Reparation plan may bypass suit on terminations

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The University lawsuit against 104 terminated employees may be bypassed by a plan to make lump-sum payments to some of the fired faculty members. Keith Leng, vice president for academic affairs, said Tuesday.

About $422,000 would be parceled out before the certified faculty and continuing appointments, Leasure said. The payments would be "in lieu of one year's notice," he explained.

Leasure stressed the idea for only one of several before SIU's administration. He would not reveal how much money to be used.

In another safeguard are guaranteed one year's pay should they be dismissed by the University, according to the Board of Trustees.

The statutes allow teacher cuts in the event of a "financial exigency," the Board of Trustees, which includes one on which SIU terminated 28 tenure faculty members in December.

SIU Acting President Hiram Lesar was not available to comment on the plan. Leasure said Lesar would "take the matter up with SIU's board.

Chair of Board Staff James Brown said Tuesday he had not seen a specific proposal for making the reparations. While not against state law, Brown said such a move "wouldn't be wise" without the consent of the General Assembly, Gov. Dan Walker and the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Brown would not confirm that SIU's School of Medicine had about $500,000 in unspent salary money which could be used to pay the terminated employees. Brown also said to his knowledge, only one at the state level had been contacted about the idea. He pointed out the payment plan is still "one of the possibilities," and has not come before the Board of Trustees.

This would eliminate the stickiest part of the present lawsuit. Leasure explained, that of SIU having to prove sufficient financial hardship to eliminate tenured positions. He said dropping the University action against the 104 would avoid legal costs, but added that suits against the University could be initiated by individuals among the 104.

In another sign-off from the 104 terminations, Leasure confirmed 27 Civil Service employees were recently laid off, but relocation attempts for all but the 27 succeeded. Leasure said he hoped only one or two of the 27 would still be on lay-off status by the end of June.

"We are reallocating those people right now," Dan Ward, personnel director, said Monday. "I think we'll be in pretty good shape by June 30."

Ward explained "first priority" efforts are being made to place the 27 in similar jobs as they open up on campus. He said the CS Service employees are not technically fired, but rather are on lay-off status, and subject to recall.

In another matter, Leasure said he hopes a deal for the School of Communications and Finance to be finalized in time for fall semester.

SIU veterans office faces ban on funds

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Federal funding for SIU's Veterans Affairs Office will be suspended unless alleged discrepancies in enrollment figures were to be resolved within two weeks, a federal official said Tuesday.

Walter Gale, director of the Veterans Program Unit of the U.S. Office of Education, said he had read a March 16 article in the Daily Egyptian alleging that "inflated" enrollment figures were used to get $125,000 Veterans Cost-of-Instruction grants.

"They (SIU Veterans Affairs Center) will be given two weeks to present an accurate enrollment count or we will begin remedial action," Gale said in a telephone interview from Washington.

"If there is a difference in actual qualified veteran enrollment and the numbers presented on their application, you'd better believe we'll conduct an audit," he continued.

The audit would determine if a partial or complete refund of the cost-of-instruction grant is required, Gale said. A committee of four staff members in Student Work and Financial Assistance Office is investigating alleged discrepancies in veteran enrollment figures used to obtain VCI monies for SIU Veterans Affairs Office in July 1973.

The committee, commissioned by Frank Adams, Student Work and Financial Assistance Director and chaired by his assistant director, Raymond DeJarnett, will finish its study by April 12 "at the earliest," DeJarnett said.

To qualify for VCI grants "higher learning institutions" had to indicate a 10 per cent increase in undergraduate veterans currently enrolled and receiving certain veterans benefits, Gale said. The increase had to be

Public hearing set tonight

Motel liquor sales will be examined

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Liquor Advisory Board will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the University City Center cafeteria to determine whether Holiday Inn violated provisions of its liquor license.

The hearing was set after it was found that Holiday Inn sold liquor to SIU at 10 per cent more than the wholesale price paid by Holiday Inn.

The liquor board will look into the purchases and make recommendations to Mayor Neul Eckert, who is the liquor commissioner. Eckert will make the final decision.

Holiday Inn holds a Class C liquor license which allows the sale of individual drinks and package liquor to patrons. Violation of the license provisions could mean a suspension or revocation of the license.

Leilani Weiss, liquor board secretary, said the board will first have to clear up an ambiguity in the wording of the license before it can determine if any violation has been committed.

Ms. Weiss said there is some doubt as to what is meant by the term "patron." There is a question of whether it refers only to those staying at the motel or to anyone who does business with the motel.

Stan Hoye, franchise holder for the Carbondale Holiday Inn, agreed that the wording of the license is ambiguous.

"Hoye pointed out that the liquor and food served on campus and those on widely used in the area. He said SIU "is not doing business with the motel, including catering services, lunches, dinners and receptions.

"He has considered persons who do business with the motel, certain people who stay at the motel.

"The liquor purchases from Holiday Inn involved irregularities in the use of about $1,000 of University funds.

"An investigation by the SIU Board of Trustees found that the liquor purchased was actually processed as payments to the Holiday Inn for food service at the motel -- in effect, the hotel was buying liquor at the motel.

Democrats win six of seven board seats

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Democrats captured six of the seven seats in the Jackson County Board election Tuesday, giving them control of the 14-member board for the first time in 20 years. The Democrats now have an 8-6 edge.

Four incumbents were re-elected, including Mary Nell Chew, the only Republican, while two were defeated.

The only real surprise came in District 4 where Democrat Cleveland Matthews upset incumbent J.C. Penny by a vote of 346 to 327. Penny has been a board member for 20 years. County Clerk Delmar Ward said.

Democrat Tress Pierson edged Republican Wayne Alstat in the District 1 race by 867 to 857, the only district without an incumbent candidate.

In District 2, Reginald Stearns, incumbent, defeated Republican Bette Hartline 635 to 488.

Democrat incumbent Eugene Chambers beat Republican Pauline Hughes 573 to 357 in the District 3 race.

Hazel LeFevre won by five votes in District 5 to replace Republican incumbent Fred Bridges. Ms. LeFevre received 205 votes to Bridges’ 200.

In District 6, Democrat incumbent Sue Casey won with 508 votes to Republican John Gasaway’s 236.

Ms. Chew received 256 votes against Democrat William Mehrten’s 147 to win the District 6 race and the only Republican seat in the election. Mehrten is an SIU graduate student.

Ward said voter turnout was good with 6,398 ballots cast. About 33,000 voters are registered in Jackson County. About 8,000 voted in the primary last month, Ward said.

The newly elected board members will take seats chosen by lot in 1972 to serve two years instead of four. The new board members will serve a four-year term, as will members elected at all future elections.

Members chosen in Tuesday’s election will begin their duties at the April 1 meeting of the county board, Charleston. The first meeting will be 8 a.m.

The new members will receive $25 each. Each committee meeting is opposed to the $20 current members receive.

Student Senate has light agenda

Kania said the typewriter, a use made by the board of purchasing from SIU for $15, is available on the first floor in the library. It will be available weekly “depending on how many people will use it in a period of time."

Kania said any student using the typewriter without charge asking at the secretarial office.

Sen. Gerry Selzer’s bill implementing the typewriter service passed last quarter after pay typewriters on the second floor of Morris Library were removed. Selzer, who worked on the second floor in the evenings, said students were in need of the service.

Parking lot resurfacing nears completion date

The resurfacing of four parking lots on campus should be completed within two weeks if the weather permits, Willard Hart, assistant director of facilities planning, said Tuesday.

The lots undergoing surface changes include two southwest of the Communications Building, one between the Communications Building and Thompson Point dormitory, and the Lawson Hall parking lot.

“Two weeks of good weather would be a real good,” Rino Bianchi, director of facilities planning, said.

Both men said the wet conditions in Carbondale during the spring vacation period caused the schedule for completion to be set back about 10 days.

If normal weather (April rains), the project should be done by the first part of May,” Hart said.

The holes in the roadway directly behind the Communications Building will be patched up soon, Hart said.

They were the result of resurfacing done to install permanent lights.

“We appreciate the cooperation we’ve had from everyone,” Bianchi said.

“We have been inconvenience but they’ve been very understanding."

Work will also start soon on a new parking lot to be located between Forest and Elizabeth streets and between Grand and Washington streets, where temporary housing facilities have been leveled. Hart added.

The weather:
Partly cloudy, warm

Wednesday: Partly cloudy, warm, and warm with the high temperature in the 70s to lower 80s. Precipitation will be the 35 centimeters during the morning, increasing throughout the day. The wind will be from the south at 8-18 mph, gusting to 30 mph. Relative humidity will be 87 percent.

Wednesday night: Increasing cloudiness with a probability for precipitation of 40 percent. The low temperature will be in the low to middle 50s.

Thursday: Cloudy and somewhat cool with the high around 68 degrees.

Tuesday’s high on campus 72, 2 p.m.

General manager of WIDB resigns

The student general manager of WIDB radio station has resigned and recommended a successor.

Jim Rohr, senior majoring in radio and television, announced his resignation Friday in a letter to members of the radio board. Rohr had also been chairman of the WIDB Board of Directors.

Rohr cited an anticipated heavy academic load to complete graduation requirements and a growing limitation of available time as reasons for his resignation.

Ronna Davis, secretary to the radio board and administrative assistant, is the general manager, was recom­mended by Rohr to complete the term, which expires in late spring.

The board is expected to accept the resignation and act on the recommen­dation at its April meeting.

Michael Jaye, WIDB public relations director, said Rohr will continue to remain active with the advertising proposal task force and the board’s committee on organization evaluation.

Gérald Pompidou, who in his first and only election campaign succeeded to the strong French presidency held by Charles de Gaulle, died Tuesday of an undiagnosed illness. He was 62.

Pompidou had been plagued by illness and there had been speculation about his possible resignation.

The brief announcement from the presidential palace said Pompidou died at 3 p.m. CDT. A few hours earlier, the president’s office said Pompidou was canceling all appointments because of an unspecified illness.

The cause of death was not immediately disclosed, but there were reports of various ailments, including leukemia or some other form of cancer.

Under the French constitution, Poher as president of the senate now takes over the government to organize presidential elections. They must be held in 20 to 30 days.

The palace announcement earlier Tuesday of Pompidou’s illness was the second revelation in two weeks that the president was too ill to carry out his duties. Medical sources said two weeks ago that his condition was complicated by hemorrhoids.

In some of his public appearances he has appeared tired and bloated. Recently he traveled to the Soviet Union to confer with Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev, but in the last few days he canceled a scheduled spring trip to Japan and put of a planned trip to Bonn to confer with the West German chancellor, Willy Brandt.

Plumbers here to stay, but...

Leon shifted the leather strap of the carrier's pouch from his shoulder and swung his load gently to the side. As he reached in his cap with his thumb, pushing the cap back into his Brillo-like mop of hair and wiped the sleeve of his uniform across the sweat beading on his broad forehead.

It wasn't that the pouch was heavy—it was barely half full—but he had worked since he'd been assigned to special duties caused his shoulders and back to throb.

He performed his duties mechanically now. It hadn't always been that way. After passing his exams he had launched into training sessions in electronic sorting, zippering and canine avoidance psychology with singular enthusiasm.

A few weeks into the course his supervisor, Mr. Lacy approached him.

"You know, Tober, you tested extremely high in intelligence and loyalty.

"Thank you sir."

"Because of that and the interest and competence you've shown in your classes, my superiors and I are considering you for special training."

"Yes sir, I dunno sir, " Leon said, squatting at Lacy and absentmindedly polishing his glasses on his shirtfront. "I'm only five foot six, and I couldn't weigh more than 130...with my shoes on."

"It's what's up here that counts, Lacy countered, tapping his bristly cheek. "Your behavior that led his superiors to disapprove of any reference to sex whatsoever."

"I報導ed the envelope in a neat script hand, being careful not to press too hard. Placing the envelope in the pouch which was wrinkled from use like the ear of a small brown elephant, he straightened his cap and stepped into a midsummer sun which set like a thousand explosions behind his clenched eyelids as he strained to adjust to the brightness.

Crossing the street, Leon mounted the flagpole steps of a yellow brick bungalow. When he reached the door he slid the pale blue envelope through the polished brass mail slot. Then he went back to the truck to wait.

After about twenty minutes a woman in her mid-sixties ambled up the walk. Her step was brisk even though her arms were burdened with several brown paper parcels which appeared as if they might be books.

She let herself in, bending clumsily to scoop up the letter, and pushing the door shut with her heel.

There were a few moments of stillness, during which a blousy squawked nervously.

Blue and orange flame ripped from the picture window at the front of the house, showering shards of splintered glass into the street like an ice storm. Roofing shingles flattered onto the lawn like fallen leaves.

Flames licked out the windows and doors, turning the yellow brick first brown, then black.

The truck gave shudder as Leon crushed it into gear and drove off.

A few miles down the road he stopped the truck, hands shaking, lower lip trembling. He wanted to cry, but couldn't remember how. For several minutes he sat desperately trying to think what to do. Falling in the attempt, he did the only thing he knew.

Picking up his clip board, he flipped the roster to the next page and read, "TOBER, Leon." The letters shook.

He hesitated a moment, then took an envelope out of the canister and began to address it in a neat script.

Orders were orders.

The Daily Egyptian:

I am writing to protest the apparent indifference with which the Daily Egyptian has been treating that most vital wealth, the Egyptian language, which the paper appears to believe that it can mutilate at will.

The efforts of the staff to produce justified margins has produced some laughable anomalies over the years, including hyphenation of words, such as "to" and division where no syllable exists. Coherency is a frequent problem.

More serious is the flippan attitude of the paper toward the most important action any individual can take with regard to his language, the introduction of a new word. Such inaugurations are acceptable only when no term exists which exactly describes that which the author intends to convey to the reader.

In particular, the Daily Egyptian has seen fit to use the coarse and awkward "person" terminology which currently seems to be in vogue despite the fact that these terms contribute nothing whatsoever to the language and convey not so much as the slightest nuance of difference between themselves and the existing terms such as "chairman" and "ombudsman."

These terms are titles, defined without any reference to sex whatsoever, which appears the only basis for the "person" terminology; as such, the latter are mere synonyms, and uningly one at that, amounting to little more than linguistic defacement. Furthermore, since the "person" terminology is used almost exclusively when the offeeholder is feminine, it is every bit as chauvinistic as the original title allegedly was and is misleading as well in its implications that the term has no sexual basis.

As though this were not enough, the DE is apparently perfectly aware that the "person" terminology is inappropriate; since the resignation of "ombudsman" Heidrich reported in the February 22 issue, the correct term "ombudsman" has been used by the paper on at least three occasions (March 6, 7, and 12).

I call for an end to this irresponsible behavior in the casual adoption of expressions which are mere replacements for perfectly good existing terms, such mutilations of the language are indefensible. I hope others, equally concerned with their language, will come forward to voice their opinions.

Blame the split infinitives and the spelling on the staff; word division is the task of the computerized typesetting equipment. Atrocious as some of the divisions appear to the careful reader, tests show a lower rate of error by the machine than by human compositors. Thanks for reading our newspaper so carefully. How technologists see the humanities

By David O. Edeani
Daily Egyptian Special Writer

People outside the humanities have wide-ranging views on the present difficulty confronting the humanist and his discipline, the causes of which are manifold. One of the questions that always arise in such discussions is which of the many problems today are really important and why. The answer is that there are so many problems and issues in the humanities that it is impossible to deal with them all in a single essay. However, I will try to point out some of the most important issues that are currently affecting the humanities and why they are important.

One of the most important issues facing the humanities is the decline in enrollment. Many university administrators have come to realize that the humanities are not as popular as they were in the past, and they are now realizing that they need to do more to attract students to their fields. This is important because the humanities are not only important for their own sake, but they also serve as a foundation for other disciplines, such as the sciences.

Another important issue facing the humanities is the lack of funding. Many humanities departments are struggling to survive because of limited resources. This is a problem because the humanities have a great deal of potential to contribute to society, but they need the support of the government and the public to thrive.

A third issue facing the humanities is the rapid development of technology. Many people believe that technology is changing the world, and that this is putting pressure on the humanities. However, I believe that technology can be used to strengthen the humanities, and that it is important to find ways to integrate technology into the humanities curriculum.

In conclusion, the humanities are facing many challenges, but I believe that they will be able to overcome them. The humanities are a vital part of our culture, and they have the potential to make a significant contribution to society. It is important for us to support the humanities and to find ways to make them more relevant to the contemporary world.

Steps to halt pollution

Council agrees to control
land around Cedar Lake

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council Monday night agreed to take steps to prevent development of the city's future water source, by regulating the use of private land surrounding the lake's watershed.

Councilwoman Helen Westberg proposed that a city ordinance be prepared to prevent such pollution.
Ms. Westberg reported that water from privately owned land near the lake could pollute it, if measures were not taken to limit the use of the land.

Bankers get insights

Farmer to open workshop

Walter J. Wills, SIU farm marketing specialist, will set the theme for the 17th annual Farm Credit Workshop April 20 to talk on "The New Agriculture."

The four-hour sessions will be in Ballrooms B and C of the Student Center, beginning at 10 a.m. with a welcome by Keith Leisure, provost. The program is directed mainly at bankers and others from various lending agencies serving all phases of agriculture that affect farm lending and credit.

The School of Agriculture and agriculture industries department are sponsoring the annual workshop in cooperation with the SIUC Division of Continuing Education.

In addition to talks by Wills and associate professor of agricultural industries Donal W. Lybeck, the morning program will include a panel discussion on credit analysis featuring James Winningham, Arthur, banker and chairman of the Illinois Bankers Association's agriculture committee; Charles B. Bozman, Jr., Champaign, state director of the Farmers Home Administration; John Noland, president of the Doctor Production Credit Association; and Duncan Highmark, Raisin Purina credit manager at Vandalia.

Energy problems in agriculture will be the luncheon address by Edward Henderson, manager of the petroleum sales division of FS Services, Bloomington.

Ronald Duzier, assistant vice-president of the St. Louis Federal Land Bank, will discuss current trends in farm land prices during the afternoon program. Others talking about pricing, credit, and financing agriculture will include Robert Wright, president of the Skokton, Mo., Production Credit Association; Thomas Frey, University of Illinois agricultural economist; and Leon Gardner, Illinois Agricultural Association secretary, Bloomington.

Campus Briefs

Books by SIU Anthropologists Philip J. C. Dark and Jerome Handler have been published by two eminent publishing houses:

Dark's "An Introduction to Benin Art and Technology," published by Oxford University Press, deals with the art of the ancient West African kingdom, tracing its development from the 1400's until now.

Published by the Johns Hopkins University Press is Handler's "The Unappropriated People: Freedmen in the Slave Society of Barbados." It focuses on a "third society" that sprang up in the British slave labor colony in the 18th and 19th centuries—Africans or persons of mixed ancestry who were "neither slave nor entirely free." Handler's work, the result of more than six years of research, is called the first "systematic analysis of the freedmen of Barbados."

Dark, author of several books and catalogues on primitive art, began studies of the tribal art of Benin in 1956, when he was on the staff of Nigeria's University College. He came to SIU in 1960 and has continued ethnological and primitive art studies of Benin and New Guinea. He is a research associate in African ethnoLOGY for the Field Museum of Natural History.

Handler joined the SIU faculty in 1962 and is the author of two books and several journal articles on British West Indies anthropology and history. He held the Colgate University Olive B. O'Connor Professorship of American Institutions during 1971-72.

Four SIU faculty members from various campus units participated in an inter-university conference on energy recently at Lake Bluff.

Representing SIU were Russell Dutcher, chairman of the geology department; Charles Muchmore, associate professor of thermal and environmental engineering; Milton Russell, professor of economics; and Donald Stucky, assistant professor of plant and soil science. Stucky appeared on the conference program to discuss strip mined land reclamation problems.

The SIU Department of Animal Industries will be host Saturday to the Illinois high school Future Farmers of America in- vitational poultry judging contests.

Bill Goodman, professor of animal industries and poultry specialist, said visiting high school teams from throughout the state will rate five chicken as well as poultry products and product quality. Special awards will go to the top ranking team and individual with additional ribbon awards to other participants with high scores.

Easter Seal bucket brigade fund drive set

The Alpha Phi Omega, National Service Fraternity, and the Phyettes, the little sister organization of APO at SIU, will conduct their annual Easter Seal Fund-Raising Drive on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

During that time, the groups will approach Carbondale businesses, and a bucket brigade will be held during the weekend to collect donations for the Touch of Nature camp program.

Businesses donating to the drive will receive a letter of commendation from the Easter Seal Society, Alpha Phi Omega and the Phyettes in recognition of their assistance.

As a result of tuition increases in the Easter Seal's summer camp program for the crippled children of Southern Illinois, the funds raised have been earmarked specifically to help pay for camp tuitions.

All donations to the society are tax deductible.
Sororities plan spring rush; parties, food headline agenda

The sororities of SIU are urging interested girls to attend Spring Rush. Various meetings and parties will be held throughout the week.

Wednesday, Alpha Sigma Alpha will hold a Dads and Pretzels party, 7 to 9 p.m. at 308 W. Cherry. Thursday, at 5:30 p.m., the Delta Zeta cookie walk will take place and the meeting place will be arranged. At 7 p.m., Sigma Sigma Sigma “See You on Out” will be held at 107 Small Group Housing. Alpha Gamma Delta is scheduling a party at 8 to 10 p.m. at 104 Small Group Housing. Friday, at 7 p.m., Alpha Sigma Alpha is having “Punch and Mints” at 308 W. Cherry.

Interviews scheduled for accounting majors

The following two on-campus job interviews are scheduled at Career Planning and Placement Services for April 11.

For interview appointments and additional information interested students should visit the Career Planning and Placement Center located at Woody Hall, Section A, North Wing, third floor.

Farm Credit Administration, St. Louis: Accounting Majors for auditing positions with Farm Credit Administration. Farm Credit Auditors make financial audits of Federal Land Bank and Production Credit Associations in the Farm Credit System. Examinations are conducted in accordance with national auditing standards. It is preferred that applicants have a major in accounting, although a minimum of 12 hours of accounting courses might be acceptable. A rural background is desirable as the Farm Credit System provides credit services to the special needs of agriculture. The positions require full-time travel and are located in a 12-state area of the midwest.

Sigma Sigma Sigma meets with Tau Kappa Epsilon at Giant City. They will organize at 107 Small Group Housing for departure. Also at 5 p.m., Alpha Gamma Delta will have a party at the Delta Upsilon house, 705 W. Main. At 7 p.m., Alpha Sigma Alpha is having a kegger at Lake Murphysboro.

Sunday, from 1 to 4 p.m., interested girls can pick up preference party invitations at the Student Activity Room A, 3rd floor of the Student Center. At 8 and 9 p.m., preference parties at various houses will be held. Immediately following the last party, girls are to sign a bid preference card at 107 Small Group Housing.

Monday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., girls can pick up bid cards at Student Activity Room A in the Student Center.

Sororities plan spring rush; parties, food headline agenda
Candidates must file in APSC race

Petitions for candidates who plan to run in next month’s Administrative and Professional Staff Council (APSC) election must be filed with the election committee by April 19.

Each of the four divisions of the APSC will elect one member for a three-year term. The four divisions are business, academic affairs, student affairs and development and services.

The APSC, which is comprised of about 400 University staff members, was formed “about five years ago,” President Jack Simmons, said Tuesday.

“It began as an informal group about the time the University Senate was formed,” Simmons said. “It’s not much different than the other groups.”

The APSC is made up of “people who have faculty appointments without academic rank,” Simmons said. “We are the council of the University-wide commission. Before, the faculty, the student council and the students were represented but they didn’t include us in the faculty because we didn’t have ranking. We couldn’t vote on the issues.”

Simmons said APSC members are “not covered” by the Civil Service or by rules governing faculty members.

Exam scheduled

A proficiency exam for Linguistics 105a and b (formerly English 105a and b) will be given from 8 to 11 a.m. Friday at Agriculture 218.

Verdict awaited in Alton drug trial

ALTON, (AP)—A jury of five men and seven women began deliberations Tuesday in the federal trial of 10 undercover narcotics agents accused of violating the civil rights of residents in six homes they raided.

Judge Omer Poos of U.S. District Court instructed the jurors for about an hour before handing them the case shortly before 4 p.m. CDT.

In closing arguments earlier in the day, defense attorney David Schippers told the jury that if the agents sometimes acted violently during the raids, it was because they were in constant danger while performing a service vital to the community, trying to crack a drug pedaling ring.

Government attorneys prosecuting the case argued that whatever noble cause the defendants were working for, they performed their duties in an illegal manner.

Schippers, co-counsel Norman Londen and Justice Department prosecutor John F. Conway spent much of their concluding statements on the April 21, 1973 raid of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gigotto’s Collinsville apartment.

The defendants have admitted they had the wrong address in that raid but Schippers said a seven-month investigation of cocaine trafficking in the area led the agents to the Gigotto door.

He pointed to more than $1 million of narcotics purchased during the overall investigation and said that five drug pushers were convicted on the evidence.

None of that $1 million drug cache, however, came directly from the raids in question.

Pointing to the cache, Schippers told the jury, “There is enough on this table to poison every kid in the city.”

Prosecutor Conway said the issue was whether the agents decided “to do what was lawful in an unlawful manner.”

During the course of the six raids, he said the behavior of the defendants regressed “from bad to worse to outrageous.” He pictured them as a gang of bumbling, moving from house to house without warrants, twice getting wrong addresses and sometimes unsure of the names and descriptions of the suspects they sought.

All were working with the now-defunct St. Louis office of the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement (DALE).

Dance marathon slated for multiple sclerosis

A dance-a-thon with the theme “Dance for Strength” will be held from 7 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday at the University of Illinois campus in Champaign to raise money for multiple sclerosis.

The dance is being coordinated by the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity and the McDonald Food Corporation. Prizes for the event will include scholarships and trips.

Ed Hendon, a spokesman for the McDonald Corporation, said the dance is hoped to bring in about $80,000 to $100,000 in donations.

Last year, the event brought in $47,000.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Saturday's Daily Egyptian that Kappa Alpha Psi requested the Carbondale City Council for a $500 carnival fee waiver in conjunction with Kappa Carnival activities.

The fee waiver was actually requested by Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity for a carnival that group is sponsoring from April 30 to May 4. The Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity has no connection with Kappa Carnival.

Sponsors bring in art exhibitions

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A plan which will enable a small but important art museum in Southeast Florida to import six outstanding exhibitions of world famous art, was announced here.

The plan was developed by J. James Akston, who serves on the boards of museums in New York, Washington and Palm Beach. He is also a trustee of the Norton Gallery and School of Art in West Palm Beach.

He formed a group, the Palm Beach Sponsors Committee Inc., recruited from prominent local art patrons and collectors, businessmen and socialites. They are providing funds for a three-year program of exhibitions, to be capped by a giant sculpture show in 1976. Akston donated $100,000 through the Ziska and Joseph James Akston Foundation.

They are planning to raise an additional $400,000 through 44 more pledges of $10,000 each.

Court to hear police request to join in suit against city

A hearing on the Illinois Police Association's request to join in a declaratory judgment on a city ordinance transferring the functions of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners is scheduled for 11 a.m. Thursday in the Jackson County Circuit Court at Murphysboro.

The petition for a leave of inter­vention was filed in early March on behalf of the Association of the Carbondale Police Department and for all other officers affected by the city ordinance.

The petition asks that Mauricio and other affected police officers be allowed to join the former police board in contesting the ordinance's administrative functions to the city manager.

Mark Rabin, a Springfield attorney who filed the petition, said that if the petition is granted he will seek an injunction prohibiting the city's operation under the new ordinance if there has been a violation.

According to provisions of state law, a person must be a duly, properly appointed police officer to receive the benefits of the pension fund. Rabin said the association is asking whether Carbondale policemen are duly and properly appointed under the city ordinance.

The former board members contested the ordinance on the grounds that it was a change in the form of government and under state law, should have been passed by a referendum.

The former members filed for the declaratory judgment Feb. 14. They were dismissed by the council Feb. 18 for refusing to comply with the ordinance while its validity was being challenged.

TAKE TIME OUT TO READ THE DE CLASSIFIEDS

You're serious about photography.

So is the Canon F-1.

To you, photography is more than a hobby. You may never want to become a professional. Yet, your photography is as important a means of self-expression to you as your speech. You demand the same excellence in your photographic equipment as you do of your photographic skills.

The Canon F-1 is the camera that can fulfill any photographic task to which you put it. It can adapt to your ability in any situation.

Naturally, a great camera like the F-1 won't ensure great results. That's up to you. Yet—it's nice to know that your camera can grow with you as a photographer.

Part of the reason for this is the F-1 system. Since it was designed in totality, it offers total performance. There is nothing "added on" in the F-1 system. Everything works as it was designed to, and integrates superbly with everything else. You'll spend less time worrying about operating the camera than in shooting. And that's what creative photography is really all about.

Controls fall into place under each finger. There's no accident. Professionals who depend on a camera for their livelihood have a deep regard for the F-1's handling. It's amazing how much a comfortable camera can improve your work.

Sharing these lenses and many of these accessories are the new Electronic Canon EF, with fully automatic exposure control, the FTb, now improved with all exposure information visible in the finder, and the TLb, great for a second camera body or for getting started in Canon photography. Canon. For serious applications. For serious photographers.

Isn't it time you got serious?
Court backs zoning ordinance similar to contested city law

In a 7-1 decision, the U.S. Supreme Court Monday upheld a zoning ordinance similar to a Carbondale ordinance which was overturned last fall as being unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court case involved the constitutionality of a zoning ordinance of Belle Terre, N.Y., prohibiting occupancy of a home by more than two unrelated persons in an area zoned as one-family residential.

The ordinance did not limit the number of family members who could live in a house in the one-family zone.

The court held states could enforce such an ordinance in controlling land use.

The Carbondale zoning ordinance also prohibits more than two unrelated persons from living in the same structure in a single family zone.

The ordinance was upheld by Jackson County Associate Judge Robert Schwartz Jr. in October. The case involved four women who lived in a house on Crescent Drive.

Douglas Ingold, an attorney for the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation, defended the ordinance in a case with the U.S. Supreme Court. The ordinance was denied enforcement, and the women did not appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court before going to the Supreme Court, the Belle Terre ordinance was ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit.

Shelter renovation limiting space for boarding animals

The Jackson County Humane Society's remodeling of the main kennel building is limiting capacity for animals, said Eugenia Hunter, president of the society. Construction is scheduled to be completed by May. Ms. Hunter said she hoped area pet owners would help alleviate the problem of crowded space and the need to "put animals to sleep" by having their pets sexually neutered if they have no breeding value.

Alleviation does not change the disposition of a pet nor is it a dangerous operation. The operation is not expensive when compared to the cost of raising an unwanted litter, she said.

In addition, license fees are less expensive for sexually neutered pets. Fees are $7 for unaltered pets but only $4 for neutered animals.

More than 2800 dogs and 1200 cats were "put to sleep" at the humane society last year. Most of these animals were healthy but simply unwanted, Ms. Hunter said.

Pet owners may decrease the burden of the animal shelter by abiding by the animal control regulations and keep pets confined, she said.

Animals running loose are impounded and become a burden of the humane society.

When the number of owned animals increases at the shelter it leaves less room for unowned pets which could be adopted.

Neutering animals not only prevents animal suffering but also helps prevent a public nuisance and health problem, Ms. Hunter said.

Two-day session for consumers to be presented

A consumer's look at marketing will be held April 23 and 24 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in Pulliam 113. The two-day session is sponsored by Continuing Education for Women. The sessions are designed to educate consumers on the concepts of marketing and advertising.

Topics include a discussion of marketing and the environment around it, the psychology behind ads and research methods used to determine the market and potential users.

Donald Perry, William Dommermuth and Robert Dresv from the marketing department will speak at the sessions.

Police cite fewer burglaries reported over spring break

Burglaries over spring break fell off sharply compared to winter holidays and Carbondale police attribute the drop in part to crime stories and a property-watch form printed by the Daily Egyptian.

There were 18 spring break burglaries reported, compared to 44 over winter break, which is twice as long.

Greater public awareness of crime prevention possibilities and stepped up crime prevention patrols helped bring about the 40 percent reduction, police said.

"There were more plainclothes policemen and unmarked cars being used," said police Lt. Wayne Booker. "The burglars knew there would be a lot more places (being) watched."

Another factor cited by police was the department's program for watching houses, apartments or trailers when residents are vacationing.

Police have forms for residents who request the watch service, but have always had trouble getting them distributed said Booker.

The Daily Egyptian, said Booker, "performed a great public service" by printing the form and stories on crime prevention. "The public became aware that they could do something to help."

Before spring break, Carbondale police had received 67 requests for property watch service, said Booker. "This was more than had been filed before winter holidays, he said, though he didn't know how many."

The watch program is successful when residents use it, said Ron Trentanove, department supervisor of services. Since Carbondale police introduced the program, only one home that was under surveillance has been hit by burglars.

Of the 18 reported break-ins over spring break, 11 involved houses, apartments or trailers and 7 autos were hit. The winter's 44 cases included 36 autos and 18 dwelling burglaries.

The burglary count this spring was double the same period in 1973, when there were nine reported break-ins, said Trentanove.

He added that the small number of 1973 spring burglaries is not attributable to crime prevention work as much as it is to circumstances such as potential burglars being in the right state of mind to commit their crimes.

Sexuality Service plans programs

Dorm rap sessions

The Human Sexuality Service (HSS) will offer several programs aimed at providing information about birth control, menstrual extraction and abortion throughout spring quarter, Barry Dahl, HSS director, said Tuesday.

The programs will be located throughout campus to enable students easier access to the information, Ms. Dahl said. The programs will be coordinated by HSS graduate intern Jeannie Cochran who will also arrange referrals to HSS or other community agencies for students with private sexuality concerns who attend the programs.

Mrs. Cochran will be available to provide counseling about problem pregnancies, birth control, menstrual extraction and social health concerns from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. each Monday at the HSS office in the Minor Care Clinic, 308 E. Stover St.

Persons with questions about the programs can call HSS at 432-5101 or 453-5942 for more information.

Sexuality discussions and films open to students and staff will be held from noon to 2 p.m. each Tuesday in the Activity Rooms on the third floor of the Student Center.

Persons attending the noon meetings should bring a sack lunch.

Education books providing information concerning birth control.

Five mask prizes:

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Federation of Music Clubs has five additions to its Young Artist Awards.

The New York City Opera is offering an opportunity for one of the vocal winners. The New York City Opera Guild will give $2,000 to the winner of the opera contract.

Louis Sudler, president of the Chicago Symphony, who has given the orchestra award since 1957, will give this year’s award. The federation will increase the awards in this year, woman’s voice and man’s voice from $1,500 to $2,000.

Students wishing to sign up for the upcoming blood drive can do so by registering from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the Student Center.

The blood drive will be held on Monday and Tuesday at Trueblood, Grissell and Lentz Halls, and from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 10 on the campus of the School of Technical Careers.

It isn’t mandatory for a donor to pre-register before giving blood. Persons at least 18 years old and weigh at least 110 pounds may donate blood.

Petchul remains net ‘star’
despite weekend setback

After losing 67-44 to Iowa’s Steve Dickenson, Dan Petchul, the Salukis’ No. 1 singles player, arrayed up and announced, “Do you still want to interview me, or aren’t I the star any more?”

The sardonic Petchul has indeed been the top player so far for the SIU tennis team, despite last weekend’s loss.

Petchul, a sophomore from Lombard, was the No. 3 singles player last year, but through the Salukis’ first 12 matches of the year, he has taken over the No. 1 spot.

“Dan is not playing any different than he did a year ago,” said coach Dick LeFevre, “but he is making many fewer mistakes. Last year he would double—fault three to four times a match.”

Indeed, Petchul’s major weapon is his dynamic serve. When his server is not humungous, he’s in trouble. Witness last Saturday’s match against Dickenson. Fighting a stiff wind, which affected each man’s serve, Petchul held on in the first set only to lose a nine-point tiebreaker and the set. The loss put his individual record at 4-4.

Three of those victories came as a result of the Bulls’ setting up a nine-day trip through the South. Petchul defeated Bill Duton of Princeton, the Illinois state champion two years ago, who beat Petchul in the state tournament. Gymnasium Comajor of Florida State, member of the Canadian Davis Cup team who won four matches in the NCAA championships last year, and Bill Kopecky of Georgia, the No. 1 ranked player in the Southeastern Conference.

Petchul attended high school at Goshen High in Indiana. The Bulls played the De Pauls Valley Conference team Tuesday night.

Tuesday meeting set for volleyball

A men’s intramural volleyball team managers meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday in Lawson Hall 116 for any SIU student interested in entering an intramural volleyball team for spring competition.

All team members must be turned in by 5 p.m. this Monday. Play is scheduled to start Tuesday, April 23. For further information, contact the Office of Recreation and Intramurals in the SIU Arena, Room 208 or phone 453-2319.

Bulls, Pistons sing home court blues

CHICAGO (AP) — Each having disproved the home-court edge theory, the Chicago Bulls and Detroit Pistons mark time until Friday night before resuming their deadlocked National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal series.

The Bulls scored their first playoff victory on the road in 18 years Monday night, Visitors the Pistons 110-104 at Detroit, after losing this playoff opener, 97-84, at the Chicago Stadium Saturday.

“Man, this looks like it’s going to be a hot series,” commented Piston star Bob Lanier, who contributed 38 points Monday night after pacing Detroit’s Saturday triumph with 27.

Both coaches also expected the best of seven showdown to be a bumbling all the way.

“The rest of this thing is going to be a battle of wits. We’re going to be a battle of wits,” said Chicago’s Dick Motta. “I fully expect each team to win another one on the other’s home court. They’re that even matched.

The series now is certain to give Chicago two more home shots— Friday night and Tuesday, April 9 after game No. 4 Sunday at Detroit.

Beers win over WFL; sign first-rounddraftere

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears provided a bright spot on the closing National Football League season Tuesday by signing their No. 1 draft pick, covered linebacker Waymond Bryant of Tennessee State.

Bryant, a second-round pick by Washington-Baltimore of the aggressive new World Football League, signed a multi-year Bear contract at undisclosed terms.

The Bears thus made at least modest retaliation for the NFL in the wake of the jolting WFL capture of some 40 talent from the old, established league in the past few days.

The WFL’s Birmingham entry Tuesday signed quarterback Ken Stabler of Alabama and 23 other players while the Bears as the NFL still was reeling from the defection of Duluth’s Jim Kiner and Paul Warfield to the WFL’s Toronto franchise.

Bryant said the Washington-Baltimore Ambassadors were “reasonably close” to the Bear offer, but sensed a reported three-year, $75,000 bid by the WFL club was “not in the ball park.”

“I wouldn’t want to say whether the Washington-Baltimore offer was greater or less than the Bears, but we had doubts the WFL would get off the ground. The Chicago club is in business and I put a lot of emphasis on playing in the NFL,” he said.

Women’s softball to open on road

The SIU women’s varsity softball team has begun practice and will open their season on Saturday against Southeast Missouri State.

Both the A and B teams are scheduled to make the trip. Anyone interested in trying out for the team should contact Kay Brecherbauer at the Women’s Gym or call 453-2206.

Cycle club to hold time trial.

The SIU Cycling Club has scheduled a 20-kilometer, 12-mile, time trial for 8:30 a.m. Saturday at Lakeland School on the Giant Blacktop.

The time trial will be run rain or shine and will cover the distance from Lakeland School to the Lincolna Grassy road and back. The event will be run in the English Time Trial tradition of an out and back course.

Salukis capture windy doubleheader

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Thirty-five mile per hour gusts were not the only things that slowed the Lincoln College Tigers off Abe Martin Field Tuesday.

The wind's temperature of 78 degrees was a bit too cool for the Tigers' liking. Jim Bokelman had skipped the day of the doubleheader Tuesday. SIU won the first game, 7-1. (Staff photo by Dennis Makes.)

One-hitter

Scott Wattenmate fires toward the plate as he faces a batter from Lincoln College. Wattenmate pitched a one-hitter to breeze the Salukis past the Tigers, 11-0 and scored a home run of a doubleheader Tuesday. SIU won the first game, 7-1. (Staff photo by Dennis Makes.)

Defectors mount

Stabler signs contract with WFL

NEW YORK (AP)—The opportunity to play football in his native Alabama lured quarterback Ken Stabler away from the National Football League Oakland Raiders Tuesday in another major signing coup by the new World Football League.

Hot on the heels of the jump to Toronto by Miami's Larry Csonka, Jim Krick and Paul Warfield, Stabler agreed to a multi-year contract beginning with the 1976 season with the WFL's Birmingham Americans.

The contract makes him the highest-paid player in professional football history, according to one of his agents, but both Stabler and Bill Putnam, chairman of the board of the Americans, refused to discuss the terms at a news conference called here to announce the signing. Asked if it was more or less than the reported $2-million package the Miami three had received Sunday, Stabler would only grin and say, "more or less."

Instead of discussing money, Stabler preferred to emphasize his desire to return to Alabama. He was raised there and played his collegiate football at the University of Alabama, leading the Crimson Tide to an 11-0 record in his senior year before being drafted by the Raiders.

Stabler led all American Football Conference passers last season. He has been a free agent since his contract expired last year and has had a chance to a contract with the Los Angeles Rams. The Rams included a clause that he would play with them for one year and then become an unrestricted free agent.

"We didn't give Oakland a chance to match the offer," Stabler said. "They couldn't give me the opportunity to play in the South that Birmingham did." Stabler's reaction to the signing of Stabler, Raiders' top draft choice and general partner Al Davis, in Oakland, released a formal statement.

Meeting slated on coed softball

An organizational meeting for a coed softball league will be at 8 p.m. Thursday in Room 207 of the Women's Gym. The league is being sponsored by the women's and men's intramural offices. The league begins March 18 and will continue until April 12. In the first game, Lincoln scored its only run of the day in the first inning. Blaine Luettkenkemeyer ripped a single between SIU third baseman Bert Newman and the bag down the left field line. After Luettkenkemeyer took second on a sacrifice, he was out at third on Reyes' ground out to first base.

The Salukis scored their first run in the third when Reyes scored from second on Newman's single. Four runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth inning completed the shellacking.
