Overdue Book Raises Query About Penalty

At Morris Library, the staff has learned to expect the unusual, but currently they are wrestling with a problem of an overdue book in which the patron has suggested that it might be cheaper to buy the whole library than to pay the fine.

The following is the text of her letter as it appeared in the Library staff bulletin:

"In May, I believe, I received a notice from the library advising me I owed $8.15 on a book. I ignored the bill. A few days later the book had been returned along with several others I had taken out and that in time you would get the whole matter straightened out. It appears now that the only thing that needed straightening out was me.

"This morning when I took the book apart in the den, I discovered this book between the mattress and box spring. When I looked at the date I promptly collapsed on said box spring and mattress and have been in a state of semi-shock ever since, I asked my doctor to figure up how much I owed on it. He did, I got off the box spring and mattress and let him lay down for awhile.

"I was contemplating mortgaging the house and selling one of the children to pay the overdue fines, but since all three children annoy me equally, I didn’t know which one to get rid of and thought perhaps I would make some sort of arrangement with the library to buy the book.

"This is, of course, providing it would be cheaper to buy the book than it would the library.

"The whole thing is not a matter I can discuss with my husband, as he considers losing the deposit on a broken Coke bottle a major catastrophe. I would hesitate to suggest to him that he loan me the money as there is no more room in the box spring and mattress.

"Do you have an alternate plan of returning this book other than leaving my husband and committing suicide?"

According to the Bulletin, Circulation Librarian Robert Kielak wrote a suitable reply to Mrs. B.

Board to Discuss Internal Budget

SIU’s internal budget for 1966-67 will be considered Monday when the Board of Trustees meet at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday on the Edwardsville campus.

Other matters to be considered include changes in faculty and administration personnel and provision or utilities for U.S. Forest Service greenhouses on the Carbondale campus.

University Police Issued 11,616 Tickets For Traffic Violations During Past Year

University police issued 11,616 traffic tickets to students, faculty, staff members and visitors during the 1965-66 fiscal year. A total amount of fines paid was not immediately available.

The 4,787 tickets issued to students accounted for the largest number of the total. In addition, 1,660 were issued to faculty and staff members, and 240 were given visitors and others for campus traffic violations.

Another 3,231 tickets were issued to cycle owners during the year, according to Thomas L. Leffler, Security Officer.

Leffler said that there is a small" backlog of unpaid tickets but for the most part "people usually pay pretty promptly.”

Leffler said that after a ticket has been issued the Bursar’s Office is notified and records on the violations are kept there. When a ticket has been paid or the violation has been voided, the name is checked off the list.

He acknowledged that some persons do skip out without paying their fines but added that not too many did.

If a person doesn’t pay his fine he is given a new citation.

Mom-Daughter Workshoppers
Are 'Roughing It' in Camper

Abraham Lincoln had it rough. He had to get his education studying by the light of a flickering fire in a hearth. SIU may have its first Lincoln-type scholars in a mother and a daughter from West Salem who are “roughing it” in a 1965 pickup truck. They do their studying on a picnic table.

Mrs. Doris Lehr and her daughter Linda are coining scholars in a mother of Salem, while attending SIU. In the morning, they take a trip in their camper to the Whirlpool Lake and have made many trips to camping areas around Kentucky Lake.

The camper is equipped with a small refrigerating unit and a cook stove. “We’re running into one small problem,” Linda said. “Our typewriter is not running, but we have a complete reading list and make reports for the three-hour credit that the workshop offers. This means many hours of burning the midnight oil.”

The problem—the Lehrs don’t have any midnight oil, just battery powered lamps. Mrs. Lehr has already sent out a plea for help to get her batteries recharged.

Music Workshop

Audience Gets Full Effect of Midwest July During ‘Annie Get Your Gun’ Performance

By Rose Asutino

Cincinnati in July, the opening scene of “Annie Get Your Gun,” was probably just as warm and uncomfortable as Shryock Auditorium Friday night during the third production by the Summer Music Theater Company.

Members of the high school music workshop played most of the roles in the play that focuses on the true story of Annie Oakley who challenges sharpshooter Frank Butler to a shooting match. She not only wins the match but the man, too.

Rita Kueker from Red Bud delighted the audience with her portrayal of Annie Oakley. Miss Kueker moved across the stage belting out her first song, “Don’l What Comes Naturally,” with great ease. With her long blonde hair hanging loosely on her shoulders, she made Annie Oakley come to life once again.

Another workshop from Red Bud was Ron Casey who played Frank Butler, sharpshooter and lady’s man of his day. Dark haired, well built Casey was also well cast.

Sitting Bull, played by Bill McHughes of the Summer Music Stock Company, did a fine job of adding subtle humor just when it was needed. However, Sam Bittner, who played Buffalo Bill, wasn’t quite what one pictures as the strong, manly hero of the Wild West. He didn’t sound like it either.

Choreography by Dede Thomas was superb. The serious Indian dance ritual was well liked by the audience. Another well done number featured Miss Kueker singing and dancing to “I Got the Sun in the Morning.”

Irrving Berlin’s songs added to the light-hearted production. Some were “Show Business,” “They Say It’s Wonderful!” and “You Can’t Get a Man With a Gun.”

The young married couple, Winnie and Tommy, played by Cheryl Lichter and Ken Whitener, performed a lively song and dance to another Berlin lyric, “Who Do You Love?”

Some were simple and scenic, which would have been fine, but in some instances were distracting. When Annie did her great shooting feat seated on a cardboard replica of a cycle gliding across stage, the idea was difficult to imagine. On the other hand, sound effects from backstage helped make the rain scene and ferryboat scene more believable.

Watts Is Ghetto, But Not a Slum

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

NEGROES comprised about 18 per cent of the Los Angeles population last year. They were responsible for 40 per cent of the crimes of force and violence.

Two hundred members of the Los Angeles teachers union have demanded that they be taken out of Watts or given hardship pay.

While the sentimentals mourn about Watts' unemployment the Sunday Los Angeles Times carries pages of helpful ads, many of them for unskilled labor, and crops rent in the San Joaquin and Imperial Valleys for want of pickers.

Because of the ruling hazard from mobs the Los Angeles County sheriff is having trouble recruiting deputies.

The stores still open long after Watts' 103rd St. now have riot grating. And so one is rebuilding the burned ones.

Here is a pulling apart. The fed-up whites. The agitator-whipped Negroes. The dope, the liquor, the standing around. The stone against the car. The fleeting teachers, just when the best should be pouring in. The zelfest ever-rising demands, which no one expects will ever be to 'force the enemy to the peace table.'

"I think that should be perfectly clear," said Cpl. Pettibone recently. "If we are bombing for peace, we must stop bombing for war. If the peace lovers are for escalation, we war lovers must oppose them vigorously with a policy of de-escalation.

"Once we have stopped bombing Hiroii and Haiphong to achieve more war, we must stop bombing all of North Viet Nam, which we started bombing to make peace. Then, to incen­tize the fighting, we can start withdrawing the hundreds of thousands of soldiers we sent over there to bring peace to that gloriously war-ravaged land."
England
Swings
Just Like the Song Says

By Tim Ayers
Special to The Daily Egyptian

LONDON—London has lately been described as "the most-corrput city, the swingingest city, a city reborn and Sodom and Gomorrath."

All of these descriptions are valid.
And what goes for London in general goes double for the West End of London.

In the few miles around Piccadilly Circus there are more Rolls Royces than seem necessary. And stepping out of them are top-hatted gentlemen squiring mini-skirted ladies.

Walking down the streets are women in sarongs and men in cowboy boots. And believe it or not, Piccadilly Circus even has a man walking around with a sign exclaiming, "The end is near."

This is the entertainment center of the city. Othello, Olivier and Funny Girl are competing with lavish cabaret spectacles and strip shows (male and female).

Casinos operate through the night. There are casinos for every price range except cheap and the dealers are just as likely to be from Reno as from Soho.

Nearby is Carnaby Street, the capital of the Mod world. On the street are striped slacks, satin blouses and high heeled boots. And the girls dress even wilder.

The street has as many head-shaking tourists as it does members of the "in" crowd. Germans, French, Italians, Indians and of course Americans walk up and down the narrow street picking out likely natives for photographic subjects. Overlooking all this at a corner of the street is a bust of William Shakespeare.

Appropriately enough, the bust seems to be smiling.

Clothes are not the only commodity available on Carnaby Street. A shop called "Gear" offers all the necessities for a well furnished apartment.

Such things as a wide selection of chamber pots, non-workable watches and clocks, 1927 post cards, pink flatirons, brass beds and posters asking "Why is the London policeman the best in the world?" are available at an admittedly inflated price.

In various places throughout the West End there are glass-enclosed notice boards. Reading the notices are bewilder bankiers and Her Majesty's sailors. The board displays notices put up by girls proclaiming their availability. Specialties are sometimes mentioned but seldom prices.

The streets are crowded with people scurrying either to something or away from something.

Also on the streets are the pitchmen, selling glass figures, and huge, hairy, toy taramulas that jump when you squeeze a rubber ball.

It's hard to get a ticket for the better shows but the further down the artistic line the easier it is to get in. Outside the notorious West End clip joints the girls invite the passer-by to "come on in and take a quick look at the show."

The quick look can often be an expensive one.

Blazing over Piccadilly Circus is the news of the world flashed in lights, Times Square style. Nobody seems to pay any attention. Those who do look suspiciously like Americans.

Of course, this is only one section of London. There is still the Tower and Big Ben and Westminster Abbey. There are also the galleries and museums, the fine shops and restaurants, the embassies and banks.

But the heartbeat of London is no longer situated in these places. Almost anybody you ask will explain this to be a result of the welfare state, the two world wars, socialized medicine, lack of respect for the crown or the loss of the colonies. Who knows?

Choir Concert Set for Wednesday

Robert W. Kingsbery, assistant professor of music, will conduct the Southern Illinois University Choir and Chamber Choir in concert at 8 p.m. August 3, in Davis Auditorium in the Whitn Education Building.

Kingsbery will be assisted by graduate students John Latza and Edna Walker and undergraduate students Harold E. Keister and Lowell Land.

The Chamber will begin the concert with Anierico’s ”Angelus Aurem Domini” followed by six folk songs by Brahms including ”I’ll Enter Your Garden,” ”The Fiddler,” ”How Sow Flow The Streams,” ”At Night,” ”Awake Awake,” and ”A House Stands Neath the Willow’s Shade.” Concluding their portion of the program they will present P.A. Christiansen’s ”The Christmas Symbol” featuring soprano Amnette Beaven.

The University Choir will continue with J.S. Bach’s ”Now Thank We All Our God,” Victoria’s ”Te Timeas Maria,” Lobel’s ”Still, Still, Still!” with Anna Mitchell, Cellette and Phyllis Weber, flute; and concluding the program the Choir will present Schutz’ ”Song of Praise.”

Members of the University Summer Choir include James Barger, Voncell Boga, Margaret Boyer, Danny F. Bruce, James L. Cavatozzo, Dolores Cohen, Kathy Coughenour, Robert DeMille, Mary K. Gormatt, Martha A. Harpetreet, Merle A. Hodel, James R. Jennings and Harold E. Keister.

The Summer University Chamber Choir is made up of Annette Beaven, Carolyn Brokering, Robert DeMille, Anna B. Mitchell, Mary J. Prange, Daniel R. Saatboth, Steven D. Spaner and Paul Vest.

The manager of both the Choir and the Chamber Choir is Daniel Saatboth.

The instruments for the Schurr Motet will be played by John N. Gibbs, oboe II, Connie M. Hinton, violoncello, John Smith, bassoon, William Hayes, string bass, Larry Franklin, trumpet I, Roger Jun, trumpet II, Charles S. Tanner, trombone I, Gary A. Chott, trombone II, and Leon Davis, tuba.

Staff Researcher Publishes Work

Ewing Kallo. Staff member in the U.S. Department of Agriculture Forest Service research center at SIU, is coauthor of a University of Illinois Research Bulletin recently issued under the title, ”Prospects for Hardwood Pulp Manufacturing in Illinois.”

Kallo is project leader for the center’s forest marketing research.

4 From SIU Named Associates in ‘Level-of-Work’ Concept

Three students and an assistant to the dean of SIU’s School of Business have been elected research associates in the American Council on Level-of-Work Measurement.

Work measurement, a relatively new approach to assessment of on-the-job performance, is based on theories advanced by British management experts, Elliot Jacques and Lord Wilfred Brown. Their system emphasizes worker satisfaction, initiative, discharge of responsibilities, and other factors as performance indicators rather than conventional time and motion studies.

The system, becoming increasingly popular in American management circles, is sometimes called the ”Carnegie Concept.” The first international seminar on work measurement was held at SIU last year and SIU has designated headquarters for the Western Hemisphere Level-of-Work Council.

Fremont A. Shull Jr., professor of management, presented certificates to the new associates in formal ceremonies at SIU. Shull is secretary of the council.

The new associates are: Robert Miller of Mount Olive, SIU graduate student in management and an instructor in psychology at VTI; John Stockman, Springfield, graduate student in business and VTI instructor; and Paul Peterson, Bourbonnais, graduate student in management and a staff trainee at Western Electric, Chicago.

Donald Hellriegel, Carbondale, management instructor and assistant to the dean of the School of Business.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - An ex-Marine, firing with deadly accuracy, killed at least 12-and possibly 15-personnel standing on a University of Texas library tower. Police said he wounded 29 other persons.

The sniper was identified as a 24-year-old architecturally-trained engineering student at the university, Joseph Whitman. Police Chief Bob Mills said the dead included 10 bodies at Brekenridge Hospital, including Whitman, and three or four still in the tower. Police, who burst in upon Whitman as he was still shooting, said the sniper was armed with two high-powered 30-06 deer rifles, a sawed-off shotgun and a .357 Magnum pistol.

He terrorized the campus for 1½ hours, picking off some victims as far as two blocks away as they walked along Austin's main downtown street during the busy lunch hour.

After firing back at the sniper from behind trees and buildings below, officers finally entered the tower through an underground tunnel, climbed to the observation tower above the sniper's perch and let fire at him with pistols and a shotgun.

The狙击手 was last sighted by Police Chief Bob Mills at 11:55 a.m. and at 1:20 p.m. Police Chief Bob Mills announced, "We got him."

The slender, four-sided tower is about 30 stories high. It stands in the middle of the campus and its upper stories command a view of the entire city. Throughout the gun battle the sniper changed his position quickly from one window to another on the 25th floor.

Police said Whitman had with him in addition to his weapons a plastic container of gasoline and a supply of food and water to last a few days. Some of his victims fell in the grass of the campus mall.

The victims included a police officer, a girl student, a small boy, a city electrical utility worker and an Associated Press newsmen.

Guerrilla Arms Dump Seized Near Saigon After Bombing

SAIGON, (AP) - U.S. 25th Division troops swarmed down a Viet Cong base near Saigon Monday and seized a huge arms dump, two hours after the area was blasted by B52 bombers from Guam.

Flown to the area in helicopters, the troops found 90,000 rounds of ammunition, submachine guns, mines and booby traps, but no bodies. Heavy Viet Cong fire killed two helicopters that had just landed troops. The helicopters flew out without casualties.

The thunder of explosions from the eight-engine B52s rattled windows and could be heard clearly in this capital, 25 miles to the south east. The bombers were working over a region they had repeatedly hit before.

In the only other major group action today, units of the 25th were hit by North Vietnamese army elements about 245 miles to the north of Saigon in the central highlands.

The attack was repulsed with 26 Communists killed, the U.S. Command reported. But some officers in the field felt this might be the opening skirmish of a major engagement near the Cambodian border.

The highland area near Pleiku has been the lair of regular army regiments from North Viet Nam. The Duc Co region, scene of the last attack was the site of major fighting last summer.

Three Races Enliven Primary Tests Today

In Michigan former Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavenagh are vying in the Democratic Senate nomination.

British Excursion Boat With 31 Aboard Lost

FALMOUTH, England (AP) - Hope faded Monday night for 31 persons aboard a British excursion boat which vanished in a storm off the wild Cornish 'smugglers coast.'

Seven children were among the holidaymakers-all believed to be British—who set out Sunday morning aboard the 45-foot motor cruiser Darlwin on a 40-mile coastal voyage. They were due back at Falmouth about 7 p.m. Sunday.

A search over a 1,000-square-mile area by planes and ships found only a skiff and a rubber floor mat. The white dinghy, containing clothing and a life jacket, was brought into Falmouth and identified as one the Darlwin was towing.

The dinghy was found by search planes near the Eddy stone Rocks, a dangerous reef in the English Channel 35 miles east of Falmouth.

The missing Darlwin, a twin-engined diesel, was towing the skiff and carried fiberglass dinghy and a 14-foot wooden dinghy.

The Coast Guard reported winds up to 50 miles an hour blew up shortly after the excursion cruiser left for a return trip to Falmouth. The Darlwin was last sighted by fishermen half an hour later, four miles out of Fowey.

When she left Fowey, the weather was overcast and raining but the sea was fairly moderate.

Donald Carter of the Fowey lifeboat station said: however. "An hour later the wind sprang up and it was soon blowing hard."

Planes and fishermen searched the tiny coves along the Cornish coast—where smugglers of the 18th and 19th centuries brought ashore their contraband—in case the blue-hulled Darlwin had sought shelter from the storm. They found nothing.

No one fears the engines had failed and the vessel had been swept to the open sea. Land's End, the extreme tip of southwest England, is known as a graveyard for such vessels. They have been wrecked there.

Demilitarized Zone Bombing Defended

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara defended bombing raids in the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam.

He told reporters Monday after a closed session with a Senate appropriations subcommittee that "hostile forces have penetrated it and are using it as an entry way to South Viet Nam."

McNamara said there is "no indication of a massing of North Vietnamese troops for a large-scale invasion of South Viet Nam" but there is "much indication that they are continuing to expand their forces in the south."

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Army Chief of Staff Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi, who said he had been kidnapped, has been replaced Monday for Nigeria’s government in place of Maj. Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi, who was overthrown with men from his tribe which dominated the south.

Luci’s Bridal Fittings Start

WASHINGTON (AP)—Priscilla of Boston began a two-day stint of fitting bridal-gowns at the White House.

The designer, who has been in the business of providing bridal costumes for 25 years, plans to stay until Luci Johnson, 24-year-old sister of the bride, can care of any unforeseen difficulties.

So far everything is going well with the fittings underway in the third-floor of the White House which is being used for bridal party guests and wedding preparations. There also was a fashion parade in Luci’s second floor bedroom.

Among those trying on the pink, white, and floral dresses were Luci’s older sister and maid of honor, 25-year-old Priscilla Johnson, and Lynda’s college roommate, Warrick Lynn Smith of San Antonio, Tex.

Bridegroom-to-be Patrick Johnson, 24, meanwhile, was reported out doing some of his own shopping and errands while the fittings are under way.

fall within the definition of a motor vehicle as "every vehicle propelled otherwise than by muscular power." Mr. Morris asked that the committee allow time for him to meet with Ruffner before it passed on the proposal.

Ted Ort, a student member of the Vehicle, Traffic and Safety Committee, called the new move "fradai and arbitrary." Before it had decided to delay action, the committee proposed mailing letters to students informing them of the new regulations if the committee voted to apply them to cycles.
The committee voted the danger and noise of motorcycles as the main reason.

Faculty Member's Book Published

A "Handbook for Teachers of Adults," written by SIU faculty member Glenn E. Wills, has been published by the SIU Division of Technical and Adult Education.
The book contains specific information on operation of Southern's comprehensive adult program and outlines general guides for teachers of adult classes.

J. Simon, dean of the division, said that the handbook "will become a standard guide for teachers entering the adult education field.

Wills, an adult education supervisor, has been with the division since 1959. He is a native of Shelbyville Ky.

ST. LOUIS BLUES

SIU Trips Billikens 3 Out of 4

The baseball Billikens of St. Louis must be singing the blues this summer as they混凝土ed the second place in the Missouri College Summer League.
The hapless Billikens fell to a little consolation from Southern over the weekend, as the Salukis took three out of four in a four-series game at Carbondale.

In Southern, over going the .500 mark in league play with a 13-12 record, ran the Billiken record down to a dismal 2-16 mark.

The Southern College has already won the summer crown with a 15-3 record. Southern is six games out on the boat side with just five contests remaining.

In the SIU-St. Louis opener Saturday afternoon, a five run second inning, sparked by a three run double by Dick Ramsey, powered the Salukis to an 8-4 win.

The Billiken, with late inning help from Bob Ash, put up his fifth win against the St. Louis' pitching. The right-hander gave up seven hits, while Ash, the lefty, gave up only six, held the Bills to two hits.

A four-hitter by Mike Weber powered the Salukis to a 3-2 margin.

Weber, along with Jerry Evans, put up his third home run in the scoring attack of Southern in a six-run third inning.

Evans crossed the plate in the second inning, after he had singled. He came in for the run as Weber doubled. An inning later, Evans and Weber again helped pave the way in a two run production, as Evans brought in two batters up on base from a Saluki all is hung to hang on for the win.

In the visiting Bills managed two runs off of the home plate, one in the fifth and sixth, but the winning pitcher went all the way to run his mark to 3-1.

Another brilliant pitching performance came for coach Joe Lutz in the first game of the Sunday twinbill, Skip Pitchock went all the way, tossing a fine threeseries, the visitors scored two runs in the first frame, and then throw four hurling at Southern, to gain a 2-1 shutout.

In the second game, St. Louis, started for SIU, retired the first two men he faced, but then an error opened the door for the two runs.

Rick Dornon, going the last three innings, gave up just two hits in a fine relief job.

St. Louis coach Lee drew fine performances from two runners, who combined down on a combined four-hitter.

The three conference teams will be finishing the summer season in the following upcoming tournaments:

A four-team, four-day tournament will be set for Thursday at Fletcher Field in Collinsville. Off Air Force, the college will join conference teams.

The series final series, involving the same teams, will come August 12-13-14 at Fairleigh, Iowa.
