College Will Initiate Number of Changes in Curriculum, Including Introduction of Library and Nursing Courses

Will Offer Special Training in Practice Teaching, Elementary School Work And in Agriculture

As a result of increasing demands upon its graduates, the Southern Illinois Normal University will initiate a number of pertinent changes in its curriculum within the next few months. These changes, announced Wednesday by the college curriculum committee, include a plan whereby students may receive business training and training in medical technology, doing a portion of their preparation here and the remainder at Washington University, St. Louis; the introduction of courses in library science, special work in teaching, and theory for students planning to teach in the elementary school; and special courses in agriculture for rural school and elementary school teachers.

Dr. Marie A. Hinrichs, head of the physiology and health education department, presented the plan to the curriculum committee providing for a five-year training course in nursing and medical technology at the end of which the student would be awarded an B. S. and a B. Ed. degree and a medical or biological degree. Arrangements with Washington University authorities are expected to be completed within the near future, when more detailed information will be released. Regarding the fact that public schools in the future will demand teachers who are qualified to direct the school library, the college plans to offer courses in library science in conjunction with the fall term, 1940. According to reports from the placements office, the demand for teachers specially trained in kindergarten and elementary school work has steadily increased within the past few years. Widespread interest in this problem prompted the curriculum committee to set up a special committee to investigate possible changes in the training of elementary school teachers here. The new curriculum for elementary education majors will involve the present general education during the first two years of training with the number of vital changes in the present arrangement during the third and fourth years. Final plans for the elementary education curriculum will be made this week. Dr. W. A. Thilman, chairman of the curriculum committee, announced.

ROSE BAMPTON PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE HERE

When she sang here Wednesday night, ardent, smiling Rose Bampton easily captured the admiration of Southern students with her beautiful voice and sparkling personality. Here was the last program on this year's Cooperative Concert Series. The audience was particularly enthusiastic about Miss Bampton's interpretation of "The Stars" from "Tosca," by Puccini, "A Piper" by Michael Head, and "Tell Me, Blue Sky" by Victorio Ghilardi. She sang several encores, among them "Songs My Mother Taught Me," "Oh No John," and "One Fine Day." She also sang "The Star" by Newton, well-known English ballad.

At present Miss Bampton is on an extensive concert tour, is singing in many colleges and universities throughout the United States. She played and sang tonight in this place and Hank's auditorium, much more appreciative than those of other cities.

After returning from abroad recently she began recording a new album of American songs and songs of other lands. These will be released next fall.

Although Miss Bampton is a dramatic soprano, she began her career as a coloratura soprano. From that point, the classification of her vocalists changed to mezzo soprano. She is also a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Her most famous roles are "Norma" in her favorite role.

MacDOWELL CLUB SHOULD TOUR TO ADVERTISE THE COLLEGE Why doesn't Southern's singing organization, the MacDowell Club, do some touring to advertise our school? For years the club, under the direction of Mr. David McIntosh, has been noted as one of the most outstanding a cappella choirs in Illinois. One can clearly see the value of a group of this kind for advertising purposes if he knows that many of the larger schools send their choirs on a tour each year. This was demonstrated last week when the glee club of Washington University of St. Louis presented a program here which was very enthusiastically received by the audience.

Southern's only advertising is done by the various athletic groups when they take their occasional trips each term. Many will advance the argument that our athletic department is reimbursed by the gate receipts. If any individual believes this, he needs only to figure the costs of maintaining these organizations and he will find the meager receipts fail to come anywhere near financing equipment, stadiums, and road trips. The MacDowell club is not jealous of the athletic department—quite the contrary. Its members believe men who practice diligently every night should have a chance to display their talents against competition. But, isn't the MacDowell Club also entitled to at least one major tour each year? The club practices every day throughout the entire year, but ability is seldom shown beyond the city limits of Carbondale. This condition is discouraging to the members of the organization, who must practice in the same place day after day. The MacDowell Club should be given a chance to advertise Southern and at the same time display the abilities of its members beyond Carbondale.

MOCK CONVENTION SHOULD PROVE TO BE GOOD TEACHING MEDIUM The mock national nominating convention which is being sponsored on this campus by George W. Watson of the political science department and the Y. M. C. A. should prove an excellent field of demonstration for the political science department. Students in this department have heard many lectures on the disadvantages of the convention method of nomination. But because of lack of actual contact or experience, they have failed to realize fully the unfairness of some of the practices commonly engaged in. The mock convention will present to students concrete situations, actual methods, complicated processes. In other words, they will learn by seeing and doing rather than by hearing.

Educational leaders throughout the country are beginning to find that teaching by experience is much more effective than the mere presentation of facts. Southern, recognizing this trend, is constantly increasing the students' opportunities to learn by doing. The Allyn Training School, the Alexander Conservation Unit, the house run by the home economics department, the Student Council—all these are examples of projects by which the students may actually do things. The mock convention should provide an additional example of this type of education.—N. M.

HUMORIST CONDEMNS AMERICAN COLLEGES; FACTS, LIKE FOOD, NEED TO BE DIGESTED "When opinion gets confused—living opinion—the colleges can always fall back on the opinion of the dead. If living men can't think, let's have a catalogue of all that dead men ever thought, and the students can learn that." is teacher-humorist Stephen Leacock's condemnation of most present-day teaching. Mr. Leacock continues, "In fact, economics can be all dosed up with history, as doctors dose a patient with iron. And statistics! If we don't understand the industrial world, at least let us have statistics. The continental area of the United States is 3,026,780 square miles and the number of syndicates in Lowell, Massachusetts, is 201,608 (or is it?). That's the stuff. Make a four-year course and give a degree in it—a D. P."

Sesame For Collegians

By W. R. RICE. MOCK CONVENTION QUARTER TO BE PARADISE TO CAMPUS POLITICIANS

Campus politicians will have an opportunity to throw off all inhibitions in preparing for the mock national nominating convention to be sponsored soon by the Y. M. C. A. and George H. Watson of the political science department. They ought to get the next few weeks to find themselves living in paradise.

Not only should the event be a barrel of fun, it might also be an education—not the kind of education we get from school books, but a kind of practical education found too rarely in colleges.

If it is carried out according to plan, we may see through experience how small men are made present by big men and how big men are made bigger by small men. It ought to furnish a rare opportunity to match wits and personalities. It ought to give campus politicians a chance to try all their wildest imaginative schemes.

A few things may be said for campus politics. No matter how rotten, it furnishes a good opportunity for expression of personalities. It furnishes a wholesome stimulation for initiative, and may easily supply a good medium for araising a much needed interest in national politics. Students think it a swell idea.

Harry Titchener "The mock convention ought to bring home to students the actual procedure of the general way in which things are done at national conventions. It will be a first-hand course of politics in the real world."

Harry Titchener "The mock convention ought to bring home to students the actual procedure of the general way in which things are done at national conventions. It will be a first-hand course of politics in the real world."

Alton Buchanan, senate delegate "I'm not going to be a politician, but I'm very much interested. There is no use to talk about politics unless we know something about it, and this is a good chance to learn."

Oberlin College of Oberlin, Ohio held the first mock convention in 1880 and has held one every four years since that time. Other colleges have copied the idea and have found it to be very successful.

Harry Taylor, Speaker, Inspires Student Audience Tuesday Morning

By ROBERT CALLISS. "It's the joy we get out of living that counts." "It doesn't make any difference what your creed is, if you know how to live with your fellow-men and if you know how to work." "The great teacher is the one who makes you want to learn." Thus Mr. Taylor elaborated on the beauties and the vital issues of a successful teaching career.

Truly it was an inspiring speech. Mr. Taylor, consciously or not, performed a "Service for Southern" which cannot be estimated, for he succeeded in opening our eyes to the opportunities of the teaching field. He dispelled the usual defeatist attitude which we carry with us on the campus. We were downright proud to say, "School teaching's the job for me."

Anthony Hall Gives Second of Series of Formal Dinners

Anthony Hall gave the second of its series of formal dinners for groups of faculty members and residents of the Hall April 4. Officers of the Hall plan to give several more dinners before the close of the spring term. Different groups are invited to each dinner.

Outside Activities Count

"And then your activities outside the classroom are as great a part of a teaching position as the class room sessions," states Mr. Taylor. "Set in a good home affiliate your job with some church, take an active part in some civic organization, be a vital part of the community in which you teach." One of the most important factors to be careful about is to "keep your counsel." Have satisfied customers, don't be any mother go away without being satisfied with the education you are giving her child.

Pi Delta Epsilon Receives Notice In Epsilon

Following is the "write-up" of the activities of Pi Delta Epsilon, local journalism fraternity which appeared in the Epsilon, national publication of the fraternity recently.

Pi Delta at Southern Illinois Normal University, which incidentally is the fourth largest teachers' college in the United States under state control, have taken on themselves a largest job... editing the newly established alumni bulletin, the "Southern Alumnus".

Seven new pledges in the fall term brought total membership to 11 members. Pi Delta's big job at Southern Illinois is to prove itself better than another journalism fraternity on the campus.

Most successful meeting of the year: Inviting the editor of the local newspaper to criticize the two campus-publications, The Egyptian, campus weekly, and the Southern Alumnus, quarterly.

Best time of year: initiation banquet, which the secretary of the Alumni Association and faculty sponsors were invited.

Unable to send delegates to the Richmond convention, the Illinois group has determined to have representation at Denison University, in 1941.

GIRLS' SPORTS SECTION

By DOROTHY MAY KLOESS, Women's Physical Education Major, Beginning Fall Term 1940.

In the last few years there have been numerous requests for a major in women's physical education at S. I. N. U. After careful consideration, the curriculum committee recommended that this proposed major be instituted, subject to the approval of the administration of the college.

Since there is a growing demand for more physical education instructors at this time, the committee thought it quite advisable to give the requested major. The additional subject matter will be offered beginning with the fall term 1940.

Activity courses include volleyball, basketball, folk dancing, and softball for the first year; and tennis, techniques and skills and archery for the second year.
