Some student workers to get rebates

By Sue Voyles
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

From the $22.8 billion tax cut bill President Ford signed Saturday, student workers and graduate assistants who paid more than $100 in federal taxes last year will receive at least a $100 1974 income tax rebate.

If a student worker paid less than $100 in taxes he will receive all of his money back. Persons who paid from $100 to $1,000 in taxes will receive a $100 refund. A ten per cent refund of up to $200 will be given to those who paid over $1,000 in taxes, according to an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) representative in Springfield.

The average SIU student work would have had to worked at least 32 weeks last year in order to collect a $100 tax rebate. Over 2,600 student workers averaged $2 per hour and 31.1 hours per two-week pay period from July 1 to Dec. 28, 1974, said James Hamilton, director of the Payroll Office.

In order to collect a $100 tax rebate, the average graduate assistant would have worked three months last year. There are 1200 graduate assistant employees who are paid from $350 to $400 per month on the faculty payroll at any given time, Hamilton said.

For 1974, SIU filled out a total of 6,276 W-2 forms for student employes, he said. Statistics for the number of student-work tax rebates have not yet been compiled, he added.

As yet, neither the branch IRS Office in Springfield nor SIU's Payroll Office has received tax rebate directives from the IRS in Washington.

Communist forces gain Vietnamese ground

By The Associated Press

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Virtually unopposed in their steamroller advance, Communist-led tanks and troops rumbled over the big coastal cities of Qui Nhon and Nha Trang on Tuesday, routed defenders from two more provinces within 100 miles of Saigon and sent hordes more refugees fleeing for their lives.

In Saigon, the only big city still in government hands, there were new calls for President Nguyen Van Thieu to quit. North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces now control 15 of the 44 provinces, or roughly two-thirds of South Vietnam's territory, and outnumber Saigon troops 2 to 1.

Nha Trang, 200 miles northeast of Saigon, and Qui Nhon, South Vietnam's third largest city about 100 miles farther north, fell without any real opposition when government officials and soldiers abandoned them. Before the collapse, each city had more than 200,000 residents.

At Nha Trang, the South Vietnamese commander was reported to have moved his headquarters offshore to a boat. Two hundred and forty miles to the south, a trawler with 70 persons aboard and hauling a barge with an estimated 200 refugees from Nha Trang reported losing its propeller and taking on water.

Hundreds of refugees and civilians mobbed the Nha Trang airport in efforts to get out of the city safely. There was hysteria at the Air Vietnam terminal where hundreds of people were waiting for flights that never came. The American captain of an evacuation plane hurled deserting soldiers to the ground and handed aboard women and children.

Shops and hotels were closed and shuttered, and the U.S. consulate evacuated its staff and burned its records.

The epidemic of fear and panic moved in advance of the North Vietnamese columns, and government officials were reported abandoning Phan Rang and Phan Thiet, within 100 miles east of Saigon, apparently conceding the two provincial capitals without a shot being fired.

The latest losses left the Saigon government in control of only about one-third of the country's land mass and only one of the four largest cities — Saigon itself.

In the capital, scores of persons were reported making plans to buy their way out of the country. Dollars were in demand, and the black market rate for piasters shot up from 800 to 1000 for $1. The official rate is 725 per dollar. Some Western airlines said their bookings out of Saigon had nearly doubled as the United States began airlifting in emergency war materials.

The State Department estimates there are about 6,000 Americans in South Vietnam. Half are government employes and contractors working for them, a quarter are businessmen, teachers, missionaries and other non-U.S. government personnel, and the rest are dependents.

In the latest call for Thieu's resignation, opposition Sen. Ton That Dinh said he had been joined by a handful of normally pro-government senators to call an extraordinary session of the 60-man Senate on Wednesday to discuss a motion forcing a change of government.

The ease with which the North Vietnamese have advanced frees more than a half dozen divisions to join eight other divisions poised for attacks in the lower half of South Vietnam with lead elements within 50 miles of Saigon.

At least six of South Vietnam's 32 divisions have been lost either through casualties, desertion or capture. All of South Vietnam's main force divisions now are concentrated in the Saigon area and the populous Mekong Delta to the south.

Hanoi radio reported it has established new administrative units at all levels in the captured provinces, and that "thousands of people turned by the South Vietnamese into refugees have returned to their native land."

About half of South Vietnam's 20 million population is now either living in Communist command zones, on the run as refugees or are living in contested zones.

Some military analysts see the Saigon government eventually pushed into a tight circle around the South Vietnamese capital, hard pressed to defend it and a handful of provinces to the north, east and south in the Mekong Delta.

These analysts say that as more land is lost and the debacle spreads, Thieu's political position is being increasingly weakened.

Gus

Bode

Gus says his rebate check will just about cover the proposed student fee increases.

Origin of 'give 'em hell' Gus explained

By Wes Smith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

He's been besmirched as sexist, tasteless, snide, cheap, chauvinistic and downright lewd.

He's brought about boycotts and brawls.

His foes have chucked raw chicken at his co-conspirators.

But, after 18 youthful years of nuance and innumerable innuendos, Gus Bode clings unflinchingly to his motto of "give 'em hell."

Gus, who once went under the monicker of "Dapper Gus the Campus Cuss," came to SIU by way of World War II, according to his early mentor, Charles Clayton.

Clayton, a professor emeritus in journalism at SIU, was adviser to the Daily Egyptian when Bode first came to campus in 1957. Clayton was like a father to the boisterous Bode.

"When I was acting as adviser to the Egyptian, I got the idea of attracting more readers to the editorial page by using a cartoon figure to comment on editorial matter," Clayton explained.

"I asked my students if there was a familiar figure on campus similar to the Kilroy of Kilroy was here." They said Gus Bode was the man I was looking for and that's how he came to the Egyptian.

"I started running Gus on the editorial page with the theory that he would attract readers. We used to run him two or three times an issue until the Egyptian became a daily paper," Clayton said.

"The surprising thing about old Gus is the number of people who've called in to complain about or ask for him. He's done some good and he's raised some issues in his time," the retired professor said.

"In 1960, then President Delyte Morris had a pet project to landscape the campus. There was a great deal of landscaping being done and it got so bad that they'd plant a tree one day and Gus's comments about chicks caused a lot of squawks, and he hasn't used that term lately—at least not in print.

come back two days later and move it somewhere else.

"Well," Clayton continued, "Gus came out and said it was getting so that he was afraid to stand still on campus anymore for fear that someone would plant him."

Clayton said Gus has often proved to be the most effective voice on campus, particularly where students are concerned.

"In the early days of Thompson Point there was a particularly rowdy crowd of freshman residents who were breaking furniture and tearing up the place.

"Gus commented that the University ought to provide tinker toys to keep the kids out of trouble," Clayton chuckled.

"Well, the freshmen got upset and called a meeting where they decided to boycott the Egyptian and start their own newspaper. But their paper lasted only one issue and the matter soon died out."

In more recent times comments from

Gus have continued to "bode" excitement on campus.

In May of 1972, eight women students descended upon the Egyptian newsroom with a live chicken in tow. They announced that they had come to protest "sexist" statements by one Gus Bode.

This was back in the days when "enlightened males" such as Gus hadn't been conditioned to pluck the word "chick" from their comments concerning females.

Along with referring to "chicks" in several daily comments Gus really let his chauvinism show by stating "If God had meant for women to be equal, he'd have made 'em men."

But, when the irate feminists came to his nest, Gus was nowhere to be found. They took out their wrath on Egyptian staffers by chucking raw chicken around the newsroom and demanding that Gus abandon his sexist ways.

Gus, ever the diplomat, has since ceased crowing on that particular matter.

While Gus has generally managed to be timely in his testimonials, many of his broadsides stand the test of time. For instance, when man first landed on the moon Gus questioned whether then President Nixon would have been able to make the phone connection with the astronauts had he relied on Carbondale service.

In earlier years Gus said, "If Eisenhower thinks it's hard to get a bill through Congress he should try to get an SIU parking sticker through Washington Square."

Other Gus-isms include:

"If the scooter Cossacks were as good sports as the goose hunters they would declare an occasional closed season on pedestrians." (1962)

"There is something wrong with a system that gives the good examination grades to the guy who is already passing the course." (1961)

"One good thing about attending a small college like SIU is that a student can be on a first name basis with the computer."

"Gus says he doesn't know why the Board of Trustees wouldn't pass the oil drilling proposal, they've been passing gas for years."

Clayton, who more than anyone knows Gus Bode, thinks the old boy has served his school well.

"He has served the purpose of arousing interest in the paper and many people still tell me he's the first thing they read.

"The only problem I see with him is that he's gotten a little too cynical over the years and lost some of his spontaneity and some of the humor," Clayton said.

But, whether Gus reflects the times, the situation or a state of mind, he'll continue to give 'em all the "Gus-to" he's got.

Like they say, you only go around once, Gus.

Late year recession recovery predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The recovery from the nation's deep recession now is sure to begin later this year, but the economy faces more difficult times ahead, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said Tuesday.

"There is nothing the government can do, or cannot do, to stop the economic recovery—it's on schedule," Simon said in an interview.

Simon said the recession probably will hit bottom in mid-year, with positive economic growth beginning in the fourth quarter.

Other key government economics experts agreed with Simon's assurances the recession is nearing its low point, but said the upturn could come even sooner than Simon is predicting.

James L. Pate, assistant commerce secretary for economic affairs, said "evidence I see" indicates the recession will reach its low point by mid-year.

"It could occur just a little bit earlier," Pate said in an interview.

Cambodian head leaves country

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Amid farewells, exploding shellfire and parting verbal shots from Russia and India, President Lon Nol departed Tuesday into virtual exile in an eleventh-hour effort to clear the way for talks with the Communist-backed Khmer Rouge.

Lon Nol flew first to Thailand for a brief meeting with Thai officials and then on to Indonesia, where he will spend 10 days relaxing on the lush tourist island of Bali. From there, Lon Nol, partly crippled from a 1971 stroke, is to fly to Hawaii for medical treatment, reliable sources say.

He was accompanied by Premier Long Boret, and some analysts said there was little chance either would ever return. Both men, along with former President Cheng Heng, who arrived in Paris on Tuesday, have been marked for death by the insurgents.

John Connally bribery trial begins

WASHINGTON (AP)—The case of "United States vs. John B. Connally" began Tuesday, the second time in American history that a former Cabinet officer has gone on trial for bribery.

The 58-year-old Connally, once regarded as a possible presidential contender by both the Democratic and Republican parties, sat stony-faced at the defense table as lawyers and judge began the meticulous task of choosing a jury.

Connally stands accused by the Watergate prosecution force of accepting two $5,000 bribes from Associated Milk Producers Inc. while he was former President Richard M. Nixon's secretary of the treasury.

The silver-haired Connally declined any comment as he entered the courthouse for a trial that is expected to last three weeks. If convicted on the two counts of accepting an illegal gratuity, Connally could be sentenced to a maximum four years in prison and be fined $20,000.

More fuel oil overcharges uncovered

WASHINGTON (AP)—Investigators have uncovered another half million dollars of overcharges for fuel oil sold to electric utilities, bringing the known total to more than $1.2 million in only four of the 200 cases under investigation, a federal official said Tuesday.

Investigators suspect a total of $19.7 million may have been overcharged on utility fuel.

While electric utility rates are regulated, the utilities may raise their rates to pass along increased fuel costs, so that fuel overcharges may turn up quickly as increases on the electric bills of homeowners, businessmen and industries.

John Carter, head of the utility fuel investigation for the Federal Energy Administration, revealed that two fuel suppliers have signed agreements to pay back overcharges.

In addition, Carter said FEA was still negotiating for repayment of $710,000 in alleged overcharges by one supplier of fuel oil to Georgia Power Co. in Atlanta.

Investigators expected repayment of about $11,000 in a fourth case which Carter would not identify.

Daley gets sixth term as Chicago mayor

By The Associated Press

Mayor Richard J. Daley easily brushed aside token challengers Tuesday to win re-election to an unprecedented sixth term as mayor of Chicago.

Meanwhile, a 29-year-old Wisconsin mayor once known as the "hippie alderman" sought re-election and there was a contest for mayor of Dallas.

Daley, 72, had 95 per cent of the vote in early returns.

He was shooting for a 75 per cent margin over Republican John Hoellen and Socialist Workers candidate Willie Mae Reid. The turnout was light.

In Madison, Wis., Mayor Paul Soglin, a political maverick seeking a second term, was challenged by former Mayor Harry Reynolds. Reynolds argued that city government had grown too big under the leadership of the onetime radical.

Mayor Wes Wise of Dallas was faced by John Schoellkopf and three minor candidates in a race that centered on

Doctor offers cure for high food cost

By Rita Roberts
Student Writer

Can a physician cure inflation?
Dr. Joe Billock of Marion advises those people who are finding it difficult to buy essential food items to reevaluate their grocery shopping lists.

Cigarettes, coffee, tea, snack foods, soda pop, candy, liquor and even unnecessary vitamins could be crossed off the list, according to Dr. Billock.

"I advise my patients to eat a wide variety of natural, unrefined foods," he says.

Dr. Billock believes that if people would eat mostly grains, fruits, nuts and vegetables, they would save money not only on the food bill but also on medical and dental bills. Bread and other simple foods are the most healthful and nourishing, he said.

If a person is concerned about getting the right amounts of nutrients in his diet, he will eat just enough to satisfy his hunger. Between meals, it would be more economical and certainly more healthful to drink a glass of water rather than to drink soda pop or coffee or even to eat a piece of fruit, he said.

A good mental attitude can also help to fight inflation, according to Dr. Billock. A cheerful disposition is healthy to the body, he said, and a healthy body means less money spent on medical care.

Joe Billock appears to practice what he preaches. Besides smiling a lot, he is careful about what he eats. For exercise, he and his wife Lynn work in a large garden on their 10 acre plot. The Billocks say they eat simply and grow almost all their own food. Lynn bakes their bread.

"I make just about everything we eat," she said. A day's menu at the Billocks' might include granola, fruit and toast for breakfast, and lentil rice loaf, creamed small potatoes, peas and carrots, alfalfa sprouts with lettuce as salad and home made bread for dinner, the Billocks' menu go.

The Billocks often go without supper, but if they do have something it is usually light food, like popcorn or fruit. They believe it is better to have the main meal at noon so that "the majority of our calories are consumed early in the day."

Inflation has had little adverse affect on the Billocks' budget. As a family of four, Joe, Lynn, and their children, Gregory (2) and Becky (10 months) spend approximately $70 per month for food.

Their small three-bedroom brick house and four-year-old Volkswagon station wagon and Toyota pickup truck, both purchased used, seem also to substantiate their belief in living simply.

Survey indicates price decline in country's March grocery costs

By The Associated Press

Grocery prices declined in most areas of the country during March, with decreases in the cost of everything from sugar to laundry detergent, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price on March 1, 1973 at a supermarket in each of 13 cities and has rechecked at the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that the marketbasket bill was down in every city except Albuquerque, N.M., and the average decrease was 3.2 per cent and the two increases were less than a per cent each for an over-all decline of 2.7 per cent.

The declines on the food shelves reflect lower prices being paid to farmers, but not all of the decrease at the farm level has been passed on to consumers. Middlemen — processors and retailers — say that other costs are eating up the savings.

Decreases in the cost of nonfood items generally reflect special sales that supermarkets use to draw customers into the store in hopes they will purchase nonsale items as well.

Supermarket managers — who usually do not set prices themselves, but follow directives from regional offices — said they had noticed the declines.

"The trend now is that more is going down than going up for a change," said a store manager in Albuquerque.

A look at the total number of items in the survey backed up the comment. For the first time since last June, decreases outnumbered increases.

Last June, 26.2 per cent of the items increased in price, 26.7 per cent decreased, 41.5 per cent were unchanged and the remainder were not available.

Sugar led the list of items declining in price. The cost of a five-pound sack of granulated sugar decreased in every city during March and in four cities was below the $2 level.

Laundry detergent declined in five cities, pork chops were down in six cities and eggs decreased in five cities.

Not all the news is good, however.

Chopped chuck, which had been declining recently because of abundant supplies of beef, increased in seven cities; there were scattered boosts in orange juice, cookies, butter and paper towels.

In addition, prices remain well above last year's levels, even with the March decline.

The marketbasket bill at the start of April was an average of 14.2 per cent higher than it was a year earlier and was 29.8 per cent more than it was when the AP started its survey.

The day of the week on which the AP check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available.

More candidates announce plans to run for student government

By Jon Kartman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Steven Sogar, a junior majoring in recreation, said Tuesday in announcing his candidacy for student president that student government should spend more time in communicating with the students.

Sogar will run on the United Students Through Communication party ticket in the April 16 student government elections.

Stephen Ashe, a senior in engineering will run for vice-president on the ticket.

"We feel that the positions of student president and vice-president are ones that act like a go-between," Sogar said. "It is their job to keep the student body informed and to direct complaints and questions to the proper authorities. So far, neither of these jobs have been done."

Sogar said the parking situation on campus needs "lots of work."

He said the allocation of parking spaces on campus should be divided more fairly and parking fines should be payable by mail like Carbondale parking fines.

"Limiting motor vehicles to juniors and seniors is unfair to the underclassmen in the dorms," Sogar said. "Underclassmen should be allowed to have motor vehicles on campus."

The parking rules now allow underclassmen to have a vehicle on campus if they are married, 21 or older, veterans with at least two years military service, commuting from parents home, disabled students or students needing a car to get to their place of employment.

The vice-presidential candidate, Stephen Ashe, said dorms should be given an area in which floors may hold parties. Areas he suggested include the basements of Grinnel and Trueblood halls and the lower floor of the dorms at Thompson Point.

Ashe also said that more and better bike racks should be installed on campus.

Sogar said, "Where ever the student president and vice-president go they project and represent this school and they should have a neat appearance.

They should be able to communicate with older people as most of the contact with the administration is with older people."

Sogar said a lot of the students don't know where student government is located.

"Both of us," he said, "don't even know who our student senators are."

Sogar said the purpose of their candidacy is to communicate with the students.

"The president and vice-president represent the whole student body," he said. "We will be open to comments and suggestions from any persons or groups."

Daley's former guards called in police spy probe

CHICAGO (AP)—Nine Chicago policemen including former bodyguards of Mayor Richard J. Daley and civil rights leader the Rev. Jesse Jackson were subpoenaed Tuesday to testify before a Cook County grand jury probing charges of illegal police spying.

The officers are ordered to appear April 16.

Among those subpoenaed by State's Atty. Bernard Carey were: Thomas Lyons, former commander of the police intelligence division and now deputy chief of patrol; John Townsend, former Daley bodyguard now deputy chief of the bureau of investigative services; and Lt. Joseph Grubisic of the intelligence division.

Also ordered to testify were Andrew Rodriguez, another Daley bodyguard; Clarence Travis, Jackson's former bodyguard; and three other policemen.

The grand jury is scheduled to hear testimony Wednesday from Deputy Supt. Mitchell Ware, Cmdr. Walter Murphy of the intelligence division and policemen Irwin Bock, Peter Schurla and Jerome Lattimer of the intelligence division. Bock, who last week refused to tell the grand jury what groups the department monitors, has been ordered to do so by Judge Richard Fitzgerald.

Deadline Friday for fee payments of spring grads

Students graduating at the end of spring semester must pay their graduation fees by 4 p.m. Friday at the Office of Admissions and Records.

Students graduating with a Bachelor's or Associates degree pay $6, students with a Master's or a Ph.D. pay $9. The money from these fees covers the cost of commencement exercises, cap and gown and other expenses.

To pay the fees, students must pick up the payment forms at the Office of Admissions and Records.

Litany of peace

If America owes anything to the people of Vietnam, it's to "feed and care for those whose lives have been ruined on both sides," according to New York Times columnist Anthony Lewis. No analysis could ring truer.

President Ford and his aides are on a tirade of accusation, charging Congress and the public for letting Cambodia and South Vietnam fall. As part of his campaign to inflict guilt upon the nation, Ford has claimed that more military aid would save Vietnam and prevent a bloodbath. Rather than asking for money for medical and food relief, our President has asked for money to buy more guns, bullets and tanks. To avoid a bloodbath?

When President Lyndon Johnson made the mistake of using Vietnam as a showcase for American military strength, he enforced what was to become the greatest travesty on good sense our generation has seen. By attempting to fight a political ideology with guns and B-52's, Johnson locked us into a struggle to "save the world from communism." Now, 10 years and more than 55,000 American deaths later—to say nothing of the numerous other repercussions suffered—we have clearly failed in our pretentious mission. With the imminent fall of Cambodia and Vietnam to the insurgent communists, peace might finally come after the inevitable confusion and hysteria of the new government subsides. What should be painfully clear is that more military aid will serve only to prolong the fighting, put more soldiers in the grave and continue to stir great and divisive controversy in this nation and throughout the world.

Lewis, in his latest column, accurately labeled the situation in Vietnam as the "collapse of a myth." It is "a case of reality destroying the illusion" that South Vietnam can survive and flourish as an independent, democratic state. The myth was perpetrated by the U.S. war hawks for years but reality has finally caught up with them and us.

If one believes in the "domino theory," the communists' rise to power in Southeast Asia represents a grave threat to the "free world." But in actuality, our meddling in the internal affairs of another nation, without regard for the people who live there, is the real threat.

Americans must reject the words of President Ford and Henry Kissinger that say our "failure" to aid our allies will show the world we are a nation without dignity and conscience. If we pour additional arms into that beleaguered area we will then be properly judged as lacking dignity and conscience. We have Congress to thank for its refusal to perpetuate the bloodbath any longer. The only regret is that it came so late, after so much strife and misery.

CBS and public gypped by Haldeman's huckster

By Gary Delsohn

To anyone who had the patience to watch CBS news' two, hour-long interviews with former President Nixon's chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, it should be "perfectly clear—" CBS and the public were gypped. CBS paid the former White House manipulator (who faces a possible eight year prison sentence for obstructing justice) $25,000 to illustrate that he is of the same mentality that he was prior to being convicted for his role in Watergate.

Haldeman, like his former boss, is an artful dodger, avoiding CBS's Mike Wallace's well targeted questions to the point where he managed to collect his fee and tell us nothing we didn't already know. And, to add insult to injury, Haldeman still claims the only things he was guilty of were "mistakes" in judgement echoing his old pal's sentiments exactly.

Among the revelations that came from Haldeman's huckstering were: that Nixon was thinking about dumping Spiro Agnew as vice president in favor of John B. Connally; that Nixon saw the press as "the enemy"; that Henry Kissinger was a temperamental man who threatened to quit almost as frequently as he boarded Air Force One; that John Mitchell, former Attorney General, quit because of pressure from his wife, Martha, rather than because of the pressure that was coming down on him from Watergate investigators and that Haldeman's biggest "mistake" was not recommending to Nixon that the infamous White House tapes be destroyed before they were made public. Haldeman said he suggested to Nixon that the tapes be preserved for their historical worth.

The American public was informed long ago of all these facts merely for the price of a newspaper or the time it took to watch the evening news. However, the fact that Haldeman said he recommended keeping the tapes, if he can be believed, is interesting though not enough to justify paying him for its disclosure.

Haldeman did not say that what was on the tapes; Nixon's telling him that "we" would "get" the Washington Post for what it said about the administration, or that Nixon wanted to use the IRS to get his "enemies", or that information should be kept from the FBI and the Senate Watergate Committee, was wrong. These things, in Haldeman's demented mind were merely "mistakes" in judgement, not crimes in an attempt to cover up a foolhardy burglary that nobody at the top was aware of. In fact, Haldeman said he regrets not having the smarts to tell Nixon to burn the tapes. If there was only one copy of the tapes (Dick Gregory claims that Nixon could not destroy the tapes because the CIA had a separate set) the destruction of them could have saved Richard Nixon's presidency. Needless to say, we should all be eternally thankful for Haldeman's density.

And he is dense. Make no mistake about that. He has little understanding of government and never claimed to. What he was, in his own estimation, was the person that best understood the inner workings of Richard M. Nixon. He was Nixon's hatchet man, the guy who carried out Nixon's orders and had the sense of understanding to not carry out some others. But Haldeman still claims to be innocent of any criminal acts.

Besides enforcing the idea of "checkbook journalism," (paying for news), CBS shed little new light on the questions that seem to be destined to go forever unanswered. What was Nixon's true participation in Watergate? Was this part of some master, devious plot by some agency or person to destroy Nixon's presidency? If what Gregory says is true there may be some substance to this query.

There have also been reports that Nixon will someday soon appear on television to discuss his years in the White House. Nixon's current hack, Rabbi Baruch Korff, is reported to have put the trial balloon before the networks and they refused the gracious offer. Korff is said to have asked for some $250,000 to aid Nixon's ailing financial situation. Having Nixon on television would surely add little understanding to the puzzle of unanswered questions still surrounding the greatest political scandal the nation has ever seen.

There is, however, an interesting possibility that would give all the Nixon men a chance to appear on the tube without jeopardizing their consciences. Reportedly the Micky Mouse hour is going to be rejuvenated. If the producers wanted a new cast...

SIU students are charged $22.50 each semester for a fee whose original purpose no longer exists.

The Student Welfare and Recreation Trust Fund fee (SWRF) was established in 1965 to fund the construction of recreation and student welfare facilities. But SWRF money is not funding construction of any facility anymore.

Instead, SWRF fees, totaling over $900,000 per year, are funding an expanded Health Service, intramural programs and future operational costs of the now under construction co-recreation building. This change came from two Board of Trustee actions.

The first action came in 1972 when the Board authorized SWRF to cover operational costs of the recreation building including utilities, maintenance and staff salaries.

T. Richard Mager, vice president for development and services, was legal counsel for the University "Students should wield the major campus influence over use of their fees."

This is one of the conclusions of the Hirschfeld Report which found that SIU students have had no control over the decisions relating to the SWRF fee.

"Although there has been student input, it has been the administration that has initiated many of the actions relating to this fund," the report stated.

The history of the SWRF fee verifies Hirschfeld's findings.

Construction of the recreation building with student fees was approved by 52 per cent of those participating in a 1964 referendum. Only 11 per cent of the student body took part in the referendum and the measure passed with a majority of 104 votes.

A proposed new health facility, including a 50-bed hospital, was passed by 66.5 per cent of those voting in the same referendum. The Health Service at that time was located in "cramped quarters in a house."

One year later the Board of Trustees authorized construction of an $8 million recreation complex and the Health Service moved into Small Group Housing where it operates a 12-bed infirmary.

The fee approved by the students in the referendum was not to exceed $12 per year but when the Board voted on the matter in Dec., 1964, the annual fee was under President David R. Derge when Mager presented this change for Board approval.

"We recognized at that time," he said, "that funds from the state would not be available to fund the operational costs of the building. Times change, policies change, so we have to change."

The second change, coming in 1974, sent $15 of the $22.50 to the Health Service while the remaining $7.50 went into a separate account covering operational costs and intramurals.

The $10 million needed to construct the recreation building has been put into government and bank securities to collect interest. No new money is going into that account.

Sam McVay, administrative director of the Health Service, said the reallocation amounted to over $600,000 the first year and provided enough funds to hire three doctors and expand services to include hospitalization and some "specialty care," including gynecology, psychiatry, orthopedics and radiology.

The $7.50 accounts for more than $300,000 per year. The Board allocated a maximum of $165,000 to fund intramural programs and other recreational activities to be housed in the recreation building.

The Board will decide whether to raise this amount to $185,000 at its April meeting. If passed, $115,000 would remain to cover the operational costs of the building.

William Bleyer, assistant dean of campus recreation and intramurals, said the exact costs are not known at this time but $115,000 will probably not be enough. In 1972 Rino Bianchi, director of Facilities Planning, estimated the figure to be $700,000.

Mager said there is a chance that the state will help fund the operational costs of the building. Dick Wagner, deputy director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, agreed with the vice president under the qualification that classes were held in the building.

"Noninstructional facilities are generally not supported," he said, "but we will take a good hard look at it if some instruction were held in the building."

Although no programming has been made for the building, Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, said he anticipates instructional use of at least part of the structure. The programming decisions will come through his office.

There are three students on the Recreation Facilities Planning Committee which had developed the plans for the structure. Opinions about student effectiveness in the committee is mixed among the student representatives.

Donna Capron and Barb Pinaire, senior recreation majors and roommates, share the opinion that they are influential in the committee.

"They (other members of the committee) are concerned about our opinions and want input," Capron said.

Alan Jacobson had a different opinion. "There are too many PE (Physical Education), teachers on the committee and I felt like I was just a token," he said. The reason the pool is Olympic size is the result of the Athletic Department influence, he added. Jacobson is resigning from the committee.

Rino Bianchi, director of Facilities Planning, said the committee has "gone out of its way" to get student input into the planning of the facility and the input it received has caused some problems.

"Students are transients and can't decide what they want," he said. "One year they want one thing and the next they want something else and as a result the plans have been changed many times. That's what happens when you have to work with students."

Famous violinist to give free concert

Josef Gingold

Josef Gingold, recitalist and violin teacher, will present a violin recital at 8 p.m., Friday in Shryock Auditorium. Gingold's appearance is being sponsored by the Visiting Artist Committee of the SIU School of Music.

A former member of the NBC Symphony under Arturo Toscanini and concertmaster of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra for 13 years, Gingold has recorded for Columbia and RCA records. For the past 15 years he has been teaching violin at Indiana University.

For the first half of his recital, Gingold will perform Vivaldi's "Ciaccona" and Walton's "Sonata." Following an intermission he will perform Wieniawski's "Scherzo-Tarantella, Opus 16," Prokofiev's and Gingold's "Aria," and two compositions by Kreisler, in honor of that composer's 100th birthday, "La Gitana" and "Liebeslied."

Gingold will be assisted on piano by Walter Robert, professor of piano at Indiana University. Admission to the recital is free, and the public is invited to attend.

Recognized as one of the world's best violin teachers, Gingold will also conduct a clinic for all SIU School of Music students and visiting high school students on Saturday morning.

Fined for 'Deep Throat'

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Joan P. Gailey, a 23-year-old resident of suburban Hillbrow, was fined $750 for being in possession of the film "Deep Throat."

Justice A. H. Erasmus, said the film, which is banned in South Africa, was "revoltingly indecent."

Mitchell Gallery to host fine arts thesis exhibits

The combined MFA thesis exhibits of Linda Mundwiler and James S. Fuller will be shown at Mitchell Gallery from April 4 to 10.

Mundwiler's exhibit consists of nine oil paintings and several drawings in graphite and oil. Mundwiler has been a teaching assistant at SIU for two years and has also taught an adult education class in oil painting for the Division of Continuing Education.

Fuller's most recent work takes the form of small, figurative metal sculptures. Also included in this exhibit are drawings and plastic sculptures.

Admission to the gallery, which is located in the Home Economics Building, is free and open to the public. Mitchell Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Physics films set for April

A series of filmed lectures by Nobel Prize-winner Richard Feynman will be presented each Thursday night throughout April by the SIU Physics Department. The films will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in Room B440 (fourth floor auditorium) of the Neckers Building's B Wing.

Feynman is a noted expert on theories of fundamental particles. The lectures were filmed live at Cornell University and are each one hour long. There is also a possibility for discussion periods to follow the films. Admission is free.

The film schedule is as follows: April 3, "Symmetry in Physical Laws"; April 10, "Distinction of Past and Future"; April 17, "Probability and Uncertainty: The Quantum Mechanics View"; and April 24, "Seeking New Laws."

Music student will perform piano recital

Robert Hale, School of Music student in piano, will present a recital at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium.

In the first half of his recital, Hale will perform Copland's "Piano Variations (1930)" and Mozart's "Sonata in B-Flat." After an intermission, he will play Chopin's "Ballade No. 4 in f minor, Opus 52," Liszt's "Sonetto del Petrarca No. 104" and Ravel's "Miroirs."

Admission to the recital is free and the public is invited to attend.

Are psychologists going to the dogs?

By C.G. McDaniel
AP Sciences Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—A trip to a psychologist may save a neurotic pet from a trip to the pound, say two Ohio State University psychologists.
They use the so-called behavior modification, a form of psychotherapy also used with people, to help pets overcome their behavior problems.
The psychologists, David S. Tuber and Dr. David Hothersall, opened a clinic in Columbus for this purpose as an extension of their laboratory study of animal behavior.
Now that psychologists know that techniques used with people also can be used to help phobic and neurotic cats and dogs, "maybe behavior therapy can save troublesome pets from a trip to the pound," they wrote in the April issue of Psychology Today.

"People usually are at their wits' ends when they bring their pets to us," they said.
"Sometimes they have borne burdens that most of us would consider unbearable," they said.
"Phobic human beings are difficult to live with, but phobic pets are impossible."
They describe the case of Higgins, a 110-pound English sheepdog, who had a phobia—an irrational fear—of thunderstorms and went berserk anytime one occurred.

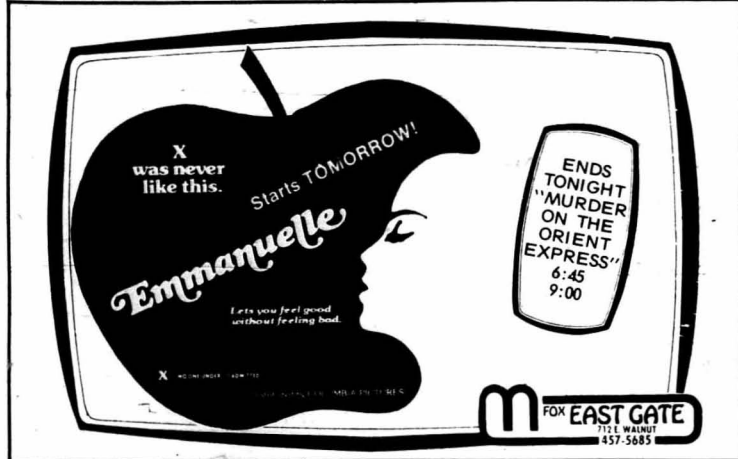

The psychologists aided him by playing a tape of a thunderstorm, quietly at first, then increasingly loudly, rewarding him with candy when he was able to maintain control.
While Tuber and Hothersall point out that Higgins probably will never enjoy thunderclaps, he no longer breaks up his owner's apartment when they happen.
The psychologists report another case in which they worked with a small terrier and a 3-year-old child, teaching the child to play gently with the pet and the pet not to nip at the child.
They recommend a surprise squirt with a water pistol to stop dogs and cats from clawing or chewing furniture, houseplants or clothing.

Hothersall said in a telephone interview that there are three or four clinics around the country which provide psychological treatment for pets. The Ohio psychologists treat dogs primarily but have seen a few cats and one monkey.
Hothersall said he and Tuber are successful in improving pets' behavior in 50 to 60 per cent of the cases.
Their practice has been limited to a maximum of about 20 new cases a month because of their other obligations.

Guru's mother accuses son of leading playboy existence

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The mother of Guru Maharaj Ji, the 17-year-old Indian religious leader now living in the United States with an American wife, renounced her son Tuesday and accused him of being a playboy instead of a holy man.

In a signed statement, his mother declared she was removing her son as spiritual leader of the Divine Light Mission and no longer recognized him as the "perfect master," as he is known to his followers.

Known as Shri Mataji, or holy mother, she said her son, "under the instigation of certain bad elements in the United States Divine Light Mission, has continuously disrespected my will by adopting a despicable, nonspiritual way of life."

Susan Butcher, a 30-year-old Canadian devotee of the Divine Light Movement, said the Guru's relatives in India were upset with the way Maharaj Ji was living in the United States.

"He has not been practicing what he has been preaching," said Miss Butcher, who became a devotee of the Guru when he visited Toronto in 1971. Speaking in behalf of the Guru's mother, Miss Butcher said, "He has always preached and recommended his devotees to live a life of vegetarianism, celibacy and abstaining from alcohol and all excessive forms of materialism. Now he himself is indulging and encouraging his devotees to eat meat to get married and have sexual relations and to drink. He's not living a spiritual life. He's being a playboy."

Miss Butcher said she thought many of the guru's devotees, which number eight million in India, would still remain faithful to the Divine Light teachings, although they would not recognize him as their leader.

The Divine Light Mission was founded in 1961 by the guru's father, who died in 1966. After his death, his widow proclaimed her youngest son to be the next head of the movement while she remained its patron.

The guru was last in India in June 1973 when he posted a $13,000 bond with Indian authorities. He had become embroiled in a customs case involving several hundred thousand dollars worth of jewelry, other valuables, foreign currency and travelers checks seized from disciples who traveled with him.

Outside funds for research nearly double

Training and research project funding from sources outside the University almost doubled from 1973 to 1974.

In fiscal year 1974, funding totaled $7.7 million: an increase of 42 percent over the $5.4 million in fiscal 1973, said Michael Dingsen, director of research at SIU.

In 1974 $6.2 million came from federal agencies, $1.1 million from state agencies and $377,000 from other sources. Grants increased from 206 to 222.

Approximately $4.2 million went to training grants, most of which went to the School of Technical Careers and the School of Medicine.

Organized research projects received $1.5 million, with $431,258 of that amount going to the College of Science.

Of $2 million earmarked for miscellaneous activities, Student Work and Financial Assistance received $1.6 million.

one-half-month graduate seminar being conducted this spring by a team of SIU Museum archaeologists and geologists.

They are using the new technology to study specimens of ceramics from the historic Mayan ruins of Palenque in southern Mexico, by analyzing and measuring chemical and mineral components in the clays from which the pottery was made.

"By analyzing the chemical and mineralogical compositions of the clays, we can indicate the location of specific clay resources used by a prehistoric people," said Anthropologist Robert L. Rands, seminar director and Mayan authority.

In addition to the binocular microscope the seminar students are learning to use a petrographic microscope, a flame photometer, an x-ray diffractor, and the fluorescent spectrometer.

The new techniques are especially useful in studying pottery from sites such as Palenque, where weathering and soil erosion have made traditional ceramic approaches difficult, Rands said.

"More and more archaeologists of the 20th century must move in the direction of using modern techniques of geology and chemistry to advance both their research and their teaching," Rands emphasized.

Carbondale crime increase double nationwide average

Figures released by Carbondale Chief of Police George Kennedy indicated that the crime rate increase in Carbondale is twice the national average.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said Monday that serious crime increased 17 per cent nationally in 1974.

During that same period, serious crimes increased by 33.2 per cent in Carbondale, according to figures given to the Daily Egyptian by Kennedy last month. Serious crimes include homicide, rape, robbery, assault and battery, burglary, theft over $150 and motor vehicle theft.

Kennedy said at that time that Carbondale crime statistics are misleading because the SIU and Carbondale departments keep separate records. Kennedy was not available for comment Tuesday.

FBI statistics reported by the Associated Press showed the sharpest increase in crime in 14 years, mostly among property crimes such as car theft and burglary.

"It's going to get worse," said Dr. Charles L. Newman, coordinator of Law Enforcement and Correctional Services at Pennsylvania State University.

"It's not going to be limited to property crimes either," he said in an interview. "Crimes against persons are going to go up, too."

In the last quarter of 1974, when unemployment was rapidly rising, serious crime went up 19 per cent.

Comparisons between high unemployment areas and local high crime rates are difficult because the FBI and Labor Department measure the country differently over differing time spans.

Nonetheless, from January 1974 to January 1975 Detroit crime went up by 17.9 per cent and unemployment from 7.9 per cent to 14.9 per cent.

In the Chicago area, where the jobless rate went from 3.6 to 7.9 per cent, crime rose by 13.3 per cent.

In Houston, where unemployment went from 3.7 per cent to 4.6 per cent, crime increased 10.5 per cent.

Dr. M. Harvey Brenner of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, who researches crime causes for the federal government, agreed that there is a direct connection between crime and a declining economy.

But he said among young blacks, who bear the highest unemployment rate, the motivation to commit crimes is one of status and not inability to feed themselves or their families.

Newmen said, however, the frustration is increasing among Americans of all races who no longer believe they have a chance to compete economically.

"It cuts across all races," he said. "There is nothing relieving the current feeling of utter frustration and inability of government to react."

Because of welfare and other social service programs, Brenner said only rarely is crime the result of economic desperation.

"It is people using crime to demonstrate to themselves or their peers that they are successful," he said.

Asked why much of the increased crime is occurring in the suburbs, Newman said for many criminals who live in the city "the target population where they live is rather small. The income and wealth are in the suburbs."

Newman also said metropolitan law enforcement has dramatically improved, sending criminals to the suburbs where they are less likely to be caught.

Violent crimes of forcible rape, murder, robbery and aggravated assault increased by 11 per cent, compared with five per cent in 1973.

Coeds aid police force at Kentucky university

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP)—The Rookies, an all-female group, is the newest law enforcement group on the Eastern Kentucky University campus.

Brainchild of an ex-airline stewardess now studying to become a police officer, it includes 10 coeds who help campus security officers in such jobs as directing traffic.

"It also has been suggested that we help security with locating stolen bicycles," Micki White, the founder and first president of the Rookies, said.

"We're hoping that the longer our organization continues, the more duties we'll be assigned—that we'll expand our activities," Ms. White said.

The university officially recognized the Rookies as a campus organization last spring, but the girls didn't get their uniforms and swing into action until this fall.

"We designed the uniforms ourselves and bought the material with dues we paid," Ms. White said. "Since we each made our own, I was afraid we'd have 10 different styles, but they all came out the same."

Ms. White, who prefers Ms. to Miss "for business purposes," said membership in the Rookies is limited to girls who are either majoring or minoring in law enforcement.

Although it's not a rule, Ms. White expects almost all members also will be serious about becoming policewomen after graduation.

"You know, there are some girls taking law enforcement courses just for the fun of it or out of curiosity, but they aren't likely to join because of the time and effort involved," she said.

The aim of the group is two-fold, faculty advisor Joque Soskis said—to let the girls get used to wearing a uniform and to let the public get used to seeing them in one.

"Police departments all across the nation don't differentiate anymore between male and female officers, and this experience gives the girls a chance to be looked at as police officers," Soskis said.

"It puts us on a face-to-face basis with the public on a minor scale," Ms. White said.

The Rookies don't have the power of arrest, but "there are campus security officers nearby wherever we are, and we can call them if an arrest needs to be made," Ms. White said.

They also have no intention of even getting into the business of writing parking tickets. "That will have to wait until we get out of school and on the job," Ms. White said.

Ms. White, a former Miss Cincinnati Airlines and a contestant in the Miss National Airlines competition, plans a career in either federal or state law enforcement.

She is currently arranging field trips for the Rookies to the state crime laboratory in Frankfort "and as many different police departments as possible so we can learn about their operations."

Since Eastern has the state's only law enforcement school, Ms. White is sure her organization is unique in Kentucky, "and maybe in the nation."

Gospel business group will hold convention

The Southern Illinois Regional Convention of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International will be held Wednesday through Saturday in the Student Center ballrooms.

The fellowship is an interdenominational, evangelistic organization dedicated to spreading the message of Christ throughout the world. The group began 20 years ago as a businessmen's group, but now it includes men from all occupations.

Morning, afternoon and evening sessions of the convention will be held in the ballrooms. Six guest speakers are scheduled including Father Duane Stenzel, a Catholic priest from Louisville, Ky.; Bill Basansky, faculty member of Oral Roberts University; and Steve Sampson, an ordained minister.

Other speakers will be Ray Mossholder, director of NOW, an evangelistic ministry in California; the Rev. and Mrs. Walter Standley, counseling and prophetic ministers from Kansas City; and Ben Swett, founder of the Bethel Christian School in Jamaica.

Walter L. Schewe, president of the Carbondale chapter of the regional convention. Registration forms and brochures can be obtained from the SIU Division of Continuing Education.

All sessions of the convention are open to the public.

Easter Seals donations help camp for handicapped people

By Danielle Slattery
Student Writer

Did you give a donation to Easter Seals this year? If you did, you may be interested in knowing where your money might have gone.

The SIU chapter of Alpha Phi Omega ran an Easter Seals campaign during March. This campus service fraternity collected over $600 from local citizens, and members said all of the money was donated to Camp Little Giant near Little Grassy Lake.

For almost twenty years Camp Little Giant has been a source of recreational programs for mentally and physically handicapped persons. The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults is one of several organizations which sponsor physically handicapped campers each year.

Camp Little Giant is part of SIU's Outdoor Laboratories. The Outdoor Laboratory staff is continually expanding its program which provides indoor and outdoor recreational and educational activities throughout the year to emotionally disturbed and mentally and physically handicapped people.

Centered in over 6,000 acres of woods surrounding Little Grassy Lake, Camp Little Giant helps campers learn to swim, or to utilize the camp's canoes, rowboats, powerboats, and dinghies. Specially trained horses are available to give the handicapped people experience in riding besides the hayrides and covered wagon rides.

As if swimming and riding are not enough, other activities are provided. These include overnight camping, hiking, nature study, environmental education, and many more experiences.

Several departments of SIU cooperate with the camp by organizing programs and supplying some staff and counselors. SIU helps the campers in areas such as recreation, rehabilitation, music, special education, speech pathology and audiology.

SIU workers with contracts withholdings set

Beginning July 1, contractual employees of SIU will have taxes withheld from their paychecks for the first time.

Payroll Director James Hamilton said that in the past, paychecks of contractual employees of the State were not subject to tax withholdings.

The move follows a recent $3.5 million lien made on the state of Illinois by the Internal Revenue Service for tax monies not withheld on contractual employees, he said.

The definition of contractual employee is somewhat vague, Hamilton said, but generally it means a person who is not an employee of the State.

Persons employed at jobs such as management consultants, portrait painters or others whose services the state does not control would not be considered state employees, according to the IRS.

Birth control clinic set

A birth control clinic will be conducted for women students from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday at the Health Service.

The clinic is for students who would like to be examined for prescription of birth control pills, Dr. Don Knapp, medical director of the Student Health Program, said. He said no appointment will be required for the clinic, and examinations will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

The clinic will be equipped to handle 50 to 60 students, Knapp said. A breast examination, pelvic examination, PAP smear and tests for gonorrhea will be included in the clinic. There will be a $3 charge for the PAP smear and no charge for the other tests, Knapp said.

Students report thefts following spring break

Three more students returning from spring break reported burglaries to Carbondale police Monday. Six burglaries to student residences have been reported to police since Sunday.

Between Friday and Monday, someone used an unknown tool to break the inside lock of Room 311, 820 W. Freeman St. and stole items valued at $545. James F. Martin reported an electric typewriter, a reel-to-reel tape player, two speakers and a watch were stolen from his apartment.

Pat and Carol Sims, Room 319, 820 W. Freeman St., told police that sometime between March 21 and Monday, someone entered their room and stole items valued at $325. A typewriter, a coat and a cassette tapeplayer were reported missing.

Student directory faces study

Volunteers are needed to serve on a committee being formed to study the feasibility of producing a student directory, Louis Martin, executive assistant to Student President Dennis Sullivan, said Tuesday.

Martin said the committee members would talk to representatives of various offices that are producing the directory.

"The purpose of the committee," Martin said, "is to talk about the directory to see if it can be produced."

Students who serve on the committee have to be in good academic and disciplinary standing, Martin said.

She said applications for the post are available in the Student Government offices, located on the third floor of the Student Center.

Employes slate council election

The election of employes to the Civil Service Employees Council will be held on April 16.

One representative from each of the following categories will serve a two year term: secretarial; custodial; professional; trade and occupations; and services.

The administration and general categories will each have two representatives. The candidate with the highest number of votes will serve two years, while the person who receives the second highest number of votes will serve a one-year term.

New committee to study possible WIDB move

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student radio station WIDB may relocate in the future. A committee will be formed to study the possibility of such a move.

Sam Rinella, University housing director, told a group meeting in the office of Bruce R. Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, on March 21 that the station should consider a relocation "sometime in the future."

Rinella said WIDB is expanding its facilities and will need additional room. He explained that the station needs a location that is accessible 24 hours per day with over-night parking spaces.

In a recent interview Rinella said, "They (WIDB) tell me their people must park. The staff must park, the advertisers must park and the students (living on East Campus) must park."

Rinella said his suggestion that the station be moved from its present location in Wright I "is not an edict, only a suggestion."

The March 21 meeting was attended by Joel Preston, former general manager of WIDB; Mike Hillstrom, recently-appointed general manager of the station; Clarence Dougherty, director of the Student Center; C. Thomas Busch, assistant to the vice president for student affairs; Rinella; and Swinburne.

"Sure we're growing and expanding," Preston said. "I think we agree with Sam (Rinella) quite a bit."

"I think WIDB's concern is where do we want to go," Preston continued, adding that the station would like to "trade up rather than trade down."

The group agreed to form the committee, chaired by Hillstrom, to study alternative locations. It will include Busch, Rinella, Dougherty, Rino Bianchi, director of facilities planning, and several students.

Course open for supervisors

Openings are still available in the supervisory leadership course to be offered by the Office of Training and Development beginning April 8 and 9.

Any SIU faculty or staff supervisor may enroll in either a morning or afternoon class which will meet once a week for eight weeks.

The course, which is free, offers instruction in management techniques. Sample topics include the nature of leadership, handling complaints and grievances, and effective discipline.

Interested persons may enroll at the Office of Training and Development, 805 S. Oakland.

Rising veteran benefits aid enrollment

Enrollment of veterans at SIU is up slightly from last fall. The VA office on campus said the increase is partly due to the increased amount of benefits. A single veteran attending full time who received $220 last semester will now receive $270.

Veterans throughout the nation are turning to their GI benefits in record numbers, according to the VA office in Washington.

Part of the reason, say VA officials, is the 22.7 per cent increase in education allowances. Officials also cited the present economic conditions as another reason.

In February, the number of veterans enrolling for their first semester under the GI Bill was the highest new spring enrollment in the history of the current program and 24 per cent above last spring. Total veteran enrollment in February was 1.6 million, up 11.5 per cent from the November figure of 1.45 million.

Up by the highest margin was junior college enrollment, increased by 24.6 per cent over November. Junior colleges, with their low tuition rates, leave the bulk of the education allowances for subsistence.

Enrollments in programs in which VA pays only tuition, correspondence and flight training, were down.

More than 57 per cent of all eligible veterans have used their GI Bill benefits for some form of training since 1966. Vietnam-era veterans have surpassed World War II veterans in total numbers using benefits for college. Only 28 per cent of the WW II veteran studied at a college level compare to 56 per cent of the Vietnam-era veterans.

The monthly payments to a single veteran in full time school training is now $270 per month. A veteran with one dependent will get $321 and those with two or more will receive $366 plus $22 per month for each additional dependent over two.

Payments have been increased four times since 1966 when rates were set at $100 per month for a single veteran. The present $270 per month is paid without regard to earnings and the student must pay his own tuition and books.

Daytona Beach—it's a city not particularly well known in this part of the country, except for the thousands of college kids that travel to the sunny ocean side paradise every spring vacation.

However, this reporter was fortunate enough to spend Easter break in Daytona and witness a game that is as popular in Florida as college basketball is in the rest of the United States.

Jai-alai (hi-lie) is "the" sport in the Daytona area, as well as the rest of the southern part of Florida. It is a most unusual sport that the northern part of the country does not get to see very often.

Nine frontons (arenas where jai-alai is played) are spread throughout Florida. The sport has recently spread to Las Vegas and New England.

The 500-year-old sport was first played in the United States at the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis. Jai-alai actually got its start among the Basque people in the Pyrenees mountains which divide France and Spain. The game was played mostly by the peasant people on Sundays, a time for "happy fiestas," from which the name Jai-alai (happy fiestas) was derived.

Daytona's jai-alai is played in a brand new 5,000 seat fronton, which includes a restaurant, cocktail lounges, bars, closed circuit TV's covering the action and betting windows.

The latter is what makes the sport so popular—the millions of dollars that are spent betting on favorite players. The betting is handled much like that at a horse racing track, with men being the meet bet on instead of horses.

Jai-alai is played with a lot of the same basic rules as handball, with the pelota (jai-alai player) having a few advantages. First of all, he has only three walls to use—front, side and back walls. The pelota also uses a cesta, or a long narrow basket made of reed, to catch the ball, which is two-thirds the size of a baseball and twice as hard.

The pelota always wears the cesta on his right hand which is strapped in a glove.

The object of "the world's fastest game," is to serve the ball of the front cement wall and get the ball by the opponent. A point is scored if the opponent can not reach the ball or if it bounces on the floor twice before he gets a chance to return it.

A native American playing jai-alai is as rare as a fronton in the United States outside of Florida. Most players are Mexican, Spanish and Basque.

Although the sport looks easy, persons have been killed by the cranking blow of the speeding ball, and relatively few good players are groomed throughout the world. Daytona contracts its players for the entire season, which stretches from the end of March to the beginning of September, and each player receives bonuses, depending on what place he finishes in at the end of a night's competition. There are 12 games played in one night of competition, which includes 11 doubles matches and one singles match.

In order to stock its league with high class players, Daytona runs three schools for the development of young players. It runs two schools in Spain and one in Mexico for youngsters ranging in age from 12 to 16.

The game is indeed fast, and it takes quick reflexes to catch and throw the tiny ball with a narrow basket, but it's doubtful whether it takes as much courage to play jai-alai as it does to face a fastball thrown by a major league pitcher. And it doesn't take as much stamina to play the ancient sport as it does to play college or professional basketball.

Nevertheless, jai-alai is an exciting and intriguing game. If northern states were to legalize the gambling portion of the sport, it would undoubtedly catch on very quickly in this part of the country.

Final examination schedule

Note that 2 credit hour courses have their examination scheduled during the formal examination week instead of the last class period as done prior to this year. The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Some questions might develop for which answers can be provided at this time.

1. Classes that meet longer than one hour on Tuesday and Thursday, such as four credit hour classes, should use the examination period established for the earlier of the hours. For example, a class meeting from 1:00 to 2:50 on Tuesday and Thursday would hold its examination at 12:50 p.m. Tuesday, May 13. This applies also to non-lecture type courses such as laboratory or seminar type courses. Classes that meet for one of the 75 minute periods on Tuesday-Thursday are assigned a specific examination period. For example, 9:35 to 10:50 Tuesday-Thursday classes have their examination at 7:50 a.m. Wednesday, May 14.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

The following points are also pertinent relative to the final examination schedule:

1. A student who finds he has more than three examinations on one day may petition, and a student who has two examinations scheduled at one time should petition his academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that a student may decide to miss his scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for a student whose petition has been approved by his dean.

2. A student who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given a student who misses a final examination and is not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

Thompson tops all-star voting

Results of the balloting for the annual Pizza Hut Basketball Classic have been released and, as expected, Player of the Year David Thompson of North Carolina State, was the No. 1 player in the balloting.

Thompson's teammates on the East team for the classic will be George Sorrell of Middle Tennessee; Steve Green, Indiana; Monte Towe, N.C. State; Rick Whitlow, Illinois State; Glenn Hansen, Louisiana State; Kevin Grevey, Kentucky, and John Garrett, Purdue.

Earlier in the season, SIU's Joe C. Meriweather had been making a run at the first eight men, but ended up with 146,794 votes, good only for 22nd place in the balloting.

The top man in the West is All-American David Meyers of UCLA. The West and East will match talents April 15 at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

Gymnasts not ready to give up season

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

The possibilities have diminished greatly.

However, it's still one meet too early for the Saluki gymnasts to call it a season—one NCAA national championship meet too early.

Struck down by the broken arm which befell senior star Jim Ivceik last week, the Salukis are now represented by just three men in the individual competition and apparently are out of the race for the national title. "It will be a battle among us, Arizona State, Nebraska and Michigan for fifth," SIU head coach Bill Meade forecast Tuesday, concerning the eight-team meet.

"Arizona State scored 408 in qualifying, Nebraska 413 and Michigan 417.

"It's hard for me to believe that Michigan is quite that good," he added. "Last year, they came in with the best score and finished seventh."

Regardless, the Salukis could probably nail down fifth if they can attain the 418-point goal Meade reset after Ivceik's injury.

However, that will be difficult without the team leader, who was favored in the all-around competition.

Taking Ivceik's place in all-around competition will be senior Glen Tidwell, joining sophomores Jon Hallberg and Kim Wall. The pressure will fall on Hallberg to pick up some of the slack.

"He'll be the big factor in how well we'll do," Meade said. "He has to take the responsibility as the top scorer of our all-around men.

"There may be a chance he could qualify for the individual all-around competition," the Saluki mentor added. "He was fourth in the qualifying meet, and Ivceik was one of the three to qualify for the nationals. We won't know if the rules committee will allow it until we get there."

Unless Hallberg is allowed that exception, just Tidwell and seniors Jack Laurie and Ed Hembd will be eligible for individual titles.

Tidwell led Long Beach State's Yoichi Tomita as the top scoring qualifiers in the parallel bars, with a three-efforts total of 18.70. After them, the best was 18.350.

Laurie stood fourth in still rings scoring with 18.850. Ahead of him were Nebraska's Pete Studenski, Iowa State's Doug Wood and defending champion Keith Heaver, also of Iowa State.

Hembd has much more ground to make up in pommel horse competition. His qualifying total of about 18.1 was far behind defending champion Ted Marcy of Stanford, who accumulated 19.275.

The revised Saluki lineup for the meet will read: floor exercise,

In all, about 250 individuals will be competing, with the top eight finalists concluding the meet at 7:30 Saturday night. The top three teams will finish their battling Saturday afternoon.

The Salukis will compete at 4 p.m.

both Thursday and Friday with California and the top two Division II qualifiers. Indiana State, Arizona State and Iowa State will open the meet Thursday at 1 p.m.

"I'm leaning a little bit toward Indiana State as the favorite right now," Meade said. "They've faced good competition all year, their compulsories are in pretty good shape, and being at home has to be a little bit of a factor.

"LSU has the top qualifying score of 431.85, but it's hard for me to believe they're quite that good," he said. "Even though they beat Indiana State in a dual meet at Terre Haute, I've got to believe Roger (Council, Indiana State coach) has a tougher team.

"Then Iowa State, who scored 425-plus, and California, who scored 422-plus, should battle it out for third."

Golf team off to slow start

Early season blues plagued the SIU golf team this past week, as it tried to work the winter kinks out of its game.

Lynn Holder's group's first stop on the spring tour was at the University of Kentucky at Lexington. Winter-like weather limited the 14-team field to only 18 holes of golf, as Kentucky claimed first place, with the Salukis finishing back in the pack in 11th. Jerry Tucker was low man for SIU, firing a 78. Two strokes behind Tucker was Larry Giacone with an 80. Jim Brown and Bob Tierney followed with 82's, and Mark Durham carded an 83.

The five Salukis could do no better when they traveled to Eastern Kentucky State University at Richmond. In a field of 19, SIU finished 13th, with individual scores higher than the previous outing.

Once again, Tucher was low man, but holed out with an 80. Brown put together an 81, which was one stroke better than Durham's 82 and two strokes better than Tierney's 83. Giacone scored an 84.

Herrman Traded

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Tuesday traded catcher Ed Herrmann to the New York Yankees for four minor league players and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Herrmann, 28, caught more than 100 games for the White Sox in each of the past four seasons, and last year batted .259 with 10 home runs and 39 runs batted in.

The White Sox acquired lefthanded pitcher Fred Aneski, outfielder-first baseman John Narron, outfielder Ken Bennett and catcher Jerry Quinn.

Herrmann was involved in a contract dispute this spring with the White Sox, who eventually invoked the renewal clause to bring him into camp.

Gabe Paul, president of the Yankees, said Herrmann was obtained to give the club lefthanded hitting strength and will back up catchers Thurman Munson and Rick Dempsey.

Herrmann was especially adept at catching knuckle ball ace Wilbur Wood.

Thornton hurt

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs announced Tuesday that Andy Thornton, their regular first baseman, has been placed on the 21-day disabled list and will be sidelined for four to six weeks with a fractured right wrist.

Thornton, who batted .261 in 105 games with the Cubs last season, suffered the injury in an exhibition game at Tucson on Monday when he was hit by a pitch thrown by Cleveland's Tom Buskey.

Manager Jim Marshall, stunned by the news, said he didn't know who would replace Thornton, but there were indications that Peter Lacombe and Tim Hosley will be platooned at the position until Thornton's return.

"If the warm weather continues, I think our scores will be impressive," Holder predicted. "This time out, the scores weren't too good."

The Salukis now have a couple of days to sharpen their game before they head down to Cookesville, Ky., for the Mid-South Classic, April 3-5.

Salukis shutout Winona State twice

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

Turnabout is fair play, they say. Hopefully so, because Tuesday's 2-0, 8-0 baseball doubleheader sweep over Winona (Minn.) State at Abe Martin Field represented just that.

After winning just three of 10 games against talented and more experienced clubs in last week's Western road trip, the Salukis used the same advantages to dip the mismatched Warriors twice.

Playing just their third and fourth contests of the year, the Warriors managed just nine baserunners in going scoreless over 14 innings against the still inexperienced SIU pitching.

"I didn't think that Ron Hodges was overly effective, but just consistent," Saluki head coach Itchy Jones admitted after the senior righthander threw a four-hitter in the opener. "I thought that, overall, we played well in the two games, not making any errors."

Indeed, the defense was flawless, although it was hardly tested enough to work up a sweat in the daylong sunshine. Hodges allowed just four baserunners—all on singles—in the opener, and Jim Adkins and Bob Leja scattered five singles without walking a batter in the nightcap.

In both battles, the only Warrior threats arose in the final inning, when they put together two singles each time.

A fielder's choice and a mighty questionable double play call helped Leja complete the second shutout for the win, after Adkins had worked the opening two innings.

Adkins was removed after a light workout, because the Saluki offense had worked over Warrior starter Craig Miller for six runs in the first inning and added two more against Dave Anderson in the second.

Bert Newman opened the first frame with a walk and stole second before Howie Mitchell walked. Newman advanced to third on Steve Shartzter's fly to right and, after Mitchell stole second, catcher Frank Hunsaker lined a two-run single over the shortstop's head.

Phil Klimus walked and pulled a double steal with designated runner Jim Reeves, before John Hoscheidt snacked a long two-run double to center.

Hoscheidt scored when shortstop Dick Sauer threw wildly into the third-base dugout trying to nail him at third on a groundball, and that batter, George Vukovich, scored on Jim Locascio's two-bagger to left center.

In the second inning, Klimus and Vukovich drove in the runs after Mitchell and Hunsaker drew walks. From then on, it was scoreless on both sides.

"We still are not getting enough RBI's beyond the fourth man," Jones remarked. "Hoscheidt, Locascio and Vukovich left too many men on again after that first inning, and you can't win doing that against good competition."

In the first game, the Salukis left just four on, mainly because they managed just three hits. That was enough to win on, though, thanks to a key mental error by the Warriors.

Mitchell walked to start the decisive two-run sixth and tried to steal second. Catcher Jeff Radke's throw might have been in time—but the shortstop wasn't—and the ball sailed into centerfield while Mitchell raced to third.

He held there while Shartzter bounced out to third, but Hunsaker's grounder to second was slow enough that Ron Lench had no play at the plate, even though he was playing in.

Vukovich then "un-cheapened" the victory, blasting a shot well over the right centerfield wall to the right of the 365-foot sign.

Hodges came within one out of facing the minimum number of batters, but gave up a pair of two-out singles in the seventh before throwing a third strike curve past Jeff Fleck.

Jeff Youngbauer and Mike Huetl had opened the first two innings with base hits, but both were rubbed out in double plays.

Hodges fanned six and walked none for his second win in three decisions. Leja picked up the only strikeout in the second game while earning his first decision.

Wednesday the Salukis face Arkansas State in a double-header at Jonesboro, Ark., starting at 1 p.m., and two days later they travel to Miami of Ohio.

"Tim Verpaele and probably Jim Kessler will start the two games against Arkansas State," Jones said. "We'll probably use Adkins some as a short reliever, which is why we took him out today."

Sutton Death

Here's the kiss of Death, unless...

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

If you're looking to buy World Series tickets early, skip Cincinnati, St. Louis, Baltimore and Oakland.

They're about to receive the kiss of Death.

Yes, it's my prediction that come October, the other 20 clubs will be home raking leaves and watching the World Series on television, just like me.

And how do I arrive at this deduction? In just that way—deduction.

First is the National League West—first simply because Cincinnati is there. After Los Angeles, it's hardly a major league division in some aspects.

Deduct San Diego because the Padres are still a year away from vacating the cellar. Atlanta might disappoint Chief What's-His-Name and the other couple of thousand Brave fans by beating out the Padres for the last spot, but it's doubtful.

The Braves' lack of hitting should outlast the Giants' lack of pitching in the drive for fifth, leaving San Francisco in fourth despite Horace Stoneham's futile attempts to destroy the team through trades.

Houston should finish third well behind and ahead of its closest rivals, while shaking off the symptoms of Don Wilson's death. Besides the psychological aspect, it leaves the team with the physical aspect of no pitching to match the Dodgers, whose sore-armed hurlers likewise will keep them from keeping up with the Red Machine.

In the East, Montreal has more new faces than a Little League team—and just about the same in talent—which should allow the Cubs to escape the basement. The Mets' on-again, off-again pitching should boost them into fourth, considering the Cubs' off-again, off-again hurlers.

The Pirates could be back with their awesome hitting attack, but, as the saying goes and past outcome shows, it takes strength up the middle to win. Frank Taveras, Mario Mendoza and Willie Randolph have yet to fall into that category.

That leaves Philadelphia and St. Louis to fight it out, and the Phils just have too many holes to match the Redbirds. Tug McGraw's injury puts St. Louis in the driver's seat.

In the American League, it's much the same situation of two teams battling it out. It's New York vs. Baltimore and Texas vs. Oakland, and the old hats will win out.

The East basement definitely belongs to Detroit, which finally opened itself to a little dealing. However, Nate Colbert will find he has gone from bad to worse in leaving San Diego for Tiger Stadium.

The Brewers will not make Milwaukee famous, as they settle for a fifth. Cleveland will just miss out on the first division to Boston, though Carlton Fisk's injury will be one too many holes in the Sox for them to make a run at the flag.

The Yankees, ballyhooed though they are, need a second straight good year from too many former nobodies. Baltimore, meanwhile, improved vastly with the additions of Lee May, Ken Singleton and Mike Torrez and should be the class of the American League.

Oakland and Texas will dispute that. Minnesota, California, Chicago and Kansas City will not.

The Twins lack strength everywhere—at least the strengths needed to overcome Calvin Griffith. California has superb pitching, but a lineup that could make an angel commit suicide.

Chicago has possibilities all over the place, but probabilities will reign, and Dick Allen's departure left a big gap as far as actual talent. Kansas City, therefore, should have third nailed down and might surprise people with a run at the title.

Not likely, though. Texas is on the move, as well as being the sentimental pick to win the West, but just lacks the defense of an Oakland to win it. The A's, despite springing leaks, can expect a banner year from Billy Williams, despite his age, and the rest of the lineup is much better than it showed a year ago.

So, it will be Cincinnati, St. Louis, Baltimore and Oakland, then Cincinnati and Baltimore, then Cincinnati.

With one hitch. If Dick Allen decides to play somewhere, use this paper when you paint the living room.
