Sailing Club is forced off rental space

By Jeff Curl
Staff Writer

After over a year of disagreements with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department and the owner of a local marina, members of the Southern Illinois Collegiate Sailing Club have been forced to leave Crab Orchard Lake.

Roland Hawkes, associate professor in sociology and SICSC's faculty adviser, said club members became nervous last fall when the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service asked for bids to place the lake's sailboat basin under a private concessioner.

The basin was previously managed by the Crab Orchard Sailing Club, which rented boat space to members at no profit while, through a memorandum of agreement, letting SICSC dock its boats and conduct club events. The COSC's contract with the government expired Jan. 1.

KEN AND SUSAN Barnhart, owners of the Playport Marina which lies adjacent to the basin, made the only bid and are the new managers of the area.

In two letters last September and October, Hawkes and Peter Hoffswell, SICSC's commodore, wrote Adams and expressed concern that the Service's bid requests made no mention of whether SICSC would be able to stay once the area was contracted to a concessioner. The two wrote that they would like to meet with Adams to discuss the issue.

Adams wrote back and said that while he would not meet with club members at that time, he would meet with both SICSC and COSC before the management conversion took place.

IN THE SAME letter, dated Sept. 24, 1984, Adams wrote that "the service has no intentions of attempting to dissolve either of the clubs or to eliminate sailing activities on Crab Orchard Lake. We are simply advertising the sailboat area as a possible concession operation."

Hawkes said the meeting which Adams promised never took place.

"We were swept aside in the corner" by the service, said Hawkes. "They have simply not looked after our needs."

Adams responded Monday by saying that the service had already met with the two clubs on Sept. 12, 1984, and another meeting was not needed. Adams stressed that it is not up to the Fish and Wildlife Service whether a club can continue at the basin. It is up to the Barnharts.

BUT THAT CAUSES another problem for the club. Hawkes said. Barnhart stated that he isn't going to rent space to the club because SICSC would attract sailors who would otherwise use his rental boats.

Senate, Reagan disagree over farm spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House indicated it might compromise with Senate Republicans on defense spending next fiscal year, but budget talks between the two sides hit another snag Monday — how much to spend on agriculture.

White House aides met with Senate GOP leaders for nearly three hours, but reached no agreement. Defense was still a major hangup and senators emerged talking about disagreements on farm programs as well.

President Reagan wanted to cut $6.2 billion from agriculture in fiscal 1986, but the GOP-led Senate Budget Committee voted to freeze programs at current levels.

The two sides started out far apart on military spending as well, with President Reagan seeking a 6 percent hike above inflation and the Budget Committee advocating nothing above the inflation rate for the Pentagon in fiscal 1986.

Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., said the group discussed the "areas of sharpest disagreement" and said that included farm programs.

"We talked about an hour on agriculture, trying to seek a common ground," Cochran told reporters, but said they planned to meet again Tuesday.

White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan indicated the group hoped to finish this week, before Congress' spring recess, but others signaled that timetable would be difficult to meet.

"We didn't get an agreement on agriculture," said Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M. "We're narrowing the areas of disagreement."

Earlier, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Monday no deal had been struck with Senate leaders on limiting the growth in defense spending next year to a compromise figure of 3 percent. But he said a report that Reagan might accept 3 percent Pentagon budget growth in exchange for Senate approval of his proposed cutbacks in aid to farmers and other domestic programs "omits a few items that we're still talking to them about."

"Nothing is settled and won't be until we agree on an entire package," he said.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas also discounted the reported 3 percent compromise on military spending.

U.S. gets pledge from Japan to open markets

TOKYO (UPI) — President Reagan's special envoy left Tokyo Monday with a pledge from Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone to announce within 10 days a new series of measures to open up Japan's protected markets to U.S. companies, sources said.

At the same time, the former telecommunications and tobacco government monopolies were de-nationalized Monday but there was no indication if U.S. companies will be allowed to increase their participation in these markets.

In a 90-minute meeting with Nakasone Sunday, Gaston Sigur urged the prime minister to help create "equitable market opportunities and equity in the regulatory process" for U.S. firms in Japan. Foreign Ministry sources said.

Sigur, accompanied by Commerce Undersecretary Lionel Olmer, told Nakasone that relations between the United States and Japan could be jeopardized if Japan fails to curb a bilateral trade surplus of nearly $35 billion last year.

A "voluntary restraint" agreement limiting Japanese auto exports to the United States to 1.85 million a year expired Sunday and Japan unilaterally raised the ceiling for the new fiscal year.

Rival conflict near Sidon leaves 8 dead, 12 injured

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Rival Christian and Palestinian-backed Moslem militiamen pounded each other with heavy artillery fire near Sidon Monday, killing eight people, wounding 12 others and forcing thousands of civilians to flee. Dozens of buildings were in flames near the port of Sidon, 24 miles south of Beirut, and Red Cross workers had difficulty reaching the wounded because of the heavy bombardment, authorities said. Despite efforts by the Lebanese government and neighboring Syria to end the sectarian bloodshed, at least 58 people have been killed since the fighting began Friday.

Duarte's party declares victory in elections

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — President Jose Napoleon Duarte's Christian Democrats claimed a crushing upset victory Monday over right-wing parties in legislative elections crucial to U.S.-backed reforms and peace talks. Although no official returns from Sunday's balloting were expected until Tuesday, the Christian Democratic Party said its own count of 80 percent of the votes showed it won majorities in 12 of the nation's 14 provinces.

Liberian president barely escapes assassins

MONROVIA, Liberia (UPI) — Liberian President Samuel K. Doe narrowly escaped death Monday when would-be assassins sprayed his car with automatic weapons fire, seriously wounding two bodyguards, the Liberian news agency said. Lina, the state-controlled agency, said an unknown number of men fired about 30 rounds from two sides of Doe's Mitsubishi as it was entering his official residence in Monrovia.

Lebanese hijacker surrenders after an hour

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A Lebanese gunman hijacked a Middle East Airlines plane with 75 people aboard Monday, demanded $30 million for Lebanese guerrillas fighting Israel and surrendered an hour later when the jet landed in Saudi Arabia. No injuries were reported. The hijacker identified as Ali Kesrawani, commandeered the MEA Boeing 707 airliner on a flight from Beirut to Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, and surrendered at Jeddah Airport shortly after Flight 368 landed, an airline spokesman said.

Police officer contradicts report of killings

UITENHAGE, South Africa (UPI) — A police commander who gave the order to shoot into a crowd of 4,000 blacks — killing 19 — Monday contradicted a government statement that officers had been attacked with bombs before opening fire. Lt. John Fouche, giving money to a jurist assigned to investigate the March 21 incident, said he gave the order to shoot because he was convinced the crowd of black mourners were going "to kill white people."

Child sexually assaulted in cell, official says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Police are investigating the sexual assault of an 11-year-old boy detained in the District of Columbia Superior Court cellblock, a ranking officer said Monday. The boy, now 12, was charged with assault and locked in a cell last May when two youths, one aged 14 and the other 17, sexually assaulted him. The youths pleaded guilty in September to two felony sodomy charges in the attack and were being held in the city's juvenile detention facility in Maryland. After being admitted to Children's Hospital in July for recurring bouts of depression, doctors discovered the victim had contracted syphilis of the mouth.

Soviets develop launch vehicle, paper reports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union continued deploying new nuclear and conventional weapons during 1984 and has developed a heavy lift launch vehicle that can put 150-ton payloads into earth orbit, a newspaper reported Monday. The report by the Washington Times was based on a copy of the Pentagon's 1985 edition of "Soviet Military Power," which is to be released Tuesday. The Times said it received the fourth edition of the booklet from non-Pentagon sources.

Armenian terrorists threaten to bomb transits

TORONTO (UPI) — Police stopped a subway train and evacuated bus and train stations Monday in a search for bombs that Armenian terrorists threatened to explode somewhere along the city's 800 miles of transit lines. Nervous commuters listened anxiously to news reports but the morning rush hour and afternoon passed without incident. Thousands of people who normally use public transit chose other means of transportation. Police issued a "public alert" last Friday, warning commuters to be on the alert for anything suspicious. The warning followed a statement sent to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police by a group calling itself the Armenian Secret Army for the Liberation of our homeland.

Carterville agency gains grant for elder abuse study program

By Lisa Eisenbauer
Staff Writer

A Carterville agency has received a state grant to oversee a program that will study abuse of the elderly in Jackson, Perry, Franklin and Williamson counties.

George Everingham, director of the Egyptian Area Agency on Aging, based in Carterville, and Janet Otwell, director of the Illinois Department on Aging, announced the immediate start of the program Monday at a press conference at the Carbondale Senior Citizens Center.

The program includes a 24-hour hotline to report suspected cases of elderly abuse (1-800-642-7773), an emergency response service to help elderly victims of abuse, shelter for victims and a campaign to educate the public about the problem.

Carol Cockran, organizer of the project for IDA, said three similar programs were also started elsewhere in Illinois Monday. All of the programs are being run as demonstrations and are scheduled to end June 30, 1986.

The purpose of the programs, Cockran said, is to determine the number of senior citizens who are abused, the severity of the abuse, the services available to help elderly victims, the type of legislation needed to help prevent such abuse and the cost of meeting the needs of victims.

Cockran said that elder abuse has been identified as a problem in Illinois since 1981. Legislation or permanent programs to deal with abuse of senior citizens are already in operation in 44 other states, she said, although little is known about the causes or extents of elder abuse.

By IDA definition, a person is considered to be abused if he or she is physically harmed, unreasonably confined, sexually abused, willfully deprived of medication or services to maintain health, or financially exploited by a caretaker or relative.

Otwell said she is pleased that the programs started in Illinois are only demonstrations and not permanent. This will ensure that the state does not go further than it should in delving into the lives of elderly citizens, she said.

The program in the four Southern Illinois counties will be administered by the Shawnee Alliance for Seniors, a Hurst-based group that works to meet problems of elderly residents.

Under the guidelines of the program set up in Southern Illinois, which was established by legislation passed in August, certain groups of people will be required to report suspected cases of elder abuse, just as they are required to report suspected cases of child abuse.

Among the groups affected by this requirement are physicians, dentists, Christian Science practitioners, nurses and social workers.

The three other programs, set up in Winnebago, Cook and Kankakee counties, each have slightly different guidelines mainly in regards to how suspected instances of abuse are to be reported.

Flight in space may include seat for local teacher

By Thomas Mangan
Staff Writer

When President Reagan announced last fall that a teacher would be flying a future space shuttle mission, Mona Marcece knew one thing for certain — this was a flight she didn't want to miss.

Marcece, a third-grade teacher at Winkler Elementary School in Carbondale, may realize her dream of becoming a space traveler. She is one of 10 Illinois teachers who still have a chance to become the first elementary or high school teacher to take a space flight.

She was one of 522 Illinois teachers who sent applications to The Illinois State Board of Education to go on a shuttle mission. The board chose 10 finalists and is holding interviews this week to choose the two Illinois teachers who will represent Illinois in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration national search.

ROOM 9 AT Winkler School is the launching pad of Marcece's plan for cosmic exploration. It reflects her profession as a teacher as well as her interest in aeronautics. A squadron of brightly colored paper-mache hot air balloons hangs from the ceiling, while a grocery sack and construction paper replica of a village rests on the floor next to one of the walls.

"I've always been in love with space and flying," she said. "As soon as I heard about NASA's Teacher in Space Program, I began to call around to find out how to apply. I even called NASA long-distance to get more information."

A MOTHER of two grown children, Marcece's family extends beyond her household. Her students have shown the same concern for her that they might show their parents.

"In January, when I first told the class I planned to go on the shuttle mission, they seemed excited. Then one of the kids got a real serious look on his face. 'People die up there,' he said."

Marcece said she explained to the child that dangers exist in the world and must be faced. "It's much better to try something than to avoid it just because it's dangerous. You can get killed walking on the sidewalk or driving a car. Besides, the space shuttle is a lot safer than driving a car. There's not nearly so much traffic."

OF THE 10 Illinois teachers selected, Marcece is the only elementary school teacher. She says this makes her more qualified to make the flight because she has greater experience in translating technical information into a simpler form.

"Elementary teachers are generalists. I spend all day arranging complex information in a way that people can understand," she says. The teacher who is selected will go on a one-year speaking tour after the mission, she said, so that person will need to be able to share the experience effectively with others.

THE STATE OF Illinois will make the final selection of its two teachers by the end of April.

In June those finalists will attend a workshop in Washington, D.C., with 110 other teachers from around the country. Ten finalists will be announced July 4, and the NASA evaluation committee will choose five finalists in August. In September, NASA will announce the teacher who will fly the mission and an alternate.

Upon selection, both the first teacher and the alternate will undergo 120 hours of preparatory training for a shuttle mission in early 1986.

Marcece, a veteran of 21 years in the classroom, realizes that she isn't the only teacher who wants to fly the mission.

"I'll be disappointed if they don't take me, but I know they have to choose someone. I just hope it's me."

New Carbide leak injures seven

BHOPAL, India (UPI) — Chlorine gas leaked Monday from the same Union Carbide plant where an accident four months ago killed more than 2,500 people in history's worst chemical disaster. The latest leak caused widespread panic, but only minor injuries to seven people.

Hundreds fled their shanty homes near the plant and returned only after the Madhya Pradesh state government gave assurances that the fumes had dissipated.

On the night of Dec. 3, more than 45 tons of deadly methyl isocyanate gas seeped into the atmosphere, killing more than 2,500 people and injuring at least 250,000 more in the central Indian city, 360 miles south of New Delhi. It was the worst chemical disaster in history.

On Monday, residents fled in panic when they saw fumes pouring from the plant and rumors spread that methyl isocyanate gas again was leaking from the facility.

Roy Choudhary, works manager of the Union Carbide plant, told United Press International that chlorosulphonic acid spilled Sunday night while it was being transferred to road tankers.

Chlorosulphonic acid is a fuming liquid that decomposes in water to sulfuric acid and hydrochloric acid and is used in pharmaceuticals, pesticides and dyes. Sulfuric and hydrochloric acids are both toxic substances.

Choudary said when rain began falling in the morning, the liquid "reacted with water and fumes started coming."

Three plant operators were exposed to the fumes and were treated in the factory hospital, he said. Another four people working in the railway station behind the plant also were treated.

Ashok Kumar, one of the injured railway workers, said, "I felt giddiness around 8 p.m. and there was a constant irritation in my eyes."

Kumar said he and three other railway employees fled "to save our lives."

Tuxhorn and Yow for City Council

REGISTERED VOTERS IN CARBONDALE will go to the polls today to select two City Council candidates. From an original field of seven are four candidates vying for two council slots.

Prior to the Feb. 26 primary election, the Daily Egyptian endorsed incumbent councilman Keith Tuxhorn and former Code Enforcement director John Yow.

Tuxhorn's experience with the City Council and his reputation as a maverick, unafraid to speak up for the rights of the under-represented, qualify him for re-election.

Yow's 20 years of experience as the director of the code enforcement division shows an understanding of city government.

Four-term councilman Archie Jones has provided the city with years of faithful service, but, at 83, it is time for younger council members.

The final council candidate, businessman David McNeil has commendable ideas for bringing additional business into the city, but his family's ties to the downtown convention center project raise the appearance of conflict of interest.

The issues raised in this year's city council elections are many and complex. From the railroad relocation project to the downtown convention center, the stands the various candidates take will have a profound impact on the future of Carbondale and its citizens.

Letters

Cubbies are the ones!

Let me begin by saying that I usually wholeheartedly enjoy (snicker, snicker) your political savant prose.

Having been a Cub (no Cubbie) fan for 23 years, and enduring humiliation for 22 of those years, I have only tasted the sweet nectar of victory but once. I hardly consider myself to be an arrogant fan; but rather, a proud one. You say you will consider it a successful season for dem Birds if they "make life miserable for the Cubs."

As far as your fantasy goes, it seems feasible; only funny thing is, I see it a bit different, with Ryne Sandburg ripping a towering shot (to clinch the MVP again) off of Joaquin Andujar.

Now there's a class act; such a sportsman. Speaking of Cards players, it's no wonder they are picked to finish in last place. They are drug induced and alcohol impaired (all's fair). At least the Cub players concentrate on baseball ("This is the year." "We were robbed") instead of the next time it's going to snow.

A recent court decision has said no lights in Wrigley Field. I for one am happy with this decision, 20th century or not. Baseball was invented to be a game, not a business. All around us in the major leagues we are reminded of the business that has taken over baseball. I suppose you would prefer that the Cubs played in a place similar to Busch Stadium. Build it, paint a black strip around it and in bold black letters print: STADIUM.

Morgan, let me ask you: did you write your article to get some response from irate Cub fans? If so it worked. But you are right when talking about the Cubs and Cards. There is no such thing as cruelty or unfairness. All's fair eh Morgan? Hey, it just occurred to me, isn't Morgan a girl's name? — Randy Currier, senior, Psychology.

Ethnic separation at SIU-C

One thing I notice about this campus is the lack of ethnic social mixture on the undergraduate level. This practice destroys a significant part of the college experience. To do so at this particular university is ignorant and a waste of tax-payers' money. Kids, grow up or get out!

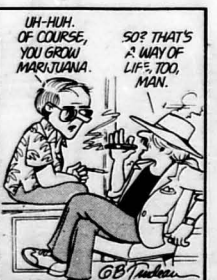

A university experience should be a rewarding, enriching experience. To deny yourself this opportunity is to cheat oneself of a unique experience. If you are tied up into race, it will indeed tie you up.

Do the best you can do, then shake hands with your competitor or friend. You will find that you have a better college experience when you learn from each other.

We will live together as brothers or perish together as fools. — Charles A. Conner, first year law student.

Court's ruling didn't go far enough in reversing ban on gay teachers

IT WAS A weak blow for personal freedom that the Supreme Court struck on Tuesday. By a tie vote, it left standing an appeals court ruling which struck down an Oklahoma law forbidding public school teachers from advocating homosexuality. It doesn't rule out the possibility of an equally bad law passing muster later, but for now, it scotches this one.

The law is not the child-protection measure it purports to be. Oklahoma teachers can be fired for "moral turpitude" even without it. It is, instead, a teacher punishment act. It provides a model of how to intrude the government into affairs that ought to be private.

The state of Oklahoma didn't stop at forbidding teachers to seduce students, flaunt their sexual inclination in the classroom or evangelize for homosexuality on school grounds — all legitimate restrictions. In the public schools, the interests of children take priority over all else. No one seriously contests the state's right to protect children in its care from this sort of sexual confrontation and indoctrination.

BUT THAT WASN'T the aim of this law. It subjects teachers to dismissal for the mere act of "advocating, soliciting, imposing, encouraging or promoting public or private homosexual behavior in a manner that creates a substantial risk that such conduct will come to the attention of school children or school employees."

The ban goes beyond what occurs on school grounds — "advocacy" in the privacy of one's own home could easily be covered. It isn't limited to conversations with students. And it doesn't affect just teachers, but anyone who

Stephen Chapman

Tribune Company

The law is not the child-protection measure it purports to be contemplates becoming a teacher at any time in the future. Applicants who have committed one of the specified offenses can be rejected solely for that reason.

The statute's language is so broad as to cover almost any expression of tolerance for homosexuality. A teacher who, over an after-hours drink, tells a fellow employee that he thinks homosexuality shouldn't be against the law presumably could be dismissed from his job. Not just sexual activity but political opinion comes under the state's control.

THAT'S WHY the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals found the law unconstitutional. The First Amendment, it said, cannot permit a law telling teachers flatly that "to protect their jobs they must restrict their expression." Though the state has some authority to regulate the speech of its employees, the court said it can be exercised only when "some restriction is necessary to prevent the disruption of official functions or to insure effective performance by the employee."

By deadlocking, the Supreme Court let the ruling stand, but it didn't settle the fundamental issue, which will have to wait for another day. Since it issued no opinion, there is no way to know the thinking of either side.

What possible point is there to the sorts of constraints imposed by this law? The notion that school children will be harmed by the private opinions of their teachers is ridiculous. The idea that teachers have a duty to conform to a state-sanctioned ideology is dangerous. Oklahoma's law invited school boards to establish their own Inquisitions, rooting out incorrect opinions about sexuality.

THAT APPROACH doesn't make sense if the purpose is to guard children from homosexual overtures or indoctrination. It does make sense if the goal is to purge the ranks of public school teachers of all homosexuals, including those who are scrupulously professional in the classroom and circumspect after hours. Some teachers — and not just homosexuals — would suffer from the law. But there is no reason to think that school children would benefit.

The law expands the state's authority into monitoring the political opinions and private sexual activity of its employees, matters that are none of its business. It violates what Justice Louis Brandeis called "the right to be let alone — the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men." The Court could have done better. It might have done worse.

Tax refunds sent to early filers

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Illinois taxpayers who filed their state income tax returns before mid-February can expect to receive their tax refund checks any day now, state officials said Monday.

The state released the first batch of about 63,000 refund checks totaling $9.7 million Monday and expect to issue another 82,000 checks later this week, officials from the state comptroller's office said.

The tax refunds have been slower than normal this year, taking approximately ten weeks to process, because of initial problems with a new computer program system, according to Helen Adorjan, state Revenue Department spokeswoman.

Processing of the returns is soon expected to be back to normal, and filers will receive their refund checks about eight weeks from the date they filed, Adorjan said.

Another 223,000 processed returns are expected to be sent to the comptrollers office for check processing this week and another 300,000 will be ready for processing next week, she said.

"That will bring us up to early March filers," Adorjan said.

Adorjan also said that more Illinoisans filed early this year than last year. The state has already received approximately 2.4 million returns. This figure shows an increase of 33,000 over returns received at this time last year.

A-P Council election results to be given

Election results for six Administrative and Professional Staff Council seats will be revealed at Wednesday's A-P Council meeting at 1:15 p.m. in the Student Center Illinois Room.

Tuesday is the last day for ballots to be turned in, said Terry Mathias, council chairman. One person will be elected for each of six council constituencies, Mathias said. Those elected will serve three-year terms.

In other business, the council will "take a look at a first draft of a separate grievance policy for A-P staff members," Mathias said.

Faculty and A-P Council previously worked under the same grievance policy, but the Faculty Senate voted last September to write a separate policy.

The policy draft, if approved by the council, will be forwarded along with the faculty policy draft to President Albert Smit for his approval, Mathias said. Those policies will probably be approved by the end of the summer, he said.

The council will also look at a new draft of a performance appraisal plan, Mathias said. The council approved a performance appraisal plan at its March 6 meeting, but Smit asked a personnel services committee to take that plan and make it "less elaborate," Mathias said.

A performance appraisal plan, if implemented, would help set consistent guidelines for promotions and merit salary increases, Mathias said.

Gray to sponsor world hunger bill

By John Kruskowski
Staff Writer

Congressman Ken Gray, D-West Frankfort, is sponsoring legislation that will establish a "World, Hunger Fund," said Patrick McCaffrey, his press aide in Washington, D.C.

McCaffrey said that the legislation would establish another check-off box on income tax forms, similar to the Presidential Election Fund. If taxpayers were interested, they could check the box and $2 would be donated to the fund from their tax refunds, he said.

The fund dollars could be used anywhere in the world at the discretion of the president, McCaffrey said, including the United States.

The bill has 10 sponsors so far and Gray will be announcing a final call on co-sponsors within the next two weeks, McCaffrey said.

Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, last week introduced legislation that will provide direct assistance to states in battling hunger, said Lisa Learner, Dixon's legislative assistant in charge of the bill.

Learner said the "National Endowment for the Homeless" would provide $110 million in seed money and an additional $50 million in matching funds each year. The bill has seven co-sponsors, including Sen. Paul Simon of Makanda.

The program would be administered by a national board composed of major charitable organizations that would distribute the money on the basis of need to various states, Learner said.

Programs already in progress would find the funds they raise matched by the endowment, Learner said. She gave the example of the "We Are the World" record, which would have the money it raises for hunger in America matched by Dixon's bill.

Learner said the next step will be to attach the bill as an amendment to another bill because the present Emergency Food and Shelter program expires July 31.

CLUB: Sailing group loses space

Hawkes, however, said that renting space to SICSC would be a good financial move. Several COSC boat owners, who must now rent space from Bernhart, got an interest for sailing by being in the SICSC, said Hawkes. Besides, Hawkes added, SICSC is made up mostly of college students who will not be able to pay Barnhart's rental fees of $8 per hour.

BARNHART disagreed. He said his rental boats will allow people to get an interest in sailing. Forcing SICSC off the basin will mean less competition, he added.

"If there's a hundred kids using their boats, who's going to rent our boats?" he said.

Barnhart said he will rent boats to SIU-C for use in sailing classes. This will also keep interest in sailing alive, he added.

'Sesame Street' cast thrills all ages

By Martin Felan
Staff Writer

Big Bird and all of his friends from Sesame Street came off the TV screen and into Carbondale for a three-day showing of "Around the World with Sesame Street Live" at the Arena last weekend.

Show host Guy Smiley took the audience and the TV characters to China, Italy, Switzerland, the United States and other countries on a fun-filled world tour.

Cookie Monster won the vacation for himself and his friends, choosing the vacation instead of a cookie.

Cookie Monster's friends promised him a cookie in every country he visited if he took them along. They kept their promise.

THOUSANDS OF children, overjoyed with seeing their favorite characters in person, clapped their hands, patted their tummies and stomped their feet to a song performed by Ernie, called "It's a Very Simple Dance to Do."

Lea Richey, a three-year-old from Marion, frolicked near the stage as she following Ernie's simple dance routine.

"I like Ernie," she said. "I like it (the show) better here."

Diane Richey, Lea's mother, said her kids always watch "Sesame Street" on television and were excited with the chance to see the characters in person.

"They couldn't wait. They were chomping at the bits since six o'clock this morning," she said.

YOUNG AND OLD alike enjoyed the comical display of talent. "We just use the kids as an excuse to come," joked Mary Jenkins, a 27-year-old Mount Vernon resident.

Mary's husband, Tom Jenkins, agreed. "The performance itself was fantastic. We liked the music, the dancing, and the colors were really bright too."

The Jenkins cheered with the audience to help Forgetful Jones, the absent-minded cowboy with a big moustache and a ten-gallon hat, decide which of two trash cans Oscar the Grouch lived in.

Confused by Cookie Monster's and Hairy Monster's rearranging of the cans, Forgetful Jones relied on the audience and chose the correct can.

"CONGRATULATIONS Forgetful Jones! You and the audience win a fun-filled intermission," shouted Guy Smiley.

intermission, Byran Fager, an eighth-grader from Murphysboro, said he no longer watches "Sesame Street" but came to the show with his parents and little brother.

"It's really funny. I enjoy it a lot," he said. "I like the music, and I like Bert and Ernie. They're more realistic. They're not animals."

Lotus Blossom O'Brien, portrayed by Prairie Dawn, sang a song and moved gracefully about with the Oriental dancers in China when the show resumed. The scene was enlivened by the glowing designs on the dancers' umbrellas.

AND COOKIE MONSTER couldn't be forgotten. "Where's my Chinese cookie? Me want Chinese cookie," the big, blue, furry monster shouted in his gruff voice.

Grover took to the Alps of Switzerland where he sang a song of echo to the audience on the next stop. Grover sang out, "Helloooooooooo....." to the audience, which returned the call.

Returning to the United States, Big Bird brought the audience and characters back to Sesame Street to end the tour.

cookie-filled tour around the world, Cookie Monster, played by Amar Smith, said he "felt really good" after the noon performance Saturday.

"Here, the crowd was more exuberant and alive. They loved the show, and they love doing it for them."

More than 15,000 children, parents and college students saw the shows, said Scott Moller, Arena director.

"This was the biggest special event at the Arena in four years," he said. "It was almost like a Broadway show."

City police to learn new sobriety test

By Jane Grandolfo
Staff Writer

Steve Odum of the Carbondale Police Department calls it a "state of the art field sobriety test." Webster's defines it as "an involuntary rapid movement of the eyeball, usually from side to side."

The phrase "horizontal gaze nystagmus" is a mouthful, — and it's unlikely a drunk could say it three times fast — but translated it represents a new field sobriety test that all Carbondale police officers will be trained to perform soon.

The nystagmus test is used routinely in California, Massachusetts and Michigan, but its merits are still questionable in the Illinois court system since the test is not considered as valid proof of intoxication, Odum said.

"YOU DON'T need for it to be scientific, it's just a roadside field sobriety test," said Odum, who was recently certified to train fellow officers in nystagmus testing.

There are three nystagmus tests to determine intoxication and not everyone is eligible to take the test. "First of all, it's not an eye test, so it doesn't matter if they can focus or not," he said. Therefore, people are instructed to remove their glasses so the officer can see their eyes, Odum said.

If a person wears hard contact lenses, the horizontal gaze nystagmus test won't be given, to reduce chance of injury or a lost lens. Also, 3 to 4 percent of the population have nystagmus all the time, he said, so that is also taken into consideration.

THE FIRST test is labeled "smooth pursuit." An officer will hold a pen or similar object 12 to 15 inches from the suspects face and monitor their gaze as they follow the pen's horizontal movement.

A sober person's gaze would be fluid, he said, but a person under the influence of a depressant such as alcohol will typically respond with jerky eye movements, Odum explained.

The second test, "maximum deviation," is performed the same way as smooth pursuit, but the officer will look for the point when the suspect's eyes begin to display symptoms of nystagmus. "Their eye will start to bounce when they are looking to the side. The sooner nystagmus begins, the more intoxicated they are," he said.

THE THIRD phase of the test determines the "angle of onset" and is closely linked to the second test. If a suspect begins to display nystagmus when his eyes are at a 45-degree angle to the side, he will usually have a blood alcohol content of about .50, Odum said.

To be qualified to give the nystagmus test, officers must first participate in intensive training. Nystagmus testing will also be part of a statewide plan to standardize all field sobriety tests, Odum said.

It's not meant to replace the three current field sobriety tests which require suspects to walk a straight line, touch their finger to their nose, and stand on one leg for 30 seconds.

"IT'S TO CONFIRM your suspicions after you already suspect he's drunk. You want to decide if he's over the legal limit and make sure your arrest was valid to support your case," Odum explained.

When all field sobriety tests are used together a police officer can usually be 80 percent accurate in determining if a suspect is intoxicated, Odum said, citing data from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Illinois State Police already have 600 troopers trained in horizontal gaze nystagmus and most Carbondale police officers will be trained by the summer, Odum said.

Farmers are joined by Jackson in foreclosures, price protest

GLENWOOD, Minn. (UPI) — Jesse Jackson donned a farmers cap Monday, climbed aboard a tractor and joined farmers facing the worst agriculture crisis since the Depression in protesting low prices and farm foreclosures.

"We are natural allies — the farmer and the hungry," Jackson told a cheering crowd of about 2,000 at a morning farm rally on the shore of Lake Minnewaska. "When a farm closes in Minnesota we must hurt in Chicago and feel it in New York. We are blood of blood and flesh of flesh."

Later, the former Democratic presidential candidate led a half-mile march to the Pope County Courthouse and a 140-mile motorcade southeast to the state Capitol in St. Paul to persuade House members to adopt a one-year moratorium on farm foreclosures.

Earlier, the Senate gave final approval to its second moratorium bill on a 34-31 vote. Gov. Rudy Perpich promised Jackson Sunday he would sign the bill if it reaches his desk.

About a dozen House Democrats vowed to fast to pressure House Independent Republicans to pull the moratorium out of committee for a floor vote Thursday.

"We stand as farmers in 1985 and we stand as voters in 1986," Jackson said.

Jackson pleaded the farmers' case to Perpich Sunday night in Minneapolis. Perpich rejected Jackson's assertion that he possessed the power to declare a moratorium, but promised to sign a moratorium bill if it passed the Senate.

Perpich also pledged to back Jackson's effort to build urban-rural coalitions. Jackson announced he would hold a meeting of farm and urban leaders "somewhere between Minnesota and Missouri on or about April 15."

There is no time to waste, he said, because up to 100,000 farms could go bust this year unless the government freezes foreclosures and raises crop prices.

The farm crisis has been described as the worst since the Great Depression.

Election polling places set

Tuesday's election will decide races for Carbondale City Council and Carbondale Township. Voters within the city limits will be able to vote for both council and township candidates. GLPU awareness week to include Blue Jeans Day

By Jim Ludeman
Staff Writer

The Gay and Lesbian People's Union will sponsor its fifth annual Blue Jeans Day on Thursday.

The event has generated controversy in the past, and Brian Hooper, GLPU president, expects it will generate controversy again this year.

The purpose of Blue Jeans Day, Hooper said, is to show support for equal rights for gays and lesbians.

"It's showing support for our right to exist," he said.

The event is also designed to make people aware of what gays and lesbians go through every day, in terms of being segregated. People are forced to think about the whole issue of homosexuality, Hooper said.

THE GLPU chose blue jeans, because years ago, blue jeans were not standard dress, and gays and lesbians frequently wore them, Hooper said.

Hooper said that Blue Jeans Day doesn't just happen at SIU-C, but is a nationwide event.

He also said that SIU-C is conservative on the issue of homosexuality and Blue Jeans Day.

"We've had physical threats made against us because of Blue Jeans Day, in addition to the verbal harassment we get," Hooper said.

Verbal harassment is usually as far as gets, though, he said.

THE WEEK begins with a party at 9 p.m. Sunday at Mainstreet East. The film, "Pink Triangle," will be shown.

The film is about Nazi persecution of gays during World War II. The title stems from the pink triangles that gays were forced to wear.

After the film, there will be slides and slideshows put on by members of the GLPU, Hooper said.

On Monday, several films about sexuality will be shown from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Student Center Illinois Room and from 6 to 11 p.m. in Neckers 240.

The films to be shown are

"Pink Triangle," "Lianna," about a woman who leaves her husband for her lesbian lover and "La Cage Aux Folles."

ON TUESDAY, there will be a question-and-answer session with a panel of about eight people in the Student Center Ohio Room from 2 to 5 p.m. The panel will answer questions from the audience, Hooper said.

A panel of speakers on gays and religious issues will speak in the Student Center Mississippi room on Wednesday.

The GLPU will hold a rally from noon to 2 p.m. in the Free Forum area on Friday. The rally will feature speakers from various departments on campus as well as the GLPU.

At 2 p.m. Friday, there will be a coffeehouse and discussion of women's music in the Quigley Lounge.

The week will end with the annual GLPU picnic at noon Saturday at Giant City State Park, Hooper said.

Workshops discuss college dating and rape

By Sarah Rohrs
Staff Writer

Gaining experience in the dating game can be a major preoccupation for many college women and men. Date rape can be the unfortunate result of that experience, said Susan Smith, campus safety representative and Gwen Drury, administrative assistant at Women's Services.

Date rape makes up 70 to 90 percent of all rapes and yet is the most underreported and misunderstood type, Drury said.

A major part of the workshops Drury and Smith give on date rape is devoted to defining date rape and dispelling the myth that sexual desire is expressed in a rape.

"Most people think sex is the objective of rape, but it isn't. Control is," Drury said. The FBI definition of rape says that rape is the "sexual expression of aggression, serving non-sexual needs."

Men may not think that forcing a woman to have sex on a date could be rape, but sexual contact is the most intimate and insidious kind of control, Drury said.

Date rape is widespread on college campuses because students are usually away from home for the first time and want new experiences, Smith said.

Of course a lot of dating goes on in college, but people lack effective communication and assertiveness skills to deal with each other. Also both sexes have been socialized in such a way to make date rape seem acceptable, Smith said.

When people give their definitions of rape during the workshops, they all define the rapist as a violent stranger who attacks from darkness or breaks into a house, Drury said.

The idea of date rape does not fit into these conceptions of "stranger rape," Drury said.

People, however, are socialized to think that date rape is two words that, by their nature, don't go together, Drury said.

Men may feel that sexual aggression is expected of them on a date and that they need to "score." However, a woman may expect unwelcome sexual advances and may feel that something is wrong with her if the man doesn't touch her or force himself on her, Smith said.

Men may also feel that they deserve sex after taking a woman out and spending money on her. They may be trained to think that when a woman says "no," she really means "yes" or "try again," Smith said.

Women, on the other hand, are socialized to be passive and are "used to feeling used," Drury said.

Women also may feel that they need to give men sexual favors to keep his interest, or they may feel that men are expressing their admiration for them through sexual domination, Drury said.

A woman may also give mixed and confusing messages and then be unable to explain herself to the man she is dating, Drury said.

Date rape can also happen to men when they are forced into sex by a woman, perhaps not through physical control, but through psychological and guilt-inducing tactics, Smith said.

Doctor says diet change could be beneficial to health

By Jim Ludeman
Staff Writer

If people would change their diets, 80 percent of all physicians could be eliminated. Dr. William Manahan told a conference of health care practitioners Thursday.

Manahan, a family practitioner from Mankato, Minn., spoke in the Student Center about the effects of nutrition on health.

He presented figures from the National Cancer Institute that stated that 39 percent of what we eat or drink causes cancer. He also traced the history of the research to prevent scurvy in British sailors to further back up his claim that nutrition affects health.

"Today, we are not impressed by such research. If we could change people's diets, we could eliminate 80 percent of all physicians," he said.

MANAHAN SAID several groups of food cause problems for people.

Alcohol was one such group. Using hypertension, or high blood pressure, as an example, he said he had never had a person referred to him with hypertension who had been told to stop drinking.

Blood pressure returned to normal in 20 percent of the cases after he told the person to quit drinking, Manahan said.

"There are 42 ways to lower blood pressure without pills. Almost no one in America should be on hypertension pills. They are extremely potent and have a minimum of 30 side effects," he said.

Caffeine can also cause health problems. To illustrate, Manahan cited his wife as an example.

HIS WIFE drank coffee and they had been having some

Japan and UN to be discussed by guest speaker

The United Nations Simulation Association will conduct a model United Nations Thursday through Saturday.

On Thursday and Friday, participants will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Student Center Ballroom D.

Mitsunori Namba, director of the Japan information service for the Japanese consulate in Chicago, will speak about Japan and the United Nations Thursday.

Friday and part of Thursday, the participants will meet in subcommittees to prepare for the model general assembly, which will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, in Student Center Ballroom D.

EPCOT Center travel-study set

Public relations and design students may get a behind-the-scenes look at Walt Disney World's EPCOT Center in a May-June travel-study program.

The trip will be from May 27 to June 7 and cost about $500.

An interest meeting is set for 5 p.m. Tuesday at the SIUC Design Department. More information is available from Richard Archer, 443-5761, or Gay Wakefield, 453-2291.

trouble with their children, he said. She kept getting headaches and there did not seem to be a cause.

"We went on a canoe trip with some friends of ours. She had one massive headache at the beginning of the week, then no more after that," he said.

They had forgotten to bring along coffee, he said, so after they came back from the trip, he persuaded her to give it up for a while to see what happened. Caffeine turned out to be the culprit after all, he said.

"Caffeine is a drug nearly as potent as bennies or other uppers," he said.

CAFFEINE STIMULATES the central nervous system and the cardiac muscle, as well as the production of gastric acid, which leads to ulcers.

"Studies also show that coffee will raise a person's serum cholesterol level," he said.

Manahan also pointed out that every 2 percent decrease in cholesterol also decreases the chances of a heart attack or stroke by 1 percent.

Sugar is a third food item that can cause health problems, he said.

White or refined sugar contains absolutely no nutrients, while blackstrap molasses, or cane sugar, contains quite a few, but they are removed in the refining process.

OVERCONSUMPTION OF sugar is believed to cause, among other things, hyperactivity in children, Manahan said. As an example, he told the story of 7-year-old girl he was seeing, and how she went "from a devil to an angel" just by removing sugar.

Later in the conference, Manahan led a workshop on wellness and holistic health.

Manahan said there are three aspects to his view on wellness. The first is to view a disease as an ally, not an enemy.

"When people come into my office with problems, my response is 'What is your body trying to tell you?'" he said.

WHEN PEOPLE get sick, it usually means something is wrong with their lifestyle and it is important to look at that when treating them.

The second aspect to wellness is to establish an adult-to-adult relationship between patient and physician, not the typical parent-to-child relationship that exists, he said.

The final aspect of wellness is to remember that most diseases have several factors.

Tigers beat Dodgers, Howe 8-6

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Chet Lemon ripped two doubles and scored twice Monday to lead the Detroit Tigers to an 8-6 exhibition victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers in Steve Howe's first mound appearance in two seasons.

Lemon's second double sparked a four-run uprising in the seventh inning that carried the Tigers.

Howe, suspended for the 1984 season because of repeated drug problems, had been slowed this spring by January elbow surgery. He allowed four runs on three hits and two walks in just 2-3 inning.

"Basically, I didn't throw the ball where I wanted to," Howe said, "but the arm felt fine. I hadn't pitched in a game like this in more than a year, so I was eager to see what I could do."

"I'm still not throwing 100 percent, but I think that's going to come in time. If the arm is okay tomorrow, I'll feel like I've passed an important test."

Lemon's efforts keyed a 13-hit attack against four Los Angeles pitchers. His first double highlighted a three-run fourth inning against Bob Welch, who gave up four runs and nine hits in six innings.

John Grubb had three hits for the Tigers.

Dernier paces Cubs to 7-6 victory

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Bob Dernier's ninth-inning RBI single gave the Chicago Cubs a 7-6 victory over the California Angels, who led 5-0 after five innings of Monday's Grapefruit League game.

Dernier followed a leadoff double by Shawn Dunston with his single to center to snap a 6-6 tie.

The Angels jumped on starter Dennis Eckersley for two runs in the first on RBI singles by Rod Carew and Ruppert Jones and added three runs in the third, an inning highlighted by Reggie Jackson's leadoff homer and a run-scoring triple by Jack Howell.

The Cubs tied it in the fifth against Geoff Zahn, the rally featuring Gary Matthews' two-run single and a two-run home run by Leon Durham.

Jody Davis' run-producing single in the sixth gave the Cubs a brief lead. Carew's sacrifice fly made it 6-6 an inning later.

The triumph snapped a four-game Chicago losing streak and improved the Cubs' record to 14-12. The Angels are 11-9.

Cubs acquire Baller in deal with Cleveland for Rohn

TUSCON, Ariz. (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians traded pitcher Jay Baller to the Chicago Cubs for infielder Danny Rohn, it was announced Monday.

In a separate transaction, the Indians sold minor league outfielder Glenn Edwards to the Cubs' Class A affiliate Winston-Salem of the Carolina League.

Baller, a 24-year old righthander, had a 0-0 record with a 1.80 earned run average in five innings over three exhibition games. However, Baller had control problems. He allowed five walks, had three strikeouts, hit two batters and uncorked two wild itches.

"We hated to give up on him," Indians' manager Pat Corrales said. "But he just couldn't get the ball over."

"And, we were out of options on him. If we sent him to the minors, we would have to expose him to procedural waivers to get him back."

Baller will probably be sent to Iowa, the Cubs' Triple A affiliate in the American Association, but he has been told he will have a chance to make the Cubs' 25-man roster.

"I'm lucky to get another chance," Baller said. "And I intend to make the most of it."

Rohn, 29, batted .222 (4-for-18) with two RBI in 10 games with the Cubs. Last season with Iowa, he batted .268 with eight home runs and 46 RBI in 109 games.

In a 25-game stint with Chicago late last year, he batted .129 with one homer and three RBI.

"I expect to be traded," Rohn had said two weeks ago when the Cubs played Cleveland at Tuscon's Hi Corbett Field. "I'd just like to go somewhere where a good utility infielder is needed."

Corrales said Rohn would be brought into camp as an invitee, but added the infielder would start the season with Maine of the International League.
