstration in Londonderry.

She complained that she was not allowed to put a question to Maudling.

"I have the right as the only representative who was a witness to ask a question of that murder-hypocrite," she shouted.

Miss Devlin, who stands only about 5 feet tall, then rushed across the House of Commons and attacked Maudling.

She was pulled away by other members of Parliament and bashed from the chamber.

Britain subject of N. Ireland rage

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Rebel guerrillas struck back with bombs, bullets and defiant parades Monday over the killing of civilians in a clash with British troops.

The Irish Republic to the south responded with diplomatic blasts against Britain, and, in Parliament in London, Bernadette Devlin assailed British Home Secretary Reginald Maudling with punches, scratches and tugs on his hair.

The battle in Londonderry Sunday that resulted in the deaths of 13 civilians was the worst violence in London. Miss Devlin, a member of Britain's Parliament as well as a leader of the Roman Catholic minority in Northern Ireland, interrupted proceedings as Maudling, explained the circumstances in which a force of British paratroopers opened fire during Sunday's demonstration in Londonderry.

SIU has unique course in training morticians

By Chuck Hirschcraft
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Programs in mortuary sciences usually are not offered in universities. But, because of a different approach in mortuary science instruction, this situation is changing, says the head of SIU's mortuary science program. And, more programs such as the one at SIU are coming into being.

Don Hertz, supervisor of SIU's School of Mortuary Science, says the program here is reflective of this change in instruction. The instruction in this program deals with caring of the living as well as the dead, Hertz says.

SIU's program was created in 1964 at the request of the Illinois Funeral Director's Associations. Hertz said, "The association wanted to upgrade the educational standards of those entering the funeral service."

The program is a two-year or eight-quarter associate degree program. After the student graduates, be he or she is qualified to take preliminary examinations before the State Board of Examinations in Funeral Directing and Embalming.

At the time SIU's mortuary school was created, Hertz said, there were only four other such programs in the country that were university accredited.

But now that number has risen to 12. A second mortuary science program in Illinois is being established at the community college in Park Forest, Hertz said.

Hertz said the increase in programs such as SIU's reflects a trend in mortuary instruction. The trend, he said, is away from teaching solely the embalming arts and more toward mortuary sciences as a whole.

In the "university situation" the student can be exposed to a wide variety of courses, Hertz said.

Hertz, who was a teacher before entering the funeral business back in the early 1960's, and another instructor, Jay Boulanger, are the only two instructors in the mortuary science program. Hertz feels that the program here is unique because the student gains a great deal of practical experience.

For one summer, a student serves an "internship" at a University approved funeral home, Hertz said. It is during this time that the student learns the most about the profession.

The University does have a contract with the Anna State Hospital, under which the mortuary science school takes care of unclaimed dead or those who are to be buried at the state's expense, Hertz said.

But in explaining his program, Hertz prefers to talk more about the part of the curriculum that makes it a mortuary science program.

"The students here also take courses in psychology, courses that will enable the students to handle the emotional reactions of the bereaved," Hertz said. This is also an important part of the funeral business, he said.

Mideast crisis to be subject of "Palestinian's talk"

Saadat Hassan, representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization, will speak on the "Middle East crisis: The Human Element" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, in Wham 306.

Following the talk, there will be a panel discussion. The panel will be moderated by Dean John O. Anderson and will consist of Earl Hansen, Rabbi Earl Vineceur and Zubair Humadi.

The speaker also will take part in a television panel discussion at 9 a.m. Friday on WSIL, channel 3, Harrisburg.

The woman who initiated the office of the University ombudsman in the fall of 1969, is moving to a new position as project coordinator for the comprehensive health service, beginning Tuesday.

Mary Walker, new project coordinator, will be responsible for program coordination and performance of specific board assignments as well as assistance in developing work programs for use by the consultants and the board. She will also be required to issue progress reports to the board and the community.

Mrs. Walker talked about her new two years as ombudsman saying, "I think I’ve accomplished what I set out to do and a half years ago. Now, I think the University ombudsman’s office is pretty generally accepted and is serving its purpose well.”

She explained that the office was established to act as a fact-finding and complaint office—the purpose being to assist those who appeared to be having difficulties arising out of inconsistent, harsh, impolite, or rigid administration of a particular rule or policy.

"The idea of an ombudsman comes from the Swedish word to have a middle man. Someone who can help make sure that the University is treating people fairly in order to avoid political pressures on us, this office is separate from all other units on campus."

The office in itself doesn’t have any power. "The only power we have is the power of persuasion. "If we run across a wrong in the system we try to work through the proper channels to amend the situation," Mrs. Walker said.

Opposition to the ombudsman’s suggestions are frequent. ‘When no remedy is in sight, we simply go higher up until we get some satisfaction,” she laughed.

When asked what she thought her most unusual case was, she threw her hands and shook her head. "I just wouldn’t know how to answer that. I couldn’t pick an unusual case, there have been so many.”

With a second thought she added, "Of course, all our cases are confidential and so unless we are given special permission by the person requesting our assistance—we never tell anyone about them.

Since the day Mrs. Walker started, Sept. 15, 1969, she has handled 1,828 requests for assistance ranging everywhere from registration holds to health service complaints. When the office first opened she said most of the complaints were for parking problems and bills. "But the trend switched after awhile and more people were coming for academic problems, grades, teachers, quality of instruction, class content and materials and exams.

Mrs. Walker recalled the early days of the ombudsman’s office. "When the office started, the University put it on one year’s probation. At the time there were only about six universities in the country which had an ombudsman’s office and none of them were held by women. Now there are more than 100 ombudsman offices in the country.

The office was successful and SIU renewed its option and added additional personnel to the payroll. The second one was black and was hired especially to help meet the needs of the black students on campus.

Mrs. Walker entered the job with the SIU career service. "I’m ready to get started, and I view my new job the same way I did when I came here—looking forward to a new challenge."

"No one can deny there’s a need to improve health care both in the community and on campus. It’s something that is needed and it will be beneficial to the student. I wouldn’t have taken the job if I didn’t believe that,” she said emphatically.

Commenting on the cost of the new health care she said, “I certainly don’t view the project as being too expensive. I think we will find it much more expensive in the long run.”

Her broad background was one of factors in selecting her as project coordinator. Mrs. Walker graduated from SIU in 1951 with a bachelor’s degree in business administration. She worked for seven years with the SIU Professional Psychology Board of Examiners and paid her way with them for nine years. From there she went to Stomographic Services and was director of the office for seven years.

"I asked that she spent two years in business affairs and one year in the counseling office before she was appointed University ombudsman. Her first $12,000 job is a one-year term. ‘But if the job isn’t completed after one year, it could be longer,” she added.

"The advisory board interviewed many people with medical backgrounds, but at this time the board felt that the project coordinator should be someone with great familiarity with both campus and community. I’ve been actively involved with both,” she added.

Isaac Brigham will be heading the ombudsman’s office alone until the panel which reviews the office can find a replacement. 'I don’t think it will be long, though, until someone fills my job. I’ve had several calls already about how to apply for the position.”

She smiled and with a hint of pride, said, "Things have worked out so well for the ombudsman’s office and now I’m looking forward to a new challenge.”

FNA to ban antibiotics use for food-producing animals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to sharply reduce the use of antibiotics in feed for food-producing animals, citing a task force report raising concerns of potential human health hazard.

The Food and Drug Administration announced Monday a proposed ban in the coming year on the use of five types of antibiotics fed to livestock in order to promote growth and prevent disease among poultry, swine, cattle and sheep.

Farmers would be prohibited from routinely feeding tetracyclines, streptomycin, dicyclamycin, sulfonamides and tetracyclines to poultry after Jan. 1, and to swine, cattle and sheep after July 1, 1979. The ban would apply to all other approved antibiotics over the next 30 years.

After the deadlines, the drugs could be used only if prescribed by a veterinarian. The prohibition would be waived, however, if pharmaceutical companies begin safety and effectiveness studies under government controlled conditions before those dates.

FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said the ultimate effect of the proposal probably would be to bar some antibiotics from animal feed.

The Animal Health Institute, which represents 50 companies producing antibiotics, said the nation’s food additives, said food costs would rise if antibiotics were banned entirely.

James C. Affleck, president of the institute, said more than $100 billion in meat animals and poultry have been fed antibiotics over the last 30 years.

Nepalese king, age 51, dies

KATAMANDU, Nepal (AP) — King Mahendra, who brought modern ways to Nepal, died Monday and his son, a 38-year-old paratrooper and painter, ascended to the world’s only Hindu throne as a divine-right monarch.

Mahendra Bir Bikram Shah Dev died in southern Bharatpur 24 hours after suffering a heart attack, his second in four years. He was 51. His oldest son became king immediately in a simple private ceremony.

In his first official act, King Birendra Bir Bikram Shah Dev proclaimed his wife queen and their seven-month-old son crown prince and heir to the Nepalese throne. He pledged in a nationwide broadcast to follow the modernization policies of his father and asked his people to enhance Nepalese prestige through cooperation, unity and good will.

Enemy may launch major offensive

SAIGON (AP)—Gen. William C. Westmoreland said Monday North Vietnam may launch a multiphase military campaign in South Vietnam next month, aiming for the kind of political impact created by the Tet offensive in January 1968 when the communists overran the northern sector of South Vietnam's narrow northern tier, in the central highlands.

"The enemy would have some temporary success in the north and the central highlands capital like Kontum or Pleiku, and would probably win many heavy casualties," Westmoreland told newsmen at the end of a six-day official visit to the war zone.

Doctors report

Support is sagging for the no-bra look

CHICAGO (AP)—The no-bra look has its delights, both for men and women, but doctors say that today’s pleasure may turn to tears tomorrow.

While there’s no known medical harm for the current fad, the doctors say, it hastens the day a bra becomes a necessity.

Writing in the Jan. 31 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, the doctors said they are concerned that today’s pleasure may turn to tears tomorrow.

"While there’s no known medical harm for the current fad, the doctors say, it hastens the day a bra becomes a necessity.

Doctors wrote in response to a suggestion from a physician that the among women who wear bras are 70 percent.

"The lack of many mammalian support lead to the development of pendulous breasts," Dr. John H. Whitlock of the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine wrote in the fribes at traction. "These milk ducts stretch "under the influence of gravity, more so in some women than others and specially in those women with large breasts who are pregancy or lactating."

"Lactation and any tension these fibrous connections...no remove rhythmic dimensions, and despite hopeful legend, no amount of exercise will restore pristine mammary profile," he added.

"However," he said, "exercise may, by improving posture and the thickness of the underlying pectoral muscle, push forward and thereby embelish breast contour, sagging before the breasts stand and once the ligaments are stretched they cannot be restored to their former position except by surgery.

‘Holy Night’ scheduled at luncheon Thursday

By Jackie Clark
Student Writer

Carbondale’s only luncheon theater, The Chips and Sandwich Theater, will offer “Holy Night” as its next presentation at noon Thursday at the Student Christian Foundation.

The Chips and Sandwich Theater is presented every Thursday as part of the Student Christian Foundation’s luncheon program. The Theater presents a new, student-written short play done in dramatic reading form by the Southern Players. A 50-cent lunch is offered with the play.

“We’re in our third year,” said Dr. Christian Moe, coordinator of the program. “We do about seven or eight plays directed by the playwright.”

Committee to coordinate efforts supporting Allen

A Doug Allen Defense Committee is being formed to coordinate efforts to convince the Board of Trustees to rescind its decision in denying tenure to Allen, a assistant professor of philosophy.

“A rally for Allen at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Ballrooms, will attempt to mobilize support and Rabbs Earl Vancouver and the Rev. Allen Lane of the Defense Committee, will participate in the rally.

“The Defense Committee will coordinate such efforts as petition and letter-writing campaigns, plan future actions and do fund raising.

“We feel that in order to convince the Board of Trustees to rescind its decision and uphold academic freedom, the expressions of support both by individuals and groups must be coordinated into a viable united force,” a statement by the Defense Committee said.

Design winners

Designers win seven awards in contest

By University News Service

Seven out of the 24 awards presented in the first national design competition sponsored by the newly organized University and College Designers were won by SIU staff members.

SIU winners Eldon Stromberg and David Hencke, supervisors of graphic design, and photographer Ralph Kyloee, Jr., all staff members of Graphics and Publications, garnered three firsts, two seconds and two thirds in the various categories of the competition.

Winners were selected from more than 300 entries submitted by 86 universities and colleges throughout the country, according to the organization’s president, Lee Kline, Illinois State University, Bloomington.

Stromberg took first and third in the experimental photography category for “Trains” and “Alternates,” second for his cover of the University graduate school catalog and third for his “Report of the Treasurer” in the institutional publications category.

Hencke received two firsts in experimental art for his “Generation Gap” and for “Alternative ‘71,” a poster.

Kyloee, Jr. won second in experimental photography for a portrait.

Crime center head again appointed to study council

Charles V. Matthews, director of the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Correction, has been reappointed to the Council on the Diagnosis and Evaluation of Criminal Defendants by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie. The council, which has 10 members, formulates plans to develop services and facilities for the diagnosis of psychiatric and behavioral characteristics of criminal defendants and reconvicts. Also included in the panel's recommendations are suggestions for the treatment and rehabilitation of such people.

Aside from his position in Carbondale, Matthews is an associate professor of special education at the Edwardsville campus and director of Learning Internships for Teachers, a teacher corps project in corrections. He also is a member of five other advisory committees in the field of corrections and law enforcement.

MURDALE
Salukis take two in Champaign meet

After losing to national champion Indiana University Friday night in the Pullman Pool, 73-38, the SIU swimming team bounced back to whip both Illinois and Minnesota in a double dual in Champaign. Saturday.

The Salukis outdistanced the Illini 49-34 and then disposed of the Gophers 75-38.

The win brought SIU's record to the .500 level at 3-3. The swimmers will meet Missouri at 7 p.m. Friday in Columbus, Ill., and then return home for their final home dual meet of the season, against a strong team from Northwestern Feb. 11.

Unlike the contests with Indiana in which the Salukis won only three events, Southern's completely dominated both Illinois and Minne­sota.

Salukis took every event except the three meter diving. Double winners for Southern were Pat Miles who took the 500 and 1,000-yard freestyle and Rob McGinley, 200-yard freestyle and 300-yard backstroke winner.

Against the Hoosiers Friday night both Saluki swimmers were involved in some tough competition. Pat Miles was slated to take on Indiana's John Kimmela in the 1,500-yard freestyle, but he didn't show.

113-pound coach James "Doc" Cusimano elected to swim Olympic trials winning event, the 100-yard backstroke. Miles was clocked at 58.44.

Miles said no, but his racing, he said, left a lot to be desired. "I was really disappointed," he admitted. "I should have gone (started) faster than I did."

McGinley was involved in two of the evening's closest races, finishing second in the 200-yard freestyle by one-tenth of a second to Bill Heis and third in the 100-yard freestyle to Gary Connelly and Maui.

The margin of defeat in the 100 was four-tenths of a second but it could have been turned around because McGinley had a poor start.

Prior to the gun, McGinley raised up from his starting position and got a false start. Much to his sur­prise the gun sounded and the entire field but a fraction of a second lead on him.

McGinley didn't want to talk about the questionable start, after the meet but he did say, "Sometimes you get the bone on everything."

Also turning in good swims against Indians and in the double dual was backstroke star Dale Korker. The sophmore was a double dual winner against the Hoosiers but came on to win the 300-yard breaststroke with a 2:13.8 time.

He also took the 200 in Champaign with a 2:14.3.

For Nicholas the win was No. 7 against five setbacks.

"He had a good talkdown," Nicholas said of Geris first period scoring. "But I had my mind made up to win before I went out there. I just didn't lose my head," Nicholas said.

Miles, who started like a ball of fire early in the season and then tapered off, said the win was one of his best nationally. "There's one more I want, but I'm going to wait for the nationals to get it," he added.

Meanwhile, in the evening's featured match between Gerdes and Fujiya, the news was all bad as the Oklahoma State champion limited Gerdes to five escapes on the way to his 30th career victory. The loss was Gerdes' second against eleven wins.

After the match in which Oklahoma State sealed a 20-19 victory, Fujiya was standing in the hallway outside the Cowboy's locker room comparing Gerdes to his other opponents.

"I don't know. He's just one of the regular guys," he said in a quiet voice. "I really couldn't tell what kind of wrestler he was. He kept on running from me.

"Many people in the SIU wrestling program, as well as the Midwest, have been mentioning Gerdes name as a possible national champion, but Fujiya wouldn't buy that."

"No, I don't think he can win it this year," he said. "I don't know about next year, but he can't win it this year."

A highly disputed Gerdes couldn't have cared less what the OU mariner thought. "He can't think what ever he wants to," he replied. "I don't mean (sleep) to me!"

According to assistant coach Tom Justice, Gerdes wrestled the same kind of match he did last year against Fujiya when he lost 15-13 at OSU.

"He'd be loose for a while, stumble around and then go for some points," Justice said.

Gerdes himself took another view.

"I wrestled with my head and didn't use my body at all. I just thought everything was slow," he said, and then he added.

"The rest of the evening's activities left little for coach Linn Long to smile about as everybody except Andy Burge (118) and Nicholas went down to defeat.

Burge was awarded a forfeit victory after OU failed to make an entry at the weight.

Only one obstacle barred Gary Morava from taking the whole bag Friday night—his own gymnast­ics.

Morava, No. 1 all-around performer for Southern this season, posted the SIU gymnastics squad to an easy 158.60-133.50 victory over Oklahoma (Miss.) State, boosting the Salukis record to 4-1.

Morava won the all-around as well as five of six individual events.

Dan Bruring played the role of victim, winning the still rings with a 9.2 score while edging Morava and Jack Laurie's second-place finish of 9.05.

Morava's 54.75 all-around score beat teammate Jeff Farris' mark of 49.50, good for second place.

For the second consecutive weekend, the Salukis were without the services of all-around man Tom Linder, who was in Penn State University for another U.S. meet.

The 156.60 points registered was the lowest mark of the season by the SIU team. One problem was lost points on the pommel horse.

Specialists Ed Holmb and Dave Oliphant both had bad breaks in their routines for the first time this season, totaling 7.65 and 8.80 marks, respectively. Morava's 8.95 led all performers, followed by Michael Lang, George Faid's 8.80.

Farris took third place with an 8.80...

...and 30.30 floor exercise also brought team average down against the Markkite meet. The absence of Lind­er on floor exercise especially hurt SIU as the Salukis received 9.35 and 8.65 marks from Morava and Steve Hollabaugh to place first and second, then had to scramble to the bottom of the heap.

Morava took honors in parallel bars with a 9.3 followed by Farris and Jack Willard's scores of 8.50 and 8.30, respectively.

Hollabaugh finished second on Morava again on vaulting, 9.28-8.50, while Laurence Thames of Markkite took third with an 8.85. Morava edged Thames in horizontal, 9.30-9.00, Nick Woolle and Willard gave Southern 8.90 and 8.85 marks for their event totals of 37.10.

Another loss and a 5-4 record has put a little dark cloud over the freshman basketball picture. But pardoning a trite expression, every dark cloud has a silver lining.

The young Salukis lost at St. Louis University 78-73, their second defeat in a row. But coach Bob Reiman says there has been much emphasis on win-loss records and that is probably why the team is not as competitive as in recent games.

"They realize they're being beaten," Reiman said, "but they're not complaint about losing to Evanville, Murray State, Paducah and now St. Louis." "As long as we don't lose, we're having fun," said Reiman.

"If I'm looking for improvements, tomorrow's practice is scheduled for the team," Reiman said.

The freshmen ordinal might be compared favorably with the weekend's opener against an inexperienced boxer who learns by sparring with the likes of Kelly, Illinois State and Missouri.

"That's why we're trying to schedule the best we can and for our opponents," Reiman said. "If ours who don't expect any relief in coming weeks."

"It'll be quite a week for them, with a Triple Jump.

"The win by both our squads boosted our season and it's a real confidence booster."

"Point 576 is a good percentage but when they're playing that pace, then it isn't good," said Reiman.

Southern almost immediately found itself playing catch-up basketball Saturday night in Kiel Auditorium. By halftime, the Billikens had a 16-17 lead.

"We played a pretty good second half, pulling the gap down to seven points," Henry said about an ill-fated comeback in the second half.

"Of course we came back the hard way, gradually picking up a point here and there. We didn't do it all at once," the coach added.

The Salukis were hampered when 6-9 Joe Meriwether and 6-5 A.J. Willis ran into foul trouble.

Ricky Boyington was the high scorer for the Salukis with nine and four of his teammates hit in double figures. Willis (18), Meriwether (15), Feltin Chinn (12) and Tim Rice (12).

Jim Gower rounded out Saluki scoring with two points.

Wilkes Nation ruled for today's "B" scheduled for The Arena Thursday night by the intramural office.

The Salukis have already been experiencing the coaching junior college team in the nation—Lake Land—and they win. And then there was Paducah, the sixth-ranked junior squad in the country—Southern wasn't as fortunate in that one.

The Salukis split with Murray State, winning the first encounter in the Arena and breaking a Racer 36 game winning streak.

Against St. Louis, the Billikens didn't have an off night, racking up a 57-86 shooting percentage, but the Billikens were flat.

Antoine may be first pick in Tuesday’s pro draft

By Mike Kleie
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Lelio Antoine—No. 17

Southern Illinois’ football big guy may become just that—the first selection in Tuesday's professional football draft.

Antoine or running back Bobby Moore of Oregon will be selected by the Buffalo Bills who open the draft. That’s assuming the Bills no longer want Walt Patulski—which seems to be the case.

Patulski defeated Notre Dame, the odds-on choice of former Bills coach Johnny Rauch. But Rauch lost his job to Lou Saban, previously of the Denver Broncos.

And Saban seems unpleased by Patulski’s poor Bula Bowl showing. Not to mention a bad left knee.

If there’s any reason to suspect the Bills will lean towards Antoine, it rests with consensus opinion Moore will flounder and not running back in the pros.

The Bills are blessed with wide receiver talent in J.D. Hill and Martin Briscoe. Their backfield includes O. J. Simpson.

But should the Bills opt for Moore, it’s very likely the Chicago Bears will employ Antoine. The Bears select third.

“I got a call from Papa Bear this morning and he wanted me to reassure Larry that we would keep him after,’ Dick Towers, Saluki football boss, said Monday.

Papa Bear, of course, is Bears’ owner Roger Halas Sr., the quartered old codger credited with beginning pro football.

Cincinnati’s Bengals select before the Bears, second, but are likely to spend their No. 1 pick on a tackle quarterback, including holdovers from last year.

For Burge, the victory was No. 15 against only one loss. He leads the team in total wins.

Southern Illinois was also successful at heavyweight as Todd Nicholson fashioned a 31 decision victory over Tim Turek. Nicholson, who tips the scales at 225 pounds, waited until the third period to win the match. Going into the final frame, the score was tied at I-1 on two escapes, one by each wrestler. Then at 9:54 of the final frame Nicholson put the match away with a takedown.

It was Nicholson’s second victory in a row and an eighth of the year. Saturday against Oklahoma State, the Saluki heavyweight registered an upset victory over Harding Geris, 8-4.

The Salukis will next see action against upstate Illinois at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the SIU Arena.

Worst defeat in 50 years for Saluki basketball

By Ernie Schwiett
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

There must be something about the purple and white uniforms the Kansas State wrestlers wear that really does something to the SIU wrestling team.

Even after the Salukis catch sight of the Jayhawks, Southern gives them a sound thrashing. Monday night in the Arena the Salukis played out all their hopes, 34-3. The series between the schools now stands at 3-4.

It was the Salukis’ fifth victory of the campaign against one setback. For KSU the loss was its eighth against only four victories.

The Salukis dominated the contest from start to finish racking up victories in every weight except 190 pounds. In that division Howard Mack fell to his ninth loss in 11 starts, bowing to Kansas State’s Bill Kehler, 8-4.

But the rest of the news was all good for the Salukis as Ken Geris 29-9, rebounded from his defeat by Yoshiro Fujita to pin Mark Jackson in the third period. It was Geris’ first victory against only two setbacks.

Also scoring a pin was SIU’s Vince Testone (145). The fall came over the champ.

Yoshio Fujita (facing camera) came to the SIU Arena along with the rest of the Oklahoma State wrestling team. Kansas State and SIU’s wrestlers, Wednesday night.

In front of the largest crowd ever in the school’s history, Fujita, the national 126-pound champion beat SIU’s Ken Geris, 15-5. The Cowboys also won 29-9.
