ILLINOIS COUNCIL OF HIGHER EDUCATION MET AT MACOMB NOVEMBER 3rd

The Illinois Council of Higher Education met on the campus of Western State Teachers' College at Macomb, Illinois, on Wednesday, November 3. The council draws its members from 46 teachers colleges and the University of Illinois. Dr. William B. Schneider, Dr. F. C. Warren, Dr. Ted Rasdale, and Dr. J. W. Strickers represented S.I.N.C. at the convocation. On Thursday, November 4, the full council took up the problems that relate to all institutions, but the question of cooperative work in the colleges. On Friday, November 5, members will need to plan the graduate program that is to be instituted by these colleges in the fall of 1944.

The rehabilitation and further education of returning servicemen is the field for which high school teachers should be prepared and the new teacher certification requirements were vital points raised by the council. Other important questions discussed were the plan of the survey committee set up by the last year's convocation for determining how many returning servicemen to which teachers' colleges are now subject to the special aptitude tests in the near future. For further information see Dr. F. C. Warren.

MEDICAL STUDENTS

All medical students are to be given special aptitude tests in the near future. For further information see Dr. F. C. Warren.

WSSF DRIVE SWEEPS CAMPUS

The World Student Service Fund, the agency promoting student relief, began its drive on the campus last Tuesday afternoon 5. This drive will continue through November 3.

During the chapel hour last Tuesday, a panel discussion of the WSSF was made in an attempt to acquaint the student body with the purpose of this drive. Collection booths, manned by student scattering of their time, were set up in the following places:

Outside Main Building, Second floor Main Building, First floor Parkhurst Laboratory, First floor Library. With the contribution of 11, each student receives a receipt and a tag to wear, showing that a contribution has been made. By contributing to the WSSF, you are also participating in the National War Chest Drive. The faculty of S.I.N.C. has set for the goal of $250. The faculty has done a marvelous job. It is up to the students to complete this goal.

The thermometer, leaning stolidly against a tree in front of Main Building, registers the goal rises in the temperature of the drive. Honors go to Kai Shek Hall for reaching their goal of $25 before other competing organizations. This money was donated on the first day of the drive, Tuesday. Kagga Phi has pledged $33, Sigma Sigma Sigma, $25, Pi Kappa Sigma, $40, and Delta Sigma Epsilon, $15.

Students who still enjoy the privilege of continuing their study are recently called upon to contribute their dollars so that their fellow students may enjoy, as well, that privilege of continued study, although under altered conditions. Students safe in American colleges, do not seem to realize the depth of refugee students, who are in the camps for study—a chance to build toward the future.

This drive ends next Tuesday at noon. Let us be able to say that we have not only reached our goal $2500, but topped it.

PARADE OF OPINION

It is disturbing to a believer in democracy to find persons who insist that it is the business of the Allies to provide democracy for the conquered lands. The Allies are the free, creative nations after the war. This was pointed out by Dr. Charles D. Karpis, professor of psychology at the University of California, returning to psychology after his service in the military. He is one of the few who are interested in the internal affairs of other nations is typically un-American.

An example of the war it may be the duty of the Allies to see that the populations are allowed free to choose their forms of government, and to supervise the reconstruction of the Axis nations. Such as convicted criminals are supervised, and to more than preventive to each nation the problem of working out its own problems. The committee set up by the survey force and the promise to use their forces against any aggression.

Students and Faculty Should Work Together. Among the pleasant traditions of the University is that which must be stamped on as thoroughly and as speedily as possible. It is the new road that the faculty and the student body are on the composite sides of an unbreachable wall. Nothing is farther from the truth than the idea that the student body is as much alike in the institution with which he is connected as each day.

IN APPRECIATION

Southern Illinois Normal University wishes to thank the Carbondale merchants who helped to put the 1943 S.I.N.C. Homecoming party by the Carbondale Merchants' Association and White banners of Southern on their buildings, and Mr. J. A. Patterson, who was responsible for getting them there.

KAI SHEK GIRLS' PARADE PROVES EYE CATCHING

Students in their respective classes today were slightly distracted, however, second and third hours. There was heard in the streets a racket of loud drum beats, the shouting of many excited voices and singing. When various campus students could stand the suspense no longer, they dashed to the windows to investigate. They saw a parade of the Kai Shek girls in gold costumes and carrying banners. The girls were dressed in elaborate costumes and carried banners which read: "We are the Kai Shek girls, we are the eye catchers of the parade."

FOUR FRESHMEN APPOINTED TO STUDENT COUNCIL

Four freshmen were appointed to all posts in the Student Council, student governing organization on the campus this week by Dean Lory H. Woods and Dr. Ph. Lantz. These four students will represent their class until the end of the year. They will be: John H. Patterson, who will be the student body to take their place. SHRYOCK AWARDED PRIZE; PAIR REPRESENTED IN SAME EXHIBIT

Burnett H. Shryock, head of the Department of Fine and Applied Arts, has received notice that he was awarded the Anonymous Purchase Prize at the Third Annual Missouri Exhibition of Painting and Sculpture at the St. Louis City Art Museum, St. Louis, Mo. The Purchase Prize is the $100 second prize which is chosen by a jury. The identity of the artist presenting this prize is unknown to Mr. Shryock. The art was made up of the following: Frederick Sweet, assistant curator at Chicago's Art Institute; Henry Styles Frank, curator of Painting and Prints at the Cleveland Museum and Walter Reussler, professor of Painting at Montclair College.

Mr. Shryock's prize winning painting is entitled "Texas Junction No. 2" and was painted at Texas Junction, Illinois near Marseilles. Another painting of this same subject is now touring the United States in the Chicago Art Institute's International Water Color exhibit. It was selected from the Chicago Art Exhibit to tour the principal art museums and universities in the country.

Miss Louise Egan, instructor in pottery and ceramics, and a member of the Art Department staff, is represented in the same exhibition with a piece of ceramic sculpture entitled "Child." Miss Egan is a nationally known ceramicist whose ceramic murals and sculpture can be seen in many schools in the middle west. She graduated from Chicago Art Institute and taught children's classes at the Art Institute and was head of Hill House Creative Department in Chicago for two years before coming to Carbondale.

The Art Department feels fortunate to be represented by two such artists in this annual Missouri show. The exhibition is one of the important middle western shows.

HELP FELLOW STUDENTS; GIVE TODAY

The work of the World Student Service Fund is well known in American colleges. The appeal of the W.S.S.F. has found a quick response from American students, in terms of the relief of suffering as well as in its significance for the work of post-war reconstruction.

The students who receive aid are crowded in prison or internment camps, or living a strange life in a strange land as refugees. They are violently uprooted from home and college, but determined to migrate if that is what must be done to continue their studies.

They are staying in occupied lands where universities have been closed, but who are determined to study privately as long as they can. They are in circumstances, the good feeling of student relief is the realization that they have not been forgotten.

To Speak At Fifteenth Annual State Student Conventions

DR. FLOY BARNARD

DON'T PASS THE BUCK, GIVE IT!

Last Tuesday I wandered into chapel, a speech nonchalantly a loafer handed to me at the door. I gathered snuff that the program was to be the World Student Service Fund Drive, but being the type of person who appreciates things more on the dramatic side and not being able to hear too well, I decided to catch up on my sociology assignments.

It seems to me that S.I.N.T. is being emphatically favored actively occurring on this campus.

After chapel on the way to my next class, I pocketed a folded leaflet, a pamphlet in front of State Building, inquiry revealed to me that it was to contribute a dollar to the WSSSF.

PVT MILFORD BLACKWELL, ASN, 18951888, ASTP, Medical Department Station Hospital, Fort McPherson, Alabama, has completed his training cycle at the Infantry Recruit Training Center at Fort McPherson. It was really a tough training program. On the tenth of October, he was transferred to the Medical Detachment and informed that through the kindness of the Post Surgeon, he would be able to attend Military Medical College in Nashville, Tennessee, in April 1944.

One of the ASTP boys is RAY KENNEDY, a former student of SOUTHERN. I have been stationed here for three months and I have been in about four weeks. I have completed the first cycle here which is given over entirely to flying from here I shall go to a classification center as Art was my leader. I have been in about four weeks. A very interesting Halloween party—in the form of a spoof—was sponsored by the S.C.F. last Thursday night.

Final plans were laid for the 1943-44 season which began Tuesday morning after assembly. Meetings of the council are held one hour a day in one of the four buildings located in strategic spots on the campus.

Credit is due Glenn Vanhook of the R.S.T. for his fine leadership in the organization of the study rooms and conference rooms.

CURTISS COMMANDOS

All the publicity given to flying corps in the future has been cleared up in a very simple manner. But only a few people have realized that we already have a flying corps.

Two Zee-Bee engines left the lead. The wing apart of 108 feet, the fuselage of 108 feet, the tail of 108 feet.

Mr. Carl Trobaugh has assumed the position as manager of the College Bookstore at short stay in the Army.

Today it is virtually a flying corps. The "Dumbo" crew and provided in both sections of the lounge cargo compartment and in the upper half two long lines of seats.

student has in his mind.
The faculty member works hard to get up activities to give his students an interesting course.

This year, with both the faculty and student groups smaller than in many years, the school connected with the university must unite into one camp if we are to get anything done.

The faculty, we feel certain, will cooperate in all student plans to make them workable. They will get the machinery rolling and make sure the students give them the chance by going to them with suggestions and questions and for advice.—Kent Slater.

We Must Prevent Re-Teaching of Hate
Any hope of educating all the world into our own conceptions of democratic procedure is futile, declares Dr. B. F. Pittenger, dean of the University of Texas School of Education.

"Education in cooperation and understanding of other peoples is the key to world peace," says Pittenger explains. "We cannot in a short time make democrats out of authoritarians."

"The big job, Dean Pittenger asserts, will be to prevent re-education of defeated nations in the fields of hate and war. And positive measures, he says, must be taken to provide understanding of the governments and economies of all nations."

"The greatest service which boys and girls of 18 and 19 can render to the war effort is to get ready for the national service which men of their age will be called upon to give at 18 in the Armed Forces. In war production, in civilian war activities, in specialized training, they after time will find officials of the Army and the Navy, and government agencies in industry have urged youth to use the years up to 18 to build the foundations of a broad education that will pay them back."

"The greatest service which boys and girls of 18 and 19 can render to themselves is to seek, now the education which will not only for the mental satisfaction you'll receive, come to."

Parry Mason, "the ablest criminal attorney of them all," one of the best known characters in movie fiction for the last decade, is now heard in a five-week Columbia network show bearing his name and is heard Mondays through Fridays at 1:45 p. m. on KMOX-CBS.

While the show is the type usually heard on the radio, Parry Mason was scheduled for daytime broadcasts as the result of a survey of circulating libraries indicating that women, who comprise the large part of daytime audiences, are avid mystery story readers.

"Songs by Sinatra," a new 15-minute musical period starting Frank Sinatra, is now heard over KMOX-CBS each Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

In contrast to Sinatra's "You're Here to Stay," a new program on Saturday evenings from one of the CBS theaters before a large audience, "Songs by Sinatra" is a new program originating in CBS Liederkreis Hall studio.

The new period has been established with added emphasis on the music of the past, and a style which has already won millions of devoted followers throughout the world.

The program originating in Liederkreis Hall studio, the program also features the Bobby Tucker Singers and a 30-piece orchestra, under the direction of Axel Stordahl.

The American request of the program, highlighted by the release of the new record, is dramatized on the "Dateline" show Friday, November 5, on KMOX-CBS.

The episode, entitled "Dateline Alcatraz," is based on Howard Hanson's on-the-scene report of the Alcatraz prison in his book "Bridge to Victory," to be published by Random House.

Hanson, a correspondent for International News Service, spent five months in the island, sharing the same hardships as the prisoners.

His story is one of vic weather, treacherous terrain and logistical jags—all overcome to reach the island and to take it. In the Alcatraz, Americans had to surmount not only the enemy but the forces of nature in the form of cold, ice and terrific gales they called "whirlwinds."

Bob Trent of the CBS World News Service, merely reported the story, linking the dramatic sequences.

POETRY NOOK

12-7-41
Ah, but a year ago I could have lain content in alien soil of Timbuktu. Or on the island of May, 'neath bounding main, on rocky 'Neath poppies red, or in a field of cypress.

For I was kindred to the wind. But now have taken root in soil. Of teachings and of home That deeper run than any wild teacher.

I have reached a better understanding And gained a new appreciation Of that I once took for granted.

Young Egypt's spell is on me now And I would not escape it; For here once lived the Hindu. And I desire a living here. Once came the Great Emancipator.

If there is room. Let me beside the ones I've loved; Let me lie on the highest of the hills That I might be they close to God. And I desire a living here. The thunders of the Mighty River. Father.

But more: DEAR GOD I COULD NOT LIE WHERERE STRAITS AND STRIBES OP BREMDED DO NOT FLY. —M. Hiescoe.

OF POETS AND POETRY

The second of the book displays at Wheeler Library was opened last week. The display is open for two weeks, after which they are changed. It is gratifying to note how many students took advantage of the first display.

It is hoped that the current display will add greatly to the stimulation of student interest in the new books on poetry, and in literary magazines, dealing with contemporary writers and contemporary poetry. Only a very small part of the available material has been placed on display.

Book covers on display and the books may be checked out if called for at the main desk in the "College Eye" section.

Magazines only six of many titles are included in the "Virginia Quarterly Review," "The Southern Review," "The Kenyon Review," "The New England Quarterly," "The Sewanee Review," and "Poetry."

Students are urged to visit this display, and to take a very small part of the available material has been placed on display.

SPOOK PARTY

With all the forces of the evil spirit abroad prior to the Halloween, the Student Christian Foundation thought it wise to sponsor a "Spook Hunt" on Thursday, October 28.

By 7:30 p. m., a group of more than 40 had assembled on the porch of the building. The group was led—single file—through the "Spunge Chamber," located in the garage at the Foundation.

Reap Big Squaw "Read-and-Write" was on hand to forestall the future of each individual from a sea which they were required to climb from the roof of the dining room floor.

Bodies of "murdered" citizens were encountered at the time when least expected. Those were on the second floor, and one on the second. As they passed this body on the second floor, it was seen to rise slowly and scream most excitedly.

In time for the ladies present to be at their homes by the evening hour of 10:30, the party broke up—content that the work for the evening had been accomplished in a manner to be commended.
