Homecoming 1970 changes traditions

By Cathy Speagle
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Homecoming 1970 was quiet, reflecting the uncertainty of traditionalists faced with a "Pollution Pyramid" rather than a bonfire and an emphasis on ecology rather than rah-rah. Other aspects of the celebration were more familiar.

The Homecoming parade Friday night met with large crowds along Carbondale streets. The floats entered in the parade were representative of the Homecoming theme, "A Question of Balance: It's Up to You" and featured displays on ecology and pollution.

Area school bands marched and played in the parade, which is the first to be held at night in several years. A group of motorcyclists riding in the parade lost one of its riders when Vic Gibson's 1948 Harley Davidson overheated and burned on Campus Drive. Gibson escaped injury.

Alpha Eta Rho captured first prize in the float competition with their pollution scale featuring a junked car and Snoopy. A float with arms reaching out of a crowded globe won second place for Alpha Gamma Rho and Alpha Gamma Delta.

Queenly threesome

Miss SIU 1970, Joyce Kakeck, accepts her bouquet of roses as Joan Agin, last year's Homecoming queen, and Monti Whitten, the retiring Miss SIU, look on at SIU's Homecoming game, Saturday.

"You" was the theme of the third-place Veterans Corporation float. It featured a tiny brewery and numerous beer cans.

Parade stunts were also awarded by the Homecoming parade judges. Alpha Eta Rho took first by asking "What's the solution to all pollution?"

The SIU Recreation Club won second place through its statement, "Recreate through recreation for a better life."

The parade progressed to the "Pollution Pyramid" southwest of the Arena. The pyramid was made of bagged trash gathered during a clean-up day in Carbondale, keeping in tune with the Homecoming theme of balance and ecology. The idea literally went up in smoke when a prankster set the fire. The SIU Fire Department put out the flames, but most of the trash was burned. Thick black smoke lingered over the area as the four finalists in the Miss SIU contest were announced.

James Jude Kamm, an SIU student, was arrested by the Security Police and charged with disorderly conduct in connection with the burning of the trash.

The most exciting event of the three-day celebration was the Saluki football victory against Bradley University on Saturday, 69-3. During half-time, about 14,000 people watched as Joyce Kakeck, a coed from Naperville, was named Miss SIU.

The title of Miss SIU replaces both the Miss Southern and Homecoming Queen titles. Beauty was de-emphasized in the Miss-SIU contest, with intelligence and involvement the criteria for the girl who will serve as the official hostess for students. Miss Kakeck was not crowned at the ceremony, as she will not wear a crown when performing her duties. The "non-crowning" also avoided the controversy of last year's Homecoming, when Joan Agin, Homecoming Queen, crowned herself after the former queen

Politicians' fate decided today

Editor's Note: The following is the third in a series of articles dealing with the candidates and issues in the Nov. 3 election.

By David L. Mahsman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two races for state offices, a congressional race, contests for four seats in the General Assembly, a State Supreme Court post and three Circuit Court judgeships are on the ballot which Jackson County voters will mark Tuesday.

State Treasurer

Alan J. Dixon, state senator from Belleville, is the Democratic nominee for state treasurer.

Dixon has proposed expansion of current State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson's program of "linked investments," which invests state funds in public improvement projects. Dixon includes investing in a program of anti-pollution assistance in his proposal.

Edmund J. Kucharski, the Republican candidate, was elected Cook County recorder in 1956, named undersheriff of Cook County in 1962 and is presently Cook County Treasurer. He received his law degree in 1941.

Kucharski has based his campaign on his experience and record in handling funds. He named a blue ribbon committee to advise him on the investment of Cook County funds and has promised to do the same if elected to the state post.

Protest ready on tuition hike

By Steve Brown
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Illinois Board of Higher Education will consider a plan Tuesday to increase tuition and eliminate most types of scholarships by fall, 1971. It will also receive an avalanche of letters and opposition from most college campuses in the state.

The board's meeting, to be held in Chicago, will hear from staff members who have drawn up the proposed tuition increase plan. No final action is expected on the plan until Dec. 1.

The board will also hear an opposition presentation to the plan which will be submitted by the student advisory committee to the board.

Several SIU administrators also plan to attend the meeting, including Chancellor Robert G. Laver and several members of the University Administrative Council.

Tom Scherschel, SIU student body president, said that almost 10,000 letters collected opposing the tuition hike will also be presented to the board's executive director, James B. Holderman, Tuesday.

Scherchel said he had received letters Monday from other Illinois college campuses and would present those at the same time.

A student advisory committee meeting held over the weekend at Champaign did not prepare the previously proposed multi-media presentation opposing the tuition hike.

Murray Mann, one of the SIU students who had been working to oppose the tuition hike, said some of the schools had not prepared any resolutions or other types of plans to be used in opposition to the board's proposal.

A formal presentation will be made by the chairman of the student advisory committee in Chicago Tuesday.

Mail call

Loaded down with some of the estimated 10,000 letters to be sent to James B. Holderman, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, protesting the proposed tuition hike, Jamie Cochran, student government secretary, seems to be in agreement that the letters will present some weighty opposition.

Nader representatives to be here two days

By Cathy Speagle
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two representatives of Ralph Nader, nationally-known consumer crusader, will visit SIU Wednesday and Thursday to discuss the formation of a Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) on campus. James D. Welch and Tom Stanton are both attorneys and recent graduates of the University of Texas and Harvard University, respectively. They are representing Nader at college campuses across the nation to help organize student-sponsored public interest firms which would hire professionals to deal with consumer and environmental protection.

Tom Scherschel, student body president, is arranging meetings for Welch and Stanton with Chancellor Robert G. Laver, the Office of the Dean of Students and other administrative officials to discuss the project. The two will also speak at Wednesday's Campus Senate meeting and will be available to talk with students throughout Wednesday and Thursday.

In a telephone conversation Monday, Welch said that students could band together and work for themselves through a

Superintendent of Public Instruction

Michael J. Bakalis, Democratic candidate for superintendent, is assistant dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences at Northern Illinois University, as well as a professor in the history department.

Bakalis has made recommendations on possible solutions to campus unrest. He said the scope of permissible dissent should be defined, decision-making processes should be open to students and the Illinois master plan for higher education should be revamped, with more emphasis of vocational training.

Ray Page, the Republican incumbent, is bidding for his third term.

Much of Page's campaign is based on his record. This includes consolidation of school districts, development of teacher and special education programs and driver's training programs.

Page has opposed and said he will continue to oppose the use of public facilities "by men like William Kunstler, Jerry Rubin or Abbie Hoffman."

Congressman, 21st District

Kenneth J. Gray is the incumbent congressman and Democratic candidate for reelection. Gray is seeking his ninth term.

Gray, an advocate of industrial development in Southern Illinois, has said, "I want to see the area become the greatest industrial complex in the nation."

Gray is an opponent of President Nixon's de-escalation policy in Vietnam. He said the Viet Cong have unlimited manpower and are waiting for American withdrawal before beginning a major offensive.

Fred Evans, Republican for congressman, is a psychologist at Carbondale Community High School. Before assuming that post five years ago, Evans was a rehabilitation counselor for the state.

Evans said Nixon has done a "great job." He said he is an open advocate of peace, but does not favor a withdrawal from Vietnam that would endanger American lives.

Evans also has said that he favors strong anti-pollution legislation.

State Senator, 36th District

Richard E. Richman, Jackson County state's attorney, is the Democratic nominee for state senator.

Richman, in referring to campus violence at SIU, said he believes that only a few students want violence, and those students should be prosecuted.

John Gilbert, Republican for state senator, is seeking his fourth term. He is chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

Gilbert said he favors "a firm hand by college administrators" to stop student riots. He said that action which interferes with the educational system should be a criminal offense.

On student voting, Gilbert said he is opposed to allowing students to vote where they attend school unless they are married and live in that town all year.

State Representatives, 59th District

Four candidates are vying for the three seats in the Illinois House of Representatives. They Clyde Choate and Kenneth Buzbee, Democrats; and Gale Williams and C.L. McCormick, Republicans. All but Buzbee are incumbents.

Choate, seeking his 12th term, said he wants complete reform of the State's revenue article. He said a priority would be the elimination of sales tax on the "necessities of life."

Buzbee, an insurance agent in Carbondale, sees taxes as the major issue. He said that Ogilvie, who ran on an economy platform, has increased his office's payroll from 45 to 214 persons, and that the people are "sick to death of taxes."

Williams, seeking his fifth term, said his main interests lie in repealing the Illinois gun law and solving the problem of campus unrest at SIU.

McCormick, seeking his eighth term in the House, said he believes his seniority in the House is vital to Southern Illinois.

McCormick said that SIU should not have been closed last spring under any circumstances. He said that federal troops should have been called in if necessary.

Judge of the Supreme Court

Joseph H. Goldenhersh, the Democratic nominee and a circuit judge, said that anything that reduces constitutional rights opens the door to rule by man rather by law. He said any judicial or legal action which assures rule by law can be accepted.

Jarold R. Clark, a circuit judge, is the Republican candidate for supreme court justice. Clark said, "My constant aim and purpose will be to strengthen and preserve this system (of law and justice) for all the people of Illinois, for where there is no law there is no freedom."

Judges of the Circuit Court

Candidates are Trafton Dennis, John H. Clayton and William A. Lewis, Democrats; and Peyton H. Kuncle, Louis G. Horman and Kenneth Powless, Republicans. Dennis said that with 16 years' experience on the circuit bench as an associate justice, he does the work of a circuit judge, so he might as well be one.

Faculty's financial support sought for antiwar candidates

By Peggy Person
Student Writer

SIU faculty members were recently invited to give financial support to the Universities National Antiwar Fund.

According to David L. Jones, associate professor of geography and coordinator for the UNAF on the Carbondale campus, the bipartisan organization was formed last spring by a group of scientists at MIT and Harvard University after the Cambodian invasion.

The group is working for peace in Indochina by supporting candidates dedicated to achieving peace.

According to Jones, faculty members in academic institutions across the nation are being urged to turn over one day's pay to UNAF for support of nationwide candidates.

The money collected by the UNAF will be allocated by the Board of Directors, including Jule Charney of MIT, John Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard University, Mary I. Bunting, president of Radcliffe College, and Jerome B. Wiesner of MIT.

Criteria for determining which candidates will receive financial support from the fund include the endorsed candidates' chances of being elected, the role that such support may play in deciding the race and the amount of funds available.

Approximately $250,000 in funds had been raised by the organization as of the beginning of October, according to Jones.

Those candidates receiving support in the general election include candidates for the House of Representatives from 21 states.

Candidates for the Senate include Joseph Duffey of Connecticut, George Rawlings of Virginia, Albert Gore of Tennessee, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Philip Hart of Michigan.

Thirteen candidates who had previously received backing from the UNAF have achieved victories in state primaries.

According to Jones, it is impossible to gauge the extent of faculty support at SIU, because contributions are mailed directly to the organization's Cambridge headquarters.

"President Nixon obviously needs help in solving the American dilemma in Southeast Asia," Jones said.

"Although it is generally recognized that the situation in Indochina has somewhat subsided as a campaign issue, the fact still remains that for every hour that the average American is at work on his job, one American dies for his country in Indochina.

ENACT invites all:

'Let's do something'

To the Daily Egyptian:

For everyone who is alarmed about our environmental predicament, here is an invitation to unite and do something about it.

ENACT (students for environmental action) was born of Earth Day last April. It is an action-oriented group and is striving to pool concern and talents from all interested organizations and individuals. One main goal of ENACT is to promote the establishment of a citywide recycling program, to put paper, glass, plastic and metals back into the production line.

After the first meeting Oct. 27, ENACT is already working to get votes for the Nov. 3 clean water bond issue. ENACT meets at 7 p.m. every Tuesday in Lawson 141.

'Helpful' departments hinder many at SIU

To the Daily Egyptian:

Although this letter is one of sharp criticism, I must make clear first that this is my fourth year at Southern and I sincerely love the school but throughout my past three years here, I have come to be totally and thoroughly acquainted with several "helpful" departments whose jobs are to "help" the student.

It's bad enough to be confused and run-around by several different departments but just think of the poor freshmen who are having a hard enough time going from class to class. These freshmen and even transfer students are making a hard adjustment just starting out at a new school, much less having to go to, for instance, registration and being told to go here or there or to kingdom come, etc.

Another example, which happened to me just recently, involves Textbook Service. I was sent the same bill the entire summer for, and I quote, "Textbook damaged or not received," for $10.50. Now I didn't remember damaging or not returning this book (did not mention which book) so I wrote a letter asking bursar's to please explain what I was being billed for. For such a simple request, I got no answer but many more of the same type bill for $10.50.

So when I came down for fall quarter this year and went to pick up a loan check from the bursar's, I was told that I couldn't receive the check until I paid the $10.50. I was promptly sent over to Textbook Service to clear the matter up myself. Having been given the "traditional run-around" and having been totally confused, I left there thoroughly frustrated and ready to transfer schools when I suddenly remembered that I was a senior and might as well forget transferring. After several more trips to the Textbook Service and even a conference with the head of that efficient department, I was finally given my due justice but only after I was assured and assured over again that it was not their mistake.

This is only an example but maybe it shows a little bit what students must go through simply to get a college education these days. It doesn't seem to include only attending classes and enlightening your mind anymore—it also includes now long-distance sprints to and from departments trying to straighten out "mistakes."

Health Service needs talent, professionalism

To the Daily Egyptian:

We are two thoroughly frustrated students. Our ideals concerning the SIU Health Service have been completely and absolutely disillusioned, disappointed and, most of all, disgusted.

The doctors and all the other medical help at the Service are in dire need of more talent. Their capabilities are lacking professionalism. Add to that the fact that you have to make appointments a day early at 7:45 a.m. (no later!) (or else you sit in your room and die) and you have what we like to refer to as Health Service?

In the past two weeks we both have found ourselves in need of the Health Service. We previously had considered Health Service as a place of security that would provide good medical care. After having gone through tedious and completely unorganized and unprofessional ordeals at the Health Service, we are forced to say that the Service is more of a hindrance than a help.

Why is it that a school with well over 20,000 students can provide only one cramped, mediocre Health Service? Isn't the health and wellbeing of our students of great enough concern?

We hope that this letter may be a warning to some fellow student who may be contemplating taking a "hike" to Health Service. If it's a diagnosis you want, forget it. A guess is all that you'll get. Nobody, not even Health Service doctors, it seems, wants to commit himself these days.

Mae West 'mutant telling dirty jokes'

To the Daily Egyptian:

I am writing this in response to Robert Boyer's letter about Mae West in the Oct. 22 Egyptian.

It is probably true that Mae West was responsible for the large box office appeal of "Myra Breckinridge." But by ignoring the well-intended advice of Dave Daly and most other critics, moviegoers were certainly not giving testimony to the "originality" or talent of Miss West.

Instead, they attested to the skill of an unknown plastic surgeon who somehow managed to tuck 35 years of natural erosion under her earlobes.

The criteria of evaluation that Daly has been applying are obviously too stringent for today's films; a talented actress in a complex, demanding role is no longer any match for a mutant who tells dirty jokes.

How can person see hate in christianity?

To the Daily Egyptian:

In the Aug. 29 issue appeared an absurd article making several completely unfounded claims against God and religion. Space permits only a brief touch on a few of these.

First, I agree a person should be free (John 8:36, I Corinthians 9:1). Neither should be bound by mythology and superstition (I Timothy 1:4, Titus 1:14).

I also join you in believing that no human has the right to control another and should not be slaves to the majority, which we in a democratic government are not. But trying living under minority rule and we will be slaves.

I disagree with Ruth Eshenaur's statement, "The knowledge that all is not known is proof of God's existence." But then your Bible interpretations were all farther wrong than that. Example: Ecclesiastes 1:18 doesn't mean be plain stupid. But it means the more wisdom you obtain, the more sorrowful you become because the more you realize the bad conditions around us. II Timothy 2:15 tells us to study to show ourselves learned that we might not be ashamed.

About this "Theory of Evolution," that's just what it is, a "theory," and how can an unproved theory be "valid"? Evolution has been disproved in every scientific field, especially anthropology.

There are farfetched theories of how man came from monkeys and fish and how a horse came from a dog, etc. But never have they "theorized" how life began. Something always exists at the start: gas, an atom, you name it. But the Bible tells us how life began and the order of creation. So far it has never been disproved.

I also fail to see just how your understanding of christianity is composed of hate, bigotry, dogma and fear. Evidently you have talked to the wrong people and didn't read enough of the Bible. It says, "Pray for the ones who despitefully use you," "Love thy neighbor as thyself," "God loves us so much he sacrificed his only son for our sins," "No greater love than one to die for a brother" and "Love thy enemies." Is this a hate philosophy?

Senators wage war on planned tuition hike

Editor's Note: This roundup of news and comments on actions and issues in the Campus Senate is presented each Tuesday by Daily Egyptian staff writers Cathy Speegle and Steve Brown as an extra look at what's going on in student government.

By Cathy Speegle and Steve Brown
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

As you read this a proposal to increase tuition and eliminate most forms of financial aid is being discussed in Chicago by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The plan has been opposed strongly by both students and administrators not only at SIU but as most other state colleges and universities. At SIU a two pronged effort has been made. First, a massive letter-signing campaign was undertaken by student government officials.

More than 10,000 letters will be presented this morning to James B. Holderman, executive director of the Board. The effect on Mr. Holderman is unknown at this time.

The second part of the attack is a presentation prepared by Murray Mann and the three members of the Board's student advisory committee, Tom Vaught, Tom Kelley and Tom Busch. This group, along with some members of the SIU administration, plan to present to the Board several alternatives to their tuition increase plan.

The Board will not take final action on the proposal until Dec. 1. That means the Board will have almost a month to consider all sides but it also means the political forces in the state have the same amount of time to pressure the Board.

The reasons behind the tuition increase are fairly simple. Higher education can always use more money but in this case it appears that some of the more influential politicians are using this proposal as a means of controlling campus unrest.

State Representative Richard A. Walsh, chairman of the appropriations committee of the Illinois House of Representatives, has said the tuition increase will keep out-of-state radicals out of Illinois schools. This is the same reasoning behind tuition raises at other out-of-state schools, notably the University of Wisconsin.

It is more likely that the proposed increase will harm students from lower and middle-class income groups, rather than out-of-state radicals.

Nevertheless the tuition opposition program at SIU has had very good results. The bricks of protest that flew in May have been replaced by a barrage of letters and concerted well-thought-out plans to sway the opinion of the Board.

Hopefully the efforts will not be wasted and the Board will listen to the more moderate voices on this issue.

Four to attend CIA, AID meeting

The Campus Senate approved four representatives to attend a meeting being arranged by Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.) to discuss SIU's Center for Vietnamese Studies.

The Senate approved two members of the Southern Illinois Peace Committee and faculty members Douglas M. Allen and C. Harvey Gardiner. Their meeting with CIA and AID representatives is tentatively set for late November in Washington, D. C.

The choice of knowledgeable representatives is a wise move. It had appeared that the Senate might opt to send a delegation not thought to be the best in terms of having a complete understanding of the Center. The Senate also approved a plan to send one observer from the Senate. He would be appointed by the student body president and approved by the Senate.

The trip may prove worthwhile.

At least it will provide a face-to-face confrontation between the Center's leading critics and representatives of the two government agencies which have been the target of most of the opposition.

Newsletter idea tabled

The Senate chuckled its way through a bill which would have established a procedure for each senator to send a newsletter to his constituents.

The bill, presented by Ken Nygaard, was not inherently funny but the Senate was in a rather jovial mood and several double-entendres brought consideration of the proposal to a standstill.

It was finally tabled after several questions about financing the plan.

Detention center plans questioned

The Senate also heard from William Schmidt, Carbondale city manager, and William Eaton, city councilman.

Both Eaton and Schmidt were questioned about the detention center which is being prepared on the corner of Marion and Jackson Streets.

The property is normally used to store city maintenance equipment but the lot was recently paved and fenced.

The idea of a local detention center has been discussed since last May. Several city officials feel that if SIU is faced with new disorders, it will be unsafe to send students to jails in outlying communities as was done last May.

Schmidt was asked about the safety of students who would be kept in the fenced area. The feeling was that those inside would be sitting ducks for anyone who might want to take retaliatory action against demonstrators.

Schmidt said he believes this area would be easier to defend than present lockup facilities in the city police department. Schmidt also said the detention facilities would be used only as temporary facilities for processing arrests and portable sanitary facilities would be brought in if the need arose.

DE to publish statements

The regular fall elections for Campus Senate, to fill 18 seats, will be Nov. 11. Statements by all candidates will be printed in the Daily Egyptian Nov. 10. This will give students some idea of who is running for office. It would be an excellent idea for students to examine closely those who wish to serve on the Campus Senate, as these people are student representatives and through them policies and decisions regarding many facets of student-oriented programs are handled.

Issue is method, not principle

By Paula Musto
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Somewhere between the time students stopped swallowing goldfish and began tie-dying Levi's, a new, yet very old idea of what education is about edged its way into the college scene. It is called student power and even those people at the top of the educational hierarchy are feeling its thrust.

Student power is old—students controlled all aspects of education in the early universities in Italy. Student power is new—for over two centuries the top echelon of higher education in the United States has been the board of trustees.

As the dominant decision-making agency for colleges and universities in the United States, the board has been given sweeping powers on most university matters.

Although the board's extensive powers affect almost every aspect of student life, the students themselves very rarely have any representation on the board.

In a recent study by Earl J. McGrath, director of the Higher Education Center at Temple University, on the role of students in university governance, in only 20 per cent of the 675 institutions studied did students participate in board proceedings. Students were given voting privileges in only 2.7 per cent of the institutions.

SIU is among the great majority of colleges and universities where students have no formal means of representation on the Board of Trustees. However, at SIU, as in many other schools in the United States, university governance is being re-evaluated.

Before last spring there had been sporadic efforts to reorganize university governance at SIU. Usually these efforts were short-lived and very little came of them.

The disorders which hit SIU last spring, however, magnified the need for reform and led to more concrete studies in university governance.

The result of studies such as the one by Cresap, McCormick and Paget, a managerial consultant firm, which studied and evaluated governance at SIU, is that student representation on the Board of Trustees is being taken as a serious matter.

Acting on the recommendations of the firm's report, a student-faculty committee is working on a proposal for an all-campus senate which would include provisions for student representation on the board.

However, the more difficult decisions are yet to come. The question has now moved from whether students should be represented on the board to the extent and capacity of their participation.

"The method is more difficult than the principle," said Ivan A. Elliott, a member of the SIU Board of Trustees from Carmi.

And it is the method which is at issue. Should students be appointed as full and equal members of the board or should they serve in an advisory capacity?

There is no clear lineup of sides on the issue but students who often equate advisory positions with tokenism tend to favor having students appointed to the board. Administrators and others who view admitting students to the board as members as impractical tend to support student representation through an advisory council.

John M. Olmsted, dean of graduate students and chairman of the faculty sub-council governance committee last year, said he saw advantages and disadvantages in both alternatives.

"Although appointing students to the board would give them more immediate involvement in board activities, an advisory council might be more effective," Olmsted said.

Elliott said the board would most likely support student representation through an advisory council and would probably oppose student membership on the board.

"I don't think having one or two students on the board would be fruitful for the board or students," Elliott said. "For one thing you would not have a cross-section of the student body represented."

Elliott also said too much emphasis is put on the voting powers of the board. "Presenting a logical argument that could persuade the board into a direction is more important than being able to vote," Elliott said.

Due to the size limitations of the board, he said, only one or two students could possibly be admitted and their votes "would not really make a difference."

To some students, however, the question of voting makes quite a difference.

Murray Mann, a student member of the governance committee, said he would favor putting students on the board as full members.

Mann explained he would propose that the board be enlarged to fourteen members, with three students from each campus sitting on the board with the eight trustees.

Besides the voting issue, many other questions must be answered before any form of representation can be decided upon. Among these queries are the selection procedure of students, whether students would be admitted to executive sessions and the legality of appointing students as members of the board.

The governance committee is working out details of these and many other questions now. Their report should be completed by the end of the quarter.

Whether their recommendations—whatever they may be—are accepted by the university administration and the Board of Trustees is another question.

But considering the student reaction to some of the recent controversial decisions of the board, on thing seems apparent: students will keep pushing for a share of the power.

College should be a living lab, Vlasin says

By Gerald Eckert -
Student Writer

"Make the college a living learning laboratory," an economist-author, Raymond D. Vlasin, told a group of approximately 50 people Thursday afternoon at an open colloquium at SIU.

Vlasin, assistant chancellor at the University of Wisconsin, Green Bay campus, spoke on "The Challenge of a New College." He used the University of Wisconsin, Green Bay, which is a new school, as the example for many of his points.

The chief focus of the school is on "man and his environment," a theme which Vlasin was instrumental in developing. Vlasin said that a new college should institute a mission around which to operate.

"Our mission at UWGB is to affect, through education, a change in the environment," he said.

He continued by saying that such a theme is a meaningful supplement to standard educational procedures. This program has been helped along by a close community-campus interaction which was set up early in the planning stages of the college.

He brought up the point that a new college has the opportunity to create new procedures and policies within itself. He said that since it starts out fresh, the new college is not bogged down with the rigidities of an older, established institution, policies which are passed on from year to year. "The new college has the chance to develop programs which are relevant to the times," he said.

Another aspect which Vlasin spoke about concerning a new college is that analysis must precede action. That is, a serious planning effort must be undertaken before the construction of the institution takes place.

through Carbondale.

The march, sponsored by the Student Mobilization Committee, was for the most part a quiet affair. Marchers were unable to coordinate chants for more than about 30 seconds. Student marshals led the crowd and there were no incidents along the parade route.

After the crowd had returned to the SIU campus, a half-hearted effort to enter McAndrew Stadium was made by a group of marchers. They were turned back without incident when an SIU security officer told the group the gates were closed and all tickets had been sold.

The marchers made a second futile attempt, again without incident.

When the crowd had settled down at the Free Forum area, across from the stadium, they heard spokesmen from several groups, including Students for a Democratic Society and the SMC. Douglas M. Allen, SIU instructor of philosophy, also addressed the group.

The general theme of the speakers centered on opposition to the Vietnam War and the controversial SIU Center for Vietnamese Studies.

The rally also heard from Norvell Haynes, president of the Northeast Congress.

Haynes said the marchers must be concerned with the issues of the day. He urged them to vote in Tuesday's election.

5 support Board in decision on Allen

By Paula Muto
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Five faculty members released a position statement Friday in support of the action of the Board of Trustees in the case of Douglas M. Allen, controversial SU philosophy professor.

The Board in its October meeting deleted a conditional section of Allen's contract which would have given him an assistant professorship and continuing status with the University when he completes his Ph.D. requirements.

Black arts festival slated for Sunday

Kappa Alpha Psi social fraternity will present the Third Annual Black Arts Festival at 1 p.m. Sunday in the University Center Ballrooms, according to Cavour McClain, festival chairman.

McClain said the festival is given to make black students on campus aware of the talent that blacks have in the various arts.

"We are seeking people such as poets, sculptors, painters and participation from groups who would like to perform," McClain said.

McClain said the fraternity would like to have community participation in the festival.

"We hope to have a band and the admission is free," he said.

Chewing gum craze

In 1945, chewing gum industry sources agreed that the United States annually was chewing 15 billion sticks, which laid end would encircle the Earth at the equator 260 times.

The statement reads: "We, the undersigned, support the action of the Board of Trustees in the case of Mr. Allen. We urge others to join this public statement or to write personally to the Board."

The statement was signed by Milton Alschuler, associate professor of anthropology; Harvey Fisher, chairman of the zoology department; Robert Mohlenbrock, chairman of the botany department; Herbert Snyder, associate professor of mathematics; and Paul Morrill, associate professor of English and assistant to the president emeritus.

The group, which calls itself the Caucus of Concerned Faculty, is not a formal organization, nor is it actively seeking supporters. However, according to Fisher, they have had many phone calls from those who also agree with the Board's action.

"I would guess we have received between 100 and 200 phone calls from faculty, students and townspeople," said Fisher.

He said that although most of the calls were from those who support the statement, they have also received some vehement calls from those who disagree with them.

Food Stamps at Saluki Exchange

William Budelick Jr., operator of the Saluki Currency Exchange, said federal food stamps will be distributed for Jackson County through the exchange, effective immediately.

Budelick explained that the stamps were previously distributed by the Department of Public Aid in Murphysboro. He said that only those individuals who already qualify for the stamps will be able to pick them up at the exchange in the Campus Shopping Center.

"Eligibility," he said, "is still determined by the county's public aid department, so anyone wishing to apply for the stamps for the first time should do so in Murphysboro."

The football game received some competition from 200 marchers protesting the war in Southeast Asia and asking for a homecoming of American soldiers. A group of marchers broke out of the Free Forum area near McAndrew Stadium so they would be noticed by the crowd. Marshals from the New Student Mobilization Committee turned them back and the rally continued without disruption.

A sparse crowd attended Saturday night's Azena stage show, which featured Pat Paulsen and Mason Williams.

English chairman's son killed by truck in Missouri

Howard W. Webb III, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Webb Jr., 622 Glenview Dr., Carbondale, was killed about 5 a.m. Sunday when he was struck by a truck while walking along Interstate 70 near Highland, Mo.

Webb, son of the chairman of the Department of English at SIU, was wearing dark clothing, police said, and appeared to jump out in front of the Consolidated Freightways semi-trailer truck driven by Edward O. Lee, Columbus, Ohio.

Police said Webb's car was found about a mile from the scene of the accident. Police reported that Webb had been visiting his girlfriend in Webster Groves, Mo. A memorial service for Webb will be held at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the Unitarian Fellowship Meeting House, 301 Elm St., in Carbondale. John Hayward, professor of religious studies at SIU will officiate.

A private committal will be held at Oakland Cemetery in Carbondale. Friends may call from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the Huffman Funeral Home.

Webb was a 1966 graduate of University High School and was graduated cum laude in June from Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. Other survivors include two sisters, Sarah, 12, and Amy, 17, both of Carbondale.

Paulsen, a dour comedian, discussed "Zen, Occult and Things that Go Bump in the Night" and gave a hand shadow demonstration.

Mason Williams, composer and singer, and his backup group played a variety of instrumental and vocal numbers, including a humorous poetry reading on toad suckers and tummy gumpers.

Area dormitories and housing areas celebrated Homecoming with open houses and house decorations. The Pyramids took first prize in decoration competition with an Indian balancing his canoe on the edge of a waterfall.

Brush Towers won second prize with shrubs planted to form the symbol for ecology. It was also awarded a special commendation for its permanent contribution.

Thompson Point's Abbott and Kellogg Halls took third with a display of a Saluki balancing a globe.

ST. LAURENT DU PONT, France (AP)—The dance hall where 144 persons perished in a fire Sunday—most of them youngsters—stacked up in charred heaps by exits they couldn't get out of—never got official fire department permission to open for business, a department inspector said Monday.

Maj. Jean Plantier, inspector in charge of fire safety for the area, said: "No authorization to open the Cinq a Sept dance hall to the public ever came from my office."

Jacques Baumei, a secretary of state attached to the premier's office, promised "a through government investigation."

Registration necessary for voters

Students who vote Tuesday should be prepared to be challenged at the polls, according to Delmar Ward, Jackson County clerk.

By state law, any voter who is challenged must sign an affidavit and have two witnesses sign an affidavit attesting to the person's residency. The witnesses must live in the same precinct as the person challenged and be registered.

If challenged, voters will be asked to leave their name and phone number, and name of judge who challenged their vote. In case action is taken after the election.

By law, the judge may not ask for any additional identification other than a voter's registration card.

A list of names and phone numbers of local Democratic committee workers will be available from the student government office Tuesday, Bob Thomas, student government executive, said.

Thomas said any student whose vote is challenged can call the student government office, 453-2002, and a worker in the office will furnish the caller with the name of a committee worker who is qualified to serve as a witness.

The precinct polling areas in Carbondale are: 1, Thomas School, 805 N. Wall; 2, Church of God, 201 N. Wall; 3, Jackson County Housing Authority, 300 S. Marion; 4, the Jackson County Housing Authority at 207 N. Marion; 5, Isom's Store, 821 Marion; 6 and 7, Carpenters Hall, 210 N. Willow; 8, Military and Naval Department Armory, 900 W. Sycamore; 9, Community High School, 200 N. Springer; 10, Carbondale Community Center, 208 W. Elm; 11, St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, 404 W. MBI; 12, Church of the Good Shepherd, 50 S. Orchard; 13 and 14, Epiphany Lutheran Church, 1500 W. Chautauqua; 15, Parrish School, Old Route 13; 17, Hanley Nursery and Garden Center, Route 51; and 18, Lakeland School, on Giant City Black Top Road.

Voters must vote in the precinct in which they are registered. The polls are open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

group of hired experts in law, science, ecology and engineering.

Students would raise the money to fund such a project by voting to self-assess a fee of $1 per quarter. The fee would be included in the student activity fee and would be channeled back to the board of directors of the campus PIRG.

A referendum at state universities in Oregon will be held Nov. 15 to decide if such a fee should be assessed.

Snowmobiles work

The snowmobile, known primarily as a recreational vehicle, is now being used as a work machine. Utility companies are using them to transport work crews, and farmers and ranchers find them helpful to bring cattle feed to remote areas.

Weich said present indications are that the fee will be passed by students and go on to the State board for approval.

A similar process is suggested for funding a PIRG at SIU and other Illinois schools. One legal complication of this would be a clause of the Illinois State Constitution which prohibits the distribution of state-collected monies to outside interests and groups.

Clayton said that the candidates are the only campaign issues. He has been an associate circuit judge since 1958.

Lewis said he would like to effect some changes in outdated practices in the First Judicial Circuit in the handling of criminal and juvenile cases.

Kunce said his 18 years as an associate circuit judge has prepared him for administration over a higher court. Horman is the only candidate who lives in one of the five southernmost counties of Illinois. He said he can serve that area better than the other candidates.

Powless said that improvement in judicial services is important and that his ideas about assignments

Library is aid to any genealogist

By Barry Cleveland
Student Writer

Anyone interested in rediscovering his family history might start his search in the Social Studies Library on the third floor of Morris Library. The library has a good deal of material that could help the amateur genealogist. Several "how to" books are available which explain techniques and methods useful in tracing the family tree, ac-ording to a library spokesman.

Should the search begin in Illinois, the library has in its microfilm section the complete state census records from 1820 to 1890. Also available on microfilm are selected early census forms from Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina.

Good sources of names are the numerous state, county and area histories of Illinois, as well as histories from other states, chiefly in the South and East. Many of these books also include short biographies of prominent local citizens.

Helpful in locating ancestors who may have been veterans are the rosters of the soldiers of various wars. There are several books which list the names, ranks and (in some cases) homes of soldiers of the American Revolution, the War of 1812, the Civil War and other conflicts.

Also available are lists of those veterans of the Revolution who drew pensions from the federal government.

The library has a great many reference and index books that may help in finding forefathers. Some of these list places to look for material: libraries, state and county records, archives and historical society publications.

Especially informative are the indices to genealogies in the Library of Congress and the Newberry Library in Chicago. These books list literally thousands of books and articles relating to individual genealogies.

Although it cannot afford to stock individual genealogies and family histories, according to the source, the Social Studies Library does provide the budding family historian with an opportunity to make a beginning, and a chance to catch the "genealogy bug."

Theater group to tour USSR

Herbert Marshall, visiting professor in theater at SIU, will head a theater and dance tour to the USSR this summer. Marshall states in a publicity letter that, "The purpose of the tour is to become acquainted with lesser-known national minority theaters and dance groups in the Soviet Union which have been neglected in the past."

The group of 15-32 students will leave St. Louis June 22 for London and will return from Paris Aug. 28. The tour will cover Leningrad, Tallinn, Estonia, Kiev, the Ukraine, Baku, Azerbaijan, Yerevan, Armenia, Tbilisi, Georgia and Moscow.

The tour will fly by chartered plane at SIU group rates. According to Raymond Dey, Dean of University Extension, the group rate means that students will pay about half what the normal cost would be.

IM cage managers will meet Nov. 19

There will be a meeting of intramural basketball managers at 6:15 p.m. Nov. 19 in room 141, Lawson Hall.

Each team must be represented by the manager or a team member. Rosters and entry fees must be turned in not later than the close of the meeting.

All rosters must be written on official entry sheets which are available at the Intramural Office, room 128 in the SIU Arena.

Rosters and entry fees may also be left at the Intramural Office prior to 3 p.m., Nov. 19.

Managers should get an Intramural Handbook at the Intramural Office and check on any rule changes before organizing a team. The most important rules deal with ineligible players.

Each roster must have the name, record number, address and telephone number of each player.

Daggett high man in Tuesday league

Fourteen teams of the Tuesday Nine bowling league will take to the lanes Tuesday night in intramural bowling action.

The league, which includes three divisions and four other leagues uses the University Center bowling lanes.

Doug Daggett, captain of the Ruptured Ducks, continues to lead the Tuesday Nine league in individual statistics with a 196 average after nine games. He has also accumulated games of 247 and 242.

In the A division, the standings are: Challengers, 8-4; Junior Barnes and All Stars, 7-5; Roofers, 6-6; Hole in the Wall Gang, 5-7; Cherry Pickers, 5-7; and Militants, 5-7.

The B division standings are: Scavengers, 9-3; Dunkensfields, 7-5; You and Whose, 5-7; and Wild Bunch, 2-10.

The C division standings are: Sammies, 10-2; Ruptured Ducks, 7-5; You and Whose, 5-7; and Wild Bunch, 2-10. In the faculty-staff league, P.P. North is tied with the Chemistry Department with 11-2 records for the league lead. Rounding out the league are VTI, 9-7; University Center, 7-9; Alley Cats, 7-9; Moncots, 7-9; Brand X, 6-10; and Dicots, 6-10.

The faculty-staff league will bowl next Monday night.

'Chuting Club will compete in title event

Members of the SIU Sport Parachuting Club will compete in the 1970-71 National Collegiate Parachuting Championships Nov. 26 to 29 at Deland, Fla.

Forty-one schools were represented at last year's collegiate meet held in Arizona. SIU club president Tony Koller says competition will be especially close this year.

Koller said the meet will consist of three events, the first being a series of individual accuracy jumps in which parachutists compete to land closest to a small plastic disc.

The second event will be a series of maneuvers including freefall turns and somersaults. The jumper with the quickest time wins.

Koller said the third event will be another form of accuracy jumping in which jumpers will exit the plane as three-man teams.

"The competition will be very close," said Koller, "but SIU stands a good chance to win one or more of the events."

'No apologies' for Braves, says Stone

By Fred Weinberg
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Anytime a team gets beat by 66 points, there's usually a little more to the game than what comes out in purple and white on the dittoed statistics sheets.

And there was. The game of course, was SIU's 69-3 rout of Bradley last Saturday before a capacity crowd in McAndrew Stadium.

But the final score and statistics don't tell all there is to be told about the game.

Like the gutsy performance by Bradley's quarterback, Dennis Koop.

Koop is a freshman. And there are not too many freshmen who can or dare stand facing the eighth rated small college team in the country.

"Yes, Dennis did a real fine job," agreed Bradley coach Billy Stone after the sacking in the Braves locker room. "It takes a hell of a lot of guts to play like he did."

Stone stood amidst a quiet profusion of bodies, sipping a coke and indulging in a cigarette. His voice was barely a whisper.

"I got what I expected out of them — everything, 100 per cent," he said. "I don't have to make any apologies for them and I never will. They're a real good bunch of kids and they always give it everything they've got."

"They (Southern) are simply too far away from our level of competition," said the Bradley coach who has only 35 tuition and book scholarships to work with. "We're scheduled for the next four years against competition like this. It used to be that we could beat them but everybody's expanded their programs to the point where we can't play against them."

Maybe they can't play against them, but they can play on the same field with them. Despite the impressive SIU statistics, the Braves' defense never rolled over and played dead. They were simply out-gunned all over.

With one possible exception. Jim King, the Braves' punter, punted 13 times for an average of 40 yards — in anyone's book an impressive figure. Especially considering that his protection was nothing spectacular.

"We're going to miss him," said Stone of his senior punter. "He did a real fine job."

"We got good individual performances out of a lot of people. Especially on defense."

"We just tried to do the best we could but we were always getting beat on the big play. They got it and we didn't," said Stone. "It really hurts me to see these guys give all they did and get beat the way they did."

The look on his face said the rest.

SIU-Arkansas State tilt looms as real thriller

Players and fans at both Arkansas State and Southern can't help but look forward to the contest between the two teams Nov. 21 at Arkansas State. Both small college squads scored 69 points over the weekend.

While SIU was smothering Bradley 69-3, the nation's top ranked small-college team, Arkansas State, crushed Lamar Tech 69-7. Earlier this year, SIU stopped Lamar Tech 32-16 after trailing 16-0.

Before SIU meets Arkansas State, two other road contests block the path of an unbeaten season. SIU is at Ball State Saturday and Drake, Nov. 14.

Both of those future Saluki opponents were defeated over the weekend. Ball State went to Middle Tennessee and took a 14-7 licking and Drake took 33-13 drubbing from surging Abilene Christian.

SIU, Abilene Christian and Arkansas State are all strong possibilities for the Pecan Bowl, pending results from the rest of the season.

The only university division team in the Conference of Midwest Universities, Northern Illinois, continued to have problems as Dayton took a 21-20 win at NIU's homecoming.

Illinois State hosted Indiana State at its homecoming, and the visiting Sycamores took a 28-17 decision.

The Pecan Bowl will be played Dec. 12 at Arlington, Texas. It is the midwest regional championship for college-division teams of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Other similar bowls are played in different areas of the country.

IM flag football scheduled today

The following intramural football games are scheduled for 4:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Willards vs. Puffs, field one; Del Vikings vs. Salty Brothers, field five; Rubber Duckies vs. F.E.N.'s, field six; Free Schneider vs. Hairy Armpits, field seven; Schneider 5th vs. Bailey Booters, field eight; Cambridge Crocspots vs. Gremlins, field nine; Phi Kappa Tau vs. Kappa Alpha Psi, field 10; Delta Chi vs. Theta Xi, field 11.

Salukis finish second

Illini harriers win Intercollegiate crown

By Bob Richards

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

It was a grudge match Saturday for the Saluki harriers. The University of Illinois, quite accustomed to SIU's desire to beat them, put four runners out in front early and then held off SIU handily, to win the Illinois Intercollegiate and prove the Salukis are number two in the state this year.

Led by the course record-setting pace of junior Rick Gross, the Illini copped the five mile race with a low score of 39. Gross won in 24:42, breaking David Hill's course record of 24:57.

Strong efforts by Hill, Glenn Ujiye and Ken Nalder made it close but the Salukis ended up 15 points short of a win, with a team total of 53, good for the runner-up spot.

Hill ended up second in 24:54 with Ujiye fourth at 24:57 and Nalder seventh in 25:19. Ujiye had been running second and third throughout the middle stages of the race.

Illinois State and Eastern Illinois were third and fourth in the meet which drew eleven schools from the state of Illinois. ISU finished with 90 and Eastern totaled 97.

In his top effort of the year, sophomore Carl McPherson was SIU's fourth man, placing 18th in the 71 man field. Both hobbling on injured legs, Gerry Hinton and Gerry Craig ramblined in 22nd and 23rd while Doug Brown, SIU's seventh man, finished 38th.

The win by Illinois was its third straight in this meet and its second this year over its down state rivals, the Salukis. Early this year, Illinois whipped SIU 23-35 with Gross winning then also.

One consolation for the Saluki harriers who had been hopeful of defeating the Champaign school, was that SIU was well ahead of both Illinois State and Northern Illinois, Illinois State, third with 90 and NIU, sixth with 145, both return to Carbondale this weekend along with Indiana State and Ball State for the Conference of Midwest Universities meet.

While most of the several hundred fans on the course Saturday figured SIU was in the running with three men up with the leaders, coach Lew Hartzog observed at the four-mile mark that without his fourth and fifth men farther up, it was all Illinois on its excellent depth.

The Illini put four men across among the top ten in the meet which drew runners from eleven schools in the state. Right behind SIU's Ujiye were Illini stars Ken Howse and Larry Cobb and right behind Nalder was Illini fourth man Lee Labadie.

Craig received the go-ahead to run Saturday from coach Hartzog and ran with a heavily taped knee. Obviously not able to run to his potential, the Irish freshman still made a strong contribution to the Saluki cause with his 23rd place finish.

Hinton was noticeably limping throughout the race and collapsed at the finish line. It is not yet known if he damaged his tender achilles tendon area which has given him trouble for 18 months.

Tennessee Martin edges Saluki freshmen, 3-0

A field goal in the second quarter by the University of Tennessee (Martin) was enough for a 3-0 freshman football victory over the Salukis Monday.

Hopes for a SIU comeback were dashed when Tennessee held at their one-yard line with six minutes to go in the game. Tailback Bernard Smith had started the march to the goal with a 20 yard gain to the Tennessee 10-yard line.

Earlier in the game, the Salukis threatened to get on the scoreboard after Mike Hawkins blocked a Tennessee kick within field goal range in the second quarter. After failing to make a successful drive for the goal, a SIU field goal attempt failed.

Both teams were hampered by soggy grounds and slippery spots on the field. SIU is now 0-3 for the season.

Perkins completed seven of 13 passing attempts for 96 yards.

Turkey Trot cross-country races for women set Sunday

Trophies for the top two finishers in both the novice and elite classes are on the line Sunday in the second annual Turkey Trot for women.

Sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association, the two races of two miles and one and one-quarter mile will take place at 3 p.m. Sunday on the SIU cross-country course, southwest of the SIU Arena.

Those eligible to compete include undergraduate and graduate students, faculty, wives of students and wives of faculty.

The elite class is open for only those girls with AAU, intercollegiate or interscholastic running experience. The novice class is for girls with limited running experience.

Entry blanks can be obtained from Charlotte West in the Women's Gymnasium. The entry deadline is 3 p.m. Friday.

A note from the health service must accompany all entries for the race.

A Turkey Trot for men will be run Nov. 21 at 2 p.m. The distance will be three miles.

Braves totally outgunned

Records fall as SIU wins, 69-3

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Bradley's Braves, complete with drooping feathers and a shotgun offense that forgot its gunpowder, lost a 69-3 game of boredom ball to the Salukis Saturday in McAndrew Stadium.

It wasn't a bad homecoming game for about five minutes. Southern surprisingly fumbled on its second play from scrimmage and enabled the Braves to engineer one of many four-play offensive drives.

But then the Salukis decided to play football and put the game out of reach when Gerald "Scooter" Wilson scored the game's first points.

SIU started the first of nine touchdown drives at its own 18-yard line. Brad Pancoast completed two passes to Daily Egyptian All-Decade selection Lionel Antoine for 13 and 36 yards.

Wilson romped for 30 yards to the five, and two plays later, jogged in for the score on a right end sweep.

As it turned out, that was all the Salukis needed to dump the bungling Braves but the barrage was only beginning.

Pancoast passed for two touchdowns to Dean Schmelzer and scored twice himself to highlight a 38-3 first half.

Gregg Goodman converted on all nine SIU touchdowns for a new school record and also booted a 22-yard first half field goal.

Bradley got its three points on Jim King's second quarter field goal.

Although he never scored, Antoine was the Saluki's most potent offensive threat in the first half.

The 6-7, 240-pounder grabbed six Pancoast aeriels for 149 yards. He had receptions of 13, 36, 18, 30, 15 and 37 yards.

The Salukis eventually set five new school records but didn't look ready to play when Bradley's King opened the game with one of his only two kick-offs.

There was little doubt the Salukis would win and probably crush the Braves. It was just a matter of how to put the points on the board.

"You know, you say you don't have trouble getting ready for games like this, but you really do," Pancoast said in the Saluki Locker room after the game.

"I was really playing ragged in the early going. I guess the whole team just wasn't up too well."

Pancoast didn't stay "ragged" very long. Playing only the first half, he completed 12 or 19 passes for 235 yards and the two touchdowns.

Coach Dick Towers went with all substitutes in the second half and Pancoast didn't have a chance to try and surpass the 357 yards Jim Hart passed for against Northern Michigan in 1964.

SIU could have easily run up the score if Towers had chosen to stick with his first unit but that kind of humiliation isn't necessary, he has often said.

But the little Braves couldn't stop SIU's substitutes either as Joe Tison scored twice, Mark Dufner once and Mike Ebstein once.

Second string kicker Mike Stone put the final touches on Bradley with a 40-yard field goal at 0:06 of the fourth quarter. Stone's kick was only one yard short of tying Bob Hight's record and three yards longer than Goodman has kicked this year.

Records fell all over McAndrew Stadium as the Salukis set new marks for points, total offense, first downs and most plays in addition to Goodman's nine conversions.

In the final game of the 1968 season, the Salukis scored 68 points for a record in a slaughter 68-6 win over Southwest Missouri State. Sixty-nine points against Bradley just paved the way for the other new marks.

SIU amassed an unbelievable 754 yards total offense with 466 yards rushing and 288 passing. That surpasses 594 yards by the 1960 team against Eastern Illinois.

In contrast to SIU's awesome output, Bradley marched 110 yards forward in the air and 72 yards backward on the ground for a total offense of 38 yards.

SIU's defensive line dumped Bradley quarterback Dennis Koop seven times.

The 112 plays executed by SIU's offense breaks a 1960 record by 24. For the second consecutive year, Bradley was the victim of a new SIU first downs record. The Salukis had 34 Saturday, eclipsing the old record of 30, set last year in a 36-14 SIU win.

A kicking comparison shows Bradley punting 13 times and kicking off twice while the Salukis kicked off 12 times and punted only three times.

SALUKI SHORTS: SIU's only serious injury was a brain concussion sustained by second string split end Bob Horst, according to head trainer Robert Spackman.

Early outcome

Although it's still early in the race, Rick Gross of the University of Illinois has already grabbed the lead during Saturday's running of the Illinois Intercollegiate championships. This picture, taken just before the mile mark, shows SIU's David Hill (667) and Glenn Upps, (directly behind Gross).
