ISAC to cut MAP awards 12 percent

By Todd Welvaert
Politics Writer

SIUC recipients of Illinois Monetary Assistance Program awards will lose 12 percent of their award offers this semester.

The Illinois Student Assistance Commission voted Friday to cut the annual MAP award by 12 percent, forcing university financial aid offices to take money already credited to student accounts.

The cut will affect more than 6,500 SIUC students and 95,000 students statewide.

The MAP cut is the result of a 3-percent rescission to meet the Illinois emergency budget plan and will remove more than $660,000 from student awards at SIUC.

"We are looking at a $4 to 5 million cut for the spring semester," said Bob Clement, public relations officer for the Illinois Student Assistance

Commission. "The cut will affect students in four-year institutions and community colleges."

The award cuts should be removed from SIUC student accounts before refund checks are mailed next week.

"We have already given the students credit for the awards," said SIUC Financial Aid Director Pamela Britton. "It's a real blow to students who are counting on that refund and have already budgeted this semester around it."

The MAP award is based on student need, and the cut will run from $18 for the lowest award amount to $142.67 for the highest award amount. The majority of students at SIUC receive the greater amount.

"...his is really going to hurt," said Kevin Lencioni, junior in law enforcement from Glenview. "I have been declared an independent from my parents and I am trying to handle college by myself."

Lencioni said it will be difficult for him to make ends meet to stay in school.

"It's just another example of the little guy getting it," he said.

SIUC will not be able to make up for the lost award money because the University has no back up funds for financial aid.

Red Cross, SIUC hopeful to reach 2,000-unit goal

By Trumier Camphor
General Assignment Writer

The American Red Cross and the SIUC student group, Mobilization of Volunteer Effort, are optimistic about meeting their goals for a blood drive this week.

Vivian Ugent, coordinator of American Red Cross drives in Southern Illinois and Missouri, said blood is badly needed.

The first day of the week-long blood drive began Sunday at the Recreation Center and runs through the end of the week.

The goal for the blood drive is to collect 2,000 units.

The drive runs from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and from 2:30 to 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Recreation Center.

The demand for blood is always high in January because of the high number of surgical cases scheduled during the month, Ugent said.

"It is important to collect enough blood for hospitals to keep their blood supplies at adequate levels," she said.

At the end of the first hour of the blood drive more than 50 students were waiting to donate blood.

"I'm very pleased with the number of students that support the blood drives," Ugent said. "Students give if they are asked and we are trying hard to ask them."

Suzanne Veigt, president of MOVE, said she hopes to avoid what happened last time.

Veigt said the November blood drive did not meet its goal.

"There is a lot of apathy and complacency toward donating blood," she said. "Some people cringe at the thought of giving blood and it's not that bad."

Quake shakes Tokyo; sparks 2 fires

TOKYO (UPI) — A strong earthquake rocked the Tokyo metropolitan area before dawn Sunday, injuring at least 31 people in the most powerful tremor to hit the city in six years.

Officials at the Meteorological Agency said the quake registered 5.7 on the Richter Scale.

The quake, which hit at 4:04 a.m., was centered beneath the surface of southern Tokyo Bay, agency officials said.

A 48-year-old woman was seriously injured in Tokyo when she fell down some stairs, officials said. Thirty others were hurt by falling objects in Tokyo and three nearby prefectures.

Fires in two homes in Saitama, north of Tokyo, were blamed on the quake, firefighters said. Fire officials said the blazes were sparked by shorts in electrical equipment. Both fires were quickly extinguished.

No other significant damage was reported.

Frightened Tokyo residents threw overcoats over their pajamas and rushed out

Deans prepare to chop 2 percent to make room for salary increases

By Christine Leninger
Administration Writer

SIUC college deans are identifying 2 percent of their budgets that could be allocated for an employee salary increase.

University President John C. Guyon would not confirm the request, but deans are preparing a budget proposal in case a salary increase is approved.

Gerald Stone, dean of the College of Communication and Fine Arts, said the budget cut is supposed to be applied as a salary increase for faculty, staff and civil service employees of the University.

Faculty, staff and civil service employees last received a salary increase July 1, 1990.

Albert Melone, chairman of the budget advisory committee to Guyon, said University employees may not get a salary increase if a funding source for the increase is not found.

Saluki women blow out WIU

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

The SIUC women's basketball team is sweeping its opponents off the court. It has enjoyed four big wins in a row.

The Salukis, 13-4, beat Western Illinois 75-59 Saturday. In their last three games, they beat Bradley and Indiana State by 28 points and Illinois State by 20.

SIUC is tied for first place with Southwest Missouri State, 16-2, in the Gateway Conference. Both teams are 8-1. SMSU beat Northern Iowa 89-44 Saturday. Western dropped to 4-5 in the conference and 8-10 overall.

It was an early see-saw battle as SIUC struggled in the first half against Western's zone defense. The Westerwinds were up 17-12 before junior point guard Anita Scott dropped two buckets for the Saluki, leading to an 11-2 run.

Coach Cindy Scott said Western's zone defense shut down the team's inside game, forcing them to shoot from the perimeter.

"We were a little flat early," Scott said. "Our passing was not crisp. We needed someone to spark a little bit, and there wasn't anyone there. Our defense was not great.

"The two buckets by Scott were very important. She's the barometer of this basketball team. When she's playing well and on and she's comfortable, the team is comfortable. If we can win by 15 when we're playing a little flat, that's great."

Western tied the game two more times in the first half before the Salukis took charge to go up 40-29 at halftime.

In the second half, the Westerwinds hit three buckets before the Salukis scored on a 3-pointer by senior guard Karrie Redeker. The Salukis stayed in control the rest of the game.

Anita Scott, who had 15 points for SIUC, said the team had to play more intensely and cut harder to the ball to adjust to WIU's defense.

"It was a matter of executing and playing intense and wanting the ball more," Scott said. "We have a tendency of relaxing on offense and defense once we get a big lead, and we have to work on staying focused and continue to play intense the whole game. We know that a team like Western, if we give them the chance, can come back and win the game. I think we play better under pressure."

Redeker had 14 points including three 3-pointers, junior center Kelly Firth had 11 points and six

Nationally ranked men blast Saluki Invite field

By James T. Tendulich
Sports Writer

The SIUC men's indoor track team so far has lived up to its No. 14 ranking in the NCAA.

On Saturday it easily walked away with first place honors at the Saluki Indoor Invitational Meet.

Raking up a total of 95 points, SIUC out paced Murray State, in second with 49 2/3 points, Memphis State, with 31 points, and Southern Mississippi, which closed out the field with 8 2/3 points.

Head coach Bill Cornell said he was pleased with his performance on the whole.

"Although there are still some players who need to get in shape we are steadily improving," Cornell said.

One of the many events SIUC took first place in was the 4 x 800-meter, which was taken by the squad of sophomore Todd Schmidt, senior Mark Stuart, freshman Neil Emberton and senior Nick Schwartz.

Stuart also was part of the team's domination in the mile, in which he, freshman Bob Foster

Indiana State.

Spoonhour said SMSU's fourth straight victory was just as important to his team as it was to other Valley teams because the Salukis were undefeated at home.

"Somebody had to win here (the Arcata) or it would have been over in the Valley," he said. "Southern is still the best team in the conference, and we're fortunate to get the win."

"I wouldn't want to play SIUC for a living."

Spoonhour said the Bears controlled the tempo with their slow-down, half-court offense. "We would like to have a big transition game, but we play best at a slower pace," he said. "It was good to see us do that on their home court."

The Dawgs, who lost their second straight, fell to 8-1 at home with four Arena games remaining. Their overall record stands at 14-4.

Coach Rich Herrin said the last 10 days have been tough on his team. During that span, in which SIUC was 1-2, the Salukis have been held to about 61 points a game—22 less points than they averaged in their first 15 games.

"We have battled just as hard, but we haven't played as well as we did earlier in the season," he said.

Herrin said both teams played tough defense, as each team hit just 36 percent of its shots from the field. But the difference was

Swim teams lose; divers successful

By Cynid Oberle

Despite the SIUC swimming and diving team's loss to nationally-ranked Kansas, its divers had unprecedented success on the boards.

Sophomore Rob Siracusan set pool and SIUC records on both the one and three-meter boards. His one meter point total for six dives was 323.70, and he scored an 11-dive point total of 583.58 on the three-meter board.

Two divers also qualified for the NCAA's. Senior Greg Testa had a NCAA qualifying score on the three-meter boards with a 509.70, and

Salukis sign ex-prep star

Sports Information

Paul Lusk, former Trenton-Wesclin prep star and a member of the University of Iowa's basketball squad for the past two seasons, has been admitted to Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Lusk, who led Wesclin to the 1990 class A state championship, was a member of Iowa's squad a year ago prior to suffering a broken leg in his third game. He played during the first semester of this season before withdrawing from Iowa last week.

After learning Iowa had given Lusk his release and that he had been officially admitted to SIUC, head coach Rich Herrin said he was pleased to sign Lusk.

"He'll be a fine addition to our squad. It is just like having another successful recruiting trip this spring," he said.

Lusk will be eligible to play for the Salukis Dec. 19, 1992.

RUSSIA NEGOTIATES TROOP WITHDRAWAL — Russia announced an agreement Sunday with Latvia to withdraw troops of the former Soviet Union from the republic. The agreement comes one day after Russia and Lithuania announced a similar agreement. Russia then began talks with Estonia aimed at pulling soldiers out of that republic. Together, the agreements should lead to a mass troop withdrawal from the three Baltic republics.

Cossiga announced his decision in an address broadcast on state-run television and expressed the hope that the new Parliament would dedicate itself to the task of reforming Italy's political institutions.

LANDSLIDE KILLS HUNDREDS IN TURKEY — At least 135 people were killed and some 180 were missing, believed buried under snow, by avalanches that struck several villages in southeastern Turkey, reports from the area said Sunday. SIUC-N offers students learning opportunities

By Fatima Janvekar
General Assignment Writer

SIUC student Hiro Sakai wanted an international education since he was in high school.

But Sakai, a transfer student in political science from SIUC-N, did not have to leave his native country of Japan to get the education he wanted.

Sakai studied at SIUC's sister campus in Nakajo, Japan, before he transferred this spring to the University.

He initially found the SIUC atmosphere dull, cold and depressing because many students had left for winter vacations.

"I liked it better when I saw the campus active and full of students when the semester began," Sakai said.

Sakai said the two campuses do not compare in size.

"The Japan campus is very small as compared to here. We have only four to five buildings, limited equipment and no student center type of buildings in Nakajo," Sakai said.

Since the campus was started four years ago, 185 Japanese students have transferred to SIUC to complete their degrees.

SIUC-N has had as many as 600 Japanese students taking classes on its campus at one time, though the numbers fluctuate, said Beverly Walker, director of overseas programs.

"We've had exchange students from this campus, as well as from other U.S. universities who go to the Nakajo campus to study Japanese culture, history, language and East Asian civilization," she said.

Walker said a graduate assistant is assigned to help the Nakajo transfer students.

Pay raises would cut quality of programs

IN RECESSIONARY TIMES, belt-tightening becomes a way of life for businesses and institutions. With money scarce at all levels, a universal salary increase at the expense of SIUC programs sounds like some very suspicious financial management.

University deans are earmarking a percentage of their operating budgets for pay increases at the request of the administration. SIUC faculty, staff and civil service employees would see a few extra dollars in their paychecks as a result of the reallocation.

THE PROPOSED SALARY HIKE IS OVERDUE and well-deserved. But the question rears its ugly head: Where will the additional money come from in a University whose programs already have been sliced to the marrow to compensate for state higher education cuts?

No one doubts that pay raises are good for morale, and with the University's economic situation in such dire straits, morale could definitely use a boost.

BUT THE PROPOSED BOOST IN PAY would come at the expense of programs already hurting for financial support.

In truth, SIUC may not be able to afford an across-the-board pay raise. Professors would appreciate the extra income, but they would also be forced to work with fewer quality resources.

SOME DEPARTMENTS ALREADY LABOR under the burden of semi-poverty. Some programs are just scraping by and can hardly bear to receive any less money from their parent colleges.

Professors provide a large percentage of the quality of education, just as civil service workers and staff keep the bureaucracy running as close to smooth as a bureaucracy can.

BUT WHAT KIND OF QUALITY can a professor lend to a class when his or her teaching resources have been ripped away, when his department cannot pay for long-distance telephone service or overhead transparencies?

If a pay increase passes, SIUC instructors and other employees will be better-paid but far less well-equipped to serve the students who count on them. Students will suffer so workers in their support network can take home larger paychecks.

ILLINOIS EDUCATION CUTS MAKE VICTIMS out of the students whose tuition rates will rise in compensation, but pay raises victimize students at a much more basic level by cutting resources out from under the colleges at which they work for their degrees.

At a time when departments already are scraping the absolute bottom of the barrel to serve students as best they can, a pay raise at the expense of college budgets only helps push SIUC further into the red, and its students further into an educational no-man's land.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors. The letters space will be a forum for discussion of issues of public interest. Open, civil dialogue is the aim. Letters may be edited for length and content. Letters of fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Letters will be limited to 300 words. Letter that the editors deem objectionable because of potentially libelous material or because of extraordinary bad taste will not be published. Access to the letters space will be afforded to as many writers as possible to encourage diversity of points of view. Editors may impose, at their discretion, a limit on the frequency of publication of letters by an author. When a multitude of letters on the same subject are received, editors may select a few letters that are representative of those letters for publication.

Every letter must be signed and submitted in person by its author or authors. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department, others by address and occupation or position appropriate to the nature of their letters. Letters for which authorship cannot be verified will not be published.

Letters to the Editor

Law school a source of waste; contributes to high legal costs

Regarding the recent DE articles on the Law School's budgetary problems:

1) The state of Illinois should discontinue funding all state law schools. It is a waste of money. There is nothing you can't learn on your own about the law. Anyone with a good undergraduate education can grasp the concepts and develop the necessary skills.

You should be able to get a law license by merely passing a written proficiency examination such as the bar exam.

This would benefit everyone in the state by reducing the cost of legal services, which is built into the cost of every good and service we consume. It would improve the state's budgetary problems and provide more opportunity to those who can't afford tuition or devote their full time to attending school.

The law profession is similar to the secondary and primary education professions. None of them really requires specialized education funded by the state in order to assure the delivery of high-quality services. General education training at the college level is all that is necessary, besides on-the-job training and self-study.

2) If the state is to continue funding SIU Law School, it should be required to admit three to four times as many students as it currently does. This would improve the school's finances far more than raising tuition.

Come over and look at how empty the law library and the classrooms are, and find out how little the faculty actually teaches.

As a result of this unnecessary waste and restricted access to the profession, only wealthy people and large corporations can afford adequate legal services. I'm not even talking about the needs of the poor.

Consider middle-income people and small businesspeople. They're screwed if they run into a serious legal problem.

Many a small businessperson goes bust as a result of inability to afford legal services to collect debts or enforce contractual agreements.

More often than not these people have already mortgaged most of their personal assets in attempts to get their businesses off the ground and don't have the large sums required currently to obtain minimally adequate legal services.

SIU Law School rejects approximately twelve hundred applicants every year, most of whom would undoubtedly perform quite satisfactorily and ultimately make valuable contributions to the state's economic development and welfare.

Any applicant who has better than a 3.0 average in undergraduate school should be admitted, regardless of LSAT test score. The LSAT is garbage. LSAT test results have shown little, if any, relationship with successful performance in law school, let alone real-world practice.—Tom Williams, law student.

Stigma silences victims of rape

On Sunday, Jan. 26 at approximately 3:30 a.m., a very dear friend of mine was raped at a party. Soon after this violent crime took place, she went home terrified. The first thing she did was call the Carbondale Police Department, thinking they would at least go to the house where the rape took place and voice the fact that a complaint had been made. The operator at the police station denied any assistance to this terrified victim because she would not disclose her identity due to personal confidentiality.

I have always thought peace officers were paid to serve and protect the public. In this case it is just another piece of scum getting away with rape, like most usually do, because their victims were too frightened to reveal themselves.

I also went through this same ordeal last May, when my girlfriend was raped. In this case, she did disclose her name. In order to press charges against her alleged rapist, she herself would have to relive the rape, detail by detail, in a court of law.

Being raped once is more than enough, but over and over again by a group of judgmental people is far too much for one to handle emotionally. The ultimate decision made was not to prosecute her assailant due to the emotional trauma she would have to endure in court.

Women who are raped are emotionally scarred for life. In most cases, the men who are accused of raping women get off scot-free, because their victims are much too afraid to confront their rapists again in court.

I realize there is virtually no way for the police to enforce the laws against rape, but they sure as hell should protect the many victims, like my friend, who had the door slammed in her face.

I can only imagine how helpless she must have felt.—M.C. Lepke, junior, geography

Father moved by memorial for daughter

Thanks to all of you who honored Anna Hedberg's memory.

My wife Birgitta, our children, Per and Katarina, and I were deeply moved when we learned with what love and care Anna's memory was honored at the visitation on Tuesday, Dec. 3, 1991 at the Meredith Funeral Home in Carbondale. The way Anna's friends—students and faculty—expressed their feelings and their compassion has been a great comfort to us. We now know, even more than before, that Anna's years at SIUC were happy years among many true friends.—Rune Hedberg, Anna's father, Falun, Sweden.

"(The budget committee) has been working many hours to try and find some source for a salary increase, but nothing has panned out yet," Melone said.

But SIU Chancellor James Brown said he has not lost all hope for a salary increase.

"The rumor of a salary increase is purely speculation at this time especially with the financial situation of both the University and the state; hope is getting faint although the hope is not gone," Brown said.

A salary increase may be a way to raise morale at a time when budgets are being slashed and funds are being returned to the state government.

"The morale around here is very low," said Michael Esler, SIUC political science professor.

"Any salary increase would be nice, but with reallocations it seems a salary increase would just be a cut from somewhere else in a department's budget," he said.

Barbara Crandall-Stotler, professor of plant biology, said her operating budget is not enough to meet the costs of her job, so many times the cost for a trip to a conference or some other needed item comes out of her pocket.

"The salary increase would not help, but instead compensate for money already lost on costs like the health insurance premium that went into effect in January," Crandall-Stotler said.

Donald Beggs, dean of the College of Education, said a salary increase would give faculty more freedom with their personal budgets.

Any salary increase is a board matter, but the proposal was pulled from the agenda because of other pressing issues.

—William Capie, vice president for financial affairs

"If the increase were to come about, it would give those faculty who would have gotten their travel budgets cut, the freedom to choose which conference to attend instead of having to apply for approval to attend," Beggs said.

Executive Secretary of the Board Sharon Holms said the salary increase is not on the agenda for the Feb. 8 Board of Trustees meeting.

The SIU Board of Trustees is the governing body for campuses in the SIU system.

Any salary increase is a board matter, but the proposal was pulled from the agenda because of other pressing issues, said William Capie vice president for financial affairs.

"The salary increase is a pressing issue that needs to be looked into, but it's difficult because the University first needs to identify a source, Capie said.

"So right now University officials are going through an exercise to check for a possibility of an increase," he said.

There is also plenty of free food, sandwiches and other refreshments."

Recent SIUC graduate Dan Vreeland was one of the first donors at the Recreation Center on Sunday.

"I give blood because it is part of saving lives," Vreeland said.

To make an appointment or for further information call the Red Cross at 529-2151 or the SIUC Leadership Center at 536-7768.

Every pint of blood donated is broken down into three different parts so it can help three different people, Voigt said.

"Anyone of our friends can be in a car accident and need to use this blood," she said.

Scott Berowski, vice president of MOVE, said a lot of people are afraid to donate blood because they think they will get the HIV virus.

"There is no possible way for the HIV virus to survive during the of swaying apartment buildings in rear freezing temperatures onto dark streets slickened with ice in the aftermath of the heaviest snowstorm to hit the city in two years.

"The quake woke me up with a start," said housewife Hiroka Ichikawa. "I quickly tried to calm down my frightened, crying children," amid the clamor of dishes falling to the floor.

Saturday's storm had dumped 6.9 inches of snow on the area, leaving 348 people injured. The storm temporarily cut off electricity to 140,000 homes in Tokyo and five surrounding prefectures.

The earthquake disrupted transportation in the city. Railway companies delayed the start of their first trains by one to three hours to check the safety of the tracks. Bullet trains were delayed.

Natural gas was cut off in several areas.

Phil, represented by various groundhogs over the years, has been making his annual predictions since 1887 atop Gobbler's Knob in western Pennsylvania.

Thousands of spectators watched and cheered when the furry prognosticator emerged at 7:20 a.m. during the orchestrated media event. As folklore goes, if Phil sees his shadow, we're in for six more weeks of winter. If he doesn't, spring is just around the corner.

The rodent "saw" his shadow Sunday.

"No more snow. No more snow. We want spring," a disappointed college student from New Hampshire chanted to the crowd.

The storied creature's followers contend he is hardly ever wrong.

"He's seen his shadow 95 out of 105 times, and he's been wrong only on a rare occasion," said Jim Means, the president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club. "I think we had between 2,500 and 3,000 people here, and they pretty much agree with Phil's prediction."

"I've talked with people as far away from California who say they're glad to hear about Phil's news and that they're expecting to get a cold blast before winter's end."

"I'm not the biggest fan of cold weather myself and I'm heading to Arizona for three months," Means added. "I hope it's warm but, then again, it might be cold there, too."

Groundhog Day is an extension of a belief among the nation's early German immigrants that a badger, a close relative of the groundhog, was a harbinger of spring.

The ceremony in Punxsutawney was held secretly until 1966, and only Phil's prediction was revealed to the public. But the last 26 years, Phil's fearless forecast has been a national media event and a boon for merchants in Punxsutawney, a town of some 7,800 residents about 50 miles northeast of Pittsburgh.

During the ceremony, the Groundhog Club president talks to Phil in "groundhogese" about his prediction and then translates.

Pixies hope for American success after gaining popularity in Europe

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

Seven years ago, when David Lovering began playing drums with the Pixies, he never imagined that some day his band would headline massive music festivals in Europe.

"We try to enjoy it as it comes, because it could all go away tomorrow," Lovering said.

Lovering and the Pixies: Black Francis on guitar and vocals, lead guitarist Joey Santiago and bassist Kim Deal performed Thursday night at Shryock Auditorium.

The band played a variety of material spanning five albums, performing older songs from their first release, "Come On Pilgrim" as well as songs from the new album.

The band enjoys playing to college audiences because of the fringe benefits, Lovering said.

"We get lots of food, and we hang out in bowling alleys at the student union," he said.

The Pixies have yet to become a household name in the United States, but in Europe the band is gaining popularity.

Lovering is quick to downplay the "best band in the world" tag the band received from the European press.

"They have better taste in Europe," Lovering said. "Alternative bands are more accepted in Europe than here in America."

"There's a fascination there," he said. "Just like a lot of Americans would have a fascination with European artists; it's the same thing."

The Pixies are on the second leg of a tour they started last November, and Lovering said the band plans to end the tour in a couple of weeks for a break.

The Pixies' hectic tour schedule is part of an effort to get the band better known in the states, Lovering said.

"The only way to do it is to get in front of people and play," he said.

"We're just making more of a concentrated effort," Lovering said.

The concert was sponsored by the Student Programming Council Consorts.

Premiere woodwind quintet to play its only show at SIUC

By Kristi Rominger
Entertainment Editor

A 30-year-old premiere woodwind quintet will perform its only concert of the year tonight.

The New American Woodwind Quintet, at one time known as the Altgeld Woodwind Quintet, has played at Carnegie Hall.

The quintet will perform at 8 p.m. tonight at the Old Baptist Foundation Recital Hall next to Faner Hall.

School of Music faculty members that comprise the group are T. Jervis Underwood, George Hussey, Eric Mandat, Dan Phillips and Charles Fligel.

Charles Fligel, bassoonist in the quintet, teaches bassoon, music theory, music history and is the undergraduate academic adviser at the School of Music.

The quintet has regular faculty members from the SIUC School of Music who participate in the group, Fligel said.

Fligel has been with the quintet for 16 years. During this time, he has performed with the group in Scotland, Amsterdam, Brussels, Vienna, Zurich, Milan and numerous cities in Northern Italy, not to mention Carnegie Hall and various cities throughout the United States.

"The woodwind quintet is, literally, the most fun to perform with," Fligel said. "You get to perform as a soloist as well as part of a chamber group."

College of Agriculture to offer riding classes

By Kara Grover
General Assignment Writer

The SIUC College of Agriculture is expanding its equine science program next year to include four horseback riding courses.

Sheryl S. King, associate professor of animal science and director of the SIUC equine science program, said that while SIUC has traditionally offered a number of courses covering all areas of horse and horse farm management in the equine science program, it has never offered riding classes.

"I believe this addition to the curriculum makes SIUC's program one of the most comprehensive four-year equine science programs in the country," King said.

There are some 30 students majoring in equine science, and an undetermined number of students with a minor in the program. King said with the expansion of the curriculum, she expects enrollment to double or even triple.

"I would not be surprised if we got 100 additional students," King said.

"The vast majority of potential horse students are interested primarily in riding at first. Because we didn't have the riding program available, we've lost out on a lot of new students," she said.

The new courses will focus on four different levels of riding ability and are available to anyone for a $225 a semester fee.

"These classes are not restricted to students who have a major or minor in equine science," King said. "However, in order to take horseback riding classes, the student has to take at least one horse management class."

The credit hours received from riding classes will be generated toward electives, King said.

The riding courses will be conducted by instructors recognized and licensed by the American Riding Instructors Certification program, which is based upon the rigorous European-style of riding instruction, King said.

SIUC student Karin Field, a sophomore majoring in the equine science program, said she is looking forward to the expansion of the program.

"It would be great to be able to ride," she said. "These classes will give me the opportunity."

King said the riding classes are expected to start no later than the fall of 1993.

Award to honor senior citizens for area services

By Teri Lynn Carlock
City Writer

Nominations are being accepted for the 1992 Senior Citizen Appreciation Days Program until Feb. 7.

Nominees should be older citizens who have done something special in their community anywhere in Southern Illinois, said Joanne Chezem, Carbondale Community Education board member.

"We are looking for someone who has done volunteer work with an organization or agency," she said. "And in the past, we have had nominations for people who just help their neighbors out."

Chezem said many people who do not do volunteer work with an agency still should be honored.

"There are a lot of people out there who do a wide variety of services without an agency, and we want to say 'thank you' publicly," she said.

Senior citizens who have made contributions to the community are honored in one of two categories: by receiving a recognition award or by serving as honorary City of Carbondale officials for a day.

The positions of mayor, city manager, city clerk, police chief and fire chief will be filled by an honored senior citizen on Feb. 29.

Older citizens will be sworn in by City Clerk Janet Vaught at an award ceremony at noon by the food court at the University Mall.

Each of the honorary city officials will receive a plaque and every nominee will be given a certificate, Chezem said.

Booths will be set up throughout the mall to provide information about services or membership to older citizens.

The Association of American Retired Persons, the American Red Cross and Carbondale Memorial Hospital will have representatives at the appreciation day.

The Southern Illinois Concert Band, the Carbondale Community High School Band and the CCHS Jazz Band will provide entertainment for the event.

Nominees for honorary City of Carbondale positions must be citizens of Carbondale and be available to serve their duty from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. March 2.

Academy offers students training in leadership, citizenship potential

By Jeremy Finley
General Assignment Writer

An academy to train SIUC students on leadership and citizenship skills will graduate its first pupils this spring.

The Academy, an organization of the Center of Student Involvement, will offer a series of programs giving students the opportunity to broaden leadership and citizenship potential, said Deborah Walton, assistant director of Student Development.

"This is only the second semester of the Academy," Walton said. "The programs have only been available in spring semesters in the past, but we hope to have it start up for the upcoming fall semester also."

The Academy consists mostly of SIUC students, none of whom must have any pre-requisites to become a member, she said.

Students do not need to be a member of the Academy to take part in any of the programs offered. "Students who are involved in the Academy can graduate from it, but only after they complete the components needed to graduate," Walton said.

To graduate, students must complete two of the three components. The Student Leadership Development is the first component in which a student must complete 20 of the 35 module sessions offered.

The other components are the Volunteer Services component, which requires 132 hours of community service, such as tutoring or working with the Red Cross, and the Citizenship Involvement and Awareness component, which requires a student to come up with a civic program on their own showing their civic awareness, completion of three modules and a public policy related project.

Students who graduate receive a certificate of completion, and a Student Involvement transcript showing the student's growth in community service and a record of co-curricular involvement.

Completing the graduation requirements takes nearly two semesters, and the first graduation from the Academy will happen the end of this spring semester.

Each module offered varies in topics, but each deals with improving students in their civic awareness and leadership abilities.

The first session will be at 2:30 p.m. Feb. 17 in the Missouri room at the Student Center, where City Manager for Carbondale Steve Hoffner will present "Role Models and Risk Takers: Blueprints for Successful Leaders."

Nancy Hunter Pei, director of Student Development, will conduct a session Feb. 20 on organization and basic parliamentary procedures.

"I'll give students some tips on how to be a good chairperson and basically get good participation from their audience," Pei said.

rebounds. Sophomore guard Karen Powell also dropped three 3-pointers.

Amy Houtzel had 15 points and 9 rebounds and Gail Elask had 12 points for WIU.

Western coach Kelly Hill said the key for her team was to keep SIUC off the boards and shut down its running game.

"We did a decent job on the boards at least in the first half," Hill said. "We had an opportunity to get rebounds, but we just got outhustled by them."

She said the Westerwinds were pretty intimidated with the Salukis' height, speed and quickness.

"They have great people at every position and the bench and it just doesn't stop," Hill said.

The Salukis play at Northern Iowa 7:35 p.m. Thursday.

senior Michelle Albrecht also qualified on the three-meter board with a score of 444.75.

Siracusano had previously qualified for NCAA Championship competition earlier in the season.

SIUC head coach Doug Ingram said Siracusano had been striving for the records for the past two years.

"He was very excited to get those," Ingram said. "The divers have been big contributors to our team the entire season, and with three of the divers qualified for the NCAA, they will also contribute nationally."

The SIUC swimmers did not fare so well, with both the women's and men's teams losing.

The women lost 140-94 and fell to 6-7 for the season, and the men, 7-6, lost 135.5-103.5.

Ingram said the teams have changed their practice styles and that may have been a factor for their performances.

"We have cut down our heavy loads and are tapering down for the conference championships at the end of the month," he said.

Senior Tonia Mahaira was the only multiple event winner for the women, winning the 100 freestyle with a time :52.03 and the 200 free with a 1:52.43.

in free throw shooting, he said. The Salukis went into halftime with a 27-25 lead, but they could only convert two of 10 from the charity stripe to start the second. The Bears, on the other hand, made 25 of 27 free throws for the game. "Both teams played hard and fierce," said Herrin, who saw the teams combine for 54 personal fouls. "But we couldn't match them when the clock was stopped, and that was the game."

In one two-second span, the Salukis missed four straight free throws and the Bears hit two.

With six minutes left in the game and the Salukis down 44-39, junior forward Ashraf Amaya went to the line for two shots. He missed both, but senior forward Kelvin Lawrence was fouled after pulling down the offensive board. Lawrence also missed both shots, and when Bears freshman forward Tim Axley pulled down the board he was fouled by sophomore forward Mirko Pavlovic. Axley, who is shooting 93 percent of the line for the season, sank both. "When you miss two free throws it is as bad as a turnover," Herrin said.

The Dawgs went on to make a 10-4 run to take the lead two minutes left, but the Bears went back on top 50-49 with junior forward Tony Graves' slam dunk. After a Saluki turnover, SIUC was forced to foul and the Bears canned their last six free throws.

Amaya, who leads the Valley in scoring and rebounding, led all scorers with 18 points but was held to five boards. Spoonhour said although SIUC held a 31-28 advantage off the glass, Amaya's low total hurt the Salukis' chances. "We didn't do anything different to neutralize him, and he was playing his heart out," Spoonhour said. "The ball just didn't bounce his way today. If we went out and played again, he would probably pull down 31."

Freshman guard Johnny Murdock led the Bears with 11 points.

The Salukis next go on the road to face Indiana State at 6:30 p.m. Thursday and Bradley at 7 p.m. Saturday.

and senior Mike Danner took the first three places respectively.

In the 55-meter hurdles senior Ed Williams took first place honors and was closely followed by sophomore Jarrin Williams, third.

Also earning first place honors were junior Bernard Henry, in the 800-meter, Schwartz in the 1,000-meter, and senior Vaughn Harry in the 3,000-meter.

The team took the first four spots in the 35-lb weight throw with junior Jonathan Hirsh in first followed by sophomore Brian Miller, freshman Mark Goodheart and sophomore Torry King.

The personal best for Miller was one of two he earned on the day, as he took first and also set a personal high water mark in the shot put.

King placed third in the event, which gave SIUC two of the top three spots in the event.

In the pole vault, Mike Claycomb took first, followed by Keith Rhine and Steve Long.

Senior Frank Bryan, in the long jump and the triple jump, and Junior Darrin Plab, in the high jump, also took first place honors.

On the down side was an upper leg injury to sophomore Kenton Rolle, who runs the 55-meter dash and is a member of the relay teams.
