The state provided the money to establish the system. It is expected that by the end of this year the bookstore will have paid back. Over $50,000 has been invested in books during the three years the bookstore has been in operation, including about $10,000 for new books this year.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

The fall term ushered in the school year with a crowded calendar. Consideration of educational and social problems in meetings and conferences, exhibits, music, drama, sports, and social affairs all bid for the student's attention.

First Students See First Experience on College Newspaper

Thirty S. I. N. U. students began their college journalism careers this week working on the first edition of the Egyptian this term. The new additions to the staff are chiefly freshmen, but several upperclassmen have assumed positions on the paper.

UNCLE TOM'S CHILDREN

Reviewed by Melvin Applebaum. Whatever one may believe concerning the colored race at present, there is one fact that cannot be denied: it has produced in Richard Wright one of the most courageous and convincing writers ever to lift a pen. His gripping book, "Uncle Tom's Children," is not only remarkable from the standpoint of description and character drawing, but it is also significant because it preaches a new philosophy for the new generation of his fellow negroes.

WHY FRESHMEN PICTURES?—AN EXPLANATION

By BILL HORRELL. Many inquiries have been made as to the use of the individual freshman photographs. The purpose of these photos is chiefly for identification. A series of six prints will be made of each portrait and distributed to the deans' offices, the registrar's office, the placements office, health service office, the Freshmen Orientation file, and one copy will be retained in the photographic service department file.

For example, we know that lynching of negroes has been a quite common custom in the South for years past. Most of us scarcely give it a passing thought, except to note that another black man got "what was probably coming to him."

POLITICIANS ORGANIZE ON SINU CAMPUS

Party politics have become very important on the S. I. N. U. campus. Both the Democratic party and the Republican party have organized clubs to create interest in their particular parties.

The Young Democratic club that has been organized has planned a broad program to tell the students about the Democratic party. "We are going to give the students the unbiased facts so that they will know what is going on," said Bob Sanyte, leader of the club.

The club will have regular meetings at which some celebrated democrats will be invited to speak. The list of speakers will include: Hon. Matt Adams, Bill Wolf, Louis B. Lewis and other prominent Illinois Democrats.

The club has planned to organize discussions with other Young Democratic Clubs in Southern Illinois. Besides the business of the club, several social functions have been planned, which will probably include a dance.

The second and equally important political organization on the campus is the Young Republican Club. This club was begun last summer and is now fully organized.

The "policy of the club," said Glen Gaston, one of the leaders of the club, "is strictly American." The club intends to help elect as many Republican candidates as possible, but will concentrate especially on the election of Wendell L. Willkie.

The club meets every Tuesday evening to discuss important facts concerning the Young Republicans of Southern Illinois. Besides the regular meetings, special meetings will be held so that the students

Zeta Sigma Pi Holds First Meeting Tuesday, September 17

Zeta Sigma Pi, honorary social and service fraternity, held its first meeting Tuesday night, September 17. The meeting was presided over by Francis Whitney, president.

The activities of the fraternity for the coming year are already being discussed and planned. The election program for the coming year is being made. Twelve positions in the organization of new members of the fraternity are in the making. Plans for the national convention, of which President Roscoe P. Hallam, is honorary president, are to be held here next spring, are under discussion.

Rural Life Club Holds Picnic at Murphysboro Monday

The Rural Life Club held its first meeting of the year in the form of a picnic Monday evening, September 16, at Riverside park in Murphysboro.

Among those who attended were Mr. H. W. Mowin, director of teachers' training, Mrs. Merwin, and officers and members of the club. In addition, many new freshmen and sophomore members. About forty-five were present. A welcome toast was enjoyed after which singing was led by Mrs. Merwin.

This club meets every other Monday evening. Anyone who is interested in rural education is welcome to attend. Harvest McFarlane is the president.

Many hear some of the ideas of certain Republicans. The club has over three hundred members on the campus. Some of the leaders of the organization are: Bettie Stewart, Fay Johnson, Art Carter, and John Tuttle.

Both organizations are anxious for the students to take part in their activities and attend their meetings. These clubs were organized to help understand the business of the young voter. All young people are cordially invited to attend the meetings and take part in the activities.

SPHINX

On a dark and dreary night of last week, in the depths of the rain, a group of enthusiastic young explorers, attached in some delusion to the university, uncovered the resting place of that mysterious creature—the SPHINX! Due to circumstances which we are not able either to understand or explain, the SPHINX selected one of the explorers to be its oracle and mouthpiece, Adolphus Fobolius! Carry on!

The Sphinx wouldn't say a word, but everyone else is talking about it. How can these little freshmen make do with the faintest of a word? These are minutes of silent prayer, being held every night for the illustrious Towhee.

Have you seen Maureen? How Hank maybe should have encouraged the college lads and lasses to jolly at his place instead of waiting for it to be that they go now.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?—WELL IT ALL DEPENDS; IF YOU'RE A FROSH THIS MIGHT HELP

What's in a name? Well, that all depends, of course. Anyway, for freshmen who are interested in the history of S. I. N. U., here's some enlightenment about the buildings on the campus—what they are and why.

Beginning with the most ancient landmark—Old Main—Main hall, as it now stands, was completed in 1888, being rebuilt after fire destroyed the old main building, Normal, in November, 1883. Its name—Main hall—indicates just what it was (and still is, more or less, the main building on the campus). In fact Main hall was the only building on the campus until the Old Science hall was constructed.

For a time a large part of the third floor of Old Main was used for assembly purposes. The college book store, according to Mr. Fry, manager of the present bookstore, was located on the second floor of Old Main for a few years.

It was during the term of service of F. H. Everett as president of S. I. N. U. that what we now call Old Science hall was erected. The Science building (as it was then named) with its medieval spires was dedicated formally in December, 1895. It was known just as the Science building until the more recent science hall, Parkinson Laboratories, was built.

The students then dubbed it "Old" Science hall. It was during the term of service of F. H. Everett as president of S. I. N. U. that what we now call Old Science hall was erected. The Science building (as it was then named) with its medieval spires was dedicated formally in December, 1895. It was known just as the Science building until the more recent science hall, Parkinson Laboratories, was built.

It was known just as the Science building until the more recent science hall, Parkinson Laboratories, was built.

In June, 1904, the Library building was dedicated by Judge S. P. Wheeler, then president of the board of the normal school. Later the building was named in honor of Judge Wheeler since he had been so instrumental in securing the appropriation for the building. And so, we have Wheeler Library.

The next addition to the campus was the Allyn Training School in 1909. The training school building was named in honor of Dr. Robert Allyn, first president of the college. The women's residence hall was dedicated by President H. W. Sivert on October 23, 1913, as a gift of the energies of his installation as president. The dormitory was later named in honor of Susan L. Anthony, that great champion of women's rights.

Built in 1918, the auditorium was named in honor of President Shively in 1920 as a result of a movement begun by members of the alumni after being approved by the Normal school board.

The gymnasium was added to the campus buildings in 1925 and so far has acquired no formal name—it's still just the gym as far as we know.

In 1929, a new science hall was constructed and called Parkinson Laboratories in honor of the fourth president of S. I. N. U., Dr. Daniel B. Parkinson, who served as president from 1904 until 1913.

Resident Work Center Opens With New Director and New Purpose Related to Defense

Operating with the cooperative support of both the College Administration and the National Youth Administration, the Resident Work Center, located on the southeast corner of the campus, began the fall term under a new director and with a slightly different type of vocational training consisting primarily of auto mechanics.

Mr. Jerry Fugate, who graduated from S. I. N. U. last fall term, has replaced Mr. Thomas Whelan, who has returned to Chicago. Mr. Fugate has announced that the training given to the thirty-five boys employed at the work center is now in line with the spread six hours a day in the Bureau building by the Lane State enterprise to service a motor. On alternate weeks they do actual repair work on motors at the Crab Orchard Lake project and at the State Division of Highways district garage.

This procedure continues for a period of six months after which the boys may stay on for another term or they may be hired as apprentice mechanics.

The boys live on a cooperative basis, learn to work together and work together as well as receive training in a vocation. Russell Harrison is the new purchasing agent for the house.

Any male of the age 18-24 inclusive is eligible to enter the house provided he is out of school, desires mechanical training, and has had a little previous experience. The Resident Work Center offers specialized training.

B. S. U. Council Holds Annual Fall Retreat

On Sunday evening preceding the opening week of school the Baptist Student Union Council held its first session of the Fall Retreat. The purpose of the Retreat was twofold: it strengthened the spiritual stamina of the group and afforded an opportunity for each member to present definite plans for the coming year.

Under the advice and leadership of the state Student Secretary, Ray Keene, the group discussed and planned together the work which the B. S. U. group will undertake this year.

The Retreat terminated in a well-earned on Monday evening, at which time Dr. George Johnson presented the closing message.

On Tuesday evening the Council was entertained at dinner by Dr. Johnson, Dean of the Baptist Foundation and faculty advisor to the Council.

national defense program. According to the new director, although many mothers and fathers are afraid of the words "national defense" when they send their boys here, "These are not the men who will be used for cannon fodder in case of war."

Mr. James Hargrave, an addition to the faculty staff, who graduated from S. I. N. U. in 1929, will supervise the instruction of the boys. Mr. Hargrave has formerly been employed by St. Louis High school.

It is not to be thought, however, that the boys spend all their time being instructed in the theory of mechanics. Every other week they

62 Students Attend Opening Dunbar Meeting

INSTITUTE ON HUMAN RELATIONS WILL PLACE EMPHASIS ON YOUTH AT MEETING HERE OCTOBER NINTH

The keynote of the institute on Human Relations, which opens on the campus Oct. 9, is to be an emphasis on youth and its present problems. The institute is under the joint sponsorship of the adult education committee and the entertainment committee of the college, assisted by the University of Illinois and the National Youth Administration.

During the first three days of the conference, Mr. Aubrey Williams, national N. Y. A. administrator, will address the college students' division in the morning and the youth personnel workers' seminar in the afternoon. Mr. Williams will also give an evening address which will be open to the public, as will Mr. Howard McClusky, who is assistant director of the American Youth Commission.

The second part of the program of the institute will be concerned with the use of land in its application both to adults and the future of youth. Featured speakers will be H. H. Hays and Dr. Harold Gray of the University of Illinois college of agriculture, Dr. H. C. Taylor of the Farm Foundation, and Dr. O. R. Baker of the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, Washington, D. C.

Illinois districts five and seven will take an active part in establishing a workshop for the N. Y. A. staff workers of southern Illinois. Panel discussions will be held on placement and occupational guidance.

F. T. A. Strives to Acquaint Members With Teaching Problems and Solutions

The purpose of Future Teachers of America clubs, introduced at Southern last year, is to acquaint students with the numerous problems which face professional educators to day and to attempt their solutions. Interesting programs featuring guest speakers, informal debates, and round table discussions are offered with the definite purpose of enlightening as well as entertaining members of the organization.

The education department has been the chief sponsor of the club in the past and will continue to extend its services and resources in the future. The education faculty customarily extends invitations for membership to all students taking education courses. Although other students are not excluded from membership, F. T. A. particularly encourages individuals enrolled in education classes to join.

A one dollar initiation fee is charged to anyone wishing to be a full-fledged member of F. T. A. This nominal fee also entitles one to be a nominal subscriber to the Journal of National Educational Association, a prominent educational publication. In addition, the national headquarters provides many worthwhile booklets which are distributed to members without cost.

An excellent program is being developed for the next meeting of F. T. A. to be announced in next week's issue of THE EGYPTIAN. The meeting will be informal with refreshments being served by members of the education faculty. Nominations for officers will also be held at the initial get-together.

All students are invited to visit this first meeting with no obligation to join—September 20, 8 p. m., Y. W. C. A. room—for an entertaining and worthwhile hour.

SEVERAL MAJOR CHANGES MADE IN STUDENT HEALTH SERVICE

Student Health Service Announces Year's Program

The Administration of the Student Health Service has announced several changes with which they expect to improve the efficiency and convenience of the organization.

The major changes, according to Dr. Marie Hinzler, head of the Health Service, are as follows:

1. The College Health Service will attempt first aid care of all students on the campus up to the limit of its capacity and facilities to do so. Other cases will be referred to town physicians as heretofore in alphabetical order.
2. Medication. In referred cases according to the present plan the necessary medications and prescriptions are to be provided by the doctor on service, except in certain cases when biologicals and expensive medications are needed. Orders for such items must be approved at the college physicians.
3. A physician contracting to take care of a case will see the case through to its completion even if it extends beyond his week of service.
4. Home calls and office calls are to be made as heretofore. The student is to pay, as heretofore, $3.00 for a day call and $1.00 for a night call; this payment to be made at the Business Office.
5. Reporting serious conditions. The Student Health Service requests that each physician report any communicable disease that may develop or any other condition of a more serious nature which requires hospitalization to the office of the Student Health Department. Any student who knows of or suspects any case of communicable disease is also asked to report said case to the Student Health Service.
6. Any student not wishing to call the physician on service shall be at liberty to call any doctor of his own choice and pay his own bill. In such an event the Student Health Service will, of course, assume no responsibility in that particular illness.
7. Only emergency dental care can be provided since the Dental Fund is limited. No fillings and major repairs will be paid for by the college.

Princeton University has a copy of the "Rubayr" of Omar Khayyam printed in 1463.

The University of Kentucky archaeological museum contains 2,100 Indian skeletons.

Harwood Hall Holds Large Scale Dinner to Honor Birthdays

Harwood Hall celebrated seven birthdays with a banquet on Sunday, September 15.

The second anniversary of the founding of this cooperative house was the most important of the birthdays. Since the cook and official head of the house, Miss Katie Doss, also had a birthday this week, the festivities were extended to include her.

Five of the Hall members were then found to be September born and the birthday dinner became a really big event. These members were Ardler Unger, a freshman from Stanton; Kenneth Oliver, a sophomore from Norris City; Donald Reichert, a junior from Grand Chain; Wesley Reynolds, a senior from Vienna; and Bill Reynolds, a sophomore from Vienna.

Socrats Hold First Meeting Wednesday Night

The Socratic literary society held its initial meeting of the fall term on Wednesday night in the Little Theater. A large number of old members returned to welcome the prospective members of the society.

After the business meeting a short program was presented, which included piano selections by Jack Flannery, a vocal solo by Betty Mercer, a dramatic reading by Aileen Griffiths, and extemporaneous talks by various active members of the club.

The Socratic literary society is the oldest student organization on the campus. Its purpose is to increase the members' ability in elocution, composition, music, debate, dramatic art, and parliamentary usage; and to enlarge their fund of general information.

Officers for the fall term are: President, Charles B. Wagner; vice president, Russell Harrison; corresponding secretary, Bob Collins; treasurer, William Ross; and faculty sponsor, Mr. John I. Wright.

Miss-Takes in Hockey. And girls' hockey, but the lot of them really didn't care at all even though Mrs. Mursey is noted for her required perfection in the serve when it comes to grades.

Miss Elberding told all her new majors and minors that we would be playing on the outdoor rink on the hockey field this year, but when the hockeyists came to the first meeting of the class last Tuesday they were told they had better get tennis rackets.

At first the crowd was astonished at the new type of equipment for the game, but that was all there was to it until someone began to notice the situation to be a little stranger than the others usually are and exclaimed, "Tennis? We thought this was Hockey."

Well, tennis, hockey, all the same because they both require skill on the ball, and have the same number of players. The young Helen Hill, Tri-Sig and champion snuffing-Nelly of the major calamity-Janes, had herself a predicament however, when she found that she was taking two tennis courses.

Wow! Isn't life and all it brings a little complicated? Yes, oh yes, St. J. and W. . . first they say they aren't and then we find they are; tell us, "What're youna do," dears?

And why can't we see more of Sam. Davis? While speaking of Sam, we wonder why he isn't "dramatist" enough to engage his brother for the Homecoming dance? . . . It is our opinion that with the proper approach he could persuade Lonnie to bring his xylophone . . . sticks here for the price offered.

Southern Begins Second Year In Civilian Pilot Training

Southern is beginning its second year of participation in the Civilian Pilot training program. This program, which is now carried on in 436 colleges, is directly sponsored by the national government. The private preliminary course consists of a 72-hour course in practical flight instruction. Meteorology, navigation, air craft operation, and civil regulations, knowledge essential to a pilot, are emphasized in the ground course. The student also receives actual flying experience at the Marion airport.

A private pilot's certificate is awarded to those students who complete the private preliminary course. The requirements for this course are: (1) The applicant must be between 19 and 28 years of age. If under 21, he must obtain his parents' consent before being allowed to take the course. (2) The applicant must not already have a private pilot's certificate. (3) He must have completed one year of college. (4) He must pass the physical examination. (5) He must never have been declared by the Advisory Board on Aviation. (6) He must be a citizen of the United States.

Not exactly a requirement but still necessary is the $25.00 fee for permission to take the course. $10.00 of this is for tuition, $5.00-75 for the medical examination, and $5.00 is for an insurance policy.

Several students have filed applications for the course and so far fifteen have passed the medical examination and have been definitely accepted. These men are: Marie Blava, Dick Cagle, Wilbur Carter, Raymond Ellis, Warren Hess, William Jackson, Calvin Johnson, Fred Keest, Harold Largent, James Montgomery, Clarence Odum, Carl Rhodes, Ralph Schaefer, Harry Spear, and Earl H. Worsman. Since the quota for Southern is thirty students, there is still room for more applicants.

An advanced or secondary aeronautics course is also being offered this fall. Naturally the requirements are more difficult to pass. The student must have completed his second year in college and also have completed the preliminary aviation course. Otherwise the requirements are somewhat similar.

The quota for this course for Southern is ten students, but no definite information has been released concerning the men selected. There are sixteen applicants; however, some of these may be disqualified by the medical examination.

These aeronautics courses are of special interest now because of the new National Defense program. Dr. O. B. Young, head of the physics department, is in charge of the program.

partment and instructor in the course, slated in an interview Tuesday that a person who had completed either course would be given advanced standing at any army air school. As a matter of fact, completion of the advanced course may lead to consideration for further training in military service.

A student finishing these courses will probably be given a place in the Air Corps. If he is conscripted for training under the Burke-Wadsworth bill.

GRID OPENER AT EVANSVILLE SEPT. 28

Eight Game Schedule Faces 1940 Maroon Eleven; Macomb Host in First IAC Encounter, Oct. 19

Four Conference Foes Appear on Docket After Third Out of State Elevens

In the way of competition this year Coach Glenn Martin has scheduled eight games, providing an array of opponents that equals, if not exceeds, last year's list of foes.

Southern's initial appearance at the home stadium will come Saturday, October 5, when the Maroons' old foe from across the Mississippi—the Cape Girardeau Indians—travel to Carbondale for the first of two annual encounters between the schools' football representatives.

Following the Cape Girardeau fray, the Maroons will continue their tour as host team by entertaining Arkansas State, Saturday, October 13. This date has been designated Boy Scout Day, with all Scouts of this vicinity invited to see Southern seek re-

MAROON LETTERMEN ENGAGED IN VARIOUS SUMMER ACTIVITIES

Bjorkland and Cox Only White Collar Men

Not to be outdone by the traditional "out of state" summer jobs of large university heroes, many of S. I. N. U.'s gridiron warriors carried on in a style of their own to keep the set of muscles in shape for the coming season.

Following the home stand, Southern will make three trips, playing DeKalb, Saturday, November 2; meeting Chablisport Saturday, November 9; and winding up the season at Cape Girardeau Thursday, November 21.

Carbondale Offers Students Variety of Intramural Sports

Augmenting the program of intercollegiate competition Southern's athletic department offers each year a complete schedule of intramural activities for men not engaged in varsity play.

At the same time the usual fall tennis tourney is in its early stages. Also interested in playing for positions on the varsity net squad are requested by Coach C. D. Tenney to take advantage of this off-season drill in order that some ranking may be made for actual spring workouts.

When comes the yearly intramural basketball tournament that attracted more than three hundred men students during the 1939-40 season.

Through the development of such a well-rounded intramural program, Coach William McAndrew and members of his department offered an excellent opportunity to Southern's men for recreation and exercise in the field of sport as a part of their extra-curricular activities.

FROSH BRIGHTEN SOUTHERN'S GRID HOPES FOR 1940

Caluffetti and Randall Show Promise in Early Drills

A likely looking squad of freshmen and new students in the hope of gaining success on Southern's gridiron have answered Coach Glenn Martin's call for football candidates.

Certain to be among the first string is Charles Randall from St. Louis. Although he is probably one of the best players on the squad, his ability at center compensates for his lack of stature.

Another "runt" of the squad is Lawrence Caluffetti. Caluffetti, a freshman from Johnson City, is seeking a berth at fullback and appears to be fairly successful in his attempts.

Southern opens well represented on the gridiron this season by men from various parts of the United States. Robert Russell of California is among the aspirants for a half-back position.

Strengthening a position that Southern has been relatively weak in, Roger Spear of Carbondale, Spear's punting ability has shown excellent form in practice session.

PAUL GREEN GETS 1940-41 ATHLETIC MANAGERSHIP

Reporter Looks In on New Appointee And His Duties

Among the uninitiated, both on the campus and in lay groups, the comment has been overheard more than once in words to the effect that "it must be pretty nice to be a football manager and see the games free, get trips, and pat around with the star athletes."

Paul Green, president of Chi Delta Old fraternity and newly appointed athletic manager, collectively raises his eyebrows and gives a voice to a lusty, "Oh, yeah?" And rightfully so, for his job is no snap.

Perhaps you'll agree that Mr. Green ears the privilege of sitting next to the coach on the bench during games. After his experience and services here he will have very beneficially, augmented his academic standing and will be well prepared to tackle almost any job.

Normal and Carthage Open IAC Conference Against Outside Foes

Seventeen Lettermen Return to Head Field of Seventy Football Candidates in Early Workouts

Eleven Veteran Linemen and Six Backs Form Nucleus of Squad; Newcomers Advancing Fast

Fundamental formation and plays received stress this week as Coach "Abe" Martin and his assistants sent some seventy grid candidates through early workouts in an effort to round them into suitable condition and proficiency for the season's opener at Evansville September 28.

Seventeen lettermen will form the basis of the Maroon eleven for the coming season. Of these returning veterans eleven are linemen and include Co-Captain J. T. English, Andy Herman, Herman Miles, Sparta; Bob Smythe, Hoopston; Morton Traband, Wood River; Charles Frey, Carbondale; Ray Bjorkland, Rockford; Bill Klegler; Harry Durham, Wood River; Raymond Bills, Carbondale; Ed Migleziez, West Frankfort; and Max Lewis, Christopher, Lewis, though not a member of last year's squad, lettered in center during the 1938 season.

Meaning the backfield candidates returning for another season are Co-Captain Bill Freeburg, Princeton; Bill Brown, West Frankfort; Bill Wolfshanger, Carterville; Ed Hill, yard, Carmel; and Bill Townes and Verdie Cox, both of Carbondale. While these men present a formidable group of seasoned men competition from the ranks of newcomers threaten to send a number of them to the sidelines for the opening kickoff.

SINU HAS BEEN SCENE OF GREAT CHANGES IN FEW YEARS

By OLIVE WALKER. During the past several years, S. I. N. U. has been the scene of a great internal change—the discarding of old, out-of-date methods and custom and the adopting of the new and improved. The change has not been overnight. It has slowly but steadily gathered momentum as the wheels have rolled forward, sweeping from the past the strange and unsuited of the old and out-of-date and making way for the infinitely better methods of the new.

Bearing witness to this is the fact that there has been a growth of 42 per cent in the average enrollment since 1935 and 194 percent since 1924. During the past five years a total of twenty-six new post-graduate degrees have been created on the faculty. The total number included on the faculty has, however, increased from 120 in 1935 to 154 for the year 1939-40. Most of the new faculty members hold the doctor's degree.

Other physical achievements of the college include the construction of a new athletic stadium, dedicated two years ago, financed by a PWA grant and by funds contributed by students and friends of the school. The Student Council, the student's symbol of the right to take an active part in the affairs which concern him, has been organized for a number of years and is gradually growing stronger as time goes on.

From the foregoing paragraphs it may be gathered that S. I. N. U. is at last coming into its own as the great educational center of southern Illinois, a position it should have filled long ago.
