It CAN Happen Here

Old Main is the proud possessor of another new water fountain located in the northwest hallway of the main corridor on the first floor. This new fountain's prime purpose is for thirty students who could not possibly make it to the other fountains on the second or third floors.

At the present time the water connection has been made, but the electric cooling system has as yet to produce results. It is hoped that this inadequacy will be rectified in the near future. Until then the fountain's water trade will lag.

Seriously though, we can remember back in the pre-war days when Old Main was the sole possessor of a single water bubbler. It was a spasmodic affair, producing water about half the time and acting as a used chewing gum receptacle to the other half. At one time it was prerequisite to be part celled before one could enroll at Southern. Otherwise one could not stand the gasf.

To us older students the appearance of these new fountains at advantageous spots on campus is a welcome sight. Improvement, even in its most minute form, means progress. It is just one more visible evidence justifying the right to call ourselves a university.—G.R.D.

Lights That Never Fail

Before reading any further, stop and consider the high cost of things today. There is the eminent possibility that prices will rise even higher.

Now then let's take a look at Southern, electrically that is, and see how much electricity is wasted as we pass many of the classrooms, and other rooms as well, we notice that while no classes are being held in them, yet the lights often are burning merrily, and the fans are, at times, whirling busily. We feel sure that people do not leave lights and fans on in their own homes when they are not in use. We know that it is a custom for people to sponge off the other person, when it costs them nothing. However, this is one custom that we can do away with here at Southern and perhaps should. —F.W.F.

What Have You Read Today?

How much do you read? No, I am not referring to the comic section or the sports page. I am talking about newspapers as a whole, weekly and monthly magazines, and other similar periodicals, and of course, books from the library.

It is a well-known fact that the person who has the most misconceptions, prejudices, and warped opinions is usually the least read. The person who knows the facts is cautious in forming opinions. He is not narrow-minded or dogmatic. He thinks clearly before stating his views.

The ignorant person can tell you everything about everything. He does not have to refer to books for his knowledge, he gets it from his own mind. Lacking initiative in reading about some matter, he eagerly pounces on some rumor and rides it for all it is worth.

The well-read person, like the educated person, is humble. He knows that he cannot be an authority on everything. He considers each problem squarely and honestly, and makes no snap judgments. He reads both sides of the question and forms his opinions intelligently.

The next time you read a newspaper, look at the front page carefully. There might be something there that interests you that clears up some misconception idea that you may have, and proper knowledge of the facts might save you embarrassment and criticism. Make it a habit to read one of the weekly newsmagazines. They have the news in condensed form, and they offer many and varied opinions on all matters. When you do reading for a class, don't breeze through with the idea of "getting it off." Try to get something out of what you read. It might surprise you, but some of those books are actually very interesting.

"Joe, y'know what the thought said to the bread?"

"No, don't believe I do. What?"

"If I had your dough I wouldn't be hanging around this hole."

A lot of the guys could have money if someone would introduce a lipstick that is kiss-proof, smear-proof and 100 proof.

It's these hot days that makes most of us wish we were frozen to our jobs.

Customer: "Call the manager, I've never seen anything so tough as this steak."

Waiter: "That's because you haven't seen the manager."

Chiroprapist: "You have athlete's foot."

Patient: "What a shame, I always knew I should have been a sportsman."

Two ladies who had not seen each other for a long time met on the street.

"Oh, Agnes," ripted an over-emotional Louiser, "a lot has happened to me since I last saw you. I've had my teeth pulled and a refrigerator and electric stove put in."

The best place to find a helping hand is at the bottom of your arm.

Customer: Hey waiter, there's a fly in my soup!

Waiter: Oh, monsieur ess mistake; zat in soup ees not a fly, it ees a vitamin bee!

Surplus Of Graduates Ahead

The U. S. News and World Report of June, 1948, has cast some factual information on the state of affairs for the college graduate and what he might expect. Here are the observations:

IN MAJOR OCCUPATIONS, prospects are reported to be as follows: ENGINEERS, enjoy bonanza opportunities now. In most areas, new engineers are taking their pick of several jobs. One company's personnel manager reports that, out of every three graduates interviewed, he is able to get only one to take a job with his company.

But 30,000 engineers are being graduated in 1948, more than 35,000 are expected in 1949, and more than 46,000 in 1950. About 252,000 veterans are studying engineering in schools. Yet only 6,000 to 7,000 engineers die or retire each year. The big shortage of engineers created in wartime is beginning to be made up.

Many future engineering graduates thus are not likely to find engineering jobs immediately available.

JOURNALISM graduates, and those in radio and advertising, apparently far outnumber the jobs available at this time.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION graduates are said to be profiting from a surprisingly heavy demand for their services this year. Men and women with accounting training, sales and marketing training are in special demand. What happens to demand next year will depend on the turn of business activity. Business training is one of the most popular courses. About 311,000 veterans are taking business courses.

NURSES, too, are in short supply. Department of Labor figures show that 317,800 registered nurses were available in 1947, compared with a need for 359,500. Minimum demand for registered nurses in 1960 is estimated at 554,200. But nursing school enrollment dropped in 1947 because young women are not going into the profession.

TEACHERS, the largest professional group, may expect continued good employment opportunities. From 80,000 to 100,000 teaching jobs open up every year in grade schools, high schools, and colleges, as older teachers die or retire. New teachers are not being trained fast enough to fill the gap, although enrollments in education courses are rising. Shortage of college-rank teachers is severe in some fields.

Average pay offered to college graduates is reported to be around $240.00 a month this year, compared with about $100.00 a month offered in 1940. Next year and later, the larger supply of job applicants will tend to push starting salaries down.

Seeing the mass flow of college graduates ahead, some educators are warning that the supply of people trained for white-collar jobs soon may exceed any probable demand.

How To Get Good Grades

- There are three methods of acquiring good grades but the first two are impractical. The first method involves that province of peasants: sermons and concentrated study. The second requires an extra quota of tell-tale gray matter. The hints for the third method are given in the little quiz below and, if used with discretion, are guaranteed to increase your potentialities.
- Answer "yes" or "no" to the questions that follow. Each "yes" should count one point. If your score is three or less, go home and pack—your mama's calling.
1. Do you live in a sorority or fraternity house? (If answer is "yes", use house cribs and skip remainder of test.)
  2. Do you date the departmental assistant? (See No. 1.)
  3. Do you let your prof know early in the semester that I think I'm going to get more out of this course than any course I've had before?
  4. Do you interview his former students to ascertain his favorite topics, viewpoints, and hobbies?
  5. Do you tell him that a certain lecture was so interesting you would like additional sources of reference for your own research?
  6. Do you remain bright-eyed and attentive during recitation period even if it is an 8 o'clock class?
  7. Do you give your prof clippings pertaining to his course or lectures?
  8. Do you volunteer to answer all questions even if only to prove you have a mere verbiage-grasp of the obvious?
  9. Do you let your prof know you were in the same branch of service?
  10. Do you ask questions which will give him an unusual chance to display his knowledge?

Charley Attamer's High Bred Corn

BY WILLIAM E. MOSS
 (Tall corn and tall tales have long been products of Southern Illinois. The following story, a folk tale from Pope County, manages to incorporate both tall corn and the tall tale. Only names have been changed. The writer has related the story as it was told by a corn farmer.)

When I come by Charley Rattamer's place one mornin last May, I found him plantin fish. Now, that might sound like a right tall fish story, but I swear he was plantin fish.

I ain't much on makin conversation with Charley cause he ain't what we call sociable, but that plantin fish got me kinda curious and I right up and asked him what the heck he was plantin fish for; and he didn't get mad or nothin; he just explained that he read about it sommers in a book, probably the Bible, and he was tryin it out on his prize corn for the County Fair.

All of us here in Pope county is great on the county fair, and Charley most of all. He makes it a point ever year to win the prize on his corn, which he has for the past five years. I just got lucky at findin out how he done it. Anyway, that's the fish story.

Charley, like most of us folks, ain't never lived on no real corn land like Champaign county, and if we are plannin to raise aize corn, why, we just put in an extra acre of good seed and pamper it along, kind of, until we see how tall we can get it to go and how many ears we can get to the stalk.

For five years Charley's been winnin first prize, and he ain't never had a stalk under twelve feet—that's corn—and there's always been at least three ears to the stalk, big ears, long as your fore-arm.

Now, when I tpe the fish story over at Bency's store in Rose Bud, nothin would do all the fellers but they come out to have a look at Charley's fish crop; and they did; they come out in swarms and almost drove Charley nuts with questions about whether he was raisin bass or blue gill. But Charley didn't say anything, he didn't even git mad as was his usual way; he just tolerated the folks and the fool questions, and let the crop speak for itself.

Well, it did! I never seen such a crop of corn in Pope county. Before the first week in July, that corn was taller and greener than any I ever seed south of Springfield; and Charley was so tickled with it that he'd come over to Bency's and spend hours talking about it. By the middle of July that corn outdone anythin I ever heard about. Everbody from Metropolis to Bay City was talking about Charley's corn.

Come time for the fair, Charley had five stalks of that corn all laid aside for the show. Ever stalk was over 14 feet, and there was four ears on three stalks and three monsters on the other two. Course he look'd the prize; but what got us wasn't so much the fair prize as the big write-up in the farm magazine showin Charley holdin up a stalk of that corn in one hand and a little old cat fish in the other. The article said that Charley called his prize crop, "high bred" corn; and it went on to say that Charley had put a vitamin pill in ever fish he planted right along with the corn seed. Well, we knowed it couldn't have been the fish; it had to be them durn vitamin pills that he never told nobody about.

TWO PROFESSORS ARE APPOINTED

Appointment of two new associate professors at Southern Illinois University, to assume their duties next fall, has been announced by University President Chester F. Lay.

Dr. Hellmut Hartwig has been appointed associate professor of foreign languages. A bachelor's graduate from the University of Illinois, he holds the master's degree from the University of Illinois. Serving for two and one-half years in the U. S. army, he had reached the rank of captain at the time of his discharge.

He taught German and Latin at L. S. U., Indiana university, the University of Kansas City, and Union college.

Dr. Amos Black, now head of the mathematics department at Lebanon college, has been appointed associate professor of mathematics at Southern. He holds the bachelor's degree from Marietta college, the master's degree from West Virginia university, and the doctor's degree from Cornell university. He has taught at all three of these institutions before going to Lebanon.

FACULTY MEMBERS EXPERIMENT IN CHICKEN-TASTING

Members of the College of Vocations and Professions faculty served as guinea pigs in a chicken-tasting experiment conducted by Alice Reed at a picnic recently.

The picnic was at Giant City state park and the experiment was testing by taste the difference in fried hybrid chickens and leghorns. Questions were asked by Mr. Reed, instructor at University high school, about the difference, if any, in taste or tenderness. The pieces of one breed were labeled A and the other B. The report is that the score was a tie. Approximately one-third marked hybrid, another third marked leghorn, and the other third marked "no difference."

Ten hybrids and ten leghorns were tried to a tender golden brown before the picnic. Mr. Reed, who took advantage of the gathering to test his experiment, received hearty co-operation.

Lancour Speaks On 'Books For Today'

Dr. Harold Lancour, assistant director of the Library School at the University of Illinois, will be the principal speaker for the Educational Materials Exhibit this morning at 9 o'clock in the Shryock auditorium.

Dr. Lancour's topic will be, "Books for Today." The public is invited, according to Dr. Victor Randolph, director of the exhibit.

In addition to his formal education, Dr. Lancour's experience included five years in publishing and the book trade in Seattle, Wash., two years on the New York Public Library staff, and several years of military service in the second world war. In 1944-45, he served as an instructor in the army library school at Paris and Oberammergau, helping to train G. I. librarians.

Except for the period of his army career, he was on the Cooper Union staff from 1927 until he came to Illinois, serving first as museum librarian and, since 1940, as librarian.

Miss Marietta Richards was married to Melvin Johnson at St. Elizabeth Baptist church, Friday, June 25 at 8 o'clock.

Miss Bobbie Ingram was married to John T. Drake at the Walnut Street Baptist church here in Carbondale, on June 28 at 4 o'clock.

Held at the University of Denver, the meeting consisted part of the election of officers and the organization of a program for the coming year.

Featured at the conference was an exhibition of pictures and news stories from publications of respected colleges. Awards and honors for outstanding work in these categories were presented at the conclusion of the meeting.

SOUTHERN GETS RECOGNITION IN EDUCATION REPORT

Southern Illinois University has received an eight-page spread of text and pictures in the annual report of the State Department of Registration and Education, recently distributed by the department director, Frank C. Thompson.

The report on Southern, by President Chester F. Lay, recounts the 1946-47 developments at this institution, which on July 1, 1947, assumed its new name—Southern Illinois University.

Tracing new steps in university organization, faculty growth, enrollment trends, educational developments, student affairs, and physical expansion, the Southern report is accompanied by photographs of President Lay, "Old Main," acceptance of veterans housing projects, award of a master's degree, ground-breaking for temporary classroom buildings (now in use), radio/broadcasting, a physics laboratory, the kindergarten-nursery school, Dean E. G. Lentz with a rare book from the Tilton Library, and a music student at the chimes.

FANER'S DISSERTATION TO BE PUBLISHED

Dr. Robert Dunn Faner, associate professor of English, has announced that his doctoral dissertation "Open and the Poetry of Walt Whitman" is to be published by the University of Pennsylvania press, Philadelphia.

It was written during the winter of 1946-47 as a dissertation at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Faner stated that the possible date of publication is not known.

STUDENT WIVES TO HOLD MEET JULY 9

The Student Wives club has announced a meeting in the form of a pot-luck supper July 9. All married students are invited by the club to be present. Beginning at 8 p. m., the supper will be held at the southwest corner of the Chautauque housing project. Those attending are requested to bring their own service (plate, silver, and cup). Drinks and ice cream will be served by the club. The group is anxious for a large turnout.

Must Submit Authorization Blanks During July

Campus offices or departments who employ students must submit authorization blanks, as the fiscal year begins July 1. Blanks must be submitted to the dean of men's office during the month of July, according to Dr. Marshall S. Hibberd, acting dean of the College of Education.

Students Register With Info Service

All students must register with Information Service and Alumni Records, according to word received from Dr. Orville Alexander, director of Alumni Services.

Registration will take place July 13 through 16 from 9 to 10 a. m. and 1 to 5 p. m. at the Information Service located in the second floor of Shryock auditorium.

IBM Equipment Speeds Tabulation of Records for Registrar

With one speed; impression this machine can turn the punches on your IBM cards into a printed name—and never makes mistakes. That is, if you don't "fold, mutilate, or spindle" your card. This new equipment materially reduces man hours and errors in records. Miss Marjorie Shank, registrar, and Arthur Halfar, faculty assistant, are shown beginning at the new device.

Principal feature of the IBM equipment used here is its ability to sort the cards into certain categories for which the cards have been punched. Theoretically, it would be possible to punch combinations which would automatically segregate any combination, such as left-handed Republicans majoring in mathematics who live in Anthony Hall.

A. A. U. P. TO FEATURE VISITING FACULTY AT SUMMER MEET JULY 12

Local chapter of the American Association of University Professors will meet for the summer session Monday, July 12 at 6 p. m. in the university cafeteria.

Program for the meeting will include a panel discussion by three or four of our visiting faculty members and one from Southern's own group on the activities of chapters of A. A. U. P., according to Miss Esther Shubert, secretary.

Heart Disease Is Fatal to J.M. Schuh, Coach at DuQuoin

Julius M. "Buddy" Schuh, 41, who recently resigned as athletic director at Du Quoin high school, died at his home there June 30, apparently from heart disease. Schuh was enrolled this term at Southern, where he was doing graduate work.

Schuh formerly coached at Cairo and had been a member of the coaching staff at Greater high school. He served as a captain in the air forces recreational program during World War II.

He is survived by his wife and two children. Schuh was buried in the Hounds cemetery with military rites.

The Egyptian office has obtained two half-moon copywriting tables which were built by the carpenter shop.

Moake To Speak To Gamma Thetas

Dr. Irene A. Moako, visiting teacher of geography, will speak before Gamma Theta Upsilon, at the last summer meeting to be held July 19.

First meeting of the summer term was held June 21. Planning of a schedule for the rest of the meetings of the school year was conducted at this meeting.

Old members who are on campus this summer are asked to contact Dr. Floyd Cunningham in the geography office.

Training School To Be Constructed; $2,250,000 Cost

Construction of Southern's long awaited so-called training school and education building will begin in the near future, according to Pres. Chester F. Lay. The building contract has not as yet been awarded, however, bids have been considered and it has been reportedly assured the contract is now to be let, according to information received by the President's office from a Mr. Stockman, Division of Architecture and Engineering of State of Illinois, St. Springfield.

To be located between Grand avenue and Mill street just west of the campus, the training school will be constructed at a cost of approximately $2,250,000. Southern's new training building will include classrooms, laboratories, and offices, and will consequently release the Allyn building for other purposes. Approximately the same amount of space will be available in the new construction as it now contained in Old Main, Old Science, the Library, Packinson Laboratory, and the Allyn building combined.

Total investment in all university buildings, as of June 30, 1947, amounts to $1,417,000. This figure will be considerably overhauled by the proposed $2,250,000 to be appropriated for this single training and educational building.

Reorganized Schools Met Opposition

"Many people in West Virginia opposed reorganized schools at first, but now almost no one would go back to the old system if they could," Olin C. Nutter, W. Va., educator, told Southern Illinois teachers and school board members in the opening session of the three-day Reorganization Conference held at Southern.

Mr. Nutter explained that the soundness of the reorganization in West Virginia that came as a result of a legislative act in 1938, which abolished every school district in the state and created county districts caused a great deal of confusion. He, along with other educators, greatly opposed the plan, but soon found it to be sound and the benefits of more equipment and better school buildings to be well worthwhile.

People Elect Board

"In our system," Mr. Nutter said, "the county is the unit of school administration and is controlled by a board elected by the people. These larger and more efficient districts have received far more liberal monetary appropriations than the previous small inefficient magistrate districts."

"Larger appropriations have meant additional funds for build-

NUTTER SPEAKS AT FINAL SESSION

Thirteen Southern Illinois county superintendents and two assistant superintendents were special guests at a luncheon and at the closing session of the three-day Reorganization conference held at Southern Illinois University this week.

Mr. Olin C. Nutter, superintendent of the reorganized schools in Cabell county, W. Va., acted as consultant and discussion leader at the final session in considering the problem of finance, transportation, and other features of school reorganization.

Mr. Nutter related the difficulties encountered in the West Virginia system during the transition from the old magistrate to the new county school district, and suggested that Illinois educators might well profit from the experience.

Those in attendance were: Clyde L. Flynn, Hardin County; R. Dale Wilson and Elmo Williams, assistant, Saline; Russell D. Bendeman, Union; J. Wiley Neville, Perry; Robert E. McKinney and Lee Booth, assistant, Williamson; M. C. Hunt, Pulaski; Howard Wright, Pope; Clarence D. Blair, St. Clair; Horace G. Brown, Gallatin; Lucy J. McPherson, Alexander; Lodge Grant, Hamilton; L. W. Smith, Massey; Lee Neuhoff, Jackson.

Several high school principals and city superintendents also attended the meeting.
