From the photo editor

I enjoyed this. This refers to the experience of being the photo editor. I am proud of the staffers and the work ethic that they displayed. Their willingness was relentless. They adhered to my hectic schedule by making their busy schedule busier. The veterans led and the newcomers stepped up to become tremendous resources of talent. The photojournalists this semester complemented one another with their individual styles. Collectively, we formed an eclectic team of visual storytellers.

From the cover

Jamaal Tatum wrestles with Creighton's Isacc Miles for a loose ball during a game at SIU Arena. The Salukis shot a Missouri Valley Conference record-breaking 85.7 percent from the field in the second half and defeated the Blue Jays 72-68.
Aldon Addington of Carbondale stands among the art that is his life. Addington, a retired SIUC teacher in the Art and Design Department for 34 years, and his wife, Dona Bachman, director of the SIUC University Museum, have lived in their predominately all-metal home, no nails included, for about a year. Addington has worked on his environment of dwelling for seven and a half years.
Senior Tony Young embraces fellow senior Jamaal Tatum in the final minute of the Salukis' win over Virginia Tech on March 17 in Columbus, Ohio. With the win the Salukis move on to the Sweet 16 for the first time in five years.

Sophomore Katie McNamara takes batting practice Feb. 22 during the Salukis' final tune up at Charlotte West Stadium before heading to Columbus, Ga. to play in the NFCA Leadoff Classic.

Saluki guard Erin Pauk watches from the floor as her layup bounces around the hoop and into the basket during SIU's first round of the Women's National Invitational Tournament against Stephen F. Austin at the SIU Arena. The Salukis advanced to the second round of the NIT with a 58-50 win over Stephen F. Austin, but they lost in the second round, falling to Kansas State 72-46, to end the Salukis' first postseason run in 15 years.

Interim Chancellor John Dunn poses in his Anthony Hall office. The sculpture, created by assistant professor Alex Lopez in the college of Art and Design, will accompany Dunn to Western Michigan University in June where he will assume the position of president. The sculpture's color and design is representative of SIU to Dunn.

Tyrone Green, left, jokes with Jamaal Tatum and other teammates between media interviews before practice. Though Tatum jokes with players off court, he put in extra hours of practice during the season to become a better player.

Tony Young says he has finally overcome his lifelong struggle with anger and now plays to have fun. Young was one of five players named Tuesday to the All-Missouri Valley Defensive Team.

Women from the groom’s family carry gifts for the bride during a portion of the Hindu marriage ceremony in front of the Carbondale Civic Center. Atish and Nisha Patel were united in marriage at the Civic Center after they participated in three days of more than a dozen Hindu traditions. One of the final traditions that commence, and said to be the most powerful, is the “Saptapadi,” the seven sacred vows that are spoken by the bride and groom as they encircle a fire. About 400 family members witnessed the union.
