Poshard to lose district seat, says decision is unfair

CHICAGO (UPI) - Illinois Republicans won a major political victory Wednesday when a three-judge federal panel virtually rubber-stamped their plan to redraw boundaries for U.S. House districts in Illinois based on last year's census figures.

The GOP plan, which is expected to survive a possible appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, would give them a chance to improve on their 15-7 deficit in state congressional seats. Republicans would have their best chances in some districts they used to hold but had lost to Democrats in previous redistricting battles.

"It's the best news politically we've had in It years, said Ray LaHood, chief of staff for Peoria Republican Bob Michel, the House minority leader. "What we're going to be able to do is maintain the seven that we have and pick up at least three.

The job of redrawing congressional districts was extremely difficult for Illinois lawmakers because the state is losing two seats due to population losses. The General Assembly was unable to reach a decision on how to draw 20 congressional seats, so the issue ended up in court.

The 75-page ruling by the federal judges made only minor changes to a remap plan that was submitted in September by Rep. Denny Hastert, a Republican from Yorkville. The alterations were to the districts of Reps. Charles Hayes and Gus Savage, both Chicago Democrats.

The map also creates a majority Hispanic district in Chicago that will likely give Illinois its first Latino member of Congress in 1993

Republicans relished the victory, which comes on the heels of a win in a legislative tie-breaker that will likely give them more power in the state Legislature throughout the 1990s.

However, the new congressional boundaries are a major blow for Southern Illinois. Three U.S. House districts that encompass parts of central and all of Southern Illinois would be merged into two under the map, meaning the economically troubled area would have less representation in Congress.

Mediation last hope to avert profs strike

By Christiann Baxter Administration W

Mediation begins next week in contract disputes between five state universities and the Board of Governors system, Western Illinois University.

Eastern Illinois University, Governors' State University, Chicago State University and Northeastern State University may face a total shutdown if mediation fails Faculty at universities in the system belong to the University Professionals of Illinois union.

Subhash Jani, special education professor at WIU and president of the university's UPI chapter, said negotiations have broken off and mediation has been scheduled for the week of Nov. 14 Subsequent to that, I think we'll arrive at some strike date if mediation fails," he said.

But the faculty are not viewing a strike as inevitable. Jani said.

"Our goal is to do everything possible to avert a strike," he said. But we cannot rule out a strike

The main reason behind the strike threat is dissatisfaction with salaries at the universities. Salaries at universities in the BGU system are 15 percent lower than comparable institutions across the are Midwest.

Voters show anger but send out mixed signals

By United Press International

Voters across the country showed their displeasure of the way government is working but left Democrats and Republicans alike Wednesday with trying to figure out what the signals mean for them and for the 1992 elections.

Both parties could point to signs beneficial to them from Tuesday's vote but it was clear that voter were in an anti-incumbent mood and wanted change.

Democrats could gloat on the victory of Harris Wofford in the premier race, the ballot for the Senate in Pennsylvania, as well as defeat of a term limitation initiative in Washington and control of most of the big city's mayor jobs.

Republicans were happy with the upset victory of Kirk Fordice as the first Republican governor of Mississippi in a century and big gains in the state legislatures of New Jersey and Virginia.

But it was less clear about what the elections would mean in the big presidential campaign of next year and who exactly the voters were blaming—Republicans or Demo-crats. Congress or the White House, or all of them.

Veto expected on provision to overturn anti-abortion policy WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House voted Wednesday to overturn the administration's controversial "gag rule" policy that bars federally financed family enforce planning clinics from providing abortion information. The vote followed an effort by President Bush to undermine opposition to the policy and strengthen his hand in an expected veto fight The House move came on a 272

156 vote to approve the appropriation bill for the Department of Health and Human Services, including a provision ordering the department not to the anti-abortion rule. The vote fell short of the two-thirds margin needed to overturn a veto if Bush rejects the bill.

House votes down gag rule

The compromise $204 billion bil! was sent to the Senate, where quick approval also was expected. The regulations prohibit federally financed family planning clinics from providing any information to their clients about abortion.

The Supreme Court upheld the regulations in a May 23 decision that spurred a vigorous lobbying effort by pro-abortion groups to have Congress enact a law overturning the policy.

They argued that the policy interferes with the doctor-patient relationship, violates free speech guarantees and endangers poor women's health by denying them information on all available medical options.

This is the earliest that we have ever played and we lost to a very good basketball team," Herrin aid. "We'll get better and it will take time. The important thing is that we know we are a better basketball team."

The Athletes in Action stunned the Salukis early, jumping out to a 13-2 lead. But the Dawgs closed the gap climbing to within four Men racers peak at MVC, peek at district meet

By Scott Wuerz Sports Writer

The SIUC men's cross country team is peaking at the right time, said coach Bill Cornell

The Salukis, who lost three of four meets to NCAA Top 25 competition, rallied when it counted and brought home the Missouri Valley Conference title last Saturday. The team next competes at the Fifth District meet Nov. 16 in Wichita, Kan.

"The whole team ran tough at the right time," Cornell said. "We were able to put things together when we needed it the most." The SIUC men finished with 47 points, topping the 10-team field. Wichita State was second with 56, and Illinois State finished second with 50 and thirds class the third with 78 points. Cornell said the race reflected the parity of the MVC. Wichita State, Illinois State and the Salukis battled back and forth for the lead throughout the eight-kilometer race.

Cornell said at the three-mile mark ISU appeared to have the race wrapped up as they had seven runners in the top 15. But Redbird runners were unable to hold the pace as Wichita State and SIUC runners moved toward the front.

The Salukis consistently improved on the cold, muddy course to notch their first MVC champion-ship since 1983. In individual results, Wichita's Mornay Annondale led the field with a 24.58 finish. SIUC was the only team with two or more runners in the Top 10 results. Senior Mark Stuart finished fourth in 25:14 and junior Nick Schwartz placed seventh in 25:39

Senior Mike Danner, a Marion native finished 11th, senior Vaughan Harry, 12th, and freshman Neil Emberton, 13th.

Red Cross thanks blood donors at reception

By Jeremy Finley General Assignment Writer

The American Red Cross took time out Wednesday to give something back to a few of the people who give so much to it.

The Red Cross honored students, faculty and community members at a reception in the Student Center

Steve Rahn, chairman of the Second Life Organization, said it is important to recognize people who give a little of their time to give blood.

"I cannot stress how important it is for people to give blood, especially around the holiday season when the demand for blood is at its greatest. Most accidents happen around the holiday season," Rahn said.

Demand for organs also is at a high, Rahn said.

"The scare of AIDS is something people do not have to worry about in giving blood. We take special care to note that every tool used in giving blood is clean and sterile. Students should not be afraid to give blood," he said. "Sometimes it's difficult to get donors,

Charge for catalog should stop waste

WITH THE NEED to drastically cut down on waste and expenses because of a tight budget, the University has come up with the idea of charging students $4 for a new SIUC undergraduate catalog.

Many students are enraged at having to pay for a catalog when they already pay for tuition, fees and books. Why be enraged? The effects on students should be minimal. Charging for the catalog will accomplish cutting down on waste and reducing cost.

Catalogs are being sold because the University is unable to predict how many catalogs may be needed. Eventually, the University will be able to estimate the number of catalogs needed based on the previous years' sales.

Because the catalogs were free, some students may have felt they had no value and were dumping them in the trash or on a shelf after use. As a result, the University ran out of copies of the catalog and had to do another printing. By charging for the catalogs the University will no longer have to worry about the catalogs being needlessly wasted at the University's expense. But the University should not use the sale of the catalogs to make a profit. NEW STUDENTS WILL still receive the catalog for free.

Returning students do not have to own a catalog to take advantage of it. Students can look at a copy of the catalog in their advisers' offices, photocopy pages from a copy in the library or take a glance at a copy of the catalog in the University bookstore. If students do not think the catalog is worth the money, then they do have an option. They do not have to buy it. To those students who may have forgotten, all students receive a catalog when they came to school at SIUC. Some students may say, "Qh well, it's not any good anymore.

That is not true. The old catalogs may not be up-to-date on all the classes, but they do have very valuable information, such as the rules and policies of the departments, schools and colleges on campus at the time the students entered. This information is very important because these are the rules and policies the students will follow until they graduate.

So whether buying a new catalog or digging up the old one, students should remember the University just wants the students to place a value on the catalogs. And the new value is $4.

Simon looks out for students

By the Daily Illini University of Illinois

Believe it or not, there are actually a few good politicians, like U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, looking out for students' best interests.

Recently, Sen. Simon introduced a bill that, if passed, would allow student loans to be provided directly from the federal government instead of through banks. This proposal is an alteration of the on-going Higher Education Act, which the House began revising this spring.

By eliminating the middle step and complications that banks often cause with funding for students, and allowing the federal government to offer money at a wholesale rate, students will benefit in the long run. Banks only offer the to deal with over-award procedures and the tedious processing of checks and financial-aid transcripts. This hassle would be eliminated with a direct government loan. Additionally, more than an estimated billion dollars will be saved and more students will be eligible to receive loans. Another benefit for students is that a lower loandefault rate will be ensured by the government taking money from tax refunds Politicians, on the state and national level, often claim edu-cation as one of their highest priorities, but this sentiment is rarely shown in funding and legislation.

Here's to Sen. Simon, who makes good on his promise by attempting to make education affordable and accessible to everyone.

of Belleville but the way the district is laid out it would favor Costello. Residents of far Southern Illinois had launched a petition campaign to keep a district for Poshard when they heard about the GOP plan.

Poshard said in a statement the approved map is unfortunate and unfair for Southern Illinois and disregards the regional unity which existed since the beginning of the state in 1818.

"The map came down in exactly the same manner as we had predicted and feared," Poshard said. "We had hoped that the court would consider a different alternative for Southern Illinois which would preserve our region. It was not the decision of the court to do so."

Poshard said any further appeal is unrealistic, expensive and would meet the same fate.

'Now we must obey the law," he said

In the future, electing a representative from Southern Illinois will be difficult, Poshard said. "This map creates a huge Population advantage on the northern end of each of the three districts which will now divide Southern Illinois," he said. Poshard said his own decision to challenge one of those seats will be made in the near future after he has consulted with his family and the Democratic party. "I think the map's awful," said Rep. Richard Durbin, a Democrat from Springfield. "This Republican map just rips downstate Illinois to shreds. It eliminated the district in far Southern Illinois. It does it so the Republicans can but their suburban districts." Under the approved plan, Durbin's district would run all the way from Rushville in west-central Illinois to Mount Vernon in Southern Illinois. Rep. Terry Bruce, a Democrat from Olney, would see his current district drastically changed. Bruce's new boundaries would run from Decatur to Mounds in the southern tip of the state. However, LaHood said he has no sympathy for Democrats.

"They carved us up so badly 10 years ago that for anybody now to cry foul or unfair just rings very hollow," LaHood said.

Besides pairing up Costello and Poshard, the Republican plan puts incumbent Reps. George Sangmeister, D-Mokena, and Mary George Russo, D-Chicago, into the same district. It also pairs Reps. Dan Rostenkowski and Frank Chicago both Annunzio. Democrats.

Speculation is that Annunzio might retire to protect Rostenkowski, who is chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee.

The plan would also preserve the three seats of Chicago's black members of Congress and would give freshman Rep. Tom Ewing, a Republican from Pontiac, his own district district.

LaHood said he thinks the new map would give the Republicans a great chance to regain some of the five seats they have lost in Illinois' congressional delegation in the last decade.

One seat that will be eyed by Republicans is freshman Rep. John Cox's congressional area in northwestern Illinois. They are also likely to target the seats of Sangmeister and Rep. William Lipinski, D-Chicago, who will now represent an area which includes the Republican suburbs south of Chicago. "We're going to look very hard at Durbin and (Rock Island Rep.) Lane Evans because they are going to have lots of new territory, LaHood said.

Democrats appeal the redistricting decision, it would go immediately to the U.S. Supreme Court but it is unlikely the map would be thrown out.

In a Tuesday memo to HHS Secretary Louis Sullivan, Bush directed Sullivan to "ensure that the confidentiality of the doctorpatient relationship will be preserved and that the operation of Title 10 family planning program is compatible with free speech and the highest standards of medical care."

The memo was circulated to members of Congress, but critics said it did solve the problem.

Rcp. John Porter, R-III., said the memo was "pretending to change" the gag rule, but "does nothing. It is rather a last-minute atten pt to confuse the issue. He attempts to tell how obviously opposite language should be interpreted."

The HHS rule "prevents clinics from telling a pregnant woman coming to them for help."

VOTING, from Page 1 "This election has been about more than electing one senator for Pennsylvania," Wofford said in his victory speech. "It's about sending a message from Pennsylvania. A message that it's time for a change. "You took the power of the ballot in your hands and sent a wake-up call to Washington, to the president, to the Congress and the entire federal establishment."

His election will certainly be used next year by Democrats. Wofford was appointed to the Senate when Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., died in an aircraft accident. But he campaigned as an outsider and won in part because he pictured his Republican opponent, Dick Thornburgh, as a political insider who served two terms as governor and was thick with resident Bush as his attorney general.

Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, said Wofford's victory was "a stinging rebuke to the president" and his "failure to address the domestic needs in the country." Mitchell said the vote gives "great impetus" to the Democrats' own efforts to deal with health care problems, another major theme of Wofford's campaign.

But the Democrats needed to take heed from Fordice's win over incumbent Gov. Ray Mabus, who been considered not had particularly unpopular before the campaign.

Fordice ran a campaign picturing Mabus as part of the entrenched Democratic regime and himself an a candidate against racial quotas themes Republicans could use nationwide next year. And Republicans used highly unpopular Democratic governors — Jim Florio in New Jersey and Douglas Wilder in Virginia -- to make big gains.

Coordinating Center said at least 2,327 people had been killed in the province. Officials said they feared many of the 3,000 people who were missing had been flushed into the Ormoc Bay. The Regional Emergency Assistance Communications Team, a network of shortwave radio operators, reported 2,992 were killed — 2,900 in Ormoc alone.

It was among the worst natural distasters in recent Philippine history. Some 3,000 people were killed in a 1976 earthquake and tidal wave in the southe: n province of Mindanao. More than 1,600 died in an earthquake in the north of the country in 1990. Communications had been cut off in the area and rescue efforts were just getting underway some 24 hours after tropical storm Thelma lashed the central province with rain and swirling winds.

Officials said bodies had begun to decompose and more than 600 people had been buried in a mass grave to halt the potential spread of disease.

Survivors, many of them weeping, scoured the streets with the aid of candles and flashlights as night fell, searching for the bodies of relatives.

Reports reaching Tacloban, 30 miles northeast of Ormoc, said heavy rain and swirling winds the storm burst from a hydroelectric dam above the city.

City explores tax options for future deficit

By Annette Holder City Writer

City councilmembers are considering alternatives to reduce an expected $1 million deficit in three years. Councilmen Keith Tuxhorn and John Councilmen Keith Tuxhorn and John Mills agreed at a City Council meeting Tuesday night that an increase in propeny tax would be one way to help alleviate expected costs exceeding city revenue. "Salaries do not stand still," Tuxhorn said. "An increase in property tax cannot be ignored."

The city receives 6.25 percent of the property tax paid by house owners. The remainder is sent to the state for employee pension costs.

Mayor Neil Dillard said he does not like the suggestion of increasing the property tax because this kind of revenue is not based on the person who uses the service most is paying the most.

"Thelieve in a user fee," Dillard said. "The person who buys a home ends up paying again and again and this keeps people from making improvements on their home." Dillard said a more acceptable alternative

"We need to buy more from local businesses," Dillard said, "And we must help local businesses become more profitable."

Dinner concerts to feature food of past 15 years By Casey Hampton Entertainment Writer

Audiences will feast on a buffet of food and music during the 1991-92 Dinner Concert Series.

The Student Center and Southern Illinois Concerts, Inc. are sponsoring the series, "A Taste of the Last Fifteen Years of the Concert Series," which gives patrons four opportunities to enjoy a buffet dinner in the Student Center Old Main Restaurant followed by a classical concert at Shryock Auditoium.

Joanne Yantis, University Programming Coordinator, said the past 15 years of the dinner concert series has allowed organizers to find foods diners enjoy and foods that they do not. "The board has taken the

"The board has taken the menus from the past 15 years and recorded the most highly attended ones," said Yantis. "Those nake up this year's menu"

Yantis said a membership drive is sponsored each year to determine the individuals from the community entitled to attend performances the following year.

Membership entitles the holder to attend each of the concerts performed on campus or other community concerts in specific places, Yantis said.

"The membership drive is the most fruitful way to keep the series alive—we've got to have some sort of guarantee so the concerts don't fluctuate (in attendance)," she said.

Students, as well as new members of the community, are allowed to purchase tickets during the season, buying a chance to enjoy both internationally famous and up-and-coming acts, Yantis said.

"I think the program is wonderful, but there is a problem of not being known to a lot of people," she said.

Tickets for both the buffet and concert are $10. The buffei by itself is $7.75 and the concert is $3. Tickets are available only to students.

Soundgarden grows into neo-metal leader

By Jefferson Robbins

The Scattle sound is exploding, and Soundgarden's "Badmotorfinger" is riding the crest of the mushroom cloud.

The Washington city has been a breeding ground for underground musical talent since the mid-1980s, when the independent sub-pop record label began as a forum for new bands in this area.

The neo-metal quintet Soundgarden emerged as the leader of the sub-pop pack alongside such groups as Mudhoncy and Nirvana—bands, like Soundgarden, whose styles mesh the best parts of heavy metal and alternative music and are therefore difficult to classify.

Soundgarden's gutsy attack was at its rawest on the band's two subpop extended play ablums, "Fopp" and "Screaming Life." A subsequent move to the Californiabased SST Records produced the full/length "Ultramega OK." In 1990 the band jumped to A&M Records for "Louder Than Low" a elementer for the full ssociation honors retired technology professor

By Todd Welvaert General Assignment Writer

A recent retiree from the SIUC technology program has been honored for his efforts in the national accreditation of technology schools.

The accreditation ensures the quality of the school to students as well as employers

Dale H. Besterfield, a retired professor from the SIUC Department of Technology, has received the President's Award from the National Association of Industrial Technology. "The accreditation is extremely important," Besterfield said. "It confirms the quality of the programs offered to students and employers. We look at the quality of the students' training, if they are getting jobs, if they are satisfied with the instruction and if the instruction is up to date."

Besterfield received the award for his leadership efforts in mandating accreditation for industrial technology degree programs. "The accreditation sends a message to employers," said Larry Helsel, acting dean of the college of applied science at Eastern Illinois University

The accreditation recognizes a program as appropriate," he said

Helsel, who also is president of the University Division of the NAIT, said Besterfield's most important contribution helping to establish accreditation board. the Besterfield was employed at SIUC from 1962 to 1991. 1986 he received an Outstanding

Industrial Technology Professor award from NAIT

Besterfield also served at NAIT as regional director, as member of the Standards and Accreditation Committee and as chair of a number of on-site accreditation visiting teams.

"We are looking to keep expanding," Besterfield said. We are beginning to accredit two-year institutions as well as the four-year colleges." Besterfield, who taught quality control at SIUC, started his own quality control business after his retirement in July. Although Besterfield retired from SIU, he will continue to serve on NAIT's accreditation board.

"(Besterfield) has always been well respected by the general membership of the association," Helsel said. "He has been totally assignment is on hand."

Local bank wins national rating for quality, safety

By Sarah Anderson neral Assignment Writer

A Carbondale bank has been recognized as a Blue Ribbon Bank for exhibiting evidence of financial safety and strength by Veribanc Inc., a national bank rating service.

First National Bank and Trust of Carbondale, 509 S. University, received the award for its performance in the second quarter of 1991, March 31 to June 30.

"We are very pleased to be identified as a safe and sound institution," said Joe Kesler, executive vice president of First National Bank and Trust of Carbondale. "We try to concentrate on profitable growth and to deal with the local economy. We run it in a conservative way," he said. The bank has received this honor for nine consecutive quarters, placing it among fewer than 4 percent of the nation's 12,606 banks.

We feel that this reflects the stability of the banking industry in Southern Illinois," said Laura Herring, assistant vice president of the bank

Veribanc has established criteria for the award by measuring capital strength, asset quality, liquidity and other measures of financial health.

First National Bank and Trust has an annualized return on assets of 1.59 percent.

One percent is considered financially successful.

The Illinois average is .79 percent and the national average is .67 percent. The bank's liquid assets amounted to 70 percent of total deposits. This provides plenty of funds for the lending and deposit needs

Liquid assets are used to fund sudden withdraws.

"A bank has to close its doors when they do not have enough liquidity," Kesler said.

The bank's equity-to-assets was 10 percent.

This is higher than the federal average of 5 percent, the Illinois ratio of 7.4 percent and the nationwide average of 6.7 percent.

"This is the main ratio of solvency that bank examiners use. It is the difference between assets and liabilities," Kesler said. Veribanc is an independent research firm that quarterly assesses the financial health of about 28,000 federally-insured banks, thrifts and credit unions,

"This is an independently generated analysis. Veribanc gets its information from tapes compiled by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. People who have a lot of money to invest check with Veribanc," Kesler said.

This information is then made available to private, corporate and public sector clients worldwide.

Swimmers' dive at Big 10 tourney exploits absence of depth on team

By Norma Wilke Sports Writer

The men's and women's swim team came up dry in their season openers.

The swimmers competed in the Big 10 Relays at Northwestern University Sunday. The men's team finished fifth in the eightteam meet, and the women's team finished sixth. Iowa finished first in the men's and Michigan finished first in the women's.

Coach Doug Ingram said the meet demonstrated SIUC's weakness in depth.

We had a tremendous drop-off in our third and fourth legs," Ingram said. "In some of the races we were leading after the first two legs, but then we ended up sixth. The teams also played very sloppy. We need to work on our turning and starting techniques.

In individual events, third place was the highest the men could finish in competition.

The men's team had a third place finish (3:35.68) in the 400-meter individual medley. Sophomores V-Meng Tan, Randy Roberts, Ryan Wolfinbarger and Greg Bever competed in the event.

The team also had five fourth place finishes. Senior Jcff Williams, Tan and Bever placed fourth (2:34.46) in the 300 butterfly.

Seniors Deryl Leubner and Todd Edison, sophomore Don Hogan, and Bever placed fourth in the 500 freestyle. Sophomore Sean Wel-don, Roberts, Tan and Leubner finished fourth in the 400 medley. Senior Stu Patterson, freshman Robert Weger and Bever finished fourth in the 1,500 freestyle. Junior Mark Goedecke, freshman Tom Tredway, Edison and Leubner finished fourth in the 400 freestyle.

The women's team finished with two fourth places and one fifth. Freshman Sara Schmidlkofer, Freshman Sara Schmidlkofer, junior Kristin Harvey, senior Julie Hosier and senior Nancy Schmid-lkofer finished fourth in the 400 medley. Senior Tonia Mahaira, Sara Schmidlkofer, Harvey and Hosier also finished fourth (1:51.053) in the 200 medley. Freshman Katy Krogh, Nancy Schmidlkofer and Mahaira finished fifth (1:39.02) in the 200 freestyle. Ingram said as a team, the swimmers did not live up to their swimmers did not live up to their expectations. Most of the other teams in the tournament already had competed in meets, he said.

"In practice we have already started to counteract the negative erects of the first meet," he said.

The teams will compete at home Saturday against the University of Missouri at 2 p.m. in the Recreation Center pool.

basketball magazines. With three returning starters —junior forward Ashraf Amaya, senior Kelvan Lawrence and junior guard Tyrone Bell—the Salukis have a good nucleus returning. The Salukis won seven of nine first place votes from the coaches. Second-seeded Wichita State and Northern Iowa got the other votes. Amaya, the only returning player in the conference who was on the MVC all-conference first team last season. was named preseason player of the year.

Amaya was the only unanimous choice for the preseason all-

Duan Cole of Creighton, Robert George of Wichita State, Reggic Wilson of Illinois State and Dale Turner of Northern Iowa also were chosen all-conference. Wilson was second team all-conference last season and Cole was honorable mention. SIUC freshman Marcus Timmons was named preseason newcomer of the year. Coach Rick Johnson of Creighton, whose team was picked to finish ninth in the 10-team league by the coaches and media, said the preseason polls have no vali

Being picked to finish first means nothing," he said. "Nobody knows anything until you get a few games under your belt
