FARMER returns home from Nicaraguan jail

CARLINVILLE, (UPI) — A weary James Denby returned to his central Illinois farm Sunday and said it's "wonderful to be home" after spending nearly two months in a Nicaraguan jail, accused of aiding Contra rebels.

"I'm a little tired, I feel fine and it's wonderful to be home," Denby said of long, a lot of private travel."

Denby was greeted at dawn Sunday by his wife, Marle, and son, James Jr., under a red, white and blue hand-painted banner reading "Welcome Home" at the farmhouse.

Denby, 59, left the house Thanksgiving day on route to his farm in Costa Rica, but was shot down in his private plane over Nicaragua Dec. 6 and accused by the Sandinista government of aiding the Contra rebels. He was released from jail Saturday and returned on a chartered private plane to the United States.

"It was a nightmare and I think it's over," Marie Denby said.

Denby credits his release to efforts of Bill Press, a Los Angeles attorney; and former television commentator who is a candidate for the U.S. Senate in California.

"I got out through the efforts of Bill Press and some of his friends who are very close to the powers that be in Nicaragua," Denby said. "They arranged for my release and we should be grateful to the Nicaraguan government, in an effort to change the view on the Contra aid that comes up this week." "They told me from the very first that I would be out of there," he said. "I talked to Bill Press and several others last Monday and they said they were going to try to affect my release." "I thought that they would have to check that there wasn't going to be some other charge or that I was really guilty or working for the CIA or something like that that I hadn't known about," Denby said. "They declined to comment on whether his release would affect the vote on an ad-
Ortega arrives in Sweden seeking European support

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega arrived Sunday to meet with Prime Minister Ingvar Carlsson in a continuing attempt to gain European support for his anti-Sandinista rebellion.

Ortega is on a four-nation European tour trying to mobilize support for his campaign against former Sandinista President Anastasio Somoza Debayle and shipping officials said Iraqi warplanes may have hit the vessel by mistake. The crew of the 9,110-ton Panamanian-flagged MV Maracay, loaded with more than 950 cars, was killed and the vessel was seen six hours later drifting about 62 miles north of Bahrain in the central Gulf.

El Salvador's army, rebels call 1-day truce

SAN SALVADOR (UPI) — leftist guerrillas and the army agreed to a “day of peace” Sunday to clear the way for health workers trying to vaccinate some 200,000 children in a national campaign organized by UNICEF. The one-day vcee comes after a wave of violence in the past 24 hours by guerrillas of the Parabando Marti National Liberation Front and right-wing death squads.

West Bank fighting claims 1st civilian casualty

NABLUS, Israeli-occupied West Bank (UPI) — Nearly two months of violence in the Israeli-occupied territories claimed its first Israeli civilian casualty Sunday as the army clamped a narcotic on Nablus, the largest city in the West Bank, and wounded four Palestinian demonstrators, DoV Kalmanovich, 35, a Jewish resident in the West Bank settlement of Beit El, suffered severe burns when a Molotov cocktail exploded in his car as he drove on a road near Bir, 9 miles north of Jerusalem.

House debate on aid to Contras nears climax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The arguments over Contra aid boiled down to a choice Sunday between an “insurance policy” to keep the Sandinista rebels on the run and the spread of small arms with U.S. bullets and Central American bodies. With a showdown House vote scheduled Wednesday, the latest aid proposal, Democratic leader Rep. Tom Foley of Washington said, “We’re going to have enough votes to defeat Contra aid.”

Commercial Interests inﬂuence foreign policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A look at the labyrinth that led to a failed 41 billion Israel pipeline project covers the influence of private commercial interests can bring to bear on U.S. foreign policy, The New York Times said Sunday. The tangled dealings surrounding the project that grew in top U.S. officials, foreign dignitaries, international investors, a giant corporation and the CIA smash “of a novel you’d pick up at an airport,” the newspaper added.

New York City gets OK to distribute needles

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City has obtained state permission to become what is believed to be the nation’s first city to distribute clean needles to intravenous drug addicts in an effort to stem the spread of AIDS, officials said Sunday. The program would involve between 200 and 400 intravenous drug addicts at first, and could be expanded if successful, Joseph said. Addicts will be chosen for the program from waiting lists of methadone maintenance clinics.

Getting to Chicago during the winter can be frustrating, if not impossible. But not if you take Amtrak. After all, our trains run in all kinds of weather. And instead of toning up behind the wheel, you can just sit back in one of our roomy, reclining seats. Have a tasty snack or beverage on board.

One low price won’t put you in a spin, either. It’s only $36.00 each way, based on the round-trip excursion here.

Amtrak leaves Carbondale for Chicago at 3:00 AM and 4:00 PM daily.

Some restrictions may apply. For more information, call your travel agent or Amtrak at 1-800-USA-RAIL.

And don’t let a little bad weather come between you and Chicago.
Students raise funds for March of Dimes

Students collected $2,300 for the the March of Dimes during the "Students Help Mothers March" campaign. The total surpassed last year's collection by $600. More than 200 students from six fraternities, three sororities and seven dormitories solicited the contributions by going door to door in the community. The campaign came on the eve of a nationwide fundraising drive for the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

"It gets better every year," Jonni Murray Asbury, publicity co-chairman and President of the Public Relations Student Society of America, said.

About 50 more students marched this year than last. Ken Carr, supervisor of medical records for the Student Health Service, said, "It shows that we are not just here to party." Brian Kusmer, a freshman in radio-television and member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, said.

The march kicked off a month-long campaign to collect $6,000 locally for the March of Dimes. The collection total will be announced March 1, during a party at Stone House celebrating the March of Dimes' 50th anniversary.

A group of about 30 emeritus professors will visit the Soviet Union in May to explore the feasibility of exchanging teaching and research methods with Soviet universities.

The group, led by Emeritus College Director A.J. Auerbach, will meet with Soviet university faculty and administrators in Moscow, Leningrad, and universities in the Caucasus region between the Caspian and Black seas. Discussions will focus on the recent trends of "perestroika" (restructuring) and "glasnost" (openness) and their effects on Soviet society and education policies, Auerbach said.

The professors hope to study how the Soviet educational system is being restructured to accommodate new ideas. Auerbach said, "They also will explore the possibility of starting an exchange relations possible."

Auerbach said he would like to explore the possibility of starting an exchange "to see not only an exchange of ideas, but of students and emeritus professors as well."

"The Soviets seem to be relaxing their oppressive policies, and the current atmosphere between U.S. and Soviet governments may make a mutual agreement possible."

A.J. Auerbach

Auerbach said he would like to see not only an exchange of ideas, but of students and emeritus professors as well.

"The Soviets seem to be relaxing their oppressive policies, and the current atmosphere between U.S. and Soviet governments may make a mutual agreement possible."

In relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union, human rights are becoming more important than differences in economic systems, Auerbach said. There is a great deal of interest in how this may be affecting Soviet higher education, he said.

Auerbach said he would like to see not only an exchange of ideas, but of students and emeritus professors as well.
West Bank turmoil must be eliminated

THE MARCH TWO weeks ago by students opposed to violence in the West Bank and Gaza strip brought the deplorable reality of the situation a little closer to SU-U students.

While the group of about 70 protesters, mostly Palestinians, Arabs and Moslems from other countries, stood silently with their signs and banners in the Free Forum Area, most passersby found themselves amid an awkward silence of their own.

Some, no doubt, were privately conjuring menacing images from the footage seen on evening newscasts: ugly images of young Palestinian men bloodied by Israeli clubs, sorrowful images of women weeping for their men and for the bloodshed and hatred that does not end. And there are the nauseating images of leaders on both sides who refuse to see the horror in anything but political terms.

TIE ISRAELIS, perhaps better than any other people on earth, understand the evil, dehumanizing forces of oppression. From the Diaspora to the abominable crimes of the Holocaust, they suffered as no people should ever suffer, yet they persevered.

This makes it all the more lamentable to see state-sponsored terrorism being used against Palestinians. Given the complexities of the religious, social and political climate of the area, diverse proposals for solutions are to be expected, and welcome. But all sides should understand their violence is evil, and that peace can be reaped only after it has been sown.

IF IT TAKES the United States to usher in an official peace between Israel and the dispersed refugees, — as President Carter did at Camp David between Israel and Egypt — then America should see it as a privilege, not a hindrance.

But advice is like going to Thanksgiving dinner at Grandma's house: it's what you want. But advice is also what you want. Perhaps the best advice anyone can give on such a complex issue is that if there's going to be confusion, let it be at peace talks where it can be sorted, not in the streets where it only can swell.

Quotable Quotes

"Noon, and not a moment too soon." The entry for Jan. 30, 1983, in the "Ronald Reagan Countdown Calendar"

"It would be the most HUDD has done for the homeless since President Reagan came to Washington." Democratic Rep. Charles E. Schumer, on his proposal that the Department of Housing and Urban Development turn three Doors of its Quotable Quotes.

In her rather caustic letter to the editor, Georgieann Hartog questioned U.S. involvement in Nicaragua. While Hartog certainly is entitled to her opinion, I disagree with some of her statements.

Hartog brushed aside the fact that Daniel Ortega is building an army of 600,000 men by describing the militia as "minimally trained" and "widely scattered." But the facts state otherwise.

In the Jan. 15 St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Stephen Chapman wrote: "By 1985, Ortega's country will have an army and militia of 600,000 people, with advanced Soviet-built fighters, missiles and artillery — making Nicaragua a garrison state almost without peer.

Considering the fact that Ortega is trying to ward off 12,000 to 30,000 rebels, it is hard to understand the need for a 600,000-man regiment.

Hartog quoted Costa Rican President Oscar Arias as saying, "Let Central Americans decide the future of Central America." Oh, yes, the ideal solution. To date it has worked wonderfully.

In fact, Jeanne Kirkpatrick wrote in the Jan. 26 Post-Dispatch: "eight days after the signing of the accords, the Nicaraguan government broke up a peaceful demonstration and arrested Lino Haynes, head of the Permanent Commission on Human Rights, and Alberto Saborio, president of the Nicaraguan Bar Association."

Miguel Cardinal Obando y Bravo of the National Reconciliation Commission has observed "a vast range of human rights violations ranging from physical and psychological tortures to serious murders and including persecutions, unjust imprisonments, mistreatment of prisoners, kidnappings perpetuated by state security agents, etc." (National Review, Feb. 5, 1988)

Is it that the Sandinistas are complying with the peace plan?

Concerning Honduras and El Salvador, President Hoyt and Duarte took their firm stance against Nicaragua not because of U.S. "encouragement," but because they feared that, without U.S. support of the Contras, the Sandinistas would be able to dominate the rest of Central America.

Susan Purcell of the Latin American Project said this "wrong stance [would cause] the formation of the united front of Central American democracies against Sandinista efforts to evade compliance with the peace plan." (Post-Dispatch, Jan. 31)

The Sandinistas were forced to come to the bargaining table through the efforts of rebel forces.

The Sandinistas are Marxists who respect force and strength, not weakness. Central America, the Central American Contras and their democratic allies is absolutely necessary to give democracy a chance. Let us not be fooled into thinking the United States can do it by itself.

Contra support needed to sustain democracy in Central America

Bush should tell the truth about Contra connections

Poor Vice President Bush — at least that's what most diehard Bush followers are saying. But may poor Dan Rather.

Rather is a reporter — a man trying to do his job and get answers for the American people. But it seems most Americans are not interested in hearing the answers.

It seems they would rather listen to the simple facts. You know, facts such as what the vice presidentate for hack two weeks about what he did on his last vacation.

They don't want to hear his answers concerning the Contra controversy and whether he had anything to do with it. Not now, while he is running for president. These Republican diehards would rather see him get into office first. Then, if evidence later was found that he was involved, he already would be in office.

By the polls that were taken after the temporary interview it does seem that Bush got exactly what he wanted. The figures show most felt sorry for him. Maybe Bush has nothing to hide, but it certainly does not seem that way.

Reporters like Rather give Americans the ability to know the whole story and I am grateful for this. I only hope that after this incident, Rather does not get wimpy.

There is one thing I want to know. Why was Bush so defensive and why didn't he junk Rather's questions? Vicki Apease, Carbondale former GM supervisors:
Plant OK'd faulty brakes

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The plant in Kansas City, Kan., that produced the cars accused of Proposition 13 by its managers, closed its doors to the press yesterday.

The plant, which produces Chevrolet Caprice, Pontiac Parisienne sedan and wagons, and Buick LeSabre sedan and wagons, was closed at 9 p.m. According to Denby, the closed plant was located in the Fairfax district of Kansas City, Kan., and had been replaced by a new plant.

A brake fluid leak, as well as stressed bolts, can cause partial to full loss of brakes.

The bolts halted the leak. During the period of the alleged safety hazard, the Fairfax plant produced 1986 and 1987 models of the Chevrolet Caprice, Pontiac Parisienne sedan and wagons, and Buick LeSabre sedan and wagons. The plant was closed in 1987, according to Somit.

In their lawsuit, to be filed in U.S. District Court in Kansas City, Kan., Stappson and White claim they were wrongfully discharged because their "whistle blowing act riled," said their attorney, Don B. Carman. A second claim alleges GM libeled and slandered them by telling prospective employers they were troublemakers.

The two seek at least $4 million each for lost wages and retirement benefits, she said.

White and Stappson claim the "sent to plant management and some officials about the faulty brake line from the Contra rebels. They also say they were told to keep the matter quiet or they would lose their jobs.

White said the plant production manager told him and other salaried employees not to discuss the brake leaks for "the three employees "or anyone outside this plant as it was likely to shut down the plant and cause a recall."

The two men, however, continued to maintain the problem and were fired because they did so, said their attorney.

Stappson, 37, of Greenwell, Mo., worked 12 years for GM and White, 40, of Kansas City, Kan., had 12 years GM experience.

differential $6 million in U.S. aid to the Contra rebels.

Denby said a gift of hospital supplies from the United States would also help his release.

Stappson said that he did not have the information to ask for medical supplies along with the request for an appeal, but was advised by Gruny to submit each request separately.

McAvoy said that the legal aid program against suborning the grievances to an outside arbitrator, Goben can request an appeal.

GRUNY said that if the tapes were turned over against suborning the grievances to an outside arbitrator, Goben can request an appeal.

High schoolers take classes to cut time spent in college

NEW YORK (UPI) — Record numbers of high schoolers — some 362,000 — took college-level work that enabled some to cut the four-year trek for a bachelor’s degree to three, according to a new College Board report.

Through good scores on College Board Advanced Placement exams, students can test out of college courses, many of the students also shaved a year’s tuition, room and board charges off the cost of an undergraduate sheepskin.

Record numbers of high schoolers — some going seniors, the report said. It also showed that 14 percent of the students use the time earned by high school college-level credits to study abroad.

Other findings: 17 percent spend the time and credits earned to complete either two degrees in four years or to complete a double major.

Here’s how the College Board’s Advanced Placement Program works:

—High school and college faculty collaborate to develop AP course descriptions and examinations, grade the exams, and participate in training workshops and institutes for high school teachers (who don’t draw extra pay for the extra effort.)

—Course descriptions and tests are offered for 26 introductory college courses in 15 subjects, including art, music, science, English, foreign languages, history, mathematics, computer science, government and politics.

Research, by William R. Koch, assistant director of the Measurement and Evaluation Center, University of Texas at Austin, also showed that 14 percent of the students use the time earned by high school college-level credits to study abroad.

Playwright’s drama takes first in field of 13 at theater festival

By Lauri Milbrath
Staff Writer

As a little girl, Sherry Strain often spent time alone, creating and acting out scenes to amuse herself.

Today, as a graduate student in Speech Communication and Theater, Strain is creating plays for others to perform before large audiences.

Strain’s play “Maid of Honor” won first in the play writing competition held by the American College Theater Festival in Madison, Wis.

Strain competed with 13 other playwrights for the honor. Seven of the entries were from SIU-C.

Although she has always been involved with acting and directing, Strain said she has only just begun to think of herself as a playwright.

“It’s only since I’ve written this, and people have said it is a good play that I’ve begun to think I have a talent for writing,” Strain said.

“Maid of Honor” originally was produced in the laboratory theater on campus last spring. The play deals with the relationship between two women who were roommates and lovers in college. Conflicts arise when one of them decides to get married while the other has been away at graduate school.

“The subject matter is a little difficult to deal with,” Strain said. “But people have accepted it just as a story of love even more than a story of love between two women.”

—Sherry Strain

“...love even more than a story of love between two women.”

Strain is looking forward to a fourth revision. Ideas for play scenes often come to Strain as she goes through her daily routine.

“If I work them out when I’m driving or anytime I’m alone,” she said. “I will talk to myself and hear dialogue and create characters that would talk to each other. It usually starts with the big emotional scenes like arguments and reconciliations.”

“Putting it out there for people to look at and possibly reject is a very frightening thing, but when they accept it, it’s wonderful,” Strain said.

“The story is very close to my soul.”

Strain is looking forward to her career in theater, wherever it may lead.
Press building dedicated

The University Press building was christened with the name of its founder, the late Vernon A. Sternberg. Friday.

Sternberg founded the press in 1956. He and a secretary were the only staff members for the first year. They did everything from editing manuscripts to shipping books.

The press now employs 24 people and publishes about 60 titles a year.

The 16-year-old press building is located on McLaффerty Road on the west edge of campus. Sternberg served as press director for 23 years. He died in 1979.

Press Director Kenny Wilkov said many people thought the pre-fabricated steel building was not elegant enough to dedicate to Sternberg. But the "building reflects the founder -- it's no nonsense," he said.

Matthew J. Bruccoli, an advisor to University Press, said Sternberg was the most dedicated publisher he ever worked with.

"Vera said, 'If people see you sitting down, they'll think you aren't serious.'"

Greek council to award $500

The Inter-Greek Council will present its "Service-To-Southerns" Award to an outstanding graduating senior in recognition of service contributions to the University. The award is $500.

Applications for the award are at the Office of Student Development, Student Center, 3rd floor. The deadline is Wednesday, Feb. 10.
Twenty-five foreign student associations representing more than 100 countries will take part in International Festival '88 at SIU-C.

Organized by the International Student Council, the five-day festival includes eight major events, beginning with the Fifth Annual Opening Ceremony in Student Center Ballroom in the International Lounge.

The main event will be the International Grand Ball, Feb. 21, 3-6 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

Other events will include a fashion show in which students will display their native costumes, a sports exhibition and an international art display.

Of the 250,000 students, mostly international, took part in last year's festival, which was attended by 250,000 students, faculty and community members.

"Judging from the reviews, last year's international festival was better than we've ever had," said Fabian De Rozario, president of the International Student Council and general administrator of the festival. "Hopefully, we'll have the same success at the festival this year.

This year's festival may have a domestic flavor, De Rozario said, as the Coordinating Committee is working with the American Indian Community Center's program in St. Louis to bring American Indian colors to the festival.

"I think this is the first time in the history of the international festival that we've had something American," De Rozario said.

About 2,500 international students attend SIU-C. De Rozario said members of the international community will bridge the gap between people of different cultures.

Iowa newspaper endorses Simon, Dole in primaries

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) - The Des Moines Register, with a week to go before Iowa's first-in-the-nation caucuses, continued its Sunday endorsements. Robert Dole and Paul Simon for their parties' 1988 presidential candidates.

The editors said Simon, a senator from Illinois, is the best qualified of the seven candidates because of his "unmistakable record of accomplishment in one liner: 'I'm not a neo-anything; I'm a Democrat.'"

The editors compared Simon to Abraham Lincoln, saying "the political voice before him in troubled times ... turned an unprepossessing man from downhill Illinois.'" discovered: an up-tempo, fast-break offense isn’t the only way to defeat the Salukis. Muscle aimed at the Salukis’ big players works, too. SIU-C can’t count on a front line that averages 6-foot-2, 180-pounds per player to intimidate opponents.

To compete in the Gateway, the Salukis will have to do what they showed glimpses of in the second-half comeback against Bradley. They have to get mean. That doesn’t imply the Salukis should resort to unsportsmanlike play. To get mean, the players have to develop mental toughness and be willing to stand their ground.

Even though that may be personally distasteful to many of the players who don’t have a mean streak in them, if they are going to capture the Gateway title they must refuse to be intimidated. There’s no room to back down now.

The Salukis ... have to get mean.

three-point goal, Steve Middleton drove the lane. Nurnberger so hard that he left a bruise on Nurnberger's right forearm. "I was kinda glad they [Drake] called the timeout so I could get a little bit of feeling back in my hand," Nurnberger said. "He slapped me pretty hard. I tried to rub it and get some feeling back in my wrist."

Middleton took over in the third OT. He scored all nine of the Salukis' points. After Walter James missed a three-pointer and got the shot and was fouled by Richardson had 25. Tim Richardson had 13 rebounds for the Salukis. Drake received career highs from Roark with 28 points and 22 rebounds and from Friedrick with 27 points.

Triple-OT game a first for Arena
Saturday's triple-overtime game was the first ever played by the men's basketball team at the Arena. Since the team started playing there in 1964, they have had only three double-overtime games:
JAN. 31, 1994 — Coming off an overtime win over Bradley, the Salukis defeated Wichita State 84-79 in double OT. Then-Couch Allen Van Winkle called the victory "our biggest win in three years."
MARCH 2, 1985 — Darnell Jones sank two free throws with eight seconds left in the second OT for a 64-62 victory over Texas State.
FEB. 15, 1982 — The Salukis outscored West Texas State 11-4 in the second OT to win 84-79.

In regulation, the Salukis led 68-58 with seven minutes remaining but Drake came back to tie the game at 72. The first overtime ended at 78 after Drake's Berger and Roark missed three-point attempts.

Middleton scored a game-high 36 points. Nurnberger had 25. Tim Richardson had 13 rebounds for the Salukis. Drake received career highs from Roark with 28 points and 22 rebounds and from Friedrick with 27 points.

WIN...call.
Middleton said. "I just went one-on-one," Middleton said. "I forced a little contact and got the call."

Middleton hit the first free throw to put the Salukis ahead, 99-98, then missed the second. Drake's Sam Roark made a desperate attempt for a goal, but missed. "It was a great, great victory for us," Saluki coach Rich Herrin said. "It tells you what kind of basketball team we have. We're not a super team but we do play hard and aggressive. We just don't quit."

The win gave the sixth-place Salukis an 8-11 overall record and a 3-4 mark in the Missouri Valley. Drake, 13-2 overall and 4-3 in the Valley, dropped into a fourth-place tie with Illinois State.

Washington skins Denver’s pride

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Doug Williams overcame a sore jaw injury and a sore arm Sunday to start the most electrifying quarter in pro football history and rally the Washington Redskins to a 45-10 rout of the Denver Broncos in the Super Bowl. Williams threw four touchdown passes to lead a dizzying 25-point outburst in the second quarter. The Redskins proceeded to reverse the tide of the contest at a speed never before seen in a Super Bowl. Sanders scored twice, as did rookie running back Tim Smith, who made the first start of his career and gained a Super Bowl-record 204 yards on 22 carries. The Redskins also set Super Bowl records for touchdowns (6) and points in a quarter (35), continuing the event’s tradition of one-sided games.

Women’s team taken to the wire by Bradley

By Troy Taylor Staff Writer

In the second half, members of the women’s basketball team were relegated to the role of spectator, as they watched the flight of one ball toward the basket. Bradley’s Nancy Zoreo seaved an official bitcoin attempt from six feet straightaway to the goal. The ball dived off to the left and missed, giving the Salukis a 52-49 victory over the Bradley Lady Braves Saturday at the Arena.

Nurnberger does it again

Salukis win in triple OT

By Dave Miller Staff Writer

What’s next Kai Nurnberger? Nurnberger, a blond-haired, 25-year-old shooting sensation from Wolfenbuttel, West Germany, once again saved the men’s basketball team from the brink of disaster. This time, he made a miraculous four-point play.

Without Nurnberger’s heroics and Steve Middleton’s free throw with three seconds left in triple overtime, the Salukis would have lost to defeated Drake 98-96 Saturday night.

The Salukis were trailing Drake, 90-86, with 15 seconds remaining in the second overtime. Even Nurnberger wouldn’t be able to pull this one out with one of his patented three-point shots.

Nurnberger stepped back behind the three-point arc and launched a seemingly meaningless shot. But Drake guard Eric Berger fouled out when he blocked Nurnberger as the ball fell through the basket with six seconds left.

Nurnberger sank the crucial free throw to trim the score to 99-90 and send the game into a third overtime.

“I couldn’t believe he fouled me,” Nurnberger said.

Drake coach Gary Garner couldn’t believe it either.

“That’s just above and beyond stupid,” he said. “It’s extremely difficult to swallow when you play that stupid on one player. This one’s going to stick with me for a long, long time. We can’t afford to play that stupid. You just don’t do that.”

To celebrate Nurnberger’s big play, the Salukis forward Randy House scrambled around Drake’s Walter James for the ball and set up SIU-C’s triple-overtime victory Saturday night at the Arena.

Women’s team taken to the wire by Bradley

By Troy Taylor Staff Writer

In the final second, members of the women’s basketball team were relegated to the role of spectator, as they watched the flight of one ball toward the basket. Bradley’s Nancy Zoreo seaved an official bitcoin attempt from six feet straightaway to the goal. The ball dived off to the left and missed, giving the Salukis a 52-49 victory over the Bradley Lady Braves Saturday at the Arena.

“I thought we did a pretty good job,” Bradley coach Lisa Boyer said. “I think we should’ve won the game. We’ve struggled all year. Today we deserved it.”

Bradley, which led by seven points in the first half but fell behind by seven early in the second half, got within one, 50-49, on Carol Barouch’s three-point goal at 15 seconds.

Barouch immediately fouled Saluki guard Tonda Seals. Seals made both free throws and finished five of nine from the line.

“I choked on the free-throw line today, but I guess I hit it when it counted,” Seals said. She led the Salukis with 17 points.
