Councilman Charges 'Police Harassment;' Campaigner Ticketed

Carbondale City Council Monday night heard charges of "Police harassment" of a campaign worker for the Keene, Kirk and Nelson slate and of "election irregularities" during the February primaries.

At the end of a quiet council meeting, Councilman Frank Kirk presented Mrs. Wayne Muth, of 1605 Taylor Drive, who claimed she had been followed and ticketed for speeding by a Carbondale Policeman while conducting a door-to-door campaign for the Keene Kirk and Nelson group.

Mrs. Muth brought a detailed chart and map along with her outlining her route. She said she didn't think the police car was following her until she went completely around a block and the squad car stayed immediately behind her.

Mrs. Muth said she stopped to call on one home, and when she resumed driving, the Patrol car fell in behind her again.

She said the squad car followed right on her bumper. "If I slowed one mile per hour, he would have been pushing me."

After a number of blocks, Mrs. Muth said she stopped at the home of a friend and it was at this point the patrolman stopped and asked to see her drivers license. The policeman subsequently gave her a ticket for traveling 33 miles per hour in a 20 mile per hour school zone.

Mrs. Muth claimed she had not been traveling at that speed because she saw the patrol car was behind her.

Carbondale City Attorney J. Edward Helton said the school zone speed law would not have been in effect during hours that school was not in session. The incident occurred about 6 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

The officer's name on the speeding ticket was Patrolman Gladden.

Mayor D. Blaney Miller advised Mrs. Muth to plead "not guilty" when her case came up. At this point, Kirk said that her guilt or innocence was not really the issue. Kirk charged that it was police harassment and carried greater implications.

Lots of Sunburn, Though

Temperatures Set No Record

Weekend temperatures set no records, but the weather was good enough to produce a fair crop of sunburns on students.

The high temperature for Saturday, according to the Southern Illinois Airport weather station was only 79 degrees, and 80 on Sunday. The low for Saturday was 66, and for Sunday, 60.

The record high for April

1 is 88 degrees recorded in 1940 and a record low of 20 degrees recorded in 1954. The record high for April 2 is 83 degrees recorded in 1963 and a record low of 25 recorded in 1924.

The warm weather brought out numerous sunbathers and an equal amount of cycles. Both the Crab Orchard spillway and Giant City Park were crowded with students sunning themselves in an effort to get the "Fort Lauderdale" look.

The SIU Health Service reported several cases of sunburn over the weekend but none required hospitalization.

Accident Victim's Condition 'Fair'

Richard S. Badesch, an SIU student seriously injured last week on U.S. 51, remained on the critical list Monday at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, a hospital spokesman said. Badesch's condition was termed "fair" by the hospital. He is suffering from head injuries, internal injuries and multiple fractures of the right leg, the hospital spokesman said.

The 20-year-old student from Evanston was hit while crossing U.S. 51 near the SIU Physical Plant entrance. He was thrown 171 feet from the point of impact.

A Bouncing Beginning

Students, Bread, Soda Trucks Provide Combinations for Riots on Florida Scene

By Bob Allen

No one can honestly say that Fort Lauderdale was not "where the action was" over the Spring break. The number of college students reached an estimated peak of 30,000 in the beach area and hundreds were arrested during the riots of Friday and Saturday, March 24 and 25. No SIU students were known to have been arrested.

The rioting was apparently generated by simply too many people crammed into too small an area. To make it worse they had become bored by the end of the week. In the words of one student, "They were just waiting for something to happen."

The first riot happened spontaneously Friday afternoon when collegians crowded the sidewalks waiting to cross the street but were held back for a long time in order to let an ambulance pass. Impatient and bored, they met in the middle of the street and saw a soft drink truck. They began to climb on top of it and pass out bottles. Finished with that truck they went after a bread truck. Bread was flying in the air, according to one student. Advancing to a bus, the rowdies began to rock it but none of the passengers who quickly exited was injured.

Police reinforcements from surrounding towns including more than 300 from Miami came to help restore order to the area. Thousands of students crowded both sides of Atlantic Boulevard which runs along the beach.

For long periods of time, the automobile traffic on the four-lane was halted. Students who ventured even a few inches onto the road were liable to have their toes run over by a motorcycle or hit with a "riot stick" as the police who stood less than fifteen feet apart along the road's edge forced the students to "get back behind that line, you! Get back I said."

The sale of beer was cut off, and the Elbo Room and Crazy Gregg's were locked. An uneasy calm prevailed. Late Friday afternoon everyone was either prevented from walking on the sidewalk across from the beach or warned by the police to "keep moving, no stopping, keep it moving." Not even the elderly and middle aged vacationers who happened to be in the area were immune to the keep-moving rule.

Friday night, was the scene of more unrest. The police dispersed crowds of collegians on the beach and sidewalk by charging the mob without warning, swinging their "riot sticks" as their tempers grew short.

Finally, Friday night thousands of the revelers were forced by the police to the south end of the beach area. They were prevented from moving until about 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

Some who had had enough and wanted to go home were told by the police they could go back but as they left other policemen forced them back into the crowd.

Police sealed off the town Saturday night following more for 10 numbers. Hamilton will play seven numbers on the organ.

University Orchestra to Play For Thursday Convocations

Thursday's University Convocation Series program will be presented by the University Orchestra and its conductor, Herbert L. Levinson. The concert will consist of music from contrasting periods.

The program will be presented at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

The opening work, the "Clock" Symphony by Haydn, will be followed by portions of Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake Ballet. Dancers from the Dance Theatre Company, (Toni Intravala, director) will be featured. They are Marcia Hussey, Susanne Oliver, Nancy Salis, Ginger Macchi and Daredan Johns.

The concert will end with Rhapsody in Blue by George Gershwin for piano and orchestra. The piano soloist will be Andrea Shields, sophomore from Mt. Vernon.

Besides playing two regular concerts and three Children's Concerts, the orchestra has played for the Christmas Convocation, the Oratorio, the Messiah and for the opera Carmen.

The April 13 convocation series will feature the Don Cossacks Russian Singers and Dancers.

Fire Sunday Guts Students' Trailer

Fire gutted the interior of a trailer occupied by two SIU students Sunday at the Green Acres trailer court.

Gerald Freed and Kenneth Best, occupants of the trailer, were uninjured, according to the Carbondale Fire Department. Cause of the fire has not been determined, a department spokesman said.

The fire was discovered at 3:30 p.m. An investigation is underway.

disturbances that afternoon and evening. The Saturday unrest was started when police moved in to stop the college males from flinging bikini clad coeds into the air with blankets.

Student Injured In Cycle Accident

Two SIU students were injured Sunday afternoon at the Crab Orchard spillway bridge in a motorcycle accident, the SIU Security Police reported.

Terry Nelms, 310 Abbott Hall, and Virginia Selleck, 306 Steagall Hall, were taken to Doctors Hospital with cuts and abrasions by the Carbondale Fire Department emergency unit.

The bridge has been the site of numerous cycle accidents, the security police said. The wooden floor of the structure makes cycle crossing hazardous, the security police spokesman said.

Three KA Writers Get Heavy Hand

The marriage of KA and the Daily Egyptian has, to say the least, been less than satisfactory. It is obvious to both staffs and almost everyone else that each publication should be printed separately. The combination of the two functions has caused unneeded and often ridiculous friction.

But, these are only mechanical difficulties. KA still has the support and financial assistance of the student government. It even has the dubious honor of an official University censor.

Because of this, it seems particularly offensive that the President's Office would subject three of the contributors to KA with public intimidation by holding up their registration.

If the president or any of his aides feel that they have been maligned, then the proper forum for their complaints is the courts.

Expulsion was not meant to be a club with which to beat students into agreement with the official policy and opinion. True, the students were never expelled, but the action of holding up their registrations seem calculated to put the fear of God in them.

If the President merely wanted to calmly discuss policy over a cup of tea than it hardly seems necessary to go through the melodramatic motion of holding up their registration. A note or telephone call would have sufficed.

Should the President find material in KA offensive then the logical and proper course of action would be to publicly inform the student government of his opinion and let it, as the governing body of KA, take whatever action it deems correct.

Even the KA censor, appointed by the President, should have been questioned before the students if it was a matter of the material in KA being an outrage against public tastes.

There were several avenues opened. But unfortunately, the one which reflects the least thought and judgment was chosen.

Tim Ayers

Briefly Editorial

Renewed pressure from Senator Symington and the Senate Preparedness subcommittee to extend the bombing of North Vietnam to military airfields and Haiphong Harbor is a case of exasperation overwhelming reason. Despite the natural desire to hit the enemy in so seemingly logical a place as its airfields, the risks of expanding the war and strengthening China's influence militate against such raids even if they offered important military advantages. But the military advantages are few.

Letters to the Editor

Silence Wrong

To the editor:

My confidence in this University's ability to educate its students in the tradition of free and open discussion—a principle at the heart of education—sustained a serious blow when I read of the suspension of registration of three KA contributors.

As of writing this letter I do not know how the incident will end; it does not finally matter how it ends. What matters is that the Administration has resorted to intimidation in order to silence criticism appearing in a campus publication. Nor does it matter that occasionally the criticism may have been intemperate. What is important is the movement of the University, in all its ponderous power, to silence three of its students. Regardless of the outcome the pressure has been applied and the pressure will have its effect. Censorship of three men or of one man, or the mere threat of it, silences many who would otherwise speak.

Is any censorship ever justified? That is hardly debatable today. But to discover, in all places, censorship residing at the core of this or any University, an institution committed to the free exchange of ideas and opinions, must inevitably strike one to the quick. I am depressed and appalled that it can happen. But it is happening and to remain silent is to be as guilty of suppression as the censor.

Hours too Short

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the basketball Salukis on their fine victory at the NIT and also on a great year for basketball in general.

There is one aspect about this past season, however, that I would like to comment on. This concerns the ticket office which is located in the arena, and the hours that it was open this past season. The regular hours were from 1:40 p.m. Monday - Friday. However, I feel that there is a need to extend the time this office is open to include the morning hours of from 8 - 12 a.m.

I would like to ask just how many students, other than myself, this past season have gone to the arena in the morning to purchase tickets for some sporting event only to find the office closed. Needless to say this is very annoying. I am sure that there are many students on campus who either have classes in the afternoon, work, or have both, and cannot get over to the ticket office any other time except in the morning. The main question seems to be, why isn't the ticket office open in the morning?

It is self-evident that some of the lines that form in the afternoon could be avoided if the office was open in the morning. It also appears that a university with 18,000 students on its campus, and a university with the championship teams that Southern has would have a ticket office at which students could purchase tickets that was open more than just 3 1/2 hours each day.

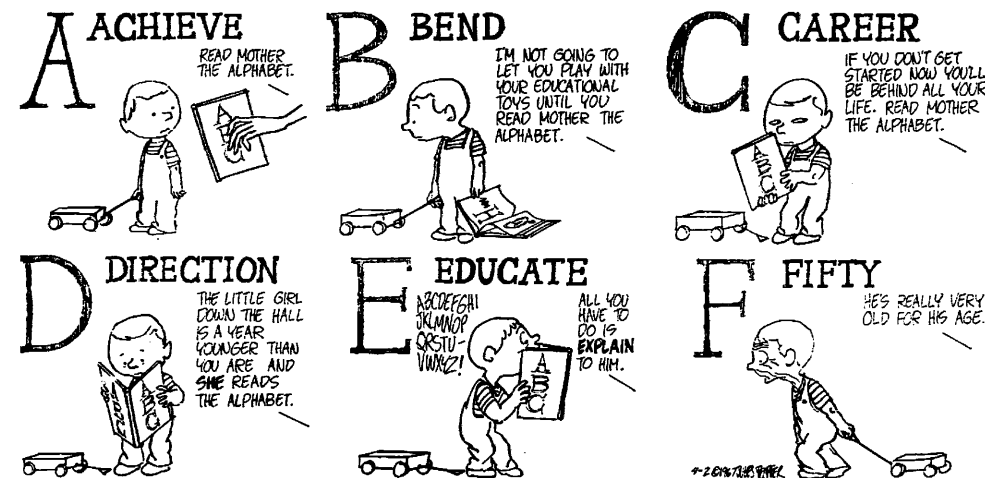

I am sure that in the coming years Southern will continue to have the fine athletic teams it has at the present time.

However, a team is just as good as its support and if our teams are to have the students' support it would appear that the university could make it a little easier for students to purchase tickets to the various athletic events.

Our teams need the students support and in order for the students to be able to support our teams they must be able to purchase tickets to get into the events. This task could be made a lot easier if the ticket office were to be open in the morning as well as in the afternoon.

Ad's Newest Twist Changes Images

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones
(General Features Corp.)

One of America's most-used mid-century words is "image."

"Image" merely means impression, hopefully favorable. It may be applied to commodities, institutions or men. In advertising it differs from "hard sell." It doesn't discuss the specifications or the price. It seeks instead to convince a potential customer that the seller is his friend. Usually the seller does it by appealing to the buyer's admiration, more rarely by seeking his sympathy.

In the hilarious advertising battle between the Hertz and Avis rent-a-car people we have seen both approaches, and, recently, a shifting of ground in which each has moved toward the other's original position.

Hertz started out trumpeting its superiority. Most cars, most agencies. Wherever you were, Hertz could put you in the driver's seat. The success policy. The admiration angle.

Avis replied by blandly confessing that it was only No. 2. "We try harder." The little guy approach. The David bravely facing Goliath. It worked beautifully, and Avis bookings rose.

So Hertz responded with masterful sarcasm. "We have a competitor who says he tried harder. When you can't think of anything better to say, that's a pretty good thing to say." Or: "Our competitor says he's only No. 2. That's hard to argue with."

Avis countered by noting with glee the "Get tough with Avis" ads. So a few weeks ago Hertz came out with a picture showing a smiling Hertz girl with her arm around a pretty Avis girl. "Aha!" read the caption, "we'll bet you thought this was another 'Get tough with Avis' ad." And there followed a low-key sales pitch urging a rental from Hertz instead of one "from our dear friends down the street."

This accomplished two things. The blatant insincerity drew laughs. At the same time, the humor helped destroy the "tough" image. Hertz, in short, moved on to Avis' "friendly" ground.

JENKIN LLOYD JONES

And Avis has moved Hertz-ward. The most recent Avis pitch announced that Avis is no longer No. 2, but 1 1/2, due to rising business. This could be dangerous—turning the wistful, eager-to-please little boy into a hard-muscled, cocky adolescent. But perhaps Avis now feels strong enough to experiment with Hertz' "success" image.

Anyway, there has been a fallout for both. While America has watched with fascination the feud between No. 1 and No. 2, many thousands may have forgotten that there is also an excellent No. 3.

One of the most spectacular image-changing jobs has been Harding Lawrence's transformation of stodgy old Braniff Airways into the industry's glamour girl. With gaudy planes and gaudier stewardesses, Braniff came up with double the average gain for the air transport industry last year.

But the "old reliable" image is by no means worthless. While foreign carriers plug the alleged quaintness and charm of their services, good old Pan American keeps harping on its staggering total of trans-oceanic flights up to yesterday.

Bankers, who are strictly business when they talk to each other, are all jolly comrades when they talk to the general public. Bank ads in the Bankers Magazine run to cold recitals of assets and capital items. But in popular bank advertising the leg-up, umbrella and friend-in-need themes predominate.

This image transformation has been amazing. Fifty years ago many people feared for the solvency of banks and regarded bankers as gleeful foreclosers of the widow's mortgage. Deposit insurance removed the first fear and emptied the mattresses. Down came the wickets and grills surrounding teller, and the bank officials moved their desks out on to the public floor. All who are not behind in their notes now find most banks friendlier than the country club.

Image moves automobiles. The inspired ads of Volkswagen set Americans laughing, not at, but with. Remember the picture of the microbus and the caption, "We also make a funny-looking car"? Cadillac, at the other end of the spectrum, never mentions its motor. It stiffly sells prestige.

The search for an appealing image may be intensified by a sameness of quality among some competing products that makes it difficult to top another's claims. So we have had doves flying in and out of kitchens and white knights slaying dirt. It got started years ago with Carnation's "Milk from Contented Cows" and Swift's "The Ham What Am," respectively the most unprovable and vaguest claims in history.

But while any clerk can write an ad describing nuts and bolts it takes a master pitchman to play upon the deep-seated emotions of the consumers. Copywriters who make up laugh, love, weep and yearn really earn their dough.

Legislature Faces Pension Problem With Teachers' Retirement System

By Sen. Paul Simon

In every session of the legislature, questions are posed about the various pension systems of the state. At this midway point there are solemn declarations that these systems should be more adequately funded. But when the end of the session arrives, this is usually one of the items cut.

The best example of our problem is the Downstate Teachers' Retirement System, which includes all public school teachers in the state outside of the City of Chicago. The financial experts in the pension field—called actuaries—say that this pension system has an actuarial deficiency of almost $500 million.

That figure needs some explanation; teachers should not panic and believe their pensions may fail tomorrow.

There actually is a sizable fund available now for paying teachers' pensions—but the experts say that it should be much higher in order to be solidly funded for future expenditures. Theoretically it should have the additional $500 million.

However, almost no pension system is fully funded—but few pension systems are as poorly funded as the Downstate Teachers' Pension System.

The law says that the legislature must match what a teacher contributes to the pension system and add one-fifth; that means 1.2 times the amount contributed by the teacher. This session that figure would be $114 million. However, it can be safely predicted that the legislature will ignore this law.

The school Problems Commission has recommended the full figure to the Budgetary Commission, but the Budgetary Commission is flooded with requests for more money—all worthy causes—and so far has not acted on this particular item. The chances are good that when action is taken, the $114 million figure will be cut considerably, because this is not an immediate, pressing need.

A.A. Weinberg, the distinguished actuary for Illinois and many states and foreign countries, says that to be sound, a retirement fund ought to be funded at least to 65 per cent of its total liability. The Downstate Teachers' Pension System is now funded about 38 per cent.

Gov. Otto Kerner—to his credit—has taken the stand that the retirement systems must be put on a sounder basis. Sen. Russell Arrington, the Senate Republican leader, has joined in his position.

But requests for education, mental health, and a host of other projects now look like they may total $2 billion more than present anticipated revenue. This means that cuts will have to be made somewhere.

Unfortunately one of the easy places for those in public office to use the axe is in pension funds. Right now we can get by on something less than the financial experts tell us we should have.

But some day we must pay for our shortsightedness.

What Kind of World?

Lottery Fairest Conscription System

BY ROBERT M. HUTCHINS

As everybody knows, the way to avoid the draft is to keep on going to school.

As almost everybody knows, the way to keep on going to school is to come from a "good" home. This is a home in a "good" neighborhood where people have a "good" income and where they do the "right" things. One of the right things they do is to keep their children in school as long as possible.

Children so conceived and so dedicated have a splendid chance of staying in school until the danger of being drafted has passed away. If they have to go to war because no more educational opportunities are open to them, they can do pretty well in the service; they may even become officers.

It follows that the war in Vietnam is being fought largely by those who come from homes in which the income, the attitude and the neighborhood are unfavorable to success in our educational system. They are the poor, or the relatively poor.

Most of the poor are Negroes. Or at least we can say that most Negroes are poor. They are about 11% of the population; they constitute about 18% of the combat units in Vietnam. But only 3.5% of the officers in the Army are Negroes.

It is a melancholy thought that military service may offer the Negro his best chance of economic advancement and a sense of accomplishment. But so it is, and we may be grateful for this ray of light in a scene of almost unrelieved gloom.

Then there is the other end of the scale. There are the 600,000 men called to the service who are rejected every year because of educational and physical handicaps. They are mostly Negroes.

Even the chance of getting ahead through risking their lives in Vietnam is denied them.

The Negroes who are accepted for military service are those who came from the "better" Negro homes and neighborhoods. Their relative position may improve because they have shown themselves as good as whites in the most trying circumstances; and they may not be disposed to accept inferiority on their return to civilian life.

The Negroes rejected by selective service are likely to sink still further toward the bottom of our society and even fall out of it altogether. They cannot get work. Some of them are from families that have been on relief for three generations. In the absence of an effort of proportions not yet attempted, or even discussed, to make them part of America, they are doomed.

It is, of course, outrageous to defer men because they have the money and the background that qualify them for college. The draft has made the privileged still more so.

At the same time it has made the least privileged still less so.

We ought not to be fighting in Vietnam. But, if we are determined to do it, we ought first to try it with a well paid, well treated volunteer force. No showing has ever been made that conscription is necessary.

If the number of men required for military service exceeds the number that will volunteer, then conscription by lottery is the only fair answer.

The present system is as bad as the one by which a Northerner could avoid the draft in the Civil War: he could buy a substitute.

Aid Charges 'Harassment'

"An incident of this nature in an election year gives rise to suspicions, especially when emotions are running high," Kirk said.

The next point Councilman Kirk brought up was what he referred to as "election irregularities" during the primaries. He claimed that the election judges in precincts two, four and six were picked by precinct committeemen who had a bias in the election.

Kirk said in two of the cases, the judges were wives of the committeemen and in the other case, the judge was a committeeman himself.

The Keene Kirk and Nelson state lost heavily in these three precincts.

Kirk went on to say that there had been one case where the committeeman had coerced the judges into allowing people to vote even though they did not live within the city limits of Carbondale and thus not qualified.

At this point Mayor Miller interjected that he knew of cases where people had signed affidavits to the effect they were citizens and of legal age when in fact they were not.

Councilman Joseph Ragsdale suggested that any election judge who "knowingly allowed people to vote who were not residents of the city should not be allowed to serve in the general election."

Miller shot back that any voter who falsified his or her affidavit should be prosecuted.

Ragsdale said this issue pointed up a good case for requiring that all voters register before voting as is the case in other cities.

Kirk suggested that the candidates should have a voice in the selection of election judges. Miller countered saying that the City Council had certified all of the judges before the primary and he saw no reason to select a new group.

The council planned to put the matter on the agenda for meeting and seek a solution at that time.

In other action, waterworks employees appeared before the council to seek negotiations for a new contract. The present contract expires April 30.

Time Changes Now Affecting Free School

Changes have been made in the place and time for some Free School classes this quarter.

The poverty course that was scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. Monday in Room 201 in Old Main will now meet at 7:30 p.m. in the same room.

The philosophy course that was to meet on Monday in Room 209 of Old Main will meet in Room 210 of Old Main.

The Tuesday speech course will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Room 201 of Old Main instead of 7 p.m. as previously scheduled.

The drugs course that was to meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday to meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Room 209 of Old Main will now meet at 7:30 p.m.

The psychology course that was to meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday will now meet at 7:30 p.m. Also on Wednesday, the government and politics class that was to meet in Room 209 of Old Main will now meet in Room 207.

Room changes have been made for all classes that meet on Thursday. Education class will meet in Room 206 instead of Room 209. Art of loving class will meet in Room 210 instead of Room 209. Poetry class will meet in Room 207 instead of Room 203.

SPEAKER—Charles B. Schweizer, assistant director of the SIU Foundation on the Edwardsville campus, will speak at the Society for the Advancement of Management meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the Agriculture Building Seminar Room. Schweizer holds two degrees in civil engineering, a B.S. from Louisiana State University and an M.S. from the University of California. He will answer prepared questions from S.A.M. members.

Seminar Scheduled

Leon Klatt of the University of Wisconsin will present a seminar, "Quasi-Reversible and Totally Irreversible Charge Transfer Reactions at Tabular Electrodes," at 3 p.m. Wednesday in Parkinson III.

Andrews to Lecture on British Press

Sir Linton Andrews, visiting professor in journalism this quarter, will present the first in a series of public lectures at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Morris Library Auditorium.

His topic will be "The State of the Press in Great Britain." Following Sir Linton's talk will be a discussion period. Refreshments will be served in the lounge.

The lecture series is being sponsored by the Department of Journalism. The Journalism Graduate Students Association will serve as hosts. All interested persons are invited to attend.

"Sir Linton is one of the most noted figures in British journalism," Harry Hix, president of the Journalism Graduate Students Association, said. "This is an excellent opportunity to hear an expert's view of the press as it operates in Great Britain."

In addition to being the first chairman of the British Press Council, Sir Linton has been president of the Institute of Journalists and of the Guild of British Newspaper Editors.

He began his career as a reporter on the Hull Daily News in 1902. Later he edited the Leeds Mercury for 17 years and Yorkshire Post for 21 years. He was described by Winston Churchill as a great and justly respected editor.

Death Penalty Sought For Richard Speck

PEORIA (AP) — A rap jury heard the state demand Monday that Richard Speck die in the electric chair for slaying eight student nurses.

Speck, a gangling, 25-year-old drifter, propped his head in one hand and faced the bench rather than the jury box during opening statements in his trial on charges of murdering the young women.

William J. Martin, 30, the head prosecutor, told the seven men and five women on the Circuit Court jury:

"When we last speak to you, we will ask you to find the defendant, Richard Franklin Speck, guilty of those eight murders and fix his punishment at death."

But Gerald W. Getty, 53, chief defense counsel, replied:

"The theory of the defense is that Speck is not the perpetrator of this crime. The state will have to prove that beyond reasonable doubt."

"Death penalty," Getty concluded. "Find him not guilty."

The scholarly, bespectacled Martin made it clear he will depend in large part on the identification of Speck by Miss Corazon Amurao, 23, a nurse from the Philippines who survived the slaughter, and on fingerprints.

But Getty, Cook County Chicago public defender who never has seen a client sent to the electric chair, challenged the identification and termed the fingerprints smudges.

"I expect the evidence to show the three alleged prints are partial prints," Getty said. "In two of the prints you will not find a core but not a delta. They are smudges." Core and delta are terms used by fingerprint experts in identifying prints.

Getty spoke for an hour and five minutes and Martin for five minutes longer. The men and women who filled the 50 spectator seats in the courtroom sat attentive and hushed, especially when Martin told the state's version of the methodical massacre July 14, 1966, in a townhouse dormitory that the victims occupied at 2219 E. 100th St. on Chicago's South Side.

He related Miss Amurao answered a knock about 11 p.m. July 13 on the door of the east bedroom she shared with Miss Merlito Gargullo, one of the three sleeping rooms in the house. The light still was on because Miss Gargullo was saying some prayers, he added. He said Miss Amurao was confronted by a man with a revolver.

Arabian Trouble 'Under Control'

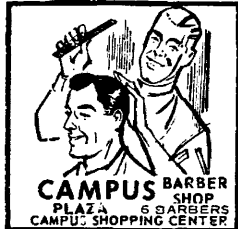

ADEN (AP) — British troops fought a day-long street battle with sniping and bomb-throwing Arab terrorists here Monday.

"The situation is firmly under control," reported security commander Maj. Gen. Sir John Willoughby during a visit to the center of violence in Aden's Crater District.

Ten British soldiers and 10 Arabs were wounded by bombs, mines and bullets. British authorities said two Arabs had been killed.

Terrorist violence flared following the arrival Sunday night of the U.N. mission which is advising on the problems of the Federation South Arabia's independence which Britain has promised by 1968.

A demonstration in the teeming Crater District sparked off the first clash Monday morning. Two grenades were flung at troops. From then on the rattle of gunfire and the crump of bombs reverberated through the city.

Humphrey Confers, Lectures, Defends

LONDON (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey conferred with British leaders Monday, lectured some fellow Americans on "Great Society" developments at home and defended U.S. policies in Vietnam under cross-examination by British students.

He even dealt gingerly with the disagreements between President Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Only a handful of demonstrators—one in a green velvet miniskirt—turned up as Humphrey rode from Prime Minister Harold Wilson's country retreat at Chequers to the U.S. Embassy and then to the Foreign Ministry and lunch later at Foreign Minister George Brown's residence.

Humphrey, Wilson and Brown are discussing such issues as the future of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, negotiations for a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons and reducing trade barriers.

On Vietnam, Humphrey told students questioning him on a television program, that the United States is fighting aggression as it did in Greece, Turkey, Iran and Berlin.

Humphrey said the bombing of North Vietnam was not an effort to force Hanoi into negotiations, but to curb the infiltration of troops and supplies to South Vietnam.

Asked about Central Intelligence Agency ties with American student groups, the vice president said: "We are not as old as this intelligence gathering as the British and we have made some mistakes."

Why it's a bore to own an Accutron® timepiece.

1. You have just two chances a year to fiddle with it. One, when you turn it ahead an hour for daylight saving time. And
2. When you turn it back again for standard time. Because the springs and things that make a watch run fast or slow have been taken out of the Accutron movement.
3. And that's why it's a bore for us, too. We can't show off by repairing sprung springs, stopped wheels and worn watchworks. Accutron has replaced them with a precise tuning fork that may never need replacing.
4. You can't bet on Accutron time. At least not without feeling guilty. Because we guarantee you'll be right. Within one minute a month. *(And that averages out to two seconds a day.)
5. You'll yawn when the boss presents you with a gold watch 25 years from now. Because your Accutron timepiece will still be accurate.

Isn't that exciting?

'NO BETTER PLACE TO START'

Campaign Started to Secure Roads, Food From 'Cong'

SAIGON (AP) — U.S., Australian and South Korean soldiers—a combined force of perhaps more than 10,000 men — ranged along three sectors of South Vietnam's fertile coast Monday in operations designed to secure roads and drive the Communists away from food supplies and into barren mountains open to air attack.

If successful the operations, under way since mid-March but disclosed only Monday, are expected to ease the movement of military supplies as well as help farmers and fishermen. Roads that the Viet Cong has blockaded since 1964 are important to movement of farm produce to markets in provincial capitals and such centers as Saigon, Da Nang and Nha Trang.

The Americans and Australian

Daley Favored to Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley is an odd-on favorite to win an unprecedented fourth term in Tuesday's Chicago election, but despite white backlash influences in some wards, Negroes will fill at least 9 and possibly 10 of the 50 City Council seats.

Precinct captains of both major parties made final rounds Monday to get out the vote for Tuesday's election.

trians have met little resistance in their operations but the South Koreans engaged a Communist unit in Phu Yen Province about 230 miles northeast of Saigon, and reported killing 16 Viet Cong in a sharp fight Monday.

Allied commands gave this rundown of the operations:

—In their largest operation of the war, about 4,000 Australian soldiers worked along roads in Phuoc Tuy Province, about 40 miles east-southeast of Saigon. Dubbed Operation Portsea, the campaign began March 21 with some U.S. soldiers in the force under Aussie command.

—The American phase —Operation Summerall—got under way also on March 21 with 1,500 troops of the 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade in Phu Yen and Khanh Hoa provinces on the central coast, 190 to 230 miles northeast of Saigon.

—The South Koreans are using troops from two divisions in their Tuy Hoa operational area. The number of Korean soldiers involved was not disclosed but the force was reported larger than the U.S. and Australian forces. The Koreans are seeking to secure Highway 1, which runs along South Vietnam's coast. The war elsewhere slackened in intensity Monday.

Study on Industries' Profits From Defense Contracts Begun

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has launched a secret study of the profits industry reaps from the nearly $40 billion in defense contracts the government awards each year.

The defense chief's action came as top government officials, on orders from the White House, reviewed procurement and property management practices of some contractors.

The two developments coincide with a continued acceleration in Pentagon spending.

As history's biggest buyer of equipment, supplies and materials, the nation's defense establishment last year awarded $38.2 billion in contracts for everything from eggs to warships. This was up sharply from the previous year's $28 billion. The total is expected to go even higher this year. Vietnam spending alone is nearing the $2-billion-a-month level.

How much of this is siphoned off as excessive profit?

In past periods of heavy defense spending, profits mounted. From 1942 to 1964, for example, the government recovered more than $11 billion in excess profits from World War II contractors.

Right now, no one in government seems to have up-to-date figures; there seems to be little concern on Capitol Hill about possible profiteering; the government's surveillance of defense contractors is fragmented with no one agency watching over excessive profit aspects from the start of the contracting process to the finish.

One of the government's profiteering watchdogs, the Renegotiation Board, has been hamstrung by restrictive amendments enacted by Congress since the Korean War.

Marketing Study Results

City Prices Slightly Higher Than Area

Carbondale prices compared to four surrounding cities were found to be only slightly higher in three areas and lower in three other areas, according to a price comparison study conducted by the Department of Marketing.

"When Carbondale prices were averaged, for each item, and related to the five-city average of prices for each, it was found that Carbondale prices were very slightly higher than the average," the study summary report disclosed.

Cities used in the study were Carbondale, Marion, Herrin, Murphysboro and DuQuoin. The purpose of the study, directed by David J. Luck, professor of marketing, was to determine the relative level of prices in these cities.

Comparable stores or outlets were included in the five communities, using lists of identical items.

The study included 88 items on which comparable prices could be obtained. "On a weighted overall basis, Carbondale prices were 100.42 per cent of the five-city average. In other words, if a consumer bought these items in the other places at their average prices for a total expenditure of $100, they would have cost him $100.42 in Carbondale," the report said.

"This is a very small premium for buying in Carbondale and probably would not amount to over $15 for the typical family over a whole year," the summary report said.

Carbondale percentages of the average in the six types of outlets surveyed indicated: food stores, 100.7 per cent; dry cleaners, 87.25 per cent; drugs, 99 per cent; gasoline, 104 per cent; men's clothing, 101.6 percent and discount stores, 96.8 per cent.

State Aid Agency To Recruit Here

The Illinois Department of Public Aid will have representatives on campus April 11 and 12 to interview prospective students for the department's summer training program. Interested students should contact the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance before April 11.

To be eligible for the training program, students must be Illinois residents who have completed two years of college work and have course background in sociology, psychology, anthropology, economics and political science.

Selection of participants will be on a merit basis through competitive examinations and interviews along with the evaluation of the students' college records. Students will receive a salary during the two-month program.

Payday Postponed

Faculty payroll checks normally made available the first day of each month were distributed Monday.

John Barnes, Payroll officer, said when the first of the month falls on Saturday or Sunday the pay day is moved to the first working day following the first.

Checks, which are not issued in advance may be either sent directly to a bank or home address, Barnes said. Payroll checks were reported received by area banks on April 1, although those to be picked up in person were not available until Monday.

The faculty member or teaching assistant has three choices, Barnes said. He may pick up the check in person, have it mailed to his home address, or sent directly to a bank for deposit.

Intercollegiate Flying Meet Scheduled Here May 11-13

The Saluki Flying Club will be host to the annual spring air meet of the National Intercollegiate Flying Association, May 11, 12 and 13.

The meet will begin Thursday, May 11 at the Southern Illinois Airport in Carbondale with the day devoted to Fly-In, practice, and registration of participating college clubs. Competition will begin Friday and Saturday at 7 a.m. each morning and will continue throughout the day.

There also will be evening activity for the flying clubs. Thursday evening all teams will gather for pilot briefing by the judges and airmen officials. Friday night, after a day of precision landing competition, there will be a buffet dinner with a Queen's Dance to follow.

Saturday morning will be devoted to the cross-country navigation event and Saturday afternoon to the bomb-drop competition. Shortly after, the top pilots will be recognized at the annual awards banquet, which will be open to the public. At the same time, the Flying Clubs International will hold their Regional Clinic at Southern Illinois Airport.

Max Conrad, "the flying grandfather," will be the guest speaker at the awards banquet. If final arrangements can be completed, other personalities such as Robert Cummings, The Brothers Four, William Piper of Piper Aircraft, Glen Martin of Cessna Aircraft and Robert Reynolds, the assistant administrator of the FAA, will be present during the three-day event.

Presently 20 colleges from across the nation have registered for the meet. Indications are that the list of college clubs entered will grow larger than the original estimate of 28.

Some of the clubs that have registered are Oklahoma State University, St. Cloud (Minn.) State College, Purdue University, Ohio University, University of Dayton, Parks College of Aeronautical Technology of East St. Louis, Kent State University, Southeast Missouri State College, San Jose State College, Montana State University, University of Colorado, Mount San Antonio College of Walnut, Calif., A&M University and Norwich University of Northfield, Vermont.

Baseball Salukis Win 3 of 4 Weekend Games

The Saluki baseball team won three games out of four over the weekend and that one loss was the first of the season.

Two teams, Quincy College and Ball State, has arrived Saturday to play a double-header with the Salukis. The problem was solved when the teams agreed to a round-robin arrangement with each team playing the other two in seven inning games.

Southern started the day by losing to Ball State 5-3. The Cardinals scored one run in the first. The Salukis came back to take a momentary 2-1 lead in the bottom of the inning. Paul Pavesich and Nick Solis singled. Dwight Clark sent a high fly to left which was dropped by Tim Roudenbush to score Pavesich and send Solis to third. Solis then scored on a passed ball.

Ball State grabbed the lead in the third inning on Frank Houk's two-run homer with Kitchens on first and scored another run in the seventh.

The Salukis came back in the bottom of the seventh to score one run. Dick Bauch led off the seventh with a double to left field. Don Kirkland came in to pinch-hit for Bob Ash and Kirkland slammed a single to score Bauch. But Pavesich ran into a double play and Rich Hacker fouled out.

The Salukis bounced back behind the three-hit pitching of Tom Wicevich to beat Quincy, 8-0. The Salukis scored four runs in the third inning, three of them on Barry O'Sullivan's home run.

The Salukis scored two runs in the fourth and fifth innings. The two fourth inning runs came with the aid of an error by shortstop Mike Villa. Bauch hit a triple with Hacker and O'Sullivan on base to score the Saluki runs in the fifth innings.

In the first game of a double header Sunday, Don Kirkland struck out 11 and gave up two hits as the Salukis defeated

Tennessee Tech, 8-1. O'Sullivan, who had six hits in seven at bats over the weekend to raise his batting average to a team-leading .395, hit another home run. It went over the left center field fence with nobody on base in the second inning. He also drove in two other Saluki runs with singles in the fourth and sixth.

Game two was called after five innings with the Salukis the owner of a 5-0 victory. Skip Pitlock was the Saluki starter and winner. Southern scored twice in the second, third and fourth innings of the game. Pitlock helped his own cause with a two run single in the second inning.

Injuries, Bad Luck Hamper Trackmen at Texas Relays

SIU's track team went to the Texas Relays last weekend with hopes of grabbing a couple of first places and possibly bringing back a record or two. Instead they returned minus one record which they held when they set out for Austin.

Injuries and a couple of unfortunate circumstances plus the finest Texas Relays

Iubelt and Frazier Guests at Banquet

George Iubelt, assistant basketball coach at SIU, and Walt Frazier, the NIT's most valuable player, were guests of honor at the first annual YMCA Church League basketball recognition banquet at Hale's Cafe in Grand Tower Tuesday night.

The conference championship was won by the First Presbyterian Church team and St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church team won tournament honors. Trophies were presented to both by Roland Molesky.

field to date added up to one second place, a third and a fifth for SIU.

The distance medley relay team finished behind Abilene Christian and Kansas State. Al Ackman's slow first quarter dropped the Salukis back early and despite Ross MacKenzie's strong second quarter and Jeff Duxbury's 1:58.5 half, the Salukis were too far behind to catch the leaders. Oscar Moore went after the Abilene leader in the anchor mile, but ran himself out quickly trying to make up a big deficit.

Moore had only 45 minutes rest before running the invitational three mile and the best he could do was second to Chris McCubbins, the Big Eight champ from Oklahoma State. McCubbins ran a 13:39 three mile and Moore's time was 13:50.9.

Ackman was bothered in his opening leg by a cold and lack of conditioning. He has been nursing a leg injury for some time and was sidelined completely for two weeks late in the winter quarter.

The SIU 440 relay team was a pleasant surprise to Coach Lew Hartzog. The team of Robin Coventry, John Quillen, Chuck Benson and Ross MacKenzie placed fifth. Hartzog had not expected them to qualify.

SIU's 1965 Relays record in the sprint medley relay fell to a Kansas team, with Jim Ryun running the half mile. The Jayhawks set a new world record in the event with a 3:15.2 clocking. This broke SIU's time of 3:19.4.

The freshman 440 relay team qualified but was not called for the final heat until just prior to the meet. The team, which thought it must have been nosed out at the wire was not prepared to compete when called immediately prior to the final heat.

Hartzog said that if the team had competed it would have had a good chance to grab first place.

The Salukis will prepare this week for the Kentucky Relays Saturday at Lexington.

Tickets Being Sold For Women's NCAA Gymnastic Classic

Tickets are presently on sale at the Arena for the Women's Collegiate Open Gymnastic Championships, which will be held Friday and Saturday in the Arena.

The SIU women's team will be defending its title against the top women competitors in the collegiate ranks. The ticket office is open between 1 and 4:30 p.m. every day.

Ticket books for both nights cost $2. A special student price for one or both of the sessions is expected to be announced later in the week.

Coach Meade Optimistic About Next Year

For the third time in the last four years, the Saluki gymnastics team has won the NCAA championship and Coach Bill Meade is optimistic about another NCAA title next year.

"I am looking for a much stronger team next year. We should be stronger in all events. We will again be cast in the favorite's spot next year and I would rather be there and have everybody chasing us than the other way around," said Meade.

When you look at what Meade has coming back next year and what he has lost this year, it is hard to find fault with those comments.

Of the seniors Rick Tucker the Saluki captain and sixth place finisher in the all-around this season, will be the hardest to replace. Tucker was the team leader besides giving the Salukis depth in the high bar, parallel bar and side horse.

Larry Lindauer, Hutch Dvorak and Steve Whitlock will also be missed, but look what Meade will have back next year.

To start off with, there's Paul Mayer. He won the NCAA individual championship in the long horse vault and could be a threat in the side horse, floor exercise and parallel bars next year.

Fred Dennis, the rings specialist who seemed to arouse the Saluki team with a 9.5 score in the preliminaries, will return. Other team members to return next year include Dale Hardt, who had a bad morning on the trampoline in the preliminaries and is far better than his 8.95 score indicates, and Ron Harstad who finished fifth in the parallel bars with a score of 9.3.

"This was a real team effort. We didn't have any real team star like we had in past years. The performers in each event worked hard to get a higher score than the performers in the other events—a sort of team competition which helped our overall team scores," added Meade.

Southern had to come from behind to win the title this year.

"This was different from last year because last year we piled up a big lead early and then had to fight to keep it. But, it was an experience we had all year long because we had to come from behind to win in seven out of 11 of our dual meets," said Meade.

Other individual NCAA winners and their scores were: Dave Jacobs, Michigan, floor exercise (9.45); Keith McCannless, Iowa, side horse (9.6); Dave Jacobs, Michigan, trampoline (9.5); Rich Grigsby, San Fernando, high bar (9.5); Paul Mayer, SIU, long horse vault (9.512); Makoto Sakamoto, Southern California, parallel bars (9.525); and Josh Robinson, California, still rings (9.6).

Soloni Would Settle AAU-USTFF Feud

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., introduced legislation Monday designed, he said, to settle the running battle between the Amateur Athletic Union and the U.S. Track and Field Federation.

Pearson's measure would authorize the incorporation, under a federal charter, of the U.S. Track and Field Association, a private corporation to be the policy making body of track and field in this country.

The association would govern track and field domestically, coordinate all efforts among its members and be the sole representative body for American track and field efforts in international competition except for the Pan-American and Olympic Games.

The new association would have an 11-member board of directors including five coaches, two AAU representatives, one athlete, one from the general public, one from the armed forces and one from an advisory committee.

The Kansas senator said the creation of the new association would not do away with the AAU, USTFF or NCAA, but that these groups would continue to serve important and necessary functions in the common goal of bettering the U.S. track and field program.

"The proposal merely recognizes," he said, "that which is most obvious; that is, no solution will be forthcoming as long as both groups continue on their present respective courses."

Celts, Philly Set For 'Key Game'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jubilant Philadelphia, two-up over the champion Boston Celtics in their National Basketball Association eastern finals playoff, rested for Wednesday night's "key game" on the 76ers home court.

"Key" was the tag given the third game of the best-of-7 series by Red Auerbach, Boston general manager, who led the Celtics to eight straight NBA championships.

"It's not over yet," added Auerbach, dejectedly reviewing the statistics of Sunday's 107-102 loss at Boston.

Denver Team of Infant ABA Picks Frazier in 1st Draft

Walt Frazier, SIU's man of the moment during the past basketball season, was drafted recently by the Denver entry in the newly organized American Basketball Association.

The ABA conducted its first draft and will attempt to field teams for the first time next year, provided they can ink enough contracts with names of top flight collegiate players.

Frazier, who must wait about three weeks for the National Basketball Association draft, has apparently made no decision on his status next year.

He will be drafted high in the NBA pool even though he has another year of eligibility left at Southern, due to a season of scholastic trouble.

If the ABA continues operation through this season and Frazier decides to play out his final year at SIU, Denver would retain rights to sign him upon his graduation. The same situation would result in the NBA.

Tennis Team Wins Opener

SIU's varsity tennis team opened its regular season competition Saturday by scoring a near perfect 8-1 victory over DePauw on the Salukis' home courts.

Mike Sprengelmeyer led things off for SIU with an 8-6, 6-3 win over Buzz Pierce. Jose Villarete defeated Carl Hirth 6-3, 6-1; Al Pena defeated Paul Mitchell 6-1, 6-1; Johnny Yang took the measure of Rob Morrison 6-0, 6-1; Jay Maggiore defeated Mark Smith 6-0, 6-1; Sprengelmeyer and Villarete knocked off Pierce and Mitchell 6-1, 6-1; Pena and Jerry Garver defeated Hirth and Morrison 6-2 and 6-1 and Yang and Maggiore defeated Peter Thompson and Rich Raines 6-3, 6-2.

The only Saluki loser was Garver, who was knocked off by Thompson 7-5, 6-1.

Horse Shoe Buffs

Asked to Sign Up

SIU students interested in participating in the horse shoe tournament have been asked to report to the Intramural Office to leave their names, addresses and telephone numbers.

The tournament will be held during the first week in May from 4 to 5:30 p.m. during the evenings.
