Petitions oppose leave-with-pay policy

By Brenda Wilgenbusch
Staff Writer

Petitions opposing payment of salaries to administrators on leave from the University are being circulated by Charles McCaughan, Carbondale fire chief. About 200 persons have signed the petitions in the last two weeks. McCaughan said Sunday.

He began circulating petitions June 8 after hearing about George Mace's resignation May 12 and about the agreement to continue his $30,000 salary during his one-year leave. McCaughan said.

Mace resigned as vice president for University relations to serve as executive consultant to the American Council on Education. He will not be paid by the ACE. McCaughan said he received about 60 names in one hour and believes that shows dissatisfaction with the salary policy. "I intend to push someone to re-evaluate it," McCaughan said.

The petition states that signers "refuse to authorize the payment of public funds to any officer or employee as a condition of, or in exchange for, that officer or employee submitting a resignation."

Paying Mace's salary, McCaughan said, will probably cost the University about $200,000 after figuring pay and fringe benefits for Charles H. Hinderzman, Mace's temporary replacement, and for someone to take over Hinderzman's teaching duties.

Hinderzman, professor of marketing, will receive a $48,696 as acting vice president for University relations.

McCaughan said paying Mace's salary while on leave is "a luxury we can't afford." If the ACE can't pay Mace, McCaughan said, "let him find a university that can afford it."

"I haven't got anything against paying him. Just put him to work," McCaughan said. "These aren't legal documents. They're just saying 'no work, no pay.'"

McCaughan said he is tired of seeing the taxpayer's money wasted. He said that he intends to send his petitions to state legislators and to Gov. James R. Thompson.

He said he will also present the petitions to the Board of Trustees at its July meeting. Though it may be good policy to give top administrators leave with pay, McCaughan said, it's "ludicrous" to do so when the University can't afford it.

Hinderzman named to replace Mace

By Brenda Wilgenbusch
Staff Writer

Charles H. Hinderzman, professor of marketing and former dean of the College of Business and Administration, has been named acting vice president for university relations. The Board of Trustees, meeting in Edwardsville, approved the professor's new position, effective Monday. He will serve until a replacement for George Mace is found.

The position opened when Mace, former vice president for university relations, resigned last month, effective Monday. Mace left SIU-C on a one-year leave to serve as executive consultant for the American Council on Education in Washington, D.C. Hinderzman worked with Mace during his last week at the University to prepare for his new position.

Hinderzman will receive a $48,696 salary—about $200 more per month than he received as a marketing professor.

Hinderzman has told President Albert Somit he does not want to be considered for the position permanently.

"Professor Hinderzman has graciously offered to assume this responsibility for the time being but has no desire to take it on full time," Somit said in announcing Hinderzman's appointment. "We hope to have someone here in six to nine months."

According to C. Thomas Busch, assistant to the president, a search committee to find a vice president probably won't get under way until mid-July because President Somit will leave June 17 for Europe and will not return until July 1. Busch said

Candidates up for vacant seat to be reviewed by City Council

By Joe Agnew
Staff Writer

Four finalists contending for the vacant seat on the Carbondale City Council, including an SIU-C administrator, will get a chance to present their qualifications at a formal meeting Monday night.

Candidate Neil Dillard, assistant director of Computing Affairs and Carbondale residents Sammye L. Aikman, Gayle Klam, and Joyce Webb will each be allowed 10 minutes to present their qualifications. Council members then may ask questions.

The new council member, who city officials said will probably be chosen Monday night, will serve the two years remaining in the term of Susan Mitchell. She recently resigned for family reasons.

At a meeting June 8, the council said it would like the person selected to be willing to make the required time commitment, to be involved in community activities, and to understand the city's commitment to energy conservation.

Dillard, who has served on the city's Community Development Steering Committee, declined to comment on what his goals as a council member would be until after the final decision is made.

Candidate Sammye L. Aikman, an 18-year resident of Carbondale, said if she is selected, she would like to see the city continue to prosper in terms of employment opportunities. Aikman added that she is concerned about city-wide issues as well as representing the northwest side where she lives.

"I feel the present council has done a fantastic job, and I'd like to be part of it," she said.

Aikman has served on the Community Development Steering Committee, where she helped make recommendations to the city council on spending federal grant money given to the city. She also worked on a subcommittee that evaluated and monitored the organizations that received those funds. She currently serves on the Carbondale Board of Ethics and on the Council for Problems of the Aged.

Civic involvement and a good working knowledge of city government are two qualities candidate Gayle Klam feels would make her an effective council member. Klam, an eight-year Carbondale resident, said one of her goals would be to foster community spirit by smoothing relations between city government and residents.

"I would also like to see the city promote further residential development within city limits, and would do what I can to make it easy for developers to do it," Klam said.

Joyce Webb, another candidate, has been active in many volunteer groups during the 25 years she has lived in the city. A resident of four different neighborhoods since she moved here, Webb said her goal as a council member would be "to do it right."

"I hope to see the community follow through in the goals that have been set for Carbondale, especially energy-wise," Webb said. She added that she would like to help residents understand that problems they

Board approves faculty merit hikes

By Brenda Wilgenbusch
Staff Writer

About 56 percent of the state allocation to the SIU System for faculty salary increases will be distributed as merit increases for faculty, administrative and professional employees as a result of action by the Board of Trustees.

Meeting in Edwardsville Thursday, the board also decided that if the state allocates salary catch-up funds, the money will be distributed across the board as a percentage of each employee's June 30 salary. Administrators whose salary exceeds $40,000 as of June 30 are excluded.

Graduate assistants will receive an increase based on a percentage of the funds allocated for faculty. That percentage will be determined after the board finds out how large its allocation will be.

Of the allocation for faculty and staff increases, slightly more than 0.4 will be used for equity adjustments and for salary increases for promotions. Of the remainder, about 44 percent will be used for across-the-board increases.

The merit distributions and salary increases are not expected to make up for inflation and will not make employees' salaries comparable to those of educators elsewhere, according to a report prepared by the chancellor's staff.

The salary plan will depend on SIU's appropriations bill, which will be considered by the Illinois House Appropriations Committee June 19. Gov. James R. Thompson has made several recommendations to the legislature concerning appropriations in attempts to balance the state's budget. His recommendation for an 8 percent salary increase this year would mean a hike of about $80 monthly on base pay for faculty and staff.

Chancellor Kenneth Shaw announced at the meeting that he has been asked by the House Appropriations Committee to tell legislators how he would deal with a 10 percent cut in SIU's appropriation. Though he said he does not expect the 10 percent reduction, Shaw said it would mean a 25 percent tuition increase and would prevent any salary adjustments.

According to the salary plan approved Thursday, the board

Byrne charges GOP leaders with backing out on RTA deal

CHICAGO (AP)—With a legal dispute over the troubled Regional Transportation Authority headed for a federal appeals court Monday, Mayor Jane Byrne is accusing Republican legislative leaders of backing out of a deal to bail out the cash-starved agency.

Mrs. Byrne and General Assembly leaders met at City Hall on May 30 and 31 in an effort to find a solution to the financial crisis which has threatened to halt mass transit in the Chicago area.

After the meeting, Mrs. Byrne and the lawmakers said several revenue-increasing measures and other proposals had been discussed but that no formal agreement had been reached on a bailout plan.

But in an interview with the Chicago Sun-Times published Sunday, Mrs. Byrne said the Democrats had agreed to restructure the RTA board if the GOP would help to find money to bail out the system.

However, Republican leaders denied any agreement had been reached.

"We agreed to many things, but we did not agree exactly on how the RTA board would be restructured," said Sen. James Philip, R-Elmhurst, chairman of the Republican task force on transportation.

Some suburban legislators have complained that the RTA — which oversees mass transit in a six-county area of northeastern Illinois — has given a disproportionate amount of money to the Chicago Transit Authority at the expense of suburban bus and train companies during the crisis.

The transit system was expected to continue operating at least through Monday, following Gov. James R. Thompson's decision Friday to allocate $23.5 million in state sales tax funds due to the RTA.

With its share of the money, the CTA is expected to be able to continue operating through June, but what will happen to the railroads is another matter. The Milwaukee Road, which serves 25,000 commuters a day, had planned to halt service early Saturday because the RTA failed to meet a $776,000 payment. But the 7th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals on Friday stayed a lower court ruling that would have allowed the shutdown.

Begin admits to misquoting Hussein

JERUSALEM (AP)—Prime Minister Menachem Begin admitted Sunday he had wrongly attributed to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein a statement that Iraq planned to use its nuclear reactor to make atomic bombs for use on Israel.

It was the second time Begin had been caught in a factual error discussing the Israeli air attack which destroyed the reactor.

Israeli newspapers reported Begin earlier had embarrassed military leaders with an inaccurate statement about an alleged secret bunker hidden under the reactor, which was destroyed in the June 7 raid near Baghdad, the Iraqi capital.

Begin admitted during an interview Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation" that he incorrectly said Hussein had threatened to use the nuclear reactor "against the Zionist enemy" in a statement published by the Iraqi newspaper, Al-Thawra.

Begin told reporters that such a statement had been carried by the paper, but it was not made by Hussein.

"The only correction is that the statement was not made by Saddam Hussein," Begin said. "If we correct our own absolute decent mistakes...we should, I suppose, he congratulated."

But Begin repeated his assertion that Iraq planned to build "two, three, four Hiroshima-type bombs."

"We were absolutely sure that Saddam Hussein, the tyrant of Iraq, had an ambition to develop an atomic bomb," Begin said.

On Thursday, Begin said that the real target of the raid was a bunker beneath the reactor where the Iraqis planned to build nuclear bombs. He incorrectly stated that the bunker was 130 feet underground. He later amended that statement to 13 feet.

-News Roundup- Queen's assailant charged

LONDON (AP)—Marcus Simon Sarjeant, the teen-ager accused of firing six pistol blanks at Queen Elizabeth II during a ceremonial parade will be arraigned Monday. Worried legislators, awaiting Scotland Yard's report on the incident, are expected to direct a battery of questions to Home Secretary William Whitelaw.

Sarjeant, 17, came within 15 yards of the monarch Saturday when he rushed from the parade crowd. Six shots rang out, starting the queen's horse. She was uninjured and the young man was grabbed by police.

Boy in well presumed dead

FRASCATI, Italy (AP) — Six-year-old Alfredo Rampi, trapped deep in a muddy well since last Wednesday, was declared "presumably dead" by doctors Sunday after a television camera and microphone lowered into the shaft detected no signs of life.

Criticism mounted over the failed rescue operation, and there were calls for the resignation of Rome's fire chief, who coordinated efforts. But Alfredo's grief-stricken mother said no one person could be blamed.

Three die in rescue attempt

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — One by one rescuers entered an abandoned septic tank in attempts to rescue eight-year-old Benjamin "Bub" Walker. But while the boy was saved, three rescuers died, suffocated by dense methane gas.

Police said the boy had been mowing his family's lawn and, while dumping clippings down a pipe leading to the buried tank, he dropped the grass catcher. When he crawled in to retrieve the item, he was overcome by methane gas produced by the decomposition of the clippings dumped in over several years.

Two firemen, one of whom later collapsed and died, finally got the boy out. Walker was listed in critical condition Sunday.

China warmly greets Haig

PEKING (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. Sunday began the Reagan administration's first diplomatic foray into China, getting a warm welcome from his Chinese counterpart and declaring that a strong China is in America's interests.

The thorny issue of U.S.-Taiwan relations was not brought up in the opening talks, which dwelled on Soviet "hegemony" in Asia, aides said, but the topic is on Monday's agenda.

Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua said the Chinese "attach importance to the strategic relationship between China and the United States." Haig responded, calling China a "close and valued friend," adding that President Reagan is "committed to the steady strengthening of our relations."

County board to buy site options for jail

By Steve Moore
Staff Writer

The Jackson County Board recently gave its ad hoc building and jail committee permission to buy options on building sites for a new county jail.

The board also heard proposals on how to spend $337,000 of federal revenue sharing money the county is due to receive. Various county agencies and committees made requests for funds that totaled $594,650.

In a meeting Wednesday, the board decided to set no ceiling on the price to be paid for building site options. The board reasoned that this would allow it time to consider alternative sites suggested by the committee, because while the option is in force the land cannot be sold to anyone else.

Ad hoc committee chairman Larry Lipe said a list of sites will be given to board members for study after options are obtained. At least a dozen sites are being considered, but committee members hinted that they have cut the field down to as few as three. The committee will present possible sites at the July board meeting and ask the board to approve one of them, Lipe said.

In related business, board chairwoman Mary Nell Chew announced that Jackson County jail has been picked to participate in a study to determine how much it would cost to comply with state and national jail standards. The jail is one of 20 county jails picked by the Illinois Counties Problems Study Commission, to take part in the study which will begin later this week.

In other business, State's Attorney John Clemons announced that the county had received checks totaling $13,280 from the state as reimbursement for legal duties performed by the State's Attorney's office.

The state reimburses the county for added litigation required by the presence of SIU-C in the county.

Clemons told the board that his office did some research and found that the reimbursement to the county general fund had been increased from $7,200 to $28,000 a year. Reimbursement is determined by university enrollment, and a law that went into effect Jan. 1, 1980 the base for reimbursement from 20,000 to 15,000 students.

Clemons said that former state's attorney William J. Schwartz had apparently been unaware of the change in laws.

He told the board the state still owes the county $10,400 and asked the board's permission to sue the state for the money.

After explaining that the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs indicated there would be little trouble in collecting, Clemons was given permission by the board to go ahead with the suit.

At the public revenue sharing hearing Thursday, the board heard proposals on how to spend the $337,000 of federal revenue sharing funds the county will receive. Some 13 committees and county

Second Chance closes; plan for new bar killed

By Tim Capps
Staff Writer

SIU-C students may find their choice of nightspots reduced because one bar has closed and plans for another were aborted after the Carbondale Liquor Commission refused to issue a license.

Second Chance, 213 E. Main, closed May 9. Although manager Bruce Steppig said a sluggish economy was one reason for Second Chance's failure, he feels the raising of the legal drinking age to 21 hurt the most.

"After they raised the drinking age," Steppig said, "there were just too many bars in Carbondale for the remaining business." He said his bar was hurt by high overhead and because it was not located on Illinois Avenue.

Centralia businessman Thomas Cochrane's plans for renovating the defunct Das Fass bar at 517 S. Illinois Ave. were blocked by the Liquor Commission's refusal to issue a liquor license. Citing the city's policy to decentralize liquor licenses from the downtown area, the commission unanimously voted down Cochrane's request for a class A license.

Mary Lou Rouhandeh, attorney for Cochrane, described the proposed new bar as "very attractive." The renovation was to include new landscaping, a new front for the building and extensive interior remodeling at an overall cost of about $250,000.

"It would have been occupied, well-run and clean, as well as paying taxes," Rouhandeh said.

"There was nothing Mr. Cochrane could have done to have gotten a license in the face of the commission's policy," she said.

Liquor Commissioner Charles Watkins said there would be "no exceptions" to the decentralization policy. Watkins said reasons for the commission's stand include the poor image "the strip" gives the city, past street closures by students, and plans for future development of the downtown area. He said that while the commission would not "try to run the bars off the street...it would like to see the number of bars in the area reduced to an acceptable level."

Two professors receive awards

By Brenda Wilgenbusch
Staff Writer

Two faculty members were announced as winners of $500 awards at the May meeting of the Board of Trustees. Both were cited for their outstanding achievements in Southern Illinois and at SIU-C.

John M. Fohr, associate professor in administrative sciences, was awarded the 1981 Lindell Sturgis Memorial Public Service Award for contributions to the people and businesses in the area. As part of his award, he received a commemorative plaque with a $500 check. Fohr was recognized for his responsibility for the construction of water and sewage treatment plants in the area, the organization of the Lake of Egypt fire protection unit and partial organization of a successful $650,000 fundraiser for St. Xavier Church in Carbondale.

The Sturgis award was established in 1980 by the family of the late Lindell W. Sturgis, who was a member of the Board of Trustees for 21 years, to recognize outstanding service to the community, region, state, or nation, by staff members at SIU-C.

John H. Yopp, professor of botany, was awarded the 1981 Amoco Foundation Outstanding Teaching Award, which included a $500 cash prize and $200 for the support of faculty travel. Yopp, who served as chairman for the Graduate Faculty Council, was recognized for his involvement in research projects ranging from hydroponics to genetic recombination of DNA. He also served on task forces for the governance of graduate faculty and for curriculum development at the SIU-C School of Medicine.

Discussion of draft should begin now

By Rep. Paul Simon
24th Congressional District

We are in the process of increasing defense spending in record breaking amounts. Yet both political parties avoid the most pressing defense need, like a relative with a social disease.

The most pressing need is personnel. We are trying to get by without a draft and we avoid facing the harsh reality that we need it.

While our weapons become more sophisticated, the percentage of those who enlist in the armed forces who are high school graduates declines steadily.

I am proud of those who serve, but the pride doesn't blind me to reality. That includes the fact that our NATO allies find our personnel too often poorly trained and lacking in the fundamental ability to handle military equipment.

We criticize our NATO partners for not spending as much on defense as we do, and they all respond, "What are you talking about? You don't even have a draft." The United States is the only significant military power without a draft. And there are some social problems.

In the Army particularly, we are increasingly reliant on the poor of the nation to serve. So if limited military action is required somewhere, it will be the poor who primarily will shed their blood. That's not the way a democracy should work. What kind of draft should we have?

My choice is that at the age of 18 or following graduation from high school all young people would owe their country one year of service. If the military is chosen, special educational benefits will be provided as a way to encourage a good mix of young people into the service.

But those who wish to could serve in the Peace Corps, or work in a mental hospital or a local hospital, or work for the local park district, or any of a thousand choices. But everyone would know that around the age of 18, you owe your country one year of service.

And there should be no student deferments, a major mistake of the Vietnam period.

In addition to the military need, these three factors should be weighed:

1. So long as sons and daughters of the members of Congress and other high government officials are not subject to military service, it becomes easier—too easy—for government officials to use the armed forces. A draft could change that.

2. In shopping for security there is a variety of choices, as in every other type of shopping. Whenever we can choose something that strengthens our military without escalating the arms race, over something that strengthens our military but increases Soviet spending, the former should be chosen. The simple reality is that a draft meets our most pressing problem, but does not cause the Soviets to have additional fears since they also have a draft.

3. A draft keeps an infusion of non-professional in the service. In most countries where freedom has been lost, the military has been the cause. We have had a healthy tradition of civilian control of the military and a responsible corps of military officers. We want to keep it that way.

A draft will not come tomorrow or next year, because it is still politically unpopular. But as certain as I type this, it will come. The question is not whether, it is when and in what shape.

The discussion should begin.

Liquor rule won't banish bars

IT'S NO SECRET many at SIU-C measure good times by the pitcher.

Consequently, any attempt by the city's liquor commission to limit the number of bars on South Illinois Avenue (a.k.a. "the Strip") is likely to be instinctively condemned by thirsty students. But a closer look at the issue may bring a more thoughtful response.

The commission's decentralization policy reflects the city's resolve to keep new bars off "the Strip." City officials stress that this policy applies only to proposed bars. They say that present owners should have no difficulty renewing licenses currently held, although they make no secret of the fact that they would like to see the majority of the now-existing bars either close up or relocate over a period of time.

THE COMMISSION'S stand results from a past error and a future plan.

According to City Planning Commissioner Don Monty, a previous city administration had been accused of unfairly limiting the number of liquor licenses. Although these allegations were never supported by evidence, the liquor commission became more liberal in the issuing of licenses.

The taverns proliferated—especially on South Illinois Avenue. "In retrospect," Monty said, "this was not the best decision."

The city has several objections to the concentration of

By Tim Capps
Staff Writer

bars on "the Strip," but a main concern is image. And Monty doesn't blame only the students.

"SOUTH ILLINOIS Avenue developed a reputation as a wide-open place," said Monty, "and was becoming a magnet to such people as the motorcycle gang at P.K.'s." The reputation may be hard to shake, but city officials think limiting bars is a good starting place.

If city plans for the area are realized, South Illinois Avenue should become a source of pride rather than problems.

Development plans include a large convention center and parking garage scheduled to be completed in early 1984. A new train station is already being built just south of T. J. McFly's.

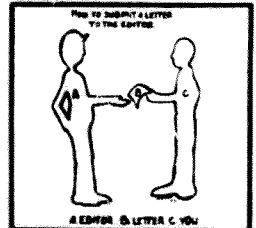

Monty believes the hotel complex will bring new and varied businesses to the area. "I see South Illinois Avenue's function as a diversified commercial district," he said. But he added, "You can't have any of this if the street is perceived of as one big bar."

DOES THIS PRETEND a dryer future for SIU-C students?

Not necessarily. Monty said there would always be room on South Illinois for a small number of bars. He also mentioned the vacant property along Grand Avenue across from Lewis Park Apartments as a possible alternative, although he said no plans have been made. Wherever new bars appear, he said the issuing of liquor licenses would be well regulated to avoid causing new problems.

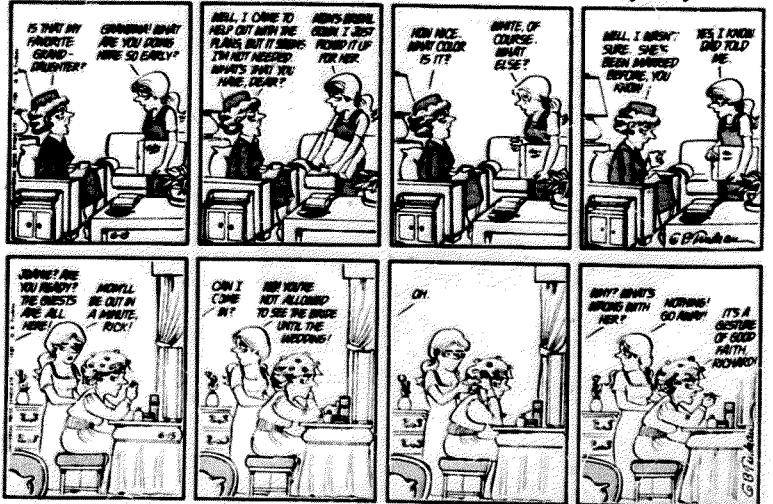

South Illinois Avenue is the twilight zone where campus and city meet. Any action, whether street closing or bar closing affects both communities. If the city has something else in mind for South Illinois than being "forever the big watering hole," to use Monty's expression, then it deserves our consideration and perhaps support.

As Charles Hindersman, vice president for university relations put it, "Anything which reflects well on the community reflects well on the University."

94 metered parking spaces to be added for Student Center

By Douglas Hamm
Staff Writer

A 94-space addition to the Student Center's metered parking lot is being constructed this summer to alleviate overcrowded parking conditions.

The new addition will be located next to the Travel Service garage, south of the present lot, and it will increase the number of metered parking spaces from 218 to 312.

Clarence C. Dougherty, vice president for campus services, said there is a definite need for the addition to the parking lot.

"Every time there is a conference or seminar at the Student Center the parking is grossly inadequate. We are attempting to ease this problem with the new addition," Dougherty said.

Dougherty said the problem is that the Student Center is located in the middle of campus and there simply is not enough parking in that area. He added that students may park in the lot but they will have to pay for it just as visitors would.

"If we were to designate the lot for red parking decals, students and University employees would fill it up immediately," said Dougherty. Duane Schroeder, site planner and superintendent of grounds, said the parking lot should be finished by July 1. He said the new lot will be good for the Travel Service because buses will be isolated from cars.

The general contract for construction of the lot totals $40,000, and the funds for the project are being supplied by the Parking and Traffic Division. All income from the new parking lot will go back into that division.

Construction crews are now installing underground drainage pipes, relocating electric lines, and grading the parking site.

Parking rates will remain the same as in the present lot—25 cents per hour.

Coal sale announced at export conference

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

The sale of 125,000 tons of high sulfur Illinois coal highlighted a coal export conference last week at the Student Center.

The high-sulfur coal export conference, held last Monday and Tuesday, was sponsored by U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and followed a hearing by the U.S. Senate Governmental Affairs Committee's Subcommittee on Energy, Nuclear Proliferation and Government Processes.

The coal was sold to APROCAR, the purchasing agent for the Spanish cement industry. The sale was announced Tuesday by Percy and Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal. The first trainloads of the high-sulfur (1.9 percent) coal from the Freeman United Orient No.3 mine near Waltonville left for New Orleans Friday on the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad. At New Orleans, the coal will be loaded on ships and transported to Spain.

The contract between Freeman United and APROCAR is for one year and can be renewed. A contract sale implies a potential for continued sales and is considered better than sales on the spot market.

The coal conference also allowed Percy to announce the opening of a Carbondale office that will be open on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The office is located in the Federal Building at 205 W. Cherry St.

According to Hal Smith, an administrative aide from Percy's Springfield office, Percy wanted to make the services of his office available to Southern Illinois, and Carbondale is a central location.

"The Carbondale office will make services even more available than they have been before, and it will be easier for the senator to know of his constituents' personal concerns such as Black Lung benefits and pensions," Smith said.

The major reason for Percy's trip to Carbondale was to chair a Senate subcommittee hearing that featured testimony by coal and energy experts from the United States, France, Korea, Japan, Spain and Nationalist China. About 400 participants discussed potential export markets for high-sulfur coal from mines in Illinois and other states.

Also, the process by which coal currently is sold on the international market was analyzed, and the coal and energy experts described how this marketing procedure could be used to sell more high-sulfur coal.

Gov. James Thompson attended the first session of the conference last Monday, and said that his administration hasn't hesitated to use state money to make it easier for industries to use Illinois coal, push development of coal-related industrial demonstration projects and push research aimed at increasing use of Illinois coal.

Thompson added that he plans to bring the same aggressiveness to the problem of increasing exports of Illinois coal.

"We can't sit back and wait for foreign buyers to come knocking on our door," he said. "We need to act."

According to Thompson, his administration has put together a six-point plan to increase the export of coal from Illinois mines. The plan includes:

- an evaluation of the problem of coal transportation by the Illinois Institute of Natural Resources and Department of Transportation;
- opening a selling campaign for coal similar to earlier ef-orts aimed at boosting overseas sales of Illinois manufactured goods and farm products;

- setting up a coordinated effort under O'Neal aimed at selling foreign coal customers on the idea that Illinois coal producers can meet their needs;

- investigating coal markets outside of Europe and Asia;

- boosting international marketing of new technologies which allow environmentally-safe burning of high-sulfur coal;

- investigating the possibility of using state bond funds to boost the production of clean coal-based fuels such as coke and gas from Illinois coal.

"We have an opportunity to help the world meet its energy needs while we help ourselves back to prosperity and health," Thompson said.

Daniels Band signed to sing at state fair

The Charlie Daniels Band and singer-songwriter Eddie Rabbitt have been signed to appear at the 1981 Du Quoin State Fair.

The Daniels band will be featured opening night, Aug. 28, at 6 and 9 p.m. The group last played in Du Quoin in June 1978 in front of a near capacity crowd at the fairgrounds. David J. Emerson, chairman of the board and acting general manager for the fair, said he expects the Daniels band to break the attendance record of last year's Willie Nelson concert.

The career of the band has been highlighted by hits like "The Devil Went Down to Georgia," "Long-haired Country Boy" and "In America."

Rabbitt will appear Sept. 2 at 6 and 9 p.m. with Sami Jo Cole. Among Rabbitt's hits are "Suspicious," "Driving My Life Away," and "Every Which Way But Loose."

Tickets for the Charlie Daniels concerts are $10 and $9. Tickets for the Rabbitt shows are $8 and $8. All tickets are available only by mail through the fairgrounds ticket office.

Saroyan comedy to be first play in summer series

An American love story and plays by William Saroyan and Neil Simon are included on the playbill for the 1981 Summer Playhouse at McLeod Theater.

Saroyan's Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy "The Time of Your Life" will open the Summer Playhouse season June 26-28.

"The Boyfriend," a musical spoof of London in the 1920s, will run July 3-5 and July 9-12.

A comedy, Simon's "Barefoot in the Park," will be offered July 16-19.

The season will close with "West Side Story," set for July 24-26 and July 30 to Aug. 2. The play is a musical rendition of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" set in the streets of New York.

The Summer Playhouse is sponsored by the School of Music and the Theater Department.

Season tickets are available at the McLeod Theater ticket office in the Communications Building, and cost $15 for the general public, $12 for students and senior citizens. Individual tickets cost $6 and $5 for the musicals, and $5 and $4 for the dramas.

Walesa thanks Chicago Poles

CHICAGO (AP) — Polish Solidarity Leader Lech Walesa told the city's Polish-Americans in a recorded message Sunday that drugs and food they shipped to Poland "helped save many lives."

In his message of thanks to members of the Illinois chapter of the Polish American Congress, Walesa said that despite "very serious difficulties, we shall survive."

The message was recorded Thursday in Gdansk, Poland and was played at Chicago's annual Polish Day celebration Sunday.

"Poland — as never before, needs a strong, solidified and united Polonia in American to continue your generous help in our hours of greatest need," he said.

Peppermint Potty, third in grooming, and mistress Dorothy Enptage were interviewed for WSU-TV by Debbie Kapusta.

The contestant above could be saying "when are we going home?" or maybe "what's happening?" What happened was that Scampy (right), whose owner is Laura McCluskey of Carterville, won best in show honors.

Somebody loves 'em

It was alley cats' day

The "cool cats" of Southern Illinois were out in force Saturday at the sixth annual All-American Alley Cat Show in the Murphysboro Senior Citizens Center. The contest was sponsored by the Humane Society of Southern Illinois.

The contestants were felines that once had been abandoned, some tender loving care by new owners, these creatures were capable of strutting their stuff with almost regal dignity.

Some of the cats were of the genuine "alley" variety, others showed traces of Persian and Siamese. And if you liked tabby cats, there was Scampy, owned by three-year-old Laura McCluskey of Carterville. Scampy won in the "Best of Show" division, and received five pounds of cat food and an engraved plaque.

There were 10 categories of prizes, with the first place winner getting a box of cat food and the first, second and third place winners all getting ribbons. There was a rather small turnout—14 contestants compared to 40 last year.

might have cannot always be completely solved by the council, but can be worked out. The four candidates are finalists among the eight persons who originally applied for the seat. The original group included two others from SIU. Eliminated by a primary at the June 8 meeting were Benjamin Shepherd, associate vice president for academic affairs, and Paul Matalonis, a law student and the Undergraduate Student Organization liaison to the Council.

The other two individuals nominated were B.C. Boone, a member of the Citizens' Advisory Committee, and Joy Callum Mork, a stockbroker with Thomson McKinnon Securities and a member of the city's liquor advisory board.

A proposed contract with the Murphysboro Transportation Commission on the agenda. Under the agreement, the city would apply for a federal transportation grant to fund half the operating deficits of the MTC. In return, the MTC would provide expanded bus service in Carbondale and Jackson County.

Other items scheduled for the Monday night meeting include an opening presentation on the International Year of Disabled Persons task force and mayoral appointments to city boards and commissions. Also included is recommended action on the Municipal Solar Utility Report, which details a plan to implement an energy conservation program in the city.

agencies sent either letters or representatives to ask for money.

The largest request for funds was made by the ad hoc building and jail committee. It requested $170,000 to buy a building site for the new county jail.

One other request in excess of $100,000 was made by the building and grounds committee. Chairman Irvin Phoenix asked for $132,716 to go for renovation of the Jackson County Courthouse.

The proposal that generated the most discussion was the Computer Center's request for $100,000 to buy a new computer system for the Jackson County Courthouse. Finance committee chairman Doug Eriksen, who made the request for the center, said that the present system is obsolete and should be replaced.

But board member Robert Crim was not entirely convinced that the new system would be worth the expense. He suggested the board first study the software programs that would be bought along with the computer to determine how well they would fit Jackson County's needs.

According to Eriksen, the new system would allow the placing of computer terminals in the offices involved with tax billing and as desired in other offices. He said that this would eliminate a large amount of paperwork and would allow an office to inquire by terminal into county files.

Other requests included $43,139 by the Jackson County Nursing Home, $55,831 by the Jackson County Health Department, $44,712 by the Aluminum Recycling Project, $11,000 by the Murphysboro Senior Citizens Center, and $9,249 by the Youth Services Bureau.

Five other agencies made requests for a combined total of $28,093.

There will be a second public hearing during which the board will decide on allocation of the funds. The date for this hearing has yet to be announced.

Medical School gets 5-year accreditation

By Joe Walter
Staff Writer

The SIU School of Medicine has been accredited for another five years by the Liaison Committee on Medical Education. The committee also approved the school's plan to convert to a four-year curriculum from the present three-year curriculum.

The accreditation process began with an extensive self-study which was used as background for the committee's site-team. A four-person team spent four days at the medical school in November and prepared a report for the liaison committee.

The accreditation notice was sent to Albert Somit, president of SIU-C, and Dr. Richard H.

Moy, dean and provost of the medical school.

The school is accredited for 72 students per class.

The conversion plan that was also approved will begin to be implemented with classes beginning Monday.

A four-year program will give the students more time to absorb the material they learn, according to Dr. Howard Barrouws, associate dean of the medical school. Barrouws said that the three-year curriculum does not allow students sufficient time to make career decisions. Students in the three-year program had breaks totaling only one month per year and have to enter the medical school just two weeks after obtaining their bachelor's degrees. Under a four-year curriculum, according to Barrouws, these problems will be remedied.

The new plan splits the present class into three- and four-year groups, with the students choosing either the three- or the four-year program. The three-year program has drawn 48 students, while 24 have chosen the four-year program, according to Deane Doolen, assistant dean for student affairs and admissions at the medical school in Springfield.

To even out the number of students in the three- and four-year programs 18 students of advanced standing will be admitted to the four-year program in June 1982.

Some Northern Illinois towns evacuated after weekend floods

By the Associated Press

About 300 persons remained homeless and dozens more were evacuated Sunday as flood waters surged through Northern Illinois communities in the wake of heavy weekend rains.

Among the areas hardest hit were Will and southern Cook counties, which received as much as eight inches of rain Friday night and Saturday.

More than 100 minor injuries were reported in Joliet, and officials said 20 percent of the city was under water at the height of the flooding. Gov. James R. Thompson called out the National Guard Sunday to protect against looting in areas where residents were evacuated.

Evacuations took place Sunday morning in parts of Lansing, Calumet City and Hammond, Ind., authorities said. A high school gymnasium in Chicago Heights was prepared as a relief center should evacuations become necessary in that suburb.

In Mount Carroll, some streets were under four feet of water in the aftermath of the weekend downpours.

As police, fire officials and relief workers struggled with the effects of the heavy rains, the threat of more precipitation loomed in much of the state. The National Weather Service predicted showers and thunderstorms for Illinois Sunday night, and said some could be locally heavy.

About 300 Joliet residents spent the night in a high school gymnasium after they were evacuated from their homes, but many of those were later able to find shelter with friends and relatives, officials said.

"I knew it was going to flood when I heard the rain continuing through the night," said Anna Depratt, a 78-year-old widow who was evacuated from her Joliet home. "The police finally came to get me around 7 o'clock (Saturday morning). It was scary when I was leaving because the water was rushing around my waist as I tried to get away."

Joliet city officials were inspecting damage Sunday morning, and said some residents might be permitted to return to their homes if it was determined that flood waters did not undermine foundations.

In Glenwood, a 12-year-old boy was reported missing and feared drowned after he was swept from his bicycle in a park where water was six feet deep in places.

Police said viaducts were flooded and roads closed in many suburbs south of Chicago, and flooded basements were also reported in suburbs west of the city.

He expects the search committee to be formed as soon as summit returns. Hindersman said he hopes to teach during spring semester, even though he may still be acting vice president for university relations. An instructor for 21 years at SIUC, he will give up his teaching duties during the summer and fall. Hindersman said he looks forward to the new position and welcomes his opportunity to "serve the University." He said he doesn't expect to make "earth-shaking" changes in university relations but that he will make modifications as he sees they are necessary.

"If any administrative moves are needed, I think I'll be able to see them out and make the right changes," he said. The vice president for University relations oversees the offices of the University News Service, University Graphics, University exhibits, area services, the Alumni Association and University development. He was also previously in charge of intercollegiate athletics, until April when President Albert Somit transferred athletics to the vice president for student affairs. Busch said Hindersman's major responsibilities will be to study the structure of the university relations office and suggest changes he thinks might be beneficial. Somit recommended Hindersman on the basis of his experience and respect at SIUC, Busch said. Hindersman's professional background would lend itself to development and work with the SIUC Foundation, Busch said. Not only is Hindersman a senior faculty member, Busch said, but he has consulted for businesses and is respected in academic and business communities. Busch said Hindersman also worked on the search committee which recently screened candidates for vice president of academic affairs and research.

McCaughan said he has had no luck obtaining a copy of Mace's contract to look for provisions concerning paid leaves. According to McCaughan, C. Thomas Busch, assistant to the president, said that he didn't have copies of the contract when McCaughan asked for them.

plans to allocate 80 percent of salary increase funds for civil service range employees as individual salary increases. If the increase rate of 8 percent is settled upon, according to the board's proposal, individual increases will range from 10 percent for the lower paid employees to about 6 percent for the highest paid. If the percentage provided is not 8 percent, the range of increases will be adjusted proportionally. The remaining 20 percent of the state-allocated increase funds for civil service range employees will be used for merit increases. Full-time administrative employees in the chancellor's office will receive 3 percent of the anticipated 8 percent state salary money across-the-board.

Patti Davis urges nuclear opponents to spread word

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patti Davis, conceding her views disagree sharply with those of her father, President Reagan, urged about 18,000 opponents of nuclear power Sunday to spread their message across the country. "We can make a difference. We are not powerless," the actress-singer told the crowd jamming the hillside bleachers of the Hollywood Bowl. The fund-raising concert, featuring rock singer Bruce Springsteen, was sponsored by the Southern California Alliance for Survival. In brief remarks greeted by long applause, Miss Davis urged that "the spirit that is here today" be carried into the future. "We have a choice," she said. "We can move away from nuclear energy toward energy sources that are safe, abundant and harmonious to nature." At a crowded news conference later, she conceded that her views are in sharp disagreement with the president's, adding, "I don't think the fact that my father and I have different opinions is really the issue here." Asked if her father's position might be changed, she said, "There's always room for a change, that's why we're here." Miss Davis said she would continue speaking against atomic power. Asked if she would consider civil disobedience, which the Alliance is threatening against the as-yet unlicensed Diablo Canyon nuclear plant, she said, "I don't know. Probably not." She said Diablo Canyon, located near San Luis Obispo, and two new units of the San Onofre plant near San Clemente are the immediate targets of the state's anti-nuclear movement. She said her father is aware of the "potential dangers" of nuclear energy but "has a great deal of faith in American technology to make nuclear energy a safe form of energy."

Employees elect council members

By Julie Guadagnoli
Staff Writer

Civil service employees recently elected a new Civil Service Employees Council for next year. Three of last year's officers were re-elected to executive committee positions.

Phyllis McCowen, staff secretary in the Health Education Department, was re-elected chairperson. Jerry Looft, assistant departmental business manager, Medical School, was re-elected vice chairman, and Patrick Harris, internal auditor, was re-elected treasurer.

Two officers were elected to executive committee positions. Anita Curry, Medical School transcribing secretary, was elected recording secretary.

and Joann Marks, stenographic secretary in the College of Liberal Arts, was chosen corresponding secretary.

According to Marks, all regular civil service employees received ballots, which contained 48 nominations, by mail. General members elected from the academic affairs area were McCowen, David Saunders, public information specialist in the Technical Careers School; Gary Auld, admissions and records officer; and Geraldine Kelley, University Museum community affairs specialist.

Donna Hartman, accountant in disbursements, was re-elected from the financial affairs area.

Herter, stationary foreman at the Physical Plant, and Cathel McDowell, Physical Plant electrician, were elected from campus services. McDowell was re-elected.

In the student affairs area, Muriel Narve, medical health technologist for student health programs, was elected and Rosia Korrens, food production manager at Brush Towers, was re-elected.

Also re-elected was Looft, in the area of computer services, university relations, presidential administration and the medical school.

Curry, Walter Melcher, distribution clerk; and Jo Ann Warren, medical insurance specialist in patient and clinic services, will represent the Medical School-Springfield campus.

Five civil service employees are honored for achievements

By Vicki O'Leary
Staff Writer

Five SIUC employees received outstanding service awards at the annual civil service awards banquet June 9.

Those honored were Marilyn Branch, Joseph Elliott, Muriel Narve, Barbara Peterson and Geraldine White. Each employee received a certificate and $100.

The Civil Service Employees Council selected the winners for their contributions in promoting University-community relations and University service, as well as their special achievements.

Branch, an SIUC employee since 1959, is an administrative assistant in learning resources.

She has been a member of four search committees and is now on the committee that will revise the University affirmative action program.

Elliott, who has worked in the general accounting office since 1960, is a representative to the Traffic Appeals Committee and the President's Budget Advisory Committee. He is a former chairman of the Civil Service Employees Council.

Narve, a medical technologist for the health service, has served on several health-related committees on campus. She was named Medical Technologist of the Year in 1976 by the Illinois Medical Technologists Association.

Peterson, secretary to Elmer J. Clark, dean of the College of Education, is vice president of the Ladies Association of Boosters of Saluki Sports. She is also on the College of Education Retirement Committee and the George S. Counts Committee.

White, a financial aid advisor since 1965, has been a scholarship advisor to downstate county superintendents of schools. She has been a judge for the junior college graduates academic achievement recognition program.

SIUC President Albert Somit presented 172 service awards to veteran employees for long service of 10, 15, 20 and 25 years at the banquet. Each recipient received a pin and a certificate of recognition.

Youth swim program to be offered

Swimming classes for the children of SIUC students, faculty, staff and alumni are being sponsored this summer by the Office of Intramural-Recreational Sports at the Recreation Center.

The two-week session begins July 13 and continues until July 24. Each session includes 10 lessons. Beginner and advanced beginner classes will be from 10 to 11 a.m. Parent and tot, beginner and intermediate classes will be from 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

In order to participate, children must be 6 years old by October 1, 1981, except for the parent tot class. Infants must be at least 6 months old by class time to participate.

The cost for students' children is $20. For children of faculty, staff and alumni the cost is $25.

Parents can take aqua-exercise classes while their children have their lessons. There is no additional charge for this if the participant has a valid SIUC identification card. Parents of children in the swimming classes must also have valid identification cards.

The victim, a 27-year-old female SIU-C student, who is confined to a wheelchair, told police that she was awakened at 1:37 a.m. by someone pounding on her door. Slate set for 1981 class alumni rep

Six SIU-C graduates have been selected as final candidates to represent the class of 1981 on the SIU-C Alumni Association's Legislative Council.

The Legislative Council is the basic governing body of the Alumni Association with a voting delegate from each class year, alumni geographic club, and professional constituent society. Nominations for the 1981 representative were sought from each school and college of the University and from student government leaders.

An all-student screening committee reviewed 25 semifinalists to arrive at the six names that will appear on each ballot: Pamela Billingsley, College of Human Resources; Judy Engelsen, Engineering and Technology; Jeffrey Goffinet, College of Communications and Fine Arts; Darrell L. Scherer, School of Agriculture; Roland L. Vandever, School of Agriculture.

All May graduates received candidate biographies and ballots in their diploma packets, as will all August graduates, in order to choose the eventual delegate and two alternates. Ballots must be received by Nov. 2. The results of the election will be announced in the January issue of the Alumnus publication.

8 firemen hurt, Benton building destroyed

BENTON (UPI) — Fire destroyed one building and caused heavy smoke damage to two others early Sunday in one corner of the Public Square.

Two firefighters were hospitalized for smoke inhalation and later were released. Six other firemen suffered minor burns as departments from a dozen nearby communities responded to help put out the blaze, authorities said.

The fire began late Saturday in the Levi Browning Building, destroying the law offices of Joseph Hickman, former Franklin County state's attorney. The building also housed a paint and electrical supply store, a shoe store, fabric store and offices of the magazine "Outdoor Illinois."

Firefighters remained on the scene throughout Sunday in efforts to prevent the gutted structure from re-igniting.

The cause of the blaze was under investigation.

School of Law building to be named for Lesar

The new School of Law building at SIU-C will be named for the school's founder and first dean, Hiram H. Lesar. The Board of Trustees decided Thursday that the building will be known as the Hiram H. Lesar Law Building.

Law School faculty and staff proposed that the building be named "to recognize Dean Lesar's valuable service, his outstanding accomplishments and his exceptional contributions to the University."

"Because of his experience and respected stature as the senior dean among American law school heads, Dean Lesar was able to attract top-quality faculty members and develop an outstanding program of legal instruction," the proposal said. Lesar stepped down as dean last year after "shepherding the fledgling Law School through the growing pains of faculty and student recruiting to accreditation by the American Bar Association," said the proposal.

The new building was a key requirement for permanent accreditation by the ABA. This is not the first honor bestowed upon Lesar by the university. For his work in founding the school in 1973, Lesar in November was named "Distinguished Service Professor," a title held by no one else at the university.

He twice served as acting president of SIU-C, most recently from July 1979 to August 1980 after the resignation of Warren H. Brandt. The Board of Trustees praised his service as interim president with a resolution of recognition last September. A formal resolution by the Illinois Senate also lauds Lesar's service to the university.

Lesar is widely respected in the legal profession for his writing and expertise, particularly in the areas of landlord-tenant and property law. He was one of 25 legal scholars who contributed to the first edition of the seven-volume legal treatise "American Law of Property" in 1952.

He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois in 1934, and was graduated from its Law School in 1936 with a doctorate in jurisprudence. In 1938, Yale University awarded Lesar a J.S.D. degree.

He was dean of the Washington University Law School when he was named head of SIU-C's Law School in 1972.

Reagan sets news conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Sunday he will hold a news conference this week, the third of his five-month-old administration and his first since the attempt on his life March 30.

Reagan did not specify a date, but it is expected it will be held Tuesday afternoon. White House officials had indicated previously they would announce a news conference scheduled for early this week.

The president tipped his hand about the news conference as he was stopped by reporters after he and his wife, Nancy, worshipped at the National Presbyterian Church.

He waved off questions about the Middle East and the baseball strike, saying, "I'll talk about those things at my news conference."

Reagan has not held a general news conference since March 6. Three weeks after he was shot, Reagan granted an interview on April 22 to two news service reporters, from The Associated Press and United Press International.

His only other new, conference was on Jan. 29.

At the service, Reagan and his wife sat inconspicuously in the second pew from the front of the crowded church.

It was the first time he has attended services outside the White House since the attempt on his life 12 weeks ago.

"Welcome back, Mr. President," said the Rev. John E. Boyles, in front of the congregation. The president has attended the church several times since his inauguration.

'I am with you,' pope says to Poles

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II spoke Sunday to 40,000 cheering people gathered in St. Peter's Square for the second time since he was shot by a would-be assassin May 13.

After a brief recorded papal address in Italian was broadcast through loudspeakers to the crowd, the pope appeared at his third-floor apartment window overlooking the square where he was shot.

"I want to greet all Romans and pilgrims and give the apostolic blessing to everybody who listens to me through the radio and television," he said in Italian in a clear voice.

The pope, who remained at the window for five minutes, said he wanted to address a "special word" to a group of his Polish fellow countrymen present in the square.

"I am with you. I bless you," he said in Polish, then gave his blessing in Latin.

In his recorded address, John Paul expressed his "special thanks" to the youth of the entire world who in "this period of suffering have been close to me with their affection and prayers."

He then recited the Queen of Heavens prayer with the crowd.

Vatican Radio said Saturday that "exactly a month from the attack, the general condition of the pope continues to improve ... And he is slowly returning to his normal life style."

John Paul is expected to return to Rome's Gemelli Hospital in about two weeks for a second operation to reverse an intestinal bypass performed during emergency surgery after he was shot in the abdomen. He was discharged from the hospital on June 3.

Negotiations in baseball strike expected to resume this week

By The Associated Press

After a weekend of empty ballparks, major league baseball's players and owners are expected to resume negotiations early this week in hopes of bringing a quick end to the sport's first midseason strike.

Kenneth Moffett, the federal mediator assigned to the case, said Sunday that no talks had been scheduled. He added, however, that he would be getting in touch with the Major League Players Association and the Player Relations Committee about returning to the bargaining table Monday or Tuesday.

"We're available anytime Ken wants to call us," said Ray Grebey, head of the Player Relations Committee, the club owners' bargaining unit.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, was unavailable for comment.

The 650 major league players went on strike Friday after more than 1½ years of negotiations had failed to bring agreement on the issue of free agent compensation.

Talks were held later Friday, but most of those 2½ hours were spent rehashing discussions of Thursday night's fruitless session.

Moffett said no negotiations would be held over the weekend.

That meant 13 stadiums where major league teams were to have played games remained dark and quiet, and the loss of the weekend games hit hard at some teams' cash-boxes.

Calvin Griffith, the Minnesota Twins' president, estimated losses in gross revenues of $600,000 from the three-game series with the New York Yankees in Bloomington, Minn., including ticket sales and concessions.

The Philadelphia Phillies placed the loss from the canceled weekend home series with the Atlanta Braves at $750,000 in gate receipts. A crowd of more than 55,000 had been expected for Friday night's game to see Phillies first baseman Pete Rose try for his 3,631st hit. Rose tied Stan Musial for most hits ever by a National League player at 3,630 in the Phils' final pre-strike game Wednesday night.

Television and radio stations also were left without live baseball to air during the weekend. They generally filled the time with movies or rebroadcasts of old games.

The owners are bolstered by a mutual-aid package totaling an estimated $11 million plus $50 million in strike insurance which will begin paying $100,000 after 152 games are missed. At that rate, the insurance could last until early August.

Club owners began buying the strike insurance last fall and winter as a panel of players and general managers looked for a compromise in the free-agent compensation dispute.

Caponi wins second LPGA crown

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Donna Caponi rolled in a 15-foot birdie putt on the final green Sunday to win her second Ladies Professional Golf Association championship in the last three years.

Caponi, and playing partners Jerilyn Britz and Pat Meyers, went to the final hole deadlocked at 7 under par for the 71 holes they had played in this, the first of three major tournaments for the women this year.

Caponi, who was 71 in the final round, gave Caponi a 72-hole total of 280, 10 under par in the tournament over the Jack Nicklaus Sports Center Grizzly Course.

On that final hole, Caponi laid out short of the lake and hit her approach shot within 15 feet of the pin. She then rolled in the deciding putt.

Britz, who also finished second to Caponi in the 1979 LPGA, missed her opportunity for a birdie from 12 feet that would have forced a sudden-death playoff. She left her putt short and to the left of the hole for a 72 and a second-place tie with Meyers.

Meyers missed the green with her third shot, chipped to within four feet and sank the putt to salvage a par 5 on the closing 470-yard hole. She had a 71 and matched Britz' total of 281.

Caponi, winning her fourth major title in 17 professional seasons, earned $22,500 to push her yearly earnings past $109,000. She has won almost $933,000 in her career.

Caponi survived a pair of bogeys at 15 and 17 that cost her the sole lead in the muggy, 95-degree heat. On 17, she injured herself, but survived it to win her 22nd career tournament.

"I hurt my rib cage on the 17th hole in the heavy rough I was in," she said at the post-tournament ceremonies. Caponi left her approach shot 40 feet short of the green, swinging from the rough.

Caponi, 36, earlier had won the U.S. Open in 1969 and 1970 before she won this major twice.

Debbie Massey closed with a 2-under-par 70 and took fourth place with 283, 5 under. Nancy Lopez-Melton, this year's leading money-winner, also had a 70 and shared fifth place at 284 with JoAnne Carner and Beth Daniel, the LPGA Player of the Year last season.

Two baseball Salukis ink professional pacts

By Dave Kane
Associate Editor

There may be no baseball in St. Louis or Chicago these days due to the major league players' strike, but two former SIU-C players who ended their Saluki careers this past season are already playing in the minor league level after being selected in last week's amateur draft.

Catcher Gary Kempton and shortstop-second baseman Bobby Doerr, both seniors, signed professional contracts last week, while a third Saluki, junior pitcher Rob Clark, elected to stay another year and play for Coach Itchy Jones despite being drafted by the Detroit Tigers.

Doerr, a native of Richton Park, was picked in the sixth round by the Montreal Expos and will leave Tuesday for West Palm Beach, Fla., where he will start at second base for the Expos' Class A team in the Florida State League.

Kempton, meanwhile, promptly signed a contract with the New York Yankees organization after being selected in the 20th round. He left for Oneonta, N.Y., last Thursday. Oneonta is the Yankees' Class A affiliate in the New York-Penn League. The Oneonta team, according to Kempton, was in need of a catcher in a hurry due to injury problems.

"They were kind of in a rush," Kempton said. "They were kind of in a tight situation, so they wanted to get me out there as soon as they could."

Kempton's senior season was hampered due to various injuries, but he batted .246 with seven home runs and 23 RBIs. He was realistic about his position in contract bargaining.

"I was hoping I'd get picked a little higher in the draft,"

Kempton said, "but I guess it was about right. I told them that physically I was fine. They told me that if my bat comes around, I'll wind up in the major leagues."

It was the fourth time Kempton had been drafted. He had been drafted twice previously by Cincinnati and once by St. Louis, but he had no regrets about waiting until his senior year to sign.

"I had my chances before, but I really don't regret it because Ichy did more for me than any guy in the pros could," Kempton said. "At least I proved I could hit for some power my senior year."

Kempton said one of the weak links in an otherwise strong Yankee organization is catching. He was encouraged by that as well as the Yankee's entire minor league system.

"I know they have a lot of good hitting coaches out there," Kempton said. "Guys like Joe Pepitone, for example."

"When I heard the Yankees had picked me, I thought 'wow, everybody thinks about the Yankees when they think about baseball. Even their minor league teams finish first quite a bit.'"

Although the Expos have only been in existence for a little over a decade, Doerr feels Montreal's system is just as strong. And, like Kempton, Doerr indicated that even at the top, the Expos are not solid in the long run at his positions.

"They've indicated they're pretty weak up the middle," Doerr said. "Both of those guys (Expo shortstop Chris Spier and second baseman Rodney Scott) are getting pretty old. I'd still have to give myself at least three years before I'd hope to get to the majors. I'd be fooling myself otherwise."

Doerr said the Expos were impressed with his ability to play on either side of second base, but even that, coupled with his .329 batting average and 24 stolen bases in 25 at-bats in 1981, didn't inspire Montreal to meet Doerr's salary wishes the first time a contract was discussed.

"They were pretty far off from what I wanted," Doerr said of the first meeting last Wednesday. "I really don't want to say how much it was, but we weren't seeing eye-to-eye."

Montreal's offerings the second time around were more to Doerr's liking, especially when he learned he would be starting at second base in West Palm Beach.

"They more than doubled the original offer," Doerr said. "I'm really happy about it."

Being a junior, Clark was in a better position to bargain, and was very frank about his contract objectives. He was chosen in the 13th round.

"This year, I was kind of out for the money," Clark said. "I look at it this way—and Jerry Green (SIU-C pitching coach) agreed with me—I simply have 12 rounds to get better next season."

Clark, whose trademark was control during the '81 season, may not have much room for improvement in 1982. He was 10-1 for the Salukis, including a masterful one-hitter against Bradley that clinched the Missouri Valley Conference Eastern Division title for SIU-C. He also was credited with one of the Saluki wins in the MVC playoffs against Wichita State.

"They were impressed with the way I came on strong at the end of the season," Clark said. "Other than that, they didn't say anything in particular. All it amounted to was if they would offer the amount of money I wanted, but they didn't, so I turned it down."

Van Winkle names two cage assistants

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

"The sun will come out tomorrow."

SIU-C's Head Basketball Coach Allen Van Winkle quoted that line from the musical "Annie" as he named Herman Williams and Stafford Stephenson as his new full-time assistant coaches Friday morning.

"I think we have a great staff," Van Winkle said. "I feel we're adding two very classy, professional assistants to our staff, and after considering many qualified applicants, I am extremely happy to have these two people join us."

Williams, an assistant coach at Auburn University for the past three years, was previously an assistant coach to the late Paul Lambert at SIU-C. Williams joined the Saluki staff in 1974 and left with Lambert in 1978.

"I didn't want to leave SIU-C," Williams said. "I missed the area and the institution from day one when I left."

Williams said he is very impressed by Van Winkle, and added that he views the Saluki program as a challenge, but "a challenge we look forward to."

As one of the more successful recruiters in SIU-C history, Williams said the Salukis want the best available players possible.

"Naturally, we'd like to start recruiting here in the area first," he added.

A prep football, basketball and baseball standout at A.H. Parker High School in Birmingham, Ala., Williams earned his bachelor's degree at Dillard University in New Orleans, and his master's degree at the University of South Alabama in Mobile.

Stephenson has been an assistant coach at the University of Evansville for the past four years. Previously, Stephenson served as a graduate assistant at Wake Forest University and went on to become head basketball and tennis coach at Wingate Junior College at Wingate, N.C.

Stephenson said he has known Van Winkle for three years, and that the chemistry between them is good.

"I'm extremely pleased to be here," he added. "I felt the opportunity at SIU and in the Missouri Valley Conference was a step I wanted to pursue. The potential for the program is probably the deciding factor for my move here."

Stephenson is a native of Marion, Va., where he attained all-district honors in baseball and basketball. At Emory and Henry College in Emory, Va., he started every varsity basketball game which included 93 consecutive contests over his four-year career.

Williams and Stephenson are filling the vacancies left by Rob Spivery and Tim Sommerville, both of whom served under former Saluki Coach Joe Gottfried.

Spivery left SIU-C to take a job as assistant basketball coach at the University of Rhode Island. Spivery's primary responsibilities for the Rams will include recruiting and scouting, as well as administrative and coaching duties.

Ram Coach Claude English said of Spivery's appointment, "Rob's an outstanding basketball coach and a great person. I'm elated he has accepted the position, and we're looking forward to working with him. He'll be a great asset to our program."

Sommerville left the Salukis in May to take a job at a golf academy in San Diego, Cal.

Intramural Sports to sponsor series of summer tournaments

Intramural Sports is sponsoring a series of tournaments to keep sports-minded students and faculty busy this summer.

Slow-pitch softball tournaments, three-on-three basketball tournaments, handball tournaments and tennis tournaments will all begin play June 29.

Rosters or entries are due at the Student Recreation Center information desk at 10 p.m. June 24 for play beginning June 29. Late rosters and entries will be accepted until 5 p.m. June 25, but a $2 late fee will be assessed.

A $1 forfeit fee is required for the handball and tennis tournament but will be refunded to all participants who do not forfeit.
