SIUC fails to actively recruit gays

By Marc Chase
Administration Reporter

While Northeastern University in Boston is expanding its affirmative action plan to increase hiring of gays and lesbians to faculty positions, an SIUC administrator says he is against such a program being implemented here.

The faculty and Board of Trustees for Northeastern approved new affirmative action plans in the spring.

The plans were presented by members of the University's faculty and administration in an effort for the University to take an active role in recruiting gay and lesbian employees.

Northeastern's new gay and lesbian policies have sparked discussion in academic circles nation-wide.

According to the SIUC Affirmative Action Policy Statement, gays and lesbians are protected from discrimination during the hiring process but are not actively pursued for faculty and staff positions.

Dara Helman, provost for Northeastern, said the University plans to implement a new recruiting policy for gay and lesbian employees over the next few months.

She said the new plan involves contacting gay and lesbian caucuses, advertising through the media and networking to other universities to find gay and lesbian individuals interested in working for Northeastern.

Helman said the addition to the affirmative action plan is to promote more diversity within the faculty and staff of Northeastern.

"We (Northeastern) are actively recruiting gays and lesbians as opposed to just promising not to discriminate against an individual based on sexual orientation in the hiring process," Helman said.

"By doing this we are enriching the academic community, and we value that here.

Systems like this existed within the former affirmative action plan of Northeastern for minorities and females.

The current SIUC Affirmative Action Plan also calls for special recruiting methods to increase the number of minority and female employees at the University, however, it does not have a similar program for gays and lesbians.

Benjamin Shepherd, vice president for academic affairs and provost at SIUC, said creating a policy for active recruiting of gays and lesbians at the University would create more problems than it would solve.

"It (active recruiting) would cause such a debate by those who oppose it that it would create an environment which would detract from the ability of the University to do quality work," Shepherd said.

State budget held over, legislators meet today

By Angela Hyland
Politics Reporter

Illinois legislators did not meet the midnight deadline last night and failed to pass the state budget. Lawmakers plan to meet at 10 a.m. today to examine the new budget presented June 29 by Gov. Jim Edgar.

Edgar's new budget includes an additional $248 million in higher revenue projections, funds which had never before been mentioned as being available, according to Mark Gordon, press secretary for Senate President James "Pate" Philip, R-Wood Dale.

The anticipated higher revenue will be derived from sources such as bond authorization and riverboat gaming proceeds.

The plan also included a proposed $63 million in cuts, which come primarily from the state employee's group health plan.

In March, Edgar proposed a $31.5 billion state spending plan. The updated plan is based on the March proposal, but includes a few minor changes.

House Speaker Michael J. Madigan, D-Chicago, said he would not agree to the budget until he was sure where the additional funds came from.

Gordon said Madigan refused to go along with the proposal because it was presented by a Republican.

"It was going well until about noon today," he said Thursday. "Then the Speaker decided things were going too smoothly and decided to break the agreement."

The tension between Democrats and Republicans could result in long delays before the budget is approved, he said.

"It could be weeks; it could be months," he said.

Steve Brown, press secretary for Mike Madigan, said Philip's office should have expected the delay in approving the new budget.

"I'm not sure how smoothly it was going," he said. "I don't know

Graduate overcomes heartbreak, helps others

By Stephanie Moletti
Special Assignment Reporter

As the car topped a hill, a gust of wind swept it from the road, slamming it into a ditch where it rolled several times.

On that day in April 1988, Carolyn Guenther's son David broke his neck.

Guenther, a recent SIUC graduate, has had her share of heartbreak. However traumatic and devastating the situation was, it was a turning point for Guenther.

After addressing several problems in her personal life, she decided to return to school.

Guenther has drive and goals behind that drive which keep her striving forward. She received her bachelor's in social work in May and is now going for her master's in social work in the fall.

However, after four years at SIUC, Guenther has decided to move on to the University of Illinois.

The accident occurred just a few weeks before David's high school graduation.

Guenther credits her graduation from SIUC to David's accident.

She lived in Galesburg where her husband was vice president of a large company and her two sons excelled in high school, both academically and athletically.

Two months after the accident, Guenther left her other son John, then 15, at home with his father and took David to a spinal clinic in Denver.

Guenther was not happy with the treatment they received.

"The professionals didn't do their job — they were judgmental," Guenther said. "We were treated more like the norm, not as unique — none of us are average."

Hard headed: Helmet bill dies in House

Gus Bode

Gus says if Illinois would repair the roads I wouldn't need my helmet as much.

By Heather Burrow
City Reporter

A familiar bill, which would have made motorcycle helmets mandatory, recently died in an Illinois House of Representatives committee for transportation and motor vehicles nearly one year after it was first defeated.

However, this defeat will hurt Illinois road repair because $6.2 million will be transferred in October from the highway construction program to the highway safety program.

As of October 1, the first day of the federal fiscal year, $6.2 million will be used for safety and not to repair Illinois' roads, said Richard Adorjan, director of public affairs for the department of transportation. This amount will double in fiscal year 1996 to $12 million.

The transfer and amount of funds is what is required by the 1991 federal law, Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act.

NAZI DOCUMENTS RETURNED TO GERMANY —
 BERLIN—Forty-nine years ago, the U.S. Army treated Kurt Rosenow, then a technical sergeant, to one of the finer karma wars of the 20th century: Ordered back to his native Berlin, he was put to work sifting the rubble of what had been Adolf Hitler's capital, trying to assemble a paper trail of the Third Reich. Into the shattered streets went Rosenow, a German Jew who had wisely taken ship for America in the summer of 1939. Rosenow didn't know it at the time, but the papers he and his team were putting together would eventually make the most complete documentation of the Nazi era ever produced. Now the archive, known as the Berlin Document Center, has become the focus of a controversy. On Friday, Berlin's trove of one-of-a-kind documents will pass from American administration to German hands. Some researchers have argued that under German stewardship, the unique files will be less accessible.

JAPANESE MAY STALL ECONOMIC RELATIONS —
 TOKYO—Socialist party leader Tomiichi Murayama's election
 Wednesday as Japanese prime minister places new strains on U.S.-Japan trade relations and may derail Tokyo's efforts to carry out economic reforms. A Murayama administration probably will be even less accommodating to the United States on trade issues, and largely unwilling to dismantle regulations that protect farmers, retailers and industry from unfettered domestic and foreign competition. U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor, setting the stage for a possible standoff on trade issues when President Clinton and Murayama meet in Naples, Italy, next week, cautioned against expecting any quick economic breakthroughs with Japan.

CBS EXPECTED TO ACQUIRE QVC NETWORK —
 THE WASHINGTON POST—Giant broadcasting company CBS Inc. has reached a preliminary agreement to acquire QVC Network Inc., the Philadelphia-based home shopping network, sources said Wednesday night. Under the terms of the multibillion dollar deal, QVC chief Barry Diller would become chief executive of the combined company. He has been eager to make a major acquisition and become a major player in the entertainment industry. After running CBS for years and selling its publishing and recording units, Laurence A. Tisch, 71, has decided to turn the company over to new leadership, sources said. It was unclear what if any impact viewers would see in program lineups of CBS or QVC due to a merger.

NAVY PROTESTS ADDITIONAL BASE CLOSINGS —
 LOS ANGELES TIMES — The Navy is studying the possibility that some Naval and Marine Corps bases scheduled to be closed could be kept open by showing Congress that the military installations are vital to national defense or closing them would be too expensive. Congress will appoint a new commission in 1995 to recommend additional closings of military bases, and the Navy secretary's memo raises the possibility that some Navy bases that are still operating but scheduled for closure could eventually be put on a list of bases to be "reconsidered" by the new commission. The Navy memo, which was obtained by the Los Angeles Times, instructs officials at bases scheduled for closure or realignment that they must give "compelling reasons" for saving the installations.

NASA SPACE STATION SUPPORTED BY HOUSE—
 WASHINGTON—The House Wednesday night overwhelmingly supported continued funding of the $28 billion space station project, bowing to an intense lobbying effort by the Clinton administration and pleas from House members to preserve tens of thousands of aerospace industry jobs. The once seemingly star-crossed space station project that barely survived last year by a single vote, passed 278 to 155 this time after the White House and National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) officials waged a vigorous six-month campaign to turn the tide. But by dramatically revamping the design, trimming costs and entering a joint operational and cost-sharing agreement with the Russians, the Clinton administration and NASA won crucial converts in the House and thwarted the assault.

Passing through time in Southern Illinois

The Pierre Menard Home, built in 1802, is just one of the historical sites in Southern Illinois. The home is considered to be one of the best preserved landmarks in the area.

By Paul Eisenberg
Entertainment Reporter

History has often traveled through Southern Illinois, but seldom can the region be found in history books. Today residents can retrace its path, perhaps even learning something along the way.

The Underground Railroad, a loose term for the journey north taken by many escaped slaves, passed directly through Southern Illinois. Several farms and houses where fugitives once hid still stand just a few miles away from Carbondale.

In his book "Illinois Generations," Charles Branham wrote about thousands of former slaves who traveled through Cairo and other areas on their way to Chicago and other points north.

Branham said a favored passage across the Mississippi was where the town of Rockwood now stands. Several farmers in Chester helped fugitive slaves make their way north.

Celebrate freedom: Holiday weekend takes off

From frog jumping
to terrapin races:
Festivities heat up

By Paul Eisenberg
Entertainment Reporter

The frog jumping and terrapin racing begin at 11 a.m., bull boat races are at 6 p.m., and the flatboats will be racing all day.

While these may sound like figments from Mark Twain's imagination, they are very real and will occur on Saturday along the west bank of the Ohio River between Cave-In-Rock and Golconda.

The 8th annual Davy Crockett Ohio River Flatboat Fest features an alternative Independence Day celebration for those who are tired of the same old carnival and fireworks routine.

Festival organizer Ray Morris said he started the event to focus attention on the historic Ohio river.

"In the early 1800s, flatboats were the main source of transportation for settlers and natives alike," he said.

Morris said flatboats, large rafts containing 25 to 30 man crews, were all over the river as late as the 1920s, but have since fallen out of use. "There were no plans to build them, it's like plowing a field," he said. "There are no textbooks on how to plow a field, people just know. People then just knew how to build the boats."

He said he did extensive research before drawing up his own plans for a flatboat, which he makes available to competing teams.

The flatboat race begins at 8:30 a.m. in Cave-In-Rock and will end around 5 p.m. in Golconda.

Another race involves bull boats, which are cup-shaped wooden frames covered by buffalo bull hides.

"Native Americans and settlers would carry their bull hide with them, and when they came to a river they would build a frame, strap on the hide, row across, then leave the frame at the river," Morris said.

Today bull boaters use a heavy tarp in place of a buffalo hide.

"They're pretty expensive these days," Morris said.

The bullboat race will begin at 6

Fireworks spark concerns over safety, illegal handling

By Aleksandra Macys
Campus Life Reporter

The night sky will be alive with fire throughout the weekend and on into July 4 as people create miniature explosions to celebrate Independence Day, but local medical professionals say safety should be a major concern.

Andrea Brewer, a nurse in the emergency department at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, said most of the injuries people sustain from fireworks are minor, but some can be serious.

Brewer said unsafe use of fireworks can result in eye injuries, burns and ruptured ear drums.

"Your clothes can catch on fire too, and you can get burned that way," she said.

Brewer said people need to always remember to be safe, use their heads and make sure there is adult supervision when children are involved.

Carbondale Assistant Fire Chief Jeff Anderson said adult supervision is extremely important when using any type of fireworks display.

But Anderson said the only type of fireworks legal in Illinois are sparklers and smoking devices.

"Any type of explosive, including firecrackers, bottle-rockets and M-80s, are illegal," Anderson said. "We hope that people won't be setting them off."

Sergeant Steve Ellis of the SIUC Police Department said there are very few fireworks that are legal and just possessing them is illegal.

Teenagers to bridge with other cultures at camp

By Kyle J. Chapman
International Reporter

The enhancement of multiculturalism will be the focus of the Bridges to Other Cultures camp at SIUC. The camp, which begins July 10, is designed to allow area children and teens to learn about other cultures.

The program is a multi-cultural awareness camp backed by SIUC Credit Union and sponsored by campus groups.

It targets youth ages 10 to 18, giving them the opportunity to engage in cultures from various parts of the world.

International students and their families will serve as facilitators, resource persons and cultural guides for the camp, according to Carla Coppi, assistant director of International Programs and Services.

The week-long program includes a tour for children ages 10 to 13 and a tour for teenagers 14 to 18. The registration fee is $282, which includes housing at Thompson Point and meals in the Student Center.

Registration will be at Thompson Point on July 5 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Coppi said the international community at SIUC will be heavily involved in the activities such as folk dancing and bringing ethnic foods.

"The international students will be talking about many aspects of their culture concentrating on family life," she said. "Last year's campers were really fascinated by the familial relationships of other cultures."

Coppi said the focus of the camp would be to emphasize the positive and shared aspects of different cultures.

"The thing I love about this camp is we stress the similarities among us and not the differences," she said.

Shelley Gimenez, coordinator of Bridges to Other Cultures, said the purpose of the program is to promote human understanding and education.

"We all believe the same vision and that is the elimination of the fear of that which is different," she

News coverage hurt due to lack of variety

WHAT IS NEWS? IF YOU HAVE TURNED ON THE television or opened a newspaper, you would think that something is newsworthy only if it involves the suffering of a celebrity. By the coverage O.J. Simpson has received in the past two weeks, one might easily believe he was the leader of this country. What is it about a fallen celebrity that turns the media into bloodthirsty professionals craving one more drop of factual or rumored information.

It is amazing how large news organizations have grown in this country. The media's access to sophisticated technology allows them to cover any newsworthy event in the world. However, what kind of news stories have you seen comprehensively covered this week, this month, this year?

THE NEWS AGENCIES TEND TO FOCUS MOST of their energies on a single current topic, which often seems to focus on the tragic hero. One only needs to think back to the most widely covered stories to come up with examples. What happened to Tonya Harding, Michael Jackson and Anita Hill? So why does the news have a bias for tragic human interest stories? Does the media set their own agenda or are they responsive to the public?

Today, news of Simpson's pretrial hearing will dominate the front page of many newspapers, but how much space will be devoted to other stories? Why suddenly are stories about Bosnia, Rwanda, Haiti and North Korea less newsworthy?

THE NEWS MEDIA TENDS TO BE SUFFERING from pack journalism. Anyone with a television turned on two weeks ago saw Simpson's white Ford Bronco cruising down a California interstate whether they were watching NBC, CBS, ABC or CNN. These news broadcasters all must have identical tastes for what is news or maybe every person sitting at home that Friday night wanted to see Simpson drive back to his home.

Broadcast media are not the only ones to blame since most newspapers ran nearly identical stories.

Soon it will be possible to receive 500 television channels at a relatively low cost. If 250 of these channels carry news, will all of this news be the same. It is time for print and broadcast media to offer their customers more variety.

AMERICANS PRIDE THEMSELVES ON individualism. Being unique is something to be admired. By offering the news consumers more variety, they would gain more viewers resulting in higher profits.

Many things are not considered news until they are reported. The more coverage an event receives the more newsworthy it becomes. Therefore, today, Simpson's preliminary hearing is more important than universal health care, the Haitian refugees being held in Cuba, or the 200,000 dead from Rwanda's civil war.

Celebrity hardships will continue to dominate the news as long as news agencies are making a profit. If the public demands more diversity, a news provider will fulfill that

Japanese yen grows weak, Americans narrow trade gaps

Newsday

In a world unduly mesmerized for better than a decade by the supposed invincibility of everything Japanese are we suddenly being confronted with a truth we should have suspected: that Japan has no clothes?

This is a strange question to be asking at the very time the Japanese currency is rising steeply to unprecedented values against the dollar which should suggest that Japan's economic miracle is still very much a thriving fact.

If nothing else, the political situation, which so often drives currency values, is dreadful. At the very time when events being plotted in North Korea could turn much of east Asia into a vast and uninhabitable radiation belt, the Japanese political system is going through a convulsion suggestive of the institutionalized incompetence of the French Fourth Republic.

Parallel with and aggravated by the political paralysis, the Japanese economy, which was roaring along effortlessly at non-inflationary growth rates of better than 5 percent up until 1992 is having perverse difficulty recovering from its worst post-war recession, a slump which has revealed dangerous cracks in its banking system.

China has overnight replaced Japan as the chief growth tiger of Asia.

The American manufacturers are aggressively recovering market share and are steadily narrowing what was once an embarrassingly wide quality gap.

Most importantly, the productivity gap, Japanese auto workers by the 1980s had significantly higher rates of productivity than their U.S. counterparts, has been closed.

Overall, U.S. productivity always remained higher than Japan's and it is now growing briskly while productivity growth in Japan has flattened, the natural consequence when so many of its domestic industries have been so highly protected from outside competition.

During the 1970s and 1980s, when Japanese exports were devastating industry after industry in the United States, it was also making them leaner and meaner and more competitive with Japanese industry.

Twilight of great world powers

The Washington Post

For all the criticism aimed at President Clinton and his highly personal style of government, it is not just he who has backed away from armed confrontation over Korea, Haiti, Somalia and Bosnia, but American society. The world wants the United States to act as a Great Power, but Americans decline the honor—they are not willing to pay the price in blood.

During much of the Cold War as before it, local and regional conflicts were often instigated or at least encouraged and materially supported by rival Great Powers. Now by contrast it is the absence of functioning Great Powers that is the cause of the world's inability to cope not only with aggressive Small Powers such as Serbia, not only with secessionists of all kinds, but even with mere armed bands on a rampage.

By the classic definition, Great Powers were states strong enough to successfully wage war on their own, i.e., without allies. The issue today is not whether war can be made with or without allies, but whether war can be made at all. For it turns out that all along there was a tacit precondition to Great Power status: a readiness to use force whenever it was advantageous to do so, accepting the resulting combat casualties with equanimity—so long as their number was not disproportionate.

In the past, while Great Powers were normally able to rely on intimidation rather than actual combat, that was only so because it was taken for granted that they would use force when called for.

Nor did a Great Power conceive of limiting its use of force to situations in which genuinely "vital" interests, i.e., survival interests, were at stake. Great Powers could remain "great" only if they were seen to be willing and able to use force to protect interests far from vital, and indeed to acquire more "non-vital" interests in the form of distant possessions or expansions of their spheres of influence.

To lose a few hundred soldiers in some minor probing operation, to lose some thousands in an expeditionary venture, were routine events for the Great Powers of history. It suffices to mention the Somalia debacle precipitated by the loss of 18 U.S. soldiers, and the hasty retreat of the USS Harlan thug, to expose the unreality of the Great Power concept in our own days.

The condition is far from exclusively American. Most recently, Britain and France (not to mention Germany) flatly refused to risk their forces to resist aggression in the former Yugoslavia. To be sure, no European power has any "vital" interests at stake in the former Yugoslavia. But that is the very essence of the matter: Historical Great Powers would have viewed the disintegration of Yugoslavia not as a noxious problem to be avoided but as an opportunity to be exploited. With the need to protect populations under attack as their public excuse, with the restoration of law and order as their ostensible motive, they would have intervened to establish zones of influence for themselves. Thus the "power vacuum" would have been filled to the disappointment of local Small Power ambitions and to the great advantage of local populations and peace.

how one day they could talk about making cuts, and the next day find $248 million in new money."

Brown said the delay in passing the budget was not a political maneuver by Democrats to make Republicans appear incompetent.

"Their own behavior made them look pretty bad," he said.

He said last year the budget was passed, and 60 days later there was a $750 million deficit.

"It's a question of their credibility," he said. "There's not a lot of evidence out there to make us think we can believe their answers."

If Madigan had agreed to go along with the new budget without thoroughly examining it, Brown said it could harm his credibility as well.

"We need to find out how they can justify or explain this," he said.

"It could lead to divisiveness among the faculty and staff that could be long-lived and significantly hurt the quality of education at the University."

Shepherd is also the acting president of SIUC in the absence of president John C. Guyon, who had triple by-pass heart surgery earlier this month.

Todd Schlender, member of Gays, Lesbians, Bi-sexuals and Friends, a registered student organization dealing with gay and lesbian concerns at SIUC, said a system such as the one at Northeastern has good and bad points.

"I am not in favor of setting a certain quota for the number of gays and lesbians that should be hired because I think it creates ill-will towards a minority group," Schlender said.

"On the other hand, I think such a plan is positive because it seeks out and hires individuals with special abilities to relate to special problems that other cannot relate to."

The University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana also has not active recruiting policies for gay and lesbian employees. The affirmative action offices of other state universities were unavailable for comment.

Hiring practices of the SIUC administration for minorities and women were recently under the scrutiny of Illinois state representatives during hearings on June 20 in Edwardsville, however issues of gay and lesbian equality were excluded from these hearings.

Representative Coy Pugh, D-Chicago and chairman of the subcommittee on minority concerns in higher education, said the state legislature does not consider gays and lesbians to be a part of the minorities category.

She said the center treated David and herself as a number. They were instructed to do as they were told and then go home.

"They didn't take into consideration who we were and the way we looked at the situation," she said.

"They gave us the average tool and wanted us to conform."

Guenther said her concerns were not heard at the time.

"They made David feel guilty because of our (David and Guenther's) relationship. He and I did not need to be mentally abused," she said.

"As I went through the system I saw more I didn't like. They were not looking at the person. People in a desperate situation need to be treated more sensitively."

However, Guenther said a lot has changed since 1988.

"I don't want to seem vindictive," she said. "They are addressing a lot of the problems I saw then."

While David was recovering, Guenther spent time researching spinal injuries.

"When he got so sad and so depressed I always had a little tidbit to give hope," Guenther said.

"The professionals said not to give false hope, but I say false hope is better than no hope."

Many people with spinal cord injuries lose hope and become alcoholics and drug addicts as a result, she said.

In 1989, she and her husband divorced.

In the fall of the same year, David enrolled at the University of Illinois, where he joined the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity and participated in wheelchair football and rugby.

David died at the age of 20 in Jan. 1990 after a minor spinal surgery to remove a bone chip.

For a year-and-a-half, Guenther wandered from Urbana to Chicago and to Altona, near Galesburg to her mother's home.

In 1991 Guenther realized she could make her "contribution" and reached her goals through social work.

This decision is what brought Guenther to Carbondale.

Guenther came to SIUC in May 1991 to interview for the position of housemother for the Sigma Pi's, an off-campus fraternity. She was approved by the house and moved in.

"I don't get paid to be the house mom, I just get a room," Guenther said.

"But, they (the Sigma Pi fraternity) have filled a big void in my life."

"I came back to school to help," she said.

"I want to tighten up the system so it's more functional for the individuals who are injured. I want to educate their families on the advances being made."

Guenther said after the accident she did not want a home because she was obsessed with spinal injury.

"After David died I was angry," she said. "I felt like there were a lot of problems for a person with disabilities — problems that needed to be addressed. They were not complicated issues, just a common sense approach to dealing with injured people and their families."

But Guenther has worked through most of her problems and has connected most aspects of her life to her goals.

"If you want something bad enough, nothing can stop you," Guenther said.

"It's a passionate interest. So far it's worked and I'm having a marvelous time along the way, but I'm so afraid I'm not going to find this up at the U of I. The guys (Sigma Pi's) have kept me thoroughly entertained. They make me laugh."

Guenther said she has had a "soft spot" for fraternities since David joined one at the University of Illinois.

"It was the only time he was really happy — they were dedicated to him," she said.

Among her many other activities at SIUC, Guenther graduated cum laude and has been the fitness supervisor for the Disabled Student Recreation program at the Recreation Center.

Guenther has chosen to attend the University of Illinois because the structure of its internship program better fits her goals and chances of getting into a big spinal cord center, she said.

"It's not the program here," she said. "I love the people in social work down here, but the U of I will give me more latitude."

Now, at the age of 51, Guenther is leaving SIUC stronger and more determined, but a little uneasy. She plans to leave Carbondale after Greek weekend, July 18.

"I don't know exactly how I'm going to deal with leaving; I've made tons of good friends," she said.

"I loved coming back to school, it's been a really good experience for me. I want to thank SIU and all the people down here."

Central railway made the area more accessible not only to tourists, but for soldiers in the Civil War.

One of Carbondale's claims to historical fame is Woodlawn Cemetery, where the first Memorial Day service in the country was observed in 1866.

There are also more than 60 Civil War soldiers buried there.

Murphysboro was once the home of Civil War General John A. Logan, who climbed up the ranks of the Union army despite not having graduated from West Point or any other military academy. Now a museum and monument located in Murphysboro stand as a tribute to the general.

Logan historian Carl Cottingham said many people consider Logan the most distinguished volunteer soldier in the Civil War.

"He was wounded four times in the same battle," he said. "He was shot in the shoulder, then his second in command's head got blown right off, so Logan had his men swap him onto his horse."

"He was wounded twice more before his horse was shot and fell on top of him."

Cottingham said at the end of the war, Logan was in charge of the Army of the Tennessee, one of the biggest in the force.

SIUC history professor John Simon said there are many historic places in Southern Illinois, but they fall into different categories.

"It depends what you like," he said. "There's the old French sites around Chester and Prairie Du Rocher. Cairo was a very important during the Civil War, and Old Shawnee Town was the gateway for Illinois settlers."

Simon said there will be reenactments in Jonesboro this fall of the Lincoln-Douglas debates which will be broadcast nationwide by C-SPAN.

"Jonesboro is my favorite place right now," he said. "They're already gearing up for the debates. There will be people in costumes of the period and things like that."

Dave Conrad, who teaches a SIUC class on the history of the old French settlements around Chester, said southwestern Illinois is rich in Native American and early settler history.

From 1818, the year Illinois became a state, until 1820, Kaskaskia was the state capital, but the story of this region does not start there.

Villages like Prairie du Rocher and Cahokia originated in the early 1700s, and Indian artifacts have been found at the Medoc Rock Shelter just outside of Cahokia that date back to 6000 BC.

Chester is also the birthplace of Elzie Segar, the man who created the character of Popeye the Sailor. A monument to Segar and Popeye stands next to the Chester bridge.

During the Civil War, Cairo was an important strategic position. General U.S. Grant was headquartered there, and directed the siege of Vicksburg and the naval battle of the Mississippi from Cairo.

Eagles may soar beyond endangered list soon

By Katarzyna Buska
General Assignment Reporter

This proposal will make bald eagles threatened everywhere in the United States except the southwestern regions, where they will still be endangered. The proposal is now going through a 90-day commentary period open to the public. A final decision on the proposal will be made by the service within one year of the commentary period.

Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge has seen the rebirth of eaglets in the area.

"There are a larger number of eagles that go through the refuge on their way south for the winter," Streurer said.

Joyce Collins, fish and wildlife biologist with the refuge, said the difference between threatened and endangered species is threatened means the species is likely to become endangered whereas the endangered species is likely to become extinct.

Since the passage of the Endangered Species Act in 1973, the bald eagle population has been on the road to recovery.

"The bald eagle used to have 417 breeding pairs in 1963 but has since moved up to 4,016 pairs in 1993. Even here at Crab Orchard there are two breeding pairs of bald eagles," Collins said. "This is considerably substantial considering eagles do not mate close together."

Denise Streurer, fish and wildlife biologist, said apart from the eagle nests on the refuge, three eaglets also have been spotted.

Service Director Mollie Beattie said a cleaner environment, habitat protection, strict law enforcement, active management and public awareness has contributed to the return of the bald eagle.

"The eagle's recovery is a tribute to the success of the Endangered Species Act and other conservation laws — to the selfless efforts of the many people who have worked hard to bring the eagle back from the brink of extinction," Beattie said.

"All Americans can take pride in the eagle's recovery, because it represents a fulfillment of our nation's commitment to protect its wild heritage," she said.

Rieven said contaminants, such as pesticides, are still threats in the Harlee is one of the increasing numbers of bald eagles. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service proposes upgrading the bald eagle's status from endangered to threatened.

Great Lakes region, but because of increased eagle numbers, problems are not widespread.

The proposal states that the bald eagle status in the southwestern United States would still be considered endangered because the eagle population in that region is small, isolated from other populations and is still vulnerable to natural or human-caused catastrophic events.

The bald eagle will slowly move down the ladder of endangerment. Although the process has been slow, the increased number of eagles indicate progress is being made. Collins said.

The legal protection of bald eagles and their habitat would not change because animals that are threatened are given the same amount of protection as those that are endangered Streurer said.

The public can submit their comments of the proposal by writing to Chief, Division for Endangered Species, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Bishop Henry Whipple Federal Building, One Federal Drive, Fort Snelling, Minnesota, 55111-4056. The final decision will be made by the Service within a year.

p.m. on Lusk Creek in Golconda.

Steve Frattini, executive director of the Southern Illinois Tourism Council, said the turtle and terrapin races can be comedic.

"You never know what will happen," he said. "Sometimes the turtle will just sit there and sometimes they will race away."

The frog jumping contest is similar to the contest Twain wrote about in "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County."

Morris said he compared the record frog jump from the festival and the record jump from Calaveras, which also hosts an annual frog jumping contest, and "we came out only an inch and a half under their record."

He said he received a call from a man in Chicago who wanted to bring a frog down.

"I told him 'we ain't afraid of any city frog,'" he said.

He said every one is allowed to participate in any of the races, providing they have a frog, toad, turtle, terrapin, canoe, kayak, bullboat or flatboat.

Ellis said the SIUC Police Department does not patrol the streets to look for fireworks violations, but when calls about violations are received, they are checked out. When using sparklers and smoking devices, Anderson said it is important to use a reasonable amount of concern around dry grass or other rubbish that could catch on fire.

Public fireworks displays are safe to attend because the areas for viewers are marked off well and far away from where the fireworks are being set off, Anderson said.

He said the biggest hazard at public fireworks displays is that people are so focused on the sky that they forget about other hazards such as traffic. But more than fireworks, the departments bigger concern during the holiday weekend is people drinking and driving, Ellis said.

said. "We need to introduce multiculturalism into the school system and set an example for the children and then live by it."

With what will hopefully be a broad range of students, participants in the program are encouraged to develop social sensitivity, self-awareness and appreciation of cultural diversity, Gimenez said.

"I encourage minorities of all kinds to participate because this country is changing demographically and I want us all to be able to work together in harmony," she said.

SIU Credit Union, one of the main supporters of the program, allowed Bridges to Other Cultures to set up a display in its lobby to encourage community involvement.

This law requires that all states must have a mandatory helmet law by 1993. Since this did not occur in Illinois, one-and-a-half percent of certain highway construction funds must be redirected and then doubled to three percent, Adorjan said.

"This is a significant amount because the money could be used for the rehabilitation of highways," Adorjan said. "In a non-urban area, it costs between $250,000 and $300,000 per mile to fix the highway. This means without this money 21 miles won't get repaired and in fiscal year 1996 this will increase to over 41 miles."

The bill did not make it out of committee because of the strength of the lobbyists, said Rep. Daniel Burke, D-Chicago.

"People called the individual state representatives and asked for the bill not to pass," he said.

Furthermore, Burke finds helmets important and does not want to see funds taken away from transportation.

"If the state stands to lose money for repairing roads, then we must comply to this rule," Burke said.

The main argument by the lobbyists against this bill is whether the state has the right to regulate motor vehicles.

"The anti-helmet lobbyists feel this is an infringement on their constitutional rights," Adorjan said.

Adorjan said he thinks the law is a good idea and will be worth the cost to consumers in the end.

"Either we regulate driving as a substantial benefit to everybody or pay increased insurance costs because of all of the wrecks and extended hospital stays," he said.

Russ Wallace, a senior in geography from SIUC, disagrees with making helmets mandatory.

"I only wear a helmet when it is required in other states," Wallace said. "But, I think that the law-makers should let those who ride choose because it is a personal choice. The government shouldn't be able to tell you what to do."

Wallace said he usually does not wear a helmet because it obstructs vision and is uncomfortable, especially when it is warm out.

According to statistics compiled by the secretary of state's office, there are 545,110 motorcycle licenses in Illinois and in 1992 there were 4,025 wrecks involving motorcycles.

Despite the amount of wrecks, Illinois still does not comply to the federal law. The only other two states who do not have a mandatory helmet law are Colorado and Iowa.

SIUC Program to Prevent the Use of Illicit Drugs and the Abuse of Alcohol by Students and Employees

June 1994

MEMORANDUM

To: The University Community

From: John C. Guyon

Re: Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act

To receive federal financial assistance of any kind, institutions of higher education must certify that they have adopted and implemented a program to prevent the unlawful possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs and alcohol by students and employees. This certification is mandated by the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act amendments of 1989. The materials which follow are being distributed as a means of our complying with this legislation, and perhaps more importantly, informing the entire University community of the standards of conduct required with regard to illicit drugs and alcohol and the possible consequences of inappropriate behavior.

The requirements of the law are separate and distinct from the requirements specified by the Drug Free Workplace Act of 1988, which relate only to employees (including student workers) involved in work supported by or paid from federal grants and contracts. The Drug Free Workplace Guidelines Drug Free Awareness Program specified in my June 12, 1989, memorandum remain in effect. The rules under the Drug Free Schools and Communities Act are much broader in scope, covering drugs and alcohol, students and employees, on University property or as part of University activities.

The following provides: (a) a statement of acceptable conduct; (b) a description of the health risks associated with use of illicit drugs and the abuse of alcohol; (c) a description of programs available to members of the University community for counseling, treatment, and rehabilitation; (d) a statement of possible disciplinary sanctions which are applicable to members of the University community who violate law or University policy with respect to the manufacture, possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs or the abuse of alcohol; (e) a description of applicable legal sanctions under local, state, and federal law for the unlawful possession, use, and distribution of illicit drugs and alcohol.

STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

Faculty, staff, and students must adhere to a code of conduct that recognizes that the unlawful manufacture, sale, delivery, unauthorized possession, or use of any illicit drug is prohibited on property owned or controlled by the SIUC Board of Trustees or as part of any University activity.

The use, including the sale, delivery, possession, and consumption of alcoholic beverages in or on property owned or controlled by the University or as part of any University activity is strictly prohibited except as otherwise provided in the "Regulations Governing Alcoholic Beverages at SIUC." Where permitted under these regulations, the use of alcoholic beverages on University premises shall be considered a privilege and may be allowed only if consistent with State laws and University regulations, and only when it will not interfere with the decorum and academic atmosphere of the campus.

If an individual associated with the University is apprehended for violation of any drug or alcohol-related law while on University property or participating in a University activity, the University will cooperate fully with law enforcement and other agencies in administering a corrective or rehabilitative program for the individual. The University also reserves the right to initiate concurrent disciplinary action up to, and including where appropriate, the termination of the individual's association with the University.

Health Risks of Alcohol and Other Drugs

Alcohol is the most abused drug in society as well as on college campuses. Alcohol, which is used by 85% of SIUC students and approximately 70% of employees, is directly involved in many injuries, assaults, and the majority of deaths in people under age 25. Other commonly abused illegal drugs include marijuana, cocaine, stimulants, hallucinogens, depressants, narcotics, steroids, and inhalants. Legal drugs such as caffeine, nicotine, over-the-counter, and prescription drugs also have wide use and associated health risks.

Health risks of using alcohol or other drugs include both physical and psychological effects. The health consequences of drugs depend on the frequency, duration, and intensity of use. For all drugs, there is a risk of overdose. Overdose can result in coma, convulsions, psychosis, or death. Combinations of certain drugs, such as alcohol and barbiturates, can be lethal. The purity and strength of doses of illegal drugs are uncertain.

Continued use of substances can lead to tolerance (requiring more and more of a drug to get the same effect), dependence (physical or psychological need), or withdrawal (a painful, difficult and dangerous symptom when stopping use of drugs). Long-term chronic use of drugs can lead to malnutrition, organic damage to the body, and psychological problems. The risk of AIDS and other diseases increases if drugs are injected. The consumption of alcohol or drugs by pregnant women may cause abnormalities, such as Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (the third leading cause of birth defects) in babies.

Alcohol and Drug Prevention and Counseling Services

CARBONDALE

Personnel Services administers a Drug Free Awareness and Alcohol Abuse Program as part of the Employee Assistance Program. The program informs employees about the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse, the University's policy of maintaining a drug-free work place, the availability of drug and alcohol counseling and rehabilitation, and the penalties that may be imposed on employees for drug and alcohol abuse violations.

Various agencies provide prevention programs and assist students and University employees who may need counseling for drug and alcohol abuse problems.

Disciplinary Sanctions

Faculty, staff members, and students who engage in the unlawful manufacture, possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs, or suffer from alcohol abuse, will be subject to disciplinary sanctions by the University as well as any criminal penalties that might be levied by the courts.

Civil Service Employees

Disciplinary sanctions that the University may take directly against a Civil Service employee are governed by the Guidelines for Progressive Disciplinary Actions—Civil Service Employees for the Carbondale campus and the Civil Service Employee Disciplinary Management Program—Policy on Employee Conduct and Discipline for the Springfield campus and, in part, by the Statute and Rules of the State Universities Civil Service System.

Under the Guidelines for the Carbondale campus, possession of an alcoholic beverage in violation of the University's Regulations Governing Alcoholic Beverages would constitute a Level I infraction, calling for a warning or reprimand on the first such offense and pursuance of discharge on the fifth. Drinking intoxicating beverages in violation of these regulations would constitute a Level III infraction, calling for a 1-10-work-day suspension without pay on the first such offense and pursuance of discharge on the third. Any criminal act that would qualify as a misdemeanor is a Level IV infraction, calling for a 15-20-work-day suspension without pay on the first such offense and pursuance of discharge on the second. Any criminal act that would qualify as a felony is a Level V infraction calling for pursuance of discharge on the first such offense. Unlawful possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs or alcohol is by definition a misdemeanor or felony.

Under the Policy for the Springfield campus, possession of an alcoholic beverage in violation of the University's Regulations Governing Alcoholic Beverages or pertinent School of Medicine regulations and administrative guidelines would constitute a Level I infraction, calling for a warning or reprimand on the first such offense and pursuance of discharge on the sixth. Drinking intoxicating beverages in violation of those Regulations or School of Medicine regulations or administrative guidelines would constitute a Level III infraction, calling for a 5-work-day suspension without pay on the first such offense, a 20-work-day suspension on the second, and pursuance of discharge on the third. Any criminal act that would qualify as a misdemeanor is a Level IV infraction, calling for a 20-work-day suspension on the first such offense and pursuance of discharge on the second. Any criminal act that would qualify as a felony is a Level V infraction, calling for pursuance of discharge on the first such offense. Unlawful possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs or alcohol is by definition a misdemeanor or felony. Under the Policy the School of Medicine Director of Personnel may take into account factors in mitigation and aggravation as well as other matters deemed relevant, such as the cumulative effect of an employee's overall disciplinary record in determining the disciplinary action to be taken.

In addition to direct sanctions imposed by the University, any evidence of a criminal act by an employee involving the unlawful possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs or alcohol will be brought to the attention of the proper law enforcement authorities.

Even legal use of alcohol or undetected use of illicit drugs off the job which impairs an employee's ability to perform his/her job duties in a satisfactory manner exposes that employee to disciplinary sanctions up to and including discharge if the impairment is not corrected.

Faculty and A/P Staff

Disciplinary sanctions applicable to SIUC faculty and A/P staff for violation of Standards of Conduct required by the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989 (Public Law 101-226).

A. Introduction

The Standards of Conduct of the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Policy of SIUC prohibit the unlawful manufacture, sale, delivery, unauthorized possession, or use of any illicit drug on property owned or controlled by the University or as a part of any University activity. The Standards also prohibit the use, including the sale, delivery, possession, and consumption, of alcoholic beverages in or on property owned or controlled by the University or as a part of any University activity, except as otherwise provided for in the Regulations Governing Alcoholic Beverages at SIUC (6 Policies, Procedures, and Regulations D).

SIUC requires that all faculty and staff members comply with the Standards of Conduct of the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Policy, and, for any concerns relating to the use or abuse of illicit drugs or alcohol, encourage students to voluntarily seek assistance through the alcohol and drug prevention and counseling service available through SIUC, including the Springfield campus of the School of Medicine, or the community.

B. University Procedures

Before any disciplinary sanction for violation of the Standards of Conduct of the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Policy may be imposed, a faculty or staff member suspected or alleged to have violated the Standards shall be afforded the benefit of due process procedure, including: (1) notice in writing of the specific violation that is charged, (2) a meaningful opportunity to be heard and present any relevant information in response to the charge, (3) the right to assistance in such proceedings by an advisor of his or her choice, (4) a determination based on clear and convincing evidence that a violation of the Standards of Conduct occurred, and (5) an opportunity for appeal pursuant to the applicable grievance procedure.

C. University Sanctions

The disciplinary sanctions that may be imposed for violations of the Standards of Conduct of the Drug-Free School and Communities Act Policy include: a) a written reprimand and/or warning; b) disciplinary probation, c) disciplinary suspension without pay; and d) termination of employment. Assessment, counseling, or rehabilitative treatment in some situations may be required for continued employment. An individual charged with a violation of the Standards of Conduct may be temporarily relieved of assigned duties with pay, or an individual may be suspended with pay pending any necessary investigation of an alleged violation of the Standards of Conduct. In addition to sanctions for violations of the Standards of Conduct on University owned or controlled property or as part of any University activity, the University reserves the right to take appropriate disciplinary action for any other use of illicit drugs or alcohol by employees which directly or indirectly affects performance of employment responsibilities.

When the illegal possession, use, or distribution of drugs or alcohol is involved, the administrative action will include referring any evidence of such criminal act by an employee to the attention of the proper law enforcement authorities. The University reserves the right to initiate concurrent disciplinary action and impose sanctions for violations of the Standards of Conduct of the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Policy.

Disciplinary sanctions for violations of the Standards of Conduct of the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Policy shall be consistently enforced in order to promote fair and equitable treatment of any individual determined to have violated those Standards. The following guidelines for particular violations of those Standards shall be used as a means of assuring the imposition of similar sanctions for similar offenses, but shall not be applied in a way that discourages an individual from seeking assistance for the abuse of alcohol and/or use and abuse of illicit drugs.

1. Any felony conviction for manufacturing (which includes growing), selling, or distributing drugs or alcohol on University owned or controlled property or as a part of any University activity shall result in termination of employment.
2. A felony conviction for possession or use of drugs or alcohol on University owned or controlled property or as part of any University activity shall result in a range of penalties with a minimum of a six-month suspension with loss of pay to termination of employment, depending on the severity of the offense. Suspension must be accompanied by referral for assessment and/or treatment.
3. Illegal distribution or manufacture of drugs or alcohol on University owned or controlled property or as part of any University activity, under any circumstances other than felony conviction, shall result in a minimum of a three-month suspension with loss of pay. A second incidence of such illegal distribution or manufacture of drugs or alcohol shall result in termination of employment.
4. The illegal possession or use of drugs on University owned or controlled property or as part of any University activity, other than a felony offense, shall result in a range of penalties with a minimum of written reprimand or warning to a maximum of a thirty-day suspension and a loss of pay depending on the severity of the offense. Whenever a suspension is imposed, referral for assessment and/or treatment is mandatory. A second incidence of such possession or use shall result in a six-month suspension and loss of pay with mandatory referral for treatment. A third incidence of such possession or use shall result in termination of employment. If a felony conviction for possession or use of drugs on University owned or controlled property or as part of any University activity follows a lesser violation for which an action (referral, suspension, or warning) was taken, then it shall result in termination of employment.
5. Any possession or use of alcohol in violation of the Regulations Governing Alcoholic Beverages at SIUC shall result in a first sanction of either a written reprimand, warning, and/or suspension for up to ten days with loss of pay, depending on the severity of the offense, and may result in a referral for assessment. Subsequent violations shall result in more severe sanctions, and may result in referral for assessment and/or treatment.
6. When the use of alcohol or illicit drugs off the job affects job performance, the initial focus for control is the rehabilitation of the offender. If unsatisfactory performance, as a result of drug or alcohol abuse, is observed during this rehabilitation period, suspension with loss of pay or termination are alternatives. The conditions which warrant this type of administrative action should be determined on the basis of the circumstances specific to the case.

Students

The sanctions that may be imposed on students for drug and alcohol abuse violations are subject to the provisions of the Student Conduct Code and guidelines established by the Vice President for Student Affairs. These sanctions vary in severity, depending on the seriousness of the offense. Section 5 of the Code states:

5. Sanctions

The following are sanctions which may be imposed for a violation of this code. Also, a condition may accompany a sanction. Conditions include but are not limited to restitution of damages, work projects, required counseling or therapy, required academic performance, etc. A condition may include loss of certain University privileges. If a condition accompanies a sanction, the condition must be related to the violation.

5.3 Disciplinary Reprimand

In cases of minor violations and when the violation is acknowledged by the student, a written reprimand may be issued by the Coordinator of Student Judicial Affairs or that officer's designee on recommendation of a University Official.

5.4 Disciplinary Censure

Disciplinary Censure is a written warning to the student that the cited behavior is not acceptable in the University community and that further misconduct may result in more severe disciplinary action. The student may appeal the severity of the action.

5.5 Disciplinary Probation

Disciplinary Probation removes a student from good disciplinary standing. The probation shall last for a stated period of time and until specific conditions, if imposed, have been met. Any misconduct during the probationary period will bring further disciplinary action and may result in suspension. Probationary status prevents the student from representing the University in some extracurricular activities and may result in the loss of some types of financial assistance.

5.6 Disciplinary Suspension

Disciplinary Suspension is an involuntary separation of the student from the University for a stated period of time and until a stated condition, if imposed, is met, after which readmission will be permitted. Disciplinary Suspension is entered on the student's transcript for the duration of the suspension.

5.7 Indefinite Suspension

Indefinite Suspension is an involuntary separation of the student from the University for an unspecified period of time and until a stated condition, if imposed, is met. Any consideration for readmission requires a written petition to the appropriate administrative official before readmission will be considered. The Indefinite Suspension is entered on the student's transcript for the duration of the suspension.

5.8 Interim Separation

If the President or that officer's designee has reasonable cause to believe that a serious and direct threat to the safety and well-being of the members and / or property of the University community will be present if an individual is permitted to remain an active member of the community, an Interim Separation may be imposed. A preliminary hearing or the opportunity of a preliminary hearing shall be afforded. If it is impossible or unreasonably difficult to conduct a preliminary hearing prior to the Interim Separation, the individual shall be afforded the opportunity for such a preliminary hearing at the earliest practical time. The purpose of the preliminary hearing is to determine if there is justification to invoke an Interim Separation. During the preliminary hearing, the student will be provided a statement of the reasons for Interim Separation and will be afforded an opportunity to rebut. Interim Separation is temporary and shall be enforced only until the completion of a full disciplinary hearing. A full disciplinary hearing shall be provided within a reasonable period of time.

Students at Southern Illinois University School of Medicine also are responsible for conforming to the standards of Academic Conduct established by the School of Medicine under its Student Progress System.

Students should be aware that their actions are also subject to all local, state, and federal laws relating to drugs and alcohol abuse. The University will bring unlawful acts to the attention of proper law enforcement authorities.

GPSC necessary, president says

By Diane Dove
Special Assignment Reporter

Smith

SIUC is one of only two colleges in Illinois that has both a graduate and an undergraduate student government, according to Graduate and Professional Student Council President Patrick Smith.

Smith said that while most universities in Illinois may need only one student government, SIUC needs both GPSC and USG because of its large graduate program.

"Part of my platform when I ran (for president) was that I was dedicated to keeping two separate (student) governments," he said.

Smith, a law student, said graduate students would lose representation if the two governments were combined.

"We're the tail on the dog, and USG is the dog," he said. "Merged together, we could not even be the flea on the dog."

"There are enough issues where (graduate and undergraduate students) have divergent viewpoints to make it necessary for us to have two governments," he said.

Smith said undergraduates can not be expected to adequately represent graduate students because there are many issues which affect graduate students that undergraduates have not yet been exposed to.

Issues, such as day care, which primarily affect graduate students would not be addressed if student governments were combined, Smith said.

Smith said a controversial issue between undergraduate and graduate students is graduate school tuition, because many undergraduate students feel they are supporting graduate students because they tend to take smaller course loads and consequently pay less tuition, Smith said.

it advocates graduate student concerns.

"Most of what we do is designed to help students one on one," he said. "Students that have problems with their department, or can't financially afford continuing their education can get help (from GPSC)."

Smith, who graduated from Illinois State University with a bachelor's degree in political science, entered SIUC School of Law last fall.

He plans to graduate in Spring 1996, and hopes to practice public interest law.

Jason Matthews, vice president of administrative affairs, graduated from the University of Redlands in California in May 1992 with bachelor's degrees in political science and history.

"Training in law gives you mental discipline, which helps with working with people," he said.

"In terms of my job of managing the budget (for GPSC) it helps give me the mental concentration I need to focus on the task."

Matthews, also a law student, said he plans to make registered student organizations accountable for student fees allocated to them by GPSC.

"We plan to insist on on-site inspections for the events we fund to ensure that the money used for the events we funded it for and to check on how many graduate students attended," he said.

Matthews, who has served on several GPSC committees during the past two years, said because of his good working relationship with Smith, he is confident he will have a good term as vice president.

"In the past there has been conflicts between the vice president and president, so they each stuck to their own duties," he said. "But Patrick Smith and I are good friends."

Former student, successful businessman remembered for friendship with University

By Tre' Roberts
Minorities Writer

SIUC lost a friend last week who had made many contributions to the SIUC School of Business and helped elevate its reputation within the business world, Arkalgod Ramaprasad, director of the Pontikes Center for Management, said.

Kenneth N. Pontikes, a 1963 graduate of SIUC who built a multi-billion dollar company from a $5,000 loan, died June 24 of colon cancer in Rosemont, Ill. His company, Comdisco Inc., is one of the largest computer leasing firms in the world.

"The University has lost a very good friend and a very fine person who has done a lot for the school," said Ramaprasad. "Many people on campus knew him well. SIUC President John C. Guyon and Ben Shepherd, vice president for academic affairs and provost, were friends of his."

In 1989 Pontikes gave SIUC a gift of $1 million, allowing the University to build the Pontikes

Center for Management, which pioneers university-industry partnerships in management of information and helps both students and professionals keep up with the rapid changes in the computer industry, Ramaprasad said.

Pontikes was a down-to-earth man who loved this University, Edward Buerger, director of the SIUC Alumni Association, said.

"In spite of his success, he was a warm and generous man who was never too busy to spend time with people from the university," Buerger said. "Whenever you were around him you felt like he was just one of the guys."

Pontikes, who was born in Chicago, was the son of immigrants from Greece who ran a neighborhood grocery store and taught him business ethics, Paul Conti, regional vice president of Alexander and Alexander Insurance Brokerage of Chicago, said.

"He had business ethics without reproach," said Conti, a long time friend of Pontikes. "When he shook your hand, smiled and gave you that wink of his, you knew you had a deal. His word was his honor. He always said the only good deal was one that was good for both sides."

Conti said Pontikes applied to SIUC and did not think the University would accept him.

"He went to SIUC, got a damn good education there, and never forgot what the school did for him," Conti said.

Buerger said Pontikes loved to help out the University.

"He gave SIUC office space in Chicago for about two years, I believe," Buerger said. "And he made significant equipment contributions to the School of Business."

The SIUC Alumni Association took great pride in Pontikes, Buerger said.

"He was a great example of what the Alumni Association hope to see in its members. Not just in his business accomplishments, but also in his personality — he was a very humble man," Buerger said.

Guyon and Shepherd were unavailable for comment.

Perry attacks military regulations

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON—Preparing for Operation Desert Storm four years ago, the U.S. Army, fearing soldiers would get lost in the desert, suddenly realized it needed 12,000 sophisticated hand-held receivers that could tell personnel their whereabouts within 50 yards.

The Army placed a rush order with its contractor, only to be told each receiver would cost $34,000, weigh 17 pounds and take 18 months for delivery.

The Army then approached commercial outlets, and in a couple months got three-pound receivers for $1,300 apiece.

Military acquisition specialists have known for years that "milspec"—the Pentagon's acronym for 31,000 arcane military specifications and standards—inflates the price of almost every defense item, from nuclear-tipped missiles to veal parmigiana served in the mess hall. The regulations encouraged purchase of $600 toilet seats and resulted in 20-page directives on how to prepare macarons.

This week, Defense Secretary William J. Perry launched a long-awaited assault on milspec. He said his efforts will save billions of dollars a year, "fundamentally changing the way we do business ... turning the present system upside down."

Nanny newsletter advises

By Frances Grandy Taylor
The Hartford Courant

Vanessa Sandom was looking for a live-in nanny for her two children when she realized she knew nothing about how to hire a nanny, what to expect from a nanny or how to live with a nanny she had hired.

The experience made her realize that many other people were in the same boat and could use some help.

"A person may be comfortable managing employees at work, but uncomfortable in that role at home," says Sandom, adding that Americans generally do not grow up with these roles as people might in other countries.

"It's not like having Mary Poppins there. Once you have someone living with you, there was no one saying, 'This is how it's done,'" she says.

Sandom, a publisher of business-oriented newsletters, created "Nanny News" to fill that gap. The newsletter focuses on making the family-nanny relationship work.

the NCAA leadership back to the negotiating table.

Commission chairman Judith Albino of the University of Colorado said the commission will sponsor what she called a compromise proposal that will allow athletes to receive athletic scholarships and practice as freshmen if they do not meet the freshman eligibility standards. These athletes would not be able to travel or compete in their freshman year.

At a news conference following the commission's two-day summer meeting in Kansas City, Mo., Albino said the commission did not want to send a mixed signal to athletes, as might have happened had her group voted in favor of the committee recommendation, which for the first time would have allowed athletes to participate with less than a 700 score on the Scholastic Assessment Test. "The commission feels strongly that a sports program can be a powerful influence," she said during a teleconference. "We certainly want to send the message we're about student-athletes not professional athletes. The first point needs to be academics."

Thus, starting Aug. 1, 1995, eligibility to compete as a freshman will be based on a sliding scale ranging from a 700 (out of 1600) on the SAT and a 2.5 (out of 4.0) grade point average in 13 core courses to a 900 SAT and a 2.0 GPA. Proposition 16 replaces Proposition 48, which has required a 700 SAT and a 2.0 GPA in 11 core courses.

visible to airlines, which will help pilot in the future and puts SIUC's aviation program on the national scene," DaCosse said.

DaCosse said the team qualified for the Nationals by winning their region, which took the top three universities, last October.

The 15 members of the team are DaCosse, Steve McFadden, Stephen C. Bongiorno, Michael S.

Frette, Tawn Makela, David Anderson, Graham Stewart, Michael Lowe, Scott Stadig, Terry Parrott, Randall McIntosh, Glenn Drangsholt, Mark Kambourelis, Alexander Verri, Bradley Harris, and Chris Tognias.

David A. NewMyer, chairperson of the University's aviation management and flight program said the program won seven out of ten national titles between 1975 to 1984. At about that period SIUC retooled its program to focus more tightly on academics.

He said the program has a dual emphasis on academics and flying skills and is challenging the best in the country.

About 1,000 students are enrolled in SIUC's aviation program.

party last March.

The Maverick's spoke with Kidd about the incident prior to the draft and the 6-4 playmaker assured team brass that he would not be a problem child in the public- so Dallas rolled the dice.

Maybe the most promising acquisition of the draft in terms of potential public relations came when Detroit stole Duke's Grant Hill with the No. 3 choice.

Hill is a bright, talented individual who was raised in the public eye since his father Calvin Hill was an NFL running back with the Dallas Cowboys. Hill is a prototype mold of the type of player Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski strives to have represent his teams.

At 6-8, Hill possesses the athletic ability that compares to a Scottie Pippen type player, but you can bet this ex-Blue Devil All-American won't ever choose to sit out with 1.8 seconds left in the fourth quarter and the game on the line.

Hopefully NBA commissioner David Stern realizes the personality the league is gaining in Hill and uses it to restore the leagues tarnished image.

Other possible media giant's are scattered throughout the class of '94, such as Florida State's Charlie Ward (Knicks' 27th pick) and Ohio State's Lawrence Funderburke (Sacramento's 51st pick).

But the story remains to be told on whether or not this year's rookies can measure up to the alumnus of 10 years ago.

Maybe one of the players lucky enough to be taken Wednesday has the hidden drive and desire to "be like Mike," but for now, the class of '84 will remain a treasure to all who watched it develop.

Bulls' trade rumors exactly that

Los Angeles Times

Scottie Pippen did not become a Seattle SuperSonics.

Shawn Kemp did not become a Chicago Bull.

The National Basketball Association draft turned out to be less exciting than a trade of superstars that would have shaken the balance of power but finally fell through.

The Bulls, three-time champions from 1991-93 and the No. 1 team in the East going into the last weekend of this season, have decided that without Michael Jordan they should begin rebuilding without and recently began shopping Pippen.

They found an interested party in the SuperSonics, 63-game winners last season, now being run by a hastily assembled front office after the departure of General Manager Bob Whitsitt. After a spring of turmoil that included their first-round playoff loss, SuperSonic Coach George Karl was even willing to discuss trading Kemp, at 24 four years younger than Pippen.

The deal they were working on would have sent Pippen, Will Perdu, and the Bulls' No. 21 pick to Seattle for Kemp, 35-year-old Ricky Pierce and the SuperSonics' No. 11 pick. But talks broke off Wednesday.

The draft was almost anticlimactic. The order of selection went largely according to the consensus—Glenn Robinson to the Milwaukee Bucks, Jason Kidd to the Dallas Mavericks, Grant Hill to the Detroit Pistons, etc.

The Bucks got Robinson, the college player of the year, a 6-foot-7, 240-pound powerhouse of a small forward who averaged 30 points as a sophomore and made 39 percent of his three-point shots in his two seasons at Purdue.

The Mavericks took Kidd, considered by some, including Magic Johnson, to be the finest point guard prospect since Johnson in 1979.

The Pistons took Hill, Duke's all-around star who had measured out to be even bigger than anyone thought—6-8, 230 pounds—after playing both guard spots and small forward for the Blue Devils.

Flying Salukis take off with success

Members of the SIUC Flying Salukis compete in flight events consisting of power on and off landings, navigation events and the message drop event.

By Doug Durso
Sports Reporter

People do not normally associate dogs with flying, but the Flying Salukis have received national recognition in this year's championships.

The Flying Salukis finished eighth overall at the National Intercollegiate Flying Association competition out of the 25 universities that qualified, which was held earlier this spring at St. Louis Downtown Airport in Cahokia, Ill. The Flying Salukis represent the SIUC's precision flying team.

Robert DaCosse, a junior in aviation management from Murphysboro and team captain, said the pilots did well and had a great time.

"It was very exciting meeting collegiate pilots from other schools and everyone gained a lot of valuable experience," DaCosse said. "We showed people in the aviation industry we are one of the top ten programs in the nation."

He said the competition consisted of events in the air and on the ground. The flight events consisted of power on and off landings, navigation tests, and the message drop event, which is the dropping of a piece of balsa wood with a note attached and trying to hit a target on the ground.

The ground events included a manual flight competition, simulated comprehension aircraft navigation planning, aircraft recognition and a flight simulator.

DaCosse said the Nationals give recognition to the school and individual members of the team.

"The biggest benefit is the Nationals are

NCAA turns down recent proposal for eligibility standards

The Washington Post

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's President's Commission, holding firm on a decade-old standard, Wednesday rejected a special committee's recommendation that would have relaxed academic eligibility standards and provided access for a significantly higher number of African Americans to compete as freshmen athletes.

Instead, the commission voted to proceed with the implementation of Proposition 16, a controversial freshman eligibility rule passed in 1992 to go into effect in 1995 that prompted leaders of the Black Coaches Association to threaten a boycott of men's Division I basketball games last winter. The boycott was averted when Justice Department mediators brought the BCA and

SIUC football building up strength for fall season under new coach

By Bill Kugelberg
Sports Reporter

Optimism abounds as SIUC head football coach Shawn Watson prepares for his inaugural season as the top man in a football program labeled at the very least as struggling.

Watson was called in to take over the helm for fired former head coach Bob Smith, who led the squad to a 2-9 record last year. Despite last year's sour season, Watson looks forward to accepting the challenge of moving the team up to a different level.

"I learned a long time ago after building two programs that in the first year, you have to set fundamental, long-lasting goals," Watson said.

"One goal you can be assured we are going to accomplish is that we will play with an attitude."

Concerns for the 1994 team include a lack of seniors on the team, the depth at running back and the loss of nine two-year starters.

However, Watson said the team will concentrate on fundamentals and rebuilding.

"I have no way of knowing yet how well we will do this year," Watson said. "But I do know this — we are going to work on building a cornerstone for this program that will hopefully continue into many years. Hopefully, we will continue to show steady progress."

Since the team isn't allowed to practice until 29 days before the opening game, Sept. 3 at home against Tennessee-Martin, players are working out with the strength coach in the weight room four days a week and running two days.

"Things are going really well so far this summer," Watson said. "I'm happy with the number of kids in town this summer who are working out. Summer is critical for strength training and conditioning."

Because of the humidity during summer's late half, Watson said the players' conditioning habits will show during the season.

"August is brutal around here because of the humidity," he said. "It will make a difference against teams that aren't used to it. It will affect the season because we will strive to be as strong in the fourth quarter as we will be in the first quarter."

Watson will employ the help of five new assistant coaches this year and said they are working out well during his young career at SIUC.

"I am amazed at how well the young coaches are working, they are doing a remarkable job," he said. "And the veteran coaches have the chemistry which has been real good. I am most pleased with the response of the assistant coaches."

Watson's progress with the team over the summer will be put to the test early as the Salukis host Tennessee-Martin, a squad it is 4-0 against, dating back to 1927.

NBA rookies enter new era, try to replace league's losses

By Grant Deady
Sports Editor

The question was swirling all around the Indianapolis Hoosier Dome Wednesday night as the NBA collegiate draft unfolded for the 42nd time.

Would this draft produce the same amount of superstars as the one just a decade ago that gave the league Michael Jordan, Hakeem Olajuwon and Charles Barkley?

The NBA was struggling in 1984 with Larry Bird, Magic Johnson and Julius Erving carrying the weight of a league loaded with mediocre talent. Jordan and company provided the league with an attitude, some creativity and an overall facelift that lasted for 10 years, but has faded since the retirement of his "Airmen."

Overall play in the NBA last season crept to an all-time low with fans more likely to see a bench clearing brawl than the triple-doubles that became a nightly ritual for members of the 84' draft.

The top-three picks in Wednesday's draft are players that have the talent to make an immediate impact in the league on the floor, but will they be able to carry the same charisma off it remains to be seen.

Milwaukee corralled Purdue's Glenn Robinson with the No. 1 pick overall and receive a can't miss prospect in the 6-8 forward that can do it all.

Robinson, who sharpened his skills as a child by playing pick-up games on the blacktop courts and netless rims of Gary, Ind., is already a success story in his own right.

But Robinson's quiet demeanor away from the game will by no means give the "Big Dog" worldwide recognition that the NBA so desperately needs out of its premiere talent.

Dallas grabbed California point guard Jason Kidd with the second pick, who many compare to Magic and Oscar Robertson. Kidd is a floor general with an uncanny ability to find the open man, but almost saw his draft day stock plunge after two recent runs with the law.

Since leaving basketball after a first-round exit in the NCAA tournament, Kidd was involved in a car accident in which he left the scene and had a woman file a lawsuit against him stating he beat her at a
