Humorous Skit Earns Top Theta Xi Trophy

Singers Take Other 1st Places

A take-off on a Broadway show, a folk singing group and a female vocalist took top honors at the 18th annual Theta Xi Variety Show Saturday night.

The combined talents of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and Phi Kappa Tau fraternity produced the humorous skit called "The Legend of New York," a take-off on the musical, "Guys and Dolls," which took first place honors among group acts.

The groups captured the six-foot trophy for the second consecutive year.

The Justin Singers, a five-member folk singing group, won the intermediate first-place trophy in this year's Theta Xi Variety Show. This was their first appearance as a group.

members folk singing group, three men and two women, won the intermediate first place trophy.

Patty Walsh was the individual favorite, with her rendition of "When the Saints Go Marching In," and two other songs.

Second place group winner was Sigma Sigma Sorority, which presented a song and dance act called "I Ain't Down Yet," a take-off on the Broadway play "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

The Dusty Road Boys sang bluegrass folk songs. The five-member group took second place in the intermediate acts.

Delta Zeta and Sigma Pi won third place with a skit portraying Republican Presidential hopeful Rockefeller, Goldwater, and Nixon, called "Musical Convention."

The Theta Xi Pledge act was called "Hugh Hefner in Bunny Land." It was a comic representation of the happenings in the popular Key Clubs.

The 17 acts played to a packed house both Friday and Saturday nights in Shryock Auditorium.

SIU to Help

Educate Mali

SIU soon will be undertaking an education mission in a second country in Africa.

Robert Jacobs, SIU coordinator of international projects, said a team of educators will go to Mali in a program approved by the U.S. Agency for International Development to help set up a project of teacher training. Last month the Ford Foundation announced a $286,000 grant to Southern to develop the teaching of English as a second language in Nigeria.

Jacobs, who said a March target date had been set for an initial Malian survey, explained that the SIU delegation would work with the Malian Ministry of Education in providing professional services to a teacher training center. However, there would be a relationship with United Nations Education and Scientific Organization, Jacobs said.

Mali, a nation of nearly four million people, became a republic in 1960.

Computer Aids Card Section

An IBM machine will be a silent partner at SIU's football games next fall.

The card section, not the players, will be getting a helping hand from the electronic wonder. In fact, the Spirit Council says that all card section stunts next year will be worked out by the Data Processing and Computing Center.

But right now the council needs help.

John Boehner, president of the council, said Monday that the Computing Center is willing to program the stunts, thus cutting down human error and saving about 15 hours per week of planning. About 75 stunts would be programmed, according to Boehner.

"It would be a simple matter to tape the stunts for each seat," he said. "Then each week the person in charge of the card section could go to the Computing Center and choose the stunts for the week's game. The machines would then run off an IBM card for each seat, indicating the color to hold up for each stunt."

Boehner said the first step would be to build a library of about 25 stunts. The council needs help in filling out the IBM forms, he said.

Boehner asked anyone interested in helping to check in at Room E of the University Center from 9 to 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday.

Cars Permitted Only After Finals

Any SIU student who wants to bring his car to Carbondale may do so only after his last scheduled examination, according to Joseph Zaleski, assistant dean of student affairs.

This applies to students who do not have stickers for their autos.

The only exception will be in case of emergency.

THETA XI WINNERS—The Justin Singers, a five-member folk-singing group, won the intermediate first-place trophy in this year's Theta Xi Variety Show. This was their first appearance as a group.

Rendleman Would Stop Tuition, Fee Charges, But State Board Majority Vetoes Suggestion

John Rendleman, SIU general counsel, in a minority opinion of his State Board of Higher Education committee, has advocated that the six state-supported universities discontinue charging tuition and fees.

Rendleman, who heads the Illinois Financing of Higher Education Committee, dissented from the majority report for these five reasons:

--Tuition and fees are not a significant source of income to a university;

--They are not needed to protect private institutions because the expected enrollment explosion should keep enrollment high at private institutions;

--There is no evidence that a student becomes more appreciative of his educational opportunities because of the economic burden thrust upon him;

--Society's benefit from the well-educated person is so great that it should be willing to pay the relatively small costs involved to prevent the loss of teachers, scientists, engineers, doctors, and others whose contributions are desperately needed; and

--The student assumes the greater proportion of the burden of his education because he must pay his living costs while in a period of financial nonproductivity.

Rendleman's committee is one of 10 appointed by the state board to prepare a master plan for submission to the 1965 session of the legislature.

The general counsel said that free education should be widened to include higher education in addition to the present system of free primary and secondary training.

Tuition and fees at the state-supported universities range from a low of $184.50 per year at SIU to a high of $270 at the University of Illinois.

Figaro Remarries

Singers in SIU Opera Trade Footlights for TV Spotlights

By Judy Roales
 Figaro (the cad) is a bigamist!
 He's being married all over again—this time on television. And he's encountering a whole new world of problems and challenges.
 Marjorie Lawrence's "young professional" opera singers have traded in the footlights for the overhead spots and have worked for the past two weeks at WSIU-TV putting "The Marriage of Figaro" on tape as a television feature.

The full length opera is being used, just as it was performed in Shryock Auditorium. The major difference in the two productions is a shift of emphasis from broad body movements to the subtler, more intimate acting required by the close up ability of the television camera.

"Opera is probably the most difficult of the arts to reproduce," Jack Gill, producer-director of the television opera, said, "because both dramatics and singing are required."

Because of the immediacy of television, the acting should be superior to what is required on stage. This is possible because the troupe have already had the experience of presenting the opera. Before the stage version they concentrated primarily on learning the music, and they feel sure of it. Now, for the first time, they have an opportunity to see themselves acting via television, and can thus concentrate on the dramatics. On stage there is plenty of room and the players perform to an immovable audience which is seated at least 40 feet away. Television, however, brings the audience into the players' laps and presents the scene from any angle by changing camera shots.

"The drama is intensified," Gill said, "because the camera can get in and work with faces."

"One of the problems has been teaching the players to work close together. On stage, three or four feet may be close, but on television that's like a city block."

This closeness to each other and to the audience means that for the first time, the singers can actually sing to each other and not to the audience.

"This is a problem because they must build up an interaction which was not necessary on stage. Subtle expressions become important; the lifted eyebrow, the tilted chin, the raised finger, the shrug of the shoulders will all show up on the screen."

Just how to handle the music for the opera has been another important question at TV.

"The orchestra," Gill explained, "is an integral part of opera, especially of 'Figaro.' A duet is often not a duet, but a trio—two singers and the orchestra. Therefore, there must be good musical balance." This is difficult in the large television studio. Networks have solved the problem in similar situations by recording both sections in sound perfect rooms. Then during the taping of a scene, the actors must match the movements of their mouths to the recorded music. The music is much better this way, but if the lip movements and the sound do not match exactly, the visual effect is bad.

It's a difficult trick, and for that reason Gill decided not to try it for this first television opera at SIU. Because of the limited space in the studio and the unavailability of the orchestra for the daily taping sessions, he decided to record the orchestral music, but to do the singing live.

SWEET TALK—Suzanna and Figaro are going through their operatic marriage again, this time for television. Denise Josten of Crete smiles as Joe McLanney of West Frankfort, cast in the title role, sings to her of marriage.

the first three acts with varying results. But requiring the people to be always near a microphone and clustering little groups around a mike limited the performance. So in act four, both voice and music were recorded.

The staging problems of "Figaro" on television, according to James Lash, staging director at WSIU-TV, were few but major. With only one or two exceptions, all the sets had to be rebuilt on a shorter scale which would not exceed a twelve foot height limit. The result was completely new sets, but ones which had to be similar to those used on stage so that they would not seem foreign to actors who had become accustomed to working with the original sets.

On stage the closest member of the audience was over 40 feet away. This meant that third dimensional details of scenery could be painted in. The close-up television work requires that the third dimension be built in, and hours of work went into tacking on mouldings and trimmings.

Several of the costumes had to be altered. All white had to be removed from the outfits since white reflects too much light. This meant, in particular, that a new wedding dress had to be made. White wigs had to be exchanged for colored ones; and, in one case, the actor's real hair was restyled to substitute for a wig which looked a little too artificial under the scrutiny of the camera.

And what happens to the tape when the nuptials are over? WSIU-TV and the Music Department have cooperated to make this pilot opera for television. If the finished product meets the standards both departments have set for it, plans will be made to make it available to all the educational television stations in the country. Through this circuit of educational stations, the taped opera has a potential audience of 125 million persons in all the major cities and small towns across the nation.

Marketing Professor's Book Printed in Fourth Language

A book co-authored by an SIU professor of marketing, David J. Luck, is being published this year in its fourth language.

The book, "Marketing Research," one of two leading marketing books in sales, was first published in English in 1961. In ensuing years it was printed in Spanish at Barcelona and in Japanese at Tokyo. This year it is being published in Italian in Rome. "Marketing Research," for use by college students and professionals, describes techniques and organization for solving marketing problems. Co-author of the book with Luck is Hugh Wales of the University of Illinois marketing department. Luck and Wales also are co-authors of a marketing research book published in 1952.

Associated Press News Roundup

Tahoe Plane Found; 85 On Board Dead

TAHOE VALLEY, Calif.,--Air searchers found the wreckage Monday of a four-engine plane where it crashed into a Sierra peak, east of Lake Tahoe, killing all 85 persons aboard.

A doctor, taken by helicopter to the remote scene at the 8,800 foot level of a snowy mountain, confirmed there were no survivors.

The Paradise Airlines Constellation vanished in a snowstorm Sunday while carrying 81 passengers to Nevada's casinos and ski resorts on a flight from San Jose, Calif.

Lt. Col. Alexander S. Sherry, deputy commander of the Western Air Rescue Center, Hamilton Air Force Base, told an airport news conference the wreckage was spotted just west of the hamlet of Genoa, Nev.

Just before the conference, a helicopter pilot told The Associated Press the wreckage was found 200 feet below the top of a rugged peak towering among those which rise up to 10,000 feet or more in the ski and gambling playland around Lake Tahoe.

The spotting helicopter was one of 17 which flew out Monday over the rugged wilderness scene near the site of the 1950 Squaw Valley winter Olympics.

A ground party in snow tractors headed for the wreckage.

Because of the weather conditions and the topography, there was no indication when the trip of more than 10 miles might be completed.

Senate Approves Peace Corps Bill

WASHINGTON--The Senate passed by voice vote Monday a bill authorizing a $115-million expenditure to finance an expansion of the Peace Corps during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The House is expected to act on the bill today or Wednesday.

The $115-million authorization, which is subject to a later appropriation to provide the actual money, contemplates an expansion of the Peace Corps from the present 7,300 to 14,000 volunteers sometime in 1965.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina --A fugitive Nazi accused of organizing mass killings to rid Hitler's Germany of mental and physical cripples has been arrested in Argentina, the government said Monday.

Dr. Gerhard Bohne, 61, fled West Germany last summer a few months before he was to go on trial as one of four major defendants in the Nazi euthanasia program which took 200,000 lives from 1939 to 1942.

The trial opened at Limburg, Germany, Feb. 18 with-out him.

New England Campaign Into Final Week

WASHINGTON--Sen. Barry Goldwater headed for New Hampshire Monday to open a six-day, last-week drive for the state's first-in-the-nation presidential primary.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the Arizona senator's chief announced opponent, returns to the Granite State Tuesday night for a solid week of campaigning before the balloting March 10.

Meanwhile, a Newsweek magazine poll revealed that Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, might whip both Goldwater and Rockefeller--if his name were on the New Hampshire ballot.

Supporters have been seeking write-in votes for Lodge and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon since neither is an announced candidate.

The New Hampshire ballot lists only Goldwater, Rockefeller, Maine Sen. Margaret Chase Smith and Harold E. Stassen.

Over the weekend, Goldwater gained 48 first-ballot votes from Republicans in North Carolina and Oklahoma, which became the first states to complete their convention delegations.

King Paul of Greece Suffers a Setback

ATHENS, Greece -- Ailing King Paul of Greece suffered a serious setback Monday and his doctors reported Monday night that his general condition is worsening.

The third medical bulletin of the day said: "The worsening of the condition of His Majesty the King, provoked by blood clots, is continuing."

U.N. Receives Resolution For Peace Force on Cyprus

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. - Brazil and four other nations submitted a resolution to the U.N. Security Council Monday proposing that an international peace force be sent to Cyprus for a three-month period.

The proposal also called for appointment of a mediator to help achieve a settlement of differences between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Brazilian Ambassador Carlos Alfredo Bernardes introduced the resolution at the Security Council session.

The resolution reportedly contained some modifications sought by Cyprus and Greece, but there was no assurance that it would win complete acceptance by either nation.

The chief stumbling block has been insistence by Cyprus on a guarantee of that country's territorial integrity, and by Turkey on a reference to the 1960 treaty under which Turkey, Greece and Britain have a right to intervene in Cyprus under certain conditions.

Brazil, Norway, Ivory Coast, Morocco and Bolivia worked out the final details of the resolution at a private conference.

Meanwhile, ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet and the Turkish navy began joint NATO maneuvers in the Aegean Sea.

A Greek naval strike force also was operating in the Aegean, officially on maneuvers, in 12 hours sailing time from Cyprus.

General MacArthur Is Hospitalized

WASHINGTON--Gen. of the Army, Douglas MacArthur, 84, flew here from New York Monday and was immediately taken to Walter Reed Hospital for "observation and evaluation of abdominal complaints."

The five-star general walked off the military airplane and entered a limousine which took him to the hospital.

Texas Districting Invalid, U.S. Supreme Court Rules

WASHINGTON -- The Supreme Court affirmed Monday a decision that Texas statutes establishing the state's 23 congressional districts are unconstitutional.

The high court said its decision was without prejudice to the right of state officials to apply, by April 1, to the U.S. District Court in Houston for "further equitable relief in light of present circumstances."

The circumstances, the Supreme Court said, include "the imminence of the forthcoming election and the operation of the election machinery of Texas noted previously by the federal District Court in Houston in an opinion."

The high tribunal also ordered continued a stay in the case granted by Justice Hugo L. Black on Oct. 23, 1963.

This stay, the court ordered, will continue "pending timely application" for the relief mentioned previously and the final disposition of the case by the federal District Court in Houston.

The Houston court, in a 2-1 decision, had found the Texas districts invalid.

The Texas case involves the contention raised in many other states--that present districting favors rural voters over city voters.

The Supreme Court ruled two weeks ago, in a Georgia congressional districting case, that congressional districts must represent the same number of voters, as far as is practicable.

CHILD CARE—Play therapy, a technique used by the Cooperative Clinical Services Center, is given by SIU Psychologist Donald I. Shoemaker to the child to discover emotional problems.

Aid in Mental, Physical Problems Given to Over 1,000 at SIU Clinic

For more than a thousand persons annually, a quiet service center at SIU is a source of help in a wide range of mental and physical problems—help they might not otherwise receive. Known as the Cooperative Clinical Services Center, the SIU unit at the same time serves as a practical laboratory for students in various areas of counseling, therapeutics and diagnostics. Moved earlier this year from temporary quarters into Southern's new Wham Education Building, the center began in 1958 when nine separate clinical agencies on the campus were combined into one centralized office. The oldest, the child guidance clinic, dates back to 1939. Combining the clinics has provided easier accessibility to the public, according to Alden M. Hall, center manager. And service to the public is a basic purpose of the center. It offers to SIU students and faculty, as well as to anyone else who needs them, such services as speech and hearing therapy, marriage counseling, psychotherapy and vocational counseling. Services are provided to students and faculty members without charge, except for a nominal fee for physical therapy. Others who can afford it pay, Hall said, but no one is turned away for lack of funds.

Last year, 1,061 persons were received by the center. More than half were non-University people, the majority coming from the surrounding southern Illinois area. Some came from neighboring states.

The clinic draws upon various academic units of the University for its staff. Professional marriage counselors, for example, are provided by the Sociology Department, while medical staff members are drawn from the University Health Service.

Treatment facilities double as laboratories for advanced students in such fields as psychology, rehabilitation and social work. Students often confer with patients under direct faculty supervision.

Public Seminar Will Discuss How to Improve Personality

A day-long public seminar slated for next month will consider suggestions for women on improving personality, public relations, appearance and performance on the job. The workshop is presented by the SIU Technical and Adult Education Division and the Evansville Chapter of the National Secretaries Association. It is scheduled for March 14 in the Library Auditorium and Ballroom B in the University Center. Theme of the seminar will be "Building Personality, Public Relations and Performance." Registration is free for VTI students and SIU staff members. High school students will pay $2.50 and adults $3.50. A luncheon is included in the price of the ticket. Registration should be mailed by March 9 to H.B. Bauernfeind, assistant dean of the division of Technical and Adult Education. On the program will be Gene Cook, director of Central Service at Meade-Johnson in Evansville, Ind., discussing "The Secretary Builds Public Relations;" Susan Butler speaking on "A More Charming You," and Art Rowland of the Dale Carnegie Institute in Evansville, Ind., talking on "Speaking for Results." Mary Walker, supervisor of the SIU Stenographic Service, will suggest "Short Cuts in Office Procedures" and Don West of West Frankfort will speak on "What Does Your Handwriting Tell?" Registration is scheduled for 9 a.m. in the Morris Library Auditorium. The seminar will be over about 4 p.m.

Geologist Awarded More Research Aid

David Nicol, associate professor of geology at SIU, has received a $3,700 grant from the National Science Foundation to continue a research project started in 1960. The grant, added to an original NSF award of $13,500, will help Nicol complete a study of bivalved mollusks—such things as clams and oysters—collected on trips to the Antarctic during the summers of 1960 through 1962. Nicol, a native of Ottawa, Canada, came to SIU in 1958 from the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., where he was an associate curator of invertebrate fossils. He holds master's and Ph. D. degrees from Stanford University.

Cafeteria Confiscates Tickets 'Out of Blue'

One day last month we went to the Roman Room for our weekly Sunday dinner, meal tickets in hand. When we reached the checker we were asked to present our SIU identification cards. One student's name did not correspond with the name on the meal ticket he carried. The ticket was confiscated and the student turned away rather rudely. We discovered that many other students were experiencing the same problem.

We will now state the question: why, out of the blue, were these meal tickets confiscated? We note that the meal contract states it is their prerogative to check identification in conjunction with meal tickets. To quote: "Meal tickets along with identification cards must be presented to the Food Checker at each meal. No meals will be served without these two identifications."

We do not question the validity of this clause, but would like to point out that in the five months previous that we had eaten at the University Center, not once had an identification check been made.

You may wonder why so many students were turned away that day. Some who purchase meal tickets would decide to go home for the weekend, and sell their tickets for perhaps $3-$4 to some one without a meal contract. (Remember, this ticket is paid for, and Slater has the money.) Some students who cannot afford weekly contracts might take advantage of this to get their only well-balanced meal of the week.

Because they could not afford the $14 weekly, other students might split the cost of a meal ticket and split the meals eaten. This would introduce some well-balanced meals into their diet, even if the rest of their meals consisted of hamburgers and cokes.

In neither case did anyone intend to defraud Slater Food Service. It seems to us that this is just another method of strengthening their control of the cafeteria monopoly.

Again--remember these meal tickets were fully paid for. Were we that much in the wrong? We desire an explanation.

Russ Blais
Fred Rood
John Guleserian

Clarence G. Dougherty, University Center director, offered this explanation: Weekly 20-meal contracts of fresh students are estimated $16-$18 in meals for $14.

University Center Food Service must show a profit, which is applied toward operating expenses for the Center and toward a $320,000 annual debt payment on the structure. Sales of meal contracts enable the Center to realize some savings because with some contract-guaranteed sales it is easier to predict how many persons will be served at each meal. The Center frankly counts on absenteeism to lower the number of meals served--if everyone of the 150-200 students who purchases meal tickets were to eat all 20 meals each week, expenses would increase again.

Since the incident mentioned, more regular checks of identification have been instituted.

Managing the news is much like trying to manage a woman. It can't be done for any great length of time.

Debaters Seeking Victory -- Not Truth

I recently had a very enlightening conversation with an articulate member of the Southern Illinois University debating team.

Perhaps this is merely testimony to a deplorable naivete, but I was astonished to learn that it is standard practice in debating teams deliberately to seek to increase the skill of their members in dissembling, statistics-juggling, reversing position on an issue of principle, virtually on signal, adducing misleadingly selective evidence, manipulating data and quoting out of context, all in the interest of winning debates.

The question which urged itself most strongly upon me when I learned this was: What is an activity like this doing in a university, where, presumably, truth is our primary goal.

I understand the usefulness of such training as this in the law curriculum, for in courtrooms this kind of verbal agility has long been the norm, but then, I would suggest, let the law curricula cultivate their own vices, and let us withdraw university sanction immediately from such corruption of the principles to which the university is dedicated.

The ability to take any side of any issue, on request, undoubtedly a cherished one in certain circles, seems to me to smack too much of prostitution to be a suitable object of university sponsorship. I'd like to see other comments on this.

IRVING DILLIARD

Chicago's American

The 'Monkey Wrench' Bills

We Americans tend to go by fits and starts. We blow hot and then cold. We get steamed up and then let the steam die down. We especially act this way in public affairs.

Just a year ago almost nobody could be bothered about the scheme to slip over the "monkey wrench" amendments which would have altered the fundamental relationships between the states and the federal union. These three proposals would create a 50-state super-"Court of the Union", authorized to override the Supreme Court on certain matters, bar the federal courts from jurisdiction in state legislative apportionment, and change the constitutional amending process so as to eliminate action in Congress. Almost unnoticed these three assaults on our Constitution started thru the state legislatures.

Irving Dilliard

Lawyer Prodded Nation

Under the prodding of a veteran battler for legal reforms within the ranks of the American Bar association, Arthur J. Freund of St. Louis, the country began to wake up. Eminent judges, law professors and legal scholars, newspaper writers, specialists in government, in colleges and universities and public study groups grew concerned. Here and there a bar group stirred and in June the first public debate was held under the auspices of the Madison county [Ill.] Bar Association.

The progress of the proposals slowed down and at least New Jersey, after approving, rescinded its action. The legislators went home, the year ended and now people could hardly care less again. Yet 22 legislatures are meeting in regular session this year and the "monkey wrench" amendments might be approved in some of them almost without attention.

But now there is no agency even to keep track of this plan to subvert our historic federal union. The Council of State Governments, headquarters in Chicago, has stepped out of the picture. While this is gratifying to many friends of the C. S. G., presumably it means that there will be no national scoreboard for keeping track of approvals or rejections.

Where Are Volunteers

This is a nation of more than 180 million people. We have hundreds of colleges and universities, many with schools or departments of political science or institutes on government. What on earth interests them if not a single one will volunteer to keep track of this fever chart on what Mr. Freund rightly calls our "national health?"

Even now no one knows for certain how many states have approved which of the three proposals. One of them has been approved by at least 13 states, another by at least 12. Apparently Arkansas, Alabama, Florida, and perhaps South Carolina have blessed all three. Illinois passed the one to weaken the amending process.

If one citizen could do a large part of the job, at his own expense, last year, surely there is somewhere a national civic organization or a college or university that can take over on a systematic basis and report to the American people. If there isn't, we are in a bad fix indeed!

Woods Hits 60-Foot Mark In Kalamazoo Track Meet

In shot putting, 60 feet is equivalent to a four-minute mile in track, a .300 batting average in baseball, or a 20-point-per-game basketball average.

George Woods hit the charmed circle in sports Saturday night in the Central Collegiate Conference track meet at Kalamazoo, Mich., when he threw the shot 60 feet, 7 1/2 inches.

It was the longest toss in Woods' injury-prone career and it set a new meet record. However, the rest of the Saluki track team wasn't as successful, as Western Michigan won the team championship for the second year in a row with 104 points.

Notre Dame finished a distant second with 58 points, SIU was third with 33, followed by Drake with 19 and Wayne State with 11.

Bill Cornell was the only other winner for the Salukis, as the Briton took home two blue ribbons in the mile and half-mile events. Cornell's mile time was a good 4:10.6 and his half-mile time was a 1:53.7.

Notre Dame's Bill Boyle set a meet record in the quarter, as he turned in a 48.7 mark. Gary Carr and Jerry Fendrich finished third and fourth behind Boyle.

Bob Wheelwright took second in the 300-yard run, while Herb Walker finished third at 1,000 yards. Jack Peters and Bill Lindsey finished fourth and fifth in the 600.

The varsity relay team could only muster a third place while the freshman relay team recorded a second in freshman competition.

John Jaeger ran a 4:20 mile to finish second in that freshman event.

Herman Gary was unable to compete because of a pulled leg muscle.

Compardo Takes Free Throw Lead

The men's intramural free throw tournament moves into its final round this week, with the top men from each league battling for the campus championship.

After the second round, or 50 shots, Fred Compardo holds a five-shot lead over his nearest opponent. Compardo has made 49 of his shots.

Following Compardo in the top 10 after 50 shots are John Van Mill and Harry Bobbitt with 44; Morris Ritzel and Larry Schaaque with 42; Dallas Thompson and John Haddock with 41; and John Hackett, Ron Baker, Charles Arns and Alan Peludat all tied with 40.

Evansville Threatens to Take Title From Defending Salukis

Some say that lightning can't strike twice. Southern's basketball team is out to disprove that theory.

The Salukis will try to strike Evansville College right off the face of the NCAA small college championships for the second straight year, but first they must overcome a small but tough roadblock.

The fireworks get underway Thursday night at 7 o'clock in Roberts Stadium where the Salukis will clash with 16th-ranked Ball State in the opening game of the Great Lakes Regional at Evansville.

In order to get to the host Aces, who are meeting little Jackson (Miss.) State in the feature at 9 o'clock, the Salukis will have to first defeat the Cardinals.

SIU and Ball State haven't met this year but the two clubs won one each in two encounters last year. The Salukis dropped the first one, 73-68 but came on strong in the second clash to hand the Cards an 85-73 loss.

5 Students Pay Automobile Fines

The Office of Student Affairs has taken final action on five students accused of motor vehicle violations.

A 20-year-old sophomore from Stratford, Conn., who had piled up four traffic violations this year was assessed $10 and ordered to take the automobile home between terms. He has lost his motor vehicle privileges as an undergraduate.

Four students were each assessed $50 for illegally possessing automobiles. Each lost his undergraduate motor vehicle privileges and each was ordered to take the car home. The four were a 19-year-old freshman from Aurora, a 24-year-old senior from Jacksonville, a 22-year-old senior from Virden and a 19-year-old from Pana.

The Cards, who have posted a 17-6 record this year, boast one of the top small college players in the country, 6-6 Ed Butler. He is not only the Cardinals' top point getter, but he is Ball State's all time top rebounder.

Butler was a thorn in the Salukis side last year, and with the loss of Southern's top rebounder Lloyd Stovall, Butler might drive the thorn a little deeper.

Upset in Still Rings Highlights Gymnasts' Defeat of Michigan

Saluki Chuck Ehrlich's sparkling upset victory in the still rings highlighted SIU's 65-47 gymnastics triumph over Michigan State before a packed house here in Men's Gymnasium Friday night.

The undefeated Saluki gymnasts swept five of seven blue ribbons and tied for another as they registered their ninth dual meet victory of the season and 27th straight since 1961. Michigan State was the last team to defeat Southern.

Ehrlich, a senior and co-captain from Dayton, Ohio, handed Michigan State's heralded Dale Cooper, defending NCAA still rings champion, his first loss in 26 contests by edging him 95 to 94.5 in the event.

Senior and cocaptain Rusty Mitchell, West Covina, Calif., once again paced the Saluki effort and led all scorers with two firsts in the free exercise and tumbling, a tie for the top spot in the parallel bars, and a second place in the side horse.

Other SIU first places came in the side horse by Steve Pasternak and high bar by Junior Bill Wolf.

Spartan John Noble took first place in the trampoline and his teammate, Jim Curzi, tied Mitchell for first in the parallel bars.

second leading scorer and is Ball State's most accurate shooter. He holds the school record with a .563 percentage.

Other possible front liners for coach Jim Hinga's squad are 6-3 Stan Neal, 6-1 Jerry Lanich, 6-3 Ron Latham, 6-4 Bob Heady and 6-3 Dick Reedy.

The Cardinals have met the Purple Aces twice, dropping both games, 98-92 and 90-83. The Aces handed the Salukis a 93-74 defeat.

As always, Southern Illinois University students have preference at Akwesasne and Little Giant. However, we must notify applicants from other schools of our summer needs. They must have time to secure employment elsewhere if they cannot be hired at Little Grassy.

Consequently, all applications from SIU students should be made prior to April 1st.

SWIMMING POOL, TOO—Construction of a three-story girls' dormitory is underway at the corner of Forest and Freeman streets by the Freeman Land Trust. Included in the plans is a swimming pool. The project is one of many which is a part of the trend toward providing recreation facilities for residents.

Plans Total $10 Million

Luxurious Off-Campus Housing To Boast Carpeting, Swim Pools

Swimming pools, tennis courts, carpeted rooms and air conditioning are in the plans to help make off-campus housing more attractive and comfortable for SIU students.

Such recreation facilities and added comforts are included in the plans for more than $10 million of off-campus housing, presently in the planning or construction stages in Carbondale, by private developers.

"There is a new concept in building which is concerned beyond providing the students with a four-walled shelter," noted Mrs. Anita Kuo, supervisor of off-campus housing.

Housing developers are now thinking in terms not only of good buildings, she explained, but of providing lounge areas and recreation facilities to care for the student's leisure.

The theory is similar to that adopted by the Thompson Point Residence Halls, that of the fusion of living and learning.

"As long as the student enjoys these comforts and they meet the students' needs, we're pleased," replied Mrs. Kuo concerning the University's policy toward the building trend.

"Housing policy requires adequate recreation areas," she said, "but we don't require swimming pools."

Washington Prof Lectures Today

A guest speaker from the University of Washington is appearing at SIU under the auspices of the Forestry Department.

He is Stanley P. Gessel, professor of forest soils at Washington.

He spoke to forestry classes Monday and at a meeting of the SIU Forestry Club Monday evening.

At noon today he will speak in Room 168 of the Agriculture Building on "Mineral Nutrition of Forest Trees."

The meetings are sponsored by the forestry department in cooperation with the Society of American Foresters and the National Science Foundation.

One of the most noteworthy examples now in the planning stage is the construction of a $2 million dormitory project on East College Street, east of South Wall Street.

The development, to be known as University City, will consist of six identical three-story buildings, which will house 960 students.

In addition to air conditioning and carpeted rooms, the plans call for a swimming pool with sun deck and lounge area, two tennis courts and areas provided for basketball and volley ball.

At least one other off-campus house, a girls' dorm on West Freeman, has plans for the construction of a swimming pool. Vast open areas, not defined for specific uses, are in the making in several other off-campus units.

Because of the size of some of the projects, they must be located some distance from

Students Present Recital at Shryock

A student recital by Sally AuBuchon, flute, and James R. Wilcox, clarinet, will be presented Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

Susan Caldwell will play the piano accompaniment.

The musical selections featured are:

Wolfgang Mozart: Concerto No. 2 in D, Allegro Aperto, Andante ma non troppo, Allegro, Miss AuBuchon, flute.

Paul Jean Jean: Scherzo Brillante, Wilcox. Charles Griffes: Poem for Flute and Orchestra, Miss AuBuchon.

This recital is being presented by Miss AuBuchon and Mr. Wilcox in partial fulfillment of the degree of Bachelor of Music Education.

Baseball Boys to Meet

SIU baseball coach Abe Martin has called a meeting of all freshman baseball candidates at 9:05 p.m. Wednesday in room 203 of the Men's Gym.

the campus, thus necessitating the provision for facilities within each housing unit.

Such an example is a $6 million project to be located on the edge of Carbondale. Construction has begun on the three-year project, which includes plans for recreation areas, including tennis courts.

University housing is also keeping with the trend of recreation provisions. Plans for several recreation areas in parts of the campus within walking distance of living areas are before President Delyte W. Morris.

The areas are on the campus master plan, according to Willard Hart, associate University architect, and will be built as demanded and as funds are made available by the state legislature.

University Park, the new housing area developing east of the Illinois Central tracks has plans for six tennis courts, as well as 12 play areas, to be located within one-to-two-hundred yards of the buildings. These areas will also be used as play fields for women, and as instructional areas by the University.

Plans are also underway at Thompson Point for the construction of all-purpose recreation courts, including facilities for basketball and tennis.

Facilities are also being considered for other living areas, including the family housing area, Small Group Housing and other strategic locations on campus, according to Hart.

Hart had no prediction as to when the various areas would be available. But he said they were included in the long-range plans for the University.

All-University Council Opposes Fee Hike for Both Campuses

Any increase in student fees to pay for construction of a proposed health clinic and recreation buildings on the Carbondale campus should not effect students at the southwestern campuses, the All-University Student Council recommended Saturday.

If University statutes require that fees at the two campuses be equal, the Board of Trustees should amend the statutes, the Council recommended.

"At this time the policy of the University is based on the philosophy that the two campuses are one. However, there are definite differences between the two," said Jim Greenwood, a Carbondale member. "These differences should be recognized and defined. This is necessary so growth of one campus won't be hindered by that of the other."

The Council also recommended extension of library hours at the Alton and East St. Louis centers and announced it will establish an annual outstanding student award on the two campuses. Procedure will be released soon on application for the new award, Greenwood said.

The award would honor one student on each campus for maintaining a high academic average while participating extensively in activities. The Council expects to make its first presentation this spring. Library hours at Alton and East St. Louis should be increased so they are similar to Morris Library's 95.5 hour weekly schedule, the Council recommended.

Evansville Buses Planned for Game

The Southern Spirit Council will sponsor two buses to the SIU-Evansville, Ind., basketball game Thursday.

Students who want to ride the bus may sign up anytime in the Student Activities Office. Buses will leave SIU about 4 p.m. Thursday. Bus tickets are $1.
