Orrin Tucker Believes New Music Will Be Cosmopolitan

When Orrin Tucker and his "danciest band in the land," entertain at the 1948 homecoming dance, Tucker will have added to his college affair to his long list of professional engagements.

For when Orrin Tucker was a pre-med student at North Central college at Naperville, he accepted an important dance engagement and other men played at fraternity and sorority dances to help pay their college expenses.

Finally a booking agent heard them and offered the band an engagement in New Orleans. Tucker said farewell to his books and left for the city. After his band was increased to 11 musicians, he accepted an important dance engagement at the Claridge hotel in St. Louis. This was a big step in his move to fame, and led to engagements at the Palmer House in Chicago, the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, the Mark Hopkins in San Francisco, and the Paramount theater in New York.

New Music

Tucker feels that the American public is groping for a new form of musical expression and a device to accompany it. He further feels that the new type of music which evolves will be cosmopolitan in that it will borrow from other nations. ## Morris Introduced In Two Assemblies

President D. W. Morris was introduced to students of Southern this week in two assemblies—one held yesterday for the upper classes and one today for the freshmen—in Shroyok auditorium.

Dr. Marshall S. Hickey, dean of men, yesterday presented Gen. Robert W. Davis, local member of the state teacher's college board, who, after few remarks, introduced Dr. Morris to the students.

President Morris, in his address, told of his hopes for Southern's future, her needs, and how the administration, board, faculty, student body, and people of Southern Illinois, through cooperation might fulfill these needs. He listed among the most urgent needs, classrooms, laboratories, dormitories, and a student union building.

Opportunity for Growth

President Morris also stated his belief that here at Southern is one of the "finest unique" situations found in a university in the world, in that it offers such unusual opportunities for growth and development.

The University board, under direction of Harold Hines, played several selections, and along with Norman Rosenberg, as vocalist, presented a proposed new school band, "Here's to You, Oh Southern," written by Julie LeNard.

New Majorettes Join Band

Out in front of Southern's 75-piece marching band this year are two new majorettes.

New additions to the band's high-steppers are Sue Collins of Fairfield and Charlotte Tucker of East St. Louis. They will be marching along with two others who are back with the band—Pat Pope of Murphersboro and Mary Lou Hood, Metropolis. Lewis Waters, East St. Louis, is twirling drum major again this year. Jerry Williams of Salem is maneuvering drum major.

The band is preparing formations for the game Saturday and for the homecoming parade and football game next week. Two Tuesday evening concert band rehearsals have been held. Harold Hines, band leader, said it appears there will be at least 85 pieces in the concert band, and again invited any students interested in the concert band to come to rehearsals at 7 p. m. Tuesdays.

Stenog Classes Are Now Being Offered

"Things a Secretary Should Know" is the subject of a short course currently being offered by Van A. Buboltz, assistant professor of business administration, for student secretaries and other students interested in secretarial work.

The course emphasizes the responsibility and dependability of the secretary, the use of reference books, use and care of office machines, methods of duplication, and the necessity of accuracy.

This is the first time such a course has been offered at Southern, but there will be others in the future, says Mr. Buboltz. If there is a demand, four class meetings are scheduled, on Monday and Thursday night, during the first two weeks of October.

Personnel Offices Offer Additional Student Services

With the moving of the personnel office to more adequate quarters, additional services to Southern students are being offered. Special assistance in reading and study methods will be given to students who are having difficulty with their college program or who wish to improve their efficiency and scholarship.

This new service will be under the direction of Leonard J. Bissell, assistant dean of men, and Miss Ruth Haddock, assistant dean of women. Recent plans call for four groups. These groups will meet one period a day, three days a week. Students may schedule this work at 10 or 11 a. m. and 1 or 2 p. m. These groups will meet in the newly located office of the personnel deans.

For $2.10 and all tickets sold at that rate will be $2.00. These are the same prices which have been provided for a number of years of campus.

Maverick Begins Chinese Lectures

An ancient Chinese writer got a 230-year jump on the rest of the world's economists, according to a University economist.

Written in the fourth century B. C., the Lian-Tzu was the first contribution to economic thought on the quantity theory of money, declares Dr. Lewis A. Maverick, professor and chairman of Southern's economics department.

Lecture To Continue

Dr. Maverick points out that no economic philosopher after the Chinese writer contemplated any comprehensive study on the theory until the writing of Jean Bodin in the fifteenth century.

The lectures are conducted by Dr. Maverick in the Clint Gay Tilton library. The material is based in large part upon a translation of the Lian Tzu now being completed by Tan Po-Fu, a graduate student from Liao-Ning Province, Manchuria, who began his study at Southern last December.

On Oct. 2, the topic was "The Genesis for Agriculture"; Oct. 16, "The Quantity Theory of Money"; and "Statism, Planning and Totalitarianism" on Oct. 20.

Dr. Maverick first became interested in the study of Chinese works while serving as chairman of the economics department at the University of Southern California in 1925. He came to Southern in September, 1946.

Engineers Attend Training Program

An on-the-job training program for Southern's stationary engineers and firemen opened this week under the instruction of Reid Troutman, chief engineer at the University's power plant.

Troutman recently completed a five-day training conference in power plant operation and maintenance at the University of Illinois. The training was arranged by the Illinois civil service commission, and conducted by the university's extension service and college of engineering.

More than 30 chief engineers from state power plants attended the workshop. They represented power plants in the departments of public welfare, public safety, conservation and education, and the office of the secretary of state.

The purpose of the training is to improve the overall efficiency of the state power plants. At Urbana the chief engineers were provided with training materials and methods for developing the employees under their supervision.

Helen Traubel St. Louis Soprano To Appear Here

Helen Traubel, St. Louis soprano who has become internationally celebrated as an operatic singer and pianist, will be presented in the first program of the current season of Carbondale community concerts in Shroyok auditorium, Oct. 19.

The concert series is sponsored jointly by a local association and the university committee on lectures and entertainments. Students are admitted by activity tickets.

Although Miss Traubel has been before a national public for only a few years, she has become one of the best known singers of the day. Her many records and frequent radio appearances, together with her almost unparalleled success in pleasing the public and critics alike, have made her almost an institution.

Subject of Article

Until 1936 she was scarcely known outside St. Louis, where she was an established church singer and teacher. In that year Walter Darrow "discovered" her and persuaded her to attempt a career on a broader scale.

Last week was the subject of a feature article in a popular weekly magazine. Called "The Prima Donna is a Roughneck," the sketch gave a detailed account of Miss Traubel's fortunes as a barbershop, fiddler, and other spots not usually associated with opera stars.

Conrad V. Ross, pianist, will accompany Miss Traubel in her recital here.

Music Groups Elect Officers

Organizational meetings were held last week for the campus music organizations, and officers were elected for each.

Gene Howe of Fairfield will be president of the men's organization for the coming year. Norman Roderberg of Waterloo was elected vice-president; Warren Elliott, Wood River, secretary; Charles Ross of Carbondale, treasurer; and Paul Margrell of Frankfort, was elected historian.

Plans for the year were discussed. Next meeting will be held in the music house following "The Messiah" rehearsal next Monday.

Mrs. Pat Eadie of Carbondale was re-elected president of the women's music group. The group elected Betty Miller of Waterloo as its vice-president; Rose Price of Carbondale as secretary-treasurer; and Ruth Young was chosen publicity chairman. Miss Kate Mose was re-elected historian.

The group discussed plans and the possibility of affiliating with Mu Phi Epsilon, national music fraternity. Next meeting will be held after the "Messiah" rehearsal Monday in the auditorium.

How's Homecoming, Coming?

Homecoming is really under way now! The sun, stars, ideas and a few local musicians, head and tail, are making their crowning debut during the evening's festivities.

Thursday evening at 8 will find the scene of action (and there should be plenty of it) originating at the outdoor field north of the stadium. Here will glow a huge bon fire. And, too, the faces of the freshmen who will become full-fledged Southerners by bonfire and their green ribbons. However, the celebration will not end there. Louis Waters, the master of ceremonies for the evening, will introduce Dr. Orville Alexander, faculty homecoming chairman and director of the alumni association. The president of the alumni association will also be on hand to welcome the new students. These are only a few of the events to (Continued on page 2)

Hawaiian Student Speaks at A.C.E.

Helen Myahara, student from Hawaii, was speaker at a meeting of the Association for Childhood Education held at the Cottage, Sept. 29.

Miss Myahara discussed Hawaiian customs, the schools of Hawaii and gave a general description of the island. This is Miss Myahara's first term as a student at Southern.

At this meeting, participation in the state convention of the A.C.E. was discussed. The convention will be held at Peoria Oct. 16 and 17. Dr. Sim M. Motz, associate professor of education and sponsor of the SIU branch of A. C. E., will preside as chairman of a round table discussion by the examination.

Anyone interested in attending the convention may receive more information by inquiring at the Cottage, 902 S. University.

Hill City Is To Be Model School In Health Program

Hill City consolidated school has a chance to become a model school in health education for Southern Illinois, according toolph Boutman, Southern health coordinator.

Boutman gave a detailed report to the Hill City Parent-Teacher association last week on plans for developing a health program there.

He stressed the importance of a physical examination for school children, and reported that the Hill City board has adopted a resolution authorizing the funds to pay the cost of the examination.

Dr. Orville Alexander, Floyd B. Cotter, principal, and Eugene Helfrich, health teacher, are Hill City officials cooperating in the plan.

If It Rains—What?

There have been numerous questions asked about the outcome of homecoming if old man weather decides to be obstinate in the form of rain. There are a number of alternatives in answering these questions. We could call the whole thing off. We could press the affair indoors, or we could do as they do in China, you know, let it rain and proceed as scheduled.

Calling the whole thing off is out, of that we are certain, but just for naturally let's probe into that "indoor" pipe-dream. Naturally the Little Theatre effort ("Kiss and Tell") would go as scheduled, as would the dance, but what about the parade and the football game?

Football Game Indoors

Let's try to imagine the parade and football game taking place indoors (aw, come on, try). A wall or two would, without a doubt, require a bit of face-lifting, or would you call that "brick lifting"? Why the demolition of walls? How are the floats going to pass through the limiting portals of the gymnasium? Tear 'em down. Upon the completion of the destruction, long ramps are built upon which the floats would make their grand entrance into the gymnasium.

As the parade is in order, all the floats and their chauffeurs are ready, and at last the gun is fired announcing that the parade is officially underway. First, of all the hand marches, into the gymnasium bearing away. The noise comes here with a bang, and the judges who has been out the night before. By the time the band files out of the gym hall, the audience is 15 ft. up double A.

The first float is towed in it is a likeness of Plato. Absolute beauty, and the benefits, unfurled out of the back of the float, the judges in the V8 pulling the float has been a long time, and the V8 miles of dirt and the burning oil. (Note to those of you who are burned in the field of mechanics: when an engine burns all the products of combustion (gas) fumes are multiple more than somewhat (get what I'm building up to); Number two float too is badly in need of vamps, as is number four (number three is O.K.). The parade moves on and soon the gymnasium resembles the upper tier of Dante's Inferno. (Smoke rises, you know.)

No Air

By this time the spectators all ten of them—thousands have to be turned away—no room and judges are wheezing and gasping for air. It's really tough trying to breathe under these conditions. In less than time it takes Mel Patton to run the 100-yard dash, a judge or two to overcome by carbon monoxide gas; they are revived by a group of Boy Scouts who were loitering outside hoping something like this would happen so they could procure free passes for the football game. (Things are really in one hell of a mess now, aren't they?) Upon regaining consciousness, the judges declare the winner to be number 10 float, which was (you guessed it) horse drawn.

Game Indoors

The parade ends, and the scene is set for the football game—sure, it's in the gym too, it's really raining outdoors now. The spectators file into the gym, tent for gas, then choose a seat. As this is an unconventional way to play football, the rules must undergo a few minor changes. At last the referee has conveyed these changes, to the two teams and we are ready for the kickoff.

Southern wins the toss and elects to kick. They do so. The kick is a high end over end kick that ricochets off the ceiling, bounces through one of the overhead rings, bounces on each of the parallel bars, and falls through the basketball hoop for two points. But wait, the only score that warrants two points in football is a safety. The referee, being the father of one of Southern's football players, awards S.I.U. two points.

Riot Starts

A riot follows this decision, both teams are disqualified for unportsmanlike conduct, and the game is decided a "no contest" affair. Our homecoming is ruined, and all of our slams disown us. Sope, better we have our homecoming outdoors in the bright sunshine (it'll be there, I got it straight from Apollo). O. K. China, we'll follow suit. Now you might ask, "Why all the words about an impossible occurrence?" Good question. The

Smoke Rings

By FRED SENTER

Southern Illinois is rich in tradition and folklore. For a long time the southern section of the state was the only area settled. About the only settlement in the northern part of this state was Fort Dearborn, an insignificant community on the shores of Lake Michigan. Few people in this, the most thickly populated section of the state, ever thought Fort Dearborn would amount to much because it was too far from river transportation. The bank at Shawneetown lent money to the tiny community. Finally Fort Dearborn burst her seams and grew up to be the thriving metropolis, Chicago.

This is only one incident in the long history of Illinois' early life. And yet, there have been only a few sporadic efforts on the part of Southern Illinoisians to preserve the relics and mementos of this era. Since Southern Illinois University is in the heart of Egypt, we feel she should take the initiative in locating and preserving any evidences of local historical interest.

To begin such a program, the school's museum should be enlarged. John W. Allen, director of Southern's museum, has done an excellent job in smoking out articles of historical significance, but his facilities are limited. The museum is housed in a room much too small to hold the available exhibits.

We feel an enlarged museum would be a big help to students in history and education. For instance, an exhibit of books, courses, and educational systems during Illinois' early history would help give potential teachers at Southern a good background in early educational procedure.

A program with this essential idea has already been launched by Mr. Allen. If he can find a place to set it up, he can get an old school house as it was originally built, and used in Southern Illinois.

Of course Southern is, and will be, crowded for some time, but we believe arrangements should be made for a larger museum as the school expands.

Arctic Regions

Suitable winter clothing such as ear muffs, mittens, and boots, will again be making their appearance on campus this term. These articles of clothing have always been considered appropriate for outdoor winter activities. But now, something new has been added. Not only do students wear clothing of this type about the campus, but also some students will find that it is necessary to wear the same heavy clothing in their classrooms.

Students, who are unfortunate enough to have classes in the barracks, will be faced with two alternatives—they can either keep these uncomfortable clothes on in the classroom and keep warm, or take them off and freeze.

While the weather is relatively mild at present, morning classes in the barracks give no indication of this mildness. In fact, between shivers, one begins to feel the similarity of the classroom and a deep freeze locker.

It might even take five minutes for the students in the speech classes to deliver their three minute speeches—the additional two minutes being taken up by trembling and knee knocking.

The students are anxious to help the expansion program and they are willing to co-operate whenever possible. They realize that the problem of heating the buildings on campus must be a tremendous one, yet, some type of temporary arrangement should be planned to make the rooms in the barracks slightly warmer than they are now—at last at warm as the other buildings in which heat was turned on this week. —R.F.O.

Reason for our going into detail on a fantasy is two-fold. First of all it is our intention to make everyone on campus homecoming conscious. Homecoming requires the attendance of you, you, and you to be a success, so plan on being here to take part in the three-day celebration. Secondly, letters, when placed side by side in the correct order, form words, words fill space, and the Egyptian has many blank spaces, said space to be filled. As you can plainly see, this article was not written primarily to occupy space, but to convert those in the minority who disbelieve the adage which is as follows: "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." You can work for the rest of your life, but don't miss homecoming for the time of your life. —R. R.

"But Dilbert, the homecoming dance isn't until next Saturday!"

PERSONALITY SPOTLIGHT

By MARY BOSTON

JACK MAWDSLEY

If you see a fellow on the campus—a fellow with a dark tan and nearly white teeth—It isn't an Indian's, Jack Mawdsley, Junior from Granite City.

The tan was acquired mostly from playing tennis and directing recreation in Granite this summer. Jack is captain of Southern's tennis team, a swell bunch of fellows who swept through a fine season last year. Jack himself was conference champion of the second division in tennis at the IAAC conference last spring. Jack likes both basketball and tennis, but tennis is his favorite. He played both in high school (he was on the first basketball team), but has stayed with tennis since coming to Southern. He spends a great deal of time with tennis buddies at the tennis courts.

Jack is a member of the Kappa Delta Alpha fraternity and is a new member of the "P" club.

History is his major. Jack supposes he will teach history and perhaps physical education, his minor, after he gets his degree. He'll probably be teaching tennis before he's really satisfied.

Disband music is of his favorite kind of music. Like all good looking guys on the campus, Jack is chased by women, but he pays little attention to them.

take place during the course of the evening. In addition to the above-mentioned, security sings and a number of school cheerleaders will fill the night air. We have endeavored to bring you up to date on what is about to happen on the weekend of Oct. 14-16. There are still many ideas to be woven into this already over-flowing program, and a team to groom for the game, and rehearsal for the play. The plot of this homecoming theme has already been knitted and now awaits the finishing touches to make it a best seller.

REORGANIZED PHYSICS CLUB

The physics department of Southern has announced that the physics club is to be reorganized for the year. Anyone interested in the field of physics is invited to join. A date for the first meeting has not yet been announced. The club sponsors a program every two weeks, consisting of talks pertaining to this field. A demonstration of the television set which was built by the physics department is the intended subject for the first program; however no date has been announced.

Four Classes of Smokers Make Interesting Discussion

This Smoking World "Could I have a light please?" This is perhaps the most used phrase in the world today, as the young and old, men and women and even the monkeys at the zoo indulge in the dubious pleasure of smoking. These tobacco addicts are divided into four major classes, the cigar smoker, the conservative pipe smoker, and the male and female specie of cigarette smokers.

Cigar Smokers
First let us look at the cigar smokers. They are usually the farm-bald business men who seem to continually have a cigar in their mouth. Lighted or unlighted making no difference. Then too, we have the drug store cowboys who can always be seen in the evening at the corner drug store chewing on cigars and appearing very polite. What America needs is a good five-cent cigar. We have these cigar smokers as they discuss the fate of Tom, Harry and the nation and journey on to the pipe smoker.

He can be seen in front of the fireplace, book in hand, slippers and dressing gown complete, reading and smoking as the rain beats a tattoo on his window pane. Twenty years before he could have

Clark Exposition To Have Floats In Homecoming Parade

The homecoming parade this year promises to be the largest yet in this part of the state. The reason for this is an additional parade which will feature the homecoming floats, bands and stunts. This addition is the George Rogers Clark exposition which is touring Southern Illinois.

The parade will form at the Carbondale Community high school football field. It will travel south on Springer where it will be joined by the additional parade. West Out. The two parades, separated by a police car, will turn left on Main St. to Illinois Ave. It will proceed to the East Campus area where the touring exposition will turn east and go on its way. The original parade will then assemble on the university football field where the trophies will be awarded to the winning floats and stunts.

Print Shop Is A Busy Place

A visit to Southern's duplicating shop would prove that it is one of the busiest places on the campus.

First, the place where everything from letter heads to the most elaborate, varicolored booklets is printed for the various departments and organizations on campus. Then for the art show and receptions, have been printed.

In the process of being printed are a two-color job for the Egyptian Fire Fighters association, a booklet for the library, and a Ping and Swing booklet for David S. McIntosh, associate professor of music.

According to an employee, the duplicating service uses, on an average, 50 reams of paper per week. Perhaps the largest job undertaken was the directory, of which 3,000 copies were printed last year. Addressing of the Southern Alumnus, and the Egyptian is also done here, as well as mimeographing examinations for the vet. courses.

Warren Adams is director and photographer for the duplicating service. Three students, and two civil service workers are employed there.

IT DIDN'T ADD UP
Last week's Egyptian published registration figures that did not add up to 3,000, as the number of students enrolled.

According to the registrar's office, here are the final breakdown figures: 2927 men students, 973 women students, 1137 freshmen, 647 sophomores, 628 juniors, 454 seniors, 12 post-graduates, and 140 graduate students. There are 1,212 veterans enrolled as compared with last year's 1,377 veterans.

Ringer Authority Gives New Details On Pre-Class Ringing

A good ringer does not confine his operations to the class period, but works assiduously before and after class, to create a favorable impression on his professor. Ringing before class, which we will call pre-class ringing, while sometimes inconvenient to the student, will give valuable assistance in helping him pass the course. We will give a few examples.

Let us say that your class is on the second or third floor. This is a distinct advantage. You will then be able to meet the professor at the bottom of the stairs and walk with him to class. A good ringer, naturally, will time the professor's daily arrival so that he can "accidentally" meet him every day at the bottom of the stairs. This may mean getting up an hour earlier in the morning, but a good ringer can sleep any time.

Big Questions
You should make good use of this time. It is prudent to have a hair-splitting question to ask the professor, but it is sufficient to make a brilliant remark about the previous night's assignment. For example, if you are talking with your roomie professor, you might say, "Dr. (always Doctor, even if you are speaking to a student instructor), last night's assignment was the most stirring reading we've had all term!" This should be accompanied by the proper facial expressions to indicate extreme pleasure.

You should, of course, sneer at the other students who meet on the stairs. Particularly members of your own class. While sneering at other students, it sometimes helps to tell the professor how annoyed you get at these silly college juveniles who don't take any real interest in their studies. This is an appropriate time to mention to your professor that you feel the subject he is teaching has a vital bearing on the international situation.

Extra Books
On these, and all other occasions, don't fail to be seen carrying extra text and reference books on the course. Don't make the mistake of reading any of these books—they tend to confuse the student.

The first thing to do on entering the classroom, after holding the door for the professor, is to look around and see if any other ringer has brought extra texts. If so, run don't walk, to their desk, ask the title of the book in a loud voice, and copy it prominently. If at any time the professor mentions a reference book, take down the title. (It is best to hold your notebook high in the air, so that the professor will see you.)

Clever Remarks
It is advisable to make a clever remark before the class begins. This will endear the ringer to the heart of the professor. For example, we'll say your class is on the third floor. You should then say (in a loud voice), "Dr., three flights of stairs are too much to climb. I would like to take some advanced courses in physics, but I won't unless you have them on the first floor." This is extremely effective since it lets the professor know, under the guise of humor, that you are completely fascinated by his course.

Health Department To Help With Exhibit

Southern's Health department has been asked by the Office of Public Instructions to contribute an exhibit in Health education for American Public Health Association in Boston this fall. At the present time, they are considering an exhibit showing how the University has contributed in developing a school health program in schools and communities from the university level.

Art Center Is Scene of Fire

Only slight damage was the result of a fire which started in the Art Center on Thompson street last Friday. The fire started from heating pipes leading from the play kiln.

The city fire department was called upon discovery of smoke by students in the building. However, due to the quick action of two cafeteria employees, with fire extinguishers, the blaze was under control upon the arrival of the city fire truck.

 Other big mistakes included letting the Russians into Berlin first and not getting proper guarantees for corridors to get into Berlin from our occupation zones. We did not even have a well-defined occupation policy until the fall of 1946.

Martinmen Come From Behind In Seelman, Ruzich Attack

Scoring three times during the last quarter, the Southern Maroons overcome a 13-6 deficit to defeat the Cape Girardeau Indians, 25-13, in a game played here Saturday before an estimated 3,500 spectators.

Southern played poor ball during the first half, but paced by consistent gains by backfieldmen John Brown of Johnston City, Joe Seelman of Flor, and George (Homehead) Sawyer of Wood River, the Maroons gained considerable yardage in the second half which they rolled to victory.

Southern tied the score with a good place kick.

The Maroons scored again early in the fourth quarter as Ruzich played over from the three after he had sparked a 62-yard drive. The kick for the extra point was wide.

With less than a minute remaining in the game, Southern tallied its last touchdown as Kelly punched over from the five. The try for extra point failed, but the Maroons were in possession of a 25-13 conquest.

Ruzich averaged 4.5 yards per try as he gained 105 yards on 23 tries before he was injured in the fourth period. Seelman averaged 6.4 yards on 12 tries while Sawyer averaged 6.1 yards in 8 tries.

VEATH SPORTS MART

Indiana State Foe Next Saturday

The Southern Illinois Maroons, who triumphed over a troublesome Cape eleven last Saturday, face one of their toughest opponents of the season at McAndrew stadium this weekend. It'll be Boy Scout Day at the stadium but it is reasonably certain that the Indiana State Spartans of Terre Haute won't be doing Southern any good deeds for the afternoon.

The Sycamores are out to duplicate last year's 11-0 setback they handed the Martinmen on the Hoosier stamping grounds. Nineteen returning lettermen will spark the squad which handed the Maroons one of their two defeats in the '47 campaign.

Indiana Has Won Two

This year's squad from the Hoosier state boasts an undefeated record in the two games they've played. Two weeks ago, Bob Chester's field goal from the 13 yard line in the final seconds of the game sank Illinois Normal 9-7 in a real killer. Chester, if you'll remember, was the big gun in State's attack last season. Last week the Sycamore quarterback was on the "chucking" end of most of their completed pass plays as they stunned the Valparaiso Crusaders 14-0.

Other stars to be reckoned with are John Petrik, plant 270-pound tackle, Jack Garrad, who switched from lineman to bolster the half-back spot this year, and Max Woolsey who, along with Chester have accounted for all of Indiana State's 23 points.

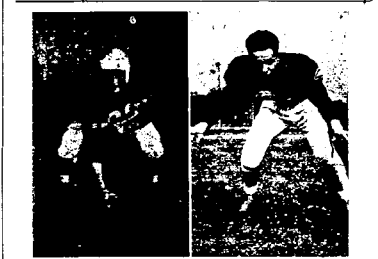

The Maroons' meanwhile are battling 5-0 in two games this season. Offensively they have looked more like a high school eleven at frequent intervals this fall. The Capesters warmed in on our backfield like bees on a honeysuckle last Saturday. In the game against Normal, Indiana State's tested forward wall piece held for four downs inside their own ten yard line. That's the way it was, and Southern's blocking will have to be done not when the opening can go off Saturday.

Probable Lineups

The Maroons did look like champions in spots, however, because of an unleashed passing attack which was difficult to halt. If the passing attack can click again this week, and the Maroons can play their usual bangup game defensively, State will be in for trouble with a capital T. With both teams at their best, this could quite well be the game of the year.

BANG-UP BOYS

"Chuck Hiett, I.G. from Gillespie, and Joe Hughes, I.E. from West Frankfort. Both are aggressive linemen that seem to anticipate the opponents' next move.

Cape Gains More Than Wayne U.

Although the Maroons pounced out a decisive 25 to 13 win over the Cape Indians on Saturday, their defensive play during the first half left a lot to be desired. The Southern forward wall was much more impressive against Wayne in the season's opening than they were in the first half of Saturday's encounter. Although roused 26 to 0 by the Michiganders, the Martinmen held the Tartars to three first downs during the first half of the game contrasted to the seven made by Cape the past week.

Offensively, however, there was no comparison between the two games. Southern carried the ball only forty two times against Wayne whereas John Ruzich slotted the leather 23 times Saturday to give the Maroons a total of 73 total plays.

Ruzich picked up 106 yards on Saturday to run his total yardage to 130 for the two games. He has carried the ball 32 times. Passing and running combined give Dick Seelman the lead with a 176 yards in 31 tries.

Rules For New Groups Are Issued

As the year begins, new and old organizations should comply with the standards for organization in regard to student life committees.

Any group of students wishing to form a new organization should first petition for a new organization to the officers of the student life division, who along with a representative from the president's office, act as an agent for establishing the existence of new organizations.

1. Attach to the petition the written statement of a faculty member who is willing to accept the responsibility of sponsorship.
2. Agree to follow the stipulations set up for organizations in good standing.
3. The stipulations for an organization in good standing old and new include:
  - a. Planning in the office of the student life division certain data about the organization.
  - b. Name of organization.

The last meeting of modern dance club was taken up with techniques and creative variation of fundamental skills. One group spontaneously displayed an interesting impression of a track meet in a variation of the run. Work has been started on recalling the Christmas dance, Holy Night, as well as Gloria. It is hoped that the club will have come and beginners as well, will come to the meetings which are held on every Thursday and Tuesday evenings from seven to nine.

WAA hockey began Wednesday, Sept. 9 with the beginning practice. Because of weather conditions, the beginners were taught skills, techniques, and rules of field hockey inside the gymnasium. Anyone who is interested in hockey is welcome to come to practice any evening that the can. Beginnings play on Monday and Wednesday and the advanced people play on Tuesday and Thursday.

The Morning After

by John DeLeonardo

Let's use the Cape game as a rule-of-thumb. That first half fairly reeked. The second was better, although there were spots now and then that looked too high-schoolish. If Southern plays like they did with Cape against Indiana State, those Hoosiers'll sew up the game too early to do anything.

John Ruzich, Dick Seelman, and George "Bone" Sawyer chalked up some fifty differences of football techniques Saturday but the team as a whole looked rather ragged. That first half looked like something out of the past—way out.

Ruzich was the workhorse of the game. Carried 23 times for 106 yards, but Seelman's passing and running netted him approximately 177 yards. During the last few minutes of the game, Ruzich left the game with a twisted leg, and "Abe" Martin informs us that it is doubtful that Ruzich will see action against Indiana. Martin will probably give the starting nod to Bob Bivac of East Chicago.

Fasten State's Earl Bencho tallied two TD's against Ball State to lead his team to 12-0 win. This IAC race should be a honey.

Congratulations to KDA's—instigators of the program for the football game—Nash, classy, and outstanding to say the least.

It's an old gripe, but even though we usually know the outcome of Southern sports, it still makes us sore not to see the results in the St. Louis and Chicago papers—like the other big schools, and when they do go in, it is invariably Southern Illinois Normal.

Indiana State already has two victories—pooped for season's play and will be gaining for their third. They have already beaten Illinois Normal in IAC play.

A plucky little guy named Pat Kelly showed us what he was made of at the Cape game Saturday. Practically all the time he was in the game, Southern was on the march. That is the result of experience. Pat is in his third year and the same on the squad. He has gotten down in the dumps several times, but we have always told him that it would all come out in the wash. The kid can run too. . . .

Personally, we think the Maroons, as a whole, react better to his quarterbacking.

Ruzich, Hughes, Colborn, Sawyer, Seelman, Heinz, Cross, and so forth looked good last week. Because of some mechanical difficulty we are unable to name another. The scoreboard almost caused a calamity . . . the fourth down and not the third . . .

In the second half, the Maroons simply overpowered the Indians; however, Abernathy & Co. made us look bad in pass defense the first half.

Several new hopefuls have joined Lynn Holden's first drills. The nucleus of last year's squad will provide more than enough strength for a clean bid to the IAC title for the fourth consecutive year. Returning are Jack Hader, Charlie Good, Bob Colborn, Joe Hughes, Jack Long, Bob Kissack, Eric Bozarth, Don Glover, and Truman Hill. With boys like these plus the many freshmen now drilling for O'Brien, Lynn can be assured of running anyone a close race for conference honors.

Know when Southern picked up an "F" for letter honors instead of the original "N"?

It's about time for you bunch managers and coaches to start getting your basketball teams lined up for the intramural season. John Catlin is the intramural students representative and as yet a faculty director has not been appointed.

Answer to last week's question: Jim Johns of Mt. Carmel.
