Moore confirmed as SIU trustee

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Gov. Dan Walker's appointment of Willis E. Moore, 69, to the SIU Board of Trustees was confirmed by a vote of 34-15 by the Illinois Senate Tuesday.

The Illinois Senate Executive Committee turned down the appointment by an almost straight party-line vote of 10-5, with the Republicans in the majority, in early March.

Moore is a registered Democrat but has said he wants to be considered an independent. There are 30 Republicans and 29 Democrats in the Senate.

"My basic feeling right now is relief since the tension of waiting is now over," Moore said. "I'm glad all the work of the faculty and community people for me has been successful. I hope I can justify their faith in me," he said.

Moore said he heard of the confirmation early Tuesday afternoon when he received a phone call from state Sen. Kenneth Buzbee (D-Carbondale).

"I've told numbers of people all along that I thought I had a 50-50 chance based on the assumption that all the Democrats would show up," Moore said.

Buzbee said he was not surprised by the vote. "I'm glad we have it settled once and for all. Now he (Moore) can go about his business as a full board member."

Buzbee sponsored Moore and introduced him to the executive committee that cast its negative advisory vote.

Moore has remained a voting member on the board since Walker announced the appointment in January.

The Republicans on the executive committee reportedly opposed Moore's appointment because of his association with the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) and specifically referred to his role in contesting the board's refusal to grant tenure to Douglas Allen in 1970.

Allen is a former philosophy professor and critic of SIU's Vietnamese Center for Studies and Programs, who was not granted tenure by the board and who

Chief Dakin considered for SIU job

By David Kornblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale Police Chief Joe Dakin, who has resigned effective June 4, is being considered for a position with the SIU law enforcement program. Burton Bond, assistant to the dean of Technical Careers, said Tuesday.

"I cannot envision anyone better qualified than Dakin," Bond said.

Dakin has served as an advisor on the program's board for two years. Bond said. Therefore, they are looking with "some favor at Dakin and his qualifications."

The 36-year-old Dakin said he has had offers in other areas, but "would like to stay in the area."

Dakin announced his resignation of chief of police Monday night at the City Council meeting. He said disputes between himself and City Manager Carroll Fry over police department funding led to his resignation. Dakin said underfunding of the department would lead to cuts in manpower.

Fry and the police association have been negotiating for a contract for more than five months said Det. Ralph Brandon of the department.

The contracts expired at midnight Tuesday.

Police were originally asking for a 7 per cent pay hike and several fringe benefits that would not cost the city extra money. Brandon said. But, Fry, negotiating for the council, would only agree to a 6.2 per cent overall increase.

Fry said the 6.2 per cent increase was all that could be offered under the $808,054 police budget approved by the City Council Monday night.

The council did not act on a request from Dakin for an additional $44,094. The chief said the department needed the extra money to maintain the

Four campus groups argue case as fight over funds goes on

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The tussle over $206,000 in student funds to be allocated by the Joint Fee Allocation Board (JFAB) continued Tuesday as representatives of four major campus groups appeared before the JFAB to request more funds.

Jim Rohr of campus radio station WIDB, Edgar Philpot of Black Affairs Council (BAC), Keith Yuse of Video Committee and Harry Yaseen of Kol Shalom newspaper were each allowed to speak for 25 minutes before the seven JFAB members present.

Edgar Philpot, coordinator of BAC, told the board, "Black students can't relate to the other organizations on campus a lot of times. You're looking at two different culture groups, and their cultural differences won't allow them to enjoy the same activities."

BAC has been allocated only $10,000 for the 1974-75 school year, compared to $20,000 during this year. "I don't think we can even limp along on $10,000," Philpot said.

BAC had requested $46,387 for next year.

"Black enrollment is increasing again," Philpot said. "We represent 10 per cent of the University, yet we don't have one black on his board."

JFAB faculty member Marvin Kleinau told Philpot the board objected to allocating student fees for student wages. "I work all night sometimes," said Philpot, who receives a $1,800 salary as coordinator. "If I didn't get paid I couldn't stay in school."

Kleinau replied, "Couldn't people in a lot of campus organizations who don't get paid say that?"

The board presented the same salary argument to Jim Rohr of WIDB, whose budget was cut from $14,519 this year to $10,000 next year. WIDB had requested $20,234.

"If we don't pay our staff, the quality of work will go down," Rohr said. "WIDB could deteriorate into nothing more than a high school intercom system."

WIDB production director Gary Goldblatt said the station needs $2,000 for a subscription to United Press International (UPI) news service. "A lot of students don't get any national news except what's used for fillers in the Daily Egyptian," Goldblatt said. "The local radio stations aren't programmed for students and you can't even get outside stations in some of the dorms. Students don't have the time or money to get national news. We feel UPI would be a direct service to the students."

"We're expected to do more next year with less money," Rohr said. "We can't be criticized for wanting more money to do a better job."

Harry Yaseen of Kol Shalom told the board, "Unless you fund Kol Shalom, the Daily Egyptian—which is not representative of student opinion and input—will be the only paper on this campus."

Kol Shalom Journalism Club, which requested $7,575 to put out its newspaper, received no money at all from JFAB.

Jack Baier, administrative member of JFAB, said Kol Shalom was not funded "because it is against state law to fund

Kissinger seeks aid from Sadat in Egypt

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew into this Egyptian port city Tuesday night to enlist the prestige and support of President Anwar Sadat in his drive to disentangle Israeli and Syrian forces on the Golan Heights.

The battle for Mt. Hermon has grown fiercer. The 9,200-foot mountain is the most strategic lookout point on the northern front and bestows immense military advantages on whichever side holds it. It commands a view of the Golan plateau, Israeli movement in the 300 square miles of Syrian land Israel won last October and Syria's front lines.

All this makes Mt. Hermon a prime military objective and a key political point in Kissinger's negotiations.

A senior American official said on the flight from Algiers that Kissinger's hopes "were slightly raised" following talks with President Houari Boumedienne and before that with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

But the official said the Middle East peace mission would be "protracted" and there will not be an agreement unless both Syria and Israel make concessions.

In Tel Aviv, Israel's ambassador to Washington, Simha Dinitz, told newsmen that Kissinger will face "very tough negotiation" in bringing Israel and Syria to an agreement to separate their warring forces on the Golan.

And in Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Abba Eban announced that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim will visit the Middle East in early June. It will be Waldheim's second visit to the area in less than a year. His first visit preceded the October war by only five weeks.

With a friendly smile and an enthusiastic "Hello, Henry," Sadat greeted Kissinger and his wife Nancy as they stepped from a Russian-made helicopter that brought them from a military airport outside Alexandria to Maamoura Palace, Sadat's summer retreat.

Sadat told Mrs. Kissinger: "You are among Henry's family."

At the airport, Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy welcomed Kissinger with a now familiar bear hug, and Kissinger showed him a color cartoon from a Lebanese magazine that depicted him getting married—to Fahmy.

Fahmy smiled only faintly. Kissinger will be here until Thursday morning when he flies to Israel. It is there, the official said, that he will begin to really know whether he can succeed.

Israel will have to make the first compromise move because it is Israel that holds the other country's territory and will be withdrawing, the official said.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan had conveyed Israel's opening proposal prior to Chehabi's Washington visit.

U.S. seeking data on vet enrollment

By Jeff Jouet
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Legal counsel for the U.S. Office of Education has requested additional information from SIU's Veteran Affairs Office concerning disputed enrollment numbers used to obtain federal funding.

Walter Gale, director of Veterans Program Unit in Washington D.C., said Tuesday that government lawyers had requested extra information regarding SIU's $125,580 Veterans Cost-of-Instruction (VCI) grant. He would not reveal the nature of the information sought.

The information is in addition to an April 15 report sent to Gale by a committee of SIU Student Work and Financial Assistance administrators.

The committee was chosen by Frank Adams, director of Student Work and Financial Assistance, to recheck guidelines and figures given on the VCI grant application in June 1973.

A Daily Egyptian article in March 1974 claimed figures used to get the grant were inflated.

The VCI grant was used to fund SIU's Veterans Affairs Office during the 1973-1974 school year.

Gale said his staff had reviewed the SIU report, made recommendations for action, and sent the recommendations to legal counsel. Legal counsel then asked for the supplementary information, Gale said.

Gale would not comment on what recommendations his staff had made concerning SIU's grant, but said that an announcement would be available "almost immediately after legal counsel receives the requested information."

"Our recommendations will be made public by next Tuesday at the latest," Gale said.

Adams acknowledged receiving the request for "more figures" and said he will try to "get the figures out to Washington in a few days."

Adams would not discuss the nature of the additional requested information.

Information wizards answer all questions

By Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Information Center on the first floor of the Student Center gives out all kinds of information to all kinds of people.

"We're lost," one elderly woman said as she and a companion approached the Information Center window. "Could you give us a map of the campus?"

After being supplied with a map, the woman studied the map intently, and then said, "Just one more question, where are we now?"

Karen Stotlar, supervisor of information, said this is the usual sort of question she is asked everyday. She said she spends a lot of time giving out directions.

"But we do get some strange and unusual inquiries," she said. "One fellow called up and said he was trying to impress this good-looking girl by cooking her a steak. So he asked me how to fix it so it would be tender. I told him to cook it rare."

She said one man called up and said he had a fight with his girl friend over a poker game. He said he had a straight flush and his girl friend had a full house. She wouldn't believe a straight flush beat a full house so he called Ms. Stotlar who confirmed that he was right.

"One fellow called up and wanted to know the difference between a centimeter and a gram," she said. "I told him that was like describing the difference between a pound and a mile."

Several persons have called up to ask when the Kentucky Derby will be held, Ms. Stotlar said. She said she was unable to answer the question the first time. She found out so she can answer the question when it comes up again.

One person wanted to know the age of Cher Bono, Ms. Stotlar said, so she looked it up in the almanac.

She said some questions are asked over and over again. A sample of such questions are, "Is advisement at the Arena?" "My class isn't where it's supposed to be, do you know where it's at?" and "When is the campus beach open?"

"Sometimes you just go out of your tree," she said. She reached for the phone and quickly answered another question.

She said students also call up wanting to know baseball scores, how to drop a class and how to deal with their landlord.

"We try to keep up with baseball scores," she said. "But on some questions we refer students to another office that we think is more capable of answering the question."

The Information Center also serves as the central lost and found on campus.

Ms. Stotlar said some unusual items which have been lost in the past include a motorcycle wheel, a bowling ball, a typewriter and a duffle bag of dirty clothes.

She said it does get pretty busy sometimes but that she thinks it's important for people to know where the Information Center is located.

Senate action on JFAB report expected soon

The Student Senate is expected to begin debate for the fourth consecutive week on the Joint Fee Allocation Board (JFAB) report when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Ballrooms.

The JFAB report has been tabled at the last three senate meetings, but is expected to be voted on this week. JFAB Chairman Terry Mullins asked that JFAB be given extra time to hear the more than 30 campus groups requesting a total of $206,981 in funds.

The JFAB met Tuesday afternoon for final hearings.

The Senate is also expected to vote on a bill urging the Illinois General Assembly to approve Gov. Dan Walker's recommended planning budget for SIU.

Fete to feature Piscator's play

The Friends of Morris Library annual spring dinner will be highlighted by a presentation of Erwin Piscator's play, "In the Matter of Jay Robert Oppenheimer."

The dinner will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

Piscator was a protest theater director in Germany. A display in his honor will open Wednesday in the Rare Book Room of Morris Library, where it will stay for several months.

His widow, Madame Piscator, will be a guest at the dinner and at a reception at 5:30 p.m. at the University House.

Archibald McLeod, chairman of the Department of Theater, will direct the play, assisted by John Cannon. The cast of 14 will consist of SIU faculty members.

present level of services. The 6.2 per cent increase would not allow department officials to fill the present three vacancies, and it would also mean laying off another man, Brandon said. To prevent another layoff, Dakin had to forego new equipment.

Brandon also said that if the department loses one more man, it will lose federal funding. Federal funding is now keeping seven of the policemen on the jobs, he said.

Federal regulations require maintenance of a certain number of officers to carry out some of the federally funded programs, Brandon said. Police community services and crime prevention are two such programs.

Brandon said the police association has no intention of striking, slowing down or resorting to any other tactic that would jeopardize the city's safety. But since police cannot do anything to aid negotiations, he called for public support of the officers.

"We hope the people of Carbondale will talk to the council in our behalf order that we may be dealt with in a fair manner," Brandon said.

Brandon said Dakin was "the finest chief Carbondale ever had."

Det. Charles Stonecipher, vice president of the Carbondale Police Officers Association, said he was sorry that a chief who professed such a high degree of professionalism was leaving.

Stonecipher said Dakin's programs and the employment of college-educated officers were largely responsible for that professionalism.

Tom McNamara, administrative assistant to the chief, said Dakin has made the department a "highly organized and effective force." By instituting functional divisions, patrol districts and the 10-hour, 4-day work weeks, the department has become a highly effective responsible unit, he said.

Before coming to Carbondale, Dakin was employed as an assistant administrator of industrial security and fire protection for a Standard Oil affiliate in Venezuela.

His other experience included seven years as an officer with the East Lansing, Mich., and Oakland, Calif., police departments. He spent two years as a security representative with Lockheed Missile and Space Co., and a year as coordinator of law enforcement for Macomb County, Mich.

He came to Carbondale in December, 1970.

Slavik named SGAC chairman

Jim Slavik, a junior from Braidwood, was named chairman of the Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) at SGAC meeting Tuesday.

Slavik, a psychology and child and family major, will take office summer quarter. He was chosen by a selection committee composed of the student body president, two student senators and five SGAC members.

Slavik said he hopes to keep up the excellence of the SGAC program. He said he plans to implement coffee hours and seminars to give students a chance to talk to the SGAC chairman.

"I'm looking forward to meeting the students," Slavik said. "I just want to represent the students and do what they want to do."

Senate confirms Moore as trustee was turned down in December, 1971 for a continuing appointment with the University.

Doug Whitley, co-director of the Association of Illinois Student Governments (AISG), said Tuesday he and the association expected the confirmation and were quite pleased with it. Whitley testified for the appointment at the committee hearings held in March.

Moore is a retired Philosophy Department chairman at SIU. He fills the vacancy created by resignation in July of Dr. Earl Walker of Harrisburg. The term expires in January, 1977.

Moore joined the SIU faculty in 1955 as chairman of the Philosophy Department and remained in that position until his retirement Aug. 31. He has served as president of the local chapter of the AAUP and was an active member when he taught at the University of Tennessee for eight years and the University of Missouri at Columbia for 12 years.

He is a former chairman of the Faculty Council and has served as a representative on the Faculty Advisory Committee of the Illinois State Board of Higher Education for seven years.

Moore holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Missouri at Columbia and a Ph.D. from the University of California at Berkeley.

religious organizations Rabbi Vinecour runs Hillel House and Hillel runs Kol Shalom.

"Kol Shalom says it is a member of the Jewish Newspaper Association under its masthead, and the editor in chief is Rabbi Vinecour," Baier continued.

Yaseen said it is unfair that the BAC newspaper, Uhuru-Sasa, receives JFAB funding while Kol Shalom does not. "Both papers are vital to the University community," Yaseen said.

Keith Vyse, of the Student Government Activities Council Videotape committee, represented another group which received zero funding from JFAB.

"We have had a very good year; some of our video programs have drawn crowds of 1,800," Vyse said. "We got $4,820 this year and we have done a good job. I don't see why we're not getting any money for next year."

Transcripts labeled 'proof of innocence'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's edited Watergate transcripts were delivered to Congress Tuesday with a White House brief that pronounced them proof of his innocence—and quoted him as ordering amid the unraveling cover-up a year ago that "everybody in this case is to talk and to tell the truth."

In a volume the size of a big-city telephone directory, 1,308 pages of transcripts were sent to the House Judiciary Committee for its inquiry into Nixon's possible impeachment.

Separate copies in manila envelopes were delivered to the 38 committee members, who will meet Wednesday to decide whether to accept them in lieu of the White House tape recordings the panel had subpoenaed.

With them went a 50-page brief prepared by Nixon's impeachment lawyer, James D. St. Clair, which wove presidential quotations together with the White House account of what the President said and did during the crucial phase of the Watergate cover-up attempt.

"Throughout the period of the Watergate affair, the raw material of these recorded confidential conversations establishes that the President had no prior knowledge of the break-in and that he had no knowledge of any cover-up prior to March 21, 1973," the St. Clair paper concluded.

"In all of the thousands of words spoken, even though they often are unclear and ambiguous, not once does it appear that the President of the United States was engaged in a criminal plot to obstruct justice," it said.

While the official business was the delivery of those papers to the House panel, their public release was perhaps more crucial to Nixon's latest effort to clear himself and settle the Watergate scandal.

For the President himself said Monday night that in releasing the papers he was placing his trust in the basic fairness of the American people to examine the evidence and see that he sought only to do what was right.

One of the quotes included in the St. Clair brief as evidence of Nixon's determination to clear up Watergate came from an April 15, 1973, conversation with Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen about the refusal of conspirator G. Gordon Liddy to cooperate with government prosecutors.

"I want him to be sure to understand that as far as the President is concerned, everybody in this case is to talk and to tell the truth. You are to tell everybody, and you don't even have to call me on that with any anybody. You just say those are your orders."

Another, from an April 14 conversation with former aide John D. Ehrlichman, reads this way: "We have to prick the boil and take the heat. Now that's what we're doing here. We're going to prick this boil and take the heat. I — am I overstating?"

Ehrlichman: "No, I think that's right. The idea is this will prick the boil."

Flood project may begin next spring

Construction may begin next spring on a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers project to prevent flooding in northeast Carbondale.

The project's timetable and other details were discussed Tuesday night at a public hearing which drew about 30 persons.

Colonel T.R. Peterson represented the Army Corps at the meeting to explain the project, which includes enlarging channels and constructing additional culverts on Glades Creek and in Attuks Park.

Peterson reported that the total cost of the project including planning and administrative costs, would amount to $560,000. This cost would be covered by the federal government, Peterson said.

The cost of buying extra land for the enlarged culverts and new culverts would have to be met by a local sponsor who would also be charged with the maintenance of the system.

Peterson estimated the cost of the extra land at $33,000.

Under the project, culverts would be widened in the Attuks Park area and on Glades Creek and its tributary. The Attuks Park culvert would average two to three feet in depth.

The culvert on the Glades Creek tributary would be one to two feet deep and 1,500 feet long. The culvert on Glades Creek would be three feet deep from Washington Avenue to the Illinois Central and Gulf Railroad crossing. The culvert would then average three to five feet in depth to the last railroad crossing.

Ten additional culverts would be built along the Glades Creek route, Peterson said.

Peterson said that according to studies made from 50-year rainfall reports, there will be only a two per cent chance of flooding along the route yearly.

The culverts would be made of earth and kept grassy to prevent erosion. Peterson estimated the cost of the extra land at $33,000.

It's Spring Again.

Spring is the time when the flowers bud and the sun feels warm on one's neck. It is the time when our baseball team hits home runs and our track team seeks its mark and it is the time when the girls eagerly sun themselves on our lawns but it is still a time when there is a lot of work ahead.

Those who are blind may not be able to see the ball as it sails over the wall or visualize the naturalness of the girls but yet the blind student has a lot of work that lies ahead of him or her. But in order for him to get this work done involves the use of readers. Those valiant souls who give of their time and gain for themselves something extra on the inside. However lately it seems as though most students are kept busy sunning, playing ball or having fun and have too little time to give to a student who may need a reader. Hopefully there are some however who are still willing to give two hours a week as a volunteer reader and who will put their eyes where their heart is and let the blind student know that they are available.

Movie excuses mind, soul

To the Daily Egyptian:

Why is it our society has sunk to such a depth to call a film as the "Exorcist," entertainment? In days of old, men gathered in arenas to watch other men being torn from limb to limb and loss of life by man-eating lions.

Today we are being invited into a similar arena to watch a child being torn apart in mind and soul, except this time the spectators, like the mock-up exorcist, may also become its victims, for this time the destroyer is not a visible and highly contained lion, but is an invisible and quite free spirit which attacks man's mind. "For your adversary, the devil, prowls around like a roaring lion, seeking some one to devour" (1 Peter 5:8).

Is your mind and soul any less important than your life and limb?

Health service personnel praised

Recently, because of a serious illness, I was a patient in the university infirmary for many days when I had an opportunity to observe Health Service care. As this was my third stay in a hospital, I found the services of the doctor, infirmary nurses and student aides to be very professional in addition to being thoughtful and considerate.

Too frequently criticism has been leveled at the Health Service or its staff and I would appreciate the opportunity to express my satisfaction and gratitude for the care and treatment I received. If you could print this in the DE I would thank you in advance.

Why contest?

To the Daily Egyptian:

Recently we had an election on campus that was for the position of Student Trustee. The winner was, as we all know, Mathew Rich.

Today, I was told that his election to the post of Student Trustee is going to be contested by Ron Adams. To me this seems asinine. Why should he, who came in third of the four running, try to evict Mathew from the post we wanted him to have.

I was always told that in the United States our officials are elected by ballot, not appointment. To me, it seems that Mr. Adams is trying to appoint himself to this role for which he and only 597 other people believe he is capable.

Thank you for your time.

Veteran benefits unrealistic

The educational benefits paid to Vietnam era veterans under the current G.I. bill are, at best, very inadequate. To expect anyone to live on $220 per month and, from that amount, pay for tuition, fees and books is unrealistic.

Some states have supplemented the federal benefits by providing veterans with scholarships to attend state institutions. But the effect of this is to virtually force veterans to attend state schools. A veteran with no outside means of support would be unable to attend a privately owned school (where tuition is often $3000 per year) no matter how much more that school may meet the veteran's needs.

A more realistic approach would be to allow that $220 to be paid strictly as subsistence. In addition to that, the government would also pay for tuition, fees and books. That would give the veteran the option of attending the school of his choice.

Opponents of this type of program have cited inflation as a major drawback. But would this be any more inflationary than this year's record military budget? Or the government's recent decision to buy $45 million worth of prime beef (at $1 per pound, wholesale)?

Maybe some priorities need reexamining. Veterans Administration spokesman often voice concern over the small percentage of veterans that take advantage of the G.I. Bill. Maybe instead of taking time to gather statistics, they should be actively working for increased benefits.

An out-of-work and unskilled veteran is no more than a burden on this country. A trained veteran can be a useful member of society.

The burden of increased benefits need not be borne by the federal government alone. States have as much to gain from producing useful citizens and as such should share some of the costs.

Government agencies on all levels need to work together to produce a viable plan that will get this country's veterans into colleges and trade schools.

It's time to give the veterans a fair chance to return to society and become valued and productive members.

It seems that everybody these days is jogging around on a diet of raw carrots and vitamin E pills in high hopes of living to be a hundred.

Moreover, biologists are happily predicting that with new technological breakthroughs in slowing the aging process everybody will soon be able to achieve this long-dreamed-of goal.

They might just as well happily predict a thermonuclear war.

For if we all live to be a hundred, as any sociologist will tell you, we'll have overpopulation, famines, unemployment, revolutions and an ecological catastrophe that will make life a hell on earth. So much for those selfish, carrot-munching joggers.

The only humanitarian to face the problem squarely is the famed Guru, Majaraha-ha, spiritual leader of The Eternal Temple of Shortevity (cq) Sect. His best-known work is, of course, "Think of Your Fellow Man: Drop Dead!"

Like most spiritual leaders, The Guru strictly adheres to a rigorous diet. He eats only the foods he likes, such as fried cream, chocolate parfaits and lobster bisques.

"Cholesterol," he tells his devout followers, "is the path to sainthood."

The Guru is also something of a fanatic about exercise. He avoids it at all costs. Indeed, his book sets forth only two positions for meditation: The Prone and The Supine.

The Guru advocates meditating for three half-hour periods daily—during the noon, six o'clock and eleven o'clock news shows.

"This stimulates the true believer to meditate on such subjects as crime, violence, corruption and the stock market," he says. "Let us not forget that a high moral plane can be achieved through a high blood pressure."

The Guru stresses stress. His adherents perform their devotions twice daily (during the morning and evening peak hours) by stalling their cars in the center lane of the nearest freeway.

"Blessed also is the man with many children," the Guru is fond of saying, "particularly if they are teenagers."

In this regard, he is also a strong advocate of marriage. But at the same time, he practices total abstinence as a means of demonstrating his spiritual resolve. For example, he abstains from medical checkups, vitamin pills and filing tax returns.

"This last, he feels, is the secret to the Way of the True Believer. Not only does evading taxes provide him with the funds for liquor, women and fast-paced living, but it also induces insomnia. "The righteous must be awake," he says, "at least 20 hours a day."

Nor is the Guru without medical knowledge. "Show me the man who smokes three packs a day," he says, luxuriously inhaling his filter-tipped Hackenkoff (Tar 22 mg., Nicotine 1.8 mg.), "and I'll show you a humanitarian who thinks about generations yet unborn."

By assiduously following his program, the Guru claims that all Americans could cut 20 years off their life spans—thereby reducing overpopulation, famines and unemployment and making this a better world for others.

"After all, it isn't how long you live," this wise man says. "It's how much."

All of his followers agree. "He's right," both of them say.

Politicos need psychology

To the Daily Egyptian:

Two years before the 1969 referendum in which French voters decided to reject De Gaulle's leadership, De Gaulle dismissed his Prime Minister, Georges Pompidou, who was viewed as a serious candidate for the presidency by the French public. Le Grand Charles preferred Couve de Murville, his Minister for Foreign Affairs, as his successor. Yet, it was known that if Murville was the candidate, the Gaullists would be overwhelmingly defeated.

As we know, Pompidou became President. In turn, Pompidou fired Jacques Chaban-Delmas, his Prime Minister, who appeared to be a strong contender for the presidential nomination, when Pompidou preferred Michel Jobert, Minister of Foreign Affairs. But to nominate Jobert would be a catastrophe for the Gaullists—perhaps even the end of their power altogether.

But then, Pompidou did not resign even when he knew he was dying.

In Washington, the Watergate scandal was followed by the Income Tax affair, thus making impeachment proceedings more likely. Meanwhile Nixon continues to further his own debacle by insisting on actions which further weaken his appearance as a "defender" of the law. This brings to mind the possible spectacle of Gerald Ford serving Nixon with an eviction order to get him to vacate the White House after conviction.

And then there are our local events... The question these things raise is what forces politicians to hang onto the trappings of office long after real power and authority have departed. Or to do precisely what will bring about the action they presumably want to avoid. Apparently power and logic do not coexist in comfort. Since political science has few answers, perhaps we should turn to psychology.

'Fluo resent tribute' questioned

To the Daily Egyptian:

Thursday night, as I was jogging around the lake, I noticed the lights were once again offering their fluorescent tribute to the skies of Southern Illinois? Is this illumination really necessary? The energy crisis is still and shall continue to be an unpleasant reality until fuel consumption is reduced or new energy sources are found. We must not return to previous levels of consumption whenever oil imports are increased.

During the course of my runs, (which I realize, are made rather late) I have only met two people, also joggers. I'm sure they also wouldn't mind running in the dark. Please, let's conserve energy now.

The Justice Said

The year is 1971. Children were called for a hearing before a Juvenile Court. The Judge excluded the general public, denied requests for a jury, and promptly declaring the juveniles delinquents. Did the state treat these children fairly and extend to them due process of law? Yes, holds the U.S. Supreme Court. Mr. Justice Blackman said:

"In theory the court's action was to affix no stigmatized label. In fact a delinquent is generally viewed by employers, schools, the armed services—by society generally—as a criminal. In theory the court was to treat children guilty of criminal acts in noncriminal ways. In fact it labels truants and runaways as junior criminals.

"In theory it was to exercise its protective powers to bring an errant child back into the fold. In fact there is increasing reason to believe that is 'intervention reinforces the juvenile's unlawful impulses.' (McKeiver v. Pennsylvania, 29 L.E. 2d 647).

AEC unveils braille machine

CHICAGO (AP) - The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) introduced today a portable machine which can make a 400-page book available in braille from a small reel of magnetic tape.

The inventor of the machine, Dr. Arnold Grunwald, an engineer at the AEC's Argonne National Laboratory, told a news conference that the machine not only will reduce the bulk of braille books, but will make more books available to blind persons at a lower price.

At present, a braille book costs an average of about $40, he said, and the Argonne braille machine, as his device is called, may bring the cost down to that of a paperback book. Grunwald said only 300 of the 30,000 books published annually in the United States are translated into braille because of present cumbersome methods and the high costs.

He announced that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which has supported his work, is financing 30 of the machines for further testing and trials in schools for the blind.

Grunwald demonstrated the machine with his son, Peter, 21, who is blind.

Books for the blind are stored on magnetic tapes 3 1/4 inches in diameter by 1/4 inch. These reels are then placed in the braille machine. From the signals on those tapes, the machine—the size of a portable typewriter—produces a continuous narrow plastic band of braille characters which the blind person reads by touch just as the braille page is read.

The braille band is erased and recorded as it goes through the machine, and can be changed the way a typewriter ribbon is changed when it wears out.

The speed can be adjusted from 70 to 300 words a minute to suit the reader's pace.

Womick contract talk tabled by City Council

The Carbondale City Council elected to table for further consideration a proposed contract between the City of Carbondale and City Attorney John Womick at its Monday meeting.

The contract would permit Womick, whom City Manager Carroll Fry said cannot handle the overload of work alone, to use other attorneys as long as he stays within the designated operating budget. "It would give him more time to act as corporation lawyer for the city," Fry said.

Councilman Clark Vineyard and Councilwoman Helen Westberg both said they want to examine the contract further before they vote on it.

The council approved the 1976-77 Capital Improvements Program and the ordinance adopting the annual city budget for 1974-75.

Yoga class open to high schoolers

Free yoga for high school students is now offered every Wednesday evening at the Carbondale Park District.

Sessions held from 5 to 6:30 p.m. are taught by the Ananda Marga Yoga Society from SIU.

The program started April 7, but new students are welcome to come and join any Wednesday evening, said program coordinator George Whitehead.

The park district is located at 208 W. Elm St.

During the informal meeting, the Carbondale zoning map was reviewed but a decision was withheld until the people affected by a new map could be informed.

Mayor Neal Eckert said the council would discuss the new map again at a special May 8 meeting.

The council found no objections in their review of the specifications for moving and clearing services for the city.

Special Olympics needs volunteers for regional games

Volunteers are needed for the Southern Regional Special Olympics scheduled for May 10th at Bleyer Field at Carbondale Community High School, 200 N. Springer.

The Olympics, designed especially for the mentally retarded, have been sponsored on the national level by the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation since 1968.

According to Jane Hodgkinson, co-director of the games, nearly 1,000 volunteers will be needed because of an expected increase in participants. Approximately 1,200 persons are expected to participate in this year's Olympics.

"Volunteers make the Special Olympics," Ms. Hodgkinson explained. "It is a learning experience for the volunteers, and one that they will find themselves enjoying because they are with people having a good time."

Barbara Silverstein, a volunteer last year and planning to assist again this year, said, "It's like their day on stage and they love every minute."

Ms. Silverstein said people should come out and assist just for the satisfaction they'll receive in seeing the smiles on the faces of the participants, and added, "even

Last year, nearly 700 volunteers composed mainly of SIU faculty and students provided the backbone of the staff needed for the Special Olympics.

Activities of those assisting include recording statistics, timing and starting events, judging events, serving refreshments and cheering and congratulating participants.

Dave Condon, sports columnist for the Chicago Tribune and main speaker at the recent Special Olympics banquet held at SIU, said persons should volunteer selfishly, "just for the good feeling you will have from helping."

"Thank God," Condon said, "for putting us in the position to help the mentally retarded."

Meetings have been set for Thursday in the Home Economics Lounge. For more information, contact Val Silvy at 453-4331.

Atlas saves gas

NEW YORK (AP)—Mileage charts and detailed area maps are turning out to be the best friend of the "gasless-Sunday" driver, according to veteran road atlas publisher Rand McNally. The company's 1974 road atlas includes point-to-point mileage charts for the United States, Mexico and Canada. It also details historic, educational and recreational sites to help careful drivers plan their trips and pick their gasless Sunday destinations in advance.

Health experts optimistic

Eradication of smallpox seen

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—The head of the World Health Organization predicted Tuesday that smallpox, mankind's most-dreaded killer disease throughout history, will be eradicated next year.

Director General Halfdan Mahler thus confirmed optimistic progress reports from a worldwide campaign launched in 1967 against the disease that killed more people in the past 3,000 years than all wars, according to health historians.

Health workers and a simple needle that costs less than a penny are credited with achieving what

Dr. Mahler called the "first miracle of public health."

Though conceding "certain tasks have still to be accomplished" in several countries, including Bangladesh, Pakistan and Ethiopia, he said he is confident that 1975 will see the "last new case of smallpox in the world."

Mahler also said his confidence was not shaken by epidemics in India, Pakistan and Bangladesh.

The world total of new cases soared from 65,000 in 1972 to 130,000 in 1973. When the campaign started seven years ago, the total had been 2½ million.

The campaign against smallpox is only one of dozens of drives sponsored by the World Health Organization against communicable diseases, including malaria and polio.

When the smallpox campaign started, the disease was considered endemic in about 30 countries. Smallpox mortality was highest in Asia, up to about 30 per cent, and it was out of control on the Indian subcontinent and in Indonesia.

The biggest break-through came in 1968 with the introduction of the bifurcated needle, which is dipped into the vaccine and used to prick the skin about 15 times. Trained vaccinators can process up to 1,500 persons a day.

The needle has been used on hundreds of million people and has been described by health experts as "infallible even if badly misused."

The health organization's latest weekly report, issued last Friday, listed 2,123 cases in India and Bangladesh. The death total for India was not given, but for Bangladesh it was 79.

One of the last great European epidemics in the 19th century claimed 41,000 dead in Britain alone.

School of Music slates program for brass choir

An evening of "Music for Brass Instruments" has been scheduled by the School of Music at SIU for 8 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium.

With Phillip Olsson, professor, as conductor, the program will include two numbers by the University's 11-piece Brass Choir, and two by smaller ensembles.

The Brass Choir will play Knut Nystedt's "PIA Memoria" and "Symphony for Brass Choir" by Victor Ewald.

Francis Poulenc's "Trio" will be played by Wayne Miller, trumpet, Sue Govier, horn, and Richard Reese, trombone. These three players will be joined by Harry McLamb, trumpet, and Glen Knobloch, tuba, for Collier Jones' "Four Movements for Five Brass."

In addition to Miller, Reese and Miss Govier, the Brass Choir also includes Roger Winter, John Connolly and Roger Davis, trombones; David Janson, horn; Stan Adams and Jared Rodin, trombones; Charles Hake, baritone, and Michael Stalker, tuba.

The public is invited to attend without charge.

Atlas turns golden

NEW YORK (AP)—The first annual road atlas of the United States was published by Rand McNally 50 years ago, in 1924. To celebrate this half-century milestone, the veteran road map publisher is issuing a golden anniversary edition of the road atlas for 1974, back-to-back with a facsimile of its 1926 road atlas—the earliest of Rand McNally's road atlases known still to exist.

No copies of the original 1924 atlas could be found, even after an extensive search of the country.

Partygoers are to dress in costumes resembling someone they admire or always wanted to be. The party is part of the Spring Festival scheduled for Wednesday through Sunday. Wednesday evening activities include a dance featuring the "Rockets" and an "Invisible Pet Show" at 8 p.m. (Staff photo by Steve Sumner.)

There's quite a bargain awaiting connoisseurs of international foods every Thursday in the Home Ec Building.

That is when the Food and Nutrition 360b class serves its weekly luncheon of foreign cuisine. Reservations are necessary by 2 p.m. of the Tuesday prior to the dinner, as only 24 tickets are available. Price for the noon meal is $1.75.

So far, the class has prepared Mexican, Chinese, French, and Hungarian dinners. Four more dinners are planned. Information about the remaining dinners may be obtained from the Food and Nutrition Office, 453-3195.

The proceeds from the meal are used exclusively for purchasing food and other supplies. Dinners are served in a restaurant-like atmosphere in room 107 of the Home Ec Building.

Film unit faces elimination

THE CONSUMER ORIENTED AGENCY

By Gary Hoyt
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Department of Cinema and Photography has received tentative approval of its request to take over the Film Production equipment and facilities if that unit is eliminated, department Chairman Robert Davis said Tuesday.

Davis told a group of 30 cinema and photography students he had contacted the vice-president's office concerning the status of Film Production. John Baker, assistant provost, and Keith Leasure, vice president for academic affairs and provost, accepted the department's request, Davis said.

"The next thing I'll do is check with the facilities planning office to see if they've been instructed to make the change," Davis said.

The request proposed that a Film

Studies Center be instituted in the Film Production area in the Communications Building.

Film Production, which is a "professional film production unit" financed by state funds and royalty revenues, is scheduled to be eliminated July 1. If the administration does not accept an appeal by the unit, a Film Studies Center will be set up, Davis said.

The proposed center will be "an academic adventure", Davis said. The Department of Cinema and Photography would combine its resources with the Department of Radio and Television and any other academic unit wishing to use the center.

"People from television, design and English may be interested in using the center," Davis said. "It will deal with all aspects of film."

Davis said he had been thinking about this possibility for over a year. He said he asked the people involved in Film Production if they would be interested in teaching and "they said they would not."

"We were asked what should be done with the facilities and equipment if the unit were eliminated," Davis said.

Members of the department came up with the idea of the Film Studies Center as an instructional service "to work on films of different types and provide a variety of teaching and learning experiences," Davis said.

The center will acquire $62,000 worth of sound equipment if Film

Production is eliminated, Davis said.

"If it's not eliminated, Cinema and Photography will be at the same place it is now," Davis said, "except that Frank Paine from Film Production will be another instructor in the department."

Stanley Harris to open weekly geology series

Stanley E. Harris Jr., geology professor, will open a series of five weekly public information meetings sponsored by the Geology Department at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Parkinson 111.

Harris will talk on "The Framework: the Geological Evolution of Southern Illinois." He will be stressing the geological development of the Illinois Basin of the state which contains and from which come many of the natural resources that are important to the region's economy. The talk will lay the historical and the geological framework for the succeeding Wednesday evening presentations during May by SIU geologists and others with specialization in certain related areas.

The talks comprise the first annual Geoscience Colloquy arranged by the SIU geology department and its being developed around the theme: "Time, Rocks and Man in Southern Illinois."

The department's colloquy committee, headed by geology department chairman Russell Dutcher and Jay Zimmerman, associate professor, says the series of talks during May should appeal to anyone—students and nonstudents—interested in geology, earth science and related fields and help them to better understand and appreciate the landscape, resources and people of the region. They should provide understanding to persons interested in mining and related industries and to those who just like to tour and explore the region.

Topics for succeeding Wednesday evening meetings in Parkinson 111 include: "Plants, Animals and Crystals: a Guide to Fossil and Mineral Collecting in the Five-State Region," "Building the Shawnee Hills: The Work of Glaciers, Rivers and Mountains," "Early Man in Southern Illinois," and "Twentieth-Century Man in Southern Illinois: The Impact of Crisis and Industry."

Probationers find friends in new program

More community volunteers are needed to work with young, first-time offenders on probation, according to Byron York, probation officer in Jackson County.

"There has been a great response in the past two weeks," York said, and many more applicants are needed.

"We are looking for volunteers to become friends with the probationers; a person they can trust and depend on," York said.

Volunteer applicants need not be professional counselors. In fact, the best type of person for the program is a non-professional who cares about people and is willing to commit some time to them, York said.

York now has between 40 and 45 applicants and hopes to get enough to match each with a probationer.

Volunteers are supposed to provide an example; a good influence, for people who may be quickly tempted back into crime, York said. Volunteers can be tremendously helpful just by showing they care, he added.

Persons interested may contact York at the Jackson County Courthouse in Murphysboro, phone 684-2151.

New path for hikers ready to be 'beaten'

By John Russell
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The SIU chapter of the Society of American Foresters (SAF) is putting the finishing touches on its attempt to bring the country a little bit closer to the city.

SAF members are constructing a nature trail on Snider Hill, on 10 acres of land at the southeast corner of Lewis Lane and Grand Avenue.

Wayne Fuhlbrugge, SAF president, said the three-quarter mile trail is open to the public now, but will not be totally completed until June.

Volunteers have been working on the trail since January. Fuhlbrugge said, clearing a path through the brush, building foot bridges over ditches, and laying cross-timbers on slopes to prevent soil erosion.

Though about 75 per cent completed, the trail's footpaths still have to be covered with wooden chips for comfortable walking in all seasons and signs at overlook points have to be erected, said Fuhlbrugge.

The nature trail idea was brought up by a teacher at Lewis School last year, he said. The conservation club of Carbondale Community High School started working on the trail, and then the SAF became involved, Fuhlbrugge said.

Nature interpreters will serve as trail guides, working mainly with elementary school children, he said.

The SAF is also working with the Jackson County Historical Society to provide a historical interpretation of the trail.

Fuhlbrugge said the trail has been constructed totally by volunteer workers, with the Carbondale Park District and local businessmen donating equipment.

He said land for the trail was donated by the Presbyterian Church of Southern Illinois.

Cities, states face revenue changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—About half of the nation's 38,000 local and state governments will receive more money and the other half will get less under revenue sharing allotments announced Tuesday for the 1975 fiscal year.

Approximately $6.2 billion will be paid out by the Office of Revenue Sharing in the third year of the five-year program to send tax money back to the cities and states.

The 1974 allotment, for which the final payment will be made in July, totaled slightly more than $6 billion.

The city of Chicago was among the gainers, with its allotment rising nearly $9 million to a total of $76.8 million.

Among the big losers of funds in 1975 will be Los Angeles County, whose allotment dropped by $9 million to a total of $90.4 million.

About 1,000 communities actually will owe money to the federal government because of adjustments made in the information on which past allocations were based.

A spokesman for the revenue sharing office admitted that many communities will be unhappy over their reduced share of funds, but said it should come as no surprise.

"We said all along that the first numbers were estimates and we would have to reallocate when all data was plugged into the system," she said.

Allocation of money to states, counties, cities and other local governments is based on a formula using per capita income, taxes paid and population.

Payments are made quarterly, in October, January, April and July.

Star-studded show

Claudia McNeil, Barbara Barrie, Ruby Dee and Al Freeman, Jr. (clockwise from upper left) will be featured in the television production of "To Be Young, Gifted, and Black." The story of the late playwright Lorraine Hansberry will be televised tonight at 7:30 p.m. on WSIU-TV, channel 8.

Election delayed

Presidential vote will be Thursday

The election scheduled to pick the students' choice for SIU president was cancelled Monday because of technical problems, Election Commissioner Ralph Rosynek said. He said the election has been rescheduled for Thursday to determine the students' choice from about the top 20 names of the write-in votes cast April 17 and 18.

In the April election Michael Bakalis, state superintendent of public instruction, was the top vote getter with 68 of the total 927 votes cast for SIU president.

Rosynek said ballots will be distributed to a cross section of classes and a table for voting will be set up in the solicitation area of the Student Center from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday.

An SIU identification card is necessary in order to vote. A list of the top winners of Thursday's election will be sent to the presidential search committee, Rosynek said.

Other students' choice for SIU president in the April election and their vote totals are: Hiram Lesar, 41; R. Buckminister Fuller, 40; Keith Lease, 30; Robert Leyer, 25; George Mace, 22; Delele Morris and Mike Carr, 20; Bruce Swinburne, 19; Richard Nixon and David Derge, 18; Harold Grasowsky, 16; Bill Wesely, 11; Ralph Rosynek, John Rendleman and Paul Schilpp, 9; Willis Malone, 8; Robert Carlock, 7; Fred Whitehead, 6; Doug Allen, 5; and T. Richard Mager and Dennis Sullivan, 4.

Gas conditions remain the same

WASHINGTON (AP) - The number of service stations open on weekends rose slightly this past week but the American Automobile Association said its weekly check showed little change over-all in the availability or price of gasoline.

AAA said its latest spot check of 5,839 stations indicated that "both fuel availability conditions and the price of gasoline have generally stabilized with only slight fluctuations occurring week-to-week."

The motorists' organization said it found gasoline supplies generally favorable for an end-of-the-month situation.

Rides will be 25 cents for children and 35 cents for adults.
 Alpha Kappa Psi is a professional business fraternity with 32 members in the SIU chapter.

Annual spring game to end football drills

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"We're right on schedule," Saluki head football coach Doug Weaver said as he prepared for Saturday's annual spring football game. "After three weeks of practice, we have made the type of progress I had hoped we would make."

Weaver has readied his team for Saturday's completion of spring drills that will send the first team against the second team in a battle of maroon and white.

"The progress we make this week and during two-a-day practice sessions next fall will dictate the type of team we will have," Weaver said. "As we look at the squad at this point in spring ball, our incoming freshman are still very much in the picture."

There are, however, several positions that are settled. Mark Cunningham, junior tackle from Downers Grove; Martin DeVolder, sophomore center from Evanston; Craig Schutte, senior guard from Staunton; John Dismuke, running back from Peoria Richwoods; Pat Forsy, flanker from Nashville and Bob Habbe, end from Nashville, have been consistent performers on offense.

Defense, on the other hand, has been a different story. "It seems we have had a different person on the first team on defense every day," Weaver said. "That may be good for competition, but it's not good for the team. In our last scrimmage, the first team defense played with the confidence we are looking for."

The offense should pick up this week with the return of starting quarterback Fred McAlley, who missed six workouts with strained ligaments in his right thumb. In McAlley's absence, Gary Mauer (Bellevue West) and Leonard Hopkins (West Frankfort) directed the offense.

All quarterbacks will get a chance to perform in the intrasquad contest which will have all the features of a game except kickoffs. But Weaver will test all other aspects of the kicking game.

Placekicker Ken Seaman, a sophomore from Hazelwood, Mo., who ranked among the nation's top kick scorers with 61 points last fall, will handle the field goal and extra point chores for both teams.

Scott Ellis, a junior from Carbondale, and Lockport sophomore John Rende, will share the punting chores. Australian tennis player Wayne Cowley, who punted for the team last year, will not join the team until fall workouts begin.

Kickoff for the contest will be at 10 a.m. and will be free to the public. Only the west grandstand and south end zone bleachers will be available for seating with construction in progress for the McAndrew Stadium renovation project.

Oklahoma State injuries cancel Saturday track meet

The SIU-Oklahoma State track meet scheduled for Saturday has been canceled, according to Sports Information Director Butch Henry.

"Oklahoma State has been depleted by injuries and several other unfortunate developments," Henry said. "Their coach told us at the Drake Relays that his team would consist of only 12 men, with four of them participating in the shot put, javelin and discus."

During the last few months Oklahoma State has lost six tracksters to injuries and two to spring football. Four others were declared scholastically ineligible.

"We made every effort to find a replacement team so we could have a meet this weekend," said SIU track coach Lew Hartzog. "However, every major college team with 500 miles is involved in a meet or final exams."

The SIU-Oklahoma State meet has been rescheduled for May 3, 1975 at SIU.

With cancellation of this weekend's meet, SIU track fans will see the Saluki track team only one more time this year, when they take on the Illinois State Redbirds, May 17, at McAndrew Stadium.

The women's varsity tennis and softball teams will be in action Wednesday in home contests starting at 4 p.m.

up their record with Southeast Missouri State when the two teams face each other on the university tennis courts.

Earlier in the season, Missouri treated the women netters to an embarrassing 15-4 loss on Missouri's home court. Robin Nelson, Joan Lugosi and Sandy Schenck were the winners for SIU in the singles matches. Sharon Smoski and Lugosi teamed up for the lone win in the doubles competition.

Meg Putnam 4-2, Sharon Smoski 0-5, Debbie Harris 0-6, Jan Amedio 0-2, Robin Nelson 3-2, Trish Kehoe 0-4, Linda Levine 1-4, and Jane Natal 0-4 are slated to see action Wednesday for SIU.

Following Wednesday's action with Missouri, SIU will take on John A. Logan Junior College Thursday before traveling to Western Illinois University for the Southern Sectionals.

The women's softball second team will take on Logan in a warm-up game before joining the first team in Charleston for the start of the Southern Sectionals Saturday.

Tennis meet postponed

Tuesday's scheduled tennis meet with the University of Illinois was rained out and will be replayed next Tuesday in Champaign.

Kentucky Derby jockeys ready for 100th running

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Riding assignments were almost complete and pre-race jitters hit the backstretch Tuesday as a field of 22, or possibly more, prepared for the 100th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Of the 22 sure starters, only Darby Dan Farm's Little Current, Tafano and Cohen's Flip Sal and Edward R. Scharps' Sharp Gary were without jockeys.

Bobby Ussery apparently was under the impression he would be aboard Little Current and Eddie Maple indicated he would ride Flip Sal, but the trainers made no announcements.

"I'll just have to get on the horn and find somebody," Joe DiAngelo, the trainer for Sharp Gary, said.

"What I'm looking for is a guy who doesn't swallow the apple when the bugle blows. I talked to Ussery, but he's going to get on Little Current," DiAngelo said.

However, trainer Lou Rondinello said he hadn't settled on a rider for Little Current.

"I'll talk it over with Mr. John Galbreath owner of Darby Dan, and by tomorrow morning, we'll have a rider," he said.

Stablehands said trainer Steve DiMauro would arrive in town Wednesday and would name the rider for Flip Sal, but there were reports that Maple's agent already has been contacted.

Bill Hartack will be seeking a record sixth Derby victory when he climbs aboard Raymond Guest's Sir Tristram for the richest Derby of them all.

With just 20 starters, the centennial will be worth $251,500 to the winner, nearly $100,000 more than Secretariat won last year and almost 100 times the winner's share of the first Derby in 1875.
