RESEARCH COUNCIL BEGINS

Higher Education Groups Defers Problem of Grad Study Until May

At a meeting on the campus on Monday, April 6, the state conference on higher education deferred the matter of graduate study for Illinois normal schools and needed a more imminent problem instead. The matter of graduate study will be taken up at a meeting in Chicago on May 3.

The committee passed the following resolution:

Consolidation of state-supported institutions of higher education recognize that the present serious shortage of teachers may easily develop into a crisis when public schools open this fall. They also recognize that one of the most important reasons for this teacher shortage is the instability of public schools to compete with salaries paid for similar training in business, industry, and the civil service. They recognized that the immediate steps to be taken by their authority to raise the level of pay for teachers and to improve the conditions of employment of teachers. To do this throughout the state of Illinois will require additional expenditures on the part of the local area and financial aid from the state or from the federal government, or from both. We further recognize that the teaching profession is an essential service—essential to the war effort and to all activities connected with it, and on that basis we recommend that teachers not immediately resign from the teaching service be urged to continue in teaching and that every effort be made to keep teaching attractive as a profession.

Representatives of all state-supported institutions were present at the meeting.

Friend, Knobeloch Awarded Scholarships To Illinois U.

Two senior girls from S. I. N. U., Helen Friend from Royalton and Miss Knobeloch from Belleville, have been awarded scholarships to the University of Illinois next year as graduate study.

Both scholarships carry exemptions from tuition plus a stipend of $350. Full time will be devoted to studies beginning in October, 1943, and the master's degrees will be awarded in June, 1944.

Miss Friend received the scholarship in mathematics which is her major field at S.I.N.U. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Gamma Theta Upsilon, geography fraternity, Delta Rho, mathematics fraternity, and the Rural Life Club.

Miss Knobeloch received her scholarship in chemistry which is her major. She is minoring in physics and mathematics. She also belongs to the Kappa Delta Pi and Delta Rho, and in addition is a member of the Y.W.C.A.

A.C.C. MORGES WILL SING TO CHURCH GROUP SUNDAY

A/C/C Morges, G. E., whose golden tenor voice once filled Carnegie Hall, will sing at the First Methodist Church of Carbondale on Sunday, April 11, 1943. The second year old cadet was born in New Rochelle, New York and started his musical career in Hempstead High School when he joined on a capella choir.

More recently, he joined New York's Grand Opera Guild, which is conducted by Maestro Donato A. Paradiso. For two and one-half years, until the time of his enlistment, he sang with this group in Carnegie Hall as a soloist, and as a member of the chorus.

Today the contingencies of war seem to decree that Mr. Morges' singing will be confined to such places as the Air Corps songs. He is, however, serving in the capacity of Musical Director of the all-cadet regiment, "Kaydets in Kaydence," now in the process of rehearsal.

MR. MILES BECOMES ARMY CONSULTANT

E. V. Miles, former Business Manager of Southern Illinois Normal University, has been granted a leave of absence from the college to accept a position as consultant to the Materiel Command of the Army Air Force. He left Tuesday to report for duty in the field.

Mr. Miles' job will be to assist the Materiel Command service in selecting sites among the nation's colleges and universities for training young men in the Army Air Force.

Mrs. Neely Returns To S.I.N.U. After Oklahoma Stay As USO Director

By MARY BLEDSE

"U. S. O. work is not all recreation and dancing; there is quite a bit of 'troubleshooting' involved," smiled Miss Neely. It seems that efforts made the blues chased away with a few comforting words now and then, and their own friends need information concerning visits because of regulations are rather strict.

Mrs. Neely reported for duty August 1, at Norman, Oklahoma. Her rating was that of Managing Director. She is the only woman known immediately that was Great Moving Day for the U. S. O.

Procedure Permanent Building at the University of Oklahoma faculty headquarters, the organization prepared a permanent building. The new center opened on December 7. It was furnished stark style and housed an art exhibit from the University of Oklahoma faculty. Mrs. Neely now in progress will depict Oklahoma life (Indians, fields, etc.) and highlight the fields, etc.)

On her last night in Norman Mrs. Neely took a cruise on the Big Sandy and back to her room in a really, a party given her by the Volunteer Workers and Service Gang. The evening was spiced with orders to "Salt Jargon."

There is a new radiance about Mrs. Neely that one feels must be sticky. And there should be. She's really close her bit!

Council Vacancies Are Now Filled

The Student Council held an election last week to fill the vacancies created when Don Reynolds, Henry Hinkle, and Don Ruppelle left for the armed services. The two freshmen elected were Bob Haslins from Marion, and George Schroeder from Carbondale. Sandy Peat was elected to fill the sophomore vacancy. Forty-two sophomores and sixty-one freshmen voted.

Pulliam Addresses Southern Illinois Club Today

Mr. Roscoe Pulliam, president of Southern Illinois Normal University, participated as guest speaker at the meeting of the Southern Illinois Club held in Chicago today. Mr. Pulliam attended the meeting on the invitation of Mrs. Eugene Sterling, president of the organization.

In his address, "Illinois: The Crossroads of a Nation," Mr. Pulliam stressed that Southern Illinois is in reality a cosmopolitan region, rather than a provincial area. He backed up his contentions historically by pointing out that Southern Illinois is between the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, which were of such great importance in the early economic and cultural development of the territory. "The early river boats carried persons of varied backgrounds as well as cargo," asserted Mr. Pulliam. "A great settlement of people with diversified training came to the area. This area has a rich and varied culture, not a region of backwoods bigotry."

Mr. Pulliam went on to say that the immigration of the French into the area during the colonial period resulted in a cross-fertilization of ideas which gave rise to the acceptance of the democratic way of life. "The Southern Illinois immigration served to temper the region even further for democracy. In fact," he said, "it was one of the first sections of the new country to permit free religious expression. Robert Ingersoll, one of the few men able to profess atheism and remain a public figure. This great segregation in Southern Illinois was of primary importance in the establishment of the first two institutions of higher learning in the state, Shurtleff College at Alton, and McKendree College of Lebanon."

Mr. Pulliam said in making his address that the Southern Illinois Club, later in its history, Southern Illinois was influenced by the immigration of workers who traveled to the region to work for the U. S. O. "It was," he stated, "Mr. Pulliam contended, "all these factors tend to disprove the prevalent misconceptions which try to label Southern Illinois a provincial region. The complex of factors mentioned are certainly not justified by eth facts, but is based on a lack of understanding."

'Kaydets in Kaydence' Promises Killeroo Entertainment--Reporter

By CORNIE LAFFOON

Heard about the campus late by the Cadets' Lament: "Am I a soldier or a thorton girl?" No, it's not a new type of army training; it's the show, "Kaydets in Kaydence," that the cadets are rehearsing to present Friday, April 16, in Shroyck Auditorium.

Despite its name, this is not a variety show. It is the story of the cadets themselves from the time of their induction in the army, in Miami, in Carbondale, and as it probably will be afterwards, later spaced with a number of specialties. There will probably be a magic act, a strip tease imitation, and boogie-woogie piano, among others.

Life at "Agony"

Some of the funnier scenes take place in "Agony" Hall (a name the cadets undoubtedly picked up from former residents). These scenes show the phases of the cadet's life never seen by the public.

Music for the show is being written by the men themselves. Two of the numbers were heard by your reporter, and they were definitely on a par with music from Broadway musicals.

Undoubtedly the bit of the show will be the Florida dancing "Girts." Although the exact nature and description of the "girts" is strictly a military secret, it is guaranteed that they will be novelty to Carbondale audiences.

Raymond Brein Group To Be In Session For 3 Days

By JAMES GRAVES

Raymond Brein, Southern's new Artist-in-Residence arrived on the campus last Saturday night to begin his work in what we hope will be a fruitful and gratifying experience. Mr. Brein is, as Bohrod was a well known national figure in the art world. But there is a world of difference in the way they work, their attitude, and personalities. Bohrod handled ordinary everyday scenes with his own unique interpretation. Brein, on the other hand, merely uses the world of nature and human beings around us as a backdrop for his more imaginative canvasses which have many metropolitan critics have called "poetic." There is something of the mystic in Raymond Brein. But it is not the mysticism of a social reform, a moral or religious crackpot, but a mysticism which, peculiarly enough, has logic and meaning in an illogical and meaningless world in which most of us find ourselves.

His Personal History

Since few of the student body have had the opportunity to meet Mr. Brein it might be in order to review some of his personal history. He was born in Yitchoh, Russia (this Russian town, lately dissolved has been the home of more than one famous artist). He came to America, with his family, a few years after the revolution. In America he served in a variety of capacities ranging from elevator boy to show card designer. For a while he was active in ballet, and danced once in the famous Petruska. But since his early college days, he has been more than one of the most impressive of our modern American artists. In three short years he carried off prizes after prizes of the time perfecting his individual style. Brein is about to paint his "Sophisticated Paintings" (the word sophisticated is a much abused word in the English language—to do anything with sophistication merely pretends to be smart). "Sophisticated" paintings is about Brein knows what he is about. It's known what he wants to paint into his pictures. In his introductory interview one of the distinct impressions given me by our new artist is his reverence for the glorious history of art, instead of trying to free himself from the bond of classicism and create something completely individual and primitive, as Rungky (Continued on page 2)

Group To Be In Session For 3 Days

The Illinois Institute for Juvenile Research and the S. I. N. U. Bureau of Child Guidance are conducting a three-day psychological clinic on the Southern Illinois Normal University campus Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. The purpose of these clinics is to study and remedy the problems of children who have difficulty in adjusting themselves to the environment.

Among the professional staff who will arrive from Chicago are Dr. Sophie Schroeder, psychiatrist, who will interview the parents and the children; and Mr. Robert Danks, psychologist and writer, who will discuss with the parents the developmental and social history of the children being studied. Dr. Douglas F. Perry of the S.I.N.U. Bureau of Child Guidance will do the psychological work for the clinic.

Morning Sessions

The morning sessions will be devoted to case studies by the I. J. R. staff. On Monday and Tuesday afternoons from two to four o'clock, the staff will discuss the morning at 11 o'clock, staffings for the various individual cases will be held. At four o'clock Monday afternoon, Dr. Schroeder will conduct a seminar for student-teachers of the University and Carverville High Schools. Other students are invited to attend. On Tuesday afternoon at four, Dr. Perry will conduct a seminar for student-teachers of the Alton, Bush, and Rural Training Schools. Both meetings will be held in Room 101A of the Main Building.

Good Turns During Day

More than three hundred and thirty college students, faculty members, and interested persons attended the various sessions of the January clinic. The Bureau is constantly expanding its services in order to aid students, teachers, and parents in securing a better understanding of the child. Parents or teachers with children whom they wish to have studied as the clinic may make arrangements by writing to W. E. Thirkens, manager of the Child Guidance Bureau, S.I.N.U., Carbondale. The services of the clinic are rendered without cost.

Southern Salute

By LIL GODDARD Nathaniel E. McClellen sends best wishes to S. I. N. U. in our Army Training Program. Nat is now stationed at Camp Bowie, Texas.

W. B. Grey has been transferred from his training detachment on the campus of Colorado State College of Education to Kearns, Utah. He writes, "Our setup on the campus at Colorado State was much the same as the one at Southern, I imagine, and I'm sure the student body will do a great deal toward helping the men stationed there."

AVC Elmer A. Furlow writes this week from Herter Field in Uvalde, Texas. He's the only Southern man there, and says he's telling all the fellows about S.I.N.U. That's the spirit, Elmer!

Mary Culley, U.S.R.N., writes from the heart of Northwest Africa. She says, "It has been some time since we have had to worry about dodging bullets from the snipers' guns. I understand that there are quite a few Southern aviators serving in Africa. However, I hope that I never do see them because my only contact would be through hospital wards, and that wouldn't be good!"

This World Of Music

By BEETHOVEN

Traveling is filled with hazards these days, as musicians and all other travelers are discovering. The orchestra of the New Friends of Music, which filled its schedule of six concerts in seven days on tour, had the usual adventures—including arriving for one concert in Danville, Va., a half hour late, while the audience waited patiently. On a train from Albany to Binghamton, some one suggested a bridge game, but only three card players were available. A string quartet was organized instead. The car was packed and many people were standing, but the quartet fogged seats facing each other.

Over the noise of the train, the four musicians played Beethoven's Op. 18, Nos. 3 and 6. Every one, civilians and uniformed men, listened. A young private said, "It may be long hair, but it's certainly swell to listen to!"

A well padded huyrak took the members of the Army Auxiliary of the Kalamazoo Symphony Society to a recent concert by the orchestra in Central High School in the Michigan City. On the side of the vehicle was a banner which said: "Kas or No, to the Symphony We Go."

A batch of Bach's Hure music was the top asked recently by Lewis Howard, director of the Language Service Center, for transplanting into English for G. Schumann's texts of new Soviet-Russian songs. Mr. Howard is musicology director of the New York City Club.

The Mutual Tunes of London tells of a call for church organs for members of the armed forces. It quotes the Sheffield Diocesan Leaflet as pointing out that there are more than 400 professional members of the Royal College of Organists now serving with the forces. "When they have leisure," the leaflet says, "they are naturally glad of an opportunity of organ practice. With the incumbents and organists of parish churches be on the lookout for such men, and give them facilities!"
