President Morris' action raises questions

By Win Holden
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The status of SIU President Delyte W. Morris is open to debate and question.

To wit: Morris has requested president emeritus classification. University officials contacted Monday were unable to define the term and were most reluctant to be identified.

How Morris' $56,000 salary and fringe benefit allowances will be affected by the move is also unknown.

Still unanswered is whether Morris will remain in his present residence, move into the controversial University House upon its completion in September, or take up private residence until his retirement in 1973. His retirement will follow 15 months of pursuing "seven educational freedoms", and a deferred sabbatical leave of absence beginning on Dec. 1, 1971.

Also objects of discussion are the questions of why Morris requested the emeritus standing and why he announced his planned retirement, which appears to be tantamount to resigning, and why he made the move now and not in September.

Text of Morris' statement on page 5

Morris requested the president emeritus classification in a statement read to the SIU Board of Trustees at its meeting June 19.

In his statement, Morris outlined seven "academic freedoms" he wanted to pursue.

Morris said he could best achieve his goals under the president emeritus status.

Morris has been under attack from various quarters in Illinois including the state legislature, since he came under fire for the unorthodox funding of the University House project. Chicago philanthropist W. Clement Stone volunteered to pick up

City works on unrest solution

By Ellen Matheson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Although the closing of the campus quieted SIU and Carbondale, the problems of controlling campus unrest must still be solved. The city is working on such solutions, according to Carbondale Mayor David Keene.

Keene, along with Jerry Maxwell, administrative assistant to the city manager; C.E. Peebles, assistant to the chancellor and Wilbur Moulton, dean of students, recently attended a meeting in Arlington Heights to discuss a statewide program for dealing with campus unrest.

The meeting was attended by representatives from Illinois' nine state university towns and a representative from the state and the Illinois National Guard.

Keene said Carbondale was unique with respect to the other cities represented in three areas. First of all, it takes eight hours to mobilize the Guard to Carbondale as opposed to the two hours necessary at the University of Chicago.

Secondly, Keene said Carbondale is the only city in the state with the university outside the city limits.

And lastly, Southern was the only university closed.

The issue of who calls in the Guard as well as which law enforcement agency directs operations were solved at the meeting according to Keene.

Although President Delyte W. Morris called in the Guard during the first disturbances, the mayor will have that prerogative from now on, Keene said. Once the Guard goes to town it will be in charge of coordination.

Keene also mentioned that calling in the Guard at the first sign of trouble would be a tactic employed.

Carbondale is also making some improvement efforts on its own. For one, the city police have been receiving training in issuing tickets. According to Keene, during the May unrest improperly issued tickets prohibited certain convictions.

The police will also abandon what is known as the "flying wedge" tactic. This is where the police charge into a crowd. Keene said the method was found ineffective. Instead, the police will use the cordoning off method used by the Guard.

As mayor, Keene said he is empowered to declare a state of civil emergency. From May's experience, Keene said he felt leaving the declaration on indefinitely would have more merit than calling it off after things had apparently quieted.

Reflecting on the "seven days in May," Keene said he felt the young people had no idea of just what they had done. He said the students he has talked to had no idea about the opinion of the merchants and townspersons regarding the damage done to the city.

"They stopped the biggest industry in Southern Illinois," he said.

Although he said he thinks trouble will again come to Carbondale, Keene proposed the lowering of the voting age to 18 as a possible means of getting the young people off the streets.

"They should be allowed to vote at 18," Keene said. "The present system doesn't work."

Drug arrests case slated to go before grand jury July 16

By James Hodi
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The case of 29 persons arrested last week in a mass drug raid will go before the grand jury on July 16, the Jackson County State's Attorney's Office said Monday.

The drug raid on June 16 was described as the largest ever staged in Southern Illinois.

Nine raids took place simultaneously under the supervision of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation. About 70 police officers took part.

Preparations for the raids began almost two months before they took place. FBI undercover agents posed as drug users and made many contacts with sellers and made actual "hand-to-hand" purchases.

The raids netted several thousand dollars worth of marijuana, heroin, LSD, hashish and amphetamines. Also seized were two homemade bombs.

Places raided included the Happy Daze Restaurant, 207 W. Walnut St., Apollo 11 Terrace on Rt. 2, Carbondale, a farm house on Rt. 1, Murphysboro, a house at 210 Hospital Drive, Carbondale, a trailer at 711 S. Illinois St., and apartments at 311 W. Main St., 1215 W. Sycamore St., 609 S. University St. and 910 W. Sycamore St.

Those arrested on the following charges were: William "Anteater" George, 22, 212 Hospital Drive, charged with sale of drugs and possession of narcotics.

Charles D. Newbury Jr., 26, and Deborah Jane Borre, 20, both of 311 W. Main St., were charged with the sale and possession of drugs.

Terry J. Petty, 19, 423 E. Oak St., was charged with the possession of drugs and the possession of hypodermic needles.

Thomas A. Paleologos, 23, 207 W. Walnut St., was charged with the sale of dangerous drugs.

Peter S. Kimble, 23, Champaign, was charged with possession of drugs.

Larry Bruce "Mouse" Weber, 23, 717 S. Illinois Ave., was charged on two counts of sale of drugs and one of possession.

Roger Dale Genet, 19, 615 W. Mill St., was charged with the sale of drugs.

Terry G. Nelms, 22, 1215 W. Sycamore St. and Yolande M. Tullar, 24, same address, were charged with the sale of narcotics.

Of those arrested on possession were John Mark Aiston, 21, Rt. 1, Pomona; Jeffrey J. Morford, 19, Rt. 1, Murphysboro; Damian J. Klauber, 20, Rt. 1, Murphysboro; Stephen A. Goldberg, 20, Rt. 1, Murphysboro; Cleveland Karne Bass, 23, Rt. 1, Pomona.

Willie Tranquilli, 30, and his wife, Karen Ann Tranquilli, 26, both of 719 N. Springer St.; Marcia Danner, 23, Rt. 1, Murphysboro; Arnold M. Jochums, 24, 603 1/2 S. Washington Ave.; Rachel B. Walker, 23, Rt. 1, Murphysboro.

Trustees approve Gus Bode increase in tuition

SIU will increase tuition for Illinois students by $50 per quarter beginning with the 1971 winter term.

The increase, which follows state recommendations, will boost quarterly tuition at SIU to $117 per quarter for full-time resident students. The action was taken Friday by the SIU Board of Trustees, which said it did so "with reluctance."

At the same time, the Board upped tuition for nonresident full-time students to $398 per quarter effective with fall term.

Gus says the raids didn't bother him, his favorite drug store is still in business.

Campus Lake sets hours

Hours for Lake-on-the-Campus have been reduced this quarter due to a lack of staff. The swimming beach will be open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily and the boat dock will be closed until further notice. Life guard positions are available for students holding a Senior Life Saving Certificate or its equivalent. Interested persons should contact Charles McCann or Ralph Schultz afternoons at the beach. Each student applying for a position must file an ACT form with the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office, Washington Square.

Rec program in operation

The summer recreation program of SIU Services to Carbondale began Monday. Under the direction of William Perkins, a resident of Carbondale, the program will be based in three Carbondale Parks—Attucks Playground, Twin Ponds and Attucks School Playground.

Fourteen local residents have been engaged as playground leaders to supervise activities and games at the playgrounds.

Playground leaders attended a series of workshops this week where they heard lecturers on recreational activities delivered by various members of SIU's Physical Education, recreation and health education departments. They also received basic training in first aid and safety techniques.

Tentative plans include a street dance to be held in Northeast Carbondale; trips to the St. Louis Zoo; and St. Louis baseball games; and airplane rides.

SIU people studying in many foreign lands

SIU students and personnel can be found studying and traveling in several foreign countries this summer.

A group of 245 students, faculty, staff and their immediate families will leave today for Europe to start a 10-week travel and study program.

Nine academic programs, sponsored by the SIU Extension Services, in cooperation with the academic departments, will be offered in eight European countries. The programs are sociology, theater, French, German, German culture and civilization, English drama and literature, Russian, Spanish and international marketing.

Credit courses will be conducted at educational institutions in London, Paris, Athens, Rome, Bonn, Madrid, Leningrad and Geneva. Many participants take the opportunity to travel alone in Europe. In a travel-study program sponsored by SIU's Latin American Institute, five students are spending eight weeks in Mexico.

The students will study Mexican culture, elementary and intermediate Spanish, Latin American literature, Mexican history and anthropology at the University of Veracruz at Xalapa, 200 miles southeast of Mexico City. The program will end Aug. 19.

Stebbins named

John Stebbins of Chicago, a junior majoring in journalism at SIU, has been named winner of a $1,400 Sears, Roebuck & Co. Congressional Internship for three months of work and study in Washington, D.C. Stebbins will spend January through March 1971 in the capital.

Archives have woman's works

Correspondence and related papers of a woman suffragist who ran for the U.S. presidency against Ulysses S. Grant have been acquired by SIU's archives.

They concern the colorful Victoria Claflin Woodhull, who also was a spiritualist, free love advocate and stockbroker.

She and her sister, Tennessee Claflin, in 1870 founded the controversial Woodhull & Claflin's Weekly in New York, which was suppressed two years later. In 1883 she married a staid English banker and spent the rest of her life in England.

Munch takes leave

Peter Munch, professor of sociology at SIU, will take a leave of absence during the fall and winter terms in order to become visiting professor at the University of Stockholm, Sweden.

The exchange program between SIU and the University of Stockholm began in 1968 when Professor Gunnar Boalt, chairman of sociology at the University of Stockholm, came to SIU as a visiting professor. Boalt and Charles Snyder, chairman of the SIU Department of Sociology, arranged for the exchange of faculty and graduate students from both universities to facilitate teaching and the study of particular research problems in the two countries.

Munch, born in Nes, Hedmark, Norway, joined the SIU faculty in 1957.

TV TAKES OVER

By Jim Meyer

Here's an amazing fact... Did you ever realize that big league baseball and football teams can play 50 years and not draw as many people as can see them in JUST ONE DAY on television?...Let's say a team's home attendance averages 1-million people a year...Thus, they could play 50 years and draw a total of 50-million fans...But ONE game on TV can draw more than 50-million viewers in one afternoon, so a team can play to more people on TV in one game than they can draw in their own stadiums for over 50 years!

Oddly enough, Hank Aaron has hit exactly 44 homers in forty different seasons (1957-63-66-69) and his uniform number is—44.

One of the earliest games ever played in baseball history was in the Class A California League several years ago in which Fresno beat Modesto 22-19...Among the odd things that happened in this game, Modesto scored 12 runs in one inning, yet lost the game; the winning pitcher gave up 10 runs but the losing pitcher gave up only 7 runs; and the most effective pitcher in the game was an outfielder pressed into service on the mound!

I bet you didn't know that college graduates have a longer life expectancy—lower death rate and are living five years longer on the average than non-college men. The lower death rate of college men makes possible broader benefits and greater cash values in College Life policies. This certainly makes good sense. Doesn't it?

Graduate travels long distance

Richard Sutton graduated from SIU June 12 and traveled 14,000 miles to get his diploma.

Sutton, who was awarded a Ph.D in education, completed his doctoral work at SIU last fall and became head of the American Community School at Buenos Aires. He returned to the commencement to get the diploma.

While here he recruited teachers for his school, which has 1,000 students from kindergarten through high school.

Sutton, a native of Annapolis, Mo., who taught 16 years at Fredericktown, Mo., did his doctoral work at SIU in the Department of Educational Administration and Foundation.

Four comedies planned on summer playbill

Four comedies are slated as the playbill of SIU's Summer Repertory Theater for weekend performances from June 26 through Aug. 22, skipping the July Fourth holiday weekend.

As a bonus, a charming trio of familiar children's plays will be produced each Wednesday and Thursday mornings at 10:30 in the Experimental Theater. Billed under the title "The Storytellers," they include "The Princess and The Pea," "The Elves and The Shoemaker" and "The Emperor's Nightingale," all by Brian Way, director of Children's Theatre in London.

Booked in the University Theater are "Loot" by Joe Orton, a "dark comedy" in the drawing room tradition, June 26-27 and July 17-18;

"The Killing of Sister George" by Frank Marcus, which earned a Broadway critic's nomination as "a fine fine play," July 24-25 and Aug. 14-15; Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life," July 10-11 and Aug. 7-8.

The fourth major production will be "As You Like It," generally considered by scholars and critics as one of Shakespeare's best comedies, July 31-Aug. 1 and Aug. 21-22.

Season coupon books are $5 for students, $7 for non-students, and may be ordered by mail from Southern Players, Communications Building, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Illinois 62901. Single admissions are $1.75 for students, $2.25 for non-students. Single admission for "The Storytellers" is 50 cents for all ages.

8 VTI students cited

Eight architectural students in the construction technology department of VTI have been cited in competition for design of an animal shelter.

The competition was sponsored by the Illinois Dog Clubs and Breeders Association, Inc., as a project for the architectural class of Assistant Professor Clifton Rutledge.

Thomas L. Miller of Chicago won the award for best overall design. Award for best efficiency design went to Joseph D. Arnold of Orion, Ronald R. White of Cairo, was cited for the most innovative design.

Honorable mentions went to Timothy M. Borst of Chicago; Greg J. Flugel of Addison; David M. Gray of Alton; Felix A. Niewinski of Wheaton; and Edward J. Schullian of Murphysboro.

The winning designs are being used as suggestions for individuals or communities interested in the planning of animal shelter facilities, according to Rutledge. Prints are on file at the national headquarters of the American Humane Association in Denver and are being shown at sectional conferences throughout the United States.

Herman Haag dead at 66

Herman M. Haag, 66, SIU professor of agricultural industries, died June 4 following a heart attack at his home. He had been under a doctor's care and had returned to limited campus duties late in March after having a heart seizure in mid-February.

Survivors are his widow, Helen; two sons, H. Martin of New York; Stefan D. of Carbondale; and one daughter, Mrs. Kathryn Cooke of Cherry Creek, N.Y.

Haag joined the SIU faculty in 1959 after returning from two years in Southeast Asia as a Ford Foundation adviser on agricultural education and development. Previously he had spent 12 years as director of research for the Missouri Farmers Association and nine years on the agricultural economics faculty at the University of Missouri.

Congress and the War

Since the day American troops entered Cambodia, people in the United States have turned to Congress to end the war in Southeast Asia.

In the weeks ahead we must insure that the coming elections will create a Congress that will be committed to peace, the withdrawal of American military presence from Indo China and the prevention of other Viet Nams.

The Universities' National Anti-War Fund is committed to these goals.

We ask every faculty and staff member of every college and university in the United States to pledge a minimum of one day's salary to the Fund.

The millions of dollars raised will

- 1 Provide support on a non-partisan basis to candidates for the House and Senate whose election is critical to the cause of peace. (Your support may be earmarked for a candidate of your choice or given to a common fund administered by a National Board.)
- 2 Buy television time, newspaper advertising space and other publicity for the election of peace candidates.
- 3 Send representatives of the university community to Washington to lobby the Congress or to any part of the country to assist in critical local campaigns.

UNAF is a member of the National Coalition for a Responsible Congress.

Morris requests retirement in statement to SIU trustees

The following article is the text of a statement presented to the SIU Board of Trustees last Friday by SIU President Delyte W. Morris.

It has been my pleasure and privilege to participate since the fall of 1948 in one of the most exciting and rewarding developments in American Higher Education—the growth of Southern Illinois University. This development has been characterized by M. M. Chambers, one of the country's best known experts on higher education as an educational miracle.

The first important step was the creation by the General Assembly of an independent, non-political and non-partisan SIU Board of Trustees in 1949. Before that time, most matters of concern to the University were handled by a Teachers College Board largely limited in its purview to teacher training, and circumscribed by the necessity of clearing virtually everything, including many staff appointments and even the smallest purchases and printing orders through the code departments in Springfield.

The independent SIU Board of Trustees has had a remarkable record of placing ahead of everything else service to the citizens and particularly the young people of Southern Illinois, of supporting innovative educational programs, and of resisting pressures to turn back the clock to the time when Southern Illinois was treated as an inferior or depressed area of the State.

A second significant happening was the organization of an Extension Center at Belleville in 1949. At first only a few extension courses were taught in the junior high school there, but the needs for higher education in Southwestern Illinois were so obvious that by 1957 it had become necessary to organize full-fledged Residence Centers at Alton and East St. Louis and in 1965 to occupy a new major campus at Edwardsville. The rest is history.

A third major development was the reorganization of the educational program to meet the varied needs of ever-increasing numbers of students. The earlier liberal arts, educational and vocational programs became thoroughly professionalized, and by 1970 there were also degree courses in agriculture, business, communications, fine arts, home economics, science and technology, with medical, dental and health science programs in the immediate offing.

In 1948 only one master's degree program (in teacher education) had been developed. By 1970 there were over fifty master's degree programs and at least eighteen doctor's degree programs. During the same period, support of faculty research efforts grew from little or no assistance in terms of money and time to a major university-wide program of research grants, research space and research time. In a remarkable short time, the school changed from a teachers college to a major comprehensive university, one of the twenty largest in the country.

SIU also pioneered in vocational-technical education at a time when the current concern for junior colleges and two-year technical programs simply did not exist. Its Vocational-Technical Institute, established in 1950, has served as a model for this kind of program in Illinois and many other states.

The Vocational-Technical Institute, which was directly geared to the employment needs of communities and municipalities, called attention to the possibility of a wide variety of services which the University could take off the campus to the people of the region and the State. This led to the organization in 1952 of Community Development and Area Services programs, which provided for direct contact between the communities and the campus experts in municipal government and finance, city planning and business and industry.

There have been other developments too numerous to list, but what has been said may indicate my reason for regarding the past twenty-two years as an exciting and rewarding time. It remains to say a word or two about the current state of the University and my views of the future.

The very success of the University has created certain problems. Each major development has called for a new look at the organization; and both the Board and the staff of the University have repeatedly concerned themselves with how the University can best be governed and operated.

One of the first things the independent board did was to approve a codification of the University's regulations and practices in the By-laws and Statutes of the Board of Trustees, first issued May 25, 1951, and subsequently revised and amended several times. For the past two or three years, a governance committee of the faculty has been at work studying a possible major revision of the Statutes, but their interim reports have been held pending the report of the Board's consultants on governance, with the thought in mind that other aspects of the University's reorganization should properly wait upon the Board's views of central governance. Naturally the several departments of the University have been greatly concerned about their ultimate place in the reorganized University structure.

As President, I have shared their concern. Most people work best in a fairly well defined situation, but the situation at SIU has changed so rapidly and so often that in many cases feelings of insecurity have resulted. In these circumstances, the University owes much to the many responsible people who have kept their heads and used their best judgment as to how to carry out their duties effectively in a fluid situation.

As the person most affected, I am fully in accord with the view that the President's function needs redefining. He should have a number of freedoms which he does not now have:

1. Freedom from routine matters which can better be handled by the specialists in the organization.
2. Freedom from access to and from citizens, students, faculty members and administrators. (At present, our complex channels of communication obstruct the President as well as other people).
3. Freedom to try out innovative ideas and nurture into continuation those proved worthy. (At present, the sheer bulk of the established organization tends to discourage or crowd out innovative projects).
4. Freedom to proceed with the development of the external relationships of the University with domestic and foreign agencies. (At present, the burden of routine makes it impossible to maintain valuable outside contacts).
5. Freedom to develop financial support for the University from foundations, government agencies, and other collaborating agencies. (Time spent effectively on these matters would develop means of support for projects for which State monies are not available).
6. Freedom to participate in such activities as the chairmanship of the Regional Industrial Development Corporation, now in its second year.
7. Freedom to proceed with certain developments now in the planning or developmental stage, such as Professor R. Buckminster Fuller's World Game, which has received national and international attention; a performing arts center at the Edwardsville Campus, which might well develop from the Mississippi River Festival; a program of humane studies, which would allow for interdisciplinary approaches to complex problems; a further emphasis on the Crime and Corrections Program, which is now on its way to greatness; the development of environmental studies through outdoor education programs and through studies of both natural and human resources; a renewed emphasis on foreign programs, an important step toward international understanding; and continuing exploration of the means for community and area development.

In addition, before reorganization can be successful, means must be found to restore law and order to the University community and to ferret out and eliminate from it those who simply do not wish to see the University continue. Beginning over two years ago, I have taken a strong position toward maintaining the stability of the campus and keeping it open. The result has been considerable criticism and further determined efforts to destroy the University.

Only a President with strong support from his Board and other authorities has the knowledge and the motivation to fight this battle successfully, for there are too many people even on university campuses who enjoy violence, condone violence, yield to violence or use violence to achieve their aims. Such attitudes were successful in closing the University this spring; and this success will encourage further attempts to close it again unless all are willing to take a strong position on this matter and to profit by the known difficulties of the past. It appears to me that any dilution or dispersion of this function is simply further invitation to trouble; and I request the authority to eliminate from our campus those people (many of them not bona fide students) who persist in disruptive tactics.

I also request authority to protect the right to attend classes, to perform one's work, to engage in peaceful criticism and dissent, for classes to be held without interruption, for work within the American system for peaceful change and improvement, for defense of all those whose privileges have been abridged by the violent.

If SIU is an educational miracle, the credit belongs to the people of the area who have insisted upon the best possible education for their sons and daughters, to the far-sightedness, broad-mindedness, and stubborn courage of its independent Board of Trustees; to the dedicated work of its faculty members and other employees; and to the eagerness, energy, and intelligence of the many students who have obtained their education on our campuses and who have gone out into the world as responsible citizens. To repeat, it has been a pleasure to work with them.

In order to concentrate my full energy to such important tasks as those enumerated above, I need to have for them the period from September 1, 1970 to December 1, 1971. For the period immediately thereafter until September 1, 1973 I request a deferred sabbatical leave of absence—after which I wish to retire. During the sabbatical period I would expect to serve the University through any special tasks the University might wish me to undertake. Of course, after retirement I shall always be ready to help the University in any manner possible and desired because of my deep love and affection for her. To clarify the situation I request my title be changed to President Emeritus September 1, 1970.

President Morris's request to become President Emeritus came nearly five months after Robert W. McVicar resigned as SIU's first chancellor.

Simon gets surprise honors

E. J. Simon, dean of SIU's Vocational and Technical Institute and the Division of Technical and Adult Education was honored for his 20 years of service to the facilities at a luncheon held recently at an area motel.

Simon was surprised by his students with a plaque in appreciation for his two decades of work.

Simon who will retire September 1, and members of the VTI Student Advisory Council had planned all year for a grand farewell a la "This is Your Life" complete with his family and friends and colleagues at the annual Spring Banquet.

When disturbances forced closure of the University in May, the banquet was cancelled, but a group of the Council members returned to Carbondale and invited Simon and VTI Director M. Keith Humble to "help them wind up the year's business at a special luncheon meeting."

At the luncheon Simon was presented with the plaque. Humble also received a plaque for his service as VTI mentor for 15 years.

The plaques were only small, tangible tokens of what the students felt, said Council vice president Eric Campagna, a mortuary science student from Godfrey.

"We know that VTI would not be the school it is today is you (Simon) had not worked so hard to see that all of us have the instructors and equipment and opportunity to learn," he said.

"I am the one who is grateful," Simon said. "Grateful for students like we have at VTI and for a wonderful faculty and for the privilage of spending my life working with people like you."

"VTI students perhaps have had more reason to feel that they should protest and more excuse to demonstrate than those who tore up Carbondale and forced us to shut down, but no other dean in this University can stand up in a faculty meeting and say that his students were not involved in that shameful business," Simon declared.

Finance student wins two awards

Timothy Towle of Chicago Heights has won the Wall Street Journal Student Achievement Award in the Department of Finance at SIU.

Edward L. Winn, Jr., department chairman, said Towle was named after he was judged the outstanding student in finance at SIU.

Economics professor to give trade lecture

A distinguished professor of economics, Dr. Robert Baldwin, will deliver a public lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday in Lawson 101.

Baldwin's topic is "Non-tariff Barriers to International Trade."

Baldwin, is on leave from the University of Wisconsin and is currently working on a dynamic model of international trade and development. His work is supported by a Ford Faculty Research Fellowship.

During his career as an adviser to the government, he has served on the International Trade Sub-committee of the Committee for Economic Development and the Presidential Task Force of International Development.

He has taught at the University of Buffalo, Harvard University, and UCLA. In 1963 he served as Chief Economist of the Office of Special Trade Representative, Executive Office of the President.

Baldwin received his B.A. from the University of Buffalo and his Ph.D. from Harvard in 1950.

The lecture is being presented by the SIU Department of Economics in cooperation with the Lectures and Entertainments Committee.

Dispute ended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decreed Monday that disputed land along the Mississippi River be divided between the states of Illinois and Missouri.

Illinois was awarded the bulk of Kaskaskia Island, site of Illinois first state capital and of a state memorial housing a "Liberty Bell of the West" minted in 1741 as a gift from Louis XV.

Ecuador falls to dictatorship

QUITO (AP)—Ecuador became a dictatorship Monday with the full support of the armed forces and in an atmosphere of widespread student unrest.

The nation's 77-year-old civilian president, Jose Valasco Ibarra, assumed the dictatorial powers overnight while the nation slept. Most of the country's 5.5 million people awoke in the morning to find they had become the 6th of the 11 nations on the South American continent to fall under authoritarian rule.

In a quick followup to the coup, the armed forces closed Congress, universities, courts and banks.

University officials, labor leaders, leftists and a former congressman, Washington Vaca, were placed under arrest. An arrest order went out for Vice President Jorge Zavala Baquerizo, regarded as a leftist. His whereabouts were unknown.

The official reason given for the switch to authoritarian rule was that the Supreme Court was about to rule as unconstitutional new taxes decreed two weeks ago by the president.

It was believed, however, that the president and the military decided on this action more because of the campus unrest than of the tax decrees.

Scholar visits SIU

Vietnam resources studied

An Asian scholar who spent three days at SIU said the U.S. position regarding Vietnam would have been much better if we had known more about the country.

Raymond Nunn, professor of history and Asian studies at the University of Hawaii, was here June 9 to 11 to inspect the work of developing a major bibliographic resource at SIU designed to include available published and unpublished works concerning Vietnam and neighboring countries. This is one phase of the work of the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs, set up to make SIU a center of scholarly competence in regard to Vietnam.

Nunn, a native of England who was graduated from the School of Oriental and African Studies at London University before coming to this country, where he obtained a Ph.D. in Japanese Studies at the University of Michigan, said chances for study of Vietnam in America have been very poor.

Throughout the years, he said, Vietnam has been a country involved in almost continuous struggle and an area which has been neglected by most major institutions in favor of other Far East countries, chiefly China.

Since the total number of volumes for documentation is relatively small, he said, SIU has a great opportunity to develop a tremendous competence which if it had been available in previous years could have kept this country from becoming involved in problems it has faced in Vietnam.

Nunn, who has been studying and making suggestions on documentary procedures here, said "you have made a good start and are working along good lines. You seem to be aware of problems involved."

He said it is possible for SIU to do a fine and competent job that would attract scholars from throughout the world to come here for research.

He also said he believes it often is a good idea to give a new program such as this a start in a new university such as SIU.

"Some of the older, more established institutions," he said, "in spite of their competencies, have not shown a willingness to take over such a project as you people have done." You have shown an interest in Vietnam—first with your elementary and vocational education programs in that country during the past decade and later with other programs—that you have an interest in Vietnam that others haven't had."

Nunn said the best sources of material about Vietnam come through microfilming. Much of the pre-colonial era microfilm copies are in Saigon. Most of the colonial material is on microfilm in Paris.

Special award to Chicagoan

A Chicago Calumet High School student will enter SIU next fall as the first black winner of a Pan American Petroleum Foundation scholarship.

The foundation has announced Milton Leonard Randall as one of 17 nationwide winners of the $3,300 scholarships. Randall was chosen by SIU officials in competition with other candidates.

U.S. warplanes striking deep inside Cambodia

By Robert A. Dobkin
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. warplanes are playing a wider role in the Indochina war, striking as deep as 100 miles inside Cambodia against new enemy troop and supply lines, the Pentagon disclosed Monday.

These new raids—well beyond the 21.7-mile limit for U.S. ground troops—began about a week ago and are being carried out with the "careful and personal coordination" of Cambodian and South Vietnamese military officials, a Pentagon spokesman said.

The spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said they have been on an almost daily basis depending on the weather.

Friedheim said the bombing runs were begun "in the last week" when it became clear the enemy had successfully reestablished its supply lines further west of the sanctuary areas along the South Vietnamese border.

These air interdiction raids as Friedheim described them, have been against enemy troop and supply lines, mostly along Cambodia's river system. They have not been in support of allied ground operations, he said.

Enemy troops, supplied for years by the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos, fled the sanctuaries when American and South Vietnamese forces entered Cambodia last month.

The new supply route apparently runs from Attapeu in Laos, down the Se Kong River into the Mekong River and then eastward along general trails and highways towards South Vietnam.

At some points, the Mekong flows as far as 100 miles from the South Vietnamese border.

Friedheim, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, said the new bombing of supply lines in Cambodia is similar to the U.S. bombing of the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos which has been going on for the last five years. He said the bulk of the bombing still is in Laos.

Both President Nixon and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird have said the United States would not provide air combat support for South Vietnamese forces beyond the 21.7 mile limit set by Nixon.

Nixon signs voting age act

WASHINGTON (AP)— a quick court test on its constitutionality. President Nixon signed Monday the bill lowering the voting age to 18 and asked for Rights Act under which nearly a million Southern Negroes have been registered.

The same bill extends for five years the 1965 Voting Rights Act under which nearly a million Southern Negroes have been registered. The legislation is drawn so that if the courts should invalidate the section providing for the vote for 18-, 19- and 20-year-olds, the remainder of the act would not be affected.

In case the voting age section is knocked out, Nixon asked Congress to go ahead with the process of submitting to the states a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18.

Presidential assistant Leonard Garment told reporters he thinks it would be possible to complete court tests quickly so there would be no question in connection with the 1972 presidential and congressional elections if the act should be upheld.

SIU freshman found guilty

Kenneth R. Kuhnloe, a 19-year-old freshman from Chicago, was found guilty of unlawful use of weapons Monday in a non-jury trial before Circuit Judge Everett Prosser. Kuhnloe was arrested May 8 during the SIU demonstrations carrying two pieces of concrete in his pocket.

Judge Prosser set hearing for mitigation and aggravation and for sentencing at 9 a.m. July 29.

Kuhnloe said he had walked his girl home to a nearby dormitory at Brush Towers and when he returned to his nearby dorm, he was told to "defend yourself" by a large crowd milling around.

Members of the group were breaking up chunks of concrete and Kuhnloe accepted two pieces putting them in his pocket. As the group moved downtown, they were met by tear gas and Kuhnloe decided to return home. He was stopped by police and searched as he returned.

Kuhnloe testified that he did not throw any rocks or intend to throw any.

Further hearings were scheduled Monday involving more persons arrested during the demonstrations.

President's action poses questions

the $1 million tab with a gift to the SIU Foundation.

He was again criticized last month over handling of the closing of the University. Some critics have said that Morris should not have offered a referendum to gauge student opinion on closing the University after the decision to close had been announced, making referendum results anticlimactic if not useless. As it turned out, the referendum approved the shut-down.

A top University official said that Gov. Richard Ogilvie was "quite displeased" about the closing of SIU. The University was the only state-supported institution to shut its doors during recent campus unrest over the Cambodia invasion, the four killings at Kent State University and local grievances.

Ogilvie, who had said that the campus could not be kept open with bayonets, reportedly was concerned about the effect the University's closing would have on the taxpayers of the state.

It appears the second-guessing will continue until a special Board of Trustees meeting set for 9:30 a.m., July 8, on the Carbondale campus.

Board chairman Lindell Sturgis of Metropolis announced he has named a committee to work out the details of Morris' status change.

A successor for Morris will also probably remain unknown for some time as the board examines the university director position it approved in 1969 and decides how to outline his duties.

One board member expressed the belief that a temporary president will be named much in the same manner that Willis Malone was appointed acting chancellor following the departure of Robert MacVicar, as Malone was familiar with the day-to-day workings of the University.

Apparently, further clarification of Morris' status will have to wait until the July 8 board meeting.

State's Attorney Richard Richman stated that the drug raid may signal the end of drug traffic in this area. He called attention to the reports of groups "moving out" near areas where the raids took place. It was reported that several persons left the Hickory Ridge area the day after the raids. The largest amount of drugs and the majority of arrests occurred in a home near Hickory Ridge.

Drug use has been up in recent years in the Southern Illinois area. A study made by Raymond J. Vincent, assistant professor of health education, reported that at least 20 per cent of the students at SIU now use marijuana on a regular basis.

Registration time ... again. (Photo by Nelson Brooks)

Summer registration nearly normal

New student admissions for summer and fall quarters at SIU are running slightly ahead of the same period a year ago.

Acting Chancellor Willis Malone said Registrar's Office figures as of June 8 showed 2,064 new student admissions for the summer quarter and 8,921 for fall.

A total of 8,449 students had pre-registered for the summer quarter at the time of the report, Malone said. Approximately 200 more students had pre-registered at the same time a year ago.

Pre-registrations for fall as of June 8 were counted at 10,771, compared to 11,027 after the first week in June last year.

"Intent to register" returns from prospective new fall term students are running about the same as last year, Malone said.

The Registrar's office sent followup "intent" cards to 3,550 freshmen applicants and 1,115 prospective transfer students. Confirmations came back from 3,765, while 1,450 said they did not intend to register at SIU and another 1,450 didn't respond. These are being contacted again.

On the basis of admissions and pre-registration figures, Malone said he expected a summer enrollment "about the same" as the 10,685 for SIU at Carbondale last year.

Resolution will ban agitators

A resolution asking legislation to ban agitators and nonstudents from state university campuses was adopted June 6 by the Legislative Council of the SIU Alumni Association.

The resolution said: "The Association of Alumni and Former Students of Southern Illinois University, through its Legislative Council and Board of Directors, strongly supports President Delye W. Morris and endorses the recommendations he made recently to the Illinois

General Assembly concerning needed legislation banning agitators and nonstudents from state university campuses."

Deadline is Wednesday

Wednesday will be the last day for advisement and registration except for students registering only for courses whose starting date is after June 24.

Registration ends at 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

SIU in Honduras project

Seven Midwestern schools including SIU will conduct a course in tropical ecology this summer at a small Jesuit college in Belize, British Honduras.

The course is considered the beginning of a full-scale tropical studies program operated by the seven schools which make up the Association of Universities for International Education.

Members in addition to SIU are Ball State, Western Michigan, Illinois State, Western Illinois, St. Louis and Northern Illinois universities.

The intensive course will cover three weeks of marine ecology along the barrier reef in the Caribbean Sea near Belize, and another three weeks in terrestrial ecology at Lyman Agricultural College and the Columbia Forestry Station in the Central American country.

Among the seven faculty members will be Richard Keating, a biologist at SIU's Edwardsville campus.

Twenty-four students have been selected for the course, including two from SIU. They are Sandra Swayne of Herrin, a junior majoring in biological sciences, and James R. Wiley, of Carbondale, Ph. D. candidate in zoology.

Robert Mohlenbrock, chairman of the SIU Botany Department, said AUIE member schools are seeking a federal grant to set up an on-going tropical studies program at the site. Added to the course of offerings for summer and spring sessions would be systematic botany, and studies in fisheries and geography.

Jacobini's tour to help build center's library

H.B. Jacobini, director of the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs at SIU returned June 15 from a month long world trip designed to develop the center, especially in the areas of library resources and publication of a scholarly journal.

Accompanying Jacobini to Paris was the editor of the center's projected journal, Wesley Fisher, visiting research professor of government. They spent several days talking with members of Vietnamese communities and with French scholars with an interest in Vietnam about journal affiliation.

Some work was also done on developing the SIU library of books and manuscripts on the history and culture of the Southeast Asia area, Jacobini said.

In Saigon Jacobini was joined by a staff member, Danny Whitfield, and the two consulted with deans and directors of Vietnamese universities about methods of procuring books. They also discussed with Vietnam educators and scholars ways in which points of mutual interest could be developed.

In Manila Jacobini talked with members of the International Advisory Board of Journals about the forthcoming journal. He said the SIU center has hopes of publishing its first scholarly journal early in 1971.

Olmstead graduate head

John M.H. Olmsted, chairman of the Department of Mathematics has been named dean of the Graduate School at the Carbondale campus.

Olmsted's appointment, approved Friday by the SIU Board of Trustees, will run to Sept. 16, 1971. He replaces Herbert Rosenthal, history professor at SIU-Edwardsville, who served as University-wide Graduate School dean on a term appointment during the past year.

The SIU trustees split the school into separate campus units on May 22 following recommendations from the SIU Faculty Sub-Council. No dean for the Edwardsville campus has been named.

Olmsted has been professor and chairman of mathematics at SIU's Carbondale campus since 1960. Before that he was professor and associate mathematics chairman at the University of Minnesota.

He is a native of Ithaca, N.Y., and has bachelor's and master's degrees from Minnesota and a Ph.D. from Princeton University. He is the author of nine books on mathematics.

Piscator papers given to SIU

The papers of the late Erwin Piscator, producer, director and playwright, have been presented to Morris Library by his widow Marie and the Piscator Memorial Foundation.

Piscator's papers are in the library archives, and the voluminous papers of Lennox Robinson, for 50 years director of the Irish Abbey Theater, are housed in the Rare Book Room, together with SIU's notable Irish collections.

Mrs. Piscator visited SIU in the spring of 1969 to serve on a symposium panel on the Epic Theater, and returned to teach in the Department of Theater during the spring of 1970.

Her husband, in pre-Nazi Germany, founded Das Tribunal, an avant garde theater, and Das Proletarische Theater, which performed plays in workers' halls. He later became director of the Berlin Volks theater and, in 1927, founded the Piscator Theater in Berlin.

He was the founder and director of the Dramatic Workshop at the New School for Social Research in New York City, established in 1938.

In 1951 he returned to Germany and subsequently directed productions in West Germany, Holland, Sweden, Switzerland, Italy and France, and in 1962 became general director of the Freie Volksbühne in Berlin.

Piscator's success won him the Goethe Prize, the German Federal Distinguished Service Cross and the presidency of the Academy of Performing Arts.

The papers given to SIU cover Piscator's 17 years in the United States and include files of scripts, playbills, photographs and business records of various productions abroad, correspondence with actors, directors and playwrights of the U.S. and America, and family papers.

Lennox Robinson's complete file of manuscripts and papers were obtained from his widow, and reveal day-to-day operations of the Abbey Theater, as well as his own activities as manager, director, playwright, producer, actor, critic and lecturer.

Included is the correspondence between Robinson and virtually every dramatist and actor involved in the enterprise. Among the key correspondents were William Butler Yeats and Lady Augusta Gregory, the major founders, who in 1909 chose the 23-year-old Robinson to carry on their work. They each wrote long letters of advice to their fledgling director. Of these 174 Lady Gregory letters and 99 Yeats letters, none has yet been published but they will soon be edited by SIU Professor Harry T. Moore.

Faculty news briefs

Faculty members of the Department of Clothing and Textiles at SIU will attend a number of professional conferences during June, according to Rose Padgett, department chairman.

Thelma Berry, associate professor, participated in a seminar at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, June 15-19, conducted for colleges with apparel design majors and also for teachers of clothing and textiles and cooperative extension work.

Sue Ridley and Meta Elaine Flint, instructors in the department, are attending the convention of the American Home Economics Association in Cleveland, Ohio, June 21-26.

Miss Padgett herself will participate in the third summer symposium for college teachers held by the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists at the AATCC Center for Research Training at Raleigh, N.C., June 29-July 2.

William A. Doerr, SIU instructor in agricultural industries, left Carbondale May 30 for a two-year assignment at the Federal University of Santa Maria in southern Brazil.

He will be international director of a program in agricultural teaching, research and rural extension work at the Brazilian university under an agreement of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization with SIU.

Teen-aged musicians signup

Approximately 200 teen-aged musicians have signed up for the annual Music and Youth at Southern summer music camp July 5-18, but there is still room for more, according to Melvin Siener, assistant professor of music and camp director. The camp will provide instruction in band, orchestra, stage band, choirs and piano. Piano students will be seated in a recital on the afternoon of July 18, and the band, choir and orchestra students in a night concert the same date.

St. Jacques now teaching at SIU

Raymond St. Jacques, black actor of stage, screen and television fame, is teaching a Black American Studies course this summer at SIU according to Henry Wilson, assistant director of the Black American Studies Program.

The course, entitled "Black in Performing Arts," traces the history of blacks in the performing arts covering dance companies, ballet, folk drama, cinema in all its forms: radio, television and music.

St. Jacques, a native of Hartford, Conn., began his career in New York in the 1950's by playing "bit" roles in Broadway productions. After study with New York drama coaches Lee Nemitz and Herbert Berghof, St. Jacques began doing summer stock and appearing at Shakespeare festivals. He was associated with the San Diego Shakespearean Festival and featured in several of its productions. He also served as actor, assistant director and fencing master with the American Shakespeare Festival in Stratford, Conn.

St. Jacques's most notable stage work was in the off-broadway run of Genet's "The Blacks." After his success with "The Blacks," St. Jacques was invited to become a member of the Actor's Studio. He later began studies with Lee Strasberg, noted drama coach.

His first motion picture feature role was with James Whitmore in "Black Like Me." He later appeared in "The Pawnbroker" with Rod Steiger; "The Comedian" with Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor and several other pictures including "Uptight" and "If He Hollers Let Him Go."

St. Jacques's latest movie is "Cotton Comes to Harlem."

Over 100 may seek Hartman successor role

Applications for the vacant head basketball coaching position at SIU continued to come in Monday as aspiring candidates from across the nation sought the job vacated by veteran mentor Jack Hartman. Donald Boydston, SIU director of athletics, was out of town Monday and not available for comment on the total number of applications received to date for the position.

Announcement of Hartman's departure for the head coaching job at Kansas State was somewhat sudden, and Boydston said after the announcement that he hoped to name a replacement for Hartman by July 4. The SIU athletic director said he expected the number of applications to exceed 100.

SIU wheelchair athletes win in meet

NEW YORK—Eighteen SIU students took part in the Wheelchair Nationals June 12-14 with several of the participants winning honors in the big event.

The SIU students competed against over 350 other participants from all over the nation.

There were track, field and swimming events.

Dave Williamson of SIU took first place in the slalom and second place in the 60 and 100 yard dashes, the javelin, discus and the shotput. Another Saluki entrant, Harry Jakobson won first place in the 100-yard dash and was second in the mile run and third in the slalom while teammate Al Rieken was second in the slalom.

In the 240-yard relay, the team of Rieken, Harry Jakobson, Ken Barbee and Williamson finished second.

In another swimming event, Margaret Jakobson won the freestyle contest and Alex Wilcom took third in the breaststroke.

The team points, except for first place, were not announced. The University of Illinois won the first-place team trophy.

Women play in tournament

Two members of the Women's Golf Team at SIU are taking part in the Women's National Intercollegiate Golf Tournament at San Diego State College, San Diego, which opened Monday and continues through Saturday, according to Charlotte West, assistant professor of physical education for women at SIU.

The two who will be entered in the national competition are Terri Merickel, a freshman from Wadena, Minn., and Robin Waston, a freshman from Hoxie, Ark.

More than 100 players participated in the 36-hole qualifying rounds Monday, Miss West said. On the basis of these scores, they will be placed either in the championship flight or the first flight bracket for match play for the remainder of the tournament.

The tournament, sponsored by the Division of Girls and Women's Sports, was first held in 1943 and has been held every year, except for war years, Miss West said.

Last year SIU placed third in the tourney. In 1968 SIU won the team championship, Miss West said.

Hartman goes to Kansas State, a member of the Big Eight Conference, after serving as head coach for eight years at SIU. During that period, he guided the Salukis to eight winning seasons and many honors, including the 1967 National Invitational Tournament championship.

His teams posted records of 20-10, 16-10, 20-6, 22-7, 24-2, 13-11, 16-8 and 13-10.

His best season was the 1967 NIT championship team with a 24-2 mark. Two members of that team, Walt Frazier and Dick Garrett, have established themselves as prominent members of NBA teams, and the two played against each other recently in the NBA championship game—Frazier for the New York Knicks and Garrett for the Los Angeles Lakers.

Hartman, 44, attained national prominence nine years ago when his Coffeyville, Kan., Junior College team amassed a 32-0 record and won the national junior college championship.

At Kansas State in Manhattan, Hartman will replace Lowell (Cotton) Fitzsimmons, who recently became head coach of the National Basketball Association's team at Phoenix. Fitzsimmons had coached at Kansas State for the past three seasons after a highly successful, nine-year stint as coach at Moberly, Mo., Junior College.

Teacher trainer keeps busy as official in variety of sports

SIU teacher trainer Charles R. Heinz hasn't time for any 57 varieties of interests, because he is all wrapped up in sports.

Heinz, director of laboratory experiences in the SIU department of student teaching, spends much of his extra-curricular time officiating SIU freshman and area prep football and basketball, varsity and high school wrestling and helping in SIU varsity track meets. He also has found time to coach little league gridgers.

No prep or college baseball activity?

"Baseball's out, because I like to fish and play golf in the spring, when schools are playing their baseball," said the stocky Heinz, father of three boys and three girls. "Also, I take time to oversee a venture my boys—ages 14, 15, and 17—have going. They're maintaining some of the private swimming pools in and around Carbondale."

A former SIU football player and wrestler who was graduated in 1950, Heinz has been a high school teacher, coach,

4 track meets after closure; Crockett sets 2 SIU records

By Gene Wiggins
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
Coach Lew Hartzog's cindermen finished their 1970 season with four meets after the University was closed last month.

The four events included the Illinois Intercollegiate Track and Field Meet, the Central Collegiate Meet at the University of Indiana, the National Federation Championships two weeks ago at Wichita and the NCAA Track and Field championship meet at Des Moines, Iowa last week.

In the Illinois Intercollegiate, SIU's tracksters finished a close second to the University of Illinois at 138-134. Hartzog commented Monday that the SIU team was definitely considered an underdog there since several Saluki athletes were injured and could not participate.

The outcome was much narrower than the Illini expected with the decision going down to the mile run before Illinois' victory. One Saluki relay team being disqualified cost the squad eight points, and this would have given SIU the victory.

Saluki cinder star Ivory Crockett ran a 9.3 in the 100-yard dash and a 21.2 in the 220-yard dash for the second place in both events. Freshman Stanley Parterson, who was discovered during the SIU intramural track meet, finished in the 100 and 220 dashes with the times of 9.4 and 21.5, respectively.

Glen Ujicie finished second in the half mile with a 1:51.3. Dan Tindall won the javelin and Larry Cascio the pole vault.

Coach Hartzog was highly pleased with the performance of the team, especially because the Salukis had been predicted to lose by 20 to 30 points to the Illini.

In the second meet, Hartzog took five tracksters to the Central Collegiate event at Bloomington, Ind., June 5-6. Mike Bernard placed second in the high jump with a 6-10 effort and Crockett fourth in the 100-yard dash and third in the 220-yard dash.

Four Salukis attended the National Federation championship meet at Wichita, including Crockett, Obed Gardner, Don Miller and Bernard. Crockett set a SIU record in the 100 and 220-dashes by running a 9-2 in the preliminaries of the 100 and 20.9 in the 220 finals. In the finals of the 100, Crockett ran a 9.3 for third place and took second behind Jim Green in the 220. Gardner was sixth in the triple jump with a 50-foot effort.

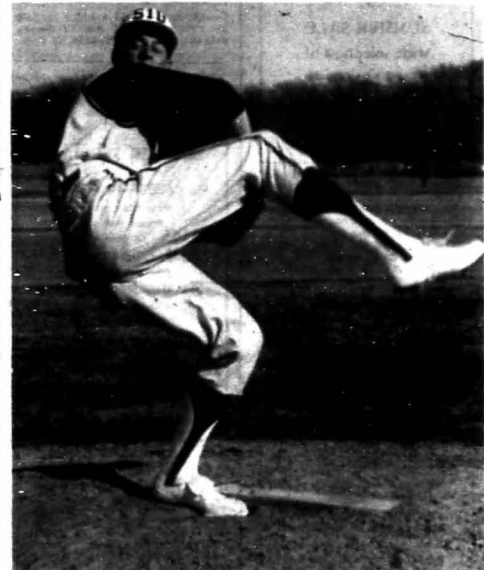

At the NCAA event in Des Moines last week, Gardner made the finals by leaping 49-6 in the triple jump preliminaries but failed to place in the finals. Crockett got to the semi-finals of the 220 with a 21 flat performance.

Golfer in NCAA

Jerry Glenn, a sophomore from Carterville, Ill., is representing SIU at the NCAA Golf Championships at Columbus, Ohio, which opened Monday and continues through Saturday.

Glenn led the Salukis in strokes per 18 holes (75.4) and placed third in individual competition at the Mid-South Golf Classic. Seven other schools were entered.

The SIU team posted a 22.5-1 record for dual matches this season.

Big league debut

Lee (Skip) Pitlock, former Southern Illinois pitching star, made his big league debut last week when he was to have graduated from SIU with a journalism degree. Pitlock, now with the San Francisco Giants, lost to the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-1, at San Francisco. He got his degree "in Absentia".

and administrator in four states. He came to the student teaching department here three years ago.

At SIU Heinz supervises pre-student teaching stints by education students. There is a September experience, in which students are in public school classrooms from around September 1 until classes get underway at Carbondale about three weeks later. There is also an elementary block program for students, who spend a day in a school and four days on campus and teacher aide experiences, where students spend various amounts of time in a public school classroom.

"They are all teacher aides at this stage of their education," Heinz said. "They are not doing their required student practice teaching, which comes later, but are doing clerical tasks, and taking over hall, lunchtime, playground and other duties. It gives them a good chance to get the feel of a classroom and a school operation."

Heinz, a 200-pound half-back and linebacker, lettered four years in SIU football, 1946-50, and was the first captain of the wrestling team.

He now weighs around 220 pounds. He began officiating football and basketball games at nearby high schools during the last two years of college to make extra money, liked officiating so well he has kept it up. He enjoys football most of all, but basketball, he figures, will be the first to be dropped, because he's already feeling in his legs the result of running up and down the hard court.

Heinz got in a pickle at the first basketball game he ever officiated, between a Southern Illinois high school and a team from a neighboring state. One team was ahead a point with the game ending when an opposing player sank what was taken for the winning basket. Heinz voided the points, he said, because the states had some conflicting rules, and he interpreted one against the team that made the last shot. The violation did not apply in that state.

"I had to be escorted out of town," he recalls.
