UN peace plan final chance

United Press International

U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar met for about 2 1/2 hours Sunday with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, declaring afterward he was "neither optimistic nor pessimistic" about the chances of avoiding war.

De Cuellar, who also met for about three hours with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz, said afterward at the Baghdad airport he was hurrying back to New York to brief the U.N. Security Council Monday morning on his talks.

"I am neither optimistic nor pessimistic, but I am always hopeful," de Cuellar said in brief remarks at the airport, where he left around 10 p.m. on a flight to Paris before continuing to New York.

De Cuellar was accompanied to the airport by Aziz, who also had greeted the U.N. chief upon his arrival the previous evening. De Cuellar appeared comfortable while awaiting his flight, while Aziz was solemn and had no comment for reporters.

The Iraqi government also had no immediate comment on the meetings, which were arranged after talks last week in Geneva between Aziz and U. S. Secretary of State James Baker failed to reach an agreement for Iraq to remove its troops from neighboring Kuwait.

De Cuellar's meeting with Saddam was seen as a final effort to avoid war between more than 1 million soldiers in the Persian Gulf awaiting the midnight EST deadline Tuesday set by the U.N. Security Council for Iraq's withdrawal from the nation it invaded Aug. 2.

But rather than a breakthrough, there were signs Saddam was taking a harder line.

Democrats vote against war resolution

By John Patterson and Brian Gross
Staff Writers

Paul Simon and Glenn Shoshard both voted against a resolution for military action against Iraq Saturday, but Congress as a whole approved it.

U.S. Sen. Simon, D-Makanda, and U.S. Rep. Shoshard, D-Carterville, said they voted against the resolution because they believe that economic sanctions against Iraq should be given more time.

The Senate approved a resolution giving President George Bush the power to send U.S. troops to war by a narrow margin of 52-47, and the House passed the resolution by a vote of 250-183.

In a U.S. Senate floor speech Thursday, Simon argued for the continued use of sanctions in the effort to free Kuwait from Iraqi forces.

Simon said it must be made clear to Iraq leader Saddam Hussein: that "you cannot move in and take over weaker countries."

Simon also said the Bush administration is making a great mistake in giving up on the sanctions option.

Although the president, the secretary of state and the secretary of defense appear to have given up on economic sanctions, Simon said the evidence is overwhelming that sanctions have a chance to succeed if the United States sticks with them.

Sanctions have already affected Iraq's gross national product by

SIU tuition increase possible

By Amy Cooper and Natalie Boehme
Staff Writers

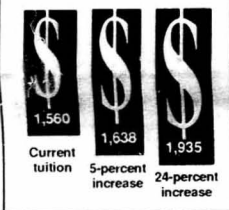

Tuition at SIU and other state universities will increase if the Illinois Board of Higher Education's recommendation for state funding is approved.

The Board has recommended a 5 percent tuition increase based on the assumption of the renewal of a temporary income surcharge tax established in 1989. The recommended tuition increase would be 24 percent if the surcharge is not reinstated.

Tuition at SIUC for the 1990-1991 school year is $1,560. A 5-percent raise would set tuition at $1,638, $78 higher. A 24-percent raise would set tuition at $1,935, $375 higher.

The income tax surcharge goes partly to the Education Assistance Fund and partly to local government spending. The income tax surcharge provided SIU with $7.8 million in fiscal year 1991 and $111.2 million for the total Illinois education system.

SIU Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said he hopes the surcharge will continue. "If they do not (continue the tax), then we're really in tough shape," he said.

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, said without the surcharge there will be a big cut in education funding.

"I think we will be in dire straits," he said.

"It's important students know the ramifications of the surcharge," said Susan Hall, chairwoman of the budget subcommittee of the IBHE student advisory committee. "Not only will the students be asked to pay higher tuition but also less financial aid will be available."

Hall said a decision on the surcharge probably will not be made until after the Chicago mayoral election Apr. 4.

Jim Osberg, assistant to the governor for education, said the surcharge may continue because of Chicago's interest in the surcharge funds for municipal spending.

University's new ID system in place, 4,000 students still need cards

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

Students and faculty will no longer be able to use their old identification cards for University services beginning today.

The University Veli-Dine system officially goes on-line this semester, replacing the old card system, which provided computer-controlled access only to the Recreation Center.

Jeff Duke, coordinator of the new card system, said students will be able to use the old ID cards only as backup identification.

The new system accesses a central processing unit through a magnetic stripe on the back of the card.

Students and faculty will need the new card to check out materials at Morris Library, to use the Rec Center and the University Health Service and to obtain any University service.

Duke said about 4,000 students still need to get the new ID cards.

Those students can receive the new cards from 8 to 4:30 through the end of January at the Student Center Ballroom A.

Continuing students and faculty will not be charged for the new card. Students new to SIUC last fall and this spring will be charged a one-time $5 fee. Lost and stolen cards can be replaced for $10.

Dormitory residents will need the new card this semester for meal service and as identification to enter Mae Smith, Schneider and Neely halls during security hours.

Steve Kirk, assistant director of residence life, said that for students, the new ID card will be simpler and more convenient than the two separate cards dorm residents needed in the past.

A computerized reader at the entrance of each dining hall indicates whether a student has a meal contract with University Housing and whether a student has had more than 20 meals a week.

"On the students' end, there will be little changes going into effect," Kirk said.

The Rec Center, where Duke said most students will use the ID cards, started accepting the new cards last week.

SIU officials to examine minority ruling

By Tiffany Youter
Staff Writer

The U.S. Education Department's ruling concerning race-exclusive scholarships has officials from SIUC and SIUE meeting Jan. 28 to discuss the university's position on the issue.

The initial statement made by Assistant Secretary of Education Michael Williams in mid-December said that "race exclusive" scholarships are illegal under the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The ruling was later modified to allow a four-year transition period for universities, and to forbid only those race-exclusive scholarships paid for by state

Saluki women beat Bradley 56-55

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's basketball team continued its winning ways Saturday, holding off the Lady Braves of Bradley for a tight 56-55 victory in Peoria. The win upped SIUC's record to 10-3 overall and a perfect 5-0 mark in the Gateway Conference.

Unlike the past month in which the Salukis have won nine of their last 10 games by solid margins, the Lady Braves made a late charge that almost snatched the victory away from the Salukis.

"Bradley is a good team," Salukis head coach Cindy Scott said. "We knew it would be a close game.

This is our first real close game in a while."

At the 2:52 mark of the second half, the Salukis looked to be pulling away from Bradley, leading 54-47. But the Lady Braves stymied the Saluki offense and went on a 8-2 run.

Bradley's last gasp for victory, a last-second shot by Eileen Yerkes, ended with rattling around the rim and then popped out.

During the final run by Bradley, the Salukis helped the Lady Braves out by missing the front end of a one-and-one. With just six seconds remaining the Braves turned the ball over, but the Salukis returned the favor by throwing away an inbound pass under the Braves' basket, which set up Bradley's final shot. Until the final three minutes of the game the Salukis were dominating the Lady Braves, especially in the front court. The trio of sophomore forwards Kelly Firth and Angie Rougeau and senior Amy Rakers managed to control the game from the opening tip.

Rougeau came off the blocks quickly to control the defensive end, ripping the Lady Braves for five first-half steals. By game's end she had six thefts to go along with her 10 points and nine boards.

With Rougeau picking pockets on the defensive side of the ball,

Salukis 5-0 in Gateway play with five wins during break

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

The holiday break has brought a number of gifts to the Saluki women's basketball team, as SIUC has unwrapped victories from nine of its last 10 opponents.

The Salukis had a tough test the Monday after finals week as the 7-1 Tennessee Tech squad came to the Arena. Tech, like SIUC, was a top 20 team last season that made it to the NCAA tournament. The Golden Eaglettes brought in All-American candidate Angela Moorehead. Moorehead showed her talents, pouring in 29 points, but the Salukis balanced scoring attack and a 42-point second half outburst helped down Tech 72-62.

Baseball team winning before season starts

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer
and Sports Information

Things are already looking bright for the 1991 Saluki baseball team as it opens the spring season with practice at 5:30 a.m. today at the Recreation Center.

The team got word that junior right-handed pitcher Sean Bergman was selected as a preseason All-American by Collegiate Baseball magazine and that SIUC was picked 21st in the nation in Collegiate Baseball's 1991 Fabulous 40, the preseason coaches poll.

Bergman, one of five pitchers selected in the country, was the work-horse on last year's 49-14 team that won the Missouri Valley Conference

Bergman

Conference Tournament. He posted a 9-3 record with a 2.76 ERA while leading the team with 97.6 innings of work.

Bergman, a native of Joliet, was also recruited by Nebraska and Notre Dame. He credits much of his success to Coach Sam Riggelman, who was the pitching coach for Bergman for two years and now is the head coach of the 1991 Salukis.

"I knew the basic mechanics when I came to SIUC, but Coach Riggelman intensified everything I was doing," Bergman said. "Working with him the past two seasons has made everything I do much more natural."

Collegiate Baseball magazine and Baseball America magazine, which named Bergman to its All-American Second Team, have noted that the 6-foot-5 junior could be one of the top pitchers drafted in next season's Major League draft.

Dawgs struggle on road during break

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

The road has been rocky for the Saluki men's basketball team this season.

After opening the season with three consecutive home victories, the Salukis post a 7-5 record which includes four losses on the road. The SIUC victories to come away from the Arena were at the Old Style Classic, which was played on the neutral court of Rosemont Horizon in Chicago.

Overall, the Salukis were 4-4 during the holiday break while winning the Old Style Classic and slipping past Missouri Valley Conference newcomer Southwest Missouri State. They upped their conference record to 2-0 to lead the MVC and remain the only undefeated team in the conference.

The Salukis' ESPN jinx has lingered as well. First the Dawgs suffered a heartbreaking loss to Murray State on national television then turned around and was upset by St. Louis with the nation watching.

SIUC 56 ST. LOUIS 57

ESPN announcer Dan Patrick was just hoping St. Louis could stay close to the run-and-gun Salukis Friday night. He, along with many people watching the game, never expected the Dawgs to be on the losing end of the 57-56 score.

After demolishing St. Louis by 39 points in the Arena and hearing that Billiken star point guard Kevin Footes was suspended indefinitely by Coach Rich Grawer, the Salukis might have been expecting a cakewalk.

The Billiken's were able to control the tempo throughout the ballgame and left the Dawgs stunned from the outset.

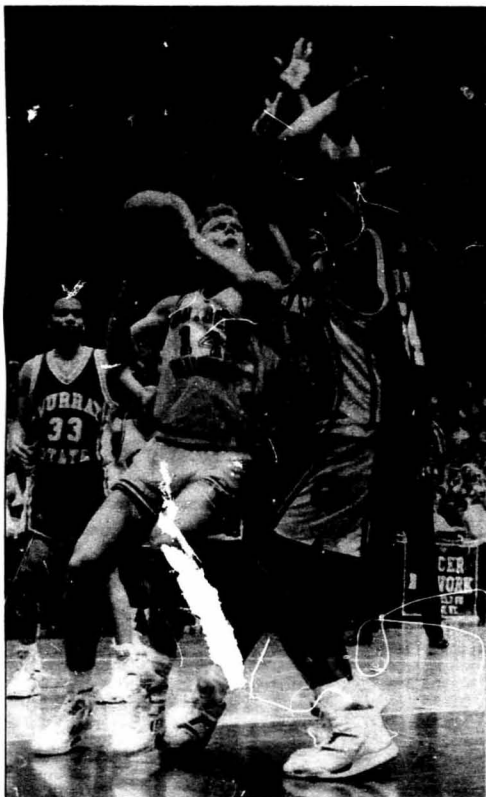

"We like to go up and down the court," Herrin said, "but that (slowing the pace) was their business and we had to play that game. Basically I thought we played a good basketball game."

Sterling Mahan led the Salukis' scoring with 14 and Mirko Pavlovic came off the bench to pop four 3-pointers. But the Saluki offense struggled when Rick Shipley was held scoreless for 38 minutes.

Grawer's replacement for Footes, sophomore Orlando Stewart killed the Salukis as he shot the lights out of Kiel Auditorium. He scored 29 points for the Billikens including a 15-foot jumper with three seconds left to put St. Louis up by one.

to remain the only undefeated team in the Valley.

"We're the only team that is undefeated," Herrin said, "but we'll be the first to tell you we haven't played many games and they've both been at home. But you've got to take care of business at home before you worry about what you do on the road."

The loss was the first conference defeat for the Bears, who had been taking the Valley by storm in its first season in the MVC.

The Bears, who are featured in this week's Sports Illustrated, out-rebounded the Salukis 38-29, but SIUC put up 11 more shots than Southwest to make the difference in the game.

"That was a big win for us for a lot of reasons," Shipley said. "We broke a two-game losing streak. We win at home and in the Valley. We knocked off the only other undefeated team in the conference. We needed that win. We know we can win again and I think that is the most important part of it."

SIUC 72 EVANSVILLE 75

The Salukis problems on the road continued at Evansville as the Purple Aces managed a 75-72 win of the Dawgs.

"We played very hard and very aggressive," Herrin said. "I think Evansville is a very good basketball team. They played very hard and they just beat us. That's just one of

Rick Shipley hitting points and boards for basketball team

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

The holiday season started off right for senior forward Rick Shipley, who scored his 1,000th career point in a Saluki basketball uniform Dec. 14, but he said it's not necessarily a joyous memory.

The monumental point came on a 3-point play late in the second half of the heartbreaking 83-77 loss to Murray State on ESPN.

"It was a great moment for me to get my 1,000th point," Shipley said, "but I'm always going to remember that we lost the game that I got my 1,000th point."

Basketball coach Rich Herrin, who witnessed Sterling Mahan reach the 1,000-point plateau earlier in the year, was happy for Shipley.

"It's a nice honor to have," Herrin said. "He's been a very consistent basketball player, showing great leadership. He just keeps getting better. It's been very enjoyable to have him on the basketball team and I'm sure it's going to be tough to replace him next year."

Shipley may be able to climb a notch on the Saluki career rebounding ladder. With eight boards against Indiana State Dec. 30, he moved into the No. 3 spot surpassing Corky Abrams at 735. He has a shot at Gary Wilson who is at the No. 2 spot with 841, but Joe C. Meriweather's 1,005 career mark seems nearly unattainable.

"It's going to be tough," Shipley said. "I've been rebounding as hard as I can this year. I've had a couple games where I've been down and I've had a couple games where I've been pretty good. I'm just trying to be consistent and get my nine or 10 boards a game. If I do that I think I've got a good chance to get it."

A desire to stay close to home is what brought the Centralia High School star to SIUC in 1987. He was recruited by Eastern Illinois, Evansville and St. Louis, but said he chose to play for SIUC because the program was on the way up.

Shipley's impact was immediately felt on the court, averaging 8.4 points and 5.9 rebounds a game his first season. His sophomore year he upped those totals to 8.8 points and 7.3 boards.

Last season Shipley played a key role in leading the Salukis to the Missouri Valley Conference title with his 12 points and 7.6 rebounds a game

Crackdown in Soviet state condemned by world leaders

United Press International

President Bush and other world leaders Sunday strongly condemned the Soviet military crackdown in Lithuania, warning it could be a major setback for East-West relations. At least 14 people were killed and more than 100 wounded Sunday when Soviet soldiers in tanks stormed and took over the Lithuanian television center in the capital city Vilnius, firing on unarmed civilians guarding the TV tower. In Warsaw, 1,000 people demonstrated in front of the Soviet Embassy.

40 killed, 50 wounded during soccer stampede

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Battles between soccer fans and an ensuing stampede by hundreds of panicked onlookers killed 40 people and wounded more than 50 Sunday at a game between two rival soccer teams, police said. The death toll in western Transvaal province represented one of the worst incidents in South African sporting history, police records showed. Fans were watching a match between the Kaizer Chiefs and Orlando Pirates at an Ernest Oppenheimer Stadium in the town of Orkney when fighting broke out about 6:20 p.m. among hundreds of the estimated 20,000 spectators.

U.S. officials warn about possible Hussein ploys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials warned Sunday that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein could be planning a last-minute ploy of some kind to achieve peace but simply delay the possible use of force to drive him from Kuwait. House Armed Services Committee Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wisc., said the United States could see a "mid-January Saddam Hussein surprise" in the hours before or after Tuesday's U.N. deadline for Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait.

First lady breaks leg in sledding accident

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First lady Barbara Bush broke a bone in her left leg in a sledding accident Sunday while playing with her grandchildren at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md. White House spokesman John Herrick said Mrs. Bush broke the fibula — the smaller of the two primary bones in the lower leg — when the sled on which she was riding struck a tree.

Sharpton asks for racial peace in Bensonhurst

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. Al Sharpton, recuperating after being stabbed at the start of a protest march in Brooklyn, called for calm Sunday as the man accused of attacking him was ordered held without bail. ## Bench trial begins Monday for father charged in fatal fire KANKAKEE (UPI) — Judge Patrick Burns will decide if Berton Howerly set a December 1989 fire that killed four children — three of them his own — because the Kankakee man has waived his right to a jury trial. Burns set opening statements for Monday. The trial began last week, but jury selection was delayed by a series of pre-trial motions. Burns rejected the motions of Howerly's defense lawyers to throw out the 38-year-old man's statements to police implicating himself for setting the fire at his ex-wife's home early the morning of Dec. 9. "The appropriate warnings were given at the appropriate times," the judge said Friday.

Broken branches collected by city

By Leslie Kulp
Staff Writer

Southern Illinois residents eating breakfast on some recent mornings might have heard some snap, crack, and pop but their breakfast cereal was not making the noise. Nearby tree branches were breaking off and falling in their yards.

A wetter-than-normal December and January and freezing temperatures in the past few weeks have taken their toll on area trees. Ice accumulating on branches has caused some to break off in residents' yards.

Beginning today and continuing through Feb. 1, fallen branches will be picked up by city employees.

City Forester Greg Kline said there is no set schedule for pickup times, but there will be several trips to pick up branches each of the three weeks the free service is provided.

The branches should be cut to no more than eight feet in length and seven inches in diameter so one person is able to pick them up, Kline said. Branches larger than this size will not be picked up.

Residents should leave the branches near the curb to make pickup easier and faster, he said.

Kline said the most severe damage was done to white pine, cedar and various varieties of birch trees. White pines typically accumulate a lot of ice and break. Cedars bend over and uproot and birch trees have weak branches.

David Jaynes, SBC weather station supervisor, said ice precipitation is not unusual in Southern Illinois. What is unusual, he said, is the area is wetter than normal for this time of year.

Statistics show the first trace of ice fell Dec. 23 with more ice and snow following in the next few days. A total of eight inches of snow fell on Dec. 27.

City officials, student leaders can keg registration

By Leslie Kulp
Staff Writer

Carbondale city officials and University representatives agreed to can a keg registration ordinance in favor of informative brochures.

The proposed ordinance, if it had passed, would have required keg purchasers to leave their names, addresses, telephone numbers and the destination of the keg with the seller. This information then would have been available to the city police department upon request.

"That's a victory for students," said Charles Ramsey, president of the Graduate and Professional Student Council.

Since September, city officials including City Manager Steve Hoffner, Mayor Neil Dillard, and Police Chief Ed Hogan and University representatives from both GPSC and Undergraduate Student Government have been at odds on the issue.

City officials mentioned an increasing number of complaints about parties and suggested the registry, Hoffner said. But students said forcing people to register their kegs would be an invasion of privacy.

"Students were just scared that the police would be all over them," said Jack Sullivan, west-side senator for USG. "They didn't want the police knowing exactly where their parties were."

"(The keg registration) was probably a bad idea from day one," Hoffner said.

City officials and student representatives began meeting in October to find a solution, Hoffner said.

During these meetings, it was agreed the city would print a "helpful hints for a successful party in Carbondale" brochure.

"We just want people to be smarter about their parties," Sullivan said.

Although Sullivan said he does not think the brochure will make a large impact, it will provide some good information.

According to the brochure, the Carbondale Police Department monitors excessive noise.

Excessive noise is defined as sounds that can be heard at a distance greater than 50 feet from its origin between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. and greater than 100 feet between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m.

According to the brochure, it is illegal to furnish alcohol to people for money. This includes charging for items such as cups or orienteering and then providing the alcohol.

Ways to distribute the brochures have not been decided, Hoffner said he is willing to meet with the students to decide where and how this will be done.

January and February Wellness Center Activities

Ongoing Workshops

- STUDENT RECOVERY GROUP: This group is formed to support and encourage the process of recovery from alcohol or drug dependence. It is an ongoing group and may be joined by having an interview. For more information, call Beth at 453-5371. Co-sponsored by the Wellness Center and Counseling Center.
- SINGLE PARENT SUPPORT GROUP: The Wellness Center, Counseling Center, and Wesley Foundation co-sponsor this group which offers a network of emotional support and social gatherings for both custodial and non-custodial single parents. Those considering single parenthood are also invited. For more information, call Ken Wallace at 457-8165 or 459-7068.
- BIRTH CONTROL UPDATE: The Wellness Center and Health Service are co-sponsoring this single session workshop held in the Keaner Hall classroom (across from the Health Service). YOU NEED TO ATTEND ONE UPDATE BEFORE YOU MAKE A BIRTH CONTROL APPOINTMENT AT THE HEALTH SERVICE. For more information, call the Wellness Center, 536-4441. Classes begin January 22 and meet Thursdays at 6:30 p.m. and Thursdays at 12:30 p.m.
- WOMEN LOVING WOMEN: This group will focus on supporting women who identify themselves as bisexual or lesbian. It is in the process of exploring their sexual identity. Specific issues of emphasis include coming out, relationships and community support. Co-sponsored by Women's Services. For more information, call 453-3655.
- GAY & BISEXUAL MEN'S THERAPY GROUP: This group will deal with issues related to men's gay and bisexual identity. Specific areas of focus will include "coming out," intimacy and healthy relationships. Co-sponsored by the Counseling Center. For more information, call 453-5371.

Single-Session Workshops

- HAVE YOU THOUGHT ABOUT BIRTH CONTROL? Many of us wait to think about birth control until it is too late, and the consequences can be devastating. Learn how you can take control of this situation. Different birth control methods, their advantages, disadvantages and ways to make them easier to use will be discussed. Tuesday, Jan. 29, 7:30 p.m. in the Ohio Room, Student Center.
- MEN, SEX, AND RELATIONSHIPS - THE 1990's MALE (FOR MEN ONLY): "The times they are a changin'" including men's and women's roles regarding sexuality and relationships. These changes are often confusing. This presentation given by males and for males will help increase our awareness of the status and begin a deeper understanding of what it means to be a male in the '90's. Thursday, Jan. 31, 7:30 p.m. in the Thebes Room, Student Center.

February

Multi-Session Groups

- FREEDOM FROM SMOKING: This group is for the smoker who is serious about quitting. Participants can expect three major benefits: motivation, a structured program to follow, and group support. If you have ever been thinking about quitting, now is the time. Co-sponsored by the American Lung Association. Meets Tuesdays for five weeks, beginning Tuesday, Feb. 12 from 6:30 p.m. in the Missouri Room, Student Center.
- A HEALTHY WEIGH-A four week group to provide accurate information, support and strategies for safe and permanent weight loss. Manage your eating style, develop an exercise program and build a support system. Session II: Meets Tuesdays for four weeks, beginning Tuesday, Feb. 12 from 7:30 p.m. in the Sangamon Room, Student Center.
- SELF-ESTEEM FOR HEALTHY LIVING GROUP: Continuing from the initial workshop (see description under February Single Sessions), these group sessions will use personal insights and practical experiences to help you move toward positive self-esteem and effective, happy living. Attend all or any session(s). Meets Thursdays for seven weeks, beginning Thursday, Feb. 21, 7:30 p.m. in the Thebes Room, Student Center.

Single-Session Workshops

- *RELAX: Need to "chill out" before or after tests? Do roommates, parents, and money problems have you tensed up? Join our relaxation specialist for an hour and a half packed full of the latest and most powerful stress busters. Tuesday, Feb. 12, 7:30 p.m. in the Ohio Room, Student Center.
- AIDS IN THE WORKPLACE: Many employers and employees may feel uncomfortable about the presence of AIDS at the work place. Yet, this is or will be reality and non-discrimination policies need to be in place. People need to know what are and are not risky behaviors specific to the work situation. This presentation will focus on current policy and legal/medical issues. Wednesday, Feb. 14, 7:30 p.m. in the Illinois Room, Student Center.
- *SELF-ESTEEM FOR HEALTHY LIVING: A healthy self-esteem is your foundation for happy relationships and successful personal and career goals. Low self-esteem may cause feelings of self-doubt, loneliness, anger, and fear. This seminar shares new information and experiential practice to help change your thinking and recognize your positive potential. Begin the exciting journey toward believing in yourself and become the best "YOU" you can be. Introductory workshop, Thursday, Feb. 14, 7:30 p.m. in the Thebes Room, Student Center.
- *HOW SAFE IS SEX? Studies show that many college campuses are seeing an epidemic of certain sexually transmitted diseases, yet students do not seem to be aware of these diseases, nor are they changing their behavior. Don't become one of the 311 statistics. You can learn to avoid the negative consequences. Tuesday, Feb. 19, 7:30 p.m. in the Mississippi Room, Student Center.
- TIME MANAGEMENT: Learn the basic time management techniques to prevent the "Temporal Dragon" from pulling your time away. Co-sponsored by the Career Development Center and Alpha Lambda Delta. Wednesday, Feb. 20, 3:45 and 5:30 p.m. in the Ohio Room, Student Center.
- *MAKING PEACE WITH FOOD: Many college students are unhappy with their bodies. Lack of accurate information and cultural pressures to have the ideal look contribute to fad dieting and eating disorders. Learn how through services offered on campus you can improve your body image and manage your eating. Wednesday, Feb. 20, 7:30 p.m. in the Orient Room, Student Center.
- BLACKS GET AIDS TOO: Three words every black person should know. AIDS doesn't discriminate. Many black men, women and children have AIDS and just as AIDS affects all, not everyone is at risk. Don't miss this film, panel discussion and an opportunity to find out about AIDS for yourself. This workshop is in accordance with Black History Month. Thursday, Feb. 21, 7:30 p.m. in Ballroom D, Student Center.
- AIDS UPDATE: Updated information on the HIV infection and AIDS disease will be provided. Prevention will be discussed with a focus on the values, attitudes and decision-making which inhibit making sexually responsible choices. Monday, Feb. 25, 7:30 p.m. in the Kaskaskia/Mississippi Rooms, Student Center.
- *I THOUGHT YOU MEANT YES... "BUT I SAID NO!": Do you know how to date safely? There are certain situations, behaviors and values which create "dangerous dating," and sometimes the result is acquaintance rape. Join us for an informal discussion on the problem of acquaintance rape on college campuses. Join us for an informal discussion on the problem of acquaintance rape on college campuses. Tuesday, Feb. 26, 7:30 p.m. in the Illinois Room, Student Center.
- STD UPDATE: Two nurse practitioners from the SIUC Women's Health Clinic will provide a medical overview of prevention, symptoms, and treatment of sexually transmitted diseases. The session will end with a discussion surrounding responsible sexual decision-making. Wednesday, Feb. 27, 2:30 p.m. in the Keaner Hall Classroom, Wellness Center.

Keg registry canned through cooperation

UNIVERSITY STUDENT GOVERNMENT leaders and city officials have eliminated the proposed keg registry ordinance through discussion and, more importantly, cooperation.

In meetings since October, the two groups had been trying to hammer out an agreeable compromise to the proposed ordinance that would have require keg purchasers to leave their names, addresses, phones and the keg destination with the retailer.

Upon request, this information would have been made available to city police for random checking of keg parties.

Student leaders at odds with the idea of potential invasions of privacy met with city leaders to seek a compromise and succeeded.

A JOINTLY WRITTEN BROCHURE was printed with information concerning excessive noise, arrest procedures and general party guidelines.

However, this was not the first joint effort between the city and students that showed how one side can benefit from working with the other.

Last year, students assisted the city's mass transit system study by conducting attitude surveys on the project. In addition, University President John C. Guyon agreed to provide half the money for the study from University funds.

IN ANOTHER INSTANCE, GRADUATE students in the Urban and Regional Planning class last summer worked with the City Council and the Downtown Task Force to gather data on the downtown development plan, which aims to develop and improve retail in the downtown area.

The unique atmosphere of a college town allows both its temporary and permanent residents to benefit each other if they can cross the bridges of compromise and cooperation.

We challenge each side to work together even more in 1991, whether on a controversial issue such as keg registry or simply to benefit each other through projects. Neither side can lose with such a plan.

Quotable Quotes

"Perez de Cueller is offering Saddam what he can...if Saddam refuses, it will be war,"—said an Arab ambassador in Cairo in reference to the U.N. Secretary-General's meeting with Saddam Hussein.

"One violent man should not be an excuse for us to go backwards,"—said the Rev. Al Sharpton from a New York hospital bed about the 27-year-old man who stabbed him at a protest march in Brooklyn.

"It was a great moment for me to get my 1,000th point, but I'm always going to remember that we lost the game that I got my 1,000th point,"—said senior forward Rick Shipley in reference to his career points for the Saluki basketball team.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors. The letters space will be a forum for discussion of issues of public interest. Open, civil dialogue is the aim. Letters may be edited for length and content. Letters of fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Letters will be limited to 300 words. Letters that the editors deem objectionable because of potential libelous material or because extraordinary bad taste will not be published. Access to the letters space will be afforded to as many writers as possible to encourage diversity of points of view. Editors may impose, at their discretion, a limit on the frequency of publication of letters by an author. When a multitude of letters on the same subject are received, editors may select a few letters that are representative of those letters for publication.

Every letter must be signed by its author. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department, others by address and occupation or position appropriate to the nature of their letters. Letters for which authorship cannot be verified will not be published.

Letters

Military attack on Iraq unjustified aggression

Tomorrow, Jan. 15, is "Deadline Day," the day that Bush says he has the authority to force Iraq out of Kuwait militarily.

He claims that he has this authority because of the U.N. Resolution 678, yet he has ignored the strong opposition from the people of the United States.

The overwhelming feeling among Americans is that war is not the solution to this crisis, but rather it will be the beginning of a prolonged, bloody conflict in an already unstable region.

Furthermore many people find it repugnant that Bush is willing to send thousands of Americans (and Iraqis) to their deaths for the sake of cheap oil.

Few have been fooled by Bush's rhetoric that we must go to war because of Saddam Hussein's "naked aggression," since the U.S. government has so often ignored, and even supported, "naked aggression."

Bush is ready to wage war in spite of our willingness to be patient with diplomacy and economic sanctions.

Since so many of us disagree with Bush's actions, we must urgently convey to him that we believe a military attack on Iraq would be illegal and immoral, and would result in an unnecessary loss of thousands of human lives, economic turmoil, and political unrest.

The Coalition For Mideast Peace is calling on students, faculty, and community members to demand an immediate and peaceful end to this crisis.

Tomorrow, Jan. 15, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, the Coalition will be holding a vigil outside the Interfaith Center (corner of Illinois and Grand) at 11 a.m.

Please come and show your opposition to this unnecessary tragedy.

We urge you to call your congressional representatives and express your opposition to any legislation that would give Bush the power to attack Iraq, and to insist on the more prudent paths of diplomacy and economic sanctions.—Matthew T. Sronkoski, graduate, philosophy.

Noisy library interrupts finals week

I would like to congratulate the University on its latest project involving Morris Library. Its timing is impeccable.

Removing all the books from the shelves is a perfect project for finals week.

The constant rhythm of banging metal keeps one's mind focused on his or her studies.

Not to mention the easy stress relief the fun-loving, tale-spinning hillbilly workers provide.

No, you don't have to go too far when you need a well-deserved break.

Just sit back in your chair and listen to fascinating stories about largemouth bass and Barbara Mandrell concerts.

What kind of sense would it make to undergo construction a week later when the library is empty?

May I suggest sandblasting during spring semester finals.—Daniel Rodgers, junior, accounting.

Western culture unnecessary in gulf

This is in response to Mr. Steven Lucas' letter in the Dec. 12 issue of the DE.

I must say that I agree with you but only up to a point. I agree that we should be free to discretely fly our flag over our headquarters units. This would be a good morale booster for the troops.

However, I do believe that it should not be flaunted. We are, after all, in someone else's country, and I wouldn't want foreign flags flying over my country's land.

I cannot agree with the rest of your letter. In your fourth paragraph you mention the "smut" displayed through the entertainment industry.

Two paragraphs later you say that "other peoples in this world need exposure to our culture." Is it that you want other countries to be influenced by something with which you obviously disagree?

I don't think anybody needs to be exposed to our culture, and we certainly don't have a right to force it on someone.

Also, why are you worried about how much meaning the constitution has abroad?

"I'll tell you how much it has abroad. None! And that's the way it should be."

I applaud your patriotism, Mr. Lucas. However, you have gone a little overboard with your "Manifest Destiny" attitude.

One more thing. With regard to your question, "Do they really think every little thing will break an alliance?"

The Gulf nations look upon our country as the Great Satan. They do not like us.

The only reason our Saudi Arabian "allies" are letting us play in their sandbox is because the man next door is posing a threat to their land.

After the war, if there is one, is over, they will want us out of their country immediately.

If we do not leave, there's a good chance that their guns will be turned on us.

Some way for allies to treat each other, huh?—William Ford, Freshman, Undecided.

about 50 percent, Simon said.

Simon said Judge Webster, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, has reported to Congress that Iraq already is rationing bread, sugar and tea. Iraq's government cannot get spare parts for its entire military complex. It cannot get spare parts for city buses in Baghdad, and the sanctions have just barely begun.

"If a year from now we find that sanctions do not work, and we decide on the military option, I suggest we will go against a much weakened opponent," Simon said.

Poshard said he knew how Congress would vote on war with Iraq.

Poshard told constituents last week it appeared there was a good possibility Congress would give the president power to attack Iraq if it does not pull out of Kuwait by Jan. 15.

About 150 people crowded into John A. Logan College Wednesday for a round table discussion with Poshard. Most of the people who spoke said they wanted Poshard to vote against a war resolution.

People who said they did not want Americans killed in the Middle East received the loudest applause.

Poshard voted Saturday for the Hamilton-Gephardt Resolution to give more time for sanctions and diplomatic efforts to work. The resolution would have required Congress to declare war before offensive action could be taken had it passed.

"I preferred to use sanctions, to go awhile longer before we made that decision to declare war, and I preferred to believe that the Constitution of the United States only gives that declaration of war to the Congress, and not to the president, as we have done today," Poshard said in a statement Saturday.

In the statement, Poshard also said his vote against the war resolution was "maybe the toughest decision of my life."

Poshard also said the president should be supported but he would have preferred to let economic sanctions work.

At the discussion Wednesday, the audience applauded people who wanted the United States to wait another six months to let the sanctions work.

Poshard told the audience the United Nations are unified against Iraq as they never have been against a country before, and economic sanctions are working.

"What if we could wait another four or five months and save lives?" Poshard asked the (Bush) administration's critics that the sanctions are not working fast enough, and the will of the American people is running out. I think the American people's will would support (Bush) for that long."

On the diplomatic front of the Iraq situation, Simon said he thinks two mistakes have been made in its handling.

The first mistake, according to Simon, is that the president has refused to negotiate with Hussein.

"There are only two options. You negotiate or you have war," Simon said.

The second mistake that was made is Saddam Hussein was not given some kind of way out, although there would be a lot of disagreement as to what that way out would be, he said.

"When you grow up in rural America and live in rural America, you learn something very simple: Do not corner a rattlesnake. Give that rattlesnake a way to get out. And that is what we have to do in the situation over there," he said.

With other options not fully explored, the final option of military action is being made prematurely, he said.

"There is no question that we can win. How rapidly we can win is certainly an unknown. But it is too easy here, or in the Oval Office, in an antiseptic kind of situation to say we are going to make a decision that will cost thousands of lives, tens of thousands of lives, not just Americans, but Iraqis, and a lot of innocent people," Simon said.

"There will not be the life of a single hero as a result of the life of a single hero," he said.

While Poshard estimated that 90 percent of the casualties would be American casualties, Simon said after visiting U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia and reviewing military briefing he came away with the feeling that it would be 90 percent at least and perhaps higher.

"We are 6 percent of the world's population. Why, in resisting aggression—and we should resist aggression—should we assume more than 90 percent of the casualties? I do not think there is any justification for that," he said.

Simon also said military involvement could cost $1 billion a day.

"That is money that adds to the deficit, or is taken away from education and health care and other great needs," he said.

After visiting Saudi Arabia, Egypt, and Israel, Simon met with the president and voiced his views of why we should stick to the economic sanctions.

"There's an interest to see that the surcharge is passed," he said.

Revisions to the board's recommendations will be made after Gov. Jim Edgar proposes a total state budget.

The SIU Board of Trustees will reach a final decision by April on whether or not to accept the IBHE's recommended tuition increase.

Walter R. Rehwald, assistant to the vice chancellor, said at this time the SIU Board of Trustees has not forces universities to accept the Board's recommendations, said Bill Hall, SIUC student trustee and student member of the Board of Higher Education.

The Board's recommendations, which were approved Jan. 8, were submitted to the governor's office late last week for alterations. The governor's revised form will be sent to the IBHE for reallocation. The final budget recommendation will be presented to the General Assembly by the middle of March.

budget will be tight because of the $26 billion state budget. There will still have to be severe changes made to the proposal, said Osberg.

"The resources available are going to be limited," he said.

A seven percent salary increase for faculty and staff is also included in the proposed IBHE operational budget.

The IBHE also recommended $276.3 million for the capital budget, which provides for

PEACE PLAN, from page 1

Saddam first met Sunday with Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat and former Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega, and the U. S. television network CNN reported he kept Cuellar waiting for up to an hour outside his office before beginning their meeting.

The peace plan reportedly carried by the U.N. chief called for a simultaneous withdrawal of Iraqi troops from Kuwait and U.S.-led allies from the gulf region.

The plan would guarantee Iraq it would not be attacked after leaving Kuwait and included a pledge the United Nations would give priority to solving the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Arab diplomats in the Middle East expressed hope beforehand that Saddam would consider the plan and ask his parliament to endorse it in a special session Monday, just before the Tuesday deadline for Iraq to leave Kuwait.

"This is the last chance," an Arab ambassador in Cairo said. "Perez de Cuellar is offering Saddam what he can... if Saddam refuses, it will be war."

and local governments. Private scholarships and federal grants with race as the only criteria are exempt.

John Haller, SIUC's vice chancellor for academic affairs, will head the group discussion. He said the group will consist of campus officials from departments such as financial aid, student services, academic affairs and several of the graduate schools.

Haller said he is unsure to what extent the ruling will affect the university and the group is in a "fact-finding" stage. He believes as the Education Department attempts to refine or interpret the ruling the number of scholarships affected will probably decrease.

Nearly 800 colleges across the nation have some types of scholarships with race as the single criteria and could be affected by the ruling, Haller said.

"However, I don't think any of us are completely clear as to how and in what way," Haller said. "That's what we're trying to figure out now, to see what our response will be."

Based on the current version of the ruling, about $500,000 in grants at SIUC and about $270,000 at SIUE will be affected, Haller said. These amounts include all graduate programs and SIU School of Medicine grants.

Seymour Bryson, a committee member representing SIUC's affirmative action office, said he believes the issue is still very clouded and the group must be cautious in its actions. He believes group members are dealing with a "fuzzy interpretation" of the situation and should await specific guidelines from the government.

Bryson said SIUC has one of the largest minority enrollments of any university in the nation and he does not believe the ruling will have a major effect on minority enrollment. He said there is always the possibility the issue may instill a sense of fear in uninformed individuals in minority groups and cause them to believe they will not be able to afford higher education.

Carmen Suarez, a University affirmative action officer, took a stronger position on the issue. She said she considers the ruling an attempt to dismantle a 20-year system that is just starting to see the fruits of its labor.

"We (the United States) will lose our standing in the global community if we neglect segments of our own population," Suarez said. "It is for our own survival that we do this (give scholarships to minorities)."

Stewart, Bacall, Cruise presented distinguished achievement awards

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) — Movie stars James Stewart, Lauren Bacall and Tom Cruise were presented American Cinema Awards Saturday night for distinguished achievement in film at ceremonies graced by some of the most celebrated performers in the entertainment world.

Singer Whitney Houston was given the award for musical performer of the year at the eighth annual American Cinema Awards Foundation ceremonies, where more than 2,000 audience members, including some 200 stars mostly from the past, dined.

The $2,500-a-plate banquet benefited the Motion Picture and Television Country House and Hospital.

The American Cinema Awards were created by producer David Gest and singer Michael Jackson in 1983. The foundation also provides scholarships for theater arts, dance and music at colleges nationwide.

The awards, co-produced this year by Celia Lipton-Farris, are noted for the great number of performers in attendance.

Actress Arlene Dahl locked around the spacious International Ballroom at the Beverly Hilton Hotel and said, "I flew all the way from my home in New York to be here. Seeing all these familiar faces is like going to a class reunion."

Presenters were Frank Sinatra, Gregory Peck, Kirk Douglas and Maureen O'Hara. Robert Wagner played host to introduce film and TV celebrities.

The special Gloria Swanson Humanitarian Award was given to Leo Jaffe, former chairman of Columbia Pictures.

"This is a very great honor, one I treasure," said Stewart.

Administrative internships help women expand careers

By Jefferson Robbins
Staff Writer

University to get a look at me," said Evers, who has been with her department for the last five years.

The other 1991-1992 intern, Lorilee C. Huffman, has been curator of collections with the University Museum in Faner Hall for almost 12 years.

"I'M AT A POINT in my career where I feel a need to broaden out," Huffman said, citing the AIP award as a good starting point.

Lynette Wolff, program coordinator with the Evaluation and Developmental Center, also will undergo a one-semester internship with Nontraditional Student Service during spring 1991.

THE RECIPIENTS were notified of their selection in a congratulatory letter from University President John C. Guyon in November.

Sekaran said because the recipients work on their internships half of the time, half of their salary comes from Guyon's office.

"Where (recipients) undergo internship is a function of what their career goals are, what they are currently doing, how some other unit would mesh with their goals, and so on," Sekaran said of the program. "Fifty percent of their time they work on the internship, and that 50 percent of their salary is being paid by (Guyon's) office

"BECAUSE THEY PAY that 50 percent salary, a chairman can hire someone else to do the job (in the intern's absence)," Sekaran said.

A previous 1989-1990 internship was refused when its recipient, Elaine Vitello, accepted the deanship of the College of Technical Careers, Sekaran said.

One semester of Vitello's internship carried over into this year and was awarded to Wolff as another favorable AIP applicant, Sekaran said.

APPLICANTS to the Administrative Internship Program must be women who have been employed by the University in faculty, administrative or professional, or civil service positions for at least five consecutive years.

Applicants also must state clearly their career goals, expectations for the internship and personal strengths that could be useful in an administrative position, Sekaran said.

THREE UNIVERSITY women have been awarded placement in the University's Administrative Internship Program for 1991 and 1992, said Uma Sekaran, member of the AIP selection committee.

The program, administered by the University Women's Professional Advancement organization since 1988, allows female SIUC employees to gain two semesters of work experience in departments other than their own, Sekaran said.

SUCH EXPOSURE to different areas of administration allows University professionals to broaden their horizons and prepares them to step into new positions they might be offered in the future, Sekaran said.

Of nine applications considered by the seven-member selection committee, two were awarded internships to run during the fall 1991 and spring 1992 semesters.

One of them, Jane O. Evers, a coordinator with the Division of Continuing Education, called her new internship "a wonderful opportunity."

"It's an opportunity for the

Heart disease strikes more Southerners

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI) — Americans who live in the South are more likely to die from heart disease than those who live west of the Mississippi River, a report said Sunday.

The 1991 edition of the American Heart Association's Heart and Stroke Facts showed there is considerable geographical variation in the risk of dying from the nation's No. 1 killer throughout the United States.

"These trends have persisted for quite a while and they probably reflect the influences of lifestyles and socioeconomic factors," said Dr. Lewis Kuller, chairman of the department of epidemiology at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine.

Lifestyle factors that can influence the risk for heart disease include cigarette smoking, cholesterol levels and diet.

The states with the highest rates of death from cardiovascular disease are South Carolina, with 258.2 deaths per 100,000 people; Mississippi, with 256.1 deaths per 100,000; the District of Columbia, with 254 deaths; West Virginia, with 252.3 deaths; Louisiana, with 243.1 deaths; and Georgia, with 238.5.

The states with the lowest death rates are Hawaii, with 159.7; New Mexico, with 161.5; Colorado, with 169.3; Minnesota, with 174.3; Montana, with 177.1; and Arizona, with 178.

More research is needed to fully explain the variations, said Dr. Albert Oberman, director of the division of general and preventive medicine at the University of Alabama in Birmingham.

Heart disease remains the nation's leading killer, claiming the lives of nearly 1 million Americans.

ANC to shield itself after sect violence

Tambo: S. African townships react to worst massacre

JOHANNESBURG. — South Africa (UPI) — African National Congress President Oliver Tambo said Sunday his movement would develop self-defense units in black townships after the massacre of 35 ANC funeral mourners in South Africa's worst act of factional black violence.

"We are not prepared to fold our arms and watch," Tambo told a rally of more than 20,000 supporters in the Indian Ocean port city of Durban.

The ANC would plan "defense structures" in townships "as a matter of urgency," he said. Tambo did not detail the form of the structures, but added that the movement would continue seeking political solutions to internecine violence.

POLICE EARLIER Sunday announced the arrest of 10 people and confiscated several weapons following the massacre Saturday. Thirty-five people were killed and dozens were wounded when a gang fired AK-47s and tossed grenades at a funeral vigil for an ANC member killed in earlier violence.

Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok also declared the scene of the killings, the black township of Sebokeng, south of Johannesburg, an "unrest area," giving police wide powers of search and arrest, and imposed a 9 p.m. to 4 a.m. curfew on the area.

HIS ANNOUNCEMENT coincided with a fact-finding visit to the flashpoint township, the site of months of internecine black conflict, by ANC Deputy President Nelson Mandela and Internal Leader Walter Sisulu.

"I'm very upset about what happened," Mandela told one of the more than 30 wounded victims in Sebokeng Hospital, while scores of police and soldiers parolled the calm but tense township.

"WE'RE FILLED with revulsion by all this," local ANC organizer Kgalema Motlale said.

A gang firing AK-47s and tossing grenades killed 35 people and injured dozens early Saturday when they attacked some 300 ANC supporters holding a funeral vigil for an ANC member killed in earlier violence.

Hundreds of residents of the township of about 600,000 rampaged through the streets later in the day, seeking revenge for the attack, and police reported two people were burnt to death and at least five houses were razed by fire.

"I APPEAL TO all residents of Sebokeng to assist the police in enforcing law and order in their township," Vlok said in his statement.

"I wish to thank the police for solving non-stop in an effort to solve this gruesome massacre," Vlok noted in announcing the arrests and the curfew imposed "in an effort to curb further violence."

He said officers had confiscated a number of AK-47s — one of which had been ballistically linked to the attack — a quantity of ammunition, and that more arrests could be expected soon.

SEBOKENG HAS been a hub of violence during the surge of black internecine fighting which has killed up to 1,000 people in townships around Johannesburg since flaring in last August.

The Zulu-based Inkatha movement has been battling the predominantly Xhosa ANC over political and tribal differences. Inkatha denied any responsibility for the latest massacre.

Israelis decide own defense, prepare for chemical attack

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said Sunday that Israel's defense was the domain of the Israeli government, despite his meeting with a high-level U.S. delegation apparently sent to dissuade Israel from involvement in a possible Persian Gulf War.

Israeli officials meanwhile conducted emergency drills and handed out chemical warfare defense kits in preparation for a possible Iraqi attack. Iraq has threatened to attack Israel first if Iraqi forces occupying Kuwait are attacked by a U.S.-led multinational force.

Undersecretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger, carrying an undisclosed message from President Bush arrived Saturday and held several meetings over the weekend with Shamir, Defense Minister Moshe Arens and Foreign Minister David Levy.

"We continue to conduct talks with the delegation ... until the talks will end and we will reach a conclusion I cannot say a word," Shamir said.

But at a Cabinet meeting, Shamir reportedly said Israel's defense was the domain of the Israeli government and would remain so, Israel radio reported.

Shamir was responding to questions by several ministers whether he had consented to a possible U.S. request to refrain from retaliating if Iraq attacked Israel.

U.S. national security adviser Brent Scowcroft said Sunday on CBS television the purpose of the American delegation was to keep Israel out of the war.

Moshe Katsav, commenting on Eagleburger's presence, said Israel had until now behaved with more than usual restraint.

"It is impossible that if Israel is attacked, she will remain seated with folded hands," Katsav said. "Iraq must know that if Israel is attacked, Israel will react."

Zeev Schiff, a commentator for the Haaretz daily, said he thought the meetings would focus on "what happens after the strike, after we absorb the attack."

He said Israel does not oppose the fact the American military would attack Iraqi missiles and aircraft threatening Israel.

"The question is, what if they do not solve the problem ... are we only going to sit in our shelters," Schiff said.

Meanwhile, both Israelis and Palestinians were preparing for a possible Iraqi chemical attack.

Israeli civil defense authorities held a large scale drill in Tel Aviv, Israel's largest city and the city specifically targeted by Iraq.

The civil defense also started distributing 1 million chemical warfare defense kits at 900 distribution centers throughout Israel's rural sector.

Civil defense authorities said they hoped to finish the operation Tuesday. Army radio reported. Approximately 3.5 million protective kits were distributed in Israel's urban centers since the end of October.

The Israeli cabinet authorized Sunday Shamir and several other ministers to issue emergency regulations if needed to ensure vital supplies and services in special circumstances.

instructions from the civil defense officials, but rather continued boarding canned food and prepare their homes against the lethal gas.

Street vendors on Jerusalem's main Jaffa road were selling insulation tape for double the price. Plastic sheets used to cover windows were sold out in many of the capital's shops.

Palestinians in Israel's occupied territories, strong supporters of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, also were preparing.

Markets and gas stations in the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip were crowded with Arab inhabitants buying canned food and gasoline, Palestinian sources said.

Israeli military authorities temporarily closed all schools in the Strip.

Representatives of major Palestinian medical health institutions said the Arab population in the territories had not been provided with adequate protection against a chemical attack.

Costly comedians cause Cellar closing

By Stephanie Steirer
Staff Writer

The doors of the Comedy Cellar will be closed this semester because of its declining success since 1989.

Rising costs of hiring quality comedians and low attendance were the two main reasons for the cancellation of the Comedy Cellar, said Remy Billups, former coordinator of the Comedy Cellar.

"We went from crowds of about 350 to 400 people in the Big Muddy Room each week to crowds of about 150 when the location of the Comedy Cellar moved to the Student Center Auditorium," Billups said.

When the Comedy Cellar began in spring 1989, it was located in the Big Muddy Room on the lower level of the Student Center and admission was free.

But as the cost of booking comedians increased during fall 1989, the admission price was set at $1 and the crowds started to dwindle, Billups said.

People have more access to comedy now than they did when the Comedy Cellar first started, Billups said. "There are so many comedy shows on cable that people don't even have to leave their homes to see a good comedian."

During fall 1990, a decision was made to turn the Comedy Cellar into a once-a-month program, charge $2 admission and to move from the Big Muddy Room into the Student Center Auditorium, said John Corker, director of the Student Center.

"We tried it for a semester, but we ran into problems," he said. "Attendance was low and we would only take in about $100, when it was costing us $1200 to $1300 to put on a program."

Cher plays weird mom in 'Mermaids'

Film Review

By Karen Radius
Staff Writer

"Mermaids" is a warm-hearted comedy that looks at single parenthood and personal relationships in the early 1960s.

Cher plays Mrs. Flax, the unconventional and liberated mother who is ahead of her time for the 1960s. She is a single mother raising her 15 and nine-year-old daughters, Charlotte and Kate, played by Winona Ryder and Christina Ricci.

The family moves 18 times because of Mrs. Flax's experiences with men. She believes and tries to instill in her family, "Life is change, and death is dwelling on the past or staying in one place too long."

The premise of the film is that people cannot run away from their problems, which both Mrs. Flax and Charlotte learn after the family moves to a small town in Massachusetts.

The eccentric Mrs. Flax makes her own rules, dresses boldly in tight clothes with polka dots and cooks only hors d'oeuvres.

Charlotte, rebelliously trying not to be like her mother, dresses in a drab, conservative style.

Charlotte desperately wants to be a nun (even though the family is Jewish), but she is also in love with a nearby convent's handsome caretaker, Joe, played by Michael Schoeffling. This causes a hilarious emotional conflict within her.

The family's problems emerge after the late President John Kennedy's assassination, which the film recreates with the televised footage.

The loss of the father figure in JFK deeply affects Charlotte, who is still hoping her own father (who left many years ago) will reappear in her life.

Mrs. Flax unexpectedly falls in love with Lou Landsky, a local shoe salesman portrayed by Bob Hoskins, but tries to push him away after seeing her girls conforming to some of his traditional family ideals that threaten her unconventional idiosyncrasies.

The family is forced to face their problems after Kate suffers a near-fatal accident, which brings the family together again.

Although the only hint of the title's derivation occurs when Mrs. Flax dresses as a mermaid for a costume party, director Richard Benjamin said the women in "Mermaids" are in and out of water like mermaids, looking for a place to be.

Based on the novel, "Mermaids," author Patty Dunn said she chose the name because Kate is a little bit like a fish with her love for swimming.

Mrs. Flax, a bit more complex, chooses to skim the surface of life rather than fall in love and risk "immersion" that would mean losing her identity, Dunn said.

As for Charlotte, Dunn characterizes her as a mermaid on the shore, wanting to jump in, but is unsure whether she will "sink or swim."

Europe sides with Lithuania, condemns Soviet actions

Czechoslovakia could leave Warsaw Pact

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) — Czechoslovakia said Sunday it would consult with Poland and Hungary on a joint response to the Soviet crackdown in the mutinous republic of Lithuania, a response that could include "speedy withdrawal from the Warsaw Pact."

Soviet Ambassador Boris Pankin meanwhile was summoned to meet Czechoslovak Prime Minister Marian Calfa to explain Soviet intervention in Vilnius.

Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Jiri Dienstbier said he had been asked by his government "to consult with representatives of Poland and Hungary on the possibility of a joint response, including considering speedy withdrawal from the Warsaw Pact."

The Warsaw Pact retains a central military command which effectively binds its six member states to Moscow, but in reality, it is in near total disarray.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — The European Community Sunday "energetically" condemned the use of force in Lithuania by Soviet troops, and high-level NATO officials held a special meeting on the situation.

The 12-nation EC, which said it was "expecting explanations from the Soviet authorities," called an emergency meeting of foreign ministers on Monday to discuss Lithuania and the Persian Gulf crisis.

Foreign Minister Jacques Poos of Luxembourg, which holds the rotating EC presidency, gave the Soviet ambassador to Luxembourg a letter for Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

"I urge the Soviet authorities not to compromise, by acts seen as unacceptable by the international community, the relations between the European Community and the Soviet Union," Poos said in his letter.

Shevardnadze remains in his post for the time being, despite his resignation last month.

The NATO political committee, which includes high-level officials from the 16 countries, met "to consider the situation and to review the recent reports of injuries and deaths resulting from the use of force by Soviet forces," said a spokesman for NATO Secretary General Manfred Woerner.

NATO's political committee held

"The presidency is expecting explanations from the Soviet authorities."

—European Community statement

a special session on Saturday, then convened a second special meeting on Sunday.

The emergency meeting of EC foreign ministers in Brussels on Monday follows another special session last Friday in Geneva, which focused on the gulf crisis.

"We have learned with consternation about the bloody events which took place last night in Vilnius following the occupation by force of the local broadcasting station," the EC statement on Lithuania said.

"On behalf of the Community and its member states, the presidency energetically condemns such a use of force, which goes contrary to the spirit of the Paris Charter, solemnly adopted on Nov. 21, 1990, at the summit of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe," the EC statement said.

"The presidency is expecting explanations from the Soviet authorities, notably as concerns those bodies which gave the order to fire at unarmed civilians," the EC said.

those things that's going to happen sometimes."

The Salukis dominated the boards against Evansville 42-27, but the Purple Aces' 62-percent shooting from the field in the second half kept the Salukis snubbing a victory.

SIUC 61 E. KENTUCKY 65

The Salukis came away from Eastern Kentucky with their tails between their legs after a 65-61 upset.

The Salukis were down by seven at the half, but battle to stay in the race. They just could not hit the shots when they needed to.

"We just did not play very well at Eastern Kentucky," Herrin said. "We missed some easy layups that if we would have hit I think we would have won the ballgame. We played hard enough to stay in contention, but we just didn't hit the shots at the end to win it."

Mahan hit the only 3-point shot in the Salukis' 11 attempts, but he suffered from the field, shooting only 25 percent. The Dawgs were led by Amaya and Shipley, who each contributed 16 points and 11 rebounds.

Marcelo da Silva, a 7-foot freshman who was ineligible until Dec. 15, saw his first playing time of the season against Eastern Kentucky, but was held scoreless in only two minutes of play.

SIUC 75 INDIANA STATE 62

The Salukis opened their conference schedule by coasting to a 75-62 victory over Indiana State, giving Herrin his 700th career coaching win in high school and college.

The Salukis jumped out to a 46-31 halftime lead with an explosive offense that ran the ball up and down the court against the Sycamores. Then the Dawgs tenacious defense took over to hold Indiana State 36 percent from the field in the second half. The outcome was the Salukis' first conference win of the 1990-91 season.

"We jumped out and played an excellent first half," Herrin said.

"We did everything that needed to be done to win that ballgame. We ran the ball very well and played very good defense to shut them down in the second half."

OLD STYLE CLASSIC

The Salukis went into the Old Style Classic just hoping to play respectable basketball, but they came away with the grand prize.

SIUC beat Oklahoma State 85-73 in the first round and then fought off an 11-point deficit against Wisconsin Green Bay to win the championship game 70-64.

"We started slow against Oklahoma State," Herrin said, "but then Matt Wynn and Chris Lowery came in and they both got things rolling and played very good basketball. We beat a very good Oklahoma State basketball team."

"In the finals we were trailing by more than 10 and came back in the second half," Herrin said. "Chris Lowery sparked us again and then took it inside to Ashraf Amaya and Rick Shipley and dominated the game in there."

that he is one of the premier pitchers in the United States." Riggelman said, "and it is great to see a national publication agree. I certainly feel Sean has the ability to hold his own against any competition."

Riggelman who is in his first year at the Saluki helm after Richard "Icky" Jones took the head coaching job at the University of Illinois, is optimistic about his team living up to the top 40 ranking.

"Being ranked in the top 25 prior to the season is an honor and reflects on the job the players have done," Riggelman said. "With the core of our pitching staff returning and some key position players back, I do feel we deserve to be included among the top teams in the country."

The Salukis open their schedule March 5 with a doubleheader at Arkansas State before they take their spring trip to Miami, Fla. for 10 games. Bergman said he is looking forward to getting back on the diamond under his new head coach.

"Coach Riggelman has always been behind us 100 percent and it is easy to play for someone who has that kind of faith in you," Bergman said. "I have worked hard on my change-up since last season, have added some velocity to my fastball, and hope to be stronger than ever."

"Our bullpen was a key to my individual success last season as well and guys like Al Levine and Dale Meyer are back again in 1991, so I'm anxious to get started."

The Salukis will return 17 lettermen, including five starters from last year's team. A key to the Dawgs success will be the experience of the pitching staff, which will return four seniors and two juniors.

The Salukis' 49 wins in 1990 were the second-most ever, barely missing the 1974 team's record 50 wins. The squad's .328 batting average was also second-best, a distant second to the 1976 record of .355. But offense could be a question mark for the 1991 Salukis.

Riggelman lost two of the Salukis' biggest offensive threats from last year in Dave Wrona and Doug Shields who used up their eligibility. Between them, the duo finished first or second in seven statistical record categories.

A big stick back for the 1991 Salukis are junior second baseman Kurt Endebruck, who hit .357 and stole 24 bases last year, while also posting a .993 fielding percentage. Also back to spark some offense is senior left fielder Bob Geary, who slugged .331 a year ago.

GATEWAY, from Page 20

After a loss on the road to Creighton, the Salukis entered Gateway Conference play and began to dismantle conference foes. Since the new year began, SIUC has beat up on Southwest Missouri State, Wichita State, Eastern Illinois, Western Illinois and Bradley, to run its conference record to a perfect 5-0.

"We're extremely pleased with our start in the conference race," Saluki head coach Cindy Scott said. "The key to our success is our great team defense and our balance in scoring."

The balanced scoring has come as a result of increased offensive output by senior guard Alison Smith, sophomore forwards Kelly Firth and Angie Rougeau. But the bench of the Salukis is also making its presence felt. SIUC's subs outscored the starters 42-25 in a 67-54 win over Wichita State.

The reserves are led by senior Cheryl Weis, junior Karrie Redeker and sophomore Anita Scott.

The Salukis have made a slight change in the starting lineup as junior point guard Colleen Heimstead has returned to quarterback the Saluki offense. Heimstead, who is sharing much time with Scott, has responded with games of 15 and 12 points.

As has been the case all season, the defense has been the catalyst in the Salukis wins. Only one team, UNLV, has shot better than 50 percent against the Salukis this season and only UNLV and Creighton have out-rebounded SIUC. The Salukis lost both of those games. Another factor is the drop in turnovers. At the midway point of last season the Salukis were averaging 22.6 turnovers a game, while this season the mark has dropped to 17.1 a game.

Firth took charge of the Saluki offense. She led SIUC with 15 points and chipped in with eight rebounds.

With scoring and rebounding help from her frontcourt mates, Rakers had less of the scoring burden, but by no means did she have an off night. She added 10 points, 11 rebounds, three steals and two assists.

"If Rakers has an off night last year, we lose by 20 points," Scott said. "This season others are picking up the scoring slack. This is one of the reasons we think were a better team than we were last season."

The Braves second-half comeback was led by Val Wanket, who poured in 14 of her 20 points in the period.

While Wanket was hitting shots in the second half, her teammates were tossing up bricks as the Braves shot just 31 percent from the field. The Salukis were a little more on target, shooting 43 percent in the second half.

Firnhaber named to academic team

By Julie Autor
Sports Editor

Saluki volleyball player Martha Firnhaber said she had a gut feeling she would be named a GTE Academic All-American in volleyball.

"After I won district I had this gut feeling that I'd be named in the top six," Firnhaber said. "Sometimes you get these feelings that you know something is going to happen. I'm not sure if it has hit me or not about how big of an honor it is."

Firnhaber was the only junior selected to the senior-dominated District V volleyball team in November. She was also the only player to have a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

A Business major from Shelbyville, Firnhaber was one of six members named to the squad by the College Sports Information Directors of America. Firnhaber was selected from a 48-person ballot by 1,400 sports information directors across the U.S. and Canada.

Firnhaber said being named to the First Team has been a goal of hers since she left high school and she believes it generates a better name for student-athletes.

"It makes a good name for the team and Patti's (Hagemeyer) program," Firnhaber said. "There's always this feeling with athletes and how much they study. It just proves that you can give to both. You just have to set your priorities."

Firnhaber is the third Saluki spiker to be named to the First Team. Former Salukis Lisa Cummins (1985) and Jill Broker (1983) were also named to the First Team.

SIUC volleyball coach Patti Hagemeyer said Firnhaber has adjusted well to all pressures.

"I'm very excited for Martha because I know how much her grades mean to her," Hagemeyer said. "It's not only intelligence that gets you a 4.0, you have to be able to adjust to what goes on around you and apply what you know to different situations. Martha has done that remarkably well on and off the court."

Firnhaber is ranked 6th on SIUC's career assist list and she was ranked 4th in the Gateway Conference for her 1,613 assists for the Salukis last season.

Saluki high jumper Plab qualifies for NCAAs

By Cyndi Oberle
Staff Writer

The SIUC men's track team started the new year at its second indoor meet of the season Friday at Arkansas State with a new meet record and a few event victories.

Sophomore Darrin Plab set the Shearson, Lehman, & Hutton Invitational meet record with a personal best high jump of 7-6 1/2. This jump is two inches over the requirement, of 7-4 1/2 needed to qualify him for the NCAAs.

"This was a phenomenal performance for Darrin," men's track and field coach Bill Corneli said. "With that jump, he will now be regarded as one of the best young high jumpers in the country. He deserves much credit."

Other victories in the non-scored meet included a first place in the 35-pound weight throw by senior Dirk Mathias with a personal best of 54-2. Teammate Brent Graham took second in the event with a throw of 48-9.

SIUC's relay team of sophomores Scott Jonsson and Harry and Michael Danner placed second and third at 8:33.66 and 8:53.99 in the same event.

Corneli said he was happy overall with his team's performance considering the athletes were on team when we're competing against schools such as Texas and Mississippi. We stood out even though we were without two of our best athletes who hadn't returned from break yet."

The team had three of the finishing places in the 55-meter run with freshman Patrick Bridges in second place with a time of 6:44. Teammates Garrett Hines and Guy Sikora placed third and fourth at 6:51 and 6:52.

Other Saluki finishers were junior Ed Williams, placing second in the 55-meter hurdles with a time of 7:44, and Landell Smith in fifth place at 7:73. Schmidt (2:00.17) placed third in the 800-meter run, and Seaver (2:01.14) placed fifth in the same event.

Sikora finished third in the 200 meter dash with 22.87, and Schwartz was second in the mile run at 4:12.49.

"This was a phenomenal performance for Darrin. With that jump, he will now be regarded as one of the best young high jumpers in the country. He deserves much credit."

— Bill Corneli

Todd Schmidt, freshman Kent Seaver and junior Nick Schwartz placed first in the 3200-meter relay with a time of 8:09.25.

Junior Mark Stuart took first place in the 3,000-meter run with a time of 8:33.74. Juniors Vaughan their own to train during the holiday break, and even though there are some rough spots, he is pleased with the way the team is going.

"I think we showed up exceptionally well at this meet," Corneli said. "It says a lot for our
