Trailer funds run dormitory complex

By Pat Nussman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Excess income from University Trailer Court is being used to finance Southern Acres Residence Halls and the VTI Dormitory, according to information reportedly acquired from University files and released by a court resident.

Chris Robertson, chairman of the committee to save the court, released information obtained from the files of the Housing Business Services which indicates that profits from the court of more than $9,000 a year are being used to pay dormitories' debts.

The University Trailer Court, which residents consider a model court, is slated to be closed in September to make way for — according to plans announced by housing officials—for overnight parking for east campus residents.

Residents of the court have proposed another site, a playing field near Wright Hall, which Samuel Rinella, director of Housing Business Services, and George Mace, assistant to the president, say would be too expensive to renovate.

According to figures taken from a statement of income and expense for the year ending June 30, 1968, the total current income of the trailer court was $9,612.34. The statement of income for the year ending June 30, 1969 showed an income of $9,335.40.

Since then, rental for the trailer spaces has increased from $28 a month to $33 a month, according to a Housing Business Services rate study.

"The proposed rate increase (for University Trailer Court)" said a Housing Business Services report, "provides income in excess of expense for each year."

"This income is used to support other housing units that are not funded debt accounts. These units include Southern Acres Residence Halls and the VTI Dormitory which are not self-supporting."

According to another Housing Business Services report:

"The cost exceeds the income for other housing accounts, i.e., new VTI Dormitory and Southern Acres Residence Halls in the year 1971-72. The adverse operating condition is due primarily to reduced student occupancy for Southern Acres Residence Halls."

"The graph for the University Trailer Courts shows income in excess of expense."

Winners of Center Art Contest announced

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The two winners of the Student Center Art Contest were announced Monday by Clarence G. Dougherty, director of the Student Center.

The winners are Dina Yellen, of Murphysboro, an undergraduate student in art; and Guy B. Hughes, of Okawville, a graduate student in art.

Ms. Yellen's model of a ceramic graphic relief won in the wall mural category and Hughes' model of a plexiglass aluminum sculpture won in the free-standing sculpture category.

Second place in the wall mural category went to Noel Aranov and third place went to Greer Farris. Both are undergraduate students in art.

In the free standing sculpture category, John Ohrt, an undergraduate art student, won both second and third place.

Both Ms. Yellen and Hughes now have the responsibility of constructing their works for the Student Center. Funds amounting to $17,500 have been allocated to the Student Center for the task, which must be completed by next September.

Ms. Yellen's wall mural will be constructed on the wall opposite the automated mini-post office near the south entrance of the center. The wall is 27 feet long and eight feet, eight inches high. Maximum projections of any portion of Ms. Yellen's relief must not exceed three inches.

Hughes' free-standing sculpture will be erected in the new Student Center International Lounge. A circular stone base is already in place, as well as recessed lights.

Dougherty said the money that has been allocated is to be used only to cover the costs of constructing the works. Although neither of the artists will receive any prize money, Dougherty said, the chance to construct works that will be permanently displayed in the building "will certainly enhance their reputation as artists."

Under the rules of the contest, if either winner is unable to undertake construction of his work, the commission will go to the second place winner in that category.

Dougherty's announcement came after final judging Monday afternoon. The panel of judges consisted of Dotti Davis, Tom Kelly and Owen Batterton, representing the Student Center Board; Ed Glynn, representing graduate students in the School of Art; Martha Rosenthal, representing the Art Students' League; Willard Hart, campus architect; Charles Pulley, University advisory architect and Dougherty.

Dougherty said the winning models will be on display for the rest of the week in the Ohio Room in the Student Center.

Dorm residents await decision

Derge considers visitation plan

By Randy Thomas
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In a final attempt to work through the "proper administrative channels," the East Campus Executive Council will wait until May 11 for a final decision from SIU President David Derge on their proposal for self-determination of dormitory visitation hours.

If a decision is not made, Gary Dickerson, a member of the council, said Monday, the organization might attempt to institute the plan on its own against University regulations.

Specifically, the proposal calls for elimination of University control over dormitory visitation hours with the first decision to be left to individual dorm residents.

"We're extremely disappointed with the administrative delay on this issue," Dickerson said. "Ten days is long enough for Derge to make a decision."

He said a mass demonstration by dorm residents in support of the proposal scheduled for Monday night was cancelled after a meeting last Friday with George Mace, assistant to the president for student affairs. Dickerson said Mace convinced the group to wait for a decision from Derge.

Earlier this quarter, several members of the East Campus Executive Council told the Daily Egyptian they were disappointed with the administration for failing to make any decision at all on their proposal. They said the plan was submitted the first week in February with the idea that approval would be granted in time for the plan to be put into effect spring quarter.

When asked what would happen if Derge does not approve the plan, Dickerson said "It's hard to tell."

"It's the end of the quarter and interest will probably be lagging," he said. "All I can say right now is let's wait and see what happens."

Neither Derge nor his executive assistant, Dan Orascanen, were available for comment Monday.

Chicago coed wins queen title of 21st KappaKarnival fest

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Nearly 6,000 visitors left the city Sunday following three days of festivities which climaxed when Chicagoan Janet C. Jeffries was crowned queen of the 21st annual Kappa Karnival.

Ms. Jeffries, a junior in mathematics, was chosen over eight other SIU coeds and presented a trophy at 12:30 a.m. Sunday as more than 4,000 people looked on at the Arena.

The first place runner-up, Marg G. Fortune, freshman majoring in mathematics, and the second place runner-up, Charmaine E. Holland, freshman majoring in elementary education, also were presented trophies. Both are from Chicago.

Kappa Karnival ceremonies started last Thursday and continued Friday with a stage show featuring the "Bar-Keys."

A basketball tournament was presented at 10 a.m. Saturday in the women's gymnasium. The tournament featured about 15 teams and playing time continued to 4:30 p.m. with the teams playing single round elimination. The Alpha Chapter won and the team's captain was presented a trophy later that evening.

The free jazz show originally scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Merlin's nightclub was changed to the Big Muddy in the Student Center.

At 9 p.m. Saturday, doves of people stood in line outside of the SIU Arena waiting to get into the main event, Kappa Karnival itself.

The Karnival featured novelty games and activities such as dart throwing, table pool, staple-pistol shooting, a fortune wheel contest and many other games of chance. Fraternity brothers were dressed as "Apaches", giving substance to this year's theme, "Kappas as Renegade Apaches."

Later, the Arena became a "nightspot" as people danced to records spun by disc jockeys Cecil Hale and Herb Kent. Both are with WVON radio in Chicago.

Live entertainment featured a Chicago musical group "The Weapons of Peace" as they played and sang such tunes as "Get Down," "Slippin' Into Darkness," "Soul Sacrifice," "Big Brother," "People Make the World Go Round," "Down By the River," "Shaft" and others. The group is comprised of Fins E. Henderson, III, vocalist and percussionist; David Johnson, bass guitarist; Randy Hardy, lead guitarist; Bill Leathers, drummer; and Lonnel Dantzier, organist. They presently are working on an album.

The 1972 Kappa Karnival queen was crowned, and by 2 a.m. Sunday, a "Smoke in Peace-Pow-wow" was taking place at Bonaparte's, Merlin's and University City.

Sunday, the Kappa Fraternity House at 112 Small Group Housing had open house and by late afternoon many of the visitors were leaving the city until next year when the 22nd annual Kappa Karnival will be presented.

Quakers to hold 1-hour peace vigil at noon Wednesday in Carbondale

A group of Carbondale Quakers will hold a "Silent Vigil for Peace" for one hour beginning at noon Wednesday at the northeast corner of Illinois and Main Streets.

This vigil is a silent call to witness against the Vietnam war and in particular, against the resumed bombing of North Vietnam. Peg Stauber, co-clerk of the Carbondale Friends Meeting, said.

"We hope that other people with the same concerns will join with us in this vigil," she said. She emphasized that this was not just a meeting for Quakers.

The group will carry two large signs proclaiming the silent vigil and no speeches will be made. Ms. Stauber said. This meeting is in conjunction with another Quaker vigil to be held at the White House at the same time.

The group in Washington, D.C., will march 1 1/2 miles from the Friends Meeting House to the White House and silently stand in protest against the bombing also, she said.

These vigils will be held in the traditional Friends (Quaker) manner and are under nonviolent discipline, she said.

The group held a day-long vigil in January, 1970, to protest the war, she said.

Abortion repeal group plans week of activities

By Pat Nussman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
The Southern Illinois Abortion Repeal Coalition will begin a week of educational activities Tuesday, as part of National Abortion Action Week.

A panel of three birth-control researchers will speak at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Activities Room A of the Student Center, on the pill, and will answer questions regarding contraception, possible improvements and women's physiology.

Wednesday the SIU Forensic Society will present a debate on "Should Anti-Abortion Laws Be Repealed?" at 7:30 p.m. in Lawson Hall, Room 151. Audience comment and questions will follow a short formal debate.

On Friday, a teach-in is planned, which will feature speakers who have experience working with women who need abortions or birth control counseling. The teach-in also may include speakers on population growth, legal aspects of the abortion question, the right of a woman to control her own body and problem pregnancy for mental health patients.

Two short films also will be shown at the teach-in, which will take place at 7 p.m. in Lawson 161.

"What Have You Done For Me Lately?", a one-act play about abortion will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday in Ballroom B of the Student Center. Admission will be free.

The committee, according to a spokeswoman, is also encouraging those women who can travel to Chicago Saturday to participate in a regional demonstration for the repeal of anti-abortion laws. The demonstration on May 6 will assemble at State and Wacker at 11:30 p.m. and rally at the Civic Center at 1:30 p.m.

The referendum question on abortion in the recent student government elections offered positive results to the local committee, according to the spokeswoman.

On the question "Should anti-abortion laws be repealed?" 2,866 students voted yes, 457 voted no and 7 were undecided.

Psychology chairman to headline convention

David Ehrenfreund, chairman of the Department of Psychology at Southern Illinois University, will deliver the presidential address at the annual meeting of the Midwestern Psychological Association (MPA) starting Thursday in Cleveland.

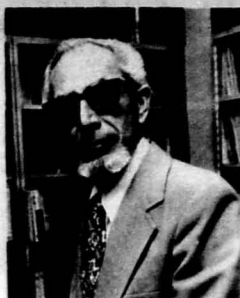

Ehrenfreund, chairman at SIU since 1962, has been president of the MPA for the past year. His address at the convention will dispute a recent psychological theory that human behavior can be explained solely in terms of incentives and rewards. Ehrenfreund, who has done extensive research on motivation, contends that SIU studies indicate "drive" — the stick in the old carrot-stick analogy — is equally important. He is calling his talk "Big D is Alive and Well."

SIU representation on the program will be one of the largest at the convention, which includes membership from all major midwestern universities.

Six psychology department faculty members will either present research papers or chair convention sessions. Seven graduate students and eight former graduate students are included on the list of papers to be presented.

Robert Levitt, Alfred Lit, Robert Radtke and R. Schmeck will be chairmen of sessions in their specialties. Levitt and Radtke also will give papers, as will James McHose and Gordon F. Pitz.

David Ehrenfreund

Graduate student authors are Robert Benefield, George Godel, Clara E. Hill, George S. Howard, D. Lynn Howerton, Douglas Peters and R. David Sturgeon.

Conspiracy alleged

GM, Ford face charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's two largest auto manufacturers, General Motors and Ford were indicted by a federal grand jury Monday on charges of conspiring to restrict competition in the fleet market, the Justice Department announced.

The two-count indictment was filed together with a companion civil suit in U.S. District Court in Detroit.

Ford said, "accusations in the indictment are not true," and GM said it will seek an immediate trial, confident it will be vindicated and the government's charges shown to have "no basis in fact."

Named as unindicted co-conspirators were the National Automobile Dealers Association (NADA), a trade association of new-car dealers franchised by the automobile manufacturers and Peterson, Howell & Heather Inc. the nation's largest automobile-leasing company.

The indictment and complaint charges that General Motors and Ford have conspired and conspired with NADA, Peterson, Howell & Heather and others who are unnamed, to unreasonably restrain and monopolize the manufacture, sale and distribution of automobiles for the fleet market.

Court voids UMW election

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. District Court judge Monday overturned the 1969 election of United Mine Workers (UMW) President W.A. "Tony" Boyle.

Judge William Bryant agreed with the government's contention that the union used UMW money and facilities to conduct an irregularly-studded election weighted in Boyle's favor.

Bryant instructed the Justice Department to submit an order on May 8 detailing how a new election should be conducted under the supervision of the secretary of labor.

In a lengthy opinion following a six-month trial, Bryant wrote that in order to find for the union, "the court would be forced to swim upstream against the tide of evidence too strong to resist."

"The walls of justice are closing in on Tony Boyle," said Attorney Joseph Rauh, one of the parties in the complex legal action.

There was no immediate comment from union officials.

While the judge's decision may be appealed, the effect of the District Court action cannot be halted by a stay.

In the bitter 1969 campaign, Boyle defeated an insurgent union faction led by presidential candidate Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski.

Yablonski, his wife and daughter were shot to death in their Pennsylvania home just three weeks after the election.

Two persons have pleaded guilty to the murders and two more have been convicted in the case. The investigation is continuing.

No estimate was available on when the new election would be called to choose the three top officers of the international union—the president, vice president and secretary-treasurer.

Hanrahan appeal blocked in court

CHICAGO (AP)—Legal papers opposing the appeal of State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan in the controversy over a raid on a Black Panther apartment were filed with the U.S. Supreme Court Monday.

Hanrahan is appealing a Dec. 17 Illinois Supreme Court decision, which failed to grant Hanrahan an open hearing into allegations that a special Cook County grand jury was pressured into returning indictments against him and 13 co-defendants.

Hanrahan's appeal reported the state high court's decision denied him and 10 other defendants their constitutional rights of due process.

Excess funds run dorms

"It is recommended that this condition be allowed to continue, because this excess of income over expense provides additional operating funds for improvements in the area for the tenants as well as funds for the Southern Acres Residence Halls including Southern Acres Co-op Apartments."

An Oct. 13, 1971, informational report by Rinella showed two completed maintenance projects in the University Trailer Court: a replaced roof on the court's geodesic dome, a community meeting place, and painting of a laundry room.

The report listed no other maintenance objectives for the University Trailer Court. Faulty plastic water pipes were cited by Rinella as a reason for closing the park.

According to a schedule for project income and expense by the Housing Business Services, the University Trailer Court is scheduled to take in $20,022 in the 1971-72 year and to spend $14,112, leaving an income of $5,910.

Sexism symposium to focus on gay lib

Warren Bloomfelt, chairman of the gay desk at the National Students Association in Washington D.C., will be a featured speaker at a "Sexism Symposium" to be held May 18, 19 and 20 in the Student Center.

The symposium is being sponsored by the Gay Liberation Association, the Women's Liberation Front and the Student Government Activities Council.

The Gay Liberation Association will sponsor a dance at 8 p.m. May 13 in the Student Center. Films on human sexuality will also be shown. The president of the association said efforts were being made to get Andy Warhol's film, "Trash."

Government lifts some pay and price controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Monday lifted pay and price controls from millions of small businesses and small governmental units.

It also tightened its grip on medium-size builders and hospitals, and concentrated more of its controls manpower on big businesses and big unions.

Director Donald Rumsfeld of the Cost of Living Council said the changes are designed to make controls work better by cutting red tape.

He said controls will stay in effect for the rest of the economy until they work, and declined to predict when they would be ended.

The council removed both pay and price controls generally from businesses and local governmental units with 60 or fewer employees.

However, unions and firms of whatever size in the health and construction industries remain subject to controls because their prices have risen far faster than others.

Also, rent controls remain in effect for landlords not exempted earlier.

The council earlier had removed controls from small retail firms and from workers earning less than $1.90 an hour.

All told, the council now has lifted price controls from a total of 6.5 million firms, accounting for 28 per cent of the nation's sales dollars. Wage controls have been removed from 19 million workers making up 26 per cent of all workers drawing paychecks.

Pay controls also are gone from 67,500 small counties and towns with a total 378,000 employees, which is 83 per cent of all local governments but only 7 per cent of all local government workers. Local taxes never have been controlled.

Rumsfeld said business competition will tend to keep down prices and wages of the exempted firms. He said the council decided that controlling them directly took more manpower than it is worth.

He said also the government will keep an eye on exempted sectors of the economy and could re-impose controls if necessary. "We expect responsible behavior by the firms that are being exempted by this decision," he said.

'Invasion' news coverage: two views

Attack

The 12 of us Vietnamese who came to SIU to protest the AID-financed Vietnamese Center are shocked at the complicity of the Daily Egyptian with the Center officials. It lacked even decent coverage of the panel discussion we conducted on Friday, April 28th.

Pat Nussman stated that "dissident SIU Vietnamese students (wanted) to stage an impromptu debate" with us, and that "the crowd continued to voice agreement" with one virulent SIU Vietnamese. Furthermore, Ms. Nussman stated that the SIU Vietnamese converged to the podium and "were discussing the situation with several SIU policemen."

What truthfully happened was that we were subjected to considerable harassment through verbal insults and threats. A debate had taken place the night before at their request. We bent ourselves backward and gave them the whole evening to accommodate them. They, nevertheless, decided to storm the podium during our Friday panel discussion to the objection of most of those present. The only "crowd" to voice any kind of agreement with such tactics were the SIU Vietnamese themselves. As a matter of fact, they tore off some posters and blocked the vision of people in the audience with their flags and placards. Besides renewing verbal threats against those of us who were sitting quietly and peacefully on the podium, they attempted to get into fist fights with some of the Americans in the audience to disrupt our program. Contrary to the Daily Egyptian reporting, the SIU policemen had to bluntly restrain them from violent abuse. During the scuffle Professor Doug Allen tried to call on the disrupters to respect our right and the right of the audience to continue our discussion on Vietnamization.

We also wonder why Pat Nussman bothered to cover more of the disrupter's views and personal insults rather than the real issues under discussion. Our detailed analysis of Vietnamization from various perspectives were completely ignored.

Perhaps the Daily Egyptian has timely coordinated the disruption with the Vietnamese disrupters themselves. The accusation of "hooliganism" on our group can never cover our peacefully discussion of the realities of Vietnamization and the Center's fear of our representing the true voice of virtually the entire student population in South Vietnam. Mr. Ngo Vinh Long of the Vietnam Resource Center represents the National Student Union of South Vietnam.

Intentional distortion of the situation by the Daily Egyptian represents the fear of the SIU Administration to allow the true nature of the Viet Center and Vietnamization disclosed.

Counter-attack

As an organizer and administrator of conferences, Doug Allen is a flop.

His criticism of the Daily Egyptian's coverage of the antiwar conference of visiting Vietnamese students will not hide his personal failure to inform the campus community adequately and accurately of the conference plans, program or purpose. Nor will it hide the one-sidedness of his view of free speech.

The Daily Egyptian first was informed by Allen of the conference about three weeks before he said it was to begin. At that time, Allen gave the dates and his description of the event as an "invasion" of SIU and Carbondale by a group of Vietnamese students. He did not, if he could, provide names of the visitors, the number of visitors he expected or any specific information about what they planned to do. He did summarize the visitors' collective position as antiwar and anti-Center for Vietnamese Studies.

But, of course, since only Allen knew who the visitors were to be, who could say for sure—besides Allen—just what they thought?

Doug Allen has had cause to object to others' use of hearsay against him. Does he object to anyone's declining to use hearsay which he thinks will favor him?

On Friday, the Daily Egyptian published two stories and a picture on Thursday's events at the conference. Allen later Friday criticized the newspaper for failing to cover the conference and for emphasizing the confrontation between the SIU Vietnamese and the visitors. Yet confrontation is what the visitors and Allen had sought by marching to the Vietnamese Studies Center and calling for center officials to come out and face them.

The extent of the visitors' information about the center was indicated by their calling for Wesley Fishel and I. Milton Sacks, who were visiting professors but who have long since departed the campus. Allen apparently doesn't even keep his friends informed.

On Saturday, the Daily Egyptian reported Allen's shouting match with Pham The Hung, one of the SIU Vietnamese, and Allen's criticism of the newspaper. During the week, 85 column inches of space were given over to the conference. This includes three stories before the conference began. The only story given more space was a four-part series—about Doug Allen and his troubles with the Board of Trustees.

Allen, obviously, doesn't mind having the press behind him when he's doing the confronting, but he doesn't like having the press watching and reporting when he's being confronted.

Although the trustees seem to have a weak case in denying tenure to Allen—so far as the facts of the case have been made public—the episode of the past week raises some serious questions about Allen's sense of fairness and balance in his activities outside his teaching field.

He's talked a great deal about freedom of expression, but what has he really said? If his behavior last week is any indication, he seems to say that free speech is fine so long as it supports him but that opposition—and even news reports of opposition—must be part of some conspiracy.

Allen can dish it out, but he can't take it.

Letters to the editor

Outstanding academic women exist despite prejudices

To the Daily Egyptian:

The President of the University of Michigan, Dr. R. W. Fleming, has been quoted as saying that pay inequities between men and women in academics exist because women, wanting both a family and a working life, cannot excel at an academic post. To discover unformed administrators is so common today that it is normally a waste of time to correct statements that are not only incorrect but that merely show their prejudices. I would care less about the opinion of Dr. Fleming if he had not been taken as a source and inspiration by the Affirmative Action Office of our University. It is then that his opinion may become dangerous.

It takes only a few minutes to learn, for instance, that Marie Skłodowska Curie won in 1903 the Nobel Prize in Physics, and in 1911 the Nobel Prize in Chemistry; that the 1935 Nobel Prize in Chemistry was awarded to Irene Joliot-Curie; that the 1947 Nobel Prize in Medicine and Physiology was awarded to Gerty Theresa Radnitz-Cori; that in 1963 the Nobel Prize in Physics was awarded to Marie Goeppert-Meyer and that by the next year, the Nobel Prize in Chemistry was awarded to Dorothy Crowfoot Hodgkin; and all of them combined family life with a successful working life. It is well known in this country also that the 1966 Fermi Prize was awarded to Lise Meitner, the outstanding standing physicist associated with Otto Hahn.

In my field of specialization, I have had the fortune to meet and work with outstanding married and single women, such as Kathleen Lonsdale, Carolyn McGillivray, Gabrielle Donnay and Katie Dornberger-Schiff, among others, and to marry an outstanding scientist.

It is beyond doubt that women have the same capability as men to excel in science (and in any other activity). It is to their credit that women have excelled in spite of an environment where prejudices against women have encountered in our universities are too common to need any comment. But the opinion of Dr. Fleming, together with the fact that, in the heights of their careers, Lise Meitner could not find a professorship in an American university and Gabrielle Donnay had to leave for Canada to get the full professorship that American universities denied her, indicates that something basically wrong exists in our institutions of higher learning.

Derge asked for bombing views

To the Daily Egyptian:

The presidents of nine American universities—among our most respected—have issued a joint statement opposing our national policy of winning the Indochina war at almost any cost; deploring our heavy bombing of North Vietnam; and expressing their belief of the need for all Americans to show their views, concern and distress. Their statement, as it appeared recently in the N.Y. Times, is appended for the benefit of your readers.

I am herewith asking President Derge to express his views openly on this important matter. With the precedent set by the nine universities, I don't believe his tenure will be jeopardized for doing so.

Cal Y. Meyers
Professor, Chemistry

Following is a statement issued jointly by the presidents of the eight Ivy League universities and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology concerning the war in Vietnam and campus demonstrations protesting the war. The school presidents are Dale R. Corson, Cornell; William J. McGill, Columbia; John G. Kemeny, Dartmouth; Derek C. Bok, Harvard; Robert F. Goheen, Princeton; Kingman Brewster Jr., Yale; Jerome Wiesner, M.I.T.; Martin Meyerson, Pennsylvania and Donald F. Hornig, Brown.

Although none of us can speak for his institution, all of us personally oppose a national policy which seems to be based on the belief that the United States must at almost any cost win the war in which it is engaged in Indochina. The cost of such a policy in human life and suffering are appalling and unjustified. We therefore deplore the bombing of North Vietnam and its civilian population.

America's withdrawal from this brutal war would represent a recognition that this country can overcome past mistakes, for which many must assume the blame, and would open possibilities for conciliation that continued hostilities and bombing can never provide. We believe full disengagement should be pressed and oppose continuation of the air war for any purpose other than the immediate protection of United States troops in the process of withdrawal.

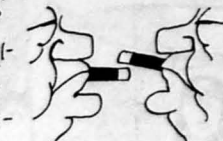

All of us feel deeply the need for Americans of all ages to find nonviolent, constructive outlets for the expression of their views, their distress, and their concern. We support activities to this end as long as they are not at the expense of the rights of others or at the expense of the continuation of constructive, educational, and other scholarly activities of the universities and colleges.

We therefore support the effort of those who work in behalf of candidates sympathetic to their views or communicate their feelings to appropriate government officials. We do not condone coercive action by individuals or groups seeking to impose their particular convictions or concerns on others.

Help special olympics

To the Daily Egyptian:

During the first two weeks of May, the students of SIU will get a chance to show they care about people other than themselves. At this time volunteers will be collecting for the Special Olympian Inc. Foundation. What this means is that money collected will go to providing athletic competition for retarded children. The money in itself will provide for medals, newsletters, and supplementary material for the children involved. But these things only reflect the surface area. In actuality what you will be providing goes much deeper than mere medals and certificates. You will help the child to start building a positive self image, a gaining of confidence, and self mastery as well as physical development.

We students obviously realize the potential in an organization such as this, especially the men on campus who themselves have won medals and realize the recognition one gets and the pride it brings to oneself. Too long we have shunned the retarded and left them in the shadows to merely watch and never participate. We must come to realize that physical development is the key to opening up a stronger mental attitude in these children. The potential of these children is there, will you not help us realize it.

IPP tactics exposed!

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Now that the GOP seems likely to move its convention from San Diego to Miami Beach, the true story behind The Great International Peanuts & Popcorn Case can be revealed.

The story begins last June in the somewhat rundown offices of IPP, a deadbeat conglomerate. IPP President Gullery McFagin, nervously fingering his zircon stick pin, has called an emergency meeting of his staff, all of whom wear blue suede shoes.

"Gang," he says, "unless the Justice Department approves our merger with the Sure-Fire Fire Insurance Company, we're going to have to find honest work."

"Good news, chief," says IPP Counsel, Mawworm Pecksniff. "I just heard that if we airmail $400,000 in a plain wrapper to The White House, we'll get 16 mergers, an autographed golf ball, and the popcorn concession on Air Force One. Of course, that isn't peanuts."

"Peanuts we go," says McFagin gloomily. "An eleven-cent stamp we don't."

"Wait, chief," says Pecksniff. "I got an idea. What we do is guarantee $400,000 to San Diego to hold the convention there. We say it's for 'good community relations' on account we still got two motels and a hot dog stand there."

"You out of your skull? The town's jammed in August. The last thing that good community wants is a convention in San Diego."

"They don't, but the President does," says Pecksniff with a smile. "It's handy to San Clemente. Now if we handle our cards right..."

So it was that IPP hired a broken down character actress named Doty Whiskers to play the role of their crazy, old, drunken Washington lobbyist.

With great fanfare, McFagin announced the $400,000 guarantee and the merger was quietly approved.

Then Mrs. Whiskers went to work and wrote the now famous memo: "The crooked Administration has accepted our dishonest bribe. Shred this and serve with mayonnaise. (Blind copy to Andy Jackerson, the known columnist). Yours for bigger and better graft, Doty."

Once Jackerson had published the memo Mrs. Whiskers called Pecksniff: "Okay, the fat's on the fire. Do I deny now I wrote the thing?"

"You want to cool it, you idiot?" says Pecksniff in horror. "Kindly go have a heart attack some place."

Well, the rest of the story is well-known. Mrs. Whiskers, after admitting she wrote the memo, vanished on a long-planned vacation to Denver where she had a recently planned heart attack.

After three long weeks of newspaper headlines and, finally, a call from a happy Pecksniff, Mrs. Whiskers suddenly remembered something. She suddenly remembered she hadn't written the memo at all.

But by now it was too late, of course. Senators were investigating, the Attorney General Designate's confirmation was in doubt and the GOP began talking about moving the convention to Miami Beach—a prospect that made San Diego and IPP equally happy.

With IPP one merger and $400,000 ahead, McFagin called Pecksniff in to congratulate him and ask him to fix a $10 parking ticket.

"No problem," said Pecksniff, rubbing his hands. "First you offer to contribute $50 to 'his judge's campaign. Then you write this memo, see? And..."

Black faculty hears progress report at meeting tomorrow

The Black Faculty and Staff Council (BFSC) will meet at 12 noon Wednesday in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

The Student Environmental Center (SEC) now has information available for students interested in gardening projects. Ray Lenzi, faculty advisor to the SEC, said Monday.

A program that will provide meals for senior citizens of Carbondale is being initiated by the Carbondale Senior Citizens Council.

The program, Meals on Wheels, will provide three meals a day, Monday through Friday, for persons 55 years of age or older. The program began Monday.

Mrs. Teresa Woods, program coordinator of Meals on Wheels, said the meals will be delivered to the recipients by persons who have volunteered their time for the project.

"I would say that we have had a good response," Mrs. Woods said. "We have a number of volunteers, and without the volunteers the program cannot go."

Recipients of the meal program are obtained through referrals. Mrs. Woods said that anyone can refer a person to them, but referrals usually come through family or close friends.

Woods and the Jackson County Health Nurse interview the potential recipient to see if he is qualified. At the present time they are taking persons who because of physical disabilities are unable to prepare their own meals.

Persons receiving the meals will pay from 25 cents to $3 per day for the meals, depending on their financial ability. A title III Grant under the Old Americans Act will subsidize the cost of the meals.

"All meals are planned under the supervision of a dietician and a doctor," Mrs. Woods said. Special diets are adhered to for those requiring it.

The meals are prepared by the Embers Catering Service at the Carbondale Holiday Inn. Volunteers pick up the meals there and deliver them around noon each day.

The goal of the project is to provide meals that are nourishing enough to keep recipients in good health. Mrs. Woods said she hoped the program will allow many persons to remain at home who would otherwise require hospital care or nursing home attention.

Mrs. Woods said that the program has only five recipients now but the Council hopes to reach 50 persons within the year.

Several robberies, break ins occur at SIU over weekend

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU security police reported Monday that two robberies and several thefts occurred on-campus over the weekend.

A $3.50 pizza and $7 in cash were stolen early Sunday morning from a Pagliani's Pizza employee. Jess Rowan, 21, Carbondale, told police he was delivering a pizza to a room on the fourth floor of Wright Hall at about 3:10 a.m. Sunday when he was surrounded in the dark hallway by four men.

The men took the pizza and money and fled. Rowan said. The room from which the order for the pizza was supposedly phoned was empty. Police said the lights in the hallway where the incident occurred had been unsecured.

James T. Pokin, 21, Wright Hall, told police $2 in cash was stolen from him at about 11:20 a.m. Sunday. Pokin said he was approached by two men while walking south of Trueblood Hall.

One of the men asked him for a dollar. Pokin said. When he gave the man a dollar, the other made the same request, he said.

Pokin attempted to walk away but one of the men hit him on the left side of his head. The men took another dollar and fled. Pokin was not injured.

Mike Economopoulos, 19, Boomer Hall, reported the theft of $110 in cash from his room between 2 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Thursday. He said the money was taken from his pants pocket while he was asleep. The door to his room was unlocked.

A television set valued at $80 was stolen from a basement room in Wright Hall early Thursday morning. The set, owned by Carolyn Mulvey, 20, was one of several items stored in the room. Entrance was gained by tearing the lock off the door, police said.

Jim Long, 20, Schneider Hall, reported the theft of a turntable, amplifier and two speakers worth $140 from his room on April 19.

Two chrome hub caps worth $50 were reported stolen Thursday from a Camaro owned by John S. Bur-ningham, 20, Murphysboro. Burningham said the wire-spoked caps were taken while his car was parked in an on-campus lot.

Police reported the theft of several bicycles and the recovery of two others.

Michael Chusid, 19, Pierce Hall, told police his 10-speed bicycle was taken between midnight and 9 a.m. Friday from near Leutz Hall.

A yellow, 10-speed Schwinn Varsity bike worth $70 was reported stolen Friday by Rolf J. Rolnicki, 20, Carbondale.

Jan Hendricks, 20, Southern Hills, told police her $44 three-speed Penny's bicycle was stolen from near her apartment between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. Friday.

A brown, 10-speed Columbia valued at $40 was reported stolen Thursday from near his apartment by Howard Raik, 28, Southern Hills.

John E. Rhine, 19, Carbondale, told police his three-speed Schwinn worth $25 was taken from near his apartment between 8 p.m. and midnight Friday.

A blue Western Flyer girl's bike worth $20 was reported taken from near Trueblood Hall Saturday night by Linda Lehman, 20, Neely Hall.

A bike theft was apparently foiled while in progress Saturday night when police discovered a green, 26-inch Dawes bike lying on the sidewalk along Logan Drive and Neely Drive.

The rear wheel was still turning and the drive sprocket was locked, police said. The thief apparently fled when police approached.

A Sears girls' bike was reported recovered from near the Security Office Saturday evening. Both bicycles were impounded in the Security Office basement.

Graduate students jointly present thesis art work

By University News Service

Linda Carlson of LaGrange Park and David Lyon of Urbana, graduate students in art at SIU, jointly are presenting their thesis exhibits this week in the Mitchell Gallery.

Miss Carlson is showing approximately 130 small drawings. Her work is considered unique in that she sometimes utilizes stains made from natural materials rather than commercially manufactured artist colors. She received her undergraduate degree in art education at SIU and is a candidate for a master of fine arts degree.

Lyon, who holds a bachelor's degree in English from SIU, works almost entirely in stone ware and raku. He is showing a large number of wheel-thrown ceramics created during the past two years when he was studying for a master of fine arts degree.

Gallery visiting hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays and admission is free.

LONG PLAYING RECORDS AT A SAVING!

'Brothers' is bland with too much told rather than shown

By Glenn Amato
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Given the title—"Brothers"—and the subject matter—Martin Luther King's nonviolent struggle for civil rights for blacks—playwright Anne Burr has provided the Southern and Kutana Players with a script that is entirely peripheral. The struggle is stated plainly enough and depicted, courtesy of the production, with slick and commanding theatricality; but Rev. King himself never comes into focus. He enters and remains a dramatic blank.

Ms. Burr has obviously done her history homework and has given her play a factually truthful ring. "Brothers" opens with the black members of the company expressing their outrage at racial injustice.

A Review

The first 20 minutes are a virtual catalogue of horrors as one learns about the cruelties inflicted on blacks from the time they first came from Africa to be sold as slaves until eight years ago, when Rev. King stepped to the fore of the civil rights movement.

These opening scenes are written, played and staged extremely well, and they lead one to expect more of the same when Rev. King's personal and social dramas are introduced.

It is a promise that is never really fulfilled. Ms. Burr seems to be preoccupied with setting the historical record straight rather than lending her vision of Martin Luther King a distinctive dramatic quality.

Rev. King, as written and depicted here, is colorless. His dialogue is hollow; everything he says seems to have been written for the ages. He isn't a revolutionary; he's merely a nice fellow with liberal ideas, and he is played so nicely by Guilbert A. Daley that he fades into the scenery.

We are left with a play based on the life of Rev. King that inadvertently shifts its focus from him to the others simply because they have more than sampler-speech dimensions.

Malcolm X, for example, emerges as the play's most interesting and forceful character. He has the best-written dialogue, is at the center of the most dramatic situations and is played superbly by Al Boswell. The finest moment in "Brothers" comes when he chastizes Rev. King for his nonviolence and advocates an immediate, necessarily violent end to racial injustice.

Anne Burr

The other blacks etch amazingly clear characterizations as they shuttle between roles. There is genuine emotion to be found in the scenes in which they recount their feelings of helplessness and disgust at prejudice, or else rejoice when they make gains in their efforts for equality. These actors, most of them members of the justly celebrated Kutana Players, know how to take charge of a stage and stir an audience.

What else is there to say about a play that is not so bad—and it isn't so bad—is it its routine? On the positive side, Maria Piscator's direction is swift and unobtrusive. Her actors have been drilled to the precision point, and they take an energetic beating as they hop up, down and around the many levels of Darwin Reid Payne and Bruce Cameron's versatile unit set.

Mme Piscator's production is stamped with an ultraprofessional mark that has done the best with the materials at hand. More Ms. Burr or the audience could not ask for; "Brothers," as a production, is in the best possible shape.

The play itself, sincere as it is, is not. Too much is told rather than shown. The spiritual singing needs to be cut in spots; too often it pads out rather than propels the story. Coretta King (Jessie M. Haley) is as bland and indistinct as her husband. She has little to do other than smile benignly in her Saks Fifth Ave. pantsuit. And the curtain line, in which one of the actors addresses the audience and sums up Rev. King's beliefs and a prophecy for the future, is trite. Like the play—and unlike the production—it needs work.

"Brothers" will be performed at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the University Theatre.

Formula for bridging gaps: parades and maypole dances

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Bridging the gap between the University and the Carbondale community was the predominant theme as Alternative '72 got underway Sunday with a parade through downtown Carbondale.

The new emphasis of bringing town and gown closer together marked a significant change from the spirit that characterized Alternative '71, which was seen at the time as being an alternative to the strife that closed SIU the year before.

Crowds were small along the parade route, which ended at Old Main Park where children from Carbondale's park district performed in a maypole dance to celebrate the coming of May Day.

But despite the small attendance, students and members of the Carbondale community jointly participated in the day's activities in an exchange that was clearly marked by understanding and good will.

Following the maypole dance, Mayor Neal Eckert addressed the crowd, saying that the enthusiasm of the children was indicative of the spirit of Alternative '72 and Carbondale's designation as an All-America city. He added that he was proud to be associated with the Alternative '72 program.

Also participating in the parade were the Carbondale High School Band, the Carbondale Fire Department, Girl and Boy Scouts and Shriners riding motorcycles.

Alternative '72, which Dotti Davis, co-chairman, has described as a festival designed to "give all members of the community a chance to express their creative talents," will continue this week with a film festival of independently produced films, a Chamber of Commerce carnival, an Arena stage show and the Undergraduate and Graduate Student Art Show.

The film festival, entitled "Independent Cinema," began Monday. The films will be shown continuously beginning at 7:30 p.m. every night through Thursday in Davis Auditorium. Admission is free.

The Chamber of Commerce carnival will begin Wednesday and continue until Sunday. It will be held at the intersection of Grand Avenue and Marion Street, featuring booths, rides and other amusements.

It was one of those happenings for kids of all ages—the opening festivities of Alternative '72. Three-year-old Jennifer Eaton (above, left) enjoyed watching the parade—and the people—while her father, journalism graduate student Ed Eaton watched for son Steve marching with the Carbondale High School band. The band picked 'em up and laid 'em down along Illinois Avenue (below, left) with a fire truck bringing up the rear in case anybody overheated. A Shriners mini-cycle troupe cut a few capers (below, right). And after the parade at Shryock, it was maypole dancing on the campus green—and who cares if somebody dropped a ribbon or two.

N. Viets claim Vietnamization dead in south

By the Associated Press

The North Vietnamese are sounding and acting as if they had already achieved a major objective of their offensive: to kill Vietnamization in the South.

They seem to be urging the Communist world, and particularly the Soviet Union, not to do anything that might get in their way.

As the Southern defenders were abandoning Quang Tri, Hanoi came within an ace of finally admitting its regular troops were in the South and intended to continue operating there. Hanoi has never admitted that outright.

The North Vietnamese say the demilitarized zone, established in 1954 upon the division of Vietnam, is not a border and there is no border.

Official Hanoi statements refer to North and South as "two zones of our country."

Hue is a logical target for the northerners. Capture of the old imperial capital would be of great psychological importance and could strengthen the Viet Cong's claims to legitimacy and its position in any peace negotiations.

The U.S. Vietnamization program made South Vietnam's self-reliance the name of the game. If it was to work, the southerners had to show they could hold on to what they had.

The offensive appears to have given the North a great deal of momentum upon which it seeks to capitalize as quickly as possible, but it wants all the help, material and moral, that it can get. Quite possibly, Hanoi fears what could happen if and when President Nixon completes his talks in Moscow.

"The U.S. imperialists have resorted to vile maneuvers in the hope of separating the Vietnamese people from other socialist peoples, but the U.S. imperialists have failed bitterly," said Hanoi's official newspaper Nhan Dan.

"Comrade leaders of Socialist countries have pointed out many times that supporting and helping Vietnam is a matter of principle and a noble international duty," it said. "The peoples of Socialist countries have many times clearly manifested their determination to support and help the Vietnamese people fight the U.S. aggressors until total victory."

A reunification committee of the North's National Assembly called on fraternal countries to "more powerfully support and assist the Vietnamese people's resistance against the U.S. aggressors."

All this could be read as a reminder to the Soviet Union of its obligation, three weeks before the Nixon journey.

Nixon and Brezhnev secret talks focus on missile curb agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Monday that President Nixon has had recent secret exchanges with Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, which, Nixon believes, have substantially increased the possibility of a U.S.-Soviet missile-curb agreement.

Nixon has ordered Ambassador Gerard C. Smith, top U.S. negotiator at the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation talks, (SALT) to return to the Helsinki negotiations with new instructions.

The President was reported confident that the Soviet envoy to the SALT parley, Vladimir Semenov, also will receive from his government new instructions which "can lead to an agreement which is mutually acceptable to both sides."

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced this following a one-hour Nixon session with Smith and top administration, diplomatic, military and intelligence officers.

Ziegler did not go into any details of the prospective U.S.-Soviet accord or say whether it would be reached before, during or after Nixon's May 22-29 visit to the Soviet Union.

The presidential spokesman said that a major advance toward a strategic-arms-limitation agreement was scored in the Nixon-Brezhnev exchanges. They were carried on mainly through written messages, supplementing Henry A. Kissinger's secret talks with the Soviet leader in Moscow April 20-24. Ziegler said this "relates to a broadening of the scope of an offensive freeze."

These words left an implication that Moscow and Washington may be including submarine missiles as part of an initial SALT agreement.

It has already been agreed in principle that a SALT accord would include both defensive and offensive strategic weapons.

The SALT negotiators have worked out proposed limitations to cover antiballistic missiles—ABMs—and land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles of both sides. But whether underwater missiles would be included has been one of the major issues in the recent negotiating rounds.

The White House disclosure of Nixon-Brezhnev secret exchanges concerning the SALT issue followed other recent disclosures.

Clemency granted to 109 imprisoned drug offenders

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, saying it was "simple justice" to make current drug sentences conform to changes in penalties for drug violations, granted executive clemency Monday to 109 imprisoned drug offenders.

The Illinois Parole and Pardon Board announced that the cases of 410 prisoners were reviewed after the governor signed into law last year two new drug control measures.

Ogilvie granted clemency to 67 marijuana offenders, releasing seven and reducing the sentences of the others. The new laws set lower penalties for first-time marijuana offenders.

Forty-two persons convicted of offenses with drugs such as heroin and cocaine were granted clemency. Two were released and the rest received sentence reductions.

Under the new marijuana act, persons convicted for the first time of selling under 2.5 grams of marijuana cannot be sentenced to more than 180 days and the sentence cannot be served in a penitentiary.

The Illinois Supreme Court recently ruled the state's 1931 narcotic drug law was unconstitutional and an unreasonable classification of marijuana with more dangerous drugs.

The ruling came on the appeal of a Kane County man convicted in 1969 for the sale of marijuana. The old law mandated a 10-year sentence for first offenders.

Humphrey, McGovern roam Ohio campaign battleground

By the Associated Press

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern roamed their Ohio campaign battleground Monday, hunting votes on the eve of a primary election likely to install one of them as the man to beat in the Democratic presidential contest.

Ohio offered the main event on a card of four Tuesday presidential primaries in states that will cast a total of 281 nominating votes at the Democratic National Convention.

The Ohio share is 153 delegate votes. McGovern and Humphrey were the chief contenders there, colliding head on after the separate victories that knocked Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine out of active contention in the primaries.

Humphrey claimed a boost because of Muskie's Ohio dropout, but McGovern said he saw a chance of scoring an upset there and capturing a majority of the delegates.

While he concentrated on Ohio and McGovern, Humphrey also was facing Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace Tuesday in next-door Indiana, where a total of 76 convention votes are at stake.

As in Ohio, Muskie remains on the Indiana ballot despite his campaign dropout.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington campaigned in Ohio, too, sniping at both McGovern and Humphrey.

Jackson called McGovern a left-winger, and accused Humphrey of sidestepping issues in an effort to be everyone's friend.

Wallace also was seeking to defend his political base in

City Council to meet, discuss dog fines

The Carbondale City Council will meet in formal session at 7 p.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

Among items to be discussed are ordinances, raising fines for owners whose dogs run loose, and Tuesday's Alabama primary, which will elect 29 members of the 37-vote delegation.

Homestate political foes challenged the governor as he sought to capture at least a majority of the elected delegates.

Democrats... The District of Columbia, which will have 5 convention votes, also chose delegates in a Tuesday primary. The competition there was between Walter E. Fauntroy, the District delegate to Congress, running as a favorite son, and a slate of uncommitted delegates.

Ohio has no presidential preference primary, but the names of the candidates appear above their slates of delegates, and the contest was clear.

In Ohio, about 2.4 million people were eligible to vote, and a heavy turnout was forecast. The Democrats will choose 38 convention delegates on a statewide basis, the rest in congressional districts.

Delegate slates are on the ballot for Humphrey, McGovern, Muskie, Jackson, and Former Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

The polls open at 6:30 a.m. EDT Tuesday for 12 hours of balloting.

In Indiana 19 delegates will be elected at large, the rest of the 76 on a district basis. The Indiana polls open at 7 a.m. EDT, close at 7 p.m.

About 1.2 million voters were expected to cast ballots.

In Alabama, Democrats elect delegates in 29 specially created districts, with the governor's supporters running in 25 of them.

Anti-Wallace Democrats were

President Nixon faces no serious Republican challenge in any of the primaries, although two delegates pledged to Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr. of California were on the Ohio ballot, and 10 were entered in Alabama.

U. House okayed as Derge residence

The SIU Foundation board has approved plans giving the final go-ahead for University House to be used as the official residence and guest facility for President David R. Derge.

The foundation approved the plans at a foundation board meeting in Peoria Thursday.

President David R. Derge says he hopes to move into the house in July. New owners of his home in Indiana will take possession of his old house then.

Under the plan, the University is to sell its $550,000 interest in the house to the foundation with the condition that the property always be used for purposes approved by the board.

The foundation will lease the property back to SIU for one year at a rental of $18,000 with option to extend the lease from year to year.

The lease payments will be held to repay interest on money borrowed for the purchase of other foundation costs in the transaction.

The foundation will recover its investment in the house by selling the $1 million in stock donated to the foundation to cover the cost of the house by W. Clement Stone, Chicago financier and philanthropist. Stone has stipulated that the stock not be sold earlier than Jan. 10, 1973.

The University will spend some $45,000 to furnish and equip the house. Derge will furnish his own private quarters at the house.

The funds from the sale of the University's interest in the house is to be placed into the President's Academic Excellence Program Fund. It will be used to finance programs for improvement of teaching, special tutoring for problem students and honors programs.

PIPRG surveys bank practices

The Illinois Public Interest Research Group (PIPRG) has done a survey to provide students with a general picture of local banking practices.

The survey, which includes nine full-service banks in Carbondale, Murphysboro, Cartersville and Herrin, shows which banks the consumer interest group considers best in terms of checking and savings accounts.

The criteria used for checking accounts were the costs of opening and maintaining an account. The criteria used in savings accounts were interest rates and transactional costs.

The survey took 80 man-hours by five research assistants and is scheduled to appear in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian.

Hays, a graduate of the University of Illinois, as a young man acquired all of the concessions at Yellowstone National Park. Because of his health, impaired by tuberculosis, he disposed of these holdings and moved to California. He became publisher of the Riverside Press and Enterprise and built a large and successful printing company. Another business activity was the acquisition of the transportation system in Glacier National Park in Montana and in Sequoia-Kings Canyon National Park in California.

Hays was an active conservationist and never lost his interest in his native Southern Illinois. He returned frequently, made frequent donations to SIU to further the Fort Massac project, and was a moving force in the organization of the Fort Massac Association.

Robert Gallegly, Foundation treasurer, told the Board: A plaque in memory of Hays is to be placed at the entrance to the Interpretation Center.

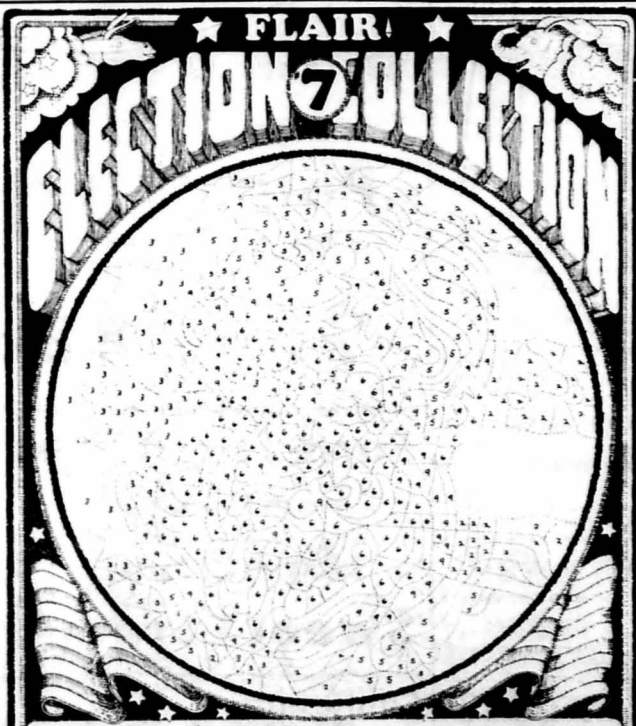

The Board also heard a progress report on the Fort Massac project from Charles Tamminga, chief, program services, Division of Parks and Memorials, and Robert Sherman, district historian, Illinois Department of Conservation; and Basil Hedrick, director of the SIU Museum, which conducted the feasibility investigation leading to restoration of the fort and which has prepared preliminary specifications for the display in the Interpretation Center.

Memos reveal private lives

Jack Anderson attacks FBI sex reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover "happily prepared secret memos" about the sex lives of public figures for Lyndon B. Johnson's presidential bedtime reading, columnist Jack Anderson testified Monday.

Testifying under oath at a House Government Information subcommittee hearing into executive branch secrecy practices, Anderson said he has seen FBI sex reports.

During secret probes of prominent Americans, Anderson said, "their sex lives, drinking habits and personal affairs have come under FBI scrutiny, although the FBI has no jurisdiction nor justification for this kind of snooping."

"A love affair, no matter how sordid, is no business of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Yet FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover has demonstrated an intense interest in who is sleeping with whom in Washington," Anderson said.

"President Johnson was one White House occupant who had a fine appreciation for stories about the extracurricular love lives of public figures," the columnist said. "Hoover happily prepared secret memos, loaded with intimate details about the personal affairs of the high and mighty, for the President's bedtime reading."

Johnson and the FBI had no comment on Anderson's testimony.

At the hearing, Anderson mentioned no names of those investigated. When contacted by newsmen, Anderson said he had seen such a report on the Rev. Martin Luther King, slain civil-rights leader.

Anderson said Hoover signed the reports, "and my White House sources told me the President used to enjoy reading them." But Anderson said they are not furnished to the White House now because President Nixon is not interested in reading them.

Anderson urged an end to "massive overclassification," and said there should be a law to declassify automatically documents after two years.

"The executive branch should be required to explain and to justify any secrets it wished to continue beyond two years. The final decision should be made by a national security commission, with representatives from Congress, the executive, the press and the public," Anderson said.

Judge enjoins 5 businesses in Disney suit

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge enjoined permanently Monday five firms from selling posters and T-shirts that Walt Disney Productions, Inc., claimed tarnished the image of Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and other Disney cartoon characters.

Judge William J. Bauer of U.S. District Court also awarded Disney Production $18,750 in damages and attorneys fees from two of the firms. The other three reached out of court money settlements with Disney.

Judge Bauer's permanent injunction was issued in a suit filed by Disney last July, which claimed the posters and T-shirts showed the cartoon characters "in degrading, lewd, lascivious or drug addictive" poses.

Disney also said the articles "destroyed the worldwide image of innocent delightfulness of the Disney cartoon characters."

Judge Bauer also ordered that the five firms turn over to Disney all their remaining stock of the posters and T-shirts.

Legal action is pending against six other firms named in Disney's suit.

The five firms enjoined, all in Chicago, are Specialty Products, Inc., Can It, Treasure Chest, Downtown Records, Inc., and It Usta B.

One of the posters objected to by Disney showed Mickey Mouse applying a hypodermic needle to his arm, while other posters showed the cartoon characters engaged in an orgy.

Church donating land for houses

CAIRO (AP) — The pastor of Cairo's St. Patrick's Church said Monday that property of the old St. Columbus Church, consolidated several years ago with the St. Patrick's parish, will be given away to persons who wish to build housing on the site.

The property, five lots containing the church, a rectory and an office building, is located in an almost entirely black neighborhood of Cairo.

The Rev. Kasper Deis, pastor of St. Patrick's, said preference in donating the property will be given to former St. Columbus parishioners. St. Columbus Church had an all-black congregation when it was closed.

The property was deeded to St. Patrick's parish last year by the Most Rev. Albert R. Zuroweste, bishop of the Belleville diocese.

Father Deis said offering the property as gifts would give poor blacks an opportunity to build and own housing and would create jobs in the construction industry in the Cairo area.

Escaping refugees clog South Vietnamese roads

SAIGON (AP)—More than 350,000 refugees are on the roads of South Vietnam seeking escape from the thunderous fighting in the northern provinces and central highlands.

American advisers in Saigon reported nearly a quarter of a million refugees are on the move trying to get to Hue and then to Da Nang from Quang Tri, the northernmost province capital abandoned Monday by South Vietnamese troops.

About 5,000 have boarded boats at Tam My, near Hue, to get to Da Nang by sea.

In coastal Binh Dinh, the nation's most populous province, welfare officials said there "has been so much fighting the people don't know which way to run." They estimated the flow of refugees on feet, by truck, on rickety buses and motor bikes at 35,000 mostly from An Nhn and Binh Khe.

Perhaps another 37,000 out of Hoai

An, now in enemy hands, had not made it so far to Qui Nhon.

For the first time in more than two weeks, a rice drop was made on An Loc, the embattled provincial capital in the rubber plantation country 60 miles north of Saigon.

"But," said one social worker, "we don't expect there'll be much of a refugee problem to worry about by the end of the week. The city has taken a fearful artillery pounding."

War victims trying to flee the enemy columns moving on the central highlands capital of Kentum from three directions were bottled up along Highway 4 by sporadic action in the Pleiku Pass, leading to Pleiku City.

A welfare worker just back from Kentum reported a trickle of families, carrying everything they had on their backs, were braving the pass, almost oblivious of the sniper fire and whoosh of mortar rounds.

With all of the northern part of Binh Dinh Province and its recently harvested rice crop in enemy hands, welfare workers were beginning to worry about the availability of food supplies in the coastal areas to the south.

The roads were still open in government-held areas for trucking in food and the Vietnamese air force has flown some rice in to temporary refugee settlements and stopoff points along the route to Qui Nhon.

The renewed fighting in the Mekong Delta in Chuong Thien Province brought the first big wave of refugees to the Saigon area. About 5,000 were housed in a military base at Phu Cuong, 15 miles north of the city.

Hue, a city already so clogged with refugees that its university had to suspend classes to make room for families, suddenly became a huge revolving door, with people moving into the city from the fighting in Quang Tri, and large segments of its own population moving out toward Da Nang to escape the enemy advance.

1972 Pulitzer awards announced

NEW YORK (AP) — After unprecedented debate, trustees of Columbia University awarded the 1972 Pulitzer prizes Monday, including a public service award to the New York Times for its publication of the Pentagon papers.

"Had the selections been those of the trustees alone, certain of the recipients would not have been chosen," the trustees said in an extraordinary covering letter accompanying the announcement of awards.

The trustees expressed "deep observations about the timeliness and suitability of certain of the journalism awards."

The statement did not specify which recipients were referred to.

The national reporting award went to columnist Jack Anderson for his reporting American secret papers in the American decision-making during the Indian-Pakistani war of 1971, which aroused almost as much controversy as the Pentagon papers' publication.

For the first time since 1968, there was no Pulitzer award for drama this year.

The fiction prize went to "Angle of Repose," by Wallace E. Stegner, a professor of English at Stanford University, one of two faculty members of that West Coast school winning arts awards.

The Pulitzer for distinguished biography was awarded to Joseph P. Lash for his "Eleanor and Franklin." He was a friend of the late first lady, Eleanor Roosevelt.

"Stilwell and the American Experience in China," won Barbara Tuchman her second Pulitzer prize for general nonfiction. She won the award in that category also in 1963 for "The Guns of August."

The history prize was awarded Carl N. Degler for "Neither Black nor White." He is also a Stanford University professor in the history department, the book examines slavery in the United States.

James Wright, a professor of English at Hunter College of New York City won the poetry prize with his "Collected Poems."

The prize for music went to Jacob Druckman of New York's Julliard School of Music for his orchestral piece, "Windows," premiered last March 16 by the Chicago Symphony.

Each prize category in journalism and arts carries a $1,000 prize, to be divided when there are multiple winners. The meritorious service award to a newspaper is represented by a gold medal. Neil Sheehan, the New York Times reporter who obtained the Pentagon papers, was not personally cited by the Pulitzer award group. It was learned the judges expressed awareness that 44 Times editors, writers, reporters and researchers worked on the project for four months before publication began June 13, 1971.

However, the Times managing editor, A.M. Rosenthal, said: "Hell, this is really Neil Sheehan's award. It's his whether it has his name on it or not."

Lawyer urges city to hold talks on CIPS rates hike

An official of the Legal Assistance Foundation (LAF) of Southern Illinois has requested the Carbondale City Council to take action to bring hearings to Carbondale on proposed rate increases by the Central Illinois Public Service Company (CIPS).

In a letter to the city council, Gary Kolb, LAF director, asked that the city attorney contact Illinois Commerce Commission officials with a view towards scheduling hearings in Carbondale on the proposed increase of from 11 to 18 per cent.

"It is imperative that the citizens and businessmen of Carbondale be able to express their views to the Illinois Commerce Commission," Kolb said.

Kolb also asked that the council direct the city attorney to review any contracts and agreements the city might have with CIPS.

The council is not expected to act on the matter at its formal meeting Tuesday night.

Linksters place 7th in tourney

Hampered by dismal weather and subpar shooting, the SIU golf team could manage only a seventh-place finish in Saturday's University of Illinois Invitational in Champaign.

University of Indiana's Hoosiers won the 12-team affair. No other team results were available.

Top medalist for Southern was Vito Saputo (157) in the 36-hole best-of-six medalist play. Other marks included Richard Tok and Geoff Young (160) and Brad Miller and Jay Wilkinson (161). Al Diederich's score of 166 did not count in the final team standings.

Monday's rains caused cancellation of SIU's scheduled duel with the University of Missouri-St. Louis. The golfers' next action comes Saturday with an away match against Murray State.

SIU gets juco guard

Southern Illinois basketball coach Paul Lambert has announced the weekend signing of James (Shag) Nixon, a 6-3½ guard from Cuyahoga Community College in Cleveland, Ohio. He signed the national letter-of-intent on Saturday during a Carbondale visit.

Nixon closed out a brilliant two-year career at Cuyahoga this past season when he averaged 26.1 points, 12 rebounds and eight assists a game.

He led Cuyahoga to 22-4 and 22-5 seasons and an Ohio State junior college championship year.

Nixon was named to the honorable mention All-America junior college team this season and was chosen the most valuable player in the Vincennes and Rochester tournaments.

"He possesses great speed and quickness," Lambert said. "And he has an excellent understanding of the game."

"His most outstanding characteristic is his unselfishness. He's a great inspiration to his teammates."

Netters bounce by Oklahoma

Acting like that old rubber ball, SIU's tennis team bounced back Saturday to beat a highly regarded Oklahoma squad, 6-3, on the SIU courts after being beaten by Tennessee Thursday by the same score.

The Salukis were beaten by the Vols in the first match of what was to be a weekend triangular meet but rain on Friday washed out the scheduled Tennessee vs. Oklahoma contest. It was not rescheduled.

The victory over 13th ranked Oklahoma (according to Tennis Magazine) brought SIU's record to 11-2 and set Dick LeFevre's squad up to meet Tennessee again May 5-6 as part of SIU's third quadrangular of the season.

Graham Snook, playing No. 1 singles, found his winning form again when he beat Barr Baynton in two sets, 6-3, 7-6. On Thursday Snook was beaten by Tennessee's Paul Van Min. That defeat ended Snook's winning streak at 11.

Southern's lineup was strengthened by the return of Mike Clayton who had been sidelined with a strept throat.

Clayton usually plays No. 4 or No. 5 singles but LeFevre elected to play him at the sixth spot Saturday. The strategy worked fine as Clayton beat Dick Quigley, 7-6, 6-4.

Also victorious for Southern was Jorge Ramirez at No. 2 singles. He gained a victory over Jack Hess, 6-3, 6-4.

In doubles play, Snook and Ramirez were defeated by Baynton and Hess 6-4, 6-4. In other doubles action, Chris Greendale and Ray Briscoe beat Jack Hughes and Scott Martin while Chris Gunning and Clayton beat Quigley and Rick Lashley.

Salukis win 8-3 and 4-0

'Martin Day' twinbill sparsely attended

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Glenn "Abe" Martin Day arrived and departed Sunday with nary a whisper of support from Southern Illinois' younger baseball fans.

And that's a downright shame because the Grand Old Man of SIU baseball was honored before a nearly empty ballpark that now bears his name.

"Abe" Martin Field, thus named Sunday, seats 1,800. But not more than 300 fans were present at the early afternoon ceremonies honoring Martin.

And fewer stayed to watch Southern Illinois claim its 499th and 500th collegiate baseball victories by topping Western Kentucky, 8-3 and 4-0.

But those who did show responded warmly to the many honors bestowed upon "Abe," the second father of Southern Illinois baseball when he gave it a rebirth 25 years ago.

"Abe" Martin Day in Illinois was thusly declared in a proclamation signed by Gov. Richard Ogilvie and read during pre-game ceremonies by state Senator John Gilbert.

A similar decree was presented by Neal Eckert, mayor of Carbondale.

And two new awards were instituted in Abe's name. The Alumni Letterman's Award will be annually given to the baseball player personifying Abe's characteristics of honesty, leadership, excellence, dedication and loyalty.

The Glenn "Abe" Martin Intramural Athlete-of-the-Year award was also announced.

Festivities for Martin began Saturday night with a banquet in his honor.

"I think it would be less than fair of me if I failed to attempt to tell you how highly honored I feel at this particular time," Martin told the Sunday afternoon gathering.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I have been honored last night and today as I think few other men have," Martin said. "And I want you to know this from the bottom of my heart.

"I thank you, thank you and I thank you."

During a short speech, Martin recounted his days as "quite a mudder" when rain played havoc with one of an eventual five fields, the last bearing his name.

"This field is the fifth field and the last field," the former SIU athletic-coach-athletic director said. "It's the best field and the one, naturally, that I think the most of."

Martin predicted an NCAA baseball championship this year and praised coach Richard "Itch" Jones, his former pupil.

"This University is very fortunate to have him," Martin stated. "And this University will be very fortunate if it can keep him."

With the festivities ended, Southern Illinois got to work, upping its intercollegiate victories total to 500 with the doubleheader sweep.

Southern Illinois trailed twice in the opener, 1-0 and 3-2, but fought back as Jim Fischer pitched his sixth victory against no defeats.

Fischer yielded an unearned run in the first and Steve Long's two-run homer in the third. But he faced just one batter over the minimum the last four innings and retired 11 straight.

The senior right hander struck out seven and didn't walk anybody.

SIU bunched 10 singles plus doubles by Joe Wallis, Dan Radison and Larry Caluffetti for eight runs.

Dan Thomas' fifth homer in the fourth inning of the second game was all Rick Ware needed for his fifth win against no defeats. But the Salukis added three runs an inning later. They collected only four hits the second game.

Salukis host Aces today

Southern Illinois will host Evansville University in a 3 p.m. Tuesday single game. Steve Randall (2-0) will pitch for the Salukis.

Today's game will end a highly successful home stand in which the Salukis have won seven times against no defeats.

The Salukis' schedule shows just two home dates after today, a three-game series May 12-13 with Northern Illinois and doubleheader against McKendree College the following Tuesday.

But four games that were rained out during this most recent homestand might be inserted. Richard "Itch" Jones has sent a contract to St. Louis University for a May 11 doubleheader in Carbondale.

There's a possibility Southern Illinois will host Vanderbilt about 10 days later.

Blue will sign today, Kuhn says

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced Monday that Vida Blue's attorney has advised him that the star left-hander will report to the Oakland Athletics in Boston Tuesday and will be prepared to sign his 1972 contract.

Kuhn emphasized that Blue had not yet signed his contract—only that he will be prepared to sign.

Kuhn said the heralded southpaw pitcher would be prepared to sign on the terms which were worked out in Chicago last week between Blue and A's owner Charles O. Finley.

Finley had offered Blue a $50,000 contract, plus $13,000 as a bonus for 1971. In addition, he offered $5,000 for attorney's fees and $8,000 for a college education.

Trackmen had good, bad day at Drake

The track Salukis had a couple of ups and downs at the Drake Relays last weekend in Des Moines, Iowa.

The Salukis did wind up with two first places and one second, third, fourth and fifth to make coach Lew Hartzog "tickled...to death." Here are the SIU highlights in the two-day meet:

— Ivory Crockett won the invitational 100-meter dash (10.5) in a field of outstanding sprinters such as Charlie Green, Jimmy Greene and Michigan State's Herb Washington. Two weekends ago at the Kansas Relays, Washington edged Crockett for top honors.

— The 880-yard relay team won with a 1:23.1 clocking, a school record and the second fastest time in Drake Relay history. The SIU foursome of Eddie Sutton, Terry Erickson, Stanley Patterson and Crockett won a similar title at Kansas the weekend before.

For disappointments at Drake there were:

— 440-yard relay team's second-place finish behind Colorado. A couple of bad baton passes slowed SIU's time to 47.1. Hartzog expected his men to crack the 40 second mark for a new school record. They had turned in best qualifying time (40.6) on Friday. The 440 men — recently tagged the "Oreos" — doubles as the 880 squad.

— Dave Hill's poor performance in the mile run. The Canadian was clocked in 4:14, a continued downhill slide since an outstanding 4:01.9 against the University of Illinois three weeks ago.
