Hostages weathered captivity well, tests say

WIESBADEN, West Germany (UPI) — The 39 freed American hostages underwent a battery of tests at a U.S. military hospital Monday and doctors said they had weathered 17 days in captivity in "upbeat" condition. Most will return to the United States Tuesday.

In Washington, President Reagan, having vowed to fight back against terrorism, ordered steps to isolate the Beirut airport until Lebanon "puts terrorists off limits" in the aftermath of the crisis.

Freed hostage Jack McCarty, a night club owner from San Francisco, said the 39 "held another one of our famous meetings" Monday and the majority agreed to return to the United States Tuesday afternoon.

"We kind of threw it out on the floor," McCarty said. "Three or four people expressed their opinions, and we've agreed that we're leaving, the majority of us are leaving, as a group with our families, we're told on a 'charter' — a TWA flight." He said he did not know how many would be returning on that flight.

In Washington, the White House issued a statement saying the flight would arrive at Andrews Air Force base outside Washington at 3 p.m. EDT Tuesday, where the former hostages will be greeted by Reagan. A formal White House ceremony was ruled out.

One former hostage, who asked not to be identified, took exception to calls by some of his fellow captives for understanding of the Lebanese Shiite cause.

"It wasn't a party," said the man, one of the four held apart from the main group of hostages by gunmen of Hezbollah, the radical Shiite faction responsible for the hijacking.

"I can't believe everyone is being so positive about it. All this stuff about 'they (the hijackers) are our friends' I just don't buy.

Priest says Chile violates human rights

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

Almost two years ago the Rev. Dennis O'Mara heard about two union leaders who were arrested, tortured and sentenced to "internal exile" in rural Chile for their pro-labor activities.

It was at this point, O'Mara said recently, that he decided to protest against what seemed to be a government growing more and more oppressive.

"I don't want to live in a world with torture," O'Mara said he decided, "so I'm going to try to change that world."

The Columban Missionary priest from Chicago who worked in poverty-stricken areas of the South American nation of 12 million people for six and a half years was in Carbondale Thursday and Friday and had two open discussions in the Student Center Friday.

The year and a half that he took part in non-violent protests after learning of the union leaders' fate led to five arrests and, eventually, to deportation to the United States on Dec. 27, 1984.

In the six months since he has been home, O'Mara has openly denounced the human rights violations that he says are taking place regularly in Chile. He also criticizes the U.S. government for supporting the military regime of Gen. Augusto Pinochet which has ruled Chile since overthrowing its last elected government in 1973.

"The United States has played an important part in making the military government in Chile," he said. "The United States did not perpetrate the military takeover, but it did aid it."

Last month the United States delegate in the United Nations voted in favor of giving Chile more than $400 million in loans from the World Bank. But in February the State Department submitted a report to the Senate condemning the Chilean government for "numerous violations of internationally recognized human rights and a general deterioration of human rights practices."

O'Mara says he witnessed such human rights violations firsthand. So, in August 1983, he joined a group of Chileans who staged occasional non-violent protests in front of buildings in the capitol city of Santiago.

In these buildings, members of the nation's secret police, set up by Pinochet in June 1974, allegedly were using torture for such purposes as coercing confessions of conspiring with Communists.

"We just felt that words are not enough," O'Mara said of the group. "We felt the need to just cry out to the rooftops that torture is going on and it's got

Cost increases cause University to raise prices for four services

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

Because of rising costs, especially salaries, increases in charges for four University services went into effect with the start of fiscal year 1986.

The new fiscal year began midnight Sunday, and while attempts were made to keep the increases at a minimum amount, Service Enterprises Director Harry Wirth said the increases are "what's needed to break even."

Prices for laundry, telephone, printing and transit services were increased. The services are used by SIU-C organizations with University accounts, Wirth said.

Prices for Laundry Services, used mainly by University Housing, increased 12 percent. The increase compensates for personal services as well as general operating costs.

Prices for handwork, typesetting, artwork and layout increased by 8 percent because of increases in expenses for personal services. The increase does not include the production areas of Printing or Duplicating Services.

The recent AT&T breakup has caused the placement of access charges and directory assistance charges by General Telephone Exchange. Telephone Service has raised the connected line charge from $17.50 to $20 per month, but SIU toll charges will not be affected.

Instead of a general price increase, Travel Service has implemented an excessive mileage charge. Monthly rentals will be allowed 1,250 miles per vehicle and excess miles will be charged at a rate of 4 cents a mile.

Because of a depreciation program implemented by the University in 1982, monthly rental fees for vehicles will increase $12.50 and the per mile charge for fleet vehicles will be increased by about seven-tenths of a cent.

Gus Bode

Gus says the Service Enterprises price boosts mean the University will shift more money from one pocket to another.

Europe hit with terrorist bombings

By United Press International

Europe was rocked Monday by three terrorist bombings — including one triggered by the Beirut hostage crisis — that killed one woman and injured 42 other people, including a vacationing American teenager.

The apparently unrelated attacks occurred in a crowded airline office in Spain, a busy airport terminal in Italy and a deserted parking lot in Greece.

The worst of the violence came in Madrid, where witnesses said a man ran into a British Airways ticket office and threw a "taped box on the counter."

The box contained explosives, which ripped through the ground-floor office and showered glass on midday shoppers on the city's famed Gran Via. One woman died and 27 people were injured, including Sydney Bridges, 17, of Ontario, Calif., who was vacationing in Europe with his two brothers.

A floor above British Airways are the offices of TWA, the airline whose jet was hijacked June 14 by Shiite Moslem extremists who held 39 Americans hostage for 17 days before they were released Sunday.

An anonymous caller told a news agency in Beirut that the Madrid attack was prompted by the hostage crisis.

"The bombing of the TWA office came as a direct reply to Ronald Reagan's threat that he would strike at terrorists," the caller said. "Let Reagan know that our hands will reach the whole world and we shall never remain silent after this."

Reagan warned terrorists Sunday that "we will fight back against your cowardly attacks on American citizens and property."

In a second attack in Madrid, gunmen shot out the windows of a Jordanian airlines office in a building near the British Airways office and hurled a grenade inside. Police deactivated the grenade and no injuries were reported.

No one claimed responsibility for that attack.

The Greek bombing early Monday had all the earmarks of an anti-American attack. An automobile loaded with propane tanks exploded in a suburban Athens hotel parking lot, destroying four cars, three of them belonging to U.S. military personnel stationed in Greece.

No one was injured in the blast and no one immediately claimed responsibility.

Woman asks Syrian help for 7 remaining hostages

By United Press International

The sister of an American journalist kidnapped in Beirut met Monday with the Syrian ambassador to the United States in an effort to arrange a visit to Syria and plead for the release of her brother and six other Americans. Peggy Say, sister of Associated Press Beirut bureau chief Terry Anderson, 37, said in Washington that Ambassador Rafic Jouejaui was "encouraging and supportive" of her plans to talk with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Contra leader denies need for direct U.S. aid

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — Nicaragua's largest rebel group has massed a fighting force of 17,000 members and does not need the direct participation of the United States to overthrow the Sandinista government, a rebel leader said Monday. The statement from a Contra leader placed rebel forces at some 5,000 to 7,000 more than U.S. estimates issued before large numbers of Nicaraguans reportedly fled their homeland to avoid being drafted into the army.

Six dead after Beirut Moslems clash in streets

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Beirut's two most powerful Moslem militias fought street battles Monday with grenades, heavy machine guns and automatic weapons, killing six people just one day after 39 American hostages fled the capital. It was the first major clash between the Druze Progressive Socialist Party — headed by Tourism Minister Walid Jumblatt — and the Shiite Amal militia of Justice Minister Nabih Berri since the two militias seized control of most of west Beirut in February 1984.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ten teachers, ranging from a biologist who once named a turtle "Sputnik" to an English teacher hoping for "a chance to play Peter Pan," were named finalists to become the first "John or Jane Q. Of the six women and four men, only one, to be named July 23, will board the shuttle Challenger with its astronaut crew in January 1986 to share the "high adventure of space travel" and report back to the earthbound about life on the final frontier.

Tax use for religious school programs denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, in twin rulings fortifying the wall between church and state, said Monday that using tax dollars to hold special classes at religious schools is unconstitutional. Conrail sale would hurt Illinois, senators say

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

A fear that Illinois would lose its status as the "gateway state" if Conrail is sold to the Norfolk Southern Corp. has prompted Illinois senators to co-sponsor a bill to provide an alternative.

Sens. Alan Dixon and Paul Simon have co-sponsored a bill to provide an alternative to the proposed merger of Conrail with a private railroad company.

"Under the merger, a great deal of rail transportation would bypass Illinois altogether," said Simon press secretary David Carle.

SIMON AND Dixon instead support an amendment to sell Conrail to a group of about 30 "conservative, blue chip investors," including Princeton University and the Museum of Modern Art in New York, said

Dixon press secretary Wade Nelson.

The investors are represented by the Morgan-Stanley Co. of New York and would pay $1.2 billion for Conrail, Nelson said. The investors would sell Conrail stock to the public over a five-year period.

Supporters of the bill, which was sponsored by Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., are convinced that selling to private investors would maintain the same number of jobs at Conrail and would not result in a loss of lines in Illinois.

"WE HAVE no doubt that this proposal would maintain a higher level of competition," Nelson said.

The Transportation Department began to fish around for a buyer for the nation's rail freight system in 1981, following passage of the Northeast Rail Service Act, said Wendy DeMocker, director of public affairs for the Federal Railroad Administration, which is part of the Transportation Department.

NEARSA had granted Conrail immunity from federal taxes, but the Transportation Department felt that gave Conrail an unfair advantage over private railroads, DeMocker said.

TRANSPORTATION Department officials spoke to about 110 companies about the sale before deciding that a $1.2 billion sale to Norfolk Southern "would leave Conrail in the best financial shape," DeMocker said.

The proposed sale inspired Simon and Dixon to speak out on Conrail for the first time when, after reviewing Senate Judiciary Committee findings on the issue, they decided that Illinois would stand to lose a great deal in rail competition and money, their aides said.

Carle said that if Norfolk Southern bought out Conrail, 18 Illinois counties would be dominated by the new merger.

THE ILLINOIS Central Gulf Railroad has estimated that it could lose from $28 million to $51 million annually because of rail traffic being diverted away from Illinois, Carle said.

Conrail has one line running through central Illinois to East St. Louis and Norfolk Southern has two. The railroads each have one line terminating in Chicago.

The senators have also expressed concern that a sale to Norfolk Southern would produce antitrust problems.

DeMocker said that such problems could be avoided if Norfolk Southern did as the Justice Department has recommended and divested itself of about 1,700 miles of tracks in the northeast United States.

THE DIVESTMENT would ensure that "the same competitive balance that exists today would exist after the sale," she said.

Carle said the companies which have agreed to take over those 1,700 miles, the Guilford Railroad and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, are not financially strong enough to make much of a difference.

"Both have had major losses in the last few years and would most certainly be no competition for Norfolk Southern," Carle said.

The Transportation Department opposes Specter's bill, DeMocker said, because "when you sell Conrail to a group of investors who are only in it to make money for themselves, you have not left Conrail in very strong shape."

Israel denies prisoners' liberation was part of hostage release deal

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel's state-run media said Monday that 300 of 735 Arab prisoners in Israel will be freed by Wednesday. Officials insisted the release was not part of a deal that led to the freedom of 39 Americans held hostage in Beirut.

In a related development, an Israeli official accused Syria of at least indirect involvement in the hijacking of TWA Flight 847 on June 14.

The Lebanese hijackers, who released their last 39 American hostages Sunday, had demanded throughout the 17-day ordeal that Israel release more than 700 prisoners in return for the hostages.

The Reagan administration and Israel publicly refused to meet the hijackers' demands, but the 39 American hostages were released Sunday on assurances made through Syria that the Arab prisoners in Israel would be set free soon.

Most of the prisoners are Shiite Moslems who were captured in southern Lebanon by Israeli occupation forces. They were transferred to Israel's Ansar detention camp in April as Israeli forces withdrew from Lebanon. Washington called the transfer a violation of international law but Israel denied it.

Israel, which has stated repeatedly that it had intended to release the prisoners even before the hijacking, freed 31 of them during the hostage crisis.

Israel radio, said authorities decided to release 300 more of the detainees within a 38-hour period.

University budget still undecided for fiscal '86

While a school reform and funding bill was passed by the Illinois House last weekend, it was not decided exactly how much funding the University system will receive for the new fiscal year.

The operating budget for SIU was sent to Gov. James Thompson Thursday. He has up to 90 days to sign funding bills, says Woody Mosgers, assistant press secretary for the governor's office.

The SIU budget bill appropriates $190,066,550 for fiscal 1986, which began at midnight Sunday. Funding bills are "usually handled quickly," he said, but it could be September before the exact amount of funding to the University is known.

On Sunday, the House passed Senate bill 730 — a tax package which allows $390 million for state education spending. Mosgers said he doesn't foresee any problem with the bill passing the Senate because "they're for it, as is the governor."

Reynolds rejected for good reasons

CITING DISCREPANCIES IN HIS SWORN testimony and laxity in the way he has executed the duties of his present position, a majority of the members of the Senate Judiciary Committee took an laudable step last Thursday by voting not to approve the nomination of William Bradford Reynolds for associate attorney general.

As head of the civil rights division of the Justice Department for the last four years, Reynolds steered the division away from its former role of rigorous enforcer of voting rights and anti-discrimination laws, receiving much applause from conservatives and racists.

Among the more memorable examples of Reynolds' idea of protecting civil rights are his suggestion to the Reagan administration in 1982 that it support an all-white government in Burke County, Ga., rather than the group charging that the county's at-large voting laws discriminated against blacks and his unsuccessful Supreme Court battle in 1983 to grant private schools that practice racial discrimination, like Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., legal title to tax exemption.

WHAT PROVED FATAL FOR THE NOMINEE in his confirmation hearings, however, was what Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., referred to as Reynolds' "consistent pattern of bending and altering the truth in a self-serving way" while being considered for the No. 3 position in the Justice Department. For example, in his testimony to the committee, Reynolds told Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., that he knew of only one Justice Department employee who resigned in disagreement with Reynolds' policies. Simon produced affidavits from five former staffers who said they told Reynolds they were resigning because they opposed his approach to civil rights.

If Reynolds' memory is indeed as bad as it appeared to be during the confirmation hearings or if his understanding of "sworn testimony" is so poor as to allow him to distort the truth and try to deceive U.S. senators, he has no business working in the Justice Department, let alone in its No. 3 position. It's too bad that now that they've blocked his would-be promotion, the members can't remove him from the civil rights division he is supposed to be leading.

Nicaragua now Cuba II

I am in favor of military aid to the freedom fighters in Nicaragua so they can fight for the democracy that was stolen from them.

Nicaragua is now Cuba II, bought and paid for with 117 million tax payer dollars under the Carter administration for aid to the 3,000 Sandinistas (yes, 3,000) trying to overthrow Somoza. The same tactics and rhetoric Castro used in the 1959 Batista revolution with the same banter from some congressional members and leftists in America used today. Nicaragua is a Soviet base as Cuba is and Grenada almost was. It's Soviet doctrine with Central American accents. It's Soviet guns, tanks, helicopters, uniforms and 10,000 Soviet bloc troops stationed there. No freedom of press, religion, free enterprise, and political opposition. No wonder 16,000 people have taken to the hills.

The tactics are simple. Get our money and sympathy. Americans are suckers for revolutions. Foster liberation armies that are sometimes democratic and when the movement is victorious, arrest, exile or murder all those that oppose you even if they fought with you.

With democracy coming to El Salvador, the Nicaraguan backed Marxists have resorted to terrorism, kidnapping and murder. They are losing recruitments and can't militarily engage the Salvadoran army. Since May 1 they have seized 14 legally elected mayors of small towns there. The aim is to destroy local government structures. Who are the butchers here?

It's big games of risk and diplomacy played for real. Read Lenin. Read about KGB activities in America. Read what high level Soviet defectors are saying. Who knows what might have happened had people read "Mein Kampf." The rest is history. — Jeff Thomason, Murphysboro

Editors' note: The editorial staff neglected to note that the editorial titled "Salute to slain soldiers" that ran under the heading "Opinions from elsewhere" in the Daily Egyptian on June 28 was taken from the Chicago Tribune (June 24).

Reagan ignoring Peace Institute

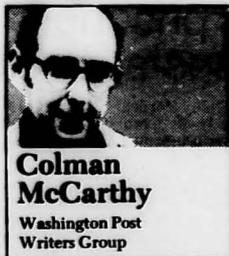

NO ONE expected much enthusiasm from the Reagan administration for the U.S. Institute of Peace. For four years, its officials opposed legislation creating the $14 million enterprise for peace studies. Last October, President Reagan was helpless against vetoing the bill because it came attached as an amendment to the Defense Department authorization. With $219 billion to be turned loose, what's $14 million? For the Pentagon, that's ashtray or coffee pot money.

Reagan couldn't ignore the institute then, but he has done so since. The law required that by April 20, 11 board members be appointed by the President. Two months have passed, and no names have been submitted.

While the President continues to break the law, few congressional supporters of the institute are expecting a board that is experienced in the arts of peace. This is a President who calls his favorite missile "the peacekeeper" and quotes scripture to support his military visions. His appointees — assuming a total stall is not under way — are likely to share those views. Then a new round of debate may occur, as was seen when Reagan appointed board members to the Legal Services Corp. who had little use for its mission.

A WHITE HOUSE personnel official says that "the clearance process" is not completed. It takes eight months to find 11 people who know something about peace and alternatives to war? Would it take that long if this were the Institute to Rearm America?

It appears that the skeptics have another reason to say that they have been right all along: that nothing much will come of the long and worthy displaying the enthusiasm for peace studies and nonviolent conflict resolution that the government refuses. From 1982 to 1984, foundation grants went from $16.5 million to $52 million, an increase of 215 percent. The Forum Institute, a Washington organization, reports that in 1984 the largest sum — $18 million — came from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation of Chicago. Two years ago, it gave less than $1 million.

struggle to create this operation. In 1978, a congressionally approved commission was funded to study proposals for what was then called a National Academy of Peace and Conflict Resolution. Hearings were held in 12 cities, with 300 witnesses contributing to a printed record of 7,000 pages. More than 45,000 citizens were dues-paying members to the National Peace Academy Campaign, a public-support organization. With 40 national organizations backing it, the U.S. Academy of Peace Act had 55 Senate and 177 House co-sponsors.

Then the weakening process began. A Senate and House conference committee accepted amendments to downgrade the academy to an institute. References to site, acquisition of property and establishment of schools and offices were deleted.

MORE — THAT IS, less — was to come. Congress authorized $14 million, but the administration budgeted only $4 million for 1985 and refused $10 million for next year. This, plus the appointments delay, prompts Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., one of the institute's strongest advocates, to say, "Here is a clear example of evading the law."

For now, it may well be better to place hope elsewhere. Private philanthropy is

This peace money is far from being a match against the military and weapons money that has created what Seymour Melman called a decade ago "the permanent war economy." General Dynamics, the Pentagon's leading contractor, had sales in 1983 of $6.8 billion, a sum twice the amount of all the grants given in 1983 in all fields by the nation's 22,000 foundations.

THE VIGOR OF MacArthur's enlightenment needs to be noticed. The Forum Institute notes that despite the rise in peace grants, funding "still is regarded, as one founder put it, 'as genuinely controversial — it is nothing like supporting the Red Cross...A foundation representative, currently committing significant resources to the field, considers his own foundation conservative' on the peace issue. And this is not just because the issue is controversial, since we have a clear position on gun control and abortion. It is just that people have reached different conclusions about how to approach the problem, due partly to their personal politics, their reading and their own experience."

If the foundations want to lead, now is the time. The Reagan administration, with its stated goal of rearming America and its disdain for the Peace Institute, has vacated the field.

"The United States can't have it both ways. Patrick Quinn, spokesman for the Coalition for Political Honesty, discussed bank check-holding policies at a press conference Friday at the Carbondale Holiday Inn.

Group urges law to ensure depositors' access to cash

By Scott Freeman
Staff Writer

More than half of the 163 Illinois banks and savings and loans associations surveyed by Patrick Quinn of the Cook County Board of (Tax) Appeals have been found to hold a consumer's checks more than three days, Quinn said at a press conference in Carbondale Friday.

The Coalition for Political Honesty, headed by Quinn, is urging passage of Illinois Senate Bill 882, which proposes that banks not hold locally written checks more than three days and out-of-state checks more than five days.

"AS IT stands now, many banks in Illinois are denying customers access to their own money," said Quinn.

Quinn said that 99 percent of all deposited checks are collected within one or two business days, but are held for a float period of up to ten days by some banks after the check has cleared. Customer access to the deposited money is denied during this period.

"Banks around the state of Illinois are playing a game of cat-and-mouse with people's money," Quinn said. "It is unfair that banks are earning interest on money that is rightfully the customer's under the guise of a check hold policy."

HE CITED instances of people on fixed incomes cashing Social Security checks in banks and being denied immediate access to this money.

"These people live from paycheck to paycheck and need immediate access to their money to buy food, medication, and to pay rent," Quinn said.

This policy also affects the working man who "may want to draw money on the spur of the moment for vacation expenses, and finds that the bank is still holding his paycheck," he said.

THE EXPEDITED Check Clearing Act will set strict guidelines for banks on the availability of funds deposited by consumers, he said. The bill is being sponsored by Sen. Tim Dagnan, D-Chicago.

For government checks, consumer access to funds would be one business day.

For personal checks of less than $50 drawn on a local branch bank, the deposited funds would be available within one business day.

For a check drawn on any Illinois bank, the funds would be available to the consumer within three business days.

FINALLY, FOR a check drawn on any out-of-state bank, the funds would be available within five business days.

The guidelines accurately reflect the amount of time it takes for a check to clear, Quinn said.

"This bill will give consumers ready access to their money while allowing them to collect interest that is rightfully theirs," he said.

Quinn said his group is working to get service charges on checking accounts dropped, and that a study into service charges would be undertaken "in the near future."

CARBONDALE BANKS and savings and loans associations reported on in Quinn's study are the First National Bank, which holds local checks three days and out-of-state checks 12 days; Home Federal, three days local and 10 days out-of-state; University Bank of Carbondale, three days local and 10 days out-of-state; and Mid America Bank and Trust, four days local and seven days out-of-state.

The Bank of Carbondale is the most accessible of the local banks for local checks, holding them from zero to three days, but it holds out-of-state checks from 10 to 14 days.

A Southern Illinois bank whose check clearing policies are considered "exemplary" by Quinn is the First National Bank in Steelville, which allows immediate access to all checks, with no holding period.

to stop."

During one of the two open discussions, O'Mara showed a videotape of the group at one of its protests in Santiago, the Chilean capitol. As the protesters were dispersing after the peaceful demonstration, uniformed guards began kicking some of them and pelting others with billy clubs.

"We were naive," O'Mara says now. "We thought we could influence the secret police."

Sticking to their pledge of non-violence, the protesters immediately sat down. "We tried to act respectfully against police who did not act respectfully against us."

O'Mara said he has seen water cannons, birdseed fired from rifles and tear gas all used to disperse protestors. "I didn't expect to get patted on the back and applauded," he said. "We didn't expect that in our group." Nevertheless, people walking by the demonstrations would often stop, stare and then break into applause, he said.

Human rights groups like Amnesty International have documented testimony from hundreds of Chilean victims of torture, 389 cases in 1983 alone

But the Chilean government denies that it tortures its citizens and no one has ever been convicted or punished for practicing torture.

"It's inhuman, it's ungodly and it's just not acceptable," he said, expressing his disgust for the use of torture. "I've seen the emotional scars it's left on people. I've seen the physical scars as well."

The act that ultimately led to his deportation took place on Dec. 23, 1984. O'Mara, another priest and a nun were arrested in the vestibule of a church for passing out Christmas cards wishing Chileans a "Christmas without Herods and a New Year without torture." For this, and his four previous arrests, he was labeled a "threat to internal security" and was forced to leave the country.

'Whorehouse' full of energetic, foot-tappin' fun

By Terri Kreen
Staff Writer

Foot-tappin' country music, energetic production numbers and fine acting highlight "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" at McLeod Theater.

"Whorehouse" opened Friday as the second show in Summer Playhouse '85. It's based on the true story of the Chicken Ranch, a 150-year-old brothel and attempts to close it down.

The main characters, Miss Mona, proprietress of the Chicken Ranch, and Sheriff Ed Earl Dodd, are charmingly contrived, but not overdone. Jane E. White as Miss Mona leads the show with excellent acting and a strong singing voice. Kim Curlee, with equally impressive acting skills, gives a likeable, human touch to the role of the frustrated sheriff.

THE ENTHUSIASTIC chorus members have tough jobs. Each plays more than one part, therefore making a lot of quick costume changes, but they handle it very well. Everyone seemed to have fun with their roles and the music, which kept audience members laughing and tapping their feet.

A small on-stage country combo provides the down-home, foot-stompin' music. "Twenty Fans" and "A Lil' Ole Bitty Pissant Country Place" are fast-paced numbers with a touch of humor describing the Chicken Ranch and its history.

Rhonda Jackson-McAfee, as Jewel, won the audience over with her sultry, jazzy "Twenty-four Hours of Lovin'." Her broad vocal range adds an extra touch to the song.

WHITE'S SINGING, while sometimes hard to hear, was good. No microphones were used — they weren't needed — but she kept turning upstage so that her voice was only heard by the other cast members. Some of the dialogue was lost at the beginning because the entire cast seemed to have the same problem and also spoke very quickly.

Eric Ewan gave an excellent performance as the appropriately tacky Melvin P. Thorpe, star of Watchdog News. Thorpe is the instigator of the scandal against Miss Mona and the Chicken Ranch and reports it on national TV with the song "Texas Has a Whorehouse in It."

THE THORPE Singers and the Dogettes are a humorous backup for Thorpe as they parody television evangelism. The audience is effectively drawn into the show as a frenzied chase takes the Singers and the Dogettes through the aisles and in and out of the side doors of the theater. With a show that could easily have a cumbersome, unnecessarily elaborate set, McLeod makes good use of a simple set with plenty of storage space. Makeup was also well done, with the exception of Miss Mona's. She was made to look a little too witchy for her smooth, self-confident character.

stars Dolly Parton and Burt Reynolds, can't compare with the McLeod Theater production. The characters on stage at McLeod are better defined and more realistic; therefore, the whole show is that much more enjoyable.

The show runs again at 8 p.m. Thursday through Sunday. Tickets are $6 for Thursday and Sunday shows and $7 for Friday and Saturday.

University Press editorial director has 18 years experience for post

By Elizabeth Cochran
Staff Writer

With a total of 18 years experience under his belt, Robert S. Phillips, University Press's recently-hired associate editorial director, is an "enthusiastic addition to the staff," said Kenney Withers, director.

The job was vacant for about one year, Withers said. "It took us that long to find Phillips."

Phillips worked for five years as an editor at the Encyclopaedia Britannica, four years as a free-lance editor, and nine years as an editor at Funk & Wagnalls.

His primary duties as an encyclopedia editor included annually updating specific volumes, and selecting information to be published in the encyclopedias.

Phillips became editor-in-chief at Funk & Wagnalls in 1978, and led a four-year, $4.5 million major revision of the encyclopedia.

During the revision, 65 percent of the encyclopedia's content was replaced. He and his staff got 650 new information contributors, and added 2,000 illustrations.

When the project was completed in 1983, Phillips said the entire editorial staff was let go. He said that following a major revision, that is common in the encyclopedia business.

He began working full-time at the University Press in February.

Through his work with encyclopedias, he acquired several academic contacts that will help him to "enrich the existing sources for potential books," he said.

"Some acquisition editors are lazy, and wait like spiders in webs for something to come along. But because of my academic contacts, I will be able to identify work in embryonic stages," he said.

Withers said that Phillips has brought good books, and good consultants, to the University Press.

The function of the University Press is to have scholarly books printed, Phillips said.

It is one of about 75 in the nation that contracts books mainly of academic authors, he said. With its 25 employees, the press puts out about 50 titles per year, which is "no small accomplishment," said Phillips.

The books are printed at other locations, but are contracted and stored here, he said.

"We service authors from as far away as Asia," he said.

As associate editorial director of the press, Phillips supervises the staff that reviews manuscripts.

"It is our job to identify new works worthy of print," he said.

Phillips said this job is a big change from his previous jobs because there are fewer employees.

He added that his co-workers have been very cordial and helpful, and said that the work environment is "more family-like" than at other jobs.

University Professionals loses Donow as president

By Michael Cavanagh
Staff Writer

Herbert Donow has stepped down as president of University Professionals, the faculty and staff union that is lobbying for collective bargaining at SIU-C.

Donow, professor of English, says that he retired as president of the union so he could take a sabbatical and write a book about the perception of the aged in literature.

He has been an important figure on campus because of his affiliation with the union. The union, previously called the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers, has been working toward bringing collective bargaining to the University since its conception in 1971.

"Collective bargaining is shared decision making," Donow says. "It's a better way to negotiate."

Donow is a charter member of the union and became president in 1973. He held that office until he stepped down June 1. "It was a good point for a change to be made," Donow said. "I did not want to split my time between the union and the book."

"Of course he is still a member in good standing,"

said the new president of University Professionals, John Pohlmann, professor of Educational Psychology.

Pohlmann plans to work hard to bring bargaining to the campus.

Petitions signed by faculty and staff members will be submitted to the Board of Trustees before it votes on the collective bargaining issue.

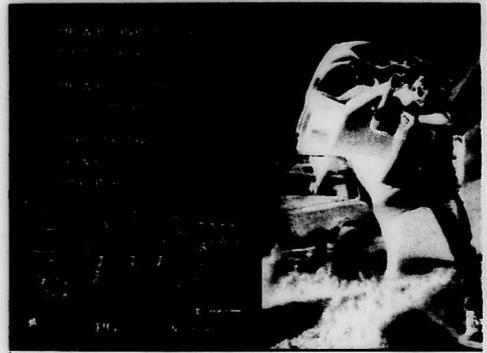

If collective bargaining is approved, University Professionals proposes to be the third party bargaining agent.

"We only need 30 percent of the employees to bring it to a vote," Donow said. Of the 1,500 faculty and staff members on campus, about 650 have signed petitions, he said.

"There has been a super response to the drive," Donow said. "I'm very pleased."

Donow thinks the issue will be approved. "A majority of the faculty have shown support," he said.

Man charged with burglary

Carbondale police arrested a man carrying a cash register about 4 p.m. Sunday after witnesses reported a burglary at the Asian Foods store, 219 E. Main St.

Witnesses said they saw the man walking across the Bank of Carbondale parking lot. Police arrested suspect identified as John O. Martin, 25, about two blocks away.

Martin was charged with burglary and taken to the Jackson County Jail.

Clark station robbed of $50

An armed robber was reported to have fled with $50 from the Clark service station, 801 E. Walnut St. Thursday, a Carbondale police spokesman said. Attendant James Leming described the suspect as a black male, about 6 feet tall, weighing about 160 pounds.

MVC names commissioner

Jim Haney, assistant commissioner for the Metro Conference, was named commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference last week.

Haney, 36, succeeds Richard Martin, who resigned in May to enter private business. Jeff Hurd, the MVC public relations director, served as interim commissioner until Haney was hired.

Haney becomes the eighth commissioner in the 78-year history of the conference. He is a native of Pittsburgh and was a three-year basketball letterman at the University of Pennsylvania from 1969-71. He received a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering from Penn in 1971.

"I am delighted to be the commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference," Haney said. "For a number of years, the Missouri Valley has been one of the most respected conferences in the nation and I am looking forward to being part of it."

Haney began his career in athletics at the University of Oregon as a graduate assistant basketball coach in 1971. He became a full-time assistant in 1972 and was named Oregon's head basketball coach in March, 1978. He resigned in March, 1983, and was replaced by Don Monson.

Haney worked for a short time with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League and as an assistant basketball coach at the University of Kansas before he was named assistant commissioner for the Metro in September, 1983.

"Any conference is only as good as its people and the MVC is composed of enthusiastic, progressive coaches and administrators," Haney said. "That, combined with the conference's rich basketball tradition, makes for a bright future."

Florida was still being planned, but is scheduled for the first week of January.

"The costs of the various trips are very minimal as compared to what the individual would pay on his own," said Minter. All equipment and insurance is provided, and trained guides are always present. On longer trips, all essential gear as well as food, transportation and insurance is provided.

"We always have a trained guide along on the trips," Minter said. "We either use people trained in outdoor recreation, like people from Touch of Nature, or we contract highly trained guides.

"HAVING A trained guide along to provide proper instruction is very important; we want to get people involved, but we also want to teach people to use proper safety techniques in outdoor recreation," she said.

Leidy receives prestigious postgraduate scholarship

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

Sharon Leidy, a four-year standout in track and field and field hockey at SIU-C, has been named as one of 20 collegiate women athletes nationwide to receive a prestigious NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship.

Leidy has also been selected as a first team Academic All-America at large for the second straight year by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

"I'm very happy about winning the scholarship," Leidy said. "It capped a very happy four years at SIU. I feel I had a great opportunity to compete in two sports at SIU and do a lot of other things. Receiving a scholarship is an added bonus."

Leidy, a native of Holly Springs, Pa., graduated in May with a 4.0 grade point average in business and recreation administration. She plans to attend Penn State University in the fall to work on a master's degree in recreation administration.

Leidy was a four-year starter in field hockey. She was named the team's Most Valuable Player twice and led the Salukis in scoring in the past two years. She is SIU-C's sixth all-time leading scorer with 33 goals.

In track, Leidy holds school records in the 100-meter hurdles (14.61), the pentathlon (3,586 points), the heptathlon (4,763 points) and the high jump (5 feet, 8 inches). She ranks No. 12 on the school's all-time scoring list.

Leidy is only the second SIU-C athlete to receive three of the four annual awards given by the department of intercollegiate athletes for women. She received the Virginia Gordon Award, the Outstanding Leader-Athlete and the Alumni Scholar Award at the IAW Awards Banquet in April.

"Sharon is one of those rare individuals who has all fronts covered," said Charlotte West.

ARC to focus on outdoor activities

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

The Leisure Exploration Service has changed its name and is now the Adventure Resource Center.

Formerly located across from the weight room in the Student Recreation Center, the LES has provided students, faculty and staff with information on how to spend leisure time since 1977.

The new Adventure Resource Center will be located in the old golf room, and will also serve as headquarters for Southern Outdoor Adventure and Recreation.

Joan Sullivan, graduate assistant in charge of the ARC this summer, said the change was initiated last semester and will be publicized this fall.

"WE'LL START a campaign during orientation week to let people know where we are and what we do," Sullivan said. "We used to sponsor leisure education workshops and there was just no interest," Sullivan said. "People would come in looking for information about outdoor activities, so we decided to change to keep up with faculty and student demands."

Sullivan said that the ARC was presently studying the possibility of a resource library that would focus specifically on outdoor issues.

"We hope to get a library that will have magazines, books and other material that relate specifically to the outdoors," Sullivan said. "Then people will have a chance to examine the current outdoor issues."

SULLIVAN ALSO pointed out that 34 sports clubs operated through the ARC, with organized activities ranging from rock climbing to bicycle touring to caving. Those interested in joining these groups should contact the ARC at the Student Center.

"We'll have our grand opening during orientation week," Sullivan said. "It's still in the planning stage, but we hope to distribute informative pamphlets, conduct tours of our resources, give out buttons and set up some contests to get people involved."

"We'll be offering organized trips for students, faculty and staff as well as people from the community," said Donna Minter, a graduate assistant in charge of SOAR.

MINTER EXPLAINED that both long trips and short trips would be offered, with the longer trips being held over breaks throughout the school year.

"We'll have trips for the day that will range from canoeing to rappelling, with three-day trips running over the weekends," Minter said.

Minter said that the three day trips would include canoeing, rock climbing and rappelling and would be traveling to places like Land-Between-the-Lakes in Kentucky. Longer trips to places like Grand Canyon and Big Bend National Park in southwest Texas are also being offered. These trips, which may last for up to nine or ten days, are planned over breaks, allowing students, staff and faculty to participate.

Dawson's single downs Cardinals

MONTREAL (UPI) — Andre Dawson knocked his seventh-game winner of the season — a single with two out in the bottom of the 10th inning — to score Jim Wohlford from third base Monday and give Montreal a 3-2 victory over St. Louis.

The triumph moved the Expos within a half-game of the first-place Cardinals in the NL East.

"I did not do a thing all day and was due for one," said the right fielder. "There's no better time to get a hit than in extra innings. This is the type of series I wanted to get into and forget about my bad knee."

"It was a good battle between the top two teams in the East," said losing manager Whitey Herzog.

"Their young pitcher (Floyd) Youmans pitched an excellent ballgame for his first start in the majors. I sent out six of my pitchers to try and win this game, but Dawson upset us in the 10th with a winning single."

Expos manager Buck Rodgers sent minor leaguer Youmans out Monday to face the hot Cardinals, who have won 12 of their last 16 games.

Brought up Saturday from Jacksonville of the Double-A Southern League, Youmans did not get the victory but pitched "better than I expected," said Rodgers.

"He was throwing the ball at 93, 94 miles an hour. He was very poised. He'll stay with the club for awhile."

Youmans, one of four players acquired from the New York Mets last December in exchange for Gary Carter, went 6 2-3 innings, giving up six hits and two runs. He walked five and struck out five.

The victory was credited to reliever Gary Lucas, 3-0, who hurled two innings.

Wohlford was pinch hitting for Lucas in the tenth when he drew a one-out walk off Rickey

Horton, 0-2, and moved to second when Tim Raines walked. After Wohlford took third on a fly out by Mitch Webster, Dawson greeted Bob Forsch with his game-winning single down the left-field line.

St. Louis scored twice in the seventh to tie it 2-2. Rookie Vince Coleman singled and Willie McGee followed with his third home run of the season off Youmans.

The Expos opened the scoring in the fifth when Dan Driessen walked, went to second on a wild pitch by starter Kurt Kephire and scored on Tim Wallach's single to left.

Upsets rule at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Top seeds John McEnroe and Chris Evert Lloyd continued to defy the string of upsets spicing Wimbledon, while the big blow of the day Monday was struck by Boris (Boom Boom) Becker.

Four more seeds were wiped away on a warm, sunny afternoon, including Hana Mandlikova, bringing the total number of casualties to nine men and eight women through three rounds.

Both McEnroe and Evert Lloyd advanced to the round of 16 by beating qualifiers. McEnroe, banished to Court

No. 2, known as "the Graveyard of Champions," and wearing a bandage on his right knee, which he said "hasn't been feeling that great," responded with a 6-3, 7-5, 6-4 victory over Chris Steyn.

Evert Lloyd had an even easier time in dispensing of 18-year-old Jenny Byrne, 6-2, 6-1.

Neither of the two Americans has dropped a set in three matches, and Evert Lloyd, fresh from her victory in the French Open, has conceded a mere seven games.

McEnroe, the two-time defending champion, had requested his match be shifted, contending, "That's part of being the defending champion; you should have to be beaten on one of the two show courts," but this was denied.

McEnroe draws another qualifier in Andreas Maurer Tuesday for a berth in the quarterfinals and Evert Lloyd next meets Anne Smith, a 6-2, 6-4 winner over Isabella Demongeot.

Becker, the big, 17-year-old West German with one of the most explosive serves in the game, outlasted seventh seed Joskim Nystrom, 3-6, 7-6, 6-1, 4-6, 9-7, in a match which lasted 3 hours and 20 minutes. Nystrom twice served for the match in the final set, at 5-4 and 6-5, but it was Becker who made the decisive break in the 16th game, raising his arm in triumph at the end.

Mandlikova, the losing finalist here in 1981 and a semifinalist last year, was unable to escape with another lackluster performance and was upset by Australian Elizabeth Smylie, 6-1, 7-6. She said later she wasn't eager enough or hungry enough, but refused to explain why.

Dismissed along with Nystrom and Mandlikova were Yannick Noah, the men's 11th seed, and Wendy Turnbull, the 14th seeded woman.
