in Richmond Heights, Mu., for prenatal care and delivery. The quads — Joshua, Jennifer, Jenny and Judith — were delivered by Caesarean section about a month prematurely. All of them were born within 40 seconds, said

Dr. Roger Klam, who traveled to St. Mary's to deliver the babies. The babies weights ranged from 2 pounds, 11 ounces to 3 pounds, 3 and a half ounces at birth. They will be kept in special care at Memorial until they reach 5 pounds, which should take about two months.

"We're very optimistic for an exceptional outcome." said Dr. William Hamilton, Head of Memorial's Special Care Services

He said the quads are all on regular food, have no lung or kidney disfunctions and have no respiratory complications, which are common in premature births.

Simmons, 19, already the mother of twins, John and Jessica, said she wanted to have a big family — but not so soon.
"It still hasn't sunk in," she said.

Details of the settlement will not be made public, John Sandberg, attorney for the Crystal Lake yacht club, said. "I doubt it will ever be made public," he said.

The settlement is basically a licensing agreement stating that the Crystal Lake race organizers will respect the copyrighted rules and trademark of the association's Great Cardboard Boat Regatta, Busch said. "We have licensing agreements with several groups," Busch said. "We don't make (the terms of) them public."

The copyright case began June 25, 1987 when the Alumni Association filed suit against the Crystal Lake yacht club. The suit was filed three days before the Crystal Lake boat regatta was to be held.

City may license pawnbrokers

Burglaries cause concern for stricter regulations

By Dana DeBeaumont and John Mohler

Carbondale pawnbrokers may soon be required to notify police of all mer-chandise that has been brought in within the past 24 hours, Patricia McMeen, city attorney, said.

At 7 tonight in the City Council Chambers, the City Council Chambers, the City Council will discuss an ordinance to license pawnbrokers and force them to report collected merchandise. City Manager Bill Dixon said the more than 100 burglaries that occurred the University's semester break triggered the need for the ordinance. The ordinance grants the terned after a state statute and would make it easier to prosecute violators of the Under state law the state's attorney, who is bogged down with cases, has to prosecute pawn-brokers for having stolen merchandise, while the city could prosecute under the ordinance, McMeen said.

Police Chief Ed Hogan said the state's attorney seeks to punish offenders with imprisionment and fines but "sometimes violations don't warrant jail time

The city can enforce the laws more easily by imposing fines of up to $500 on refts and burglaries, "passing times of up to seaso on prefts and burglaries," ic Meen said in a memo to customers, Hogan said. The ordinance would also make it easier to monitor the 3-percent maximum state interest that pawn-brokers are permitted to charge, he added. In additional business, the council will:

-Vote on a Chamber of Commerce request to create a task force to study Carbondale housing $20,547 -Discuss

Noriega opponents strike

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Opposition groups Monday launched a protest strike against Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, four days after his supporters in congress deposed President Eric Arturo Delvalle for trying to fire the military strongman.

Delvalle remained in hiding somewhere in Panama, but released a brief videotaped message in which he claimed still to be the legitimate ruler of the country even though he was voted out of office

In the videotape, distributed by friends and associates of the deposed president, Delvalle held up what appeared to be the Sunday edition of a Panamanian newspaper and called on his countrymen newspaper and cance on as countrymen to continue the fight against Noriega, who has been indicted on U.S. drug charges. The strike, called Friday but which did not get underway until Monday, appeared to be meeting with mixed success in the capital, with a majority of shops and businesses closed in some neighborhoods but only scattered support evident in other

Archbishop Tutu arrested by South African police

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police arrested Nobel Peace Prize winner Archbishop Desmond Tutu and other religious leaders Monday as they defiantly marched on Parliament to protest the government's new ban on antiapartheid activities. As officers bundled the protesters into police vehicles, riot-squad police fired a water cannon at hundreds of other priests and followers who knelt on the street and prayed. Those arrested were later released after being told the government would investigate the marchers and might file criminal charges.

Violence persists; Israel ponders media ban

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli soldiers shot and killed a Palestinian protester and a second Arab died of a gunshot wound Monday while the government considered banning media coverage of Israeli efforts to control the uprising in the occupied territories, officials said. Rioting broke out in the West Bank town of Burin, near Nablus about 30 miles north of Jerusalem, and soldiers first tried to disperse the crowd with tear gas and rubber bullets. When the tactics failed, an officer fired real bullets.

Shiite leader: Higgins abducted for ransom

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite militia chief Nabih Berri said the abductors of Marine Lt. Col. William R. Higgins are holding the American for future ransom, not on alleged spying charges. The Organization of the Oppresed on Earth, a group believed to be attached to the pro-Iranian Hezbollah or Party of God based in southern Lebanon, has claimed responsibility for Higgins' kidnapping and accused him of spying.

Pope John Paul II launches talks on AIDS

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II met Monday with leaders of the U.S. National Conference of Bishops, launching a year-long series of talks with U.S. bishops deeply divided over church policy on AIDS. A key issue is acceptance by the conference board of a document on acquired immune deficiency syndrome to allow Catholics to receive information about the use of condoms to prevent the spread of the disease.

Reagan says U.S. credibility, security a line

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, warning U.S. credibility and security are on the line, insisted Monday that Congress include standby provisions for a request for arms and ammunition in any humanitarian aid package for the Contras. With Democrats on Capitol Hill pushing a $30 million aid package for the rebels, Reagan appeared to retreat slightly from last week's reluctant acceptance of purely humanitarian aid to the U.S.-backed Nicaraguan rebels.

North ordered to testify in Michigan drug trial

DETROIT (UPI) — Lt. Col. Oliver North has been subpoenaed to appear at a federal drug trial in Detroit next month. A subpoena issued last week in Washington orders North to appear March 15 at a drug conspiracy trial before U.S. District Judge Anna Diggs Taylor. Ronald C. Dresnick, a lawyer who represents one of the eight defendants in the case, said he wants to ask North about government-financed DC-6 flights that may have carried drugs from South America into the United States.

Lawyer: Reagan's actions gut War Powers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan should be forced to notify Congress about U.S. involvement in the Persian Gulf or the War Powers Resolution will effectively be gutted, a lawyer told a federal appeals court Monday. Alan Morrison, arguing before a three-judge panel, said Reagan had refused to abide by the 1973 law, which Congress passed at the end of the Vietnam War to curb the president's power to involve U.S. troops in undeclared wars.

Nuns honored for voicing views on abortion

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The West Virginia chapter of the National Organization for Women honored two nuns facing expulsion from their order for opposing the Catholic Church's stand on abortion. Sisters Barbara Ferraro and Patricia Hussey received the state NOW chapter's 1987 Susan B. Anthony Award. The two have been censured by the Valican for signing a 1984 advertisement that said a variety of opinions exist within the church about abortion. church about abortion.

Drakeford will appeal, attorney says

The attorney for convicted murderer Dianne Drakeford will appeal the verdict handed down by a jury at Jackson County Courthouse Friday

Robert Van Derhoff said Monday the second-degree murder conviction was based on a 1987 Illinois statute that he said is unconstitutional

Van Derhoff said the statute van Derhoit said the statute, which reclassifies the offense of murder, illegally requires the defendant to prove such mitigating circumstances as intent or malice.

Van Derhoff contested the statute in a motion to dismiss the case Friday but the motion was denied by Judge William Lewis

The 1987 law says second-degree murder is dif-ferentiated from first-degree through consideration of mitigating circumstances.

Drakeford may be sentenced five weeks, Van Derhoff in five weeks, Van Derhoff said. Drakeford was convicted of second-degree murder and armed violence in a four-day trial last week.

The case was the first firstdegree conviction sought by the Jackson County state's the Jackson County state's attorney's office since the new law took effect, State's Attorney John Clemons said.

Get out and help with city cleanup

THE CARBONDALE CLEANUP is set for April 23. Students should get out and help.

Students are not the sole reason for trash along the Strip, around shopping areas and in parks, but there's no denying the students contribute too much to this shameful pollution.

All too often, thoughtless students are guilty of leaving garbage behind after a late-night snack on the strip instead of taking a few extra seconds to dispose of it properly. Others retain the childish attitude that because they didn't make the mess, they shouldn't have to clean it

ALTHOUGH IT WON'T come close to curing everything, the Carbondale Cleanup offers students a chance to compensate for littering they've done in the past.

The Carbondale Cleanup started in 1980 but was discontinued three years ago because of student apathy. The 1988 project hopes to attract a large turnout of concerned students to assist in the effort.

Help is needed in many areas. People will be needed to cook food for volunteers, hand out trash bags and check in Registered Student Organizations at parks and other sites. Morale will be boosted by a large turnout.

Those who always complain that the city doesn't care about students can show students are worth caring about. Good deeds may not get rewarded every time, but such massive efforts as the Cleanup are not soon forgotten by those who benefit from them. And everyone benefits from less pollution.

PERHAPS GETTING OUT and cleaning up garbage will make people think twice before they litter. People who participate will be more likely to discourage littering, and rightly so. It isn't uncouth or rude to chastise a friend for irresponsible disposal of trash. In the long run, it's more harmful to say nothing.

Although the Carbondale Cleanup still is several weeks away, it's not too early to plan to help. Interested people can contact Carbondale Clean and Green, 808 S. Forest, at 529-3835 or the Undergraduate Student Organization at 536-3381

Until then, try to keep Carbondale litter-free — you'll be saving yourself work come Cleanup day.

Campus parking lots waste space

I've been commuting and l've been communing anu dealing with parking over the past four years at SIU-C. It can be very frustrating. Recently, I checked seven different redsticker lots without finding an empty space; I had to park a half mile off campus. I was outraged by Merilyn

I was outraged by Merilyn Hogan's statements on parking. It is ridiculous to sell twice as many permits as there are parking spaces. I don't think Hogan's suggestions are a realistic alternative for dealing with the parking problem. I suggest creating more parking spaces in existing lots by reducing wasted space.

I conducted a parking survey in the red-sticker lot just north of the Communications Building. The lot is nearly square with 14 main rows for parking spaces that are 9by 17.5 feet.

Concrete bumpers are spaced 7.2 feet apart to separate rows of cars; this is wasted space. Bumper to bumper, no cars were closer than 3 feet and most cars were separated by 5 feet or more.

separated by 5 feet or more.

About 35 percent of 51 cars were compact cars no larger than 6.5 by 14 feet. Compact cars require smaller parking spaces — 8 by 15.5 feet would be adequate.

A total of 79 new spaces (11 percent increase) could be created in this lot with more created in this lot with more efficient use of existing space. Four rows (29 percent of the lot) could be devoted to compact cars only. At 8 feet wide, seven new compact car spaces could be added in each of the four rows. Concrete bumpers should be 2 feet apart in compact car rows, and only 5 2 feet apart in other rows. 5.2 feet apart in other rows.

The length of parking spaces can be reduced by 2 feet in the compact rows and by 6 inches in the other rows. This narrowing of existing rows would save 31 feet and allow for an added full size car row with 51 spaces.

I do not know the costs for I do not know the costs for implementing such a plan, but it seems likely it would be less than the $5,444 per space in elevated parking lots.
Funds for renovation of parking lots can come from two sources. There will be more parking fines collected with the new opportunity for violations (full-sized cars in compact car zones).

Also, as Hogan suggested in Monday's Daily Egyptian, endless driving around campus wastes gas when walking is a healthy alternative. Let parking enforcement employees take heed of their own manager's advice. I think SIU-C should sell narking enforcement's advice. I think SIU-C should sell parking enforcement's vehicles and use this money to buy walking shoes and renovate the parking lots. Think of all the money we could save on gas, vehicle insurance, registration, and maintenance. Plus, we'd have a healthy parking enforcement staff.

In conclusion, I have a few questions for Merilyn Hogan. How many times have you parked south of the Arena and walked to your office? Why would anyone working in the would anyone working in the Communications or Life Science II Buildings park south of the Arena when off campus is closer? — Dave Caithamer, graduate, zoology

"According to one scenario, incomplete information must be passed from the physician, to the hospital, to the depart-ment. Then a request must be made down this same chain from the department and back up again once the information has been obtained.

"According to a second scenario, the hospital has to maintain a complete set of records on all of its physicians' positive patients," Dallas explained.

Court to weigh drug testing

Union says mandatory drug testing for Customs Service workers illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, tackling a case that could set the limits of worker drug tests, agreed Monday to decide whether the Customs Service can require employees and job applicants to provide urine samples.

The justices will hear arguments next term in an appeal by the National Treasury Employees Union of an appeals court ruling that upheld the mandatory tests for certain job applicants and employees up for promotion.

More than 3,000 people have been tested for drug use since the Customs Service program began in June 1986. Five of them tested positive.

In its appeal to the Supreme Court, the union, which represents 9,000 Customs workers, charged the program amounts to an unreasonable search and seizure prohibited by the Fourth Amendment.

For the program to be legal, the union said, the government must first have probable cause or at least some reason to suspect workers of drug use.

"We do not question that Customs has a legitimate interest in a drug-free workplace. But it does not follow that Customs may engage in dragnet searches of its employees' bodies in pursuit of that unexceptionable goal," lawyers for the union said.

The federal government, while agreeing the high court should resolve the controversy, defended the drug testing program, saying it was a reasonable practice for an agency that plays a crucial role in fighting drug smuggling. "Indeed, it would be

"Indeed, it would be irresponsible for the Customs Service to assume that its current employees or the applicant pool is now, or will be in the future, somehow immune from a problem that is ravaging the society at large," government lawyers told the justices.

Nancy Reagan blasts casual drug users

WASHINGTON (UPI)— First lady Nancy seagan silenced a wildly cheering crowd of 2,000 anti-drug activists Monday with examples of the violent realities of illegal drugs and warned casual users, "You're an accomplice to murder."

Mrs. Reagan made a rare joint appearance with President Reagan at the opening ceremonies of the upbeat White House Conference on a Drug-Free America. While the president told of efforts to stop drug smugglers and traffickers, Mrs. Reagan blamed the casual middle-class drug user for a wave of drug-related violence.

"Although we're making progress, still many ignorant ideas persist." Mrs. Reagan said. "One of the worst is the casual user's justification that drug use is a victimless crime."

"The casual drug user cannot escape responsibility." she said.

Thousands attend slain cop's burial

NEW YORK (UPI) — An outraged Mayor Edward Koch Monday called President Reagan a "wimp" in the war on drugs and demanded all out war on drug pushers the same day 10,000 officers attended the funeral of a rookie cop killed while guarding a drug witness.

The throng of police officers, some from as far away as Texas, stood at grim attention along a half mile of the road leading to the St. James Catholic Church in Seaford, Long Island, for the funeral of Officer Edward Byrne.

Byrne, 22, was shot three times in the head from pointblank range as he sat alone in his patrol car at 3:30 a.m. Friday guarding the house of a witness against neighborhood crack dealers in southeast Queens.

The funeral procession's slow passage brought a hushed calm to the sea of blue-uniformed officers, lined 10-deep along both sides of the street.

"A piece of America died with that cop," one officer

Hatha-yoga soothes your mind. increases energy, limits stress

By LaDonna Morris Wellness Cente

What's the first thing that comes to mind when you think of voga?

Hatha, or physical yoga, is one of the many types of yoga and the one generally prac-ticed in the West. It is a ticed in the West. It is a technique employing body postures, or asanas, breathing exercises, to relax the body and calm the mind. Originating in India, more than 2,000 years ago, it has practical applications for Americans today.

Hatha yoga is very different from other forms of exercise. It is the combination of a physical, mental and spiritual discipline. It must be practiced in a quiet, tranquil environment and requires complete concentration.

The different postures stretch out and strengthen the muscles and massage the internal organs. Each posture has specific physical benefits.

Some of the hatha-yoga postures include the sun salutation, plow, cobra, bow, spinal twist and lion. As these postures are perfected, repetitions are reduced but they are held for increasingly longer periods of time.

To Your Health

Students come to yoga classes with varying degrees of flexibility and progress at their own pace. In hatha-yoga the journey is more important than the destination. There is no end point at which to arrive, there is only a direction.

Proper breathing is central to the practice of hatha-yoga. Diaphragmatic breathing, with the stomach rather than the chest moving in and out, is how we breathe naturally at birth. Children are conditioned to stick the chest out and such to stick the chest out and suck the stomach in, which results in shallow breathing. Diaphragmatic breathing is deeper and provides more

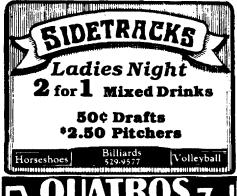

In addition to relaxing the body, hatha-yoga can calm the mind. When the body is twisted into a difficult position all of your concentration is required to hold that position. The mind is thereby prevented from running the usual tapes like "I have to study for that exam tomorrow, I have a project due next week," etc.

Another way in which hathayoga can clear the mind is by replacing the disturbing thoughts with more positive affirmations such as, "I am relaxed, I am calm, I am quiet in the area of the storm" in the eye of the storm.

Calming the mind in this way can lead to improved concentration for studying. But perhaps most importantly. the practice of hatha-yoga prepares the body and mind for meditation. This is where the spiritual aspect comes into

The benefits derived from 30 minutes of daily practice are great and can be realized in a short time. Some of the benefits are increased energy and concentration along with a reduction of stress and fatigue.

Beginners in hatha-yoga should start under the direction of a qualified teacher. Classes are offered free of charge at the Wellness Center each semester. We can't teach you bow to levitate, but we can help you learn how to relax.

Watkins' attorney has refused to release the name. In addition, prosecutors say the tests were unsatisfactory because they never dealt with whether Watkins made the threat, only that he never intended to kill the witness.

Despite word of the threat Despite word of the threat and intense pressure from lawmakers, the governor refused to remove Watkins from his $55,000 a year post as Arizona's director of as Arizona's director of prison construction. Watkins eventually resigned when it was disclosed he failed to list a misdemeanor conviction on his application for a license to sell insurance. He weathered the storm

He weathered the storm when another shady part of his past was exposed. At age 19, he was convicted of robbing a postal clerk and served time in a California federal prison. His con-viction was set aside in 1964. Maricopa County Superior Count records also

Maricopa County Superior Court records also said Watkins was convicted of simple assualt on Jan 3, 1966, arising from a plea agreement to an agreement to an aggravated assault charge. Those facts were not known when Watkins was appointed to his posts.

Spirit of Winter Olympics crushed by all the hoopla

By Mike Rabun UPI Sports Writer

CALGARY, Alberta — Dan Simoneau, an articulate, 13-year veteran of the U.S. cross country ski tcam, came to the Winter Olympics with the Winter Olympics with the same dreams that follow most athletes who compete in the most publicized sporting event in the world.

He went home to Bend. Ore having placed 29th in the 15having placed 29th in the 15-kilometer cross country race and 49th over 30 kilometers. The 28-year-old skier didn't even finish the 50-kilometer ordeal, having succumbed to whatever kind of flu swept through Calgary during the second week of the Olympics.

BUT SIMONEAU won the gold medal for the most astute observation of the Winter Olympics, one that transcends Olympics, one that transcends the virtual collapse of the American effort and the re-evaluation within the U.S. Olympic Committee that will growth of television has swelled the proportions of swelled the proportions of many a spectacle and the Olympics have suffered as much as any.

FOR EACH of the 46 gold medals won during the 16 days of the Calgary Olympics, there were almost 10,000 people accredited to work, report, compete and otherwise assist in the running of the Games.

The final accreditation list, including all manner of occupations from firefighter to maintenance worker included.

The International Olympic Committee strives to keep the spirit of competition alive on a worldwide basis, and yet balance it in this age of realism by coming up with the money to put on the Games.

THE SPIRIT portion of the equation appears to have long since been crushed by the weight of the proceedings. It is one thing to look at British ski jumper Eddy Edwards as the embodiment of spirit, since he earned a great deal of at-tention by finishing last. But he stands to make a great deal of money off the attention.

"The topic of Olympic spirit is something I have thought about a lot during these Games," Simoneau said. "To me, Olympic spirit is something that exists for the viewers, fans and the not-so-serious athletes.

"AFTER HAVING been to aree Olympics and three three Olympics and three world championships, the experience of trying new food and meeting new people is old hat."

If the "Olympic spirit," is reduced, so has been the number of American medals. The six medals won by the United States in Calgary represents its fewest in an Olympics since 1936 and when looked at on a percentage basis, this year's showing was America's worst ever.
