Carter withholds new action pending transfer of hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, newly hopeful that American hostages would be transferred from the control of Iranian militants to that of the Iranian government, deferred taking fresh punitive actions Tuesday against Iran. Carter acknowledged he had no guarantee that Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr would deliver on his promise to place the 50 captives under Iranian government control if certain conditions were met, but he appeared optimistic nevertheless. In briefing reporters on the developments, Carter made no mention of Bani-Sadr's conditions—that the United States not initiate propaganda or provocation against Iran. Meanwhile, House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill quoted Secretary of State Cyrus Vance as saying the hostages would be transferred from the control of the militant captors "immediately."

Absence disappoints students

Job, vacation keep Horton from class

By Jaquell Kosczuk
Staff Writer

Professor Frank Horton probably won't make it to his urban geography class Wednesday night. But that will not come as much of a surprise to most of the 18 students in the class who know that Horton, who is also vice president for academic affairs and research, shows up only about half the time anyway.

Horton, an urban planning specialist, was scheduled for the spring semester to teach the two-credit-hour class, Urban Geography 421, which meets on Wednesdays 7-9 p.m. If he misses Wednesday's class—because of what he termed an "out-of-town" appointment—Horton will have missed five sessions out of 11, a source of disappointment to some students who say they had hoped to learn from Horton's experience in the field.

Horton said Monday he did not attend last week's class because he was skiing in Colorado, adding that "it was the first vacation I've taken since last August."

Of the other three absences, Horton said he missed one class because of a dinner engagement with visiting deans from Egypt, and another because he attended a meeting of the American Association of College Education Teachers in Texas. He said he also missed class the day of the mid-term exam because he was preparing for the Board of Trustees meeting held the following day.

Geography Department Chairman David Sharpe said he was not aware of Horton's absences, but that he "assumed" Horton was busy with his vice-presidential duties.

During two of the sessions Horton did not attend, students were told to use the class time for homework.

"I gave them the time to prepare an outline for a paper they must go for the course," Horton said. The coursework consists of two exams, outside readings, and the term paper, he said.

Horton's graduate assistant, Michael Steuer, lectured during two other sessions, even though Steuer admittedly does not have a strong background in urban geography.

"I'm not an urban planner. I've had some courses in urban geography but that's not my specialty," Steuer, a doctoral candidate in behavioral geography, said. "I think it would be better for the students if Horton taught because he is well-known... he's an expert in the field."

Horton said he allowed Steuer to take over because Steuer had prepared lecture outlines that "looked as if they were proper."

Of the seven students contacted by telephone Tuesday, six said they were disappointed by Horton's attendance record.

"I feel a little cheated," said one student who asked not to be identified. "He's supposed to be one of the top guys in the field. I figured I would really learn something. Steuer is a good TA, but he told us himself that urban geography is not his main field."

One student said he felt "it's a very good gesture for a higher level administrator to teach, but if it's just a gesture, it's not doing anyone any good."

Another said, "I'm not real enthusiastic about going to class knowing Horton's not going to be there. It's hard pressing there to end a Kennedy comeback fashioned a week ago in the Northeast.

Network television projections showed Reagan the GOP victor in Wisconsin.

Rep. John Anderson and former U.N. Ambassador George Bush trailed badly in Kansas, but they mounted a determined challenge to Reagan in Wisconsin in a race that apparently drew a heavy crossover of Democratic voters.

The crossover Democratic voters with which Anderson sought to buy his Wisconsin count were not available to him in Kansas, which kept voters in their own parties.

While Carter and Kennedy competed for position and delegates, Brown was battling in Wisconsin to keep his campaign alive. He needed 20 percent of the vote to avoid losing federal campaign subsidies, and he wasn't getting it in early returns.

The Wisconsin vote stood this way, with 10 percent of the precincts counted:

Democrats

Carter 43,314 or 54 percent, for 47 presidential nominating votes.

Kennedy 24,774 or 31 percent, for 27 delegates.

Brown 10,337 or 13 percent. He led for his first delegate of the campaign.

There were scattered votes for two minor candidates and the uncommitted column.

Republicans

Reagan 36,302 or 37 percent for 25 delegates.

Bush 31,927 or 32 percent for 6 delegates.

Anderson 29,851 or 30 percent for 3 delegates.

The balance was scattered.

Air conditioning delay at Triads prompts council to consult lawyer

By Leanne Waxman
Staff Writer

The Triad House Council, representing Allen, Wright, and Boomer residence halls on East Campus, is consulting a Carbondale attorney to investigate the possibility of recovering $50,000 in rent payments for residents there.

House Council representative Ron Hearst said Tuesday that legal action against the University is in order because Triad residents have been paying for air conditioning that University Housing officials said would be installed by April 1.

Installation of air conditioning at the Triads will not be completed until this summer. The total cost of air conditioning installation at Thompson Point, Southern Hills and the Triads is $8.8 million.

Hearst said University Housing Director Sam Rinella told the council that residents would not receive the council's requested refund of $96 per person from housing payments that the 990 Triads residents began paying last semester.

The requested refund is part of a $236 housing increase that was passed by the SIU Board of Trustees in December.

According to December's issue of Insight...Housing, University Housing's newsletter, a portion of the housing rate increase was "for payment of bond retirement and interest on the air conditioning for the Triads."

"The controversy and the reason they came to me for legal advice is the fact that they have been paying for air conditioning... they have not received," Carbondale Attorney Jacqueline Abel said.

Abel would not discuss the case further because she said the case is at a "crucial point."

Rinella said Tuesday, "If they are seeking legal action, which I was not aware of, I don't care to comment. I will wait and consult our legal counsel."

Hearst said he would call a special meeting of the Triad House Council Tuesday night to discuss the handling of attorney's fees.

to be enthused about sitting in a lecture listening to a TA's notes out of a book."

One student commented, "I can understand if he's busy with his new job (Horton was recently named chancellor of the University of Wisconsin), but maybe he shouldn't be teaching a class if that's the case."

The student who did not express concern about Horton's absences said, "I know he must be busy with arrangements for his new position, and the TA is very capable." She said she was aware of only one class that Horton missed.

One student said that after Horton's new position was publicized, "a few of us sat around talking about whether we'd ever see him again."

Campus housing 'filled' with applications

Schwartz files official protest of election vote

By Cindy Humphreys
Staff Writer

Enough housing application contracts to fill University Housing next year have been submitted, Director of Housing Sam Rinella said Tuesday, adding that a greater number than usual are renewals.

"Having a lot of renewees is good because it shows we're doing a credible job. But it makes an impact on the availability of housing spaces for incoming students," Rinella said.

The problem of limited on-campus housing for new students will be looked into this summer, he said, and a "rearrangement" will be worked out.

"Two of the options we are considering are either relaxing the housing requirements for freshmen and sophomores, or restricting the number of juniors and seniors allowed to live in the dorms," Rinella said.

For the 5,000 dormitory spaces available at SIU-C, 10,000 contracts are sent out. "Between 500 and 800 people who sign up for University Housing change their minds," he said.

After the 5,000 spaces have been filled, temporary assignment contracts are sent out. They provide students with usually less-than-comfortable rooms in which they will live until a regular space opens up. "We usually have students out of temporary housing within the first four to six weeks of classes," Rinella said. "These contracts also specify whether the applicant will have three, four, six or eight roommates."

University Housing spaces are in demand despite a $236 a year rent hike that goes into effect this fall. "Even with the rate hike, SIU-C will remain in fourth place for Illinois university housing rates, after having been in second place for several years," Rinella said.

Of that $236, about $160 will be used to defray the cost of the $5.8 million air-conditioning project at Thompson Point, the Triads, Southern Hills and nine Small Group Housing buildings, Rinella said.

"East Campus and Southern Hills are completed, and Thompson Point will be done by the August 1 deadline," he said. "We have more capital improvement projects going on this year than we did in any of my previous 16 years at SIU Housing."

Most of these projects involve repair and replacement work on the dormitories, which are all between 12 and 20 years old, Rinella said. Major repair was needed for the two Southern Hills apartments and one Small Group Housing room that was damaged by fire last year.

A renovation of Wright Field is planned, as is construction of horseshoe pits and volleyball courts north of Mae Smith.

Jackson County State's Attorney William Schwartz filed a petition Tuesday in the Jackson County Court, challenging the results of the Democratic state's attorney race in the March 18 primary election.

Respondents named in the petition are Robert Harrell, county clerk, Guice Strong, Rex Burke and John Clemons. Schwartz's opponents in the primary.

Schwartz said he will represent himself in the case.

In the petition, Schwartz calls for the election results to be invalidated because of alleged illegal procedures in the handling of the ballots. Schwartz said a process referred to as "cleaning the cards" took place some time after the ballots were turned in to the county clerk's office and before they were taken to the computer center at SIU-C.

Schwartz said the process took place without election officials present. He said he does not know exactly what the procedure entails, and he added that it is not referred to in the Election Code.

The petition further cites an error in the computer program which caused the computer to print out more copies of the results than it was supposed to be programmed for. Another error caused the returns from Ora Township to be included with the results from District 2, which does not include Ora Township.

SIU seeking special legislation

By Chuck Hempstead
Staff Writer

Seven bills directly affecting SIU have either been introduced in the State Legislature or are being considered, Keith Sanders, SIU-C governmental relations officer, said.

Senate Bill 1576, cosponsored by Sens. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale, and Samuel Vadalabere, D-Edwardsville, is the regular SIU appropriations bill that includes an 8 percent faculty salary increase recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education and Gov. James Thompson.

Sanders said the University will try to get more funds at the committee level. Buzbee is the chairman of the Appropriations II Committee and was the floor manager for the salary increase bill last year.

The 1 percent fringe benefit increase for faculty, recommended by the IBHE but not by the Governor, will be included in a bill concerning the state retirement system, Sanders said.

A bill allocating $11 million for a multi-purpose building at SIU-E was included in the Governor's budget recommendations. "We feel fairly good about its prospects," Sanders said.

A request for $3.351 million to renovate Davies Gymnasium, rumored to have been attached to a bill including projects from the University of Illinois and Northeastern Illinois University, will be submitted independently, Sanders said.

"We're not going to combine the requests with other school's requests because our project is smaller and would have a better chance than a $20 million package."

Another local legislator, Rep. Vincent Birchler, D-Chester, will sponsor House Bill 3231, which will make available a $750,000 working cash fund from non-appropriated funds. The money would be used for check cashing, cash refunds and other cash disbursements on campus.

House Bill 3246, sponsored by Rep. Doug Kane, D-Springfield, follows up a recommendation made by state auditors that fees earned by doctors at the Medical School in Springfield be divided between the doctors, the SIU Foundation and the Medical School.

Hospital reports shooting victim as satisfactory

A Carbondale man who was shot twice earlier this week is listed in satisfactory condition at a St. Louis hospital, Carbondale police reported.

Isaac Z. Fulwiley, 39, of 1021 N. Conner St., was transported to Firmin Desloge Hospital Tuesday morning after he was treated for bullet wounds at Carbondale Memorial Hospital on Monday.

He was shot once in the head and once in the back with a .32 caliber revolver at about 10:45 p.m. Police found Fulwiley after they received a report from his 86-year-old landlord, who also lives in the home, that a shooting had occurred. When police arrived they found Fulwiley lying on his bedroom floor.

First two nights of operation find few riders on safety bus

By Mimi Jarzemsky
Staff Writer

Ridership on the Night Safety Bus since it began operating Sunday night has been low, with only eight passengers on Sunday and 25 on Monday.

However, ridership on the Women's Safety Transit was also low Sunday night, Fred Moehle, head campus transportation operator, said. The transit received 76 calls for rides Sunday and about 110 calls Monday night, he said.

Tom Busch, assistant to the vice president for student affairs, said women living along the bus route are encouraged to use the bus so that the transit cars can be used by women who live off of the route.

"In the long run, it would probably be quicker (to ride the bus)," Busch said, because women riding the transit car need to allow time to be picked up and need to allow for additional time to be dropped off.

Women calling the transit from Morris Library are urged to use the Bright Way Path to the Student Center and call from there, Busch said.

Women often stand inside the library while waiting for the transit car, tying the car up because it's hard to see exactly when the car arrives, Busch said. However, waiting outside by the parking lot could put a woman in a compromising position, he added.

Women going to and from various buildings on campus are asked to ride the bus and leave the transit car open for other women in need of a ride, Busch said.

The safety bus is a service for both men and women, but figures on the number of male and female riders are unavailable. Moehle said he drove the bus for about an hour Sunday night and picked up one male passenger.

Both the bus and the transit car run from dusk until midnight. The bus operates Sunday through Thursday and the transit car operates seven nights a week.

Senator's 'audacity' causes dispute

By Charity Gould
Staff Writer

The word "audacity" has caused a dispute between the Student Senate and the three-member Order of the Pyramid, an honor society for Thompson Point residents.

The society had asked the senate finance committee for $500 to help fund an awards banquet.

In a bill presented to the senate, West Side Senator Stuart Burchard wrote, "The Order of the Pyramid has had the audacity to request $500 from the Student Senate ..."

At the March 26 senate meeting, the word audacity was deleted from the bill, but several senators said they approved of the word being used.

The finance committee recommended to the senate in the bill that no money be given to the Order of the Pyramid because it has only three members. The committee stated that it "felt that this organization was reactivated for the express purpose of acquiring funds for the Thompson Point Executive Council."

Scott Bayliff, treasurer of the Order of the Pyramid, said that currently there are only three voting members in the group. But there are "hundreds of alumni who live off campus and who are members, but not voting members."

To be a voting member, a student must live at Thompson Point.

"We usually elect three to five new members per year, but we are trying to change that number to 15," he said.

"I understand why we weren't funded. But the issue here is how the bill was written. I just don't want the senate doing this again," Bayliff said.

He added that the senate should not feel "above" any students and since the senators both represent and speak for the students they should show some respect.

"I think the bill was appropriate as it was passed," Student Vice President Chris Blankenship said Tuesday. "We are not trying to put ourselves above anyone."

Blankenship said she thought that the organization's request for $500 for three people was unjustified.

New York life goes on despite strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest rapid transit strike in the nation's history shut down all bus and subway lines Tuesday in New York City, but the city's 7.5 million people made the "unthinkable" workable.

For the most part, they got to work — in an expedition to Manhattan one Wall Street businessman described as like the British amphibious evacuation of Dunkirk in World War II — and home again.

The work stoppage by 35,000 transit workers was compounded by a simultaneous strike by 6,200 employees of the Long Island Rail Road, which serves heavily populated suburbs of 2.7 million people.

NRC investigating Zion gas release

ZION, Ill. (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has begun investigating the release of what officials called a "small amount" of radioactive gas from the Zion nuclear power station.

The agency also said it was looking into the alleged failure of Commonwealth Edison Co. to notify the NRC for more than 12 hours after the incident occurred at about 6:45 p.m. last Monday.

Jeff Kratz, Commonwealth spokesman, said the accident was the result of a "valving error" that allowed cooling water from a reactor to flow into a tank, causing the gas to be released and then vented outside the plant.

Thompson introduces property tax bill

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Legislation to clamp a lid on increases in local property taxes has been introduced in the Legislature on behalf of Gov. James R. Thompson, the governor's office has announced.

"Illinois voters asked for tax lids in overwhelming numbers in 1978. They are entitled to a response," Thompson said in a statement.

Letters

Crisis needs impartial investigation Don't turn back

This letter is in response to a plea made on the March Larry King show by the Graves family, whose relative is a hostage in Tehran. The Graves were asking for an impartial investigation into the allegations that the Carter administration is using the hostage problem for personal political purposes. In order that justice in this situation should be impartial and free from political taint in this sensitive political year, I propose that the following procedure be implemented.

Congress should pass a resolution asking each Justice of the Supreme Court to write to a university of his choice and ask the faculty to choose one of its members to act on a commission to investigate every aspect of the Iranian hostage situation. The commission would have the power to subpoena all individuals and papers, including presidential papers, CIA documents, papers of all secretaries of state since 1950, etc., that could shed light on the subject. The commission alone would have the power to determine which session would be open or closed, and how long and thorough the investigation would be.

In order to insure complete impartiality, Congress would pass a law prohibiting any individual in or out of government from contacting any member of the commission or their families for the purpose of influencing the work of the commission. A mandatory jail sentence of five years would be imposed upon anyone so convicted.

When the commission has written its report, it should specify an exact time and date when it would be released. The report should be released to the general public at the same time that it is made available to the White House, CIA, State Department and the Congress, so that there would be no possibility of distorting the contents of the report by prior denial or self-seeking interpretation.

Instead of the secrecy that has been employed by the Carter administration until now, this method of open diplomacy is based on sound philosophical principles that were proposed by the Jewish philosopher, Christ. "He also said to them, 'Would you bring in a lamp to put it under a tub or under the bed? Surely you will put it on the lampstand? For there is nothing kept secret except to be brought to light. If anyone has ears to hear, let him listen to this.'" (Mark 4:21-23).

This method also agrees with the political principle proposed by Abraham Lincoln when he pointed out that when there is a decision to be made that affects the welfare of the nation it should be made by the whole nation and not by a small secretive group. This principle has been proven by the miscalculations made in Washington concerning Korea, the Bay of Pigs, Vietnam, Nicaragua and the Shah of Iran.

This problem could be resolved if enough people would write to representatives and senators.—Joseph Pasnosky, Former Special Student, West Virginia University

I was thumbing through some DE's and one letter-to-the-editor in particular, caught my eye. It was by Mr. Mike Fitzgerald (Feb. 20 DE) of Murphysboro. Mr Fitzgerald stated that the President was a "coward," and that he "lied when he said he would give us a peaceful era."

I am not a supporter of Jimmy Carter, but he did not lie to us. Remember Mr. Fitzgerald, it was Russia not the United States that has caused this sudden crisis. Don't forget, Jimmy Carter was advocating human rights across the globe before this crisis occurred. If he was a coward, it was because he did not have the foresight to introduce draft registration earlier along with a strong defense program. I don't believe that is grounds for cowardice.

I am sure it is true that there are a lot of people in the oil industry who do not care about loss of life. However, I am positive that there are a lot more good people than bad in this country. By leaving the Persian Gulf unguarded it would just be a matter of time before it would fall into unfriendly hands. And since we import 40 percent of our oil from this area, the consequences would be catastrophic.

Guess who would pay for this Mr. Fitzgerald? Not the oil industries, not Jimmy Carter, but the good, hardworking American, who needs a car to drive to and from work everyday.

We must not repeat the same mistake we made before WW II, and ignore invasions into other countries. Mr. Fitzgerald you said, "true bravery and true strength is peace." There will be no peace as long as the cloud of dictatorial domination looms over our heads. Mr. Fitzgerald, please don't turn your back on this country, it's all we've got.—J. Grazzo, Sophomore, Business Administration

Advice for future faculty member

DE letters seem to serve as the medium through which the students give advice to faculty. I should like, just once, to turn the situation around by giving some advice to John Michael Williams (March 26 DE) as he embarks on his career as a faculty member. I have just two points to make:

If you believe that "ruthless and incompetent" administrators couldn't possibly exist in academia, you are in for a very rude awakening. I hope that you read the letter by my colleague, Professor Snyder, which appeared on the same page as yours. In fact, obtaining and holding competent administrators is a critical problem at many universities, including this one.

I am appalled by your condescending attitude toward "those people who have not completed their educations." If you feel that you have, or soon will have "completed your education," you do not belong on the faculty of any university. Learning must be an ongoing process. As someone recently wrote, "it is not a matter of publish or perish, but rather of study or dry up." If you feel that your education is complete, you will be fit only for an administrative post at a poorly run university.—Walter C. Heeneberger, Professor of Physics

Employment barriers fuel racial tensions

By Mary Harmon Staff Writer

"When the people in a Negro neighborhood hear a police siren, they don't ask who is being helped," it was once reported in the New York Post. "They want to know who is being punished."

Much that same sentiment was recently reported by Carbondale Police Chief Ed Hogan. There is no question that there is racial tension in the northeast sector of the city, he said. It is caused by a "washdown" of 200 years of history. It is a remnant of the black community's lack of faith and trust in the city's predominately white police force, he reported.

Little wonder then that he reported, as well, that only three of the 52 sworn officers on the Carbondale force are black. It should surprise no one that, despite the "studious effort" of EEO officer Cleveland Matthews, the blacks who take the officer's entry-level exam are simply not of the caliber to pass, Hogan said.

It is a matter of differing standards of education and one of peer group pressure, he said.

Hogan, it seems, has apparently exhausted all affirmative action measures of his department. For, he said, it is time society started reacting to the situation.

In January, 1979, the National Urban League reported a 23.1 percent unemployment rate for blacks, which included those looking for work and those too discouraged to look any more. The NUL claimed that figure as the highest it has ever been in history.

It was disclosed in the President's 1970 Manpower report that the employment barriers for blacks as uniformed policemen and firemen are greater than in any other area of civil service and that the incidents of discriminatory treatment in work assignments, promotions and personal relationships are more frequent in these fields of employment than in any other areas of government studied.

The courts have begun to amass a body of rulings which reason that the "harsh racial impact" of public personnel examinations is of greater relevance in determining an exam's discriminatory quality than the test's purity of intent. These rulings reveal a responsibility from which the most liberally disposed department should refuse to turn.

In the name of conscience and responsibility, it is time for a reaction. But it should come not only from "society." For in the words of James Baldwin, the policeman "moves through (the black community) like an occupying soldier in a bitterly hostile country, which is precisely what, and where he is, and is the reason he walks in twos and threes."

Some things worth dying for

It makes me mad to read about people who say "Why should we have to fight and or die to preserve our freedom?" Well my naive friends, take a history course and you will see that is the way it is, has been and always will be.

Don't get me wrong, I don't want a bunch of bleeding hearts calling me a hawk. Fighting and war are last resorts and a global confrontation—nuclear or otherwise—scars me just as much as the next guy. But I happen to believe that some things are worth dying for like standards and beliefs.

It infuriates me when people say that they are not willing to fight a war over oil or for Exxon. How short-sighted can people be? If those were the only two things at stake, then I would be out there marching with all of the CARD people, but it isn't.

Matthew D. Meighan's letter (March 12 DE) says corporations "are eroding the American standard of living down to the level of mere survival." If we are merely surviving then what were our parents doing in the 1930s? Those times were hard and people came out of it nevertheless.

What would the United States do if some aggressor nation cut off 45 percent of the oil we import? If Mr. Meighan thinks we are merely surviving now...? But if that's the way people feel then they should be willing to go the whole gamut.

If they hate the big oil companies so much, then they should stop patronizing companies who deal in petroleum and petrochemical products. How many people would be willing to do that? It's a lot easier to bitch about problems and do nothing than to make real sacrifices and stick to your guns.

Until such time as the United States becomes energy independent and kicks its 19-million barrel a day habit, we must be willing to take our limps and help our country stay strong. And if our country calls us to serve then we have the responsibility to do so. We have a responsibility to all of those men and women who have been called and died to preserve our freedom and to all those who will enjoy it in the future.

I also want to recognize that in our free society that there are those people who oppose the draft on a moral basis. For these people I would willingly die so that they may continue to enjoy our way of life. I would also serve to protect the other spineless whimps who just don't care or don't want to take the time or the trouble.

So go ahead and write your passionate rebuttles. I feel better now.—Allen Oertel, Graduate Student, Geology

Have pity on a hard worker

From my days in student government at SIU-C, I remember that working the long hours involved can take a lot out of you. However, I never fully realized just how much.

When Lula Fragg sniffed geraniums on the cover of the Daily Egyptian on March 26, she was a senior. The very next day Lula appeared on the cover once more, this time watching Tim Adams check election returns. This time, however, she is a junior. Have some pity on her. The girl is obviously working too hard.—Tom Cottingham, Murphysboro

Student senators lose sight of who elected them

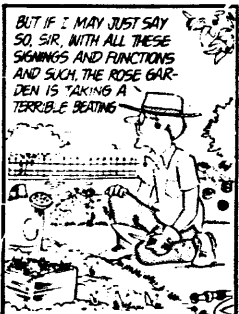

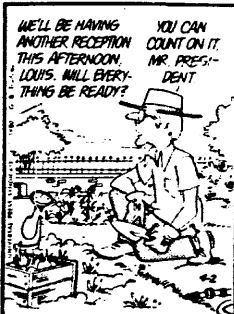

Did you know that there are a few student senators in the USO who continue to believe they are superior to the student body? Believe it or not, it's true. One recent example of this attitude concerned a club which requested money for a planned activity. The request was denied, possibly for good reasons, but the manner in which it was denied is unfortunate.

At times student senators lose sight of why they're a USO representative and who elected them. Student representatives should remember they are elected to represent the student body. When student senators believe they're doing the students a favor by representing them, watch out.—Phil Eberlin, Junior, Administrative Science

Romantics to precede Nugent

By Bill Crowe
Entertainment Editor

The Arena has blended the old and the new in Detroit rock with the booking of The Romantics to open Ted Nugent's April 15 show. As a result, a guitar wildman who has been rockin' for 15 years will be following the lead of one of the hotter new dance bands around today.

The Romantics—consisting of Wally Palmer and Mike Skill on guitars and vocals, Rich Cole on bass and drummer Jimmy Marinos—have made a national name for themselves with the release of the group's self-titled debut album, which blends a simple sixties sound with power pop and new wave accents.

However, the band actually burst onto the scene on Valentines Day in 1977 when it opened a concert for the J. Geils Band, Peter Frampton and the Steve Miller Band at Detroit's 80,000-seat Pontiac Stadium on its third booking together. Two years of work at clubs with national reputations such as New York's Max's Kansas City and Hurrah and Toronto's El Mocambo—along with an opening gig with Nick Lowe and Rockpile at Chicago's B'ginings—led to the band's recording contract and first album with Nempor Records in 1979.

Marinos describes the name of the group as an accurate characterization of what they are trying to do with their music onstage.

"A romantic is an idealist, an adventurer. Intense feelings and emotions, that's what a romantic is and that's what we're trying to put across onstage."

The Romantics will bring their power pop, new wave sound to the Arena April 15. The hot new dance band will set the stage for wildman guitarist Ted Nugent. Romantics drummer Jimmy Marinos said, "Intense feelings and emotions, that's what a romantic is and that's what we're trying to put across onstage."

SPC slates mushroom lecture

Edible mushrooms and how to find them will be the topic of a Forum Thirty Plus lecture at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Ohio Room of the Student Center. The presentation is sponsored by SPC Lectures Committee and admission is free.

Dr. Walter Sundberg, an SIUC professor of botany, will present the lecture titled "Mushroom Hunting for Health and Leisure." Sundberg has studied mushrooms for 15 years and stresses the fact that there are many more varieties than just the ones found in grocery stores.

He says mushroom hunting is becoming a popular hobby in Southern Illinois.

Injuries cloud thoughts of gym title

By Rick Klatt
Staff Writer

Sprained wrists, twisted elbows, assorted cuts and bruises. Herb Vogel has seen them all in his 17-year stint as coach for the SIU women's gymnastics team and this season was no exception.

Unfortunately for Vogel and the Lady Saluki gymnasts, who have returned to national prominence with state and Midwest Regional championships, injuries will be the unknown variable in SIU's winning formula Friday and Saturday at the AIAW national championships.

When the Salukis left for Baton Rouge, La., the site for the 16-team championship, Tuesday, three of SIU's key athletes were nursing injuries sustained during the season.

lone Saluki entrant at last year's championship, still was feeling the effects of a twisted left elbow suffered over a month ago. Painton, normally an all-arounder, will compete only in vaulting, balance beam and floor exercise.

Freshman all-arounder Leri Erickson will compete in all four events but will be hampered by a severely sprained ankle suffered at the regionals March 21-22.

Denise Didier, generally regarded by Vogel as the top Saluki specialist, will be limited to work in the uneven bars because of bruised heels. She normally competes on the balance beam.

"If we were healthy, we could get back up into the top four," Vogel said. "But with those three hurting, we're in the worst physical shape of the year.

"Lori hasn't been able to practice at all because of the injury, Val has been working as effectively as she can and Denise is down to only that one event," Vogel added. "The injuries have kept our kids from working enough to get really sharp. Each day we've only been able to do a little of what we need to do."

Injuries have plagued the Salukis since the beginning of the 1979-80 season. Among those reporting to sick bay at one time or another were Lisa Peden (sprained ankle), Pam Conklin (strained stomach muscles), Pam Harrington (four sprained toes), team captain Maureen Hennessey (severe laceration on foot) and Patti Tveit (sprained ankle). Add Painton, Erickson and Didier to the list and the Salukis could qualify for Medicaid.

Distance races for public to be held

By Christopher Milligan
Student Writer

The Lifestyling Program and the Student Wellness Resource Center are sponsoring the second annual 10,000-meter race and the 2 1/2-mile Fun Run on April 12.

"We are expecting between 400 and 500 runners and urge everyone to submit their application before the April 5 deadline date," Craig Dittmar, co-director of the races said.

"The main reason we started the race last year was to initiate people into an exercise program, in this case, running," Dittmar said. "We look at the race as more a social event rather than a competitive race. The theme of the race is not how far and not how fast, but how good you feel. "We have divided the runners in several age groups and will try to give as many awards as possible," Dittmar added. "All entries will receive a T-shirt. The T-shirt gives the runners some recognition and a sense of accomplishment."

The cost of participating in the 10,000-meter race is $5 for the general public and $4 for SIU students. There is a $1 charge for those participating in the 2 1/2-mile run and $4 fee for runners desiring a T-shirt.

 a few good leaders.

 Being a Marine officer requires many things. Total responsibility. Ability to give 100% to every challenge-every time. he said. "From a team standpoint, everybody on a team would like to win a conference championship.

"From a fan standpoint," Kelley continued, "our fans will get to know more teams. Because we're an independent, our fans don't see the teams we play often enough and don't know the other schools that well. A conference increases fan interest."

Kelley said the MVC basketball champion's automatic qualification for the NCAA tournament appeals to Illinois State. The Redbird cagers went 20-9 this year, but only made the NIT.

Erickson finances his career

"As an athlete, I've sacrificed a lot," Erickson said. "I could have had a job four years ago and be living better than I am. If they don't have the Olympics, I'll run in any alternative games," he added. "This was going to be my last year, but if they postpone the Games, I'll think about running

"As an independent, we could have a heck of a year and not be invited to the NCAAs," he said.

In other sports, ISU won the Illinois Intercollegiate cross country title and finished second in track, placing ahead of SIU in both meets. But the Redbird football team went 3-8, losing to SIU and Indiana State.

"If we see we can't be competitive in all sports, we'd be foolish taking the step," Kelley said. "There seem to be areas where we'll have to push and shove and take some steps to be competitive. Depending on financial areas, we'll have to compare those things.

another year."

Until now, Erickson has been running in the afternoons with the SIU squad while babysitting his daughter at the same time. With his new job, he faces the task of training by himself.

"Training alone is very hard to do. You have to motivate yourself," Erickson said.

Baseball players vote to start regular season on schedule

By The Associated Press

The executive board of the Major League Players Association voted Tuesday to cancel the remaining exhibition games but agreed to open the 1980 season on time, delaying possible strike action until May 22.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, announced the decision after two hours of meetings with the player representatives.

"The executive board decided unanimously that after today no exhibitions will be played," Miller said. "In one last good faith effort to provide the time to try and reach an agreement, the players decided they are willing to open the season and negotiate in good faith to reach an agreement.

"If an agreement is not reached by midnight, May 22, a strike will begin on Friday, May 23," Miller said.

The decision did not affect exhibition games scheduled for Tuesday night but wiped out 92 games which remained before opening day, April 9. Included in that number was a lucrative freeway series between the California Angels and Los

Baseball contest vs. St. Louis U. canceled again

Tuesday was a perfect day for baseball if only atmospheric conditions were judged.

Unfortunately for the Saluki baseball team, Abe Martin Field still was too wet to allow the squad to play its rescheduled game against St. Louis University. The game, which was canceled, was SIU's seventh consecutive home game to be postponed.

Last weekend, two double-headers with Miami of Ohio and one with St. Louis were called off. The only home game the Salukis have played thus far was last Thursday's 4-1 victory over Greenville.

Alas, just as Carbondale's weather is improving, the Salukis are taking to the road. SIU will play three games this weekend at Louisville, a double-header Saturday and a single contest Sunday.

The next home contest won't be until Monday, when the diamond men play a twinbill against St. Francis College of Joliet.

SIU is 9-5 for the season, but has lost 11 games because of the weather.

Athletics director: Grid setup key to ISU Valley membership

By Scott Stahmer
Sports Editor

Don Kelley calls the relationship between Illinois State University and the officials of the Missouri Valley Conference "a mutual admiration society." He is enthusiastic about the possibility of the Redbirds joining the MVC—with one exception.

"If you have to play every school in football or all of your sports, you obviously have to travel quite a bit," Kelley, ISU's athletics director, said Tuesday. "It isn't much of a problem in basketball. But in football, costs are going out of sight."

"That could be a drawback to joining the Valley," he said, "but we don't anticipate it being one because of the possibility of restructuring. The divisional setup would be very important to Illinois State."

If the football travel problem is solved by the formation of east and west divisions for football, Kelley believes the addition of Illinois State to the MVC will be beneficial for both the school and the conference. ISU, an independent, will be evaluated by the Valley's membership committee May 1-2 in Normal.

The membership committee, which is made up of faculty advisers Willard Klimstra of SIU, Jim Doyle of Creighton and John Dratz of Tulsa, and athletics directors Keith Colson of New Mexico State and Bob Karnes of Drake, will present its findings May 23-24 at the Valley meetings in Tulsa. If the Valley accepts ISU, the school will decide whether or not to join the MVC.

Kelley said Illinois State officials have been in contact with Valley administrators over the past few months.

"We have been getting positive responses," he said. "I have received encouraging and positive responses from David Price (the MVC commissioner)."

One reason that ISU would join the Valley, Kelley said, is the geographic and philosophical proximity of MVC members Bradley, Indiana State and SIU.

"Certainly, if you ever had an ideal setup, these schools that surround us are logical competitors," he said. "We're very similar in athletic philosophies and financially, it could be a natural for us."

Kelley also stressed the advantages of joining a conference from the athletes' viewpoint. He said membership in the MVC will help ISU's athletes formulate goals they don't have without conference affiliation.

"Any individual likes to lead the conference in something, set some kind of conference goal.

Terry Erickson, former Saluki trackman, trains with the rest of the SIU track team each afternoon at McAndrew Stadium. An All-American in 1973 and '74 in the 440 as well as NCAA champion as a junior, he presently is financing his running career.

Financing track career tough for former Saluki

By Red Smith
Staff Writer

Inflation. It's hitting all of us. Rising travel costs and the expenses involved with a young couple raising a family are two major concerns of an ex-Saluki track star who, after graduating four years ago, continues to train and run in preparation for an event that may not even take place—the Olympics.

Terry Erickson, a 1974 graduate of SIU and two-time All-American in the 440-yard dash, currently is living in Carbondale, working out with the Saluki track team and financing his own running career.

It's not an easy job. Erickson also was working part-time at a liquor store to help provide for his wife and five-year-old daughter, Heather, until he landed a full-time position with General Motors beginning Tuesday.

"I've been providing my own finances for meets, but it hasn't been easy," the 27-year-old sprinter said. "When I graduated, I went to work at the Marion Penitentiary as a guard for 2 1/2 years, but it was terrible. At the time, I was training for the '76 Olympics, but I had to quit because of a lack of money and training time."

Just when it seemed like Erickson's career was over, a relative offered to help him out.

"I hadn't given the Olympics any serious thought until a cousin offered to support me," the former NCAA indoor 440 champion said. "He supported me for a year until he ran out of money, too. This last year, I've been working and my wife has been substitute teaching to help us out.

"With my cousin footing the bill, things were fine. He helped me get back into the scene," Erickson said. "It's been a little easier. Lew (Hartzog) has helped me get into meets around here and people I run against in AAU meets are starting to remember me."

Saluki track fans should remember Erickson. An All-American in the 440 in 1973-74, he also was a member of the All-America mile relay team each of those years. He was the NCAA indoor 440 champion his junior year, and as a senior, he was ranked third in the nation and ninth in the world. He still holds school records in the 440- and 600-yard dashes and 400 meters.

Representing the Chicago Track Club, Erickson has run in Los Angeles, New York, Chicago and Kansas. The club picks up some of the transportation costs, but much of the expense comes from his own pocket. Once a member of the Beverly Hills Striders, he was able to run in meets in New Zealand, the People's Republic of China and Brazil as a fringe benefit.

Erickson's main goal now is to qualify for the Olympic Trials in Eugene, Ore., in June. He must run the 400 meters in 46.5 to qualify, a time he never has run.

It may as well be considered the SIU traveling show. For the second time in three weeks, the women's tennis team will venture down to the Southern states in search of competition.

The lady netters will play at Memphis State Wednesday afternoon and then get right back into their van and drive to Columbus, Miss., for the 19th Annual Southern Collegiate Tennis Tourney. Both, according to Coach Judy Auld, will test the Salukis' 4-1 record.

"The Southern tourney usually is a toughie and I don't think this year is an exception," Auld said. "There's going to be a lot of good tennis played down there. Teams from all over the South usually participate."

Auld said she didn't know which teams will be entered, but she listed Alabama, Mississippi, Rollins College, Auburn, Florida State, South Florida and Louisiana State as probable opponents.

Last year the Salukis finished last in the tournament. SIU's best showing was in 1978, when it placed seventh.

"We're looking forward to the tourney because we've got some playing experience," Auld said. "Usually it's our first match of the season, so we should be a little more competitive, with our outdoor matches and everyone playing as well as they are."

Auld isn't overlooking the Memphis State meeting, though. The Salukis lost to MSU last fall, 6-3, and Auld said the Tigers should be as just tough this time around.

"They've got really good depth," the fifth-year coach explained. "And they're extremely tough at the top of their lineup, where they recruited two really talented freshmen from Florida."

The Salukis also are playing tough tennis. In winning four of its first five matches, SIU has an overall match record of 25-19. In singles, the Salukis are an even 500 at 15-15; their ace in the hole thus far has been the doubles play, where they are 11-4.

Individually, freshman Lisa Warren has the best singles' record, 4-1, and paired with Carol Foss, is holding down the top doubles mark, an unblemished 5-0.

"We're playing really well. The attitude's there, the concentration is getting there and the girls want to play," Auld said. "They're just playing up to their capabilities."

Spring ends joggers' hibernation

By Andrew Zinaer
Staff Writer

With the coming of spring and warm weather, many people will be coming out of their winter hibernation, interested in shedding some winter pounds, or just exercising outside for the fun of it.

Many of these born-again athletes will turn to jogging, a sport that has gained massive popularity in recent years. These joggers will have good intentions, but many really won't know what the process entails, according to Harry Schulz, trainer for men's athletics.

The first step suggested by Schulz for the potential jogger or runner is to receive a physical examination from a doctor. The doctor will point out symptoms which may endanger a runner, such as high blood pressure, but the final decision to run lies with the runner, he said.

Schulz explained that some people are not suited for running. He said that no one should run unless he finds it enjoyable.

"It makes it much easier to run if the runner doesn't have to kill himself," Schulz said.

Second, proper running shoes must be a part of any runner's plans, according to Schulz. Basketball or other types of shoes will do damage to the runner's feet, and may also affect knees or calves. He said the price of the footwear doesn't matter, as long as it feels comfortable.

The trainer added that old shoes, even if comfortable, should be replaced periodically. Inadequate shoes could cause back problems, Schulz warned.

Another thing to remember when running is that the runner should change directions and, if possible, run a different path every time.

"This should prevent leg wear in one particular area of the same leg, which could occur if the same direction and same path are traveled every time," Schulz said.

He said that proper stretching exercises are vital to anyone running or jogging.

"Most people stretch for about two or three minutes, but a minimum of seven or eight minutes are needed to get loosened up," Schulz said. "Limbering up for 10 or 15 minutes would be a good idea."

Stretching after finishing the run also is essential, Schulz said. He added that the same amount of time be committed to the exercise after as before running, especially for long-distance runners, because muscle tightening occurs more often when running at a slower pace.

The types of flexibility exercises vary for each person, according to Schulz. There are several basic methods he recommended for all runners, though. He stressed that bouncing during stretching, such as rapid up-and-down movements during toe-touches, is not a good idea.

"Bouncing may aggravate or tear muscle fibers," he warned.

Schulz said a basic exercise to loosen the hamstrings is the toe-touch. The trainer explained that the proper method is to keep the knees straight, bend down until feeling some pain, and hold the legs in that pose for about six to eight seconds. This is superior to bouncing up and down like so many people do. Schulz said. Each time, the exerciser should reach down progressively further.

To stretch the heel cords, he suggested that the person lean against the wall with his hands, and, with feet flat on the ground, extend the legs back as far as possible. Again, each position should be held for about six seconds to ensure stretching, according to Schulz. He suggested placing the feet on an inclined board or stairs.

To stretch the small muscle in the calf, Schulz said the exerciser should place his hands on the wall, lean forward, and bend the knees deeply. He added that all stretching should be done slowly and easily, saying there is "no big hurry."

A good way to stretch the hip flexor, he said, is to lean against a wall with one foot in front of the other, extending the back foot and leg further and further.
