June graduates are being offered salaries that are two to three per cent higher than the 1963 graduates, the SIU Placement reports.

"But the supply and demand for college graduates is com-ing more in balance every year," Roye Bryant, director of the Placement Service.

"The fallacy of top com-The fallacy of top com-panies beginning for college graduates is becoming evi-dent. In addition to good grades, a student must show a good personality during interviews and begin early to find the job most suited for him.

"Merely selling yourself is not enough," he added. "The quality of college is second to the rank in class."

Bryant acknowledged that each year more companies show an interest in South-ern's graduates. Last year, for example, 5,080 jobs were offered SIU students and the number is expected to jump this year. this year.

"However, the student can't sit back and wait for the companies to come court him. "He must take the initiative to find a job," Bryant added.

The demand for teachers has been one of the biggest at the SIU Placement Service. However, "teaching jobs are not so casy to obtain any-more," Bryant said.

Superintendents are coming to Southern and picking the best students, not just any student with a teaching degree. And for the first time large school systems such as Detroit and Baltimore have come to Southern for teachers, Bryant stressed the point that students must apply early for jobs because the best jobs are offered early. Using March as an example, he recalled that 4,088 sets of pa-pers on students were sent our--200 sets a day, 25 sets an hour or 2 1/2 sets a minute. That month 40 compan-ies sent 54 interviewers to SIU to interview some 668 seniors.

This year some 445 firms have sought employes through

"THERE'S GOT TO BE A BANANA PEEL SOMEWHERE"

Shastri Is Expected To Succeed Nehru

NEW DELHI, India -- The ruling Congress party's powerful machine ran over all opposition Monday night leaving Lal Bahadur Shastri virtually unchallenged as the candidate to succeed the late Prime Minister Nehru.

Prime Minister Pienru, Shastri's main opponent, Morarj Desai, told The As-sociated Press that he will abide by the high command's decision that Shastri should take over the burden of leading troubled India through the perilous times ahead. Being a disciplined soldier of the Congress party, I will abide by it, "Desai said. Desai said he agreed to a request by the party presi-dent, Kumaraswami Kamaraj, that he join the party in back-ing Shastri, 59, minister without portfolio, who seemed closest to Nehru in the last days of the man who had led India since independence in 1947.

1947. Desal said Acting Prime Minister G.L. Nanda will pro-pose Shastri's name at a formal meeting of the Congress party's parlia-mentary group Tuesday morning.

Loyalty Oaths Hit By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON -- The Su-WASHINGTON -- The Su-preme Court has ruled against two Washington state laws requiring that all state em-ployes take loyalty oaths. Justice Byron R. White, de-livering the court's decision, said the laws were "uncon-stitutionally vague."

stitutionally vague." Justice Tom C. Clark wrote a dissenting opinion, in which Justice John M. Harlan joined. The court's vote thus was 7-2.

About 64 persons employed by the University of Washington inteaching and nonteaching jobs had challenged validity of the state laws. They appealed from a decision by a special three-judge S. District Court in Seattle, Wash., that upheld the state requirement.

"I agreed to second it," Desai said

The main concern of world capitals is what type of leader-ship will emerge in the most populous nation in the non-Communist world. Nehru, who made India first among the non - aligned nations, died Nednesday without designat-ing anyone to succeed him.

Court Reaffirms School Prayer Ban

WASHINGTON -- The Supreme Court overturned Monday a Florida court decision that upheld Bible reading and on of the Lord's in Miami public's recitation Prayer schools.

The tribunal cited its 1963 decision in a similar case from Abington Township in Pennsylvania. In the Abington case and also in a case from Maryland, the Supreme Court last year held that required Bible read-ing and prayer exercises are unconstitutional.

Florida's Supreme Court, in the decision overturned Monday, said that state's law requiring Bible reading was based on secular rather than sectarian considerations, and was intended to require moral training and inculcation of good citizenship. The highest tribunal, in an unsigned order, said it was reversing the Florida court with respect to issues of constitutionality of prayer and Bible reading in schools, It said other questions raised in the case were not ruled on. These included validity of religious baccalaure ate programs, the taking of a religious census among stu-dents, and conducting re-ligious tests as a qualification for employment of teachers.

These latter issues, the Su-preme Court said, did not have properly presented federal questions.

Supreme Court Strikes Down Alabama's Barring of NAACP

WASHINGTON -- The Su-preme Court struck down Monday an Alabama court order barring the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from operating in that state.

Justice John M. Harlan delivered the unanimous decision.

In litigation that began in 1956, the Montgomery County Ala. Circuit Court on Dec. 29, 1961 permanently enjoined NAACP from conducting intrastate business in the state. The ban was on the ground the NAACP had failed to reg-ister as a foreign-out-of-state-corporation.

Alabama's Supreme Court on Feb. 28, 1963, affirmed the Circuit Court order, with-our considering the merits of the case. The State Supreme Court each this was necessary Court said this was necessary because the NAACP had failed to satisfy rules as to the manner in which law briefs should raise assignments of error.

The NAACP appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, contend-ing it had been deprived of constitutional freedom of as-

Cloture Action Set This Week, Mansfield Says

WASHINGTON--Senate Ma jority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told the Senate Monday he hoped to file next Saturday a petition for limiting debate on the civil rights bill.

"One hour after we meet Tuesday, we would be pre-pared to vote on a cloture," ĥe said.

Just a few minutes earlier, before conferring on the floor with Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Mans-field had told reporters he hoped to do this next Monday. He announced his new intention after conversations with Dirksen on the floor and in response to a question from Dirksen when he intended to file the petition.

Mansfield referred to a petition for cloture, or debate limitation, which must be signed by at least 16 senators, and then voted upon within two days.

To be effective, the move must win support of two-thirds of the Senate, or 67 if all are present and voting.

Each senator then would be limited to one hour's debate on the bill and all amendments with more than 200 now pending.

Mansfield said he expects Mansfield said he expects no Senate voting this week on the bill although lengthy sessions are planned to ex-plain the package of amend-ments introduced last week as a substitute for the House-passed bill.

Earlier, spokesmen for opposing camps in the long battle over civil rights agreed that the measure had been "watered down" by the pack-age of amendments.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., an ardent civil rights advocate, said "There is no question that the bill has been somewhat watered down" but added that it also had been streamthened in some respect strengthened in some respects.

SAN FRANCISCO -- Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. Nelson A.Rockefeller directed final final appeals to the voters Monday in an explosive wind-up to California's presiup up to California's prest-dential primary campaign. Bitter charges of "smear" and "irresponsibility" be-tween the rival camps sharpened the vital race for the state's 86 Republican national convention delegates in the balloting scheduled for today. Both sides, in traditional fashion, expressed confidence in the outcome of a battle which Rockefeller says will shape the future course of the Republican party. The polls have lifted Rocke-feller to frontrunner.

in Springfield, with the Demo-crats meeting in a hotel and the Republicans in the Elks Club ballroom. The nominating conventions had lik delegates, two from each of the former 59 legis-lative districts in the state. Each delegate was given a "weighted" vote equal to one-balf the votes cast in his dishalf the votes cast in his district for his party in the 1962 general election.

About the only area of agreement between the two parties is that neither would nominate a full slate of 177 candidates for the House of Representatives. Had this been the procedure, the pos-sibility existed that "straight-ticket voting" in November could make the membership of the House unanimous for the victorious party.

victorious party. The Republicans' precon-vention manuevering was fo-cused on a "purge" of six incumbent members of the House on "disloyalty" charges. They were widely identified with membership of the so-called West Side Bloc, a reference to the Chicaso a reference to the Chicago political element.

In an effort to achieve this purge, the Republicans came a committee mendation of nominees. In addition to 71 GOP incumbents, the committee proposed names of 47 new candidates. On the Democratic side, 68 incumbents have signified a desire for renomination; this would leave 50 openings for new candidates to fill the slate of 118.

The Republicans attempted to tie a blue-ribbon around their package of candidates, and this led to speculation that the Democrats might attempt to match this with some blue-ribbon stock of their own. Their convention is in recess.

Meanwhile, a slate of in-dependent candidates being drafted by the Third Slate Citizens Committee waited in the wings, This is an organ-ization of the Independent Voters of Illinois and the Better Government Association.

The regular Democratic state convention is also scheduled for today. Its purpose is to select 65 delegates at-large for the national convention, and to nominate three candithe national convention, dates for the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois.

Cheers and Boos Greet Percy As He Calls for GOP Purge

SPRINGFIELD, III. (AP)--Mingled applause and boos greeted Charles H. Percy and other party leaders Monday at the opening of the Republican convention to nominate candidates for the Illinois House.

Percy, GOP nominee for governor, urged convention delegates to clean house by refusing to nominate six incumbent legislators.

When he arose to speak, Percy drew cheers from a majority of the delegates but there was some booing.

Similar receptions were given to Cook County Sheriff Richard Ogilvie and State Treasurer William J. Scott when they were introduced.

Outside the convention hall, 30 persons paraded with placards denouncing Percy. The pickets were supporters of Rep. Peter F. Miller of Chicago, one of the six marked for purging from the list of nominees.

Rep. W. J. Murphy of An-tioch, also slated for ouster, charged the convention was rigged by Percy and other party leaders. Murphy's com-ment was made to newsmen before the convention began.

In his speech, Percy at-tarked what he called an al-liance between the White House and Democratic mayors of big cities.

He said they are trying to "freeze" their power before the balance swings to rapidly growing suburbs.

Five little governments operate within the corporate boundaries of Carbondale today. Each of these units is headed by a city councilman or the mayor

Although Carbondale resi-dents need each of these de-partments, the manner in which business is conducted would receive raised eye-brows in the world of private industry.

No corporation would operate without a general supervisor who could coordinate all activities in the different departments and, using an overall picture of the corporation's holdings and actions, suggest courses of action for eventual improvement and expansion.

The beauty of this well-known system of business operation is that the board of directors can made the maior decisions without having worry about the mechanics of carrying out orders and expected to devote equal time policies.

policies. The same principle could easily apply to the form of city government in Carbon-dale. Instead of dividing the supervision of the city's affairs among five men or into five separate units, why aren't the city's operations consid-ered interrelated and handled in such a manner?

Under the present city commissioner system, each mem-ber of the city council supervises the operations in one municipal department. Then, at the council session, the group considers major actions.

Should a city manager system be installed, the council would still retain the right to make major policy and operating decisions but each member would be free of the detailed problems involved in administration of the average city department.

Councilmen must hold down paying jobs to support them-selves and families, yet are expected to devote equal time to supervising a department. The city manager solution would, besides relieving coun-cilmen of unnecessary bur-dens, aid efficiency in the conduct of Carbondale's affairs. With one man in charge of all city departments, he wouldn't be treading on some other department head's ter-ritory. He would also have the advantage, gained through detailed work in all depart-ments, of an overall picture and would be able, therefore, to more accurately recom-mend suggestions with the city's total future needs in mind.

Carbondale could be run with an eye to the future instead of being run on a day-to-day basis.

Carbondale has a future and it must prepare for it.

Letters to the Editor Wheelchair Thief Reveals His Sagging Social Values

There is not much sense in trying to impose upon other people a personal set of values as to just what is right or wrong. These values are spe-cific and must be enforced by the individuals, but there are certain social standards and values of which all members of a society should be aware. If socially accepted values are broken, society will strive until they are en-forced. Society will not allow its values to be crucified, now ask: What values Justified the individual who recently stole the wheel-chair belonging to a physical-ly handicapped individual? Was it this same control justified the individual who vas it this same set of values" that told him to take advantage of someone less fortunate than himself--someone who cannot walk, who depends upon wheels to substitute for his legs? I can only wonder if his "values" would permit him to cut off another man's legs just as he 'cut' off the "legs" of this individual whose chair he stole.

People will be quick to recognize the individual with such a warped set of "values"--a person who is neither grateful for his own blessings nor sympathetic to those upon whom such blessings as the ability to walk did not fall. I only hope that other members of our society who see such blows to our society's values will have enough courage to personally see to it that such actions are arrested so that society's values are preserved, not crucified.

TP President Boosts AM Radio Idea

When was the last time we, as SIU students, heard a radio station that aimed its broadcasts toward us, the students? Chances are, never.

About three years ago, some students sought to remedy this situation by making a study. They came up with the pro-posal to have a closed-circuit AM radio station operated students and directed bv toward students,

The present communication media do not serve the students adequately. This is not just my opinion but, I believe, that of a great majority of the students on campus. We need something to fill the "vast wasteland," and an AM radio station is the answer to the problem.

The Thompson Point Executive Council has gone on record as favoring an AM campus radio station. This project has our support any many others' in recognizing the tremendous service it can promendous service it can pro-vide that students who, at present, are getting inade-quate service. I would encourage all other groups and individuals to give their support to this worthwhile project.
