Eckert, Layer sign annexation papers

By David L. Mahsman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale Mayor Neal Eckert and SIU President Robert G. Layer Monday signed documents that will make official partial annexation of the SIU campus, with passage of an annexation ordinance by the city council.

Sitting side by side in the city council chambers at City Hall, Eckert and Layer signed papers that mark the end of a quest for annexation that began with the administration of former Mayor David Keene. Eckert signed the annexation agreement, while Layer signed a letter granting permission to the city to annex the campus east of Highway 51.

The annexation process will be finalized with passage of an annexation ordinance by the city council. Approval of that ordinance is expected Tuesday night.

In signing the agreement, Eckert said that SIU is an integral part of the community, adding that he hopes the city and University will continue to cooperate in the future. He cited redevelopment of downtown Carbondale, recreation and fire and police protection as possible areas of cooperation.

Derge coming early; house made ready

By Chuck Hutchcraft
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

David Derge, SIU's new president, affirmed a report Monday that he plans to get an early start on his new job.

"I will try to do my best to be there sometime during the week of Jan. 17," Derge said. "I am anxious to get to work."

Derge officially begins his job as president on Feb. 1, the same day he steps down from his present position as executive vice president of Indiana University.

According to Willis E. Malone, assistant to the president, Derge is expected here Jan. 15.

"There is a whole agenda of things to be handled and I want to get as much done as I can," Derge said.

Malone also said Derge, when he arrives, will be provided with a temporary residence.

Derge's abode will, for the time being, be a two-story frame and brick veneer house at 810 S. Elizabeth.

The house was occupied by Robert W. MacVicar, former chancellor who resigned in the spring of 1970, and more recently was the office of the University Administrative Council.

Derge said his daughter and son will remain in Bloomington, Ind., at the residence he now occupies, a house he owns. He said his daughter will join him in Carbondale after completing the school year this spring. She is a junior in high school, he said.

Layer commented that he, too, hopes for continuing City-University cooperation. He said he is optimistic for future cooperation between Carbondale and President-elect David R. Derge, who has already met once with Eckert.

Present at the signing beside Eckert and Layer were the city council, city administration and university administration. Layer signed the letter granting permission to annex on behalf of the SIU Board of Trustees. No trustees attended the signing, however.

The agreement signed by Eckert was the annexation agreement approved by the Board of Trustees Nov. 19. At Tuesday's ceremonies, Layer congratulated Eckert for his persistence before the Board. Eckert took over from Keene in seeking annexation after his election last April.

Faculty Council votes 14-12

Pass-fail grading plan approved

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A new pass-fail system in which all undergraduate students in good academic standing can participate has been approved.

The 11-point plan, written by members of the Joint Standing Committee on Undergraduate Education Policy, was approved by the Faculty Council at the council's December meeting. The vote on the plan was 14 to 12. The plan went into effect immediately.

Besides granting the pass-fail option to all undergraduates in good academic standing, the plan divides pass-fail courses into two types—mandatory and elective.

In mandatory pass-fail courses, all students will receive either a "P" or an "F". In addition, pass-fail grades will be mandatory in courses in which, in the judgment of the department or program, the traditional grading system is inappropriate. All proficiency examinations will also be graded pass-fail.

In elective pass-fail courses, students will be able to select either the traditional grading system or the pass-fail option. In addition, the number of elective pass-fail credits will be limited to 24 quarter hours of overall and to 12 quarter hours in any general studies area. Previously, a student could receive only 16 hours of pass-fail credit. Instructors who teach elective pass-fail courses will not be informed which students are taking the courses on a pass-fail basis.

Also included in the new plan are provisions that no course be available under the pass-fail option without prior designation by the department or program in which the course is offered.

Also formal permission of the major department or program be required before a student is permitted to elect pass-fail option be evaluated by Institutional Research prior to the end of the second year and that a report be made to the Joint Standing Committee on Undergraduate Education Policy at the end of the second year.

As far as grading is concerned, neither the "P" nor the "F" will be counted in calculating the grade point average. A grade of "D" or higher is required for a student to receive a "P". A student who earns an "A" or "B" by requesting this change at the office of Admissions and Records before the end of the following term.

The members of the committee who wrote the plan are Harry Ammon, professor in history; Robert Griffin, assistant professor in English; Chester Johnston, assistant professor at the Vocational Technical Institute; Keith Sanders, assistant professor in speech; JoAnne Thrope, associate professor in physical education and chairman of the committee; Robert McGrath, registrar; Jerre Pfaff, assistant director of admissions and Bill Schramm, a sophomore in business.

According to Thrope, over 20 people testified at committee meetings before the plan was written. She said responses were received from the faculty, students and the administration.

Pouncing pooch prompts protest at Student Center

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A complaint was filed Monday concerning a violation of the state health code. According to the Jackson County Health Department, there was a dog in the Student Center.

A spokesman at the Health Department said that the complaint was made by a woman who said that while she was eating in the Student Center cafeteria a dog jumped up onto the table and began eating from her plate. The spokesman did not identify the woman.

Both state and federal law prohibit animals from entering food service areas. Ron Rogers, food service manager at the Student Center, said the incident occurred around 12:30 p.m. He said that if more complaints are filed with the Health Department, legal action might be taken against SIU.

Rogers said that if that were to happen, the Student Center might have to employ a dogcatcher to police the building. Otherwise, lawsuits might have to be filed against dog owners who let dogs come into the Student Center.

Rogers said that he hopes such measures never have to become necessary, and strongly urged dog owners to refrain from bringing their pets into the Student Center.

Objections raised on grading system

The pass-fail idea was first offered by Robert W. MacVicar, vice president for academic affairs in the fall of 1966. At that time the Faculty Council discussed the matter but dropped the question in favor of some problems.

The chief objection raised in the council at that time was that the system was difficult to administer. Since not all the students in a class had to be enrolled for pass-fail grades, the argument went that the instructor's paper work would multiply.

It was argued that since one should above "D" would count as "pass" the courses would be used as a crutch for marginal students.

Although these arguments existed, David E. Christensen, assistant dean of arts and sciences, prepared a plan for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The system started fall quarter of 1968.

The guidelines Christensen established were:

—An overall grade point of 3.25 or higher.

—16 hours of credit would be required towards graduation requirements.

—Credits would be applicable only to elective courses.

—If a student changed majors and wanted to use the grade in his major, an agreement would have to be worked out with the new department in which the grade would be counted towards graduation but not in the grade point average.

"SWEET SWEETBACK" IS COMING

AAUP wants Allen case reconsidered

By Pat Nussman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The president of the campus chapter of the American Association of University Professors said Monday the AAUP hopes to negotiate a reconsideration of the Board of Trustees' decision denying tenure to Douglas M. Allen, assistant professor of philosophy.

Robert Harrell, English faculty member who heads the AAUP chapter, referred to a statement issued during the Christmas break by the organization which said the case should be reopened "on behalf of due process and in pursuit of academic justice. "We hope to reverse the decision," Harrell said.

The AAUP president said negotiations with the Board are anticipated at both the local and national levels of the AAUP.

Allen said Monday that he had talked to the national AAUP before quarter break about his case. "I expect very soon some action from them," Allen said. "When I talked to them before vacation they were very, very interested in the case. I expect them to visit SIU very soon."

Allen said that the American Federation of Teachers also had been in touch with him about the case.

"And just a tremendous number of faculty and students have been in touch with me," Allen said.

He said a suit will be filed against the Board in the courts shortly, possibly as a class action representing all non-tenured faculty in the state.

However, Allen said, if the case actually goes through the courts it may take two years or more.

"But it's not going to drop," Allen said. "It's just going to keep building."

According to the AAUP statement, the decision of the Board to "punish Dr. Allen for exercising his constitutional rights as a citizen" may create distrust within the University and instigate legal action against the University.

"The charge that Dr. Allen promoted divisiveness at the University is inadmissible as a relevant consideration regarding the issue of tenure," the statement said. "In addition to its being inadmissible and irrelevant, the charge was advanced without substantial evidence."

The release cited a 1964 national AAUP committee statement saying:

"The controlling principle is that a faculty member's expression of opinion as a citizen cannot constitute grounds for dismissal unless it clearly demonstrates the faculty member's unfitness for his position."

ARA loses contract bid

SIU gets new vending service

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Operation and maintenance of vending and coin laundry machines at SIU is being handled by new contractors this quarter.

The contractors are Interstate United Corp. of Chicago, which has been operating the food service at the Student Center, for vending machines and a five man group from Decatur and Pana for the laundry machines.

Both firms are under five-year contracts which began Saturday.

In submitting the low bid for the vending machine service, Interstate United offered SIU a commission of 11.4 per cent of gross sales.

ARA Service of Southern Illinois, based in Carbondale, had held the contract since it was first let 10 years ago. Its bid was 9.6 per cent.

According to Carleton Rasche, director of Auxiliary and Service Enterprises, ARA began moving out its estimated 350 machines at the end of fall quarter last month.

Since that time, he said, most of the ARA machines have been removed. Raschi added that all the ARA machines on campus would be replaced by Interstate United machines.

Ron Rogers, food service manager at the Student Center and manager of the Interstate United operation, said that Interstate United has so far installed 190 new machines on campus, 65 of them candy and cigarette machines and the rest canned soda and milk machines. An additional shipment of 60 such machines is expected to arrive Tuesday, he said.

Rogers said that the installation of 100 pastry, sandwich and food machines has been delayed due to problems in transit.

Currently, he said, plans call for new machines to be installed only in areas formerly occupied by ARA machines. Requests for additional locations have been received, he said, but plans for installation have not yet been finalized.

Rogers said the new machines are basically the same as the old machines, because all vending machine companies get their equipment from the same group of manufacturers.

However, he said, Interstate United hopes to provide faster and more efficient maintenance service.

The new contracting firm for the laundry machine operation in its bid offered SIU a 43.61 per cent commission of gross sales, exceeding the 30 per cent that had been paid by the former contractor, Jeffrey Enterprises of Mt. Prospect.

According to Rasche, the manager of the operation is David Fombele, an SIU graduate student. Other members are Norman and Hubert Fombele of Decatur and Darrel Schoonover and Paul Hayes of Pana.

Rasche said that so far, nearly all the 300 washers and dryers in service at SIU housing areas have been replaced by the firm with new machines.

The old machines, said Rasche, are being sold to the public by Jeffrey Enterprises.

Dumbwaiter accident claims worker's life

An accident involving a dumbwaiter took the life of a laborer working at Doctors Memorial Hospital Monday.

Willis Brannon, about 50, of Metropolis, was killed instantly at 9:30 a.m. when a dumbwaiter fell on him while he was working on a drain pipe in the dumbwaiter shaft, according to Dennis Taylor, director of the hospital.

There was no warning sign at the dumbwaiter controls on the third floor of the new wing, where the mechanism was apparently activated, Taylor said. Brannon was working in the basement.

Brannon had been working in the area for some time and apparently neglected to put up a warning sign, Taylor said.

Brannon was an employe of Tibbett's Plumbing and Heating, an Indiana firm, Taylor said.

Jack Gunn, a hospital employe, suffered a wrenched back while attempting to help Brannon. Gunn is in good condition in Doctors Hospital, Taylor said.

Details were not available pending completion of an investigation by Louis Russell, deputy county coroner.

A newsmaker who makes good news

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

It's high time once again to name our Newsmaker of the Year. And in 1971, by unanimous decision of the judges, the award goes to the most knowledgeable, the most peripatetic and by far the most widely quoted spokesman of our Mr. Informed Sources.

Without question, Mr. Sources has made more news than President Nixon, Henry Kissinger and Secretary of State William P. Whathisname combined. No citizen can pick up a newspaper without finding him prominently mentioned in virtually every major story out of Washington.

Who justifies past Government mistakes? Who explains present confused policy? Who predicts what disastrous future moves officials have in mind? Informed Sources, of course. He is literally everywhere.

Mr. Sources lives in the little community of Background on the outskirts of Off-the-Record. There, seven days a week, he energetically makes news.

Understandably, Mr. Sources could not possibly turn out all the news he makes without help. He relies on thousands of Government officials, from the President on down, to supply him with the raw materials.

These officials, whose modesty and shyness precludes their having any desire to make news themselves, dilly send Mr. Sources everything from deflated balloons to that old miracle fabric, Whole Cloth, out of which he creates the day's top stories.

The balloons, of course, he simply inflates and inscribes thereon a message, such as: "How About Agnew for the Supreme Court?" Then he releases it from the cupola to see who shoots it down.

Less spectacular, but more difficult, is weaving news out of Whole Cloth, at which Mr. Sources shows uncanny skill. For example: "America's position in Asia has greatly improved thanks to the U.S. maintaining a strict neutrality in the conflict, Informed Sources said today."

Even Mr. Sources' detractors admit that the news he makes is almost invariably good. When he does have to make a bit of bad news, he always does his level best to sugar coat the pill:

"Inflation will be curbed once for all, Informed Sources said today, once Congress passes the 75 per cent tax increase the Administration is now going to be forced to propose if the economy is to be saved."

But on the whole, the news Mr. Sources makes is good. In fact, the old record book shows that 86.2 per cent of his news is good—86.2 per cent and 93.1 per cent inaccurate.

Interview from space

To the Daily Egyptian:

I was strolling along the lake the other day when, to my surprise and embarrassment, I discovered a flying saucer. Two spacelings appeared in the doorway. They were stumpy, obese, and resembled badly scorched turnips. With an extremely incredulous expression on my face I asked, "Who are you?"

To this they replied, "We are Observers from the planet Observia. We have come to the planet Earth to do a report on its condition, and we have a very serious problem. That is why we have come to you."

"What can I help you fellows with?" I asked regaining my composure.

"We would like to ask you questions concerning things we have seen on earth," they stated.

"Shoot!," I punned, I realized the importance of establishing levity in this critical, diplomatic, situation.

"First, we want to know why you earthlings are destroying yourselves," the spacemen said.

I laughed cheerfully and asked, "Destroying ourselves? What ever gave you that idea?"

The visitors answered, "Your nation is the richest one in the world. Yet you spend most of your money making war weapons while people in your country, not to mention other countries, don't have enough to eat."

"But we must defend ourselves against foreign invasion," I politely explained. I looked down and saw the Observians peering at each other with bewildered expressions.

"This brings us to another question," they continued. "You are at odds with a country that holds to a different political belief, right?"

"Yes," I replied.

"You are a democracy while they are a dictatorship or oligarchy, right?"

"Most definitely!," I shouted, hoping oligarchy meant what I thought it did.

"Then why do you spend the same amount on war weapons that they do? We understand there are enough nuclear weapons on earth to destroy it 18 times," they added.

"Our people chose to build these weapons," I replied. "The people in our enemies countries had no choice." I was becoming rather perturbed. These foreigners obviously possessed no knowledge of political machinery.

"Oh!," Then your country represents the wishes of the people?" they asked.

"You're right," I exclaimed. "That's the difference!"

"Then why is your country involved in a war which 75 per cent of your people oppose?"

"You don't understand," I cried. "We must protect ourselves from our enemies. Have you ever heard of the Domino Theory?"

The spacemen looked at each other disgustedly. Then they returned to their spaceship. They took off just as my roommate came running. "Hey, who was THAT?," he asked.

Coughing from the cosmic dust, I replied, "Oh, just a couple of commies. By the way, do you know what oligarchy means?"

Daily Egyptian Opinion & Commentary

EDITORIALS—The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters on these pages. Editorials—labeled Opinion—are written and signed by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only.

LETTERS—Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters which must be signed with name, classification and major, or faculty rank, address and telephone number. Letters should be typewritten, and their length should not exceed 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are expected to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend on limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, and authorship of all letters must be verified by the Daily Egyptian. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other materials on pages four and five include editorials and articles reprinted from other publications, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

Students will answer

To the Daily Egyptian:

On Dec. 8, the Egyptian headlined the story that the Free School may close, a victim, in the words of Paul Costello, "of overwhelming student apathy." Though student apathy is certainly a major contributing factor, it is by no means the whole story. My experience teaching Esperanto in the Free School this fall has convinced me that when viable alternatives to the regular curriculum are offered, the students respond.

Facts of life

To the Daily Egyptian:

Reverend James Genisio is not only trying to force Catholic dogma and theology on his own parishioners, but also, by fighting the repeal of the compulsory pregnancy laws, is forcing it on the rest of us. We who have not been so indoctrinated consider his stand, theologically, psychologically, and realistically speaking, medieval and uninformed. We would not propose to interfere with his right to practice even voodoo if he so desires. However, it seems to those of us who are working to liberate all women from a patriarchal society that Aristotle's philosophy of "...woman is to man as the slave to master, the manual to the mental worker, the barbarian to the Greek..." still holds too generally. We do not think Rev. Genisio should try, as Cardinal Cushing is reported to have said, to "influence civil law by his private morality."

We would point out that Rev. Genisio begs the real issue. The issue is not whether there is a soul or, if there is, when it enters the body. These are hypothetical questions for academic argument. Rather, the issue is how to cope unjustly with the estimated 1,200,000 illegal abortions performed in the United States each year. (A few parallel statistics which might focus on this subject as a global issue are: in Hungary there are yearly 180,000 legal abortions to 148,000 live births; the illegal abortion rate in Uruguay is estimated to be two-and-one-half times the birth rate; in Roman Catholic Chile, 27 per cent of all women have had abortions at one time or another. In Roman Catholic France the number of abortions equals the number of live births.) The issue, then, Rev. Genisio, is a fact of life. The battle to sell your particular morality to nearly one-and-one-half million women every year and a different one-and-one-half million women each year has failed. Your stand does not and will not stop the illegal or the legal abortion stampede. What it does is place squarely on your shoulders and the shoulders of those that take your point of view the responsibility for forcing 1,200,000 women each year to seek illegal abortions, many in the dingy holes of malicious butchers, or to mutilate themselves in an endeavor to dislodge the fetus, or to go to their death from septicemia. Some are even subjected to rapists who take advantage of them while they are under anesthesia. The wealthy fly to New York or Washington, Europe or Japan, where, incidentally, an abortion costs $17. There, qualified physicians practicing sterile techniques perform either a dilatation and curettage or use the vacuum aspiration method where a bit of formless protoplasm, much like an egg white, is drawn from the uterus.

The stand of Rev. Genisio, then, fosters but one more discriminatory law upon the poor, the guilt-ridden and the uninformed.

The compulsory pregnancy laws in America must be abolished. We feel sure that when woman awakens from her guilt-ridden sleep (a sleep if not begun by Aristotle, at least reinforced by him through his philosophy and nurtured by the church beginning with Saul of Tarsus, later known as Saint Paul) her sheer numbers will gain for her the natural rights, through her right to vote out of office the timid, the biased, and the dishonest.

Letters to the editor

Panel will talk about procedures

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

With the hope of having a completed draft ready by the end of winter quarter, the Community Conduct Code Committee will continue discussing the question of procedures at its Wednesday meeting.

At the committee's Dec. 15 meeting, action was taken to make the Community Conduct Review Board (CCRB) a purely appellate body.

By unanimous voice vote, the committee members approved a resolution which limits review by the CCRB to questions of sufficient evidence, the uniformity of interpretation of the code and the reasonableness of penalties.

A resolution stating that no new evidence is to be presented in appeals hearings before the CCRB also was approved. Any new evidence in appeals cases must be presented before a reconvened hearing at the trial level.

Decisions by a sub-judicial board must be made in the manner prescribed by the individual constituency and shall be final. Appeals to the CCRB of sub-judicial decisions can occur only when there is question of the sub-judicial board's jurisdiction, or in conflicts between rules of the sub-judicial system and the conduct code, or in presence of some evidence to support the sub-judicial system's findings and in questions of compatibility of penalties, made by the sub-judicial system and those provided in the code.

In addition to the work done on procedures, the committee approved inclusion of an additional violation in the code. The code now contains a provision which makes it a violation to fail to comply with prohibitory or regulatory signs posted by an authorized University official. The provision was passed in order to encompass the question of smoking in certain parts of the University and the problem of the enforcement of authorized signs.

The Dec. 15 meeting was the last as a committee member for Wilbur Moulton, assistant to the executive vice president, who has gone on sabbatical leave. Replacing him on the committee will be Emil Spees, acting dean of student services.

SIU ranks 19th

SIU is listed as 19th largest university in the United States in terms of fulltime students, according to a national report.

It is the fourth straight year SIU has been ranked in the "Top 30" of the nation's universities, although it slipped from 18th to 19th in fulltime student enrollment. By total student head count (which includes part-time and extension students), SIU is listed 20th, a drop of three places from last year.

SIU is one of two Illinois schools ranked in the "Top 30." The University of Illinois is listed eighth, with 48,778 fulltime students at its Urbana and Chicago campuses.

The "unitary" state college systems of the State University of New York and the California State Colleges continue to run one-two in the "Top 30." SIU ranks immediately behind Louisiana State University and ahead of such other large state schools as Washington, Purdue, Kentucky, Massachusetts, and Rutgers.

Muskie in as Illinois contender

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, Monday entered the Illinois presidential primary the first contender for the nation's highest office to do so.

The primary is a popularity contest and nothing more, with delegates to the national convention running on slates quite apart from the candidates.

Both Muskie and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., are organizing slates of delegate candidates to run in Illinois outside the Chicago area. Those slates must submit their petitions between Jan. 12-19.

James A. Johnson, a national political coordinator for Muskie, filed the petitions containing some 4,500 signatures at 2 p.m. The deadline for filing was 5 p.m.

"We said we want to give voters the opportunity to express their preference and, quite simply, that is why we filed in the Illinois primary," Johnson said.

Muskie signed the petitions during a brief airport stopover in Springfield Dec. 21.

The occasion marked the first time that Muskie—or any candidate—filed petitions to get his name on a presidential primary election ballot anywhere in the country.

Although Illinois' is the third such primary this year, it has the earliest filing deadline of any.

Johnson said that Muskie might campaign in Illinois later this month but that his plans are uncertain.

He added that the senator would definitely make several trips to the state before the March 21 primary.

Bid opening slated today

By University News Services

Bids on a primary electrical feeder line to the site of the new Humanities-Social Sciences Building will be called in Tuesday.

The 12,500 kilovolt line will replace overhead utilities that were torn out when the site was cleared. It will extend to an open area south of Anthony Hall, location of a proposed administration building.

Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. in the campus architect's office.

Music seniors to be featured in Sunday recital

By University News Service

Pamela Wernick of Skokie, piano, and Alan L. Shlachter of Morton Grove, oboe, will present a joint senior recital Friday at 8 p.m. in the Home Economics Building auditorium.

Shlachter will be assisted by Donald Marler of Poplar Bluff, Mo., harpsichord.

The public is invited to attend without charge.

Campus briefs

A hotel and restaurant management specialist has been appointed associate professor of food and nutrition, effective at the opening of the winter quarter. Pohle H. Wolfe, who comes from a division directorship at the Community College of Denver, from 1968 to 1970 served as administrator of a $12 million school food program for the state of Colorado.

He previously had taught hotel and restaurant management at Florida State University, Tallahassee. His work in the food and nutrition department at SIU will be to strengthen the department's institution management program, according to Thomas M. Brooks, dean of the School of Home Economics.

Sixteen persons with direct interests in adult education, who were enrolled in a seminar in adult education during the fall quarter, will continue with the work during the winter quarter. Harry Miller, assistant professor of secondary education who has charge of the seminar, said the bulk of those enrolled are persons involved in the Continuing Education Center at Eldorado and the Egyptian Adult Education Center at Cairo, including their directors, Charles Greer of Eldorado and Duane Webb of Cairo. Others include two regional coordinators in the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction and a teacher at the Marion Penitentiary.

The winter course is open to others concerned with adult education. Interested persons may contact Miller or Dean Stuck, assistant dean for graduate studies and research in the College of Education. Part of the focus of the winter quarter will be developing curricula for adult education teachers, a study of the marketabilities of persons trained in the programs, and a look at directions to be taken.

Three graduate students and a 1968 graduate had works shown in the art exhibit "Women '71" held by Northern Illinois University, DeKalb—the first regional all-woman show in the country. They were Sarah Capps of Belle Rive, Doris Jarowsky of West Allis, Wis., Marcia Selsor of Philadelphia and Marcia Zelmanoff, also of Philadelphia and who received the master of fine arts degree in 1968.

Miss Capps' entry was a sterling silver mask, a photograph of which appeared in the exhibition catalog; Miss Jarowsky's a sterling silver "Petite Pot;" Miss Selsor's a stoneware teapot and Miss Zelmanoff's a miniature silver sculpture, "Princess."

Two research articles by Robert Zitter, professor of physics, appeared in recent scientific publications.

Zitter's "Raman Spectra of Arsenic, Antimony and Bismuth" has been published in the book, "The Physics of Semimetals and Small Band-Gap Semiconductors." "Raman Detection of Tellurium on Surfaces of Cadmium Telluride" is a contribution to the journal, "Surface Science."

Pentagon admits weather hampered N. Vietnam raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bad weather over North Vietnam forced U.S. pilots to pass up a number of important military targets during last week's heavy air raids, the Pentagon acknowledged today for the first time.

A spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said between 35 and 40 military targets were struck as planned but several others were spared because of the poor flying weather during the five days of attacks.

Friedheim said he could not rule out the possibility of resuming the attacks once the weather cleared, but quickly added, "neither do I anticipate any new raids."

Friedheim's remarks added support to news reports from Vietnam that results of the five-day bombing campaign were not as successful as hoped.

President Nixon said on national television Sunday night the bombing raids were "very, very effective," and would enable him to continue American troop withdrawals from the war zone.

Even though some targets were missed, Friedheim asserted that the Pentagon leadership feels the overall results will show they will have been effective in allowing the administration to continue the troop withdrawals, and keep U.S. casualties in Vietnam at a low level.

He said the targets hit included fuel points, logistics, transshipment points and the enemy's air defense network. About 75 to 80 per cent of the targets were between the Demilitarized Zone DMZ and the 18th parallel. However, he said the fog and rain that has hampered pilots still prevented a complete target-by-target analysis of the raids which began the day after Christmas.

Art exhibition opens Thursday; 40 masterpieces on display

By University News Services

An art exhibit of 40 works by European masters will open Thursday at Mitchell Gallery. The collection has been loaned to SIU by the Madison (Wis.) Art Center and will be on display until Jan. 24.

All of the artists represented now are considered as masters, according to Ernest L. Graubner, assistant curator of University Galleries. Though most of them were active in the 19th century, there are examples of earlier artists, such as Rembrandt, Durer, Claude Lorraine, and also early 20th century work by Vlaminck, Roualt, Picasso, Leger, Bonnard, Laurencin, Derain and Matisse.

One of the richest, if not the most popular period of art history is that which occurred in Europe during the 19th and early 20th centuries, Graubner said. "Most studies concerned with the exposition of modern art attempt to look at the first quarter of the 19th century as the beginning of the modern epoch."

Psychologist to conduct colloquium

William A. Scott, University of Colorado social psychologist who has studied socialization processes in prisons, universities and mental hospitals in this country and abroad, will conduct a research colloquium at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Morris Library Auditorium.

The colloquium, cosponsored by the sociology and psychology departments and the Center for Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections, will deal with "Comparative Validities of Direct and Indirect Personality Tests."

Scott has done research in attitude assessment, structure of cognition and socialization in the United States and in New Zealand and Japan.

It is for this reason that this exhibition emphasizes art produced in the 1800's."

Starting with the early part of the century, there are examples by Blake, Goya, Delacroix and Gericault. Next, chronologically, are works by Meryon, Monet and Isaby as well as Corot, Millet and Daubigny, associated with the Baroison School.

The latter part of the century is represented by Daumier, Redon, Toulouse-Lautrec, Pissarro, Renoir, Cezanne and Gauguin.

Visiting hours at the Mitchell Gallery, located in the Home Economics Building, are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays. There is no admission charge.

Nelson steps down from Senate post

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Randall Nelson has resigned from the University Senate, in which he has been serving as chairman of the Campus Management Standing Committee.

David Kenney, president of the senate, said Monday that Nelson had resigned officially from the senate and has been replaced by Robert Campbell, assistant professor at the Rehabilitation Institute.

Kenney said that a new chairman had not been named for the Campus Management Committee. Nelson is chairman of the Department of Government.

"I don't know if he (Nelson) gave any reason for the resignation," Kenney said.

A rumor had been circulating that Nelson resigned from the senate in order to serve as chairman of the Jackson County Citizens Committee for Paul Simon, Democratic candidate for governor. Nelson is heading the Simon campaign locally.

When contacted Monday, however, Nelson emphasized that his resignation had nothing to do with the Simon campaign or his personal feelings about the senate.

"I made a commitment to myself not to seek reelection to the senate from the Graduate School Council (Nelson's constituency). I simply felt that I wasn't prepared to continue any further than this fall," he said.

Members of the senate were supposed to have been changed early in fall quarter by the various constituencies. In order to avoid confusion, however, many of the constituencies retained the same representatives.

Nelson said he had written a letter of resignation before Simon contacted him about working in the political campaign. According to Nelson's secretary, the letter of resignation was sent on Oct. 13. Nelson said he received a call from Simon in early November.

Pakistan leader seeks peace talks with India

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto declared his willingness Monday to release Sheikh Mujibur Rahman unconditionally and called on India for peace talks.

The sheik, under arrest in West Pakistan since last March, has been proclaimed the president of independent Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan, by Bengali rebels.

Speaking at a rally here, Bhutto said he would release Sheikh Mujib after at least one more talk with him.

Shortly after becoming president last month, Bhutto freed the sheik from prison and ordered him held under house arrest. On Dec. 27 he conferred with Mujib, as the sheik is familiarly known, and said more talks would be in store.

Bhutto went to the Karachi rally Monday and told the throng he was asking the people's permission to free Mujib. The crowd responded: "Yes."

Presumably Mujib would be allowed to go to Bangladesh.

The return of Sheikh Mujib, a 54-year-old former insurance salesman turned politician, should serve as a stabilizing force in Bangladesh, where he has been considered the only major political leader with a mass following.

His Awami League won 167 of the 169 East Pakistani seats in the December 1970 National Assembly elections for an absolute majority in the 313-member legislature.

The remaining seats went to West Pakistan, where Bhutto's National Peoples party gained a majority, although it formed only a minority in the East Pakistan-dominated National Assembly.

Mujib has served nearly 10 years in prison since Pakistan became independent in 1947, always going to jail for the cause of Bengali nationalism.

Mujib is considered the father of the Bangladesh independence movement, although his Awami League always declared it stood only for greater autonomy of East Pakistan, not outright independence.

His followers, however, declared themselves independent of Pakistani rule last March 26, a few hours after Pakistan's army moved to quell the Awami League movement.

All SIU engineering options receive official accreditation

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Official accreditation has been granted to the undergraduate engineering program by the Engineers' Council for Professional Development, according to President Robert Lauer.

Lauer, in making the announcement, said that accreditation includes all the engineering options offered

Seminar for designers scheduled

The SIU Department of Design has announced a series of seminars to be held weekly on Wednesdays from 4 to 5 p.m. in the design department's conference room.

The topics will be of interest and potential utility to the "designer" in the broadest sense of the term; he who consciously effects positive change in his environment.

Speakers will be design students and SIU faculty members.

Featured at Wednesday's first session will be James Sullivan, assistant professor in the art department. He will speak on "The Preceptarium: A Novel Interactive Learning Environment."

The seminars are open to all students and faculty members.

in the School of Engineering and Technology. Those include electrical sciences and systems engineering, engineering mechanics and materials, and thermal and environmental engineering.

The ECPD is the recognized professional accrediting body for engineering programs in the United States. The decision, Lauer said, came at an ECPD board of directors meeting in San Francisco. It was based mainly on reports and evaluations of a four-man inspection team which paid a final pre-accreditation visit to SIU last February.

Thomas Jefferson, dean of the School of Technology, said that the ECPD accreditation was an important step in the development of the engineering program. He said accreditation is confirmation that our programs meet the ECPD standards.

Jefferson said that before accreditation could be given the four-man inspection team looked at all aspects of the program, such as appropriate balance, faculty, finances, curriculum, laboratories and facilities.

SIU becomes the fifth accredited engineering program in Illinois. Others are at the University of Illinois, Illinois Institute of Technology, Bradley University and Northwestern University.

The Illinois state legislature first authorized SIU to grant engineering degrees in 1959. However, none were awarded until much later in 1965. Jefferson said the gap was probably due to building of the program itself.

He said enrollment right now has been coming along in a "healthy way." Presently, there are about 460 students in the engineering program. In 1971, 27 undergraduate degrees in engineering were awarded by the School of Engineering and Technology.

Jefferson emphasized that ECPD standards are flexible with their main interest being in the quality of the program.

Nixon put on primary ballot

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — President Nixon's name was submitted Monday for the ballot in New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary, where he launched his drive for the White House in 1968.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., also announced, in Manchester, that he was a candidate for his party's nomination and said he would campaign in the state for the March 7 election.

Former Gov. Lane Dwinell, head of a citizen's group campaigning for Nixon, filed petitions to get the President's name on the ballot.

Dwinell said he had more than 1,000 signatures on the petitions from each of the state's two congressional districts—twice the number required. He predicted the President would win the contest "very handily."

Dwinell said he had not conferred with the White House before filing the petitions, but was informing Nixon in a letter of the action. Nixon will have 10 days after the primary filing period ends Thursday to keep or remove his name from the ballot.

Governance group eyes vote method

Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The procedure for electing University Senate officers will be one of the main topics of the Governance Committee meeting 4 p.m. Tuesday at University Senate House.

Elections for senate officers are presently conducted at the senate's first regular meeting in November. Nominations for the offices are made from the floor of the senate.

The senate officers are elected by written ballot and serve for one year or until their successors are elected. Their term of office begins at the close of the meeting at which they are elected.

No Senate officer is supposed to hold more than one office at a time. An officer is not eligible to serve more than two consecutive terms in the same office. If a senate member serves as an officer in one of the constituent bodies, he is ineligible to serve as a senate officer.

In the agenda sent to members of the Governance Committee, the possibility of having nominations in November and elections in December is mentioned.

"This is part of the process of review of the senate," said William

Lewis, chairman of the Governance Committee. "We are working toward a senate elected at a certain time, inaugurated at a certain time and officers elected at a certain time."

In addition to the election procedure, the committee will consider the status of the Committee on Convocations and Commencement.

Lewis said the convocation committee is now a presidential committee. Lewis said Wilbur McDaniel, chairman of the convocation committee, and Andrew Marce, secretary of the convocation committee, will be at the Governance Committee meeting.

McDaniel said Monday he had no recommendations to make to the Governance Committee. He said he had been contacted by President Robert G. Laver concerning the possibility of including the Committee on Convocations and Commencement under the campus governance system. McDaniel said he would try to provide any information the Governance Committee would want concerning the convocation committee.

McGovern claims

'War prisoners could be free'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said Monday North Vietnam would release U.S. prisoners of war in exchange for a deadlined American withdrawal from South Vietnam, and added that Communist negotiators told him so last September.

In a statement and a news conference, McGovern, who seeks the Democratic presidential nomination, accused Nixon of deception in his Sunday night statement that such a suggestion had been spurned by the Communists.

McGovern said that during a visit to Paris last September, he asked Communist negotiators whether North Vietnam would release U.S. prisoners in exchange for, and at the same rate as, a total withdrawal of American forces.

"They said 'That's precisely what we have in mind,'" McGovern said.

McGovern also accused Nixon of political motivation in timing administration decisions on the war. "It seems to me any plan he has for ending this war is geared to his election timetable," said McGovern.

"The President wants us to think that by bombing North Vietnam that's going to persuade the other side to release out prisoners," McGovern said.

Nixon said in a CBS television interview that North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris said "no deal" would be made on that basis.

Ally base shelled by Vietcong

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese gunners in Laos have been lying low until U.S. strike planes change shifts, and then blasting the U.S.-backed Long Cheng guerrilla base with dawn and dusk barrages, informed sources say.

The U.S. Command in Saigon refuses to give specific information on strikes in Laos and Cambodia, which currently are the major part of direct U.S. involvement in the Indochina war. It also refuses to say specifically why it refuses.

Sources in Vientiane reported however, that "fairly intense" weekend mortar and artillery barrages kept up pressure on Long Cheng, base of an army of Meo tribesmen supported by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The base is in rugged terrain 78 miles northeast of Vientiane and about 20 miles southwest of the Plain of Jars, which the North Vietnamese overran in a pre-Christmas offensive that was not blunted by massive U.S. air attacks.

By day, U.S. jets hammer North Vietnamese positions between the Plain and Long Cheng, the sources said Sunday. At night, the air attacks are taken over by propeller-driven "Spooky" gunships that light up the ground with flares and pound the areas where muzzle flashes are seen.

In between, the enemy gunners open up, the informants said. Casualties at Long Cheng were described as "very light" because the base has been evacuated of civilians. Damage to buildings was termed "moderate."

U.S. B52 bombers also have been reported committed to stemming the 15,000-20,000-man North Vietnamese campaign in northern Laos.

And the U.S. Command said Monday the high-flying bombers were continuing to strike at enemy supply routes in Laos' southern panhandle bordering South Vietnam and southern North Vietnam.

President Nixon claimed that last week's five-day air campaign over North Vietnam was "very, very effective." In a televised interview, Nixon linked this with an indication that he would accelerate U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam.

The U.S. Command here announced a relatively low 1,300-man troop cut for last week. This leaves 16,000 more men to go in order to meet the Feb. 1 target of 139,000. But reductions of more than 4,500 have been announced.

Photographs' poetry highlighted in winter issue of Grassroots

By Randy Thomas
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Photographs and poetry are featured in the winter issue of Grassroots, SIU's student literary magazine, scheduled to go on sale Wednesday.

According to the editor Franklin Spector, this issue introduces a new format, new display type and a change in page size from 9 by 10 to 9 3/4 by 8 inches.

Spector said that all of the changes are aimed at placing more attention on graphics in order to make the magazine "more visually attractive."

The new page size, which may vary from issue to issue, will allow the editors more freedom and flexibility in layouts, Spector said.

The cover features, for the first time, a glossy wraparound photograph instead of the usual plain printed cover.

The 36-page magazine features 16 pages of photographs by Kae Meighan, Terry Reed, John Chunn and Jim Matusik and poems by Bruce Ashby, Juan Chacartegui, David Reid Clark, William Dickerson, Charles Gilpin, Ian S. MacNiven, Robert Randolph, Floyd Skloot and Spector.

The number of copies printed was increased from 1,500 to 2,000 with this issue. Spector said the staff is shooting for an increase to 3,500 by the end of this year if sales permit.

Grassroots, which is published by the student government, welcomes submissions of poetry, short stories, art work, and photographs by any interested student. All copy for the next issue should be submitted to the grassroots office in the Student Center by February 11.

Larry Busch

Drum major proud of marching unit

By Joey Satterfield
Student Writer

There are a lot of people at SIU that hold impressive titles but they are never seen. There is one person that is seen quite a bit during the fall quarters, and holds the only title of its kind at SIU. That person is Larry Busch, drum major-field director for the Marching Salukis.

Busch, a five-year veteran of directing a marching band, has marched with the SIU Marching Salukis in Green Bay, Wis.; directed the Marching Salukis from the field at Busch (no relation) Memorial Stadium at St. Louis; led the SIU Homecoming Parade; brings the Marching Salukis from the Arena to McAndrew Stadium; and of course directs the band at all football games.

Busch says he starts conditioning himself at the beginning of each fall quarter. He says he weighs close to 300 pounds and running down a football field can require some coordination. He admits that coordination is not the only attribute a drum major needs. He says that holding the arms above the head and directing a band can get fatiguing, so he works with his arm and neck muscles the most during the marching season.

Busch was no amateur drum major when he started with the Marching Salukis. He directed his hometown marching band, at McCluer, Ill., for two years. Before accepting the drum major position at SIU, Busch attended a drum majors school at Lebanon Junction, Ky. The instructor at the school, A.R. Casavant, is renowned to band directors and drum majors, he said. Busch says that many of the Marching Salukis marching methods originated with Casavant.

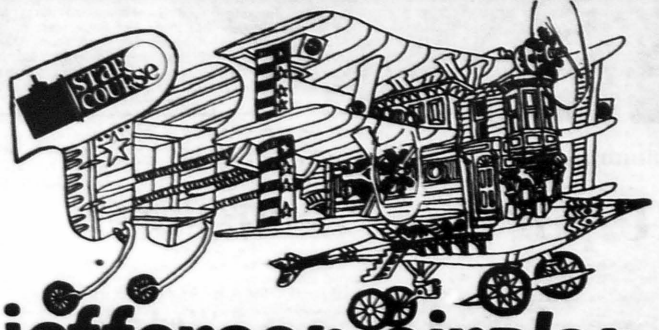

Busch, a senior, says he does not expect to return to the field with the Marching Salukis next year. He would like to direct a marching band, preferably his own. He is majoring in Music Education and wants to teach high school general music and band.

Busch is proud of the Marching Salukis. He even admits that the Marching Salukis brought him to SIU. He relates that while he was still in high school he saw the SIU band perform at Busch Memorial Stadium and was so impressed that sheer curiosity in the style of marching by the Marching Salukis brought him to SIU.

Looking back upon the times he directed the SIU band before huge crowds he says that all the people didn't bother him; he just enjoyed the attention.

As far as making mistakes while directing or marching he says he cannot remember very many, and the mistakes he does remember he says were so insignificant that only he knew that he made them.

Hamming it up

SIU music professor Nicholas Koenigstein talks to people all over the world with his amateur radio equipment that he built himself.

SIU prof goes 'on the air'

By Larry Glowacki
Student Writer

Nick Koenigstein settled back in the chair behind his desk in Altgeld Hall, encircled by an array of awards and photographs attesting to his musical ability.

Tall and lanky in a pumpkin shirt and green tie, the 43-year-old SIU band director grinned across his desk, and his eyes brightened at the mention of amateur radio.

"I got into electronics as a hobby after I built a hi-fi kit," he said. "I really wasn't into amateur radio at the time, but got into it after building hi-fi's and tape recorders."

A graduate of the University of Western Kentucky, Koenigstein taught at the University of Eastern Kentucky for 11 years. At Eastern Kentucky, he audited a few courses in electronics, and an instructor asked him to join a ham club. Afterwards he took correspondence courses in radio and tv repair.

Koenigstein first got into ham radio in Carbondale. He saw an ad about a meeting for ham beginners, and attended. He studied the Morse code (a must) on his own, and got his novice license from an SIU student. He now has an advanced class license.

His own equipment or "rig" includes a 100-watt transceiver and a 35-foot antenna (inverted V). He can work the 80, 40, 20 and 15 meter bands. Money is no object in ham radio.

"You can spend as much on an antenna as on a rig," he said. But it is cheaper to build or "home-brew" your own equipment.

"You can start a station very cheaply, for $20 or less. Of course there's no limit to where you can go in price," he said. Right now he is working on a piece of home-brew equipment, an amplifier in the neighborhood of 700-800 watts, through which he plans to reach Europe.

Koenigstein spends several hours a day in front of his rig in his basement. He spends at least 30 minutes on the air every morning before he begins his day on campus.

As an involved ham, Koenigstein belongs to several "nets" or networks which he checks into in the late afternoon hours. Some of the nets include the Illinois Post Office Net, which is similar to the telegram service, and the Kentucky Traffic Net, through which he keeps up with events in his home state, particularly his home town of Bowling Green.

On Monday evenings he tunes in the International Music Hams Club, a personal favorite.

For several hours in the evening, Koenigstein contacts some friends, or just roams the bands and engages in a few "rag chew" sessions. Some regular contacts include a musician, and SIU faculty member's father in Maine and friends in Bowling Green. And, of course, his social contacts.

TV coverage planned for poll year politics

By University News Services

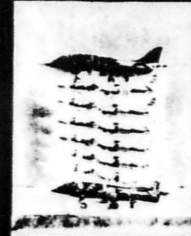

Election year politics will receive comprehensive coverage during 1972 on network television programs carried on WSU-TV Channel 8, Carbondale, and WUSI-TV, Channel 16, Olney.

The lineup of shows which begin in January will include weekly reports on election issues by two of television's top journalists, confrontations between Democratic hopefuls for the Presidential nomination and William F. Buckley, Jr. on the show "Firing Line," and a debate over Vice President Agnew's qualifications for reelection on "The Advocates."

Political programming on the Public Broadcasting Service network will begin Friday at 7 p.m. with five influential conservatives appearing on the 90-minute special "American Conservatives Confront 1972." Joining anchorman William F. Buckley, Jr. will be California Governor Ronald Reagan, economist Milton Friedman, New York Senator James Buckley, and former Congresswoman and Ambassador Claire Booth Luce.

In mid-January the network will air a special State of the Union telecast, and throughout the year there will be special coverage of the White House and major congressional hearings.

Ellen Peck to open winter Convo series

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ellen Peck, controversial author of the book "The Baby Trap," will kick off the Winter Quarter Convocation Series Thursday, Jan. 13, with a lecture on childless marriages.

The major conclusion of the book is that childless marriages are happier. Her thesis has drawn support from marriage counselors, organizations concerned with over population and from many couples, both with and without children.

Mrs. Peck also has a syndicated young-adult advice column which appears regularly in papers like the Chicago Tribune, the Baltimore Sun, the Houston Chronicle and 37 other similar newspapers.

Following Mrs. Peck, on Jan. 20 will be Julia Meade lecturing on "Who Needs to be Liberated?" Miss Meade attempts to provide the other side to women's liberation.

"All my life as an actress, singer, businesswoman and comedienne I had thought that I was liberated.

And now the women's liberation movement tells me that I am not," she said. Her lecture is designed to prove that she has been and is liberated.

On Jan. 20 Jack Aranson will stage a one-man show based on Herman Melville's novel, "Moby Dick."

Aranson tries to highlight familiar characters from the book, who are caught up in one man's lust for revenge.

In February SIU will be visited by a group of Iroquois Indians, calling themselves the White Roots of Peace. They will give a variety presentation showing the Indians' views of peace, brotherhood and the relationships with their environment.

Bernie Travis will portray Lenny Bruce at the Feb. 10 Convocation. Travis, who plays Bruce in new movie, "The Lenny Bruce Story: Dirtymouth," has been called the "new Lenny Bruce of today."

On Feb. 23 Joanna Featherstone will present a one-woman show of readings acts and pantomimes of Afro-American poetry. She has appeared in a number of plays on Broadway including "Great White Hope."

Closing the February Convocations will be the Houston Ballet performing a new repertoire of classic and modern ballet. The new company of 16 dancers has toured colleges and universities in the South, Southwest and West.

Bill Barnes and his trio will play calypso and Spanish songs for the Mar. 2 Convocation. And wrapping up the series will be the Preservation Hall Jazz Band of New Orleans. The musicians from this famed band will play another show besides Convocation.

All the Convocation shows are free, open to the public, and held at 1 p.m. on Thursdays. Student Government sponsors coffee hours directly following each program.

Arts and sciences faculty approves governing system

By University News Service

Faculty members in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences have approved overwhelmingly a new governing system for the college.

The outgrowth of 17 months of deliberation by an LAS "Task Force on Democratization," the operating paper sets up a new council of the college with 30 voting members, including nine students.

The council has the authority to establish college policies to be administered by the dean. Included in the body are committees with duties covering such areas as academic policy, teaching and learning, tenure and promotion, budget, and grievances.

The council also has the job of setting up search committees to fill any vacancies in the dean's chair, via nominations to the University president.

Roger Beyler, LAS dean, called it a "fine paper, very thoroughly worked out." A movement to liberalize the college operating paper began in May, 1970, after SIU was closed down by student disturbances.

A major change is the council membership. The previous group included only five voting faculty members chaired by the dean. Five graduate students on the council had only "advisory" voting powers.

The revised governing structure includes 21 faculty members, seven each from the areas of social and behavioral sciences, basic sciences and the humanities. Elections will be by faculty voting in each area.

One graduate student and two undergraduates will represent each of the areas, with full voting authority.

The council will elect its own chairman, faculty vice-chairman and student vice-chairman.

Beyler said the new governing paper has been forwarded to President Robert G. Layer. Council elections may be scheduled for late January.

Starting gate is nearly full

Candidates enter '72 presidential derby

WASHINGTON (AP)—The crowded starting gate is almost filled for the 1972 presidential derby with President Nixon's name going on the New Hampshire ballot Monday and Sen. Vance Hartke lining up.

Democratic frontrunner Edmund S. Muskie is scheduled to make his entry official on nationwide television Tuesday night. That leaves only 1968 Democratic nominee Hubert H. Humphrey to jump in an complete the field, which he is expected to do next week—bringing the Democratic list to 10. Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace, who ran for his American Independent party in 1968, hasn't announced yet for 1972, but staff members have disclosed he will be in the Democratic primaries in Pennsylvania, Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina and possibly other states.

At a news conference in Manchester, N.H., Monday Hartke announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination. The senior senator from Indiana said he would decide on whether to enter other primaries after completing his organization for the March 7 New Hampshire voting.

At the same time petitions were filed in Concord to get Nixon's name on the presidential preference primary ballot in New Hampshire.

The action came close after Nixon said in a television interview Sunday night he would be ready with a formal announcement by Jan. 14, the deadline for filing a slate of New Hampshire Republicans pledged to support him at the GOP nominating convention.

Nixon all but announced for reelection Sunday night, saying he foresaw no such circumstances as led Lyndon B Johnson not to seek another term in 1968. Nixon also indicated he would keep Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on the ticket.

Before Hartke, the latest Democratic entry was New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, who announced his candidacy in Miami Dec. 28. Lindsay left the Republican party last Aug. 11.

First to announce was antiwar crusader George McGovern of South Dakota, who opened the bidding on Jan. 19, 1971.

Nixon's opposition in the Republican ranks comes from Reps. Paul N. McCloskey of California on the left, and John Ashbrook of Ohio on the right.

Radio auditions scheduled by WSIU this week

Auditions will be conducted for WSIU radio announcers on Wednesday and Thursday from 6 to 8 p.m.

Everyone interested in on the air experience is invited to attend the auditions in Room 52 of the Communications Building on either Wednesday or Thursday evening. Positions open include announcers for newscasts, music and interview programs.

Busy wrestlers face eight foes this month

By Ernie Schweit
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Busy. That's just what the SIU wrestling team will be during the month of January. In fact after two highly successful tournament appearances, Linn Long's wrestlers will have eight matches during the next 24 days.

Four of those eight contests will be against teams that are ranked in the top 15 in the nation. Heading the list of future opponents is second ranked Michigan State who the Salukis face Jan. 14 at East Lansing.

A week later the competition will be provided by Oklahoma in another road contest followed the next day by 13th ranked Ohio University.

On Jan. 26 the wrestlers will return to the SIU Arena for three matches in five days starting with

CMU has five on AP grid list

Five football players from Midwestern Conference schools were placed on the Associated Press Little All-America squads released last month.

Lionel Antoine of SIU was the only player from the five-team loop to make the first-team selection—at defensive tackle. Honorable mentions were Illinois state linebacker Larry Lokanc plus three players from Indiana State: linebacker Jim Shaughnessy, monster linebacker John Karaszia and offensive guard Bob Poss.

Antoine—a senior from Biloxi, Miss.—was named to just about all All-America teams this season and competed in the East-West Shrine Game last week in San Francisco.

11th ranked Lehigh. Fourth ranked Oklahoma State will be next on the Jan. 31 followed by Kansas State to round out the month.

With such a demanding slate, the wrestlers have been hard at work, practicing two times a day since coming back from a 10 day Christmas break.

"I don't think that the 10-day layoff hurt us," said Dewey Abel. "In fact the rest may have helped us a little bit. I think the team might have been getting a little stale. It's tough to go all that time without a match but once we get one we'll be okay."

The wrestlers will get some competition Friday night when conference foe Northern Illinois invades the Arena for a 7:30 p.m. contest. It will be the Salukis' home opener.

Abel, who became eligible Jan. 1, will have to stride several hurdles if he is to wrestle in the Salukis' opener. Three of them are Howard Mack, Steve Snow and Dan Robinson who are also vying for the 190-pound starting spot.

It will all be decided Tuesday and Wednesday when the wrestlers have their ranking matches which decide who will be competing against the Huskies.

Another problem that might hurt Abel is a fluid condition in his knee. He didn't practice Monday but he expressed confidence he would participate in the ranking matches later in the week.

Abel isn't alone in his knee worries. Mark Samuels (177) limped off the practice mats Monday morning with a bad knee which he described as an old football injury.

"I got it stepped on in a high school game," Samuels said. "It usually doesn't hurt very much when it goes out, but this time it hurt so much I nearly fainted."

Samuels was slated to rank against Dan Alvarez at 177 but the match might be in question now, depending how Samuels' knee mends.

Alvarez is coming off a lingering finger injury and had his first taste of competition in the University of Iowa Invitational, Dec. 11. He didn't make it to the championship round as he was beaten by Northern Iowa Community College's Less Sompson in the quarter finals, 5-2.

Also returning to the mats is 142-pounder Ed Wingstrom who was out with an injured shoulder. Wingstrom is a two-time runner up in the Colorado State High School Tournament and should add considerable depth to the 142-pound weight class.

SALUKI SLAMS: The SIU wrestling coaching staff has named Ken Gerdes wrestler of the week. Gerdes (126), was one of four SIU champs in the Iowa Invitational. He used two pins to gain his championship.

Swimmers among the fastest

By Ernie Schweit
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

SIU swimmer Robert McGinley is a skeptic. At least that's what he sounded like after someone informed him that as of Dec. 24 he was the second fastest 200-yard freestyler in the country behind Frank Heckl of University of Southern California.

"Well," McGinley said, "you can't believe everything you read." That might be true in some cases but not here. The proof is McGinley's time of 1:44.6 which placed him a full second behind Heckl. McGinley is also 13th in the 100 yard freestyle.

Saluki swimming coach Ray Essick said he was pleased with McGinley's showing so far but noted that it is still early in the season.

Also ranked is freshman standout Pat Miles. The native of Little Rock, Ark., is tied for second in the 500-yard freestyle with Ric Phillips of Northwestern. Both trail Indiana's John Kinsella.

Miles is also ranked third in the 1,000-yard freestyle and sixth in the 200-yard backstroke.

Other Salukis that are ranked nationally are Dale Korner, third in the 200-yard breaststroke and Bill Tingley who is ranked second in the 200-yard backstroke and fifth in the 200-yard freestyle.

Rob Dickson is sixth behind Indiana's Larry Barbieri, Michigan's Stu Issac and Indiana's Pat O'Conner in the 200-yard individual medley. Dickson is also second in the 200-yard butterfly behind another Wolverine, Byron McDonald. Dickson's time is 1:55.7 to McDonald's 1:54.4.

"We are flattered to have so many people up where they are," said Essick. "I'll say one thing, it really brings the Michigan meet into perspective. We had more national times than they did, but they beat us badly where we were weak."

A look at the rankings bears Essick out. The time of the 400-yard freestyle relay was 3:14.34 but the Wolverines were a bit better at 3:13.99. Korner's time of 2:14.09 in the breaststroke was a hair behind Isaac of Michigan at 2:11.23.

But as Essick said, it's still early and times in swimming change constantly...usually in a downward direction. That fact alone prompted the Saluki coach to note the case of Miles who swam three events in the Michigan dual meet which SIU lost.

"If we would have turned Pat loose he would be way in front in the best national times, but we didn't. Just wait until they (other coaches) turn their big swimmer loose. Wait till they turn John Kinsella loose at Indiana."

That's already happened. The Hoosier standout is leading the pack in the 500-yard freestyle by nearly eight seconds but he's only fifth in the 1,000.

SIU swimming fans will get a chance to see Kinsella as well as the rest of the Indiana swim team when James "Doc" Counsilman brings his squad to the University School Pool Jan. 28 for a dual meet.

Before that however, the swimmers will compete against Wisconsin in the Saluki's home opener at 7 p.m. Jan. 7.

Gale under knife

CHICAGO (AP) — Injury-jinxed Gale Sayers, former Chicago Bears superstar, Monday underwent surgery again on his disabled left knee which has limited him to brief action the past two National Football League seasons.

Dr. Theodore Fox, Bear physician, said surgery for the third time on the same knee was to repair a tear which leaked fluid under the skin.

Powles ruled academically ineligible

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The way Paul Lambert's luck has been of late, don't be surprised if he sponsors bumper stickers proclaiming 'Santa Claus works for Ebenezer Scrooge.'

Or perhaps:
"Christmas is a rip-off."
Maybe even:
"Rudolph Red Nose is an Air Polluter."

Claus, Scrooge, Rudolph & Co. presented Lambert with some mighty miserable Yuletide greetings. Included in the package deal were three defeats, one large-sized academically ineligible Stan Powles and one hurting today, fine tomorrow life-size Marvin Brooks.

The Saluki cagers lost twice in the Las Vegas Classic and dropped a road game at Wichita State during quarter break. Southern's lone win in the last four starts is over South Florida, 99-73. That helped move SIU's season record to a still respectable 5-3.

But more important than three defeats are Powles' unpredicted departure and Brook's gimpy knee.

Powles was declared ineligible by the Midwestern Conference after failing to acquire 36 hours over four academic quarters. Oddly, he remains on good standing at SIU.

The 6-9 center from Carmi, formerly Effingham, knew he wouldn't pass two of four courses "right at the beginning of the (fall) quarter." Powles claimed he wasn't told about the 36-hour academic requirement until midway through fall term.

Lambert's version doesn't jive. He said all Saluki cagers were made aware of the rule when Southern joined the Midwestern Conference.

Obviously aggravated, Lambert said he has "no complaints about the 36 hour rule. That's no big deal even if you don't go to summer school (as - Powles did).

"A guy should be able to pass 12 hours a quarter. But we can't worry about the dead. The world is for the living." Before his sudden leaving, Powles contributed 26 points and 24 rebounds in a part-time starting role.

With Powles out of the picture, (out of school for the moment also) Brooks must find a super-quick cure for his ailing left knee.

The 6-7 forward has watched much Saluki basketball from the bench after a tremendous series of pre-season drills that drew Lambert's continual praise.

A right ankle injury was the culprit that sidelined him. But that's healed. The bone-chipped left knee apparently got worse, forcing him into occasional idleness.

Brooks played 15 minutes in Southern's first loss at Vegas, against Weber State. And Lambert was satisfied with the seven point, nine rebound performance.

"But Marvin got tired which is understandable because he hadn't played in three weeks," Lambert said. "Then he came on the floor the next night and couldn't even go through warmups."

It's just wait-and-see on a daily basis with Brooks who abandoned his knee bandage Monday and had one of his on days. He didn't appear to be in any pain.

Southern's next challenge, with or without Brooks, is at 7:30 p.m. Thursday night in the SIU Arena against the University of San Diego.

The Salukis will seek their first win of the new year after closing the old off a sour note.

Southern lost its opening round Vegas game against Weber State, 95-87. The Salukis led at halftime, 47-46, but were outscored 20-4 immediately after intermission.

The next night they lost an overtime tilt with Nevada-Las Vegas, 91-90, after Greg Starrick tied the game 84-84 at the regulation buzzer with a hook shot. "We played about as well as we're capable," Lambert said of the game.

The Vegas Classic was captured by an aggressive Baylor team that stopped Nevada-Las Vegas and Weber State.

Before the tourney, Southern split, losing at Wichita State, then defeating South Florida.

WSU's Shockers took a 91-83 home victory because the Salukis couldn't put the ball in the bucket, shooting 38 percent. South Florida was dominated 99-73.

Other happy Saluki news is Greg Starrick's string of 46 straight free throws. The countdown number is 17 for a new national record.

Basketball coach at Ball State quits

MUNCIE, Ind.—Leroy "Bud" Getchell, Ball State head basketball coach, announced his resignation here Monday in a noon press conference.

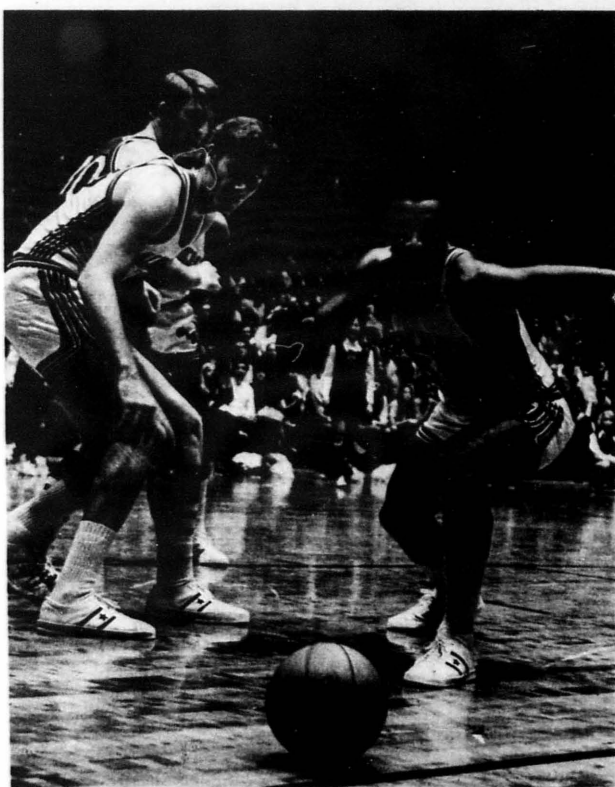

The 37-year-old Getchell will finish out the season with Ball State's Cardinals who own a 4-5 record.

This is Getchell's fourth season at the Cardinal helm. Under his direction, Ball State has won 25, lost 57.

With Getchell's impending retirement, the Midwestern Conference will lose its only basketball coach with a doctorate. The ex-All-American baseball player obtained his PhD from the University of Illinois.

Ineligible

Powles, a 6-9 forward from Effingham, was ruled academically ineligible for the winter quarter by the Midwestern Conference. The Salukis will miss Powles' hand in rebounds. (Photo by John Lopinot)

Indoor track men get 'warm' greeting

By Ken Stewart
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Snow and temperatures are expected to fall the next couple of days, but track coach Lew Hartzog hopes the elements will continue to defy the weathermen for his team's sake.

Meteorological charts indicated Carbondale would get rain turning to snow Monday but 50 degree temperatures and bright sunshine warmly greeted the indoor track team at its outdoor practice at McAndrew Stadium.

Weathermen have been predicting rain for the last few days only to have the sun favor outdoor buffs.

"We hope the weather holds up," said Hartzog. "With three more weeks of extremely hard work, we'll be ready to go."

Without an indoor facility, the Salukis must compete away from home the entire season and practice on their outdoor track at the stadium.

The indoor season officially gets underway Feb. 5 against the University of Kansas in Lawrence, but the Salukis will have a "practice" meet at Eastern Illinois Jan. 28 in Charleston.

With the season still some time off, Hartzog still has time to work on three men he's concerned about.

Dave Hill, the team's outstanding distanceman, still hasn't been given the go ahead to run again by his doctor. The Canadian suffered a hip injury practicing for the Midwestern Conference cross country meet nearly two months ago.

"Hill's going back to the doctor Wednesday for an okay to run," said Hartzog. "This puts him way behind because he's been out since the first of November."

Sprinter Eddie Sutton—also a key link in the relay teams—slightly pulled a leg muscle Dec. 11 and the coach said, "when he's over that, he will be of great importance to us."

Hartzog's third concern is freshman Jim Harris, a long and triple jumper. He's still nursing a sore thigh.

"These men are of great importance to us but I feel everyone else in healthy shape," said Hartzog.

The Salukis had some competition over the Christmas and New Year break on an individual basis at the Holiday Invitational at the University of Chicago. Bill Hancock, a freshman from Gladford, won the high jump with a 6-8 effort. The mark doesn't appear impressive—the SIU record of 7-1 was set by Mike Bernard last year—but Hartzog said it was a good jump considering the old dirt surface at Chicago.

Gerry Craig, a sophomore from Londonderry, Northern Ireland, placed fourth in the two-mile run which was a "pleasant surprise" according to the coach. Terry Erickson finished second in the 440-yard dash with a time of 49.1. Now a sophomore, the Stickney native won the state 440 prep crown as a senior at Morton West.

Southern topped last season's campaign off with the Midwestern Conference title.
