'Unclassified' Limited To Non-Degree Students

Those Unclassified Must Petition College To Enter

The "Unclassified" student category is being limited from this quarter on to students in good scholastic standing who are not working for degrees at SIU, it was announced Monday by Jack W. Graham, coordinator of student counseling and testing.

Currently enrolled "unclassified" students (coded 07-S3) will need to petition to change into some degree unit prior to advance registering for the winter quarter, Graham said.

Adult students taking a few courses not to be counted for degrees may continue as Adult Education Unclassified students (coded 07-S4).

The coordinator's advice to students with below "C" averages is that they "should begin immediately to improve their study habits in an attempt to stay off scholastic probation. Students on scholastic probation will be dropped if they fail to make 'C' average for the current quarter," he warned.

"These students should not be registered to take more than 4 credit hours," he said. "Special counseling services are available at the Counseling and Testing Center for these students. Probation students should prepare assignments daily to achieve well above the minimum 'C' average," Graham said.

Further inquiry about scholastic probation as well as educational offerings and work opportunities outside the University setting should be made at the Academic Advisement Center or the Counseling and Testing Center, the coordinator added.

Grade Averages To Be Released

Loren Young, assistant supervisor in the Office of the Registrar said today the spring grade point averages by living areas will be released soon, probably next week.

Customarily, the grade point averages for each hall, fraternity, sorority or other housing unit is computed at the end of academic quarters.

Installation of new equipment in the Office of the Registrar and a switch in responsibility for getting the job done from Housing Office to Registrar's office has slowed up the process, Young said.

He said the computation has been completed for all but the fraternities and sororities at the present time.

Winter Term Advisement Set

Advance registration will actually begin on Oct. 9 and continue for eight weeks, closing at noon on November 27.

Effective with this advance registration, students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences will be assigned specific advisers depending upon their major. Students will learn the name of their adviser when they make an appointment.

VIT students will be informed about the advanced registration program in their classes. Advance registration at VTI will not begin until after October 16.

Appointments for advance registration for the winter quarter will be made in the Olympic Room of the University Center on October 2, 3, 4, for all undergraduates except VTI students.

Upperclassmen will register Wednesday, Oct. 2, from 8:30 a.m. to 12 and 1 to 4:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 3 from 8:30 a.m. to 12.

General Studies students will register Thursday, Oct. 3, 1:00-4:30, and on Friday, Oct. 4, 8:30-12 and 1-4:30.

After Oct. 4 appointments may be made in either the General Studies Advisement Center (T-31) or the upper-class Advisement Center (T-65).

Obelisk Photos

Upperclasses, VTI

Steve Wilson, editor of the Obelisk, said that picture taking of juniors, seniors and VTI students begins today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Wilson said junior and VTI pictures would be taken at Neulist, and senior pictures, at Nauman. The charge is $2.50 per sitting. The editor said pictures would be taken only until Oct. 25.

The Obelisk office has been moved to H-2, west of the Agriculture Building. Wilson said that the telephone number remains unchanged from last year.

Council Prepares Agenda; Four Items To Be Studied

The All-University Student Council has prepared a list of topics for thorough study in its role of coordinated student advisory group embracing interests common to both the Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses.

The agenda includes four matters for immediate investigation and study, according to Miss Carol Feirich, one of the four representatives from the Carbondale campus.

These are: 1-Whether activity fees should be increased to provide increased student insurance and health insurance facilities. 2-Whether to

Intensive English Program Opens For Foreign Students

A program of intensive English study began at SIU this week for a number of foreign students preparing themselves for further study in American colleges and universities.

Directing the program is Serge A. Bellanger of the English Language Services Inc., with headquarters in Washington. Bellanger recently returned to the United States after three years with the ELS Institute in Baghdad, Iraq.

Several programs are being offered, from the intensive course of 25 hours weekly to a semi-intensive course involving five hours a week. Programs are arranged on a need basis, depending upon the students' degree of mastery of the English language.

The ELS program is being conducted here under the auspices of the Office of International Programs. Other than courses conducted in Washington and overseas, Southern Illinois University is the only college offering the study, Bellanger said a number of students are here solely for the intensive English program.

While the program began officially this week, he said his office is willing to meet additional interested students. Bellanger can be contacted at the Graduate School Office, 309 W. Mill.

Centralia Girl, Carlyle Boy Win McCall Scholarships

A Centralia girl and a Carlyle boy have been named as the first recipients of J. Faye McCall Scholarships at SIU.

A fund for six $500 scholarships was established last July by the Centralia business women and is administered by the SIU Foundation.

Kenneth Miller, Foundation executive director, said Mary Suzanne Hepp of Centralia and Ralph Alden Wilkinson of Carlyle are the first recipients. They were selected by the University's Scholarships and Loans Committee and certified to the Foundation. Both are freshman students at Southern.

Miller said Mrs. McCall, who operates The Smart Shop dress store in Centralia, has syndicated an advertising column on women's fashions which is used by a large number of newspapers. Proceeds from the syndication were used by Mrs. McCall to establish the scholarship fund.

"It is my hope," she wrote the Foundation, "that the scholarship grants will go to students who are desirous of going to school above all—, and perhaps might not have the chance without financial aid."

Miller said Miss Hepp is a 1963 graduate of Centralia Township High School and ranked ninth in her class. Her father is dead and her mother is employed as a receptionist. Miss Hepp, who plans to become an elementary school teacher, also has a teaching scholarship and a student part-time job in the Morris Library.

Wilkinson, 18, is a 1963 graduate of Carlyle Community Unit High School and ranked 16th in his class. His father is dead and his mother is an invalid. Miller said the youth wants to become an engineer. He was president of the Science Club while in high school.

Men Arrested In Birmingham Bombings

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.

Two white men were held in jail without charge Monday in connection with unspecified bombings in this city where a church blast two weeks ago killed four Negro girls.

The arrests were the first ever made in 43 bombings since World War II.

Whether charges would be placed against the men the state safety director, Col. Albert J. Lingo, would not say. His agents made the arrests

Sunday night to the surprise of local authorities.

"We're not through yet," said Lingo, personally directing a state investigation independent of local and federal officers who launched an intensive probe after the Sept. 15 church bombing. Several white men were questioned in a night-long series of interrogations.

The men arrested were identified by Lingo as R. E. Chambliss, 59, and Charles Cagle, 22, both of the Birmingham area. Both men have been active in anti-integration activities.

Chambliss and Cagle faced more grilling by state agents, Lingo said.

LONDON

Actress Vivien Leigh, prostrate with nervous exhaustion, settled back in her London home Monday after being flown from New York.

A spokesman for her agent reported: "Miss Leigh is extremely tired."

Word of the plight of the 49-year-old actress was flashed to London in a radio message from a jetliner flying across the Atlantic. On arrival she was lowered on a stretcher from the plane.

The collapse came some 36 hours after Miss Leigh's New York show "Tovarich" temporarily closed Saturday. The show is being transferred to another theater and is slated to re-open in a week. To date, the show has had 224 performances.

Polls Put Goldwater In Front For Republican Nomination

NEW YORK

Surveys by news magazines have found that Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona is the front contender for the Republican presidential nomination—and that he could give President Kennedy a tight race.

Newsweek said its check showed that Goldwater probably has 500 of the 655 GOP convention votes needed to win the party's nomination, and the prospect of considerably more.

Simultaneously, Time Magazine said a state-by-state survey indicated that Goldwater could give President

WASHINGTON

Mrs. John F. Kennedy will leave Tuesday night by plane on the first stage of a flight to Greece for a two-week vacation ashore and at sea.

Mrs. Kennedy will spend several days in the Nomikos residence near Athens, which she visited in 1961. She also will accompany her brother-in-law and sister, Prince and Princess Stanislas Radziwill, on a cruise in the eastern Mediterranean.

NEW YORK

Former President Eisenhower said he is "unclear" about Sen. Barry Goldwater's views. The Arizona senator replied that he can't understand it, "in view of the wide publication my views have received."

Goldwater's reply was carried in Monday's New York Herald Tribune, which Sunday published the statement by Eisenhower.

The former president denied what he said are reports that he is "anti-Goldwater." "This is simply not true," he said.

But Eisenhower said in the copyright Herald Tribune story under his byline:

"I am unclear on precisely what Sen. Goldwater's present views are, and I think all Republicans would want to learn more about how he—and each of the other possible presidential candidates—would now approach the issues of 1964."

Kennedy a "breathlessly close contest" in the present climate of opinion.

Assessing the likely swing of electoral votes in various states, Time said the outcome in a Goldwater-Kennedy race could hinge on how Texas went. The magazine added:

"If Texas went Democratic, Kennedy would have 280 electoral votes, 10 more than the 270 needed for a majority. If Texas went for Goldwater, Barry would have 266 with an excellent chance of picking up more than the necessary additional four from among the Kennedy-hating unpledged electors of Alabama and Mississippi.

THE DEAN YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN

Colleges are complicated and bewildering places, filled with complicated and bewildering people. Today let us examine one of the most complicated and bewildering—yet fetching and lovable—of all campus figures. I refer, of course, to the dean of students.

Policeman and confessor, shepherd and seer, warden and oracle, proconsul and pal—the dean of students is all of these. How, then, can we understand him? Well, sir, perhaps the best way is to take an average day in the life of an average dean. Here, for example, is what happened last Thursday to Dean Killjoy N. Dampier of the Duluth College of Belles Lettres and Penmanship.

At 6 a.m. he woke, dressed, lit a Marlboro, and went up on the roof of his house to remove the statue of the Founder which had been placed there during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

Dean, Policeman, Confessor, Shepherd, Seer...etc.

At 7 a.m. he lit a Marlboro and walked briskly to the campus. (The Dean had not been driving his car since it had been placed on the roof of the girls dormitory by high-spirited undergraduates.)

At 7:45 a.m. he arrived on campus, lit a Marlboro and climbed the bell tower to remove his secretary who had been placed there during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 8 a.m. he reached his office, lit a Marlboro, and met with E. Pluribus Ewbank, editor of the student newspaper. Young Ewbank had been writing a series of editorials urging the United States to annex Canada. When the editorials had evoked no response, he had taken matters into his own hands. Accompanied by his society editor and two proofreaders, he had gone over the border and conquered Manitoba. With great patience and several Marlboro Cigarettes, the Dean persuaded young Ewbank to give Manitoba back. Young Ewbank, however, insisted on keeping Winnipeg.

At 9 a.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and met with Robert Penn Sigafos, president of the local Sigma Chi chapter, who came to report that the Deke house had been put on top of the Sigma Chi house during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 10 a.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and went to unpire an intramural softball game on the roof of the law school where the campus baseball diamond had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 12 noon the Dean had a luncheon meeting with the prexy, the bursar, and the registrar, at the bottom of the campus swimming pool where the faculty dining room had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates. Marlboros were passed after luncheon, but not lighted, owing to dampness.

At 2 p.m., back in his office, the Dean lit a Marlboro and received the Canadian Minister of War who said unless young Ewbank gave back Winnipeg, the Canadian army would march against the U.S. immediately. Young Ewbank was summoned and agreed to give back Winnipeg if he could have Moose Jaw. The Canadian Minister of War at first refused, but finally consented after young Ewbank placed him on the roof of the metallurgy building.

At 3 p.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and met with a delegation from the student council who came to present him with a set of matched luggage in honor of his fifty years' service as dean of students. The Dean promptly packed the luggage with all his clothing and fled to Utica, New York, where he is now in the aluminum siding game.

Fined $125, Costs

A fine of $125 and costs of $36.30 were paid Friday in Jackson County Court by Elizabeth Mullins, 35, coordinator of student activities at SIU.

She pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants. The charge followed a collision with a State Police car Sept. 13 on Old Route 13 near Murphysboro.

Plan Commission Seek Opinions On Housing Ordinance

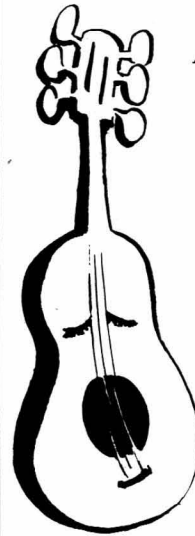

Suggestions, pro and con, were submitted on the proposed Housing Ordinance at a public hearing conducted by the Carbondale Plan Commission at 7:30 last night, with opposition outweighing the approval.

Main objections were to the size of a sleeping room a landlord must provide for tenants, to the continuation of water and heat services to tenants who are past due in their rent, and to the general conditions in which homes must be kept.

The hearing, conducted by Plan Commission member Charles Clayton of the Journalism Department, was held for the purpose of gathering public opinion. The Ordinance will now be reconsidered by the whole Plan Commission, and re-submitted to the City Council for passage or rejection.

The Ordinance had been aired in a public hearing previously and was met by strong opposition by the owners of trailers over the amount of sleeping room that must be provided. The Ordinance was revised before tonight's meeting.

The purpose of the 16-page proposal is to "protect the public health, safety, morals and welfare of the people of the city of Carbondale by establishing minimum standards governing the condition, occupancy and maintenance of dwellings, dwelling units, rooming houses, rooming units and premises."

We Get Letters

As the man says in that song, "We get letters."

Those of us at the Daily Egyptian would like to see more of them.

Letters to the editor offer you a chance to mount the campus soapbox. They are as well-read as any feature on Page Six—excluding our friend, Gus Bode.

They make lively reading and introduce varied opinions to Page Six. Letters help prevent its domination by anyone individual. The staff finds them useful in judging what issues concern you most.

We have selfish reasons, too—letters help fill that big hole on Page Six each Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

A few suggestions, then, may help you plan your pats and pans. Keep your letters to our brief, 250-word limit, so that we may print as many as possible. As evidence of good faith, sign them. Because we try to run the Daily Egyptian according to standards of good taste and fairness to all concerned, we reserve the right to consider your letters by these standards.

Try to write in sound, corrective terms. Merely expressing anger or spite, or indulging in personalities, accomplishes little.

Good luck with your efforts: the Daily Egyptian will be a better newspaper because of them.

Book Review

Ira J. Morris, A Kingdom For A Song. New York: E.P. Dutton & Co. 445 pp. $4.95.

A Kingdom for a Song is juicy summer reading for those whose tastes run to the somewhat bizarre. It tells the story of Charles, a duke of Burgundy, Flanders, and Navarre, a lusty, strong-willed man who wielded absolute power in his domains in the waning days of feudalism.

Ira Morris is a woman, however, and is little concerned with historical events or politics, but very much concerned with Charles' women, who are legion. He was a man of large appetites for women, food, and drink, and especially women.

He was evidently a big, strapping, handsome man with a magnetic personality and it was really remarkable how every woman who viewed him for the first time fell instantly in love with him (fortunately these included his wives of politically arranged marriages). He had three wives whose spirits he killed long before they died, and a mistress who was the only woman he ever loved.

His first wife was a Spanish heirress who died in childbirth, his second wife was a duchess of Brittany who also died in childbirth, but he had no surviving heirs until his third wife, a French princess, produced a son in the last years of his life. His only child until then was the illegitimate son born to his mistress, a son beloved by him but hunch-backed and crippled and treasonous.

In the course of this flamboyant tale one encounters adultery, cruelty, incest, torture, homosexuals, witchcraft, and a plague, to name a few. One keeps reading, if for no other reason, to find out what horrible thing could possibly happen next.

It's an historical romance that presumably one could live a life like that only as a ruler in the long dead past, but the book is written with very little historical detail of events or the manner of living of the time. Miss Morris is evidently exhausted herself by her peculiar characters, as at the end of the book she wraps up and disposes of the last years of Charles' life in a paragraph.

Golden Age Around The Corner

By Jerome B. Wiesner, special assistant on science and technology to President Kennedy

Reprinted From the Boston Sunday Globe

The next few decades can be "The Golden Age" of man. With wisdom and a little bit of good luck, they will be.

Almost everyone would agree that science is the most important and dynamic force at work in the world today.

We all know that it provides the basis for the technology that is permitting man to dominate his physical environment, to overcome disease and poverty, in part even to understand himself.

It has provided the basis for an explosive evolutionary adaptation of man to his environment that is much more rapid and effective than biological evolutionary processes could possibly be.

If we are to attract an adequate number of the best students into scientific careers and, even more important, if science is to be used fully for mankind's purposes, it must be done with full public understanding.

For this one must take steps to insure that adequate education is available to all.

We have today an educational system that does not convey any real understanding of science to a large majority of the public, not only in the United States but in most countries of the world.

Agreed that we have these pressing needs, is there any hope that we can meet them?

It seems to me that we have more than a hope...we have an absolute assurance that we can meet them, if only we are bold enough to apply ourselves to the task.

Over the past years it has been demonstrated repeatedly and upon a grand scale that a comprehension and appreciation of science can be conveyed effectively at a very early age in the elementary and secondary schools.

The results are not merely encouraging, they are startling.

The work of P.S.C.C. of the biological, mathematics and chemistry study groups all demonstrate this.

Why should such dramatic improvements in teaching be possible?

Or, perhaps the question should really be, why should such dramatic improvement in learning be possible?

The fact is that the field of education has been probably the most backward field in our modern society.

It is surprising that we scientists and technologists in universities who, in a sense have made major contributions to the great revolution through which we are living, have failed to apply our methods to our own profession.

Modern teaching aids have rarely been employed either in general education or in the universities.

The process of invention has been almost ignored.

The most highly-developed devices in common use are still the old-fashioned textbook, the blackboard, the written examination.

But books, blackboards and examinations alike can all profit from re-design...in a country which finds it necessary to trade in automobiles every two years, 500 years is, after all, a long time to make a model last.

And with the books, blackboards and examinations, moving pictures, experimental equipment, models, recordings, learning machines and a dozen other aids can be exploited to enhance a student's ability to learn.

Not least of all, it is possible to conduct research into the manner in which people learn, and to let such research contribute to the design of aids.

All these possibilities have existed for a long time, and many people have made sporadic attempts to take advantage of them.

What was lacking was a recognition of the magnitude of the effort required to do the job adequately.

It is precisely this component which has been added by recent curriculum reform programs. They have brought men and money to the task.

Only recently have we recognized that the art of teaching could become an applied science.

The validity of the need for coherent, well-organized exposition of the fundamentals of a discipline and the well-planned use of teaching aids has been amply demonstrated.

With an adequate effort—a truly determined effort—devoted to the creation of modern courses, we can have the scientifically literate citizenry that I have said we so urgently require.

I am certain of this—and I am equally certain that we must make the effort.

Needed: Short Line Route

Has a footpath from Southern Hills to the campus been considered by the administration?

With the number of students who live in the apartments walking and riding bicycles to the campus each day it would certainly be handy to have a direct path. When you consider the new construction across the present road, the dust left by the machinery, the winding road that is too narrow for persons walking or on bicycles, you realize the need for such a temporary path.

No doubt a direct path to the campus would encourage more students to leave their cars at Southern Hills and walk, which would leave more available parking space on the campus.

Dear Editor

Last year the cheerleaders and the S.I.U. Spirit Council tried to promote a more casual mode of dress for all football games except the homecoming game.

Again this year we would like to stress casual, or even grundy clothes. We feel the spirit is much better when the crowd does not feel ill at ease because of suits, heels, sports clothes, etc.

Thank you for your cooperation.

If You're Right, You're Wrong...Michael Siprins

Stampede By Falcons Buries Salukis In Dust-Cloud Strategy

SIU subscribed to the "three yards and a cloud of dust" theory Saturday night in McAndrew Stadium, but the three yards were more often than not behind the line of scrimmage and the clouds of dust were kicked up by stampeding Bowling Green defenders.

Bowling Green, touted for its stingy defense, rubbed salt into Southern's wounds by bringing along a deadly offensive machine as well, and a Salukipartisan crowd quietly sat back and watched the Falcons combine the two for their 31-6 victory.

After the opening moments of the first quarter, it was obvious that Bowling Green's massive forward wall was going to be in Southern's backfield all night long.

SIU, in fact, just barely had more ball carriers with yardage gained to their credit than runners with minus averages. Five Salukis ended on the plus side of the ledger, but four others lost on their carries.

Carl Kimbrel, Peoria, came through with 24 yards on seven carries from his new fullback position, and Irv Rhodes, Ronco, Pa., tacked on 24 in three trips as the pair rambled for the bulk of SIU's advances. Monty Riffer, reserve halfback, added 19 in five tries, quarterback Dave Harris 15 in two and Rudy Phillips, frosh halfback, one three-in-one carry.

Four others had a net total of minus 47, however, to point up the disaster wreaked by the Falcon defensive unit. Southern's passers, Harris and sophomore Jim Hart, again had a good night, hitting on six of 11 attempts, but their combined 79 yards couldn't offset the 107 aerial yards and 297 on the ground produced by Bowling Green.

Harris connected on four of eight for 55 yards, and Hart continued to throw well with two of three for 24, although the sophomore had one intercepted. Harris, senior from Christopher, fired Southern's only touchdown, a 16-yarder with just 25 seconds to play to senior halfback Pete Winton, of Williamstown, Mass.

Leadership Camp Convenes Friday

Approximately 150 freshmen who expressed interest in SIU campus activities will attend a leadership camp at Little Grassy Lake Friday and Saturday.

Fees of $2.00 for each student selected to attend are payable today at the Activities Office. Beds and meals for two days will be provided.

Terry Cook, cochairman of the leadership camp, said more than 200 applied to participate in the camp. The camp is sponsored by the Student Council and the Student Activities Office.

The purpose of the camp, Cook said, is to acquaint freshmen with the activities and organizations.

It took five plays for the Salukis to get on the scoreboard. They had other opportunities, but five lost fumbles knocked the wind out of several drives.

Freshman end Tom Massey was on the receiving end of two SIU passes, picking up 44 yards.

For the second straight week, Southern was "out-controlled." Bowling Green had the ball on 73 offensive plays, while SIU had only 43 tries to advance the ball to the Falcon goal.

The outlook of Head Coach Carmen Piccone and the Salukis may brighten this Saturday, when Southern travels to Louisville. Louisville lost 24-7 to North Texas State last weekend.

Students Needed To Officiate At Intramural Football Games

Officials for intramural flag football beginning Oct. 9 are badly needed.

Students interested in officiating at $2 a game should contact the Intramural office. A meeting to explain rules and regulations will be held Oct. 3 at 4 p.m. in the Intramural office. Work starts at 4:50 p.m. at Chatauqua and Thompson Point fields, which already are lined. Equipment will be there.

Managers should submit flag football rosters to the Intramural office not later than Oct. 8, and earlier if possible. Glenn "Abe" Martin, director, said. Managers will meet that day.

Rosters should include at least 12 to 15 players per team. Managers should read the Intramural Handbook before turning in the roster, accompanied by a $2 entry fee. Flag football equipment may be checked out at the Intramural Office for practice.

Swimming Test Deadline Monday

All freshmen women who have not reported to the University School Swimming Pool for the swimming safety test must do so by Monday, Oct. 7, according to Virginia E. Young of the Women's Physical Education Department.

The schedule this week, she said, is from 6 to 7 p.m. today through Thursday and the same hour Monday.

Non-swimmers will not be required to enter the pool but must attend to complete certain forms.

DAVE BOLGER

Punter Gets Kicked Around By Fate And Statistics

SIU's punting specialist, Dave Bolger, averaged just 26 yards per kick on three attempts in the Evansville College game, but barren statistics don't tell all.

Bolger, a junior halfback from Chicago, was getting 35 yards per boot a year ago, but his luck will have to change if he hopes to approach that mark.

On his first punt this year Bolger got the ball just in time to see a charging Evansville defender speeding through the Southern defense. Bolger got the kick away, but it was quickly met by a slapping hand and the net gain was a mere three yards.

The next time Bolger tried his toe he faced a strong wind, but he met the challenge with a resounding 48-yarder.

His luck changed again on his third try, as the pitch from center didn't carry to the spot where Bolger waited. He had to run forward to get the ball, then barely got the kick away ahead of the Evansville defenders. This time he got 26 yards.

Some days are like that.

Welsh Professor To Teach At SIU

A visiting professor from Wales will teach a biology course in the General Studies program.

William S. Lacey, visiting professor in botany, is a specialist in paleobotany, the science of plants of the past.

John Voigt, executive officer of the General Studies Program, said Lacey, from a coal district in Wales, would probably look into deposits in this country.

"He's anxious to learn the American (education) program," Voigt said, "and we think his teaching the General Studies course would be a good experience for our students as well."

White House Gets SIU Press Book

A book published by the SIU Press is scheduled to go into a new library in the White House, according to Vernon Sternberg, director of the SIU Press.

The book is "Modes of Being," a volume on metaphysics written by Paul Weiss, sterling professor of philosophy at Yale University. SIU Press published it in 1957.

215 Participating Colleges:

Five African Students Enroll At SIU Under Scholarship Plan

SIU has enrolled five of 265 African students from 21 countries who are entering 215 participating colleges this fall under the African Scholarship Program of American Universities.

Willis G. Swartz, dean of international students, said the five students who enrolled at Southern spent one month with American families before school started.

The students, who stayed at home in Lombard, Monticello, Collinsville and Bement in Illinois and in St. Louis, are Kasaato Firemon Kaggwa and Dani Kireju of Uganda, Olairivan Lotasaraui Molle of Tanganyika, John Ikome Musenja of Cameroon and Winfield M. Ndovi of Nyasaland.

Six other African students, from Tanganyika, Nyasaland, Kenya, Southern Rhodesia, Madagascar and Nigeria, entered Southern last year under the program.

The African home governments absorb the round-trip travel costs, the American schools offer tuition and waive all normal fees, major foundations pay for the administrative costs and the Agency for International Development (AID) pays for room and board and other maintenance costs of the students.

Besides the eleven here under the program, all enrolled in General Studies, there are five other students from Africa at Southern. Two, Germa Amare, dean of students at Addis Ababa College in Ethiopia, and Thomas Quaynor of Gwana, are working on doctorates.
