ISAC to cut MAP awards 12 percent

By Todd Welvaert
Politics Writer

SIUC recipients of Illinois Monetary Assistance Program awards will lose 12 percent of their award offers this semester.

The Illinois Student Assistance Commission voted Friday to cut the annual MAP award by 12 percent, forcing university financial aid offices to take money already credited to student accounts.

The cut will affect more than 6,500 SIUC students and 95,000 students statewide.

The MAP cut is the result of a 3-percent reduction to meet the Illinois emergency budget plan and will remove more than $660,000 from student awards at SIUC.

"We are looking at a $4 to $5 million cut for the spring semester," said Bob Clementi, public relations officer for the Illinois Student Assistance Commission. "The cut will affect students in four-year institutions and community colleges."

The award cuts should be removed from SIUC student accounts before refund checks are mailed next week.

"We have already given the students credit for the awards," said SIUC Financial Aid Director Kevin Lencioni. "It's a real blow to students who are counting on that refund and have already budgeted this semester around it."

The MAP award is based on student need, and the cut will run from $18 for the lowest award amount to $142.07 for the highest award amount. The majority of students at SIUC receive the greatest amount.

"This is really going to hurt," said Kevin Lencioni, junior in law enforcement from Glenview. "I have been declared an independent from my parents and I am trying to handle college by myself."

Lencioni said it will be difficult for him to make ends meet to stay in school.

"It's just another example of the little guy getting it," he said.

SIUC will not be able to make up for the lost award money because the University has no backup funds for financial aid.

Red Cross, SIUC hopeful to reach 2,000-unit goal

By Trumier Camphor
General Assignment Writer

The American Red Cross and the SIUC student group, Mobilization of Volunteer Effort, are optimistic about meeting their goals for a blood drive this week.

Vivian Ugent, coordinator of American Red Cross drives in Southern Illinois and Missouri, said blood is badly needed.

"The first day of the week-long blood drive begins Sunday at the Recreation Center and runs through the end of the week. The goal for the blood drive is to collect 2,000 units.

"The drive runs from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and from 2:30 to 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Recreation Center.

"The demand for blood is always high in January because of the high number of surgical cases scheduled during the month," Ugent said.

"It is important to collect enough blood for hospitals to keep their blood supplies at adequate levels," she said.

At the end of the first hour of the blood drive more than 50 students were waiting to donate blood.

"I'm very pleased with the number of students that support the blood drives," Ugent said. "Students give if they are asked and we are trying hard to ask them."

Suzie Veigt, president of MOVE, said she hopes to avoid what happened last year.

Veigt said the November blood drive did not meet its goal.

"There is a lot of apathy and complacency toward donating blood," she said. "Some people criticize us for charging blood and it's not that bad."

Quake shakes Tokyo; sparks 2 fires

TOKYO (UPI) — A strong earthquake rocked the Tokyo metropolitan area before dawn Sunday, injuring at least 31 people in the most powerful tremor to hit the city in six years.

Officials at the Meteorological Agency said the quake registered 5.7 on the Richter Scale.

The quake, which hit at 4:04 a.m., was centered beneath the surface of southern Tokyo Bay, agency officials said.

A 48-year-old woman was seriously injured in Tokyo when she fell down some stairs, officials said. Thirty others were hurt by falling objects in Tokyo and three nearby prefectures.

Fires in two homes in Saitama, north of Tokyo, were blamed on the quake, firefighters said. Fire officials said the blazes were sparked by shorts in electrical equipment. Both fires were quickly extinguished.

No other significant damage was reported.

Deans prepare to chop 2 percent to make room for salary increases

By Christine Leninger
Administration Writer

SIUC college deans are identifying 2 percent of their budgets that could be allocated for an employee salary increase.

University President John C. Guyon would not confirm the request, but deans are preparing a budget proposal in case a salary increase is approved.

Gerald Stone, dean of the College of Communication and Fine Arts, said the budget cut is supposed to be applied as a salary increase for faculty, staff and civil service employees of the University.

Faculty, staff and civil service employees last received a salary increase July 1, 1990.

Albert Melone, chairman of the budget advisory committee to Guyon, said University employees may not get a salary increase if a funding source for the increase is not found.

Lady Salukis win 75-59; tied for first in conference play

Saluki women blow out WIU

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

The SIUC women's basketball team is sweeping its opponents off the court. It has enjoyed four big wins in a row. The Salukis, 13-4, beat Western Illinois 75-59 Saturday. In their last three games, they beat Bradley and Indiana State by 28 points and Illinois State by 20.

SIUC is tied for first place with Southwest Missouri State, 16-2, in the Gateway Conference. Both teams are 8-1. SMSU beat Northern Iowa 89-44 Saturday. Western dropped to 4-5 in the conference and 9-10 overall.

It was a early see-saw battle as SIUC struggled in the first half against Western's zone defense. The Westerwinds were up 17-12 before junior point guard Anita Scott dropped two buckets for the Saluki, leading to an 11-2 run.

Coach Cindy Scott said Western's zone defense shut down the team's inside game, forcing them to shoot from the perimeter.

"We were a little flat early," Scott said. "Our passing was not crisp. We needed someone to spark a little bit, and there wasn't anyone there. Our defense was not great.

"The two buckets by Scott were very important. She's the barometer of this basketball team. When she's playing well and on three and she's comfortable, the team is comfortable. If we can win by 15 when we're playing a little flat, that's great."

Western tied the game two more times in the first half before the Salukis took charge to go up 40-29 at halftime.

In the second half, the Westerwinds hit three buckets before the Salukis scored on a 3-pointer by senior guard Karrie Redeker. The Salukis stayed in control the rest of the game.

Anita Scott, who had 15 points for SIUC, said the team had to play more intensely and cut harder to the ball to adjust to WIU's defense.

"It was a matter of executing and playing intense and wanting the ball more," Scott said. "We have a tendency of relaxing on offense and defense once we get a big lead, and we have to work on staying focused and continue to play intense the whole game. We know that a team like Western, if we give them the chance, can come back and win the game. I think we play better under pressure."

Redeker had 14 points including three 3-pointers, junior center Kelly Firth had 11 points and six re bounds.

Nationally ranked men blast Saluki invite field

By James T. Tendulich
Sports Writer

The SIUC men's indoor track team so far has held up to its No. 14 ranking in the NCAA.

On Saturday it easily walked away with first place honors at the Saluki Indoor Invitational Meet. Raking up a total of 95 points, SIUC out paced Murray State, in second with 49 2/3 points, Memphis State, with 31 points, and Southern Mississippi, which closed out the field with 8 2/3 points.

Head coach Bill Cornell said he was pleased with his performance on the whole.

"Although there are still some players who need to get in shape we are steadily improving," Cornell said.

One of the many events SIUC took first place in was the 4 x 1000 meter, which was taken by the squad of sophomore Todd Schmidt, junior Mark Stuart, freshman Neil Embron and senior Nick Schwartz.

Stuart also was part of the team's domination in the mile, in which he, freshman Bob Foster.

Salukis sign ex-prep star

Sports Information

Paul Lusk, former Trenton-Wesclin prep star and a member of the University of Iowa's basketball squad for the past two seasons, has been admitted to Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Lusk, who led Wesclin to the 1990 class A state championship, was a member of Iowa's squad a year ago prior to suffering a broken leg in his third game. He played during the first semester of this season before withdrawing from Iowa last week.

After leaving Iowa had given Lusk his release and that he had been officially admitted to SIUC, head coach Rich Herrin said he was pleased to sign Lusk.

"He is a fine addition to our squad. It is just like having another successful recruiting trip this spring," he said.

Lusk will be eligible to play for the Salukis Dec. 19, 1992.

Dawgs' loss clogs up Valley race

By Tony Mancuso

The Saluki men's basketball team went into its game against Southwest Missouri hoping to push the tempo and push the Bears out of the Missouri Valley race.

But coach Charlie Spoonhour's club slowed the pace of the game Saturday, knocked off the top-ranked Salukis 56-49 and created a five-team race for the conference title.

The win pulled the Bears, 5-4 in the MVC, within two games of the 7-2 Salukis. Tulsa, on the strength of an overtime win at Bradley, moved into first place tie with the Dawgs at 7-2. The Braves, 6-3, dropped one game off the pace and are tied with Indiana State.

Spoohour said SMSU's fourth straight victory was just as important to his team as it was to other Valley teams because the Salukis were undefeated at home.

"Somebody had to win here (the Arcata) or it would have been over in the Valley," he said.

"Southern is still the best team in the conference, and we're fortunate to get the win."

"I wouldn't want to play SIU for a living." Spoonhour said the Bears controlled the tempo with their slow-down, half-court offense.

"We would like to have a big transition game, but we play best at a slower pace," he said. "It was good to see us do that on their home court."

The Dawgs, who lost their second straight, fell to 8-4 at home with four Arena games remaining. Their overall record stands at 14-4.

Coach Rich Herrin said the last 10 days have been tough on his team. During that span, in which SIUC was 1-2, the Salukis have been held to about 61 points a game—22 less points than they averaged in their first 15 games.

"We have battled just as hard, but we haven't played as well as we did earlier in the season," he said.

Herrin said both teams played tough defense, as each team hit just 36 percent of its shots from the field. But the difference was...

Russia announced an agreement Sunday with Latvia to withdraw troops of the former Soviet Union from the republic. The agreement comes one day after Russia and Lithuania announced a similar agreement. "SIUC-N has as many as 600 Japanese students taking classes on our campus at one time. Roughly the numbers fluctuate," said Beverly Walker, director of overseas programs.

"We've had exchange students from this campus, as well as from other U.S. universities who go to the Nakajo campus to study Japanese culture, "Wakemen campuses in East Asian civilizations," she said.

Pay raises would cut quality of programs

IN RECESSIONARY TIMES, belt-tightening becomes a way of life for businesses and institutions. With money scarce at all levels, a universal salary increase at the expense of SIUC programs sounds like some very sound financial management.

University deans are earmarking a percentage of their operating budgets for pay increases at the request of the administration. SIUC faculty, staff and civil service employees would get a few extra dollars in their paychecks as a result of the reallocation.

THE PROPOSED SALARY HIKE IS OUTDATED and well-deserved. But the question as a result of the reallocation.

Pay raises would cut quality of programs

1) The state of Illinois should discontinues funding all state law schools. It is a waste of money. There is nothing you can learn on your own about the law. Anyone with a good undergraduate education can grasp the concepts and develop the necessary skills. You should be able to get a law license by merely passing a written proficiency exam such as the bar exam. This would benefit everyone in the state by reducing the cost of legal services, which is built into the cost of every good and service we consume. It would improve the state’s budgetary problems and provide more opportunity to those who can’t afford tuition or devote their full time to attending school.

2) If the state is to continue funding SIU Law School, it should be required to admit only those students who are taking their own federal aid. This would improve the school’s finances far more than raising tuition.

The law profession is similar to the secondary and primary education professions. None of them really requires specialized education funded by the state in order to assure the delivery of high-quality services. General education training at the college level is all that is necessary, besides on-the-job training and self-study.

Stigma silences victims of rape

On Sunday, Jan. 26 at approximately 3:30 a.m., a very dear friend of mine was raped at a party. Soon after this violent crime took place, she went home terrified. The first thing she did was call the Champaign Police Department, thinking they would at least go to the house where the rape took place and voice the fact that a complaint had been made. The operator at the police station denied any assistance to this terrified victim because she would not disclose her identity due to personal confidentiality.

I have always thought peace officers were paid to serve and protect the public. In this case it is just another piece of scam getting away with rape, like most usually do, because their victims were too frightened to confess.

I also went through the same ordeal last May, when my girlfriend was raped. In this case, she did disclose her name. In order to press charges against her alleged rapist, she herself would have to relive the rape, detail by detail, in a court of law.

Being raped once is more than enough, but over and over again by a group of judgmental people is far too much for one to handle emotionally. The ultimate decision made was to not prosecute her assailant due to the emotional trauma she would have to endure in court.

Women who are raped are emotionally scarred for life. In most cases, the men who are accused of raping women get off-scot-free, because their victims are too scared to confess. These men are rapists again in court.

I realize there is virtually no way for the police to enforce the laws against rape, but they sure as hell should protect the many victims like my friend, who had the door slammed in her face.

I can only imagine how helpless she must have felt. —M.C. Lepke

Phil, represented by various groundhogs over the years, has been among the area’s most precocious characters since 1887 atop Gobbler’s Knob in western Pennsylvania.

The forecasters watched and c-e-red when the furry prognosticator emerged at 7:03 a.m. during the orchestrated media event. As folklore goes, if Phil sees his shadow, we’re in for six more weeks of winter. If he doesn’t, spring is just around the corner.

"They told people as far away from California who say they’re glad to hear about Phil’s news that they’re expecting to get a cold blast before winter’s end. "I’m not the biggest fan of cold weather myself and I’m heading to Arizona for three months," Means added. "It hope it’s warm but, then again, it might be cold there too,".

"Groundhog Day is an extension of a belief among the nation’s early German immigrants that a badger, a close relative of the groundhog, was a harbinger of winter."

The ceremony in Punxsutawney was held on February 2nd at 5:01 p.m. EST. The only Phil’s prediction was revealed to the public. But the last 26 years, Phil’s forecast has been a national media event and a boon for merchants in Punxsutawney, a town of some 7,800 residents about 50 miles northeast of Pittsburgh.

The creature’s followers condemn him is hardly ever wrong. "He’s seen his shadow 95 out of 105 times, and he’s been wrong only on a rare occasion," said Jim Means, the president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club. "I think we have between 2,500 and 3,000 people here, and they pretty much agree with Phil’s prediction."

Pixies hope for American success after gaining popularity in Europe

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

Seven years ago, when David Lovering began playing drums with the Pixies, he never imagined that some day his band would headline massive music festivals in Europe. "We try to enjoy it as it comes, because it could all go away tomorrow," Lovering said.

Lovering and the Pixies, Black Francis on guitar and vocals, lead guitarist Joey Santiago and bassist Kim Deal performed Thursday night at Shryock Auditorium.

The band played a variety of material spanning five albums, performing older songs from their first release, "Come On Pilgrim" as well as songs from the new album.

The band enjoys playing to college audiences because of the fringe benefits, Lovering said. "We get lots of food, and we hang out in bowling alleys at the student union," he said.

The Pixies have yet to become a household name in the United States, but in Europe the band is gaining popularity. Lovering is quick to downplay the "best band in the world" tag the band received from the European press.

"They have better taste in Europe," Lovering said. "Alternative bands are more accepted in Europe than here in America."

"There's a fascination there," he said. "Just like a lot of Americans would have a fascination with European artists; it's the same thing."

The Pixies are on the second leg of a tour they started last November, and Lovering said the band plans to end the tour in a couple of weeks for a break.

The Pixies' hectic tour schedule is part of an effort to get the band better known in the states.

"The only way to do it is to get in front of people and play," he said. "We're just making more of a concentrated effort," Lovering said.

The concert was sponsored by the Student Programming Council.

Premiere woodwind quintet to play its only show at SIUC

By Kristi Rominger
Entertainment Editor

A 30-year-old premiere woodwind quintet will perform its only concert of the year tonight.

The New American Woodwind Quintet, at one time known as the Altoyp Woodwind Quintet, has played at Carnegie Hall.

The quintet will perform at 8 p.m. tonight at the Old Baptist Foundation Recital Hall next to Paner Hall.

School of Music faculty members that comprise the group are T. Jervis Underwood, George Hussey, Eric Mandat, Dan Phillips and Charles Finigl.

Charles Finigl, bassoonist in the quintet, teaches bassoon, music theory, music history and is the undergraduate academic advisor at the School of Music.

The quintet has regular faculty members from the SIUC School of Music who participate in the group, Finigl said.

Finigl has been with the quintet for 16 years. During this time, he has performed with the group in Scotland, Amsterdam, Brussels, Vienna, Zurich, Milan and numerous cities in Northern Italy, not to mention Carnegie Hall and various cities throughout the United States.

"The woodwind quintet is literally the most fun to perform with," Finigl said. "You get to perform as a soloist as well as part of a chamber group."

College of Agriculture to offer riding classes

By Kara Grover
General Assignment Writer

The SIUC College of Agriculture is expanding its equine science program next year to include four horseback riding courses.

Sherry S. King, associate professor of animal science and director of the SIUC equine science program, said that while SIUC has traditionally offered a number of courses covering all areas of horse and horse farm management in the equine science program, it has never offered riding classes.

"I believe this addition to the curriculum makes SIUC's program one of the most comprehensive four-year equine science programs in the country," King said.

There are some 30 students majoring in equine science, and an undetermined number of students with a minor in the program. King said with the expansion of the curriculum, the program expects enrollment to double or even triple.

"I would not be surprised if we got 100 additional students," King said.

"The vast majority of potential horse students are interested primarily in riding at first. Because we didn't have the riding program available, we've lost out on a lot of new students," she said. The new courses will focus on four different levels of riding ability and are available to anyone for a $225 seminar fee.

"These classes are not restricted to students who have a major or minor in equine science," King said. "However, in order to take horseback riding classes, the student has to take at least one horse management class."

The credit hours received from riding classes will be generated toward electives, King said.

The riding courses will be conducted by instructors recognized and licensed by the American Riding Instructors Certification program, which is based upon the rigorous European-style of riding instruction, King said.

"There are a number of instructors interested in teaching a comprehensive riding curriculum," she said. "We are looking forward to the expansion of the program.

"It would be great to be able to ride," she said. "These classes will give the opportunity."

King said the riding classes are expected to start no later than the fall of 1993.

Award to honor senior citizens for area services

By Toni Lynn Carlock
City Writer

Nominations are being accepted for the 1992 Senior Citizen Appreciation Days Program through Feb. 1.

Nominees should be older citizens who have done something special in their community anywhere in Southern Illinois, said Joanne Chezem, Carbondale Community Education board member.

"We are looking for someone who has done volunteer work with an organization or agency," she said. "And in the past, we have had nominations for people who just help their neighbors out."

Chezem said many people who do not do volunteer work with an agency still should be honored.

"There are a lot of people out there who do a wide variety of services without an agency, and we want to say 'thank you' publicly," she said.

Senior citizens who have made contributions to the community are honored in one of two categories: by receiving a recognition award or by serving as honorary City of Carbondale officials for a day.

The positions of mayor, city manager, city clerk, police chief and fire chief will be filled by an honored senior citizen on Feb. 29. Older citizens will be sworn in by City Clerk Janet Vaught at an award ceremony at noon by the Food Court at the University Mall.

Each of the honorary city officials will receive a plaque and every nominee will be given a certificate. Chezem said next year booths will be set up throughout the mall to provide information about services or membership to older citizens.

The Association of American Retired Persons, the American Red Cross and Carbondale Memorial Hospital will have representatives at the appreciation day.

The Southern Illinois Concert Band, the Carbondale Community High School Band and the CCHS Jazz Band will provide entertainment for the event.

Nominations for honorary City of Carbondale positions must be citizens of Carbondale and be available to serve their duty from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. March 2.

Academy offers students training in leadership, citizenship potential

By Jeremy Finley
General Assignment Writer

An academy to train SIUC students on leadership and citizenship skills will graduate its first pupils this spring.

The academy, an organization of the Center of Student Involvement, will offer a series of programs giving students the opportunity to broaden leadership and citizenship potential, said Deborah Walton, assistant director of Student Development.

"This is only the second semester of the Academy," Walton said. "The programs have only been available in spring semesters in the past, but we hope to have it start up for the upcoming fall semester also."

The Academy consists mostly of SIUC students, none of whom must have any pre-requisites to become a member, she said.

Students do not need to be a member of the Academy to take part in any of the programs offered.

"Students who are involved in the Academy can graduate from it, but only after they complete the components needed to graduate," Walton said.

To graduate, students must complete two of the three components. The Student Leadership Development is the first component in which a student must complete 20 of the 35 module sessions offered.

The other components are the Volunteer Services component, which requires 132 hours of community service, such as tutoring or working with the Red Cross, and the Citizenship Involvement and Awareness component, which requires a student to come up with a civic program on their own showing their civic awareness, completion of three modules and a public policy related project.

Students who graduate receive a certificate of completion, and a Student Involvement transcript showing the student's growth in community service and a record of co-curricular involvement.

"Completing the graduation requirements takes nearly two semesters, and the first graduation from the Academy will happen the end of this spring semester. Each module offered varies in topics, but each deals with improving students in their civic awareness and leadership abilities." The first session will be at 2:30 p.m. Feb. 17 in the Missouri room at the Student Center, where City Manager for Carbondale Steve Hoffner will present "Role Models and Risk Takers: Blueprints for Successful Leaders."

Nancy Hunter Pei, director of Student Development, will conduct a session Feb. 20 on organization and basic parliamentary procedures.

"I'll give students some tips on how to be a good chairperson and basically get good participation from their audience," Pei said.

rebound. Sophomore guard Karen Powell also grabbed three rebounds for the three-meter board with a score of 44.75.

Saracino had previously qualified for NCAA, at the Chattanooga Championship competition earlier in the season. She head coach Doug Ingram said Saracino had been training hard for the records for the past two years.

"He was very excited to get those," Ingram said. "The divers have been big contributors to our team the entire season, and with three of the divers qualified for the NCAA, they will also contribute nationally.

The USC swimmers did not fare so well, with both the women's and men's teams coming.

The women lost 140-94 and fell to 6-7 for the season, and the men, 7-6, lost 135-103. Ingram said the team has changed their practice styles and that may have been a factor for their performances.

"We've cut down our heavy loads and are tapering down for the conference championships at the end of the month," he said.

Senior Tonia Mahara was the only multiple event winner for the women, winning the 100 freestyle with a time: 52.03 and the 200 free with a 1:52.43.

in free throw shooting, he said.

"Both teams played hard and fierce," said Herrn, who saw the teams combine for 54 personal fouls. "But we couldn't match them when the clock was stopped, and that was the game."

In one two-second span, the Salukis missed four straight free throws and the Bears hit two.

With six minutes left in the game and the Salukis down 44-39, junior forward Aisha Amaya went to the line for two shots. He missed both, but senior forward Kelvan
Lawrence was fouled after pulling down the offensive board.

Lawrence also missed both shots,
and when Bears freshman forward
TIm Axley pulled down the board he was fouled by sophomore forward Mirko Pavlovic. Axley, who is shooting 93 percent for the line for the season, sank both.

"When you miss two free throws
it is as bad as a turnover," Herrn said.

The Dawgs went on to make a 10-4 run to take the lead with two minutes left, but the Bears went back on top 50-49 with junior forward Tony Graves' slam dunk.
After a Saluki turnover, SIUC was forced to foul and the Bears came on their last six free throws.

Amaya, who leads the Valley in scoring and rebounding, led all scorers with 18 points but was held to five boards.

Spookshour said although SIUC held a 31-28 advantage off the glass, Amaya's low total hurt the Salukis' chances.

"We didn't do anything different to neutralize him, and he was playing his heart out," Spookshour said. "The ball just didn’t bounce our way today. If we went out and played again, he would probably pull down 11."

Freshman guard Johnny
Murdoch led the Bears with 11 points.
The Salukis next go on the road to face Indiana State at 6:30 p.m.
Thursday and Bradley at 7 p.m.
Saturday.

and senior Mike Danner took the first three places respectively.

In the 55-meter hurdles senior Ed Williams took first place honors and was closely followed by sophomores Jarrin Williams, third.

Also earning first place honors were junior Bernard Henry, in the 800-meter, Schwartz in the 1,000-meter, and senior Vaughn Harry in the 3,000-meter.

The team took the first four spots in the 35-lb weight throw with junior Jonathan Hirsch in first followed by sophomore Brian Miller, freshman Mark Goodheart and sophomore Tony King.

The personal best for Miller was one of two he earned on the day, as he took first and also set a personal high water mark in the shot put.

King placed third in the event, which gave SIUC two of the top three spots in the event.

In the pole vault, Mike Claycomb took first, followed by Keith Rhine and Steve Long.

Senior Frank Bryan, in the long jump and the triple jump, and Junior Darrin Plab, in the high jump, also took first place honors.

On the down side was an upper leg injury to sophomore Kenyon Rolle, who runs the 55-meter dash and is a member of the relay teams.
