A ROW OF CARS

The Fourth of July means one thing—the lake. And the family car is the quickest way to get there.

THE ULU SPILLWAY

The fact that the water is still running over the spillway didn't stop these people from a cool dip. Note shoes in the foreground.

BLONDE

No Fourth of July lake scene would be complete without—well, you know. She isn't wearing the new chemise bathing suit.

... AND THE KIDS

No one has as much fun as the kids at a lake outing. And this is the way it should be. (Egyptian staff photos)

Egyptian, Journ Dept. Move

Egyptian and journalism department offices are now located in a barracks by the agriculture engineering quonset, a block west of S. Thompson St. The offices were moved last week.

Advertising, business and circulation departments of the Egyptian are in Room 105. Office of Egyptian Fiscal Sponsor Charles C. Clayton is in Room 105. The Egyptian editorial office is in Room 107.

Offices of the Egyptian were moved from the Journalism House, and the journalism department was located in Barfacks 1.

Changes Way Grads Register

A plan has been made to reduce the "leg work" in the advisement and registration process for graduate students. Registrar Robert A. McGrath announced.

McGrath said that graduate students should now follow this procedure: Go to the Academic Advisement Center on South Thompson to receive an authorization card and registration cards; go to academic advisers; go to graduate school for program approval; and then go to the sectioning center.

The graduate school will have a "branch office" located near the Academic Advisement Center where graduate students can get authorization and registration cards on the first day of each quarter and at night during the first week of each quarter except summer.

McGrath said that advisers in heavy graduate areas such as education in the "branch office."

"With the change in procedure," said McGrath, "the hope is that graduate students will have to make only one trip to the Graduate School if they register during the advanced registration period and on the Central registration day."

Electrical Change Stops Power Here

A series of electrical service interruptions at SIU are scheduled from July 13 to Aug. 18.

Electrical power shut-offs have been planned to enable completion of work to convert the campus electric underground system from 2400 to 4160 volts, the President's Office announced.

A long shut-down and two shorter interruptions are scheduled. All power for the University is to be shut off on Monday morning, Aug. 11. Power on each of the circuits is to be restored "as rapidly as possible," the announcement said.

No classes or major conferences are scheduled for Aug. 11.

Transformers will be changed over one bank at a time, and many circuits will be re-energized within three or four hours, the office announced.

Davis' Promotion To Director Viewed As 'Vote Of Confidence'

Dean I. Clark Davis told the Egyptian that his promotion from Acting Director to Director of Student Affairs on June 24 will mean "no change in my duties."

A University official told the reporter that Davis' promotion can be viewed as a vote of confidence. "The official said that the word 'Acting' in a title has a 'probationary connotation.'"

"It's about time he (Davis) got the promotion," the official said. About the official's statements Davis said, "The President has done exceptionally well in delegating responsibility. I appreciate the confidence shown in me by the President and the board. The fullest support has always been given to the SIU student affairs division."

Dean Davis was born in Benton, Mo. He was graduated from high school there in 1935, and was graduated from Southern in 1939. Davis received his M.A. from the University of Chicago and his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois in 1956.

Editors Meet At Giant City

The fourth annual National Conference of Weekly Newspaper Editors will be held at Giant City State Park on July 14-19.

The purpose of the conference is to bring together the elite of the American Weekly Press to discuss fundamental issues that are the concern of every thinking citizen and to share the responsibility of every newspaper editor willing to accept the challenge.

Highlight of the conference will be the presentation of the Elijah Parrish Lovejoy Award for courage in journalism. The award, given yearly to a weekly newspaper editor, is presented by the Department of Journalism of SIU.

Acting director of the conference is Professor Charles C. Clayton. Maximum number invited to the conference is 25. This year editors are expected to attend from Louisiana, North Carolina, Connecticut, Florida, New York, Virginia, Indiana, California, Mississippi and Illinois.

A typewriter may be rented in the Student Union at 10 cents an hour.

400 Attend Pop Concert; More Scheduled

The Southern Illinois Symphony Orchestra played the part of the Boston Pop Orchestra July 1, as they presented an open air concert of light classics on the patio of Woody Hall.

For the first time in the 11-year history of the 60-piece group, a series of open air performances is scheduled.

The orchestra, conducted by Carmine Fiocelli, appeared before an audience of 400 seated at brightly covered tables lighted by candles. Light refreshments were served to the informally dressed group by the Student Union, who sponsored the concert with the SIU music department.

The informal atmosphere was treated with selections such as "Romberg's Southwestern Melody," "Forde Frigo's Mississippi Suite," "Offenbach's 'Ballet Parisien'" and a medley of highlights from the musical, "Carousel."

Other traditions included "Song of Jupiter", featuring trumpet soloist David Friend of Festus, Mo.; "Tournament of Temperaments"; South American Overture, by Merle Isaac; "Reverie," by George Drumst; "Praeludium," by Armas Jarnefelt; and "In a Persian Market," by Ketzberg.

Two performances are scheduled for later in the summer, July 15 and July 22. In case of rain, the concerts will be held in Shrock Auditorium.

The SIU summer Pop Orchestra will present the second and third in the summer series of concerts, Tuesday night, July 15 and 23. Carmine Fiocelli will conduct the 60-piece group on the patio of Woody Hall, beginning at 8:00 p. m.

The SIU Summer Pop Orchestra is a composite group drawing members from the university, the adults of the community, and the more

"I felt I had no alternative other than resigning."

"No leader can please everyone, but you must remember that decisions are being made with the intention of being in the best interest of the students. No leadership is any better than the support given to it."

"I feel that my resignation is in the best interest of the University."

"I didn't understand why the position (Davis') was not clarified. This lack of comprehensive news made me uncomfortable."

Etheridge, who heard parking case appeals here, said that his relationship with other staff members in the Office of Student Affairs was "satisfying."

He likes SIU "I have considered my relationship here satisfying from both a professional and personal point of view," said Etheridge.

"I've gotten more out of this job than they have gotten from me," said Etheridge. "I am very grateful to have had the opportunity to work with my associates."

"I'd hate to think that any member of this office does not know he has an open invitation to my home—anytime-day or night."

"I am leaving SIU completely happy."

Etheridge received his E. D. in guidance at Michigan State University on June 8. He was born May 13, 1925 in Fairfield, Ill.

He did undergraduate work at Michigan College, Tenn., from 1943 to 1944 and at SIU, 1944-48. In 1948-49 he did graduate studies here.

At the University of Minnesota (1951) and University of Colorado (1953) he did graduate work. He was a Navy pilot, 1943-45, and he was Assistant Dean here from 1949 until he resigned.

Etheridge's wife, Veda, was graduated with him from SIU in 1948. They have two boys, Mike, 4, and Robbie, 7.

Etheridge is a representative of the class of 1948 to the Alumni Association Legislative Council.

Mid-Term Drag

Along about this time the classes list for hours and hours. No, the time system hasn't been changed, it just seems that way.

The mid-term drag is a common phenomena of every summer. Its appearance usually is marked by ninety plus weather—and one hundred plus class-rooms. And it can be predicted with surety by any weather fore-caster alive.

This not-so-rare summer occurrence has a marked effect upon the student. She or he as-umes an air of tired boredom. Activity is reduced to a mini-mum, usually the waving of a fan is about as strenuous enough for the student attacked by this disease.

Concentration on lectures is apt to be less than that desired by the instructors. Student's minds tend to stray toward greener pastures—and cool-er subjects.

No sure-fire cure has been discovered for the mid-term drag in this being written. However, several remedies have been pro-posed to give amazing relief. One, the lake seems to have a strong recuperative effect upon the stu-dent and the effects lasts for awhile—until the next class at least. Two, the installation of a device known as the air-con-ditioner seems to have value. Stu-dents perk up and show signs of actual life when in rooms with this gadget around.

But suffers from the mid-term drag will be glad to know that the long hot summer won't last forever. Just wait until that snow gets here!

By Joe Blewett

Conformity is either good or bad, depending upon what one is conforming to. I decided to join the ranks of conformists the other day and became a member of the "do-it-yourself club!" I'm not sure that my conforming to this current craze was either good or bad—perhaps it was a little of both.

My attempt at "do-it-yourself" consisted of sealing the roof to install a television antenna. A neighbor recently moved and with a little per-suasion sold his tv. antenna to me—at a dirt cheap price, naturally.

Now, no one had to tell me that my knowledge of how to put up a television antenna was exactly nil. In fact I'm still not sure which end is which and what goes where.

But look! enter in where we must face to go and be-sides, it costs money to have an antenna installed.

Borrowing a ladder (which still remains unreturned) I started the climb toward the top of Mt. Everest—it really seemed that high before I got there. Reaching the rooftop I began to have a better appreciation of St. Nick. Our roof comes to a sharp point and there I perched. The gentle breeze which had been blowing sud-denly became a savage gale. If "do-it-yourselfer" had ap-proached at this moment I would have gladly shot him.

Giving myself a series of pep talks (interspersed with the Lord's Prayer) I advanced on the place where I had hoped of putting the antenna. Upon reaching the place I found, much to my dismay, that the only way I could get the forty ton antenna (it weighed four pounds on the ground) installed was to climb up on the chim-ney.

At this point I was willing

to forget "Gunslinger" and "Have Gun-Will Travel." But I knew that I could never face civilization again if I failed, so I continued. Closing my eyes (to keep passing dist from get-ting in them) I stepped up on the chimney—so far so good. And then I made a grave mis-take. I looked at the ground. The "quaysy" feeling which re-sulted is impossible to describe. This won't do I told myself. So I looked at the sky. The slowly drifting clouds looked lovely against the blue sky, until sud-denly the clouds stopped mov-ing, and the chimney began flashing.

By this time I had made sev-eral vows that if I survived I would never again try to cheat the t.v. repairman out of his just due (the old song about the petfisher and the bear kept flashing through my mind).

I did manage to get the an-tenna up, however—and my-selves down. And wonder of won-ders, it really works. Maybe there should be a moral here but I'll let you lot for it. And you can have the "do-it-your-self" club too. I joined and retired in the same day.

After risking my life to in-stall the antenna I am looking forward to watching some good programs this summer. Now that Alaska is the 49th state maybe some movies of the area would be appropriate on t.v. Scenes filled with plenty of snow and ice would look especially attrac-tive during the hot weather.

Many of the really good tele-

Registrar Has 'Knightmares'

Kenneth Eugene Knight, Jr., is a sophomore from Macdonia, but he is also a senior from White Hall. To add to the confusion, he is majoring in Journalism, and also is in the college of Liberal arts. But get this—he is a Navy veteran, yet has never been in the service!

If you are confused by now, the Registrar's office is happy to have you aboard. Actually, there are two students on campus—and you guessed it—they have the same, identical name, even down to the Junior, Kenneth E. Knight, senior radio-television man from White Hall, has only re-cently straightened out the con-fusion which resulted from the ironic situation.

The first occasion to bring about the situation was the younger Knight, this one having been Ma-cdonia picked up by his student check, with an excess of $90. The elder Knight, upon being told that he had no check, began investigat-ing the oddity, and finally hit upon the simple (7) explanation.

Could Graduate Twice

Previously, the White Hall Navy vet had received his grades, with several errors involved. He checked at the Registrar's office and sure enough, he impossible had happened. There was one trans-cip for two men, with classes vision programs go off during the summer months. This is nice for those getting the vaca-tions but not so good for those watching some of the substitute programs. Re-runs are also flood-ing the t.v. air lines. Along with the usual diet of ancient movies summer viewing isn't al-ways the best.

But I don't suppose we should complain. The wonder of t.v. is still something to marvel at. Anyone saying a few years back that we would sit in our homes and watch a base-ball game being played in Cal-ifornia would have been plac-ed in the same class as the Wright brothers once were.

The furor over pay t.v. still rages and it will undoubtedly be sometime before the question is decided. From the standpoint of a potential victim I am whole-heartedly opposed.

One argument advanced in its favor is that it will bring better programs. This is probably true but I'll settle for less quality and more cash.

The pay t.v. idea has been tested in one town in Okla-homa and doesn't appear to have been a smashing success. If it won't work in the land of flowing oil then maybe it won't succeed in our area. I hope it isn't tried.

If we had been required to pay for television programs from the first then there would be no kick from anyone. But this is not so, and human nature being what it is no one wants to pay now. And can you blame them?

Side Glances At SIU

By Richard Darby

The oldest excuse for a black eye is that the person ran into a door. And for a person to say that a door hit him, would seem like a new twist to an old explanation.

But, I was not surprised when a door blacked my eye last week. It was just one of the many un-usuals that happened when the Egyptian moved from the Journalism House to a barracks by the agri-culture quonset hut.

When I became Egyptian Man-aging Editor, I accepted as a per-manent fixture the flat, metal door extending from my desk and hold-ing my typewriter. But the first thing I noticed when the desk was moved to the new building was that the little door was not there.

After a careful search, I found the typewriter holder. It was resting at the bottom of an elevator shaft-like part of the desk.

Little strength was needed to pull out the lid, but how to get it to move to the top of the desk was the big problem. All of my pushing and pulling was useless.

Just as I was about to give up, I saw a latch-like device. Through curiosity, I pulled it. Powered by a giant spring, the steel door shot to the top of the desk—catching me just above the eye on the way.

Commented Editor Joe Blewett, who observed the entire process: "Well, Dick, now you have something to write about."

The built-in typewriter stand stays up now—that is until a typewriter is placed on it. With a typewriter on it, it bounces up and down like a yo-yo... all a part of moving.

To my knowledge, I am the only one who received injury, but another staffer has had his troubles, too.

Business Manager Tom Sheehan divides portions of each day to looking for a roller for his chair. It was lost in the move. The first things he brought to the new building were a desk lamp and a pencil sharpener. We have not determined the significance of this.

The new Egyptian offices are better than the old ones in several ways.

Plaster is not falling from the walls, and the barracks does not seem to be in danger of falling. There are separate offices for the business and editorial departments, and both offices have doors. The old offices had none of these things.

However, the new office is "out in the sticks." The old office was centrally located, a convenience for both the staff and SIU students.

Here's the location of the new location: The office space in the new building is about one-fourth of the old building's space. Sheehan is still trying to arrange in one room office equipment from three rooms.

Some students seem to be con-fused because the Egyptian and the journalism department are in the same building, but the Egyptian IS NOT a part of the Department of Journalism.

The Egyptian is published by and for SIU students.

Gus wonders if the University plans to offer any extension courses in the near future—in Alaska or the North Pole.

Prof. Interviews Chiang Kai-Shek

An article on freedom of the press in Nationalist China by Dr. Howard R. Long, chairman of the Department of Journalism at SIU appears in the July issue of "The Quill", a magazine for journalists.

The article is based on an interview granted to Dr. Long by Chiang Kai-Shek, president of the Nationalist Chinese Republic, Dr. and Mrs. Long recently spent nine months in Taipei, Formosa, where he was a visiting professor in the National Political University.

Now touring other parts of Asia and Europe, the Longs will return home in September.

other staffer has had his troubles, too.

Business Manager Tom Sheehan divides portions of each day to looking for a roller for his chair. It was lost in the move. The first things he brought to the new building were a desk lamp and a pencil sharpener. We have not determined the significance of this.

The new Egyptian offices are better than the old ones in several ways.

Plaster is not falling from the walls, and the barracks does not seem to be in danger of falling. There are separate offices for the business and editorial departments, and both offices have doors. The old offices had none of these things.

However, the new office is "out in the sticks." The old office was centrally located, a convenience for both the staff and SIU students.

Here's the location of the new location: The office space in the new building is about one-fourth of the old building's space. Sheehan is still trying to arrange in one room office equipment from three rooms.

Some students seem to be con-fused because the Egyptian and the journalism department are in the same building, but the Egyptian IS NOT a part of the Department of Journalism.

The Egyptian is published by and for SIU students.

Independence Day... China

Independence Day to the Uni-States of America is what Na-tionally Day is to the Republic of China on Oct. 10th each year. But what contrasted sharply with this country, which cele-brates this great day in rejoicing and tranquility, is that the National Day country declared independence of the British yoke, while on Octo-ber 10th, 1911, revolution broke out in China with the result that the Manchuria Dynasty was toppled and the Republic founded on the ruins of the Empire.

In celebration of this great event each year, in both countries holi-days are observed, flags hoisted, but especially ceremonies held through the breadth and width of the land to mark the occasion re-spectfully.

SIU Schedules Free Movies

A series of free movies are being shown Wednesday at 8 p. m. during the summer term.

Tonight at 8 p. m. in McCauley Stadium the movie "THE ABOVE ALL" will be shown. The central theme of the movie concerns a young British soldier injured at Dunkirk, who cited leave beyond the point of discretion.

During the summer term the movies are being shown each Wednesday in McCauley Stadium or in case of rain inside University School Auditorium.

Wednesday, July 16. DEMETER and THE GLADIATOR. This movie expands and carries on the theme of "The Robe"—the faith acquired is on trial and how Desperate rejects and then reaffirms it. It shows the length to which the Romans went in the first century to break the faith of the Christians.

The movie stars Victor Mature and Susan Hayward.

Wednesday, July 23. GOOD MORNING MISS DOVE. Jennifer Jones and Robert Stack star in the movie about a stern schoolmaster in a small New England town and the effect she has on the lives of a generation of townspeople.

Wednesday, July 30. DADDY LONG LEGS. "Daddy Long Legs" is a musical which goes far from the mad Manhattan, from the rhythm of the "shufly" and dancing of Fred Astaire and Leslie Caron.

Cadets Receive Summer Training

Thirty-one SIU Air Force ROTC cadets will take summer training at five Air Force bases this term.

Conducted by the Air Force as part of the advanced training for AFROTC cadets, the sessions will run four weeks. Classroom work and actual duty experience will be combined at all of the installations.

Thirteen of the SIU cadets will train at Stewart Air Force Base near Nashville, Tenn. While 14 will train at Webb Air Force Base, Big Springs, Tex. One will be assigned to Williams Air Force Base, Arizona, another to Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., and two others to Craig Air Force Base, Ala.

Requests New Unloading Signs For Faculty

The parking committee has requested the new applications be made for loading and unloading signs for cars. New signs have been issued since July 1.

The signs are given to individuals when their cars are being used in connection with their work.

A number of these signs were given out last year, according to Max M. Sappenfield, parking committee chairman. He said that the committee felt that it "would be desirable" for last year's signs to become ineffective on June 30.

"In taking this action the Parking Committee is aware of the fact that there are a number of situations in which the possession of these signs is necessary and desirable," Sappenfield said in an memo to deans, directors and department heads.

Galgely Named Business Manager

Robert L. Galgely has been named SIU business manager. The appointment became effective July 1.

Galgely succeeds Edward V. Mike Jr., business manager since last year. He also is treasurer of the Board of Trustees and the SIU Foundation.

A native of Tuscola, Galgely worked in the SIU business office as a student and joined the University staff in 1946 as chief accountant.

His assistant is Frank J. Dusch, who has been at SIU since 1952. Galgely received his master's degree in accounting from the University of Illinois and has taught commerce at Marion high school, worked as an auditor for Sherwin-Williams Corp. at O'Fallon and was part-owner of a Carbondale appliance store from 1946 to 1949.

ARMY TRUCKS BOUGHT FOR LAB ON WHEELS

Acquisition of four Army map-making trucks from surplus stocks has opened new field research possibilities for SIU students and staff members.

Dr. John Anderson, head of graduate research at SIU, who acquired the four trucks for $1,100 about one-eighth of the original cost, said the units will be modified

PE Workshop Is Held Here, Ends July 11

Thirty Southern Illinois teachers enrolled in a workshop here want to restore physical conditioning to the list of school-boy ideals.

The workshop, meeting four days a week at SIU until July 11th, was set up in response to growing concern over physical fitness in children.

Dr. Edward Shea, chairman of SIU's Department of Physical Education for men, says most youngsters today, even many athletes, don't know how to use their muscles properly. They do themselves more harm than good in such everyday activities as walking or lifting.

The object of the workshop is to show teachers how they can correct these failings in their students before they become life-long habits. The end of the workshop will tie in with a two-day conference featuring Dr. Shane McCarthy, executive director of President Eisenhower's Council on Youth Fitness.

For use as research laboratories on wheels. They will be allocated to any University department on request for projects requiring the advantage of mobility.

Bert Terpinis, SIU supervisor of surplus property, obtained the trucks after spotting them on government lists.

Three of the trucks already have been signed out for projects. One will be used by Dr. Edwin Galbreath, associate professor of zoology.

A reception for Prof. Mulhauser was held in the SIU Library lounge following the lecture. She also served as a consultant to the SIU Foreign Language Elementary School Workshop Monday and Tuesday.

Householders Discuss Aims Of Living Centers

Talks by Dr. Carl Ann Fultz of the Home Economics Department and Dr. Leslie Malpas of the psychology department will feature the Ninth annual Householders' Workshop, Thursday, July 17, in the library auditorium.

Dr. Fultz will speak on "Educational Aims of Living Centers" while Dr. Malpas will address the householders on "Symptoms of Emotional Disturbances."

The session will last from 8:30 a.m. until 3:10 p.m., with lunch at 12:15 at the University cafeteria.

The program committee, composed of Mrs. Dwight Kerr, Mrs. Katherine Botwick, and Frank Muhich, has several other activities planned for the day.

TV, Opera Stars Give Pop Recital

Colortone soprano Nadja Wilkowska and Baritone John Gillaspie presented a joint recital of popular, semi-classic and operatic favorites in a free public appearance here last Wednesday.

The 25-year old opera and television performer sang duets a medley from "Brigadoon," Donizetti's "L'Elle Play My Part" and Giannini's "How Bright and Goody Shines the Midday Sun" in addition to solo selections.

Miss Wilkowska made her operatic debut with Philadelphia's Le Sacre du Printemps and has appeared on many television shows including "Omnibus" and the NBC-TV Opera Theater.

A graduate of Indiana University and former singer with the Municipal Opera Company in St. Louis, Gillaspie starred in the American premiere of the Benjamin Britten opera, "Billy Budd." He is under contract to appear with the San Francisco Opera Company next season.

SPEECH CHAIRMAN HAS TEXTBOOK PUBLISHED

A 224-page book for business and professional speakers, "Speaking for Results," written by Dr. Ralph Micklen, SIU speech department chairman, has been published by the Houghton Mifflin Company.

The text is designed for "busy people in America who sell, promote, plan and build." The book includes practice exercises, a reference section and problems.

Dr. Micklen came to SIU in 1957. He is a doctoral degree graduate of Northwestern University.

WELCH PARTICIPATES IN ED. CONFERENCE Dr. Walter B. Welch, chairman of the SIU botany department participated as an analyst during the annual conference of the National Commission on Teacher Education Professional Standards at Bowling Green, O., June 27-28.

Dr. Welch served during a session on subject-matter preparation. He was invited by John Mayro, former SIU mathematics department chairman who is now director of education for the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The conference was at Bowling Green State University.

Etheridge's Opinion Of SIU

'Many Things I Liked—A Few I Disliked'

"Let's get that —Denial!" A noted mob of SIU men was charged Robert F. Etheridge through part of the restless group in an unsuccessful attempt to shut off a water hose behind Anthony Hall during a party raid.

Although it all happened in 1972—when the building was a women's dorm—the recently signed SIU Assistant Dean, recalls the results of his efforts vividly.

"Besides getting wet, I was hit on the head with a window screen by a student. I don't remember his name. It's a helpless feeling to have a window screen whacked around you," laughed the administrator.

The party raid wore itself out "on sheer weight," and only after three hours of "pleading by dilapidated" speakers.

Before leaving SIU, the 210-pound Etheridge, who looks like a District Attorney with his graying hair, said in an interview that he recalls "many things I liked about SIU—and a few things I disliked."

Has Many Solutions

Etheridge had as many solutions as there were parking rule violators. One student was unable to put his car in reverse—he stopped his car parallel with parking lanes.

"After he explained why he parked in such an unusual way, I just told him to have his car repaired," commented Etheridge, who is six feet tall. "Of course, I had to see the repair bill before I forgot about the fine."

"When a student gets into an unusual situation, I know it couldn't be maliciousness. You want to know the reason behind the act, not necessarily the act. The act is a symptom, not a cause."

Has Way Tricked

Students don't get by with as much as they think they do. "I know I am being tricked much of the time when Etheridge has letters from home," Etheridge said sympathetically. "If a parent would willingly let a student there is not much hope for alignment of morals."

"Let them live with their own conscience. The thing I would like to do is be with their children when they reach their college. Conscience is a strong motivation. Too, if a student does wrong enough times, he will hang himself."

There is an important difference between an excuse and an explanation, Etheridge emphasized.

"Students say, 'I've got a good excuse.'"

Etheridge, Davis Are Like Brothers

Dean I. Clark Davis and Robert F. Etheridge, who resigned as Assistant Dean on June 24, were "like brothers," Davis told the Egyptian.

The Director of Student Affairs said that all of his disagreements with Etheridge, who is now working with Homecoming, were "small and to be expected during the process of making decisions."

"Bob is one of the finest men I have ever met," said Davis. "Of course, we have had different views occasionally, but we were like brothers."

"During the nine years that we have been here we have had pleasant and close working relationships."

"His leaving is a tremendous loss to SIU—to the students, to the Office—and to me. We will never forget him—he was a gentleman and an efficient worker."

"Davis said that he and Etheridge "looked horse" and "butted heads" at various times when plans for the University were being made, "but this is all a part of reaching the best decision."

"Oh, maybe we would have a disagreement over where a room should go in a building, or something like that, but it was never more serious than that," said Davis. "We often worked late at night together."

A faculty sponsor for the organization will be selected during the meeting.

HOLDS MEETING MONDAY TO ORGANIZE YMCA

A meeting of interested students organizing a YMCA here will be held Monday at 7 p. m. in the Studio Theatre.

A faculty sponsor for the organization will be selected during the meeting.

Equality should not come through enforcement, but through education.

"The easiest way out would be to fine all violators, leaving them with no chance to appeal."

"But the whole thing is an educational process—and students are entitled to know the justification behind all decisions."

After summarizing the discussion, Etheridge added with sincerity, "I don't ask anyone to do anything I wouldn't do myself."

Home Economics Building Grows . . . And Grows

THE TUNNEL
Workers built scampers over this tunnel which will go under the sidewalk around the New Home Economics Building. This part of underground passage is located on University Avenue. Construction is going on at such a rapid rate that the sidewalk had already been placed over the tunnel by the time the Egyptian went to press.

SUPERVIS'CN
Any job needs a boss and SIU Project Engineer Ray Newland is filling that capacity in this shot. The section being worked on will be the kitchen.

Photos by Joe Blewett

LIVING ROOM
This "open air" living room will not be ventilated when it is completed. Santa Claus may find the chimney to his liking. It's big enough.

OPEN SPACE
Even with the rapid pace being set by the construction crew some places still need to be filled. Laboratories and class rooms are scheduled for this section. It is about the only place left open and before this is read it may not be vacant any longer.

GRAND VIEW
This is the front of the Home Economics Building looking down Grand Avenue. From the angle of the camera it appears distorted, but students needn't worry—it isn't. This section was one of the first to take form and gives a glimpse of the beauty of the new building. The building is being constructed on the corner of Grand Avenue and South University Avenue, across from Woody Hall.

NURSERY SECTION
No Home Economics Building would be complete without a nursery. At present only enough funds are available to complete the outside shell of the $2,000,000 building. Construction funds will come from the state agriculture premium fund. The new Home Economics building will be the one of the finest anywhere.
