Student Senators Dissatisfied With Morris' 'Attitude'

By John Epperheimer

Several members of the Student Senate have expressed dissatisfaction with some views of President Deluye W. Morris and his attitude in dealing with the Senate.

The senators gave their opinions Wednesday at the conclusion of the regular Senate meeting. They were referring to a retreat they held with Morris last Sunday at Little Cayuse Lake. The retreat was not open to the public.

Student body president Ray Lenzi opened the discussion by saying he thought Morris took a "fallacious position" on the question of women's hours. He said Morris stated that consideration of a change in women's hours regulations must "go through channels."

Including the Faculty Council, Graduate Council, University Council, vice president, dean of students and Morris.

Lenzi said other universities in the state, particularly Illinois State University, have simply made the changes through the dean of students, and he advocated such a procedure at SIU.

"When the administration wants change they don't send it through all the channels, they don't take a real heavy concern for process. But it generally seems that when students want change, the whole matter of procession comes very important," Lenzi said.

... I think this represents a bad faith attitude on the part of the administration," Lenzi continued.

"President Morris is unalterably opposed to students controlling their own activity fees. What that means is he's not for people controlling their own money," Lenzi said.

Lenzi said the Senate should present to the University Council within the next few weeks proposals for students controlling activity fees, rules for student conduct, and social rules.

Lenzi charged that Senators at the retreat did not "feel like it" in regard to their views on issues. He said some of them were "kowtowing" to what Morris said.

"Morris in jest the most uncompromising man that can be... he just won't give an inch and that's it...," said Senator Gary Krischer, (Continued on Page B).

Drafted Grad May Resume

Studies at Termination Point

Graduate students taken away from their studies by the military draft will be able to re-enter SIU at whatever point they had to leave school, the dean of the Graduate School said.

William Simeone, dean of Graduate Studies and Research, commented on the problems facing an able-bodied male graduate student who receives a draft call. The dean said his remarks were intended particularly for graduate students in their first year of study and current seniors who plan to study in the graduate field.

"In case the students have to leave the campus, I wish to assure them they will be welcome back to the Graduate School, and can re-enter at whatever point they had to stop," Simeone said.

"Hopefully, the student involved will be able to fulfill the term in which he is enrolled," he added. But if the case, he should withdraw officially from the school, giving his reason for departure and his status at the time he leaves. He also should contact the Graduate School as soon as he knows he is returning."

Dean Simeone said he and others in his office will be glad to talk with any students who want to discuss their particular situations.
A coroner's jury of six members ruled Wednesday the death of John Fligg, 26, an SIU student from Lombard, was due to shock from hemorrhaging caused by a .32-caliber bullet. The jury concluded that Fligg was shot by William Barton Webb Jr., of Makanda about 9:10 p.m., Jan. 20, in the Veterans of Foreign Wars club, 217 E. Main St., in Carbondale. Webb was tend- ing bar at the club the night of the shooting.

Fligg died at 10:40 p.m., that night at Doctors Memorial Hospital.

The jury ruled that:
- Webb asked Fligg to leave the club.
- Webb escorted Fligg to the rear door of the club.
- Fligg had a beer bottle in his hand at the time he entered the club.
- Webb had a gun in his hand.

Testimony was presented to the jury by Carbondale Police- man Bill Stone and Ray Dar-nell, and Ronald Miller, a 22-year-old SIU student, Miller said he was at the club at the time of the shooting.

Stone said there were no eye-witnesses to the shooting. The jury recommended Webb be turned over to a grand jury. He has been charged with voluntary manslaughter and involuntary manslaughter. He was re- leased under $1,500 bond. Webb attended the inquest but did not testify.

A dinner show by Harry Flynn, Jackson County Cor- oner, allowed the shooting took place on an enclosed ramp leading to the rear exit of the club.

Draft to Alter Programs

Due to the recent changes in draft deferment policies, the prospect for graduate programs at SUU is an increase in the proportion of women and foreign students, according to several academic administrators.

Anxiety about the draft may lower the quality of work done by the remaining eligible male grade students, it was suggested.

Gordon F. Pitt, acting chairman of the Department of Psychology, declared the new draft policy will "seriously interfere with both the undergraduate and graduate programs on campus." According to Pitt, at least two-thirds of the 23 first-year grad students in psychology are likely to be drafted. He anticipated a sharp increase in the proportion of women in the department, on the basis of the large percentage of female applicants for next year. The total number of applicants has decreased, he said, due to uncertainty about deferments.

Wotiz said effects of the new policy will be felt for at least the next two years, and added that the department may never recover entirely, due to the difficulty of returning to the academic level even after a lengthy absence. He thinks the decrease in deferments "will discourage a great many students who would have gone on to graduate school from ever continuing their education.

Lewis Hahn, director of graduate studies in philosophy, cited the uncertainty and anxiety created by the new deferment policy, particularly regarding the new male grad student. He said 17 of the 31 students admitted for fall will be eligible for the draft, and that approximately two-thirds of all philosophy grad students, currently numbering 60, will be eligible. Students now working on a bachelor's degree can probably move on immediately to graduate school, but recent entries in the master's program may have difficulty finishing, said Maurice Ogur, chairman of the Department of Microbiology.

He said the department could compensate by accepting more of the numerous foreign and female applicants. "How many will be accepted or which procedure we will follow depends on the committee studying applications," Ogur said. Terming the new draft regulations "awful," John Wotiz, chairman of the Department of Chemistry, stated: "It will affect us considerably. We're very apprehensive about it. We'd hoped it could be resolved in a better way." Wotiz said the department might have to lower its graduate standards, due to the relatively few women available in the sciences and the language barrier faced by foreign students.

If this results in a shortage, Wotiz added, "we hope the University will provide funds to hire full-time personnel to take over the responsibilities of the student assistants."

Robert Mohlenbrock, chairman of the Department of Botany, said his department will be affected most by the loss of students who go directly from undergraduate to graduate work.

"About half the people now in our graduate program were out for a couple of years teaching and such. Those people probably will be affected," he said, adding that few students go directly into the chairman's graduate program.

Not all departments are hanging black crop, however. The Department of Art had 260 inquiries last year at this time and now has about 290, according to Chairman Herbert Pink.

"Realistically, about half of the inquiries are serious and about half are shopping," Fink said.

"You can't say how it will affect the program until fall," he continued. "Most of the students apply in good faith, but you don't know if the bodies will show up."

Merry-Go-Round

Here we go again on the merry-go-round of the nation's railroads, the carousel of "we don't want to carry passengers because there is no money in it."

The recent announcement of the midnight closing of the Carbondale station of the Illinois Central Railroad is just another chapter of the same old story.

Obviously, it is thought that if railroads can make it inconvenient for passengers to use the trains, the people will turn to other means of transportation and more and more passenger service can be phased out in the blessings of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

So now we only get passenger coaches between Carbondale and St. Louis discontinued, but we also have to spend the hours between and Nazis both appear outside the station which will be closed from midnight until 7 a.m.

Hold on, here comes the killer. We now have to have our tickets purchased in advance for early morning trains.

Practically, this means that students taking the trains leaving Carbondale after midnight (there are six trains running during the closed hours) will have to pay a cash fare to the conductor.

Without a ticket, the student will not be able to check his baggage. He will have to keep his belongings with him in the coach.

This also means that anyone who arrives in Carbondale on the 12:15 a.m. train will be kept standing outside until the train which originates here for St. Louis at 4:05 a.m. is in.

Here comes another curve. What happens to the passenger going to St. Louis if the trains are discontinued after the I.C. hearing May 20?

The railroad executive who said that a pig can ride the train from the Midwest to New York City without making one change while a passenger with baggage has to change five times in the same city is grossly mistaken.

The public is being taken in by collaboration between the government and the railroad.

It is obvious that surveys which will be taken are going to show that the people ride trains less and less, while the pigs continue to get the consideration.

Pigs, if they can, would side with the railroad and the government.

I am concerned with the behavior of certain persons at recent speech given by Mr. Matt Koehl, head of the American Nazi Party.

While I do not agree with his ideas, I do believe that he should be treated with the respect which would be given to any other person invited to speak on our campus.

Dick Gregory was not heckled or boosed as was Mr. Koehl. He was also allowed to finish his speech.

I realize that the threat of violence was present, but it was percent only because certain people were too immature or prejudiced to act in a rational manner.

Freedom of speech is a two-way proposition and should be accorded to others even if we don't believe in what the persons are advocating.

Not only do we have freedom of speech, but also the freedom to listen or not listen as we see fit.

Because no one was compelled to attend the speech, I don't believe that the actions of the disorderly persons were justified.

Totalitarianism of Radicals

To the Daily Egyptian:

The visit to SLU by the leader of the American Nazi Party gives one pause to reconsider an "ideal" of the new radicalism. What appeared to be a sample of the group was present. They gave, I think, indications of what kind of society they would have, if they ruled.

Interestingly, they would not be in favor of free speech. For a group which espouses so vehemently the cry of "freedom for the American people," is somewhat paradoxical.

The remarkable intolerance of a large number of those persons present raises a serious question as to whether the University should bring in future controversial speakers for the promotion of a learning situation.

It was obvious that many of those present already knew what the speaker had to say, and were not interested in his polemics. It is perhaps less obvious that if this were the case, then there is no cure with the blessings of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

But then, is it so remarkable that people sometimes know in advance to display an intolerance of difference? Or is this merely another indication of a future totalitarian mob? A mob in which one may speak, if one has to, in agreement with the mob's ideals.

Two-Bit Liberals

To the Daily Egyptian:

God save us from the two-bit liberals, those self-proclaimed superiors of those who condemn censorship and mouth praise of free speech.

The denial of a Nazi's civil liberties, the denial of his right of freedom of speech by people who demand the same rights for themselves indicates the distance our so-called liberals must go to reach maturity and true liberalism.

I recall hearing the late Norman Lincoln Lincoln Rockefeller speak on Lafayette Square, before the White House, one Saturday morning in 1960. He ridiculed the peace picketers who paraded on Pennsylvania Avenue that morning and attached their right to express their political beliefs.

Our two-bit liberals have followed the teachings and example of Nazi Rockwell by denying his successor the right of free speech.

Machines Will Get Us Soon

As everyone knows, the machines are after us and it won't be long before they get us.

The latest alarming news comes from the Patent Office, where ever more inventors are filing ever more menacing approximations of the human brain in electronic form.

Two engineers from Missouri have shown that electronic circuits can learn, forget and make decisions based on what they've learned, just like the rest of us.

A British subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph has a machine that can explore its environment through photocells and react to what it finds. The inventors believe that by building in a system of rewards, punishments and inhibitions their machine can be made to exercise foresight.

Worst of all, however, is the brain-child of Dr. Arnold Treubel of Amherst, Mass. He has a machine that grows its own electrical connections in imitation of the idea-association we all do all the time. What makes it intolerable is that his machine can learn from experience. If that is true, the machines will be closer already.

Something Stronger in Germany

By Antero Piettila

Of all conspiracies, the conspiracy of mind is the most dangerous as it is not an alleged, but a too real and all-encompassing one.

In the summer of 1964, this writer interviewed a woman in New York whose one-person crusade against communism was acclaimed by one New York Daily News columnist.

Her message then was that not only were the Kennedy and Eisenhower brothers communists, but that the real leader of this "international conspiracy" revealed to her was the then U.S. Senator, Barry Morton Goldwater.

Matt Koehl was here this week and proved to be not Matt Helm. The latter-day Fuehrer was, after all, a paper tiger, too vulnerable not because of the alleged worldwide Judeo-communist conspiracy he fought but because of the utter absurdity of his own message of racial hate. It was only too sad to see this Don Quixote be interrupted by the false belief of the NPD members.

Many students of German politics advise against paying much attention to the NPD. But even they are unable to deny that the party is getting stronger all the time in spite of the leadership struggle it experienced last year. In 1965, the NPD scored 2.5 per cent of the vote in state elections in Hesse and slightly more in Bavaria; a year later the vote was up to seven per cent. Last year it got a vote of six to eight per cent in various state elections.

Political interest is now focused on Baden-Wuerttemberg where elections will be held in April. Whatever the result of this election, the crucial test for NPD will be the 1969 federal elections.

Nobody really knows how many seats the NPD will be able to win in Bundestag (Federal Assembly). Estimates now vary between 0.6 and 15 per cent, but even 5 per cent of the total of 499 would be a real shock. It is a thrilling gain from a start of nil.

According to studies conducted in Germany, 60 per cent of NPD followers are men and they are usually between 45 and 60 years of age.

The support of the party came initially from farmers and artisans, but unemployment reportedly also has driven workers to the party ranks in the Ruhr area.

The NPD exploits the psychological effects of the division of Germany. It unendingly preaches the "Wiedervereinigung" (reunification) and has large following among people originating from Czechoslovakia's Sudenland and regions that are now under the Polish rule.

"Deutsche National und Soldaten Zeitung" (German National and Military Press), a weekly, closely following the NPD line, is on sale throughout Europe. Its anti-Semitic tone is hardly recognizable.

During the Mideast war last June it backed the Arab cause and accused the Israelis of massacre as many feared, and expressed thirst in the desert of Sinai. But presently the Jews have been rare; never does it speak about the "worldwide Judeo-communist conspiracy" that is Matt Koehl's favorite theme. The paper constantly degrades and vitriolizes history writing of World War II and devotes an unending space to "plotting" with the Soviet Union against the German reunification.

Some Germans condemn what they consider a "planned smear campaign" against the NPD. They claim there is only one nationalistic one without any ties to the Nazi past.

But Baldur von Schirach, after spending more than two decades in the prison of Spanish atrocity, could have said he probably believed in what they called their democratic reunification. But I didn't say that because I know too well the distinction between an alleged and actual reality."

Goldwater Vs. ???

By Paul Corcoran

PHOENIX, Ariz.— Four years after he ran for the presidency of the United States, Barry M. Goldwater is getting ready for another political campaign this time in a bid to return to the U.S. Senate.

It is unlikely that Goldwater will be running against 90-year-old Sen. Carl Hayden, the senior member of Congress and a longtime colleague and friend, Hayden has not yet made known his plans. The odds in Washington and Arizona seem to be against another race for the Senate, but still politically powerful solon.

Goldwater was first elected to the Senate in 1952. A contest with Hayden, with whom he served until his resignation to run for president in 1964, would be trying for both men.

Arizona Republicans have never fired all their guns at Hayden, who in turn has stayed out of partisan politics.

If Hayden doesn't run, his top administrator and aide, and probably will. Goldwater would be an overwhelming favorite over anyone but Hayden and, presumably, also would be picked to beat the Senate presidential to turn on the age issue if for no other reason.

Having unforeseeable change, Goldwater will run regardless of whom the Democrats nominate.

He liked being a U.S. senator and his devotion to the conservative cause led him to give up his Senate seat to run against President Johnson. His closest associates insisted this was true and to public utterance seems to dispute it.

The Senate gave Goldwater a platform for his views and an opportunity to work on what interests him most, particularly issues in state and national level.

The political climate in Arizona couldn't be more different than it was 20 years ago when Goldwater was getting his political feet wet as a city councilman. It was a nonpartisan office but, as an elective post offered opportunities to show he was effective as a campaigner and speaker.

Long a Democrat state, Arizona had few Republicans in elective office, the early years of the Eisenhower administration.

Today, the Republicans control both houses of the legislature and for the first time in history, they have their greatest strength in areas of greatest population, in and around Phoenix and Tucson.

The governor, Jack Williams, is a Republican.

As a former GOP presidential candidate, Goldwater can be expected to be in demand as a campaigner on the national level in the months ahead.

If he does not have Hayden as a rival in the race, with GOP voter registration, it seems probable he will be able to afford that time out of the state despite his Senate bid.

But that effort to return to the Senate is of top priority for Goldwater. And he can be expected to sit out the Arizona race as he feels is necessary to win.

Convos Speaker UFOs Traced to Bible Era

The first report of "flying saucers" can be traced to passages from the Bible, said James Moseley, expert on unidentified-flying objects, at Thursday's Convocation Series.

Moseley cited the Bible and Charles Fort, a well-known author on the subject, as two sources from which one might draw information regarding UFO's.

The term "flying saucer" originated from an incident which occurred in 1947, Moseley said. Pilot Kenneth Arnold sighted a group of nine objects travelling at approximately 1,000 m.p.h. In an interview with the press following these sightings, Arnold referred to the objects as "saucers," thus leading to the term "flying saucer."

Moseley presented information behind the "little men" stories which have gained such fame in recent years. Moseley said that in Frank Scully's book, "Behind the Flying Saucers," can be found accounts of sightings of "little men" from outer space.

According to Moseley, the "little men" are not green, however; he does believe in the stories due to their great numbers and similarity.

Moseley concluded by saying that although these creatures might exist, there is no proof of people actually communicating with them.

Romania Walks Out of Communist Meeting

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Romania walked out on Thursday on a meeting of the two Communist parties' liaison Thursday in Bucharest and tore a gaping new breach in the world Communist facade.

In a head-on collision with the Soviet Union, the Romanian delegation walked out after other parties refused to satisfy its demands to stop attacking Red China, Romanian sources reported.

Independent-minded Romania sought to steer a neutral role in the Moscow-Peking conflict under the relatively new leadership of Nicolae Ceausescu in Bucharest. He is a tireless challenger of Kremlin domination of the Soviet bloc.

The walkout Thursday night recalled the break two decades ago between the Soviet Union of Joseph Stalin and Yugoslavia, whose President Tito first rebelled against Moscow's dictatorial role over the Communist movements. Yugoslavia, while remaining Communist, has since tried to steer an independent course as a nominal neutralist.

Communism in Europe was splintered further in 1961 with the defection of Albania, which has become the eastern European mouthpiece of Red China and Peking's anti-Moscow tactics in the United Nations.

Romania charged Stalinist tactics were being used at the Budapest meeting at which the Soviet Union has campaigned for a world Communist conference next autumn.

The Romanians argued that a world meeting under present conditions of division over the Soviet-Chinese dispute would "only flagrantly illustrate on a world scale the lack of unity between Communist parties."

The walkout was preceded by Romanian demands for a joint apology for a Syrian Communist charge that Romania was pro-Israeli and a promise for an end to criticism of Red China.

The demands hit directly at the Soviet Union, which had used the meeting to attack Chinese policies despite an agreement—made on Romanian insistence—to avoid such attacks.

Senators Express Dissatisfaction

Kristen asserted that Morris told the Senators that all proposals for change in rules will be sent through channels because "I (Morris) personally choose to do it." Let's not be taken in by him," Kristen said, "He doesn't know what we are all about!"

Senator Dale Boozart said he didn't feel that the retreat was "a total loss" because an exchange of views took place. "He (Morris) was feeling us out and at the same time we were feeling him out," Boozart said.

Kristen said Morris' insistence that proposed changes go through channels "was a line" that he had been "feeding students for the past six years."

Several Senators said that Morris could stall a student government for several years, and then when they graduate he would not have lost ground. Leslie Trotter, an assistant in the student government office, revealed that he had secretly tape-recorded part of the retreat. After listening to the tape, Trotter said he had come to the conclusion that "most of the things he (Morris) said really meant nothing."

Trotter said Morris told the Senate that he will not necessarily support student opinion on issues.

"I distinctly remember him (Morris) making idiotic statements that if the newspaper got them would be pretty nice, but then he (Morris) would claim he had a bad press..." Trotter said.

"I think we were talked at and down to by President Morris," Senator Georgia Bowden stated.

"I think we're all forgetting one thing, and that's that Dr. Morris has his Ph.D., in persuasive speech," said one Senator.

"Morris can talk for hours on end and say nothing," stated Senator Steve Antonacci.

provide fertile ground for organized exploitation in the future.

The report bore down on racial prejudice as the underlying poison, saying: "White racism is essentially responsible for the explosive mixture which has been accumulating in our cities since the end of World War II."

The commission prescribed, among scores of other proposals:

- Immediate action to create 2 million new jobs, 1 million by the state, local and federal governments and 1 million by private industry.
- Federal subsidy on-the-job training for the hardcore unemployed, "by contract or by tax credits."
- An approach to the "guaranteed minimum income" for all Americans, in the form of a "basic allowance" to individuals and families.
- Bringing 6 million new and existing dwellings within reach of low and moderate income families in the next five years, starting with 600,000 next year.
- Expanding the rent subsidy program, and launching an "ownership supplement program" to help low income families buy their own homes.
- Enacting "a comprehensive and enforceable federal housing program to provide more low income housing outside of ghetto areas."

In phrases obviously chosen for shock impact, the commission's summary contained start warnings of continuous consequences if present policies continue:

"Under such conditions, the report said, "a rising proportion of Negroes may come to see in the deprivation and segregation they experience a justification for violent protest, or for extending support to now isolated extremists who advocate civil disruption."

"Large-scale and continuing violence could result, followed by white retaliation, and, ultimately, the separation of the two communities in a garrison state," the panel said.

If present policies are continued, the report stressed, they will "make permanent the division of our country into two societies: one, largely Negro and poor, located in the central cities; the other, predominately white and affluent, located in the suburbs and outlying areas."

The commission found that in many cases even the worst-affected cities apparently recovered from the horrors of the 1967 summer, Little basis change has been made in conditions underlying the outbreaks, it said, and:

The commission showed apprehension at police-state tactics might emerge in some city efforts to enforce law and order.

"There is a grave danger that some communities may resort to the indiscriminate and excessive use of force," the report said.

The commission urged the recruitment of more Negro police, as well as intensive training efforts to insure proper police conduct and to eliminate "abrasive practices."

It proposed that slum area youths between 17 and 21 be recruited as "community service officers." They would work as an adjunct to the police, in expectation that many would be drawn into regular police work.

The federal government should provide 90 per cent of the cost of employing the 3,600 youths, it was suggested, on the basis of one for every ten regular officers.

Receives Fulbright Lectureship

History Researcher To Lecture in Japan

C. Harvey Gardiner, research professor of history at SIU, has accepted a Fulbright Lectureship at the University of Tokyo, Japan, for the spring and summer of 1969.

He will lecture in both Japanese and English on American history and foreign relations, in regard to Asia and Latin America.

Although primarily noted as an authority on Latin America, and the author of a number of books in that area, Gardiner saw extensive service during and immediately after World War II as a Japanese language expert and Far East specialist.

From 1942 to 1946 he was a Naval Intelligence officer and served overseas in Hawaii, Saipan, Guam and the Caroline Islands. In 1943 he was assigned to the Naval Military Government research project at Columbia University where he wrote more than half a dozen still classified volumes on Taiwan in anticipation of an American invasion of that island.

At the war's end Gardiner was on the staff of Vice Admiral Murray, commander of the Mariannas, but later was transferred to Guam to serve as personal interpreter to General Robert Blake of the 3rd Marine Division, a post he held until late in 1946.

Shortly after his discharge, and again in 1948, he was invited by the State Department to go to Korea and Japan as a specialist on Asian affairs, but prior academic commitments precluded his accepting either offer.

Gardiner's trip to Japan will be his second journey abroad as a Fulbright Lecturer. In 1962-63 he lectured on U.S. and Latin American history at the universities of Bristol and Nottingham in England.

'Threepenny Opera' Full of Irony

English Melodrama Slated

Southern Players will present the musical, "The Threepenny Opera," Wednesday through Sunday, March 6 through 10, at 8 p.m. in the Experimental Theatre in the Communications Building.

Full of "peperry irony," "The Threepenny Opera" is taken from an English melodrama. The plot centers around highwaymen, protogays and bankers in Victorian London. The area is ruled by Police Chief Brown, who is addressed as "Sheriff" and has served with Macbeth in the Indian Army. Macbeth is a highwayman. The character are "too bad for this world."

The musical was written to expose the attitudes of the bourgeoisie and make the duly authorized guardians of civil order appear as criminals. The characters of the underworld, on the other hand were meant to appear as successful businessmen. This play was one of the most successful pre-Hitler theatre plays, and acquired for co-author Bertolt Brecht a world reputation. When brought to New York it played for five years.

Written in the summer of 1928 by Brecht and Kurt Weill, the show contains such well-known songs as "Mack the Knife."

Dennis Immel, graduate student in theatre, is the director and designer. In 1964 Immel staged "Earnest In Love."

Tickets are now on sale at the University Theatre Box Office and at the Information Desk in the University Center. A limited number of tickets are available for each performance due to limited seating. All seats are $1 and are reserved.

Dock Officer Seminar Covers Safety Rules

A request by a waterways shipping company for instruction in safety procedures resulted in a three-day dock officer supervisory seminar here this week.

The SIU Transportation Institution and the SIU Division of Technical and Adult Education sponsored the seminar for dock officers who work ontows and barges on inland waterways at the request of Cargill Co., Inc. Thomas W. Dardis, coordinator of adult education, said the seminar had been planned since early December.

Twenty-five representatives of 10 companies met in the University Center Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss safety and emergency medical treatment on barges as well as the importance of effective personneels relations and communications.

Presentations were made by L. H. Greeter, safety director of Cargo Carriers, a division of Cargill; and by SIU staff members A. Frank Bridges, associate professor of health education; William C. Westberg, professor of industrial psychology; and Joseph A. Robinette, speech instructor.

Participants in the seminar travelled from as far away as Louisiana and Minnesota.

The program will begin with the showing of the Beatles' movie "Help!" at the Friday night movie hour, followed by an informal discussion in the Roman Room of the University Center. Meetings are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday but exact time and place have not been announced.

The weekend seminar is sponsored by the Student Humanist Association. Persons wishing to attend the seminar should contact the Student Government Office for additional information.

Campus Squirrels Studied

From a tree limb high above Thompson Woods or in a pile of leaves partially hidden from view, the squirrel population is observing the day-to-day habits of the people that pass through their community.

Since September these squirrels themselves have been placed under observation. Alan Zelley, a graduate student in zoology from Mt. Holly, N.J., has spent more than 140 hours in the woods observing and recording the habits of a portion of the squirrel population.

Zelley is making a behavioral study of the squirrels through observation and recording of their vocalizations. He has recorded a few sounds, primarily barks, and analyzes these vocal behaviors to gain an understanding of the physical structure of the squirrel.

Zelley says he studied a few captive specimens but only through observation of the squirrel in its natural habitat can he gain the information he desires.

In the woods, Zelley said, he is "at the mercy of the animal. I have to go to him, he won’t come to me," he added.

In the process of writing his master’s thesis, Zelley is unable to draw any conclusions yet from his observations. He did say that there may be a social hierarchy among squirrels. He has seen an older squirrel push a younger squirrel out of the way when they are gathering food.

Thincalds Split Forces
To Run in Two Meets

By Dave Palermo
Track Coach Lew Hartzog makes it a habit to schedule the strongest competition possible for the Thincalds and this weekend will be no exception.

The team will split into two groups with one participant in the Knights of Columbus invitational meet in Cleveland, Ohio, Friday, and the other meeting the Illinois Track Club in a dual meet at Champaign Saturday.

The Knights of Columbus invitational will include the top track enthusiasts and amateurs from all over the U.S. The field will include such standouts as Ralph Boston, Jerry Evans and Tom Sayers.

"It's an honor just to be able to participate in this meet," said Hartzog. "It's like being offered a tryout for the Olympics."

Scott Mackenzie was one of the four runners selected to participate in the 440 and will be running alongside the highly-publicized Evans.

Senior Mitch Livingston was chosen as one of six high jumpers to enter that event. Livingston, whose top mark in high school was 5-10, has shown tremendous improvement since joining the collegiate ranks and has reached the 6-8 mark on numerous occasions in meeting many 7-footers. Jeff Dubuy will participate in the 1,000 and Southern will also enter two relay teams, the mile relay and the distance medley relay.

"We're still looking for a front man in the mile relay," said Hartzog. "The boys are already running well enough to qualify for the nationals but when we get a front man we should be a lot better."

The mile relay event is composed of Herman Gary, Willie Richardson, Bill Jeffries and Mackenzie.

Gary, who came off the active military duty list recently, is finally in good enough shape to start running the distances, according to Hartzog.

The relay ran a super 3:18.2 in winning that event in the Mason-Dixon games two weeks ago.

The distance medley relay team will consist of Dubuy, Glenn Ujioe, Harry Lebovitz and Scott Mowstryski.

At Champaign, triple-jumper John Vernon will head the list of entrants for the Salukis. Vernon, who set a school record at the Mason-Dixon games against some of the top jumpers in the country, also captured a first at the Central Collegiate Conference Championships last week.

Rich Ellison and Larry Caccia will enter in the pole vault with FJ Blackiston throwing the shot.

In the 60- and 300-yard dashes Southern will be represented by Sylvester West, Charles Goro and Allen Deppe.

Fred Flachford will enter in the 1,000 yard event with Dale Gardiner running the 600 and Bill Gardiner in the 440. Steve Thomas will run the 880.

Mel Holman will run the mile and 2-mile events with Jim Thomas, Herman Gary and Bill Gardiner participating in the '70-yard high and low hurdles.

Flachford will also enter in the mile relay event with Deppe, Huzzard, Gardiner and Dennis Greene doing the running.

Intramural Playoff
In Arena Tonight

The 10-week intramural cage season will come to a climactic end tonight when two undefeated teams clash for the championship in a 5-45 preliminary to the SUI-Con­ventary College game in the Arena.

Sigma Pi "A" sporting an impressive 10-0 mark will meet the Brown Gods owning an 8-0 record in the final.

The championship marks the first time that the de­ cisive game has been played before a varsity contest.

The Brown Gods quinted its way into the fin­ als by defeating the Animals, 47-45; Allen Ill, 39-35; and Sikes Dukes, 45-43. The Gods defeated the Dukes after a Brown player was fouled after time had elapsed in the game with the score knotted at 43-43. He converted two free throw attempts for the win.

Sigma Pi "A" defeated the Misfits, 53-45, Kappa Alpha Phi "B", 63-49 and the Bills, 48-43, for its spot in the final.

The BIGs are led by Joe Demichiel with a 17.3 scoring average in the tournament while Sigma Pi is led by Bob Purman averaging 15.7.

Trophyes for the winner and runner-up teams of the tour­ nament, as well as the outstanding basketball manager award, will be presented during half­time of the varsity game.

Gymnastics Hope to Trim St. St.

By George Kneweme

Indiana State had been hoping to pull an upset Friday night and defeat SIU’s Male Gymnasts, but its hopes have been drastically reduced.

Indiana State meets SIU at 7 tonight in Terre Haute, but the Hoosiers could barely win against the Illinois State University Athletic Program.

Leesner is suffering from a sore ankle, and it is uncertain whether he will go into the meet without much training during the last 10 days. He is in excellent condition.

Even though Leesner will be ailing, SIU will not take Indiana State lightly. The Sycamores avert a 14-5 record going to the meet and are aiming for the NCAA College Division nationals at Springfield, Mass., on March 23. SIU is the last regular season foe for ISU.

In addition to Leesner, the Sycamores have two gymnasts ranked in the top 10 in the nation. They are Dave Gilchris on high bar and Tom Neville on side horse. Both are seventh in the region in the last ratings.

The Sycamores, possessing a 10-1 record, will also be point- ing toward post-season action—the NCAA University Division nationals.

SIU gymnasts have once again been reinvented to the top spot in the country, primarily on the basis of its victory over Iowa last week. Showing that victory was no fluke, the Salukis romped past two opponents last weekend, Colorado and the Air Force Academy.

Unlike ISU, the Salukis should be at full strength. Paul Mayer showed last weekend that he has completely recovered from an ear infection that plagued him when the Salukis lost to Iowa three weeks ago.

Mayer won the all-around competition in both of last week’s meets, scoring over 53 points both times, for an average of about 8.9 for the six events.

Mayer also is the Salukis’ senior leader, having scored over 350 points, and may pass Reisinger for the point mark against ISU. Points for team leader- ship are only counted when a gymnast competes in the three for his team in an event. There are four participants from each team in an event.

Mayer has scored most of his points in floor exercise, side horse, long low still- ing and parallel bars. Mayer is the defending long low horse champion in the NCAAs.

Others that should prove stiff competition for Mayer are Fred Dennis, on rings and high bar, and Dale Harle on trampoline.

Hardt was the NCAAs champion the tramp team two years ago, while Dennis, unable to close out last year because of an injury, was national champion two years ago.

Saliks to Close Season Tonight with Centenary

Coach Jack Hartman and his Saluki cagers will close out an inconsistent season tonight when they take on Centenary College at 8 in the Arena. The Gentlemen won this season with 20 consecutive victories and made it 22 when they defeated MacMurray and Sam Huston State.

After falling to Iowa Southern downed Arizona State before two consecutive defeats at the hands of Arizona and San Francisco, the latter in the opening round of the Sun Carnival in El Paso, Texas. A win over Maryland in the consolation game of that tournament snapped the losing skid.

For a loss to Indiana State, a win over Oglethorpe started the SU cagers on a five-game win streak that was stopped by Evansville.

The SU lost five straight before downing Southwest Missouri State at Springfield. Going into tonight's game the Salukis can boast two wins in the last four games and a 12-11 record.

Centenary, nicknamed the Gentlemen, has had problems of its own this season with a 7-22 record. The last defeat was at the hands of SU-bound Oklahoma City, 114-95, Wednesday.

The Gentlemen will start 6-7 sophomore Robert Lang at the pivot, John Weston, 6-7, and Dwayne McNeal, 6-5, at the corners and 6-foot John Blankenhip at one guard spot. The remaining guard spot will be filled by Larry Ward or Mike Tebele. Lang is the team's leading scorer averaging 20.7 points per game, with Blankenhip and Weston averaging 12.6 and 13.5 respectively.

The high-scoring Lang is also the top rebounder on the team as he has taken down an average of 11.6 a game. Weston is second in that department with a 9.0 average. Although the Gentlemen show a poor record, they rate as a major college and scheduled such opponents as Houston University, University of Oklahoma, Baylor, University of Arkansas, Texas Tech, and Oklahoma City.

After a discouraging loss to Kentucky Wesleyan when three controversial technical fouls led to the defeat Wednesday night, Hartman and his forces will have to regroup for the game tonight with the same starting lineup.

Dick Garrett and Chuck Benson will man forward spots, Howard Keene will be the center, and Craig Taylor and Willie Griffin will be at the guard spots.

GETS 4 FOULS, AND TECHNICAL INSIDE 2 MINUTES

Within one minute and 31 seconds of a basketball game against Texas A&M earlier this season, Matt Huff of North Texas State was charged with four personal fouls. He was given a technical for failing to raise his hand when charged with his fourth foul.

Not This Time.—Kentucky Wesleyan's Dick O'Verill (45) was dispossessed on his shot attempt during Wednesday's game with SU. Blocking the shot was Saluki Bill Steppe (34). Other SU players were Dick Garrett (22) and Chuck Benson (30). KE won 59-56.

'Just Another Ballgame'
Strict Official Declares

Although he personally called three technical fouls against SU in Wednesday night's game with Kentucky Wesleyan, basketball official Bill Valentine says "it was just another ballgame for me."

Reaching at his home in Little Rock, Ark., on Thursday, Valentine said there was nothing out of the ordinary about the game. "In fact," he noted, "it was one of the better-played games and best controlled crowds I've seen this year."

Valentine, who has been a major league umpire for six years and a college basketball official for 15 years, calls himself a "strict disciplinarian."

"I follow closely to the 10.7 rule in the Missouri Valley Conference regulations for officials," he said, "I concentrate bench conduct and I work it exactly the way it is written."
