U.S. launches missile attack on Iraq

Zapnews

BAGHDAD — The United States launched a fresh attack against Iraq Sunday, firing some 40 Tomahawk cruise missiles at an Iraqi nuclear facility on the outskirts of Baghdad, the White House said.

"Today's action was designed to make clear to Iraq that non-compliance with U.N. Security Council resolutions will not be tolerated," spokesman Martin Fitzwater told reporters.

The strike was also aimed at ensuring that Iraq will never again acquire arms of mass destruction, he added.

The cable network CNN said one person was killed and several were injured in an explosion at Baghdad's Hotel al-Rashid. It was not clear if the blast was related to the attack.

The Iraqi news agency INA said more than 30 people were wounded when the missile hit the hotel. It also said the dead woman was a hotel employee.

"It is the Iraqi leadership that bears full responsibility for today's events," said Fitzwater, speaking in Washington.

The missiles, which have a range of more than 1,250 miles, were fired from U.S. warships in the Gulf and the Red Sea. No U.S. planes were involved in the attack.

The facility, located near the center of the city, "made components used by Iraq in its program to create nuclear weapons," Fitzwater said. Fitzwater said the U.S. acted in compliance with its allies.

The attack, on the second anniversary of the start of the Gulf war, came after an Iraqi MiG plane was shot down in the northern Iraqi "no-fly" zone by a U.S. F-16 earlier in the day and a border violation reported by the Kuwaitis.

It was not immediately clear whether the attack destroyed the Iraqi facility in the suburb of Zaffarrieh. "We don't have a damage assessment at this point," Fitzwater said.

Fitzwater said the main reason for deciding on the use of missiles was "because it did not put U.S. personnel in jeopardy".

The attack followed the refusal of Iraq "to allow inspections without interference of any kind and with complete safety and freedom of movement as is required by the United Nations resolutions," he said.

Asked if the attacks would continue, Fitzwater said it could not be assumed that attacks would cease until compliance was reached.

Fitzwater said President Bush had consulted with French President Francois Mitterrand, British Premier John Major and

King's dream speech lives on after 30 years

By Casey Hampton
Special Assignment Writer

Thirty years ago, America's greatest civil rights leader shared with the world his dream for a society free of racial discrimination, a society in which the color of one's skin was insignificant.

Today, SIUC honors Martin Luther King, Jr. on his birthday with a breakfast, reminding people that the man's life was cut short by an assassin but his dream lives on.

Julius Thompson, SIUC assistant professor of Black American Studies, said King symbolizes renewed hope for the equality of people of all races and backgrounds.

"Dr. King stands as a visionary giant of the 20th century who continues to stand as a model of effective leadership," he said. "He gives us a sense of renewed dedication to struggle ahead in the campaign for economic, political and social justice in the United States and countries abroad. He also stands as a central figure in the move toward world peace."

An Atlanta native and active Baptist minister, King gained national prominence

Slim budget increase, tuition lock in works from IBHE for fiscal 1994

By Michael T. Kuciak
Administration Writer

A slight budget increase from the state and a generally supported tuition freeze are in the works for fiscal year 1994, but both proposals could change in the unpredictable future.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education suggested at their Jan. 5 meeting tuition should stay at its present amount, and SIUC President John C. Guyon said the University will follow the IBHE recommendations.

The IBHE officially suggested that tuition in public universities should not increase in fiscal year 1994, staff salaries should increase by an average of 2.5 percent and $4.6 million should go towards improving undergraduate education and minority student achievement. By making these recommendations IBHE followed its Priorities, Quality, Productivity agenda, a program to improve the quality and

Cinema, photography chair resigns

By Tracy Moss
Administration Writer

David Gilmore, associate professor and chairman of the Cinema and Photography Department for the past six and a half years, resigned as chairman on Jan. 1, and associate professor Gary Kolb took over as acting chairman.

Gilmore said he was not forced or pressured to resign.

"It was my own decision," Gilmore said.

His primary reason for resigning was his photography research. Gilmore was on sabbatical last semester concentrating on his research that became more productive and time-consuming than he had anticipated.

Two weeks before the spring semester, he decided to step down as chairman to continue his photography.

"This has been the most productive time ever for my work," Gilmore said. "It's just time for me to step down for my own interests which primarily concern my research."

Gilmore said his decision to step down was also partly motivated by the problems the department faces because of the dismantling of the College of Communication and Fine Arts.

"Of course, I wasn't as informed of the problems since I was on sabbatical," he said.

Police are continuing to investigate the fatal arson-spawned fires at The Pyramids apartment complex Dec. 6, but no arrests have been made.

About a dozen investigators from the Carbondale Police, the Federal Bureau of Alcohol,

Scott nets 300th win

Defense, run spur Salukis to 73-64 win

By Vincent S. Boyd
Sports Writer

In one of the biggest games in SIUC history, the Salukis used a 15-2 run at the end of the first half and tough defense down stretch to beat Illinois State 73-64.

The victory was the 300th career win for Cindy Scott and the team's third in a row. The Salukis improved to 7-5 overall and 3-1 in the conference while ISU dropped to 6-7, 2-2.

The Salukis were fueled early with a scoring binge by forward Angie Rougeau and the all-around play of point guard Anita Scott. Rougeau scored 15 of her team-high 23 points in the first half and 13 of the team's first 23.

With her three assists, Rougeau tied Dana Fitzpatrick on the all-time assist list with 323. She now needs 38 to move past Marialice Jenkins into second place. D.D. Plab is the all-time leader with 508.

With the her team up by six with 3:31 remaining, Coach Scott called what proved to be a game-shifting time out. After the timeout, the Salukis outscored ISU 15-2 to end the half.

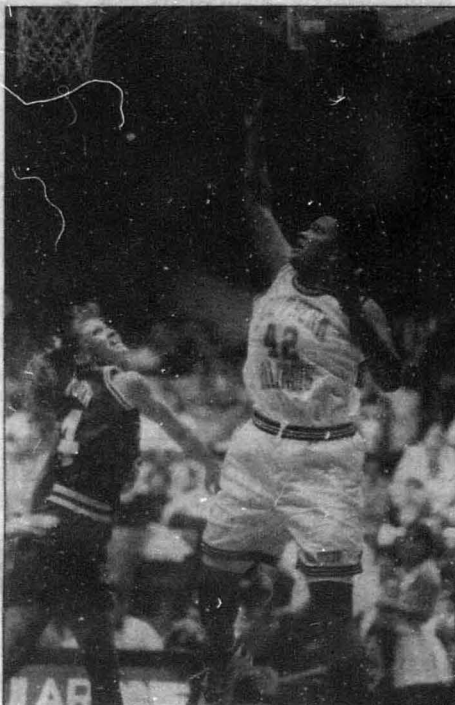

Guard Robin Smith, who had been struggling the past four games, provided a much-needed spark as she connected on two jumpers and had a steal that resulted in a three-point basket by Scott.

Coach Scott said Smith's play turned the game around.

"She probably made the difference in the game," Scott said.

Slumping Salukis to take on Bradley

By Karyn Viverito
Sports Writer

Coming off two consecutive losses to last-place teams in the Missouri Valley Conference, the Saluki men's basketball team finds itself in a bit of a slump as it faces Bradley tonight.

The Braves, 5-7, are coming off a loss to MVC foe Drake Saturday night, but have pulled off an upset in the conference by beating Southwest Missouri State.

The Braves are led by 6-foot-6 freshman forward Deon Jackson and 6-1 senior guard Charles White. Jackson is averaging 11.4 points a game for the Braves with White averaging 10.4 points.

Going into Carver Arena, the Salukis find themselves with a 2-8 record at the Braves' home and are 0-2 in MVC action on the road this season.

SIUC suffered its most recent road loss against Creighton Saturday night when the Bluejays took the Salukis by surprise, beating them 79-71.

Creighton head coach Rick Johnson said the Bluejays' tried to prepare with a simple game plan.

"In focusing on limiting easy baskets and scoring opportunities, we were able to go in knowing our goals," he said.

"I think we did well in those areas."

The Bluejays defense allowed the Salukis to shoot only 41 percent from the field and created 21 turnovers to back up their offense, which was led by senior guard Matt Petty's 28 points.

"Creighton showed us they are a good basketball team and came ready to play," SIUC head coach Rich Herrin said.

SIUC senior forward Ashraf Amaya led the Saluki effort, scoring 14 points and pulling down 10 rebounds. Junior guard Chris Lowery and senior guard Tyrone Bell followed, each scoring 11 points.

Creighton is 2-4 in the MVC, with upset wins over SIUC and Illinois State.

The SIUC men's indoor track and field team placed second in one of the closest meets in history.

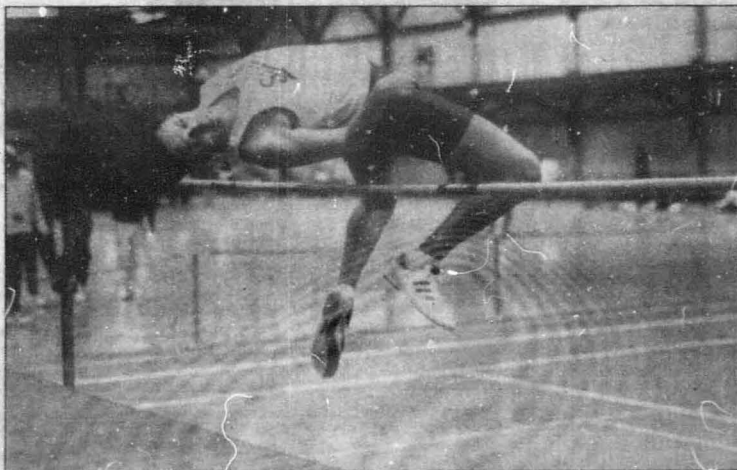

Georgia Tech won the Southern Classic meet Saturday with a score of 103 points, followed by SIUC with 102.5, Alabama with 102, and Mississippi State with 101.

"A good, close meet; the competition was very keen," Georgia Tech coach Buddy Fowlkes said.

Also competing were Arkansas State (88 points), Murray State (27), and Southeast Missouri State (23.5).

"This is supposed to be a rebuilding year, but this meet shows that we can still compete with the best teams in the nation."

SOUTH AFRICAN ECONOMY IN SHAMBLES — South Africa's economy is in such a shambles that political leaders of all races have no choice now but to move quickly toward some kind of "power sharing" arrangement before it's too late. African National Congress President Nelson Mandela said in an interview Sunday. "The lesson has been drummed into the minds of politicians that we can no longer afford to be delayed, because our economy is in tatters," Mandela said.

PRISONER SWAP OCCURS IN SARAJEVO — French Health Minister Bernard Kouchner Sunday negotiated the first-ever prisoner swap between the warring sides in the Bosnia; capital Sarajevo, Croatian radio said. Thirty-two Serbian prisoners were freed by the Bosnian side late Sunday. In return, the Serbian side would free 32 Muslim and Croatian prisoners and hand them over to the Bosnian authorities in Sarajevo at the latest on Monday.

IRAQ THREATENED WITH FURTHER STRIKES — British Prime Minister John Major Sunday indicated that there may be more strikes against Iraq unless Baghdad complies with United Nations Security Council resolutions. Major, speaking to reporters, said the U.S. attack was launched because Iraq had "willfully disobeyed the requirements of the international community time and time again. They were aware that they were risking a response," Major said.

COMMERCE DEPARTMENT NOMINEE CRITICIZED — Republicans may seek more hearings on the nomination of Ronald H. Brown to head the Commerce Department, Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said Sunday. Criticism of Brown, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has increased because of his lobbying ties as a prominent Washington lawyer. "There may be a request for additional public hearings," Dole said.

CANADIANS SPENDING MONEY AT HOME — It may be bad news for such U.S. border towns as Blaine, Wash., or Port Huron, Mich., but it's good news for Canadian retailers: Canadian shoppers are starting to spend their money at home again. For the past two years, bargain-hunting Canadians have been traveling by the hundreds of thousands, if not the millions, to such unlikely U.S. attractions as Blaine to unload their cash. Guidebooks, newspapers and a telephone hotline appeared in Canada, offering tips on where to get the best U.S. deals.

GORE ISSUES WARNING TO IRAQ — Vice President-elect Al Gore on Sunday issued a warning to Iraq's Saddam Hussein, saying President-elect Clinton will be just as tough on Iraq as outgoing President Bush. Speaking on NBC's "Meet the Press," Gore said Clinton would consider using force when necessary and urged the Iraqi people to oust Saddam. Gore also repeated a campaign promise to seek the creation of a United Nations tribunal that would try Iraqi leaders for war crimes. Gore's tough comments on Saddam came as tensions heated up again.

CLINTON TO CONTINUE RETURNING HAITIANS — President-elect Bill Clinton is unsure whether his last-minute decision to temporarily continue the Bush administration's policy of forcibly repatriating Haitian boat people will avert a threatened flood of refugees. But even if his policy succeeds in blunting the exodus in the short term, his new administration must address the long-term issues of restoring democracy and fostering economic stability and growth on this island if it hopes to undercut the factors that have driven tens of thousands of people to attempt the treacherous sea journey to the United States.

WORLD'S OLDEST SIAMESE TWINS DIE — Funeral services were held Saturday for Yvonne and Yvette McCarther, reputedly the world's oldest Siamese twins, who died Jan. 2 in Long Beach, Calif., at the age of 43. The sisters spent most of their lives as gospel singers — beginning at age 6 — and toured the United States with many top gospel groups. At the time of their deaths, they were pursuing a career in nursing at Compton Community College, and were scheduled to graduate this year. The McCarther twins were born joined at the head in 1949.

Community surprised by closing of Venture

By Mikael Pyrtel
Business Writer

The closing of the Venture store at the University Mall came as a shock to employees and community officials alike, who were under the impression that the store was doing relatively well.

However, company officials cite poor long-term sales and earnings potential as the reason for the closing. The store's last business day is Feb. 13.

With the store's closing, 121 full-time and part-time employees will be displaced.

To assist with the relocation process, Venture is offering preferential treatment to those employees who submit transfer requests, providing there is an opening at the store they wish to transfer to.

Venture management also is assisting employees by giving a severance package but will not comment on what that severance package includes.

Venture is not allowing its employees to comment on the stores closing or how it will affect them.

Heitman Retail Properties of Chicago, which owns and leases the mall property, expressed discontent at Venture's surprise move.

"We see this decision as a reflection of Venture's inability to compete with Wal-Mart, Target, and K-Mart," said Robert Pearlmutter, Heitman's chairman.

Kim Phillips, Venture spokeswoman, said competition was not the problem. "We operate 92 stores in eight Midwestern states where Venture maintains a good share of the market," Phillips said.

With the new Wal-Mart super store approaching completion, there was speculation that the competition was too fierce and the time to leave was now.

Larry Nevilee, Venture store manager, said that this is not the case.

Nevilee said the increasing competition from the new stores in the area are all taken into consideration in the company's marketing plan, and the new Wal-Mart has nothing to do with their decision to leave.

Phillips said Venture is shifting its concentration to the Chicago, Kansas, and Texas markets. The discount retailer plans on opening 15 new stores in Chicago and one in Kansas.

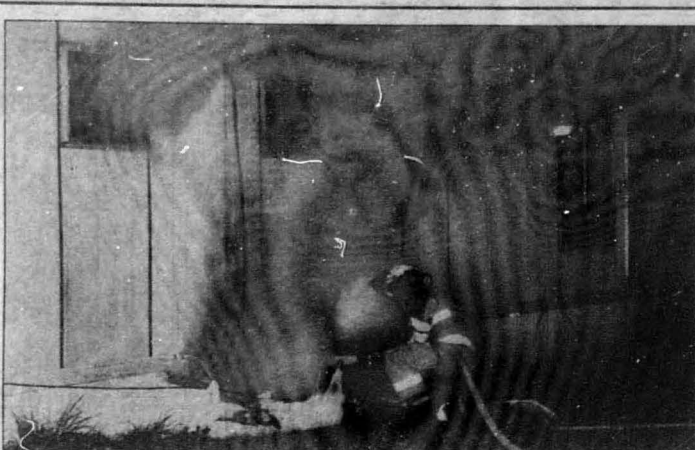

The Texas market will be entered for the first time in early 1993 with the opening of 11 stores in Dallas and Houston.

Phillips would not comment if the store planned to do anything different to appeal to the new markets they were entering.

Sally Ricker, investment broker for A.G. Edwards and Sons of Carbondale, says that they are estimating growth earnings of 9 percent to 11 percent for the national retail chain.

In the next few years the firm expects Venture to open about 10 new stores a year as the company moves into new markets.

The company's optimistic attitude, however, is of little conciliation to University Mall management. "It's disappointing they didn't take more time to learn the nuances of the market," Heitman said. "We had expected more of a commitment from Venture."

Law proposed to assist farmers

By Jeremy Finley
Politics Writer

Legislation introduced by Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Bellefonte, could considerably relieve a burden for Southern Illinois farmers, a farm bureau official said.

Tom Jett, manager of the St. Clair County Farm Bureau, said the legislation will allow farmers to invest in gains without paying taxes — an investment that could make the later years of life easier for land owners.

Costello's legislation is aimed at decreasing the negative effects of the eminent domain process, where farmers are forced to sell their land for government transportation projects. The eminent domain process is of special interest to area farmers because farmland may be needed for expansion of Scott Air Force Base for joint commercial use and the proposed four-lane toll highway from Carbondale to St. Louis, said Costello spokesman Brian Lott.

Lott said these land owners have no choice but to sell their land. The problem lies in the eminent domain law, he said. Farmers who sell their land can avoid paying a capital gains tax by investing the gain in a like-kind property.

The like-kind property, according to IRS guidelines, is usually other farmland. Jett said. The investment in farmland could cause a large problem for farmers, especially for senior farmers.

"This seems to be a problem for older farmers," Jett said. "They don't want to go in and start a new farm when they're in the golden years of their life."

Costello's legislation would change the law to allow land owners to invest their gain in any property, such as retirement plans or stock investments, Jett said.

Goal for semester: follow King's lead

AS CLASSES BEGIN Tuesday, the University community should set a few goals for the semester. Traditionally students aspire to do well in classes, to enjoy the SIUC atmosphere—without breaking laws—and to become more aware of the community. While paying for tuition, fees and books, students realize they must become aware of what is happening on campus so they can take advantage of the opportunities for which they pay. The day many students are returning to campus is no ordinary day: It marks the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr. King spent a lifetime seeking to bring peace to the United States.

IT IS FITTING that the SIUC community should set goals that reflect his efforts toward harmony among all people.

Although best known for bringing national attention to injustices against African Americans in the South, King was a champion for the rights of all humans. He wanted to see a peaceful and caring world.

Because he wished for peace, his attempts to right injustices were carried out peacefully. Ironically he was a victim of violence when he was assassinated in 1968.

KING'S CALL FOR people from all backgrounds to get along was effective. The SIUC community was an example of the progress made during the tragic fire of early December.

The outpouring of help was tremendous when arson took the lives of five international students, injured eight and displaced more than 30 from their homes at The Pyramids.

And the help was not just material: The piles of clothes, food and money that came from the community for the victims were outshone by the 800 who attended the memorial ceremony for the dead in respectful silence.

THE REGARD SHOWN for those affected by the fire shows progress some have made in respecting fellow human beings.

But the fire and its aftermath also displayed a need for people to keep working at that mutual respect. Several students said they feared for their safety after hearing the fire was deliberately set.

It is unfortunate that anyone should feel threatened in society—and that threatened feeling is one of the things King battled most.

THIS DIVERSE UNIVERSITY community should make it a goal to carry on King's work by setting an example of how to live and learn together in peace.

Quotable Quotes

"I don't resent anything. It's a funny thing. I'm in a mood where I don't have any resentment in my heart."—President George Bush, denying he has ill will toward President-elect Bill Clinton for bashing Bush's policy on Haitian refugees during the 1992 campaign. Clinton announced last week he has adopted the policy temporarily.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board.

Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 300 words. Letters fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

Investigation into 'October surprise' unfounded waste of money, time

Los Angeles Times

The allegation that members of Ronald Reagan's 1980 presidential campaign organization conspired with Iran to delay the release of 52 American embassy hostages until after the November election has been found by a House investigative panel to be without credible supporting evidence.

This rejection of the so-called October surprise itself comes as no surprise.

Last year a Senate committee similarly concluded there was no credible evidence to indicate that the Reagan campaign had tried to get Tehran to stall on freeing the hostages to gain electoral advantage during the campaign.

And so once again millions of dollars in public money and hundreds of hours of congressional time have been spent.

The panel examined a conspiracy theory that, from the very beginning, was based on little more than imaginative speculations and woolly suspicions.

It was buttressed in some cases by the claims of a number of self-styled insiders who were found subsequently to have lied on major points.

The theory, which originated not long after the hostages were released on Inauguration Day in 1981, gained prominence two years ago when it was raised anew by Gary Sick, a former member of President Jimmy Carter's National Security Council.

In essence it suggested that Reagan campaign representatives cut a deal with Iran.

The panel examined a conspiracy theory that, from the very beginning, was based on little more than imaginative speculations and woolly suspicions.

The gist of the alleged deal was that Tehran could expect favorable future treatment from Washington if it held off on the hostage release until after the election.

William J. Casey, later Reagan's director of the Central Intelligence Agency, was supposed to have been the chief go-between.

But House investigators examined hundreds of relevant phone records, hotel bills, credit card receipts and intelligence reports.

In all their studies, they could find no evidence to support a key claim that Casey had been in a certain place at a certain time where he could have had an opportunity to collude with Iranian representatives.

Moreover, an Israeli who was the source for many of the allegations and who said he was present at crucial meetings was found not to have told the truth.

Will the two congressional reports bury once and for all the October surprise allegations?

The nature of conspiracy theories is that although they can be put to rest, they never really die, because there will always be those who have motives for resurrecting them.

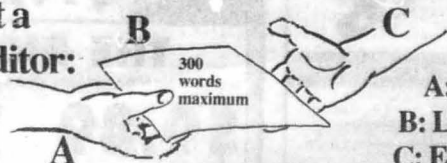

And, to be sure, documented revelations about actual government improprieties over the last 30 years or so have undoubtedly helped foster a climate where even the wildest speculations can gain adherents.

Had it actually occurred, the October surprise would have been "little short of treachery," in the words of the House panel.

But exhaustive investigations have found no evidence that it did occur.

That is what deserves to be remembered most about this allegation.

Because of the dismantling, the Cinema and Photography and other departments have been trying to form a new College of Communication.

Kolb, associate professor of photography, served as acting chairman during Gilmore's absence last semester and became very involved in the effort to form a new College of Communication.

"I was in on the original discussions about the proposal to form a new College of Communication and developed a good understanding of the situation," Kolb said.

As chairman, Kolb can continue to use his understanding of the proposal to help in the development of a new College of Communication.

"My decision to step down is part of a continuing process," Gilmore said. "Kolb can continue his work in forming a new College of Communication, and I can continue my research."

Kolb will serve as acting chairman until June 30. After that date a decision will have been made if a new College of Communication will be formed. If so, then a new Cinema and Photography Department chairman will be elected.

Gilmore will continue to teach this semester while doing his research.

"As chairman of the department I didn't get to teach as much as I would have liked to," he said. "I love the students and look forward to working with them more."

program to improve the quality and availability of Illinois higher education, in their 1994 budget recommendations.

To fulfill these improvements, the IBHE asked the governor and the General Assembly to set aside $1.4 billion for Illinois higher education in 1994, a 3.1 percent increase. SIUC would get $175.7 million of that money, a 2.8 percent increase from the $170.9 million SIUC got for 1993.

Guyon said that the University most likely will not see all of the money that is needed.

"We won't get less than Fiscal Year 1993, but we probably won't get the full 2.8 percent," he stated. "It will just be whatever survives all of the processes."

Guyon stressed that whether or not large amounts of state funds come through, SIUC will follow the IBHE recommendation that tuition be frozen in 1994.

"If they recommend no tuition increase, we will not raise tuition," he said. "A tuition freeze does not cost anything; it means no dollars either way. State funds do not have anything to do with it."

Ross Hodel, deputy director of IBHE, said that despite doubts about a cash-starved Illinois, the state should be able to pick up the tab of a $72 million increase in funds.

"That is the reason why we proposed a 3.1 percent increase," he explained. "There has been forecasting about new state revenue between $600 and $800 million."

In Baghdad, Iraqi anti-aircraft fire went into action about 9:30 p.m. Throughout the attack traffic flowed normally in the city center.

The Kuwaitis said earlier one Iraqi was killed when a Kuwaiti border patrol opened fire on three Iraqi infiltrators.

The strike was the second in the past five days, following last Wednesday's U.S.-led allied air raids against Iraqi anti-missile weapons in southern Iraq.

in 1955 by advocating passive resistance to segregation and leading a year-long boycott against the segregated bus lines in Montgomery, Ala.

He also established the Southern Christian Leadership Conference from which nonviolent marches, protests and demonstrations from which black rights could be organized, most notably the 1963 March on Washington.

Nearly three decades ago during this march to support civil rights legislation, he spoke to a crowd of about 250,000 people and coined the phrase, "I have a dream."

"Dr. King's dream was a dream for America at her best, an America where everybody had equal opportunity to live out his or her potential without being hampered by the color of one's skin."

—Rev. B.R. Hollins

"I have a dream that one day even the state of Mississippi, a state sweltering in the heat of injustice, sweltering in the heat of oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice," he said.

"I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skins, but by the content of their character."

But his leadership was challenged as civil rights activists became more militant.

On April 4, 1968, while planning a multiracial march for antipoverty legislation in an attempt to intensify his opposition to the Vietnam war and economic discrimination, he was slain in Memphis, Tenn.

Rev. B.R. Hollins, of the Rock Hill Baptist Church in Carbondale, said the "violent nature of King's death is a paradox of life, and presented a setback in the fulfillment of his visionary world.

"Dr. King's dream was a dream for America at her best, an America where everybody had equal opportunity to live out his or her potential Wahid, 28. A lawsuit was filed Dec. 21 by Carbondale attorney John Womick on behalf of two of the students injured in the fire, Gergana Zlateva and Simona D. Dimitrova, both of whom were forced to jump from a third story window to escape the blaze.

The suit alleges that Bonnie Owen Management Company, the manager of the apartment complex negligently failed to provide security at the complex, allowing some-

Earlier Sunday, Iraqi President Saddam Hussein delivered a defiant hour-and-a-half speech in which he again refused to recognize the two air exclusion zones over his country and called on his people to remain firm in the face of Western "aggression".

In a three-minute speech broadcast after the cruise missile attack, Saddam called on his people to retaliate.

"Strike at them you brave ones. God, his messengers, his angels and his troops are with you," he said.

without being hampered by the color of one's skin," he said.

"I believe his dream is still on the agenda—there have been some setbacks, but there have also been some advances."

Linda Flowers, president of the Carbondale chapter of the NAACP, said despite any advances, King's dream still has not been recognized.

"His dream for equality and justice for all has evolved further: than in the 1960s, but I don't think it has been realized because prejudice and discrimination are still prevalent in the U.S.," she said.

But Flowers said there have been steps to keep people mindful of King's dream, and the fact that he fought and gave his life for everyone's equality and justice. One of those steps was awarding him a national holiday.

On Jan. 20, 1986, the nation celebrated the first official observance of the King holiday. Thompson said King's holiday recognizes the contributions all African-Americans made to a world free of racial discrimination.

"The King holiday symbolizes an attempt by Americans to at long last note for the record the historical contributions of African-Americans in the nation's history," he said.

"And thus we set aside this specific day to acknowledge him in light of the contributions of the many millions of unknown and unsung people in American history."

Thompson said the world has yet to fulfill the hopes on which King based his existence, but there have been advances in the education and basic freedoms for blacks and other minority groups.

"However, more than 30 percent of African Americans live in poverty in the United States," he said. "And this does not fulfill King's dream."

Regardless, King's dream is still alive, Thompson said.

In the words of King, "And when this happens, when we allow freedom to ring, when we let it ring from every village and every hamlet, from every state and every city," he said.

"We will be able to speed up that day when all of God's children, black men and white men, Jews and gentiles, Protestants and Catholics, will be able to join hands and sing, in the words of the Negro spiritual, 'Free at last. Free at last. Thank God almighty, we are free at last.'"

'Body of Evidence' is cliché

By Er'ck J. Enriquez
General Assignment Writer

"Body of Evidence" was a poor attempt to cash in on the success of "Basic Instinct."

It fails on three levels: as a sexual thriller, a courtroom drama and a rip-off of "Basic Instinct."

An old man is found murdered — killed while in the heat of passion.

His blonde, dominatrix lover is accused of the crime because of her wild, sexual lifestyle. A young, cocky guy is called in to investigate the blonde. Is she, or isn't she the killer?

"Body of Evidence" masquerades as a sexual thriller within the same mold as "Basic Instinct" with different actors.

Madonna plays the Sharon Stone role; Willem Dafoe plays the Michael Douglas role: the tough yet vulnerable lawyer who does not know whether Madonna did or did not kill her lover. To find out, he must enter her sexual world and compromise his values to discover the truth. Sound familiar?

The film also tries to pass itself off as a courtroom drama. It puts the audience through a seemingly endless line of witnesses, who seem to have no purpose but to contradict Madonna's defense.

The trial starts out with Madonna looking guilty, and as the trial nears its end, Dafoe finds one piece of evidence that could win the case.

The courtroom scenes were full of clichés that were boring as well as familiar. Every objection is sustained, and every witness statement makes the court audience gasp. It just does not seem to work.

Even the constant turn of events in the trial seem to offer no sense of surprise or excitement.

Madonna could not pull off the intensity Stone brought to the role of the sadistic, blonde sexpot, and her attempts to seduce the audience with her charm fail miserably.

She brings nothing to her role but an attempt to seduce her audience with a charm that doesn't exist.

Madonna plays Madonna in this movie — she is not Rebecca Carlson, the suspected killer of her lover. She is Madonna in a conservative dress.

The sex scenes are ridiculously absurd: one scene involves Madonna pouring candle wax on to Dafoe's crotch.

The burning wax is enough to stimulate Dafoe's sexual appetite, but not enough to save the humdrum plot.

In another scene, Madonna breaks a light bulb above a car, which arouses Dafoe so much that he has sex with her on the hood as the broken glass rips into his back.

The direction was poor and the editing was slow-paced — it was like watching a made-for-television movie, with sex scenes on the big screen. Director Uli Edel received a bad script, and was not able to make anything entertaining out of it. This movie was just plain boring.

"Body of Evidence" is an obvious attempt to cash in on the popularity of Basic Instinct. Even the plot and characters seemed to be the same.

If you're looking for a courtroom drama, see "A Few Good Men". If you want "Basic Instinct," rent "Basic Instinct."

Improved fire alarm system planned for residence halls

By: Shawna Donovan
General Assignment Writer

Plans are being developed for a new, upgraded fire alarm system for SIUC residence halls, a University Housing official said.

The project is its first phase of development and design, said Don Ballestro, residence hall facilities manager.

"The primary purpose of the new system will be to upgrade the existing system to meet the Carbondale city code," Ballestro said.

Highlights of the new fire alarm system plan include smoke alarms in hallways and strobe lights to accommodate the hearing impaired.

Boomer, Wright and Allen halls will be the first to have the new system if plans and bids go through.

"Ultimately, we hope to have all residence housing with the new fire alarm system," Ballestro said. "It is just a matter of figures and time."

Steve Kirk, residence life manager, said the plan is not a response to the Dec. 5 fire that killed five SIUC students.

"The proposal was already in progress before the Pyramid's fire," Kirk said. "We just want to make sure we are up to standard."

As of now, bids have been too high for the initial plan.

"We will not get money from the state for this plan," Ballestro said. "We raise money through room and board and also, revenue bonds."

Further plans on the new system will be discussed at a meeting at the end of the month.

After the final designs and plans are made, the new fire alarm system will go to the SIU Board of Trustees for approval and to start the bids on the project.

When finalized, the plans will go into effect as early as fall 1993.

"For this first phase, we only have $270 to start out with to adjust plans and materials," Ballestro said.

"Hopefully, we will get this system installed," he said. "It just depends."

Voter registration drive targets students

By Sanjay Seth
City Writer

The Graduate and Professional Student Council will hold a registration drive for students to vote in spring City Council elections, an important process in providing a voice for students in city affairs, Susan Hall, president of GPSC said.

Hall said registration will be at the Student Center Hall of Fame from Jan. 19 to Jan. 22 and Jan. 25. Times for registration will be 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Dana Lawyer, the coordinator of the drive, said the council makes many decisions affecting students. Students should, in turn, make an effort to vote for the new council members as this will inadvertently affect them.

"About 3,000 students voted in the last council elections," Lawyer said. "We would like to see more students register in this drive."

"We have to realize that we have the power to affect who goes in the council and how they represent our needs," she said.

In the past, the City Council has made important decisions affecting students ranging from anti-keg laws and the scrapping of the Halloween celebration.

Lawyer said a new city tax that would involve more than $1 million from students, as compared to a much smaller amount from residents of Carbondale, was another good reason for students to get involved.

The Jan. 23 primary will consist of nine contenders and the field will be narrowed to four in the April 20 elections.

Two council members will be elected from four candidates to serve in the City Council.

In February, GPSC also plans to co-sponsor a candidates' forum, Hall said.

"This forum will be debate-style, and it will be a good opportunity for students and others to judge the candidates for themselves," Hall said.

She said it was important the candidates be given the chance to present their credentials at the forum and this would also be an opportune time for questions.

Hall said the first forum will be at 7 p.m. on Feb. 15 in the Student Center Auditorium. A second forum will be held before the elections.

Registrants must be residents of Jackson County and provide two forms of identification.

SIUC freshman to perform during state inaugural gala

By Jeffrey Wheeler
General Assignment Writer

While most people will watch Bill Clinton's inauguration to the U.S. presidency, one SIUC student will do considerably more.

Julie Prince, 18, a freshman from McLeansboro with a double major in math education and music, will be performing the national anthem and the Illinois state song at the Illinois Inaugural Gala, which is scheduled for Tuesday night at the Grand Hyatt Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Although the event is intended to honor the entire Clinton/Gore team, it is especially focused on Illinois' native daughter Hillary Clinton, who is scheduled to attend the event.

Prince said she is a little nervous, but she hopes to use it to her advantage.

Such confidence may seem unusual, but Prince is not new to such events. She has performed for Bill Clinton on two previous occasions.

The first time was at a fundraiser in Carbondale sponsored by the Southern Illinois Democratic Committee in September 1991.

The second time was in Vandalia where Prince was scheduled to sing for about 20 minutes while the crowd waited for one of Clinton's bus tours to arrive.

However, as sometimes happens, schedules were not met, and she ended up singing considerably longer.

She said it was worthwhile when she was able to speak to the Clintons and the Gores and even light the future president's candle in a ceremony after his arrival.

She became involved in politics at a young age through her father, Jerry, with whom she co-wrote a song for Sen. Paul Simon's 1988 presidential bid.

The song was good enough to be used again in Simon's 1990 re-election race.

She plays five different instruments including the piano, the brajo and the mandolin and has been singing seriously for about five years.

Prince's only other definite plans are to attend the swearing-in ceremony. She left for Washington Saturday and will be returning later this week.

Photos capture Peru as unique, alien land

By Andy Graham
Entertainment Writer

Photographer Marilyn Bridges brings to life the mystical planet of ancient Peru by manipulating the country's raw terrain into alien shapes, lines and abstract designs in the campus exhibit "Planet Peru: An Aerial Journey Through a Timeless Land".

The pictures are compiled from a book published in 1991 by Eastman Kodak, which features recordings of the virtually untouched landscape of the ruinous country.

The exhibit is an educational event, Museum Education Director Robert DeHoet said.

"I am hoping that this exhibit will motivate people to want to learn more about ancient Incan culture," DeHoet said. "These photographs are so very interesting."

However, the photographs do not use the normal components of landscape photography.

Combining the adrenaline fury of adventure with the motivation of creative inspiration, Bridges, often called Indiana Jane, shoots her pictures from the wing of a single-engine airplane at altitudes of less than 1,000 feet.

The product of this unique technique is a work of art that could leave the spectator mystified. The photographs, because of the perspectives at which they were taken, resemble the landscapes of a remote alien world.

The low altitude at which the pictures were taken, when combined with shadows and naturally occurring lines, create a dizzying effect. The ruins of ancient Peru trigger curiosity about another world, without a gas station on every corner.

Her photographs bring back to life the Incan Empire through views of adobe fields, terraces, sinkholes and sites of ancient agricultural experiments.

The photographs are more effective in black and white than they would have been in color because of the distinct light values designed to add to the alien feel.

Planet Peru opens Tuesday at the University Museum and will run through Feb. 28.

Police checking for other victims held in dungeon

Zachry

NEW YORK — Police spent the weekend trying to determine if Katie Peers was John Esposito's only young prisoner in his Long Island dungeon while Esposito was put on a suicide watch in jail after threatening to kill himself.

The girl, whose 16 days in captivity in a coffin-like tomb horrified the nation, testified before a grand jury on Friday. Law enforcement sources said an indictment is expected Tuesday charging Esposito, 43, a Beers family friend, with kidnapping Katie.

Other charges also might be lodged against Esposito, whose alleged sexual advances were spurned by Katie, police said.

Esposito is being held on $500,000 bail at the Suffolk County jail, under protective custody and 24-hour observation.

Recycling committee still waits for member selection

By Angela Hyland
Environmental Writer

SIUC administrators are taking steps to meet the requirements of the College Recycling Law but have failed to reach their goal of having nominations for a special recycling committee in by Jan. 15.

James Tweedy, vice president for administration, asked nine different areas of the campus community to nominate individuals to serve on the committee. Only a few groups made the deadline, Tweedy said.

Having representatives from a variety of units on campus would provide officials with insight into areas that SIUC needs to deal with to fulfill the requirements of the recycling law.

The law requires all Illinois colleges and universities to develop a comprehensive recycling plan by 1995 and achieve a 40 percent reduction in the amount of landfilled solid waste by 2000.

"We'd hoped to have the nominations in by now," Tweedy said. "We really can't do anything until they (the organizations contacted) respond."

The Undergraduate Student Government was one organization that missed the deadline. USG President Brad Cole said he was looking for someone who showed a real concern about the issues.

"My concern is finding someone who will deal with the issues," Cole said. "Once people express an interest (in serving on the committee), we determine whether or not they're appropriate for the position from their knowledge and dedication."

It is not uncommon for this decision process to take a long time, Tweedy said.

"It's an effective method, but it can be slow," he said.

A reminder will be sent out early this week urging organizations to get their nominations in, he said.

"We haven't set a new deadline," he said. "We're just asking that they try to get their nominations in as quickly as possible."

"The first thing we want to do is get the group organized," Tweedy said. "Then we can set about the task and deciding how to accomplish our goals."

William Capie, associate vice president for administration, has been appointed chairman of the recycling committee. The appointment was a logical choice, Capie said, because his current duties include overseeing purchasing.

"Purchasing post-consumer, recycled goods will be a major issue," he said.

The term post-consumer indicates a product was made from recycled material rather than sawmill scraps that would have been recycled anyway.

"There will be a lot more to the committee than just recycling," Capie said. "Our first focus will be measuring and analyzing our waste."

"We need to find out which items that we're (currently) discarding are recyclable or reusable. We'll certainly have this done by the end of the first semester," he said.

In order to meet the requirements of the recycling law, the committee needs to look at all areas of SIUC.

Some areas pose more difficulties in reducing the amount of waste than others, Capie said.

"The health service creates an interesting dilemma," he said. "They have a large amount of medical supplies and we need to find out how we can recycle (some of) these supplies. We have some very specialized disposal needs."

"The food service also creates an interesting dilemma," Capie said. "What should we do with unused food products? We have some pretty broad objectives."

Capie said he does not plan on letting the committee's slow start discourage him.

"Although we didn't make the deadline (for forming the committee), we're not going to stop the process," Capie said. "We recognize that the holidays probably made it difficult."

For groups to get together and come up with their nominations."

Iowa, Missouri, Illinois St. down Salukis over break

By Karyn Viverito
Sports Writer

While most SIUC students were home relaxing over the winter break, the Saluki basketball team went to work at its' home — the basketball court.

Over the break, the Dawgs played a total of nine games, which included their start of Missouri Valley Conference games.

The Salukis traveled to Puerto Rico for the San Juan Shootout and found themselves playing in the championship game against nationally ranked Iowa, where they lost to the Hawkeyes, 90-70.

Before the Iowa loss, however, SIUC racked up impressive wins against Radford, 108-82, and Mississippi State, 76-64.

Senior guard Tyrone Bell was named the MVC player of the week after the shootout to join senior teammate Ashraf Amaya as the second Saluki to be awarded the honor this season.

Bell was 15 of 23 from the floor, 3 of 7 from three-point range and 16 of 17 from the free throw line for a total of 49 points for the three games.

After a brief break for the holidays, the Salukis traveled to face non-conference Mississippi and came up victorious, 85-78, to start what would become a three-game win streak.

The return to Carbondale brought the Salukis their first MVC victory as the Dawgs whipped Creighton 85-64, and then moved on to beat Evansville in a convincing 65-42 non-conference victory.

The Saluki streak would stop at the hands of the Missouri Tigers, but it was not easy for the Tigers to put a halt to the Salukis' winning ways.

In a fight to the finish, SIUC took Missouri into double overtime on its home court before the Tigers finally finished on top, 82-76.

After the Missouri loss, the Salukis came home to play MVC foe Northern Iowa in a match-up that turned out to be a Saluki blowout, 88-69. The Dawgs could not carry that momentum over to their next game, however.

Illinois State would be the next conference game for SIUC, with the Dawgs going in to Redbird Arena as the favorites, and leaving as the victims of an upset, 88-74.

ISU's Mike VandeGarde led the Redbirds scoring attack with 26 points, three of them closing out the victory at the buzzer as he sank a trey from half court. Guard Richard Thomas followed up with 16 points.

Amaya led the Salukis with 21 points and 12 rebounds, followed by junior guard Chris Lowery with 20 points.

Swimmers drop meet to KU

By Dan Leahy
Sports Writer

The SIUC swimming and diving team dove into action against Kentucky last weekend for the first meet of the new year.

The SIUC women lost 160-58, and the men dropped a 133-110 decision to the Wildcats.

SIUC women's coach Mark Klumper said even though the women lost by a decisive score, many of the women swam their best times of the season.

Kelly Krogh swam a lifetime best in the 500 freestyle of 5:05.19 to grab second place in the event.

Rachel Brian took first place for SIUC in the 1,000 freestyle with a time of 10:22.19.

"Right now we are pretty tired," Klumper said. "We have been training individually throughout the break, but we've had hard team workouts in the past week."

SIUC men's coach Rick Walker said he expected a close meet with the up-and-coming Wildcats.

"They've got a new 50-meter pool that's attracting some quality athletes," he said.

Kentucky's program has made two jumps up in the past two years and have become a good rival for us.

"They were more prepared to swim fast times than we were, but we are concerned with how well we are going to swim later in the season," Walker said.

Kevin Rosepapa won the 200 freestyle with a time of 1:42.26, and SIUC's 400 freestyle relay team of Rosepapa, Doug Fulling, Mark Wehner and Erin Switzer won with a time of 3:09.19.

The men also got a solid performance from the divers, with Rob Siracusano setting a pool record with 368.93 points on the three-meter board.

second half and center Kelly Firth finished with 10 points and 14 rebounds.

With SIUC leading 42-19 early in the second half, ISU center Caryn Brune, a 6-foot-4 senior went to work on the smaller Salukis. She scored virtually at will with 18 of her game-high 29 points in the second half.

However, a "big" lineup consisting of Bolden, Firth and Rocky Ransom on the front line and Rougeau at guard, eventually took its toll on the Redbirds. ISU Coach Jill Hutchison said a key to SIUC winning was players stepping up their games.

"I thought they had a lot of kids step up that haven't been producing lately," Hutchison said. "Anita (Scott) played well and Angie's (Rougeau) always played well against us."

Coach Scott said she thought Scott's play was her best performance of the season.

"It was really indicative of what we expect from her," Coach Scott said.

am of the 300 wins is that they've all been at the school," Scott said.

"That's the significant thing to me because this program means a great deal to me."

All-American candidate Anita Scott, said Coach Scott means a lot to the players.

"I think we care a lot about Coach Scott," Scott said. "We are happy we could get her 300th victory at home." Hutchison said she could see the Salukis wanted the victory more than ever.

"I think her kids play hard for her," Hutchison said.

"I think they wanted this game for her as much as anything."

Coach Scott said she is proud of the milestone, but is happy it is out of the way because it was affecting her players. "I'm just glad it's over with because my kids were worried about it," she said.

"That's the last thing you want them worried about."

Scott said she is happy the victory came over ISU.

"To win against a very strong program like Illinois State, is one of the nicest victories we could have won," Scott said.
