New Soviet rulers unleash military

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Kremlin's new rulers, moving swiftly Monday to clamp control over a nation stunned by the ouster of Mikhail Gorbachev, sent troops and tanks into the streets of Moscow and cracked down on the breakaway Baltic republics.

But resistance to the coup began to spread. Several small army units declared their loyalty to Boris Yeltsin, president of the Russian Federation, who was urging civil disobedience and a general strike to protest what he called an illegal coup.

Thousands of Gorbachev's supporters blocked the tanks and armored personnel carriers and some climbed aboard. Civilians of all ages lectured apparently sympathetic soldiers and denounced what they called "fascism." Muscovites even decorated gun turrets with flowers.

Miners in the key Donbas coal region of the Ukraine and the Kuzbas fields in Siberia announced they would join the nationwide strike. Yeltsin's press office said regional governments in the key Siberian coal, oil, gas and industrial centers of Kemerovo, Novosibirsk, Irkutsk and Tomsk supported the Russian government's call for opposition

Bush: No U.S. aid if coup continues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush condemned the ouster of Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev Monday night and supported a specific call by Russian leader Boris Yeltsin to restore the government and reaffirm Gorbachev's presidency.

In a strongly worded statement released several hours after his return to the nation's capital from his vacation home in Maine, Bush said the United States would "not support" Soviet economic aid programs if the "misguided and illegitimate" coup continues.

Council to raise money by raising parking fees

By Annette Holder
City Writer

The Carbondale City Council will consider raising parking rates, extending the hours for paid parking and raising permit prices at its meeting tonight.

The council will decide if the current 10-cents an hour parking rate should be raised to 25 cents, extending the hours for paid parking from 6 p.m. to 12 a.m. and increasing permits to $12 from $10. Permits allow people to park downtown for a monthly fee.

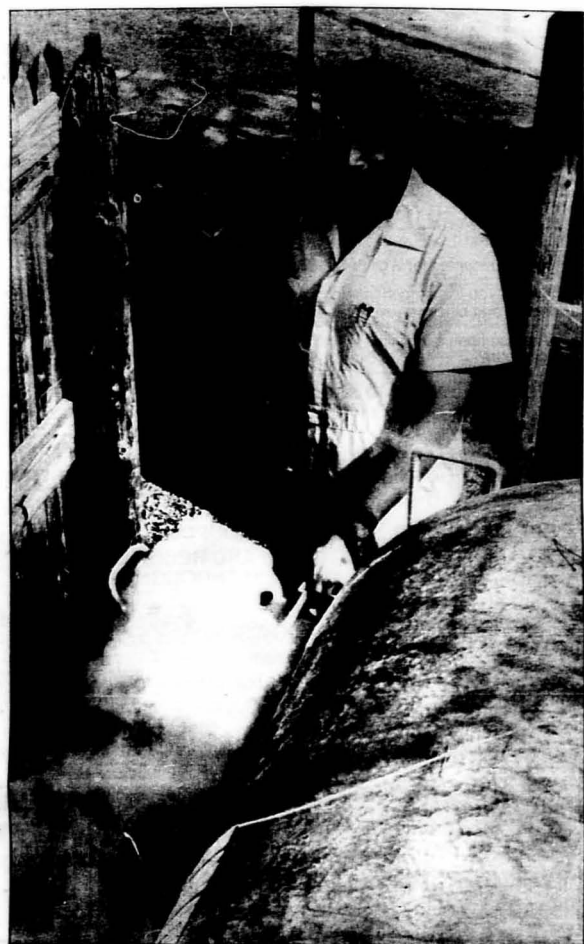

Tom Redmond, Carbondale downtown coordinator, said the rate increase will make the city's rates comparable to SIUC's. Previous studies indicate the heaviest use of parking spaces to be after 6 p.m. Downtown business activity is now mostly evening entertainment instead of daytime retail, according to a report.

Two parking lots with ticket dispensing machines instead of meters and construction will cost more than a million dollars. The patrol and enforcement of the meters will cost about $15,900 a year.

A deficit is anticipated because of the improvements but is expected to be alleviated

Profs: Few changes in politics, economy expected for Soviets

The political upheaval of Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev by Vice President Gennady Yanayev Sunday night should not bring radical political or economic changes to the Soviet Union, say University professors.

Students still planning Moscow trip

By Julie Autor
Administration Writer

University students who plan to study at Vladimir Polytechnical Institute this fall in the Soviet Union may have to change their plans with the U.S.S.R. in a state of emergency.

Robert Edwards, a University professor in Russian language and literature, said the six students are scheduled to leave on Sept. 29.

"We're still planning on going," Edwards said. "We're ready for our visas to be approved within two to three days. If they're not approved, then we know they aren't going to deal with it."

Edwards said if the six students do not get to go to the institute this semester, they can hope to go next semester.

"There's not any reason to dismantle this program," Edwards said. "I can't say for sure, but it's just a gut feeling I have that they won't. Hopefully Gorbachev will get over his sickness and be back on top."

Edwards first heard of Gorbachev's replacement when he called the Soviet Union late Sunday night. The operator informed him of the problems, and said his call could not be connected.

"It's like learning there is no real Santa Claus," Edwards said. "When you taste a bit, you want to keep it. I think the movement is still alive."

Edwards said no one can be sure Gorbachev is still alive, but the takeover is just a momentary setback.

"This could be a violent thing for those who resist," Edwards said. "We won't be able to go back to the way things were before. People know too much. They are too

Salukis set to spike opposing teams

By Cyndi Oberle
Sports Writer

With five returning starters and a new coach at the helm, the volleyball team may be able to steer its way to a Gateway Conference victory.

"I know we will be competitive," said head volley, all coach Sonya Locke. "Realistically we are capable of having a winning season."

Locke replaced Patti Hagemeyer, who left to coach Kansas State University after a two-year stay at SIUC.

It will be Locke's job to bring the Salukis back from a 12-16 record.

"The team is very talented," Locke said. "We have many returnees who have a lot of experience playing quality volleyball. I am planning on working them hard this year and I know they will grasp whatever I throw at them."

Locke said she has a lot to work with. Returning starters include junior middle hitter Dana Olden, senior hitter Lori Simpson and senior hitter Debbie Briscoe. Senior setter Martha Firnhaber and junior middle blocker Stacy Snook also return.

SIUC only lost one starter when middle blocker Amy Johnson graduated.

Olden posted team highs in kills (454), attack percentage (.296), block solos (50), block assists (87) and digs (283).

Briscoe, the conference's No. 3 digger last fall, returns after a broken ankle kept her out of the final nine matches in 1990.

Simpson suffered an ankle injury and missed four matches last year but brought in a team-high 35 aces, a .212 attack percentage and 278 digs.

Other returning players include

Former player, assistant Locke assumes head coach position

By Cyndi Oberle
Sports Writer

For Sonya Locke, the saying "once a Saluki, always a Saluki" holds true.

On June 1, Locke, a 1983 SIUC graduate and the University's only volleyball All-American, was appointed head Saluki volleyball coach.

As her tale unfolds, it reveals the spirit of a true Saluki. Locke played for four years under coach Debbie Hunter and in 1981 was named SIUC Female Athlete of the Year. In 1982, she was MVP and selected as an alternate to the World University Games.

Upon graduating Locke stayed at SIUC, serving six years as an assistant to Hunter.

Locke also served a year on coach Patti Hagemeyer's staff before leaving to coach volleyball and serve as fitness center director at Kankakee Community College.

Hagemeyer left in April to become Kansas State University's volleyball coach after a two-year stint at SIUC.

After a year at Kankakee, Locke's team finished with a 35-5 record and placed second in the NCAA Region 4 tournament.

Athletic Director Jim Hart said Locke is full of enthusiasm.

"Sonya is a natural for our program," Hart said. "She was a great athlete in her own right and has tremendous knowledge of the game. She also has a great affection for SIUC."

Locke, who is also a member of the SIUC Hall of Fame, said she seeks to turn around a program that fell to a 12-16 record last year and has had only one winning season since 1986.

"There is no reason SIUC can't be nationally competitive," Locke said. "I think over the years the caliber of athletes has increased, but the program was competitive when I was a player and it is competitive now. I think we have maintained that level."

Locke said there will be a noticeable change in the coaching, but she will continue to build on what is already standing for the team.

"Things will seem different about the coaching," Locke said. "We will have a different flavor because I am a different person, but I do plan to continue recruiting and carrying on with the competitive program."

Locke's athletes said they think

Men cross country runners hope to finish first — coach

By Dan Fandel
Sports Writer

The SIUC men's cross country team was picked to finish second in the Missouri Valley Conference in a recent coaches' poll.

But Saluki coach Bill Cornell said the team can win the conference championship, even though the team is young.

"Our team has the potential to win if we stay healthy," said Cornell.

He said many of the other teams have three strong runners, but they lack strength throughout the rest of the team.

Three foreign students will join the team this year, including Garth Akal of South Africa, Neil Emberton of England, and Neil Lisk of England. Emberton and Lisk were youth cross country champions in Wales.

Cornell said Mark Stuart is team

Men's tennis to return for season minus two aces, plus new faces

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

The Saluki men's tennis team will have to recover from the loss of its top two players to stretch for one of the top three positions in the conference in 1991, said coach Dick LeFevre.

LeFevre said he hopes the new and returning players will live up to his expectations and help to replace the loss of graduating senior Joe Demeterco and sophomore Rikard Stenstrom. Stenstrom was named all-conference in flight two singles last year. Flight two is the division in which the No. 2 tennis player on the team plays.

Sophomore Danny Gonzalez, who held the number five singles position, also will not return.

The Dawgs had a second place conference finish in 1990 and an 11-13 record.

The Salukis will have new faces on the team from far away this season LeFevre said.

Altat Merchant of Bombay, India, who was the No. 1 junior in India, and Uwe Classen of Herzogenrath, Germany, will join the team.

"If these two players live up to their potential it could be an exciting season," said LeFevre. "As of now I have never seen either of them hit a ball."

Returning to play will be junior Tim Derouin who held the No. 3 spot last year. Also returning are junior Jay Merchant and sophomore Kai Kramer, all-conference in flight six singles last year.

The Saluki netters will play four tournaments during the fall. The first is Sept. 20 at Illinois State in Normal.

Gateway archrivals: Conference official, coaches expect intense competition between all seven teams will lead way to exciting games

By Todd Eschman
Sports Writer

Gateway Conference football promises to be exciting in 1991.

SIUC head coach Bob Smith says the balance between the seven NCAA I-AA teams that make up the conference will make for a competitive fall.

"The Gateway Conference is truly as balanced as it has been in the last 10 years," he said. "Any team can beat any other team on any given day."

A poll of league coaches and sports information directors ranked each team from first to last. Gateway Conference information director Mike Kern doesn't give much credibility to pre-season polls, however, and said he believes that competition will be tight.

"It's hard to predict through preseason polls who the best team is," he said. "All the teams have strength and will be competitive. What it comes down to is what team is healthiest and what team has the most depth on the bench."

Smith added the competition will be most interesting among the top three teams — Northern Iowa, Southwest Missouri and Illinois State.

"I think you can throw those three teams in a hat and pick one to win," he said.

The top-ranked Panthers of Northern Iowa are coming off an 8-4 season and a Gateway Conference championship. UNI shared the 1990 crown with Southwest Missouri.

Head coach Terry Allen has eight offensive starters and five defensive starters returning to a team that ended up 11th in the NCAA I-AA national poll. Among the returning players are junior quarterback Jay Johnson, the nation's second leading passer last year, and All-American placekicker Brian Mitchell.

Allen, who is in his third season at UNI, says being picked to finish first puts pressure on his relatively young team.

"We feel that we're in a bad situation being picked to finish first," he said. "It puts pressure on the team to perform. It's unrealistic to pick us first in this conference. The Gateway is as strong and as balanced as it has ever been. I'll take that No. 1 pick later in November, not at the beginning of the season."

No. 2 Southwest Missouri State head coach Jesse Branch feels his Bears are on their way to a third consecutive Gateway title.

Eighteen lettermen are returning to a SMSU offense that ranked 11th in the nation last year.

CANADA FREEZES AID TO SOVIETS — The Canadian government, responding to the ouster of Mikhail Gorbachev, put an immediate freeze Monday on about $200 million in aid promised at the G-7 meeting of the world's largest industrialized nations. The freeze was announced by Prime Minister Brian Mulroney after an emergency meeting with senior members of his Conservative government Cabinet. The aid package was announced in July.

U.S. OIL COMPANIES STILL PUMPING — U.S. oil companies operating in the Soviet Union or negotiating to develop reserves there, have so far been largely unaffected by the ouster of Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, spokesmen said Monday. Some other U.S. businesses with interests in the country were taking a cautious approach to the uncertain political situation. White Knights, the only Western joint venture now producing oil in the USSR is doing business as usual.

GORBACHEV OUSTER SHIFTS MARKETS — The ouster of Soviet President Gorbachev sent world financial markets spinning early Monday, but some order was restored later in the day as stock prices in New York and London regained some ground. Oil and the U.S. dollar were sharply higher despite giving up some early gains. The Dow Jones industrial average was down as much as 107 points after a delayed start on the New York Stock Exchange.

MORE ANTI-ABORTIONISTS ARRESTED — Anti-abortion protesters swarmed around two Wichita, Kan. clinics again Monday before authorities moved in and arrested 94 of them. Police Lt. Don Eckert said most of the 94 were arrested for trespassing and 12 were arrested for loitering in the street and refusing to move out of the way of vehicles. He said 52 were arrested at the Women's Health Care Services Clinic and 42 were arrested at the Wichita Family Planning Center clinic.

MCDONNELL DOUGLAS SELLS COMPANY — McDonnell Douglas Corp. said Monday it had agreed to sell Systems Integration Co. to Electronic Data Systems Corp. for an undisclosed price. McDonnell Douglas spokeswoman Ellen Ferrara said the sale will probably close in about 90 days. Analysts have estimated that the sale would bring in as much as $350 million to McDonnell Douglas, which has been trying to cut its $2.9 billion debt.

FIRST ENCEPHALITIS CASES REPORTED — Two young children from Knox County are the first identified encephalitis cases of 1991 in Illinois. The state Public Health Department said Monday the two siblings are recovering after contracting the disease in July from mosquitoes living in abandoned tires near their home. Public Health spokesman Mary Huck said midsummer marks the beginning of encephalitis season in the state.

PROSECUTORS: JUDGE SOLD JUSTICE — Former Chancery Court Presiding Judge David J. Shields was "the best judge money can buy," and maintained a courtroom where "justice is bought and sold," prosecutors said Monday in opening statements in Shield's trial. Shields and attorney Pasquale "Pat" De Leo are each charged with five counts of extortion and conspiracy to commit extortion, and Shields is charged additionally with two counts of lying to FBI agents.

Public helps plan future of Shawnee

By Jennifer Kuller
General Assignment Writer

The U.S. Forest Service has begun the process of weeding through the public's comments and deciding what direction they will take in managing the Shawnee National Forest for the next 10 years.

The three-month public comment period on the Forest Service's proposed plan for management of the Shawnee ended Aug. 15.

Forest Service employees now begin classifying and considering an estimated 12,000 written comments for inclusion into the proposed forest plan, said Forest Service spokesman Tom Hagerty.

After the comments are read and separated into appropriate categories, they will go to Shawnee National Forest Supervisor Rodney Sallee, who will decide which ones should ultimately be included in the final forest plan, Hagerty said.

"We aren't in this business to please people," said Hagerty, regarding the public's role in forest management.

"We are here to manage the forest for its resources, such as timber, oil, gas and recreation," he said.

Hagerty said the Forest Service would give consideration to comments whose proposals seemed justified.

A flood of last minute comments from interest groups in the form of petitions or form letters were received by the Forest Service last week as the deadline drew nearer.

The Conservation Coalition, a group of hunters, miners, and people representing the timber industry supporting the wise use of forest resources, offered 7,000 letters to the Forest Service on Aug. 14.

The Regional Association of Concerned Environmentalists submitted a petition containing 16,500 signatures to the Forest Service on Aug. 15. The petition asked for an end to all commercial timber harvesting in the Shawnee.

Hagerty said while all the comments received will be read, some will be given more weight than others.

"Just because someone gives us a petition with a lot of signatures doesn't mean they will get as much consideration as our regionally-renowned biologist," said Hagerty.

"What we are looking for in these comments is specificity, sincere critique and quality, which flows from careful reading and understanding of the proposed plan," he said.

Hagerty said the final forest plan will most likely be affected by interest groups who have indicated their intent to file suit if their grievances are not addressed.

Jim Benschman, chairman of the Sierra Club's Shawnee National Forest Committee, agreed that it is likely the new plan will be appealed.

"I'm sure it will be. Almost every forest plan has been appealed," Benschman said.

The Forest Service decided to use the public comment period to help them construct a forest plan because they knew the new plan would be a major reworking of previous ones, Hagerty said.

The Forest Service expects the final plan to be in use by the end of this year, he said.

Sororities rush for eager, eligible recruits

By Kristina Rominger
General Assignment Writer

PanHellenic sorority rush will run Aug. 23 to 25 for all sophomores, juniors and seniors women.

The four PanHellenic sororities include: Alpha Gamma Delta, Delta Zeta, Sigma Kappa and Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Eligibility requirements are as follows:

■ Must be enrolled full time and have completed a minimum of 12 semester hours.

■ Must have at least a 2.2 cumulative GPA.

■ Must submit a copy of the most recent transcript or grade report with the application and rush fee of $12.

Amy Goodhart, a senior in accounting from Springfield and chairman of Inter-Greek Council, said involvement in the greek system teaches important lessons:

"All members of sororities and fraternities at SIUC learn to balance academics and social life through time management, while also learning about leadership and community service," she said.

"Our system works because the people in it are so diverse," Goodhart said.

"We need the musicians, the artists, the writers, the athletes and people from all different majors and backgrounds to keep our system strong and running."

Rush Counselors, known as Rho Chis, will be holding interest meetings Tuesday, Aug. 20 and Wednesday, Aug. 21 to answer questions and help ladies register for PanHellenic sorority rush with the Office of Student Development.

Testing by inspector may stop tampering

COAL MINES TESTING themselves for dust concentration levels is like a restaurant testing itself for health code violations.

Of course the mine officials may have something to gain by tampering with the samples. But there is also a great cost to pay, and not just in money, but in the health of millions of miners, too.

Recently, 20 mines in Illinois were accused of tampering with tests that determine how much coal dust is in the air. Currently two-thirds of the tests are conducted by the companies themselves.

Mine inspectors conduct the other one-third of the tests to verify the compliance of the operators, the adequacy of the dust sampling plan and to determine which of the occupations, such as shuttle-car operator or roof bolter, are exposed to highest concentration of dust.

THE COAL MINE Act of 1969 requires that operators of mines be responsible for proving that they are in compliance with the laws.

The limit of coal dust is 2 milligrams per cubic meter of air. In areas where miners are at high risk for black lung disease, the limit is 1 milligram. Too much dust can result in black lung disease.

In the self-test the companies place a pre-weighed empty cassette into the mine. The cassette collects dust from the mine during a certain period of time and is then mailed to the federal Department of Labor where the cassette is weighed to determine how much dust was collected.

The test conducted by the inspectors seems to work much better.

AN INSPECTOR attaches a sample cassette to several people working in the same area of a mine and goes into the mine with the miners to their job location.

The inspector may then go elsewhere in the mine to inspect other areas of the mine, but returns three or four times during the shift to check the sample.

The miners never know when the inspector will return and the physical presence of the inspector on the premises seems to discourage tampering.

Although this is still not a fool-proof way of eliminating the tampering it should extensively cut the number of cases.

MINERS HAVING everything to gain are not likely to tamper with the sample. They would be hurting themselves by not ensuring that they have the best possible working conditions.

In the self-test method, a company's officials may not consider the safety of their workers like they should.

The federal Department of Labor claims the test to be 100 percent accurate and says mailing the test to the department does not make a difference.

THE DEPARTMENT ignores the tests that look like they may have been dropped or shuffled in the mailing process.

In the tests that were allegedly tampered with, the dust appeared to be removed by blowing some of the dust off the cassette, thereby leaving a white center in the paper filter.

Maybe the Department of Labor should consider trying to get the law changed. It just might work to its advantage and to the advantage of all coal mine workers.

Consumer advice addresses VCRs, videotapes, rental trucks

It's time for "Consumer Advice for Normal Humans," the popular feature that has been endorsed by top consumer authorities including Ralph Nader, Consumer Reports, Mister Rogers, Gen. Dave Barry

We'll start with the most common consumer question, namely:

Q. Is there anything I can do about the irritating light on my VCR that has been flashing "12:00" since the first term of the Reagan administration?

A. You have several options here. Our wives, following the recommendation of leading electronics experts, make the light go away at night by draping a standard hand towel over the VCR. However, a friend of ours named Harnah informs us that you can obtain more permanent results by covering the light with a piece of black electrician's tape.

Q. What if I don't know any black electricians?

A. You know what we mean, you silly goose.

Q. How come the manufacturers don't put the light in back of the VCR, where you can't see it? Or just make VCRs without the light?

A. Because then they would have no way of constantly reminding you, the consumer, what a moron you are for not remembering how to program your VCR. In fact, the original plan was to have the light constantly flash the words "YOU BONEHEAD," but the manufacturers decided that this would be too obvious.

Q. The government should require that every VCR instruction manual has to have a section entitled "We're Not So Bright Ourselves," which would consist of true anecdotes involving stupid things that have been done by VCR design engineers, like the time at the VCR Design Engineers Cookout when they hooked up the gas barbecue grill incorrectly and were lacerated by a hail of spare ribs traveling at upward of 270 miles per hour.

A. Ha ha! Serves them right.

Q. What should I do with the 47 pounds of videotapes I made of the Public Broadcasting System series on the Civil War?

A. This is a growing consumer problem. Government analysts now estimate that 76 percent of the nation's strategic videotape supply is being used to store the Civil War series, which nobody has time to watch all the way through for the same reason that nobody was able to watch it all the way through the first time, namely that it lasted longer than the actual Civil War.

But of course you can't erase this series, because it's Excellent Television that you Really Plan To Watch Some Day, just as you really plan to watch all the other vital videotapes you are carefully saving in a large unlabeled dust-covered pile containing such video treasures as the first 12 minutes of the 1983 Recording Industry All-Star Salute

To the Accordion, or the entire four-part 1986 National Geographic nature special on Mollusks That Spit.

A friend of ours named Paddy reports that he tried to free himself from his Civil War tapes by putting them in a grocery bag and "lending" them to a friend named Fred, in hopes that they would gradually become absorbed into Fred's vital-videotape pile. But Fred saw what Paddy was up to and shrewdly returned the bag. In fact, Paddy suspects that the bag now contains more videotapes than when he lent it, and possibly some zucchini. This mass of tapes will probably be passed back and forth like a gift fruitcake between the two households for years to come, gradually increasing in size, until eventually it has to travel via rental truck.

Q. What qualities should a consumer look for in a rental truck?

A. It should look as though previous renters were delivering calves on the seat.

Q. How can I be sure that my bank is a safe place for my money?

A. The Associated American Banking Association recommends that you go to the bank personally and get answers to the following questions: Are there people standing around wearing ski masks but not skiing? Does the guard have a gun? Does he know how to use it? As a depositor, you have the legal right to obtain a complimentary bank calendar and see if the guard can shoot a hole through the weekday of your choice from 10 paces.

Q. May he shoot through a legal holiday?

A. Don't be ridiculous. NEXT WEEK'S CONSUMER TOPIC: Our long-distance telephone options, and why we don't ever want to hear another word about them.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board.

Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 300 words. Letters fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

as head of state for an undetermined amount of time as unspecified health problems prevented Gorbachev from performing his duties.

William Turley, SIUC political science professor, said he anticipates a long period of political tension where Yanayev will try to revitalize the economy and shift power back to the central government, but without much success.

"It's been wondered if perestroika (Gorbachev's policy of restructuring the government and economy) has gone too far to be reversed — now we'll see," he said.

Turley said the Soviet Union is unmanageable, with Communist hardliners wanting a return to pre-Gorbachev policies, ethnic Russians wanting reforms faster and farther than Gorbachev has provided, and many Soviet provinces just wanting out of the Union altogether.

Yanayev probably will have to use coercive power to return strong authority to the central government, Turley said, but the people at the top of the government can no longer be sure their orders will be carried out.

The same foot-dragging that delayed perestroika may hinder Yanayev's policies, he said.

Turley said Yanayev probably will not get much opposition to his policies from the Soviet people, as few areas besides Leningrad are prone to having activists hold demonstrations.

"After 70 years of highly centralized government preceded by centuries of czarism, the Soviet people are used to keeping their opinions to themselves. They'll accept this as they've accepted so much in the past. "To them, politics is something that takes place in the stratosphere — it's not any of their business," Turley said.

The legitimacy of this change of power also is questionable, he said. Gorbachev was replaced while on vacation under unclear circumstances, and while he seems to have been pushed aside without constitutional authority, it is not certain there has been a coup.

Turley said this would put President Bush in an awkward position, because the United States usually enforces trade sanctions on countries with unrecognized governments, and he can revoke the Soviet Union's most favored nation trade status without Congressional approval.

"This would be a contradiction of the policy used with China (where trade sanctions are no longer used), but contradiction has never bothered George Bush," he said.

Militarily, Turley said the United States is obligated by the United Nations to honor treaties made with the Soviet government before the change of power, including the 30 percent reduction of strategic nuclear warheads as part of the recent START arms control treaty.

Turley expects Yanayev to be preoccupied with internal stability and economic success and avoid external conflicts. He said Yanayev probably will honor all existing treaties and may allow the Baltic States to retain their independence, due to interest of Western countries in that area.

Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, said in a statement Monday the situation bears careful observation. The possible effects of this political upheaval are difficult to determine at this time, he said. "Hopefully (Yanayev) will continue along the democratic reform route Gorbachev started, but we don't know that," he said.

Poshard's largest concern is that the new government may try to reclaim satellite and former satellite nations including Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia that have undergone democratic reforms.

"If the Soviet Union during this time tries to impose their will on these countries, then I think you're going to see this become a United Nations concern. The Soviet Union (would) be roundly condemned, and that event could lead to a broader military implication than we see at this point in time," Poshard said.

P. Bart Trescott, economics professor, said the economic implications of this upheaval are baffling. The Soviet Union has done a poor job of mixing government control and free market, he said, especially in the areas of manufacturing and food marketing and distribution.

Enough food is produced to feed everyone, but government interference prevents it from being harvested or distributed, Trescott said. Food availability was poor in 1984 when he visited the Soviet Union, and has not improved since.

Even so, Trescott said politics and not economics is the central issue involved in the political upheaval. He said the United States has no reason to begin trade sanctions as this is a change in top leadership, not an open revolution.

Only time will tell how this affects the United States economically, if it does at all, Trescott said.

to the new Kremlin rulers.

The new government, led by Acting President Gennady Yanayev, formerly Gorbachev's vice president, includes the hard-line chief of the KGB security force, the defense minister and the interior minister. It declared a six-month state of emergency to save the country from "extremist forces" that "have set out to dismantle the Soviet Union."

The State of Emergency Committee banned all strikes and demonstrations and imposed control over Soviet society, from

"major state and economic facilities" to the Soviet mass media, which had flourished under Gorbachev.

The United States and other Western nations questioned the constitutionality of Gorbachev's ouster, especially at a time when the superpowers were embarking on a historic Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty and a jointly sponsored Middle East peace conference. Washington and London immediately cut off aid to the new Moscow government.

The takeover by the hard-liners occurred as the reformer Gorbachev, 60, was vacationing on the Black Sea. Yeltsin said he and other republican leaders could not reach Gorbachev, indicating he may have been put under house arrest.

The coup came one day before Gorbachev was due to break his vacation and return to the Soviet capital to sign a treaty shifting some of the central government's power to the nation's 15 republics in a milestone of his reform program.

business economics from Red Bud, said she was scheduled to study at the institute for three months.

"I was going to study the language and culture," Koenigstein said. "But now it doesn't look too hopeful."

Koenigstein said she heard about the news early Monday morning.

"My mom told me about it when I woke up," Koenigstein said. "I didn't think it was so serious, but then I started watching the news and I realized I probably won't get to go."

Koenigstein said she is going to come back to SIUC soon to schedule classes and wait to see if she can go to the institute.

Harry Miller, assistant vice president for academic affairs, said the doors could still be open for exchange programs, but they may not be as wide open as in the past.

"It's too early to call," Miller said. "We're waiting to see what kinds of reactions there are and the impact this will have on the international program on the Soviet's part."

College of Liberal Arts Dean John Jackson said he hopes the programs continue, but it is impossible to tell what is going to happen the next few weeks.

"The ability to travel is a recent innovation," Jackson said. "The first test is if the students that are scheduled to come here Sept. 11 get to come. They were scheduled to come last week, but now we don't know."

On Sept. 11, two students and two faculty members from the Soviet Union are expected to arrive at SIUC. Six more students are scheduled to come this spring.

In other business, ideas considered for the old railroad freight building on Town Square include dismantling and reassembling the building or demolishing the structure.

the last hours in the Soviet Union and condemn the unconstitutional resort to force," Bush said after meeting with aides and receiving a letter from the new Soviet government.

The president said the "unconstitutional removal" of Gorbachev and the deployment of troops in Moscow and other cities "raise the most serious questions about the future course of the Soviet Union."

Bush, who will meet with Secretary of State James Baker and other senior officials on Tuesday, said the United States supports Yeltsin's call for "restoration of the legally elected organs of power and the reaffirmation of the post of USSR President M.S. Gorbachev."

"There's a lot at stake here," Bush told a news conference in Maine before leaving for Washington. He called the ouster of the reform-minded Soviet leader by the military and KGB as "momentous, stunning ... disturbing."

The president said he does not anticipate a return to the Cold War, but said at this point it is unclear who is in charge in the Soviet Union.

Little Rascals Day Care trial begins

FARMVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Robert Kelly Jr., founder of the Little Rascals Day Care Center, befriended children under his care then sexually abused them, a prosecutor charged Monday.

Prosecutor William Hart carefully outlined the sensitive children.

Hart cited the comments of the alleged victims, who called Kelly "Mr. Bob," and told authorities he played "doctor" and committed sex crimes. Kelly threatened to harm the children if they revealed what was happening, Hart said.

victim of overzealous parents and prosecutors. He countered that the allegations stemmed from false rumors started by an angry parent.

While Hart did not address the allegations in detail, Spivey did, in an effort to show they are exaggerated. Vindictive accusers charged that toys, pencils, needles, sticks and scissors were inserted in the rectums and vaginas of the children, Spivey said.

'Top Gun' lampoon still hot but ticket sales only warm

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. — Fluffy comedy "Hot Shots!" stayed atop a takeovers list, summer box office for a third week, netting $17 million of tickets at 1,277 screens over a 10-day period through Sunday, weekend.

The title for "Hot Shots!" again fell far below a $10 million by a New Line and $17 million less than what it took in during the previous weekend. The comedy, a parody of mega-hit "Top Gun," emerged as one of the few bright spots in the late summer by taking in $39.9 million in its first 19 days of release.

The 20th Century-Fox release also owes some of its success to the strong showing of a similar goofball summer comedy, "Naked Gun 2 1/2: The Smell of Fear," which has grossed more than $81 million for Paramount in eight weeks.

The only wide release debut of the weekend — Orion's teen comedy-thriller "Mystery Date" — attracted few suitors at No. 8 with just $1.95 million at 1,371 screens as it headed for the video bin.

The late summer market has become so weak that Tri-Star's "Terminator 2: Judgment Day" moved up from third to second, and cleared a new high of $12.2 million in two weeks.

"Top Gun" held up $17 million, but a 20th Century-Fox release of $17.8 million and may have a shot at finishing on top if it can hold its own.

The summer's other major hit "Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves" — remained at No. 7 with $2.5 million in its tenth weekend for a 60-day gross of $142.6 million.

Two offbeat films performed strongly in limited release. Miramax's "Paris Is Burning," a look at Harlem's drag ball scene, took in $290,000 at just 27 screens in its second week; Fox's Irish rock movie "The Commitments" sold an impressive $271,833 at just eight screens in its debut.

Fox distribution chief Thomas Sherak said the studio is rolling out the movie gradually with plans for wide release by mid-September.

"We're moving slowly on it because there are so many titles out right now," he said. "But we think we'll do well because this one looks so different from the others."

Sherak said 53 percent of weekend audiences rated the movie as excellent and 83 percent would recommend it.

History preserved on video

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — As the Purdue University Public Affairs Video Archives begins its fifth year, it is recording a fifth Supreme Court nomination and confirmation process.

The videotape recordings of the Clarence Thomas nomination announcement, reactions and confirmation hearings will join the Bork, Ginsburg, Kennedy and Souter tapes that are among the 20,000 hours of programming in the Purdue archives, said Robert X Browning, archives director and associate professor of political science.

"The facility, a unit within Purdue's School of Liberal Arts, is the education and research archives of the Washington, D.C.-based Cable-Satellite Public Affairs Network, or C-SPAN. The archives makes recordings of programming on both C-SPAN channels and makes tapes and catalogs available to educators and researchers.

Browning said that unlike David Souter last year, Judge Thomas is well-known. The archives has four programs in which Thomas appears.

De La Soul utilizes rap to full potential

By William Ragan
Staff Writer

Rap music may have gotten a bad name recently, but De La Soul shows that the artistic possibilities of hip hop are endless.

2 Live Crew, Geto Boys, and other hardcore rap acts who put down women and glamorize violence have stolen the public eye. Artists who use hip hop as a creative canvas have been damaged by the stereotype of rap as foul-mouthed and violent.

But although the summer seemed to have been dominated by jeep beats and boomin' systems, De La Soul flew in the face of hip-hop tradition with their latest release.

De La Soul's low-key anthem, "De La Soul is Dead," was released in May on Tommy Boy records.

The group consists of Posdnous and Trugoy on vocals and their DJ "Baby Huey" Maseo.

The title suggests De La Soul wishes to create a new image, and at the same time kill off the "Daisy Age" they popularized on their debut album three years ago.

The album's running story concerns three homeboys who find the tape in the garbage, and critique the songs.

Music Review

One of them asks, "What happened to the guns? What happened to the curse words? That's what rap music is all about, right?"

Although De La Soul's musical style on this album is funkier, the '80s change is in their attitude.

On "Three Feet High and Rising," De La Soul celebrated life. On the new album they tackle more serious topics.

"Millie Pulled a Pistol on Santa," a song with a funky piano riff lifted from Funkadelic, deals with the problems of incest, particularly the frustration of the victim, whose friends tell her, "Child, you've got the best pops anyone could have ... you should be glad."

"Afro Connections at a Hi 5" challenges the macho image of hardcore rap acts who "fell off," providing hilarious images such as, "Now I hold my crotch 'cause I'm top notch."

On "Ring Ring Ring (Ha Ha Hey)" they praise the almighty answering machine, for it allows them to escape "every Harry, Dick, and Tom with a demo in his pocket."

A click track and big band jazz provide the rhythm for "Pease Porridge."

Pos and Trugoy rap in an Elmer Fudd stutter about the disadvantages of the "flower child" image: "Why do people think just because we speak peace? We can't throw no joints."

De La Soul hasn't completely abandoned goofy Sesame Street imagery, as "A Roller Skating Jam Named 'Saturdays'" proves.

The song takes you back to the days when the Hustle was king, "Grease" was the movie to see, and everyone spent the weekends at the roller disco.

Over-Eating food harmful

Students who eat too much fast food may be harming their health, according to a study by SIUC researchers. The study found that students who eat fast food regularly are more likely to be overweight and have higher blood pressure and cholesterol levels. The researchers also found that students who eat fast food regularly are more likely to have a poor diet and are less likely to exercise.

Kate Zager, nutrition and fitness coordinator at the Wellness Center, said the No. 1 concern in regard to eating among students is gaining weight and not developing high blood pressure or heart disease.

"The short term effects of eating out is gaining weight because you have less control of the portions and generally eat more than you normally would," Zager said.

"In the long run, relying on a diet of fast food, you could get a diet low in vitamins C and A and have low fiber diets that could cause stomach problems," she said.

Zager said students who regularly eat out should keep snacks of fresh fruits and vegetables around to make up the difference in their diets and should drink water instead of soda.

She said eating habits students develop in college stay with them after they graduate.

"It is easy to maintain a diet of fast food through your 20s," Zager said. "And it is a hard pattern to break in your 30s."

Kelly Adams, freshman from Peoria, said she was concerned with her diet before she came to SIUC but was surprised to find a well-stocked salad bar at the dorm.

Police Blotter

University Police said the passenger of a dark colored four-door car shot a pellet rifle at two pedestrians at 5:15 a.m. on Aug. 18 on the 300 block of East Grand Ave.

The pedestrians, Bryan Mankedick and Stephan Vogt, told police they were walking from the Recreation Center when the drive-by shooting occurred.

Julius X. Burrell, 22, told Carbondale Police he was assaulted by two men with knives at 2:20 a.m. on Aug. 18 on the 300 block of West Walnut.

The police picked up and interviewed two suspects, who denied attacking Burrell.

No charges are filed against the suspects at this time.

Michael J. Butler, 20, of Meadow Brook Estates Apt. 19 in Carbondale, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol by University Police Aug. 16 at 2:29 a.m. on East Park Street near the Township Fire Department.

Police said he was observed driving over a curb, driving in the wrong lane and crossing the center line before he was stopped.

According to the police report, Butler failed all the field sobriety tests and was arrested but he refused to take the breath test.

He is scheduled to appear in court September 4.

Derrick Laster told University Police his dorm room in Mac Smith was burglarized on Aug. 16 at 12:35 p.m.

Laster said the items stolen were a VCR, a cordless telephone, an answering machine and a leather jacket.

The loss is estimated at $900.

University Police said a mountain bike valued at $350 was stolen from the bicycle racks south of Neely Hall.

The victim, Leah Fulpe, said the bike was stolen on Aug. 15 at 11:30 p.m.

She said the bike was a 1991 Trek 9000, size 26, with a black frame, black wheels, and a black seat. The bike was stolen from the bicycle racks south of Neely Hall.

Cardboard creations catch the wave

By Teri Carlock
General Assignment Writer

Cardboard boat regatta founder Richard Archer has been making waves on waterways other than Campus Lake.

Archer returned this weekend from another cardboard boat race, this time on the lake near Union Station in St. Louis.

Archer has been teaching his freshman design class at SIUC for 20 years. He first developed the idea for a cardboard boat project as the final for his design class. He did research and found only one book at Morris Library on building boats out of cardboard. Archer said he had no idea his project would cause such a stir.

"After that race, imagine my feelings when I got calls from all over campus from people wanting to take my final. People who weren't even in my class."

The calls did not stop there. Archer continued to receive calls until he finally decided to open up the race the next year to everyone, not just his design class.

Almost 20 years later, Archer averages twelve races a year.

People travel from all over the United States to attend the boat regatta, which last April had an attendance of 8,500. Archer says 50 to 60 percent of the competitors are SIUC alumni. The alumni also call and ask him to come to their town to host a race, he said. People four years old to 72 years old race in Archer's events.

"I know it's surprising, but I have a lot of 40- to 45-year-olds racing. It's not just college students out there."

Archer's teaching philosophy may differ from some by the way he views problems in the classroom and in everyday life.

"Education is the only place where there are two answers," Archer said. "You are always taught to think 'Yes' or 'No' instead of other variations."

Archer said people can become outdated when they are taught only what to think instead of how to think, because information is always new and changing.

His creative route of thinking has earned him much credibility from the Army Research Institute.

For the past three years, Archer has traveled to Carlyle, Penn. on special weekends and breaks to teach at the U.S. Army War College. Archer teaches a design class he created himself. The college also has asked him to redesign the entire curriculum at the War College.

Although Archer does not spend time outside his classroom on cardboard boat racing during the school year, much of his summer is devoted to traveling to various races. Each boat race is a fund raiser, and the money from the entrance fees goes to charity. Trophies are awarded, and prizes are never more than $100 to avoid professionals taking over. Archer is always the announcer at each race, which lasts from three to four hours.

The races, which are run on lakes in cities such as Dallas, Hartford, Conn. and Columbia, Md., are usually the main event for media coverage. The boat races are common sports coverage on the Cable News Network.

Archer says one of his fondest memories is when Spencer Christian from Good Morning America did his forecast at Campus Lake two years ago during SIUC's Great Cardboard Boat Regatta.

He said traveling is a growing experience for him and his family. His children get to meet a lot of people around the country.

Fair success: Attendance up, beer sales not

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — State officials and Gov. Jim Edgar Monday pronounced the 1991 Illinois State Fair a success, despite controversy over reduced beer sales and disputes over how many people showed up for the 11-day event.

Despite predictions of reduced attendance, fair manager Bud Hall said paid attendance increased in 1991 over 1990, the last fair for former Gov. James R. Thompson.

More importantly for the teetotaling Edgar administration, Hall said organizers succeeded in their goal of cleaning up the fair to attract more families and other better-behaved visitors.

"People seemed to be having a good time, the state police will tell you it's been one of the quietest years they've had. I think part of that is due to some of the changes we made," said Hall.

Soviet troops storm Baltic broadcast facilities

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet paratroopers Monday stormed broadcasting facilities in Latvia and Lithuania and moved against other key buildings in the Baltic republics, apparently under orders from the clique of Moscow hardliners that overthrew Mikhail Gorbachev.

Lt. Gen. Fyodor Kuzmin, commander of Soviet military forces in the northern Baltic region, called the leaders of the three Baltic states and said he was taking control of the area, the local governments reported.

Estonian President Arnold Ruutel, in a speech to his parliament, quoted Kuzmin as having ordered that "illegitimate military formations be disbanded."

"The Estonian government calls upon the governments of the world to actively express their condemnation of the military coup in the Soviet Union and to fully support the restoration of legal state power in the U.S.S.R.," the Tallinn government said.

In a separate appeal to the world, Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis pleaded, "Do not allow the tragedy of Budapest and Prague (when democratic uprisings were forcibly repressed in 1956 and 1968) to repeat itself at the shores of a Baltic (region) that is being reborn."

Late Monday, the Latvian government reported gunfire from automatic weapons near the Latvian parliament in Riga, largest of the three Baltic capitals with nearly 1 million people. The report could not be immediately confirmed.

Hard-line Latvian Communist chief Alfred Rubiks gloated over the dramatic developments, telling reporters in Riga that he was "feeling not only happiness, but also pride."

The three Baltic republics that had rebelled against Gorbachev's rule for more than two years reacted with alarm to his ouster.

Leaders of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania condemned the announcement that right-wing Communists led by Soviet Vice President Gennady Yanayev had wrested power from Gorbachev while he vacationed in the southern Crimea.

"There is only one (Soviet) president, and his name is Mikhail Gorbachev," Lithuanian Deputy Foreign Minister Valdemaras Katukus said. "The new government and everything it does is illegal."

The Latvian Mission in Moscow reported late Monday that Soviet

Gorbachev ousters try to stall investments

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ouster of President Mikhail Gorbachev and the declaration of a state of emergency in the Soviet Union have dealt a severe and possibly lasting blow to foreign investments in the country, economists said Monday.

Stock market investors quickly gave a measure of the prevalent mood by dumping stocks in response to what Britain's Prime Minister John Major described as "an unconstitutional seizure of power."

On the world's leading exchanges, stock prices plummeted and benchmark indexes retreated sharply in Tokyo, Hong Kong, London, Paris and New York, although nowhere was the decline as steep as in Frankfurt.

The key German Stock Index, or DAX, lost 9.4 percent of its value as investors dumped issues of companies with a stake, whether small or significant, in the Soviet Union.

Germany, because of its geographic location and its role as the leading foreign investor in the Soviet Union, has proved to be particularly vulnerable to the political situation in Moscow.

The spectacular fall of the Frankfurt stock exchange might be an early signal of the end of massive German investments in the Soviet Union.

"The political situation in the Soviet Union is serious and adverse to foreign investments," said Robert Brusca, chief economist with Nikko Securities Inc. in New York. "Uncertainty gets people to rethink everything. The greater the uncertainty, the harder it is to get investments to flow smoothly to that part of the world, including eastern European countries."

"If you are a U.S. or German company planning to invest in the Soviet Union, you are going to seriously wonder how much you should commit yourself to investing in that nation," Brusca added.

troops took over that republic's television center in Riga.

"Paratroopers have entered the TV buildings by knocking out and smashing windows there," the mission said in a statement. "At this time there is no additional information about the fate of the people in the buildings. Latvian television broadcasts have stopped."

The Lithuanian government reported earlier that Soviet forces had taken over its broadcasting center in Kaunas, the republic's ancient capital and second-largest city, where the facilities were moved after the violent Jan. 13 takeover of the TV tower in Vilnius.

Air-assault troops also occupied the international telegraph and telephone office in Vilnius, the local government said. Soldiers and military equipment were reported on the streets of the cities of Klaipeda, Kaunas and Kedainyae.

In Estonia, three columns of 270 Soviet military vehicles moved toward the key city of Tartu, and two planes of paratroopers arrived in the capital of Tallinn, Estonian Radio said.

Illinois legislators wary of Soviet development

By United Press International

Illinois' members of Congress find the ouster of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev unsettling, ominous for the Soviet reform movement and threatening to the state's farmers.

Most advised close observation of the situation.

Sen. Alan Dixon, attending a town meeting in Rockford, called the coup "ominous."

"I think," the Belleville Democrat said, "what we can do is be patient for a while and express in the strongest possible way through the United Nations our concerns as a freedom-loving people."

"And I just pray those people (in the Soviet Union) having had a taste of freedom, will want to rebel against this and revolt against it. I pray that will occur," Dixon said.

He said he especially fears for the fate of arms control and continued shipment of U.S. grain to the Soviet Union if the takeover is allowed to stand. Any threat to grain sales, he indicated, could hurt prices Illinois farmers receive for the crop now maturing.

Rep. Henry Hyde, a Republican, said it had been obvious for some time that Gorbachev was threatened from both sides — by reformers who wanted him to move faster and by the Soviet right wing who wanted to terminate his efforts to reach accord with the West.

"Therefore, his overthrow was entirely predictable but nonetheless unsettling," Hyde said in a statement issued from his Washington office.

Hyde said Russian leader Boris Yeltsin "clearly has the most legitimacy" as Gorbachev's successor but it remains to be seen whether Yeltsin "can maneuver himself into becoming that credible alternative."

State auto deaths increase; police promoting seat belts

By Rob Neff
Staff Writer

An estimated 145 people died as a result of accidents on Illinois roads in July, an increase of 16.9 percent from the 124 deaths in July 1990.

John Burke, a spokesman for Illinois Department of Transportation, said the department has not gathered information yet about the cause of the jump, and cautioned that there are a number of factors that have nothing to do with the safety of the state's roads which could affect the raw statistics.

"By the end of the year, we should have a better understanding of the cause of the accidents," he said. "The number of vehicles on the road, total miles travelled and the weather conditions can all affect the number of fatalities."

In spite of the sudden increase of deaths on the state's highways, the total number of traffic fatalities from January to July this year is still 2.9 percent lower than it was in 1990. Burke said increased enforcement may be partially responsible for the drop in overall fatalities, but said a 2.9 percent drop generally isn't statistically significant.

"The Illinois State Police are closely scrutinizing seat belt use as part of President Bush's goal to raise seat belt use from the current 49 percent to 70 percent by 1992," he said.

The number of seat belt citations and warnings issued in Illinois during the period of January through July of 1991 was 36,299, an increase of more than 75 percent from the 20,564 issued during the same period in 1990.

"The Illinois Police is doing everything we can to meet the president's goal of 70 by 92," said Erich Westphal, a spokesman for the State Police.

The State Police aren't cracking down on seat belt use solely because of President Bush's directive, however.

Illinois State Police Director Terrance W. Gainer said the troopers may have personal reasons to enforce the law.

"I expect that troopers will be having writers' cramps in their fingers until everyone in Illinois is wearing a safety belt," he said according a press release from the State Police. "The men and women of the Illinois State Police see the results of people not wearing safety belts everyday, so they don't need much encouragement to write a ticket if you choose not to obey the law."

COBA service competes for grads

By Teri Carlock
General Assignment Writer

The College of Business and Administration is expanding its placement service to help graduates compete for jobs in the business world.

"We're doing all that we can do to help students reach their desired ends," said Thomas G. Gutteridge, dean of COBA.

The COBA Placement Service assists employers in finding qualified students to fill openings within their companies.

The free services offered by the Placement Service are resume pre-screening, interview arrangements, posting open positions posting and company sites visitation.

When students see a desired position listed on the job board, the Placement Service will mail the student's resume to the company, if the student's qualifications match those the company. Once a company requests an interview with a student, the Placement Service will arrange it either on-campus or on-site.

The COBA placement staff also goes to companies requesting visits.

Shirley J. Kinley, Assistant Dean for Administration and Business Placement, works with representative Celeste Baron, who focuses on career counseling, to help students on pre-screening, resumes, and matching students with job openings.

Kinley emphasizes the close partnership of the COBA Placement Service with the University Placement Office.

Kinley said, "The Placement Service is a long-term investment. We're working with the employers to gain their trust by providing suitable students to fill their positions. We also receive a lot of letters from students saying how pleased they are with our help."

The College of Business and Administration has the sixth largest enrollment at SIUC.

Kinley said COBA graduates success has increased because of this program.

Seniors create scam for aid

EAST ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Dozens of students at the troubled Community College of East St. Louis received federal financial aid they were ineligible to receive and may have used it to pay household bills, according to a published report.

In a copyrighted story, The Belleville News-Democrat said 126 students at the college, many of them senior citizens, received $200,000 in federal Pell grants intended for needy students.

Most of the seniors were not eligible for the aid because college policy already offers free tuition and fees to students over 65 years old, the report said.

The newspaper reported in its Sunday editions that many of the students never showed up for class, dropped out or received failing grades. Some students listed as having received aid told reporters they never got the checks.

The SSC may have to repay the money to the government.

Cache River restoration to start at ground level

By Katie Fitzgerald
General Assignment Reporter

The SIUC Biology Department is studying the soil conditions of the Cache River area for state and federal plans to acquire and restore the Cypress wetlands of Southern Illinois.

Beth Middleton, assistant professor of plant biology, is evaluating the germination potential of soil samples taken from farm lands and various areas surrounding the Cache River.

Her study will determine whether existing seeds in drained wetlands and farmland will regrow wetland species when the area is reflooded.

The study will avoid the trial and error in the restoration process, Middleton said.

The Cache River Wetlands, located just north of where the Ohio River empties into the Mississippi River, represents the northern limit of Cypress swamps in the United States.

"Preserving the Cache River watershed is significant because it is so diverse. It has so many different species, and many of them are at the edge of their range, said Max Hutchison, ecologist with The Nature Conservancy.

The Cache River region contains many species exclusive to wetland areas which are rare in midwestern terrain.

The North American Waterfowl Management Plan recognizes the area as a valuable waterfowl habitat. It is a migratory habitat for Mississippi Flyway birds and the breeding ground for wood ducks.

At least 36 species inhabiting the area have been officially listed as threatened or endangered by the state Hutchison said.

Soil erosion has resulted from clearing of timber and drainage of wetlands for farmland. Rainfall which is usually soaked up by the vegetation runs off a lot quicker when the land is cleared Hutchison said. The high level of erosion leads to siltation. Eroded particles accumulate on the floor of the waterway making the water shallow and flow sluggish.

"The best purpose of the wetlands is that which nature had intended. They help to store and purify the water through natural vegetation," Hutchison said.

A joint venture of The Nature Conservancy, Ducks Unlimited, the Illinois Department of Conservation and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service is trying to preserve and restore as much as 61,000 acres of the Cache River Wetlands.

Since 1970 The Nature Conservancy has acquired 2,000 acres of wetlands for preservation and reforestation.

Ducks Unlimited purchased 1,000 acres of land for duck and geese refuge to be flooded seasonally.

The Illinois Department of Conservation purchased 9,000 acres called the Cache River State Natural Area. This purchase will preserve the Cypress swamps of Wildcat Bluff, Heron Pond, and Buttonland Swamp.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Services has acquired the majority of the land in the area. Since June 26, 1990, they have acquired 3,700 acres of land for the Cypress Creek National Wildlife Refuge. An additional 6,000 acres are being appraised for possible purchase, according to Jerry Uptide, refuge manager with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Services.

The reclamation project acquires marginal farmlands, pastures and disturbed woodlands.

Land acquisitions are made only from willing sellers. Willing sellers, however, are not difficult to find because there have been many cases of bankruptcy Hutchison said. The land in the area is erodible, sandy and prone to regular flooding.

"It's not a good growing site. Very little has been worth the expense. More and more farmers will realize this," Hutchison said.

McDowell suspension upheld by AL president

CHICAGO (UPI) — American League President Bobby Brown upheld a three-game suspension Monday handed down against Chicago White Sox pitcher Jack McDowell for throwing behind a batter and instigating a brawl.

McDowell was suspended and fined $1,000 for his part in a May 19 altercation with Mark Whiten, then of the Toronto Blue Jays. McDowell threw a pitch behind Whiten and the outfielder charged the mound, landing a roundhouse right into the pitcher's eye.

"I don't really have much reaction other than I've had all along," McDowell said before the White Sox hosted the Tigers Monday night. "I don't think it's just, and I don't think it follows any of the precedents that were set before or after the incident."

The right-hander appealed the decision at a hearing with Brown in New York on Friday. Whiten already has served his suspension.

McDowell's suspension begins on Tuesday.

"It's one of those where you appeal to the same guy who handed out the suspension, you're really not going to change his mind," McDowell said. "I just wanted to see what he had to offer.

"Every argument we had made complete sense. This is the only thing in the whole situation that doesn't. When you have to make a guy change his mind, he has to have a real solid reason to change what he decided beforehand. It's too much of a hassle to change his mind."

captain. He placed second in the MVC championships in 1989, and he broke the course record at Kansas University in 1990 with a time of 25:46.

Cornell also said Stuart has excelled in academics. Stuart is an SIUC Presidential Scholar and a National Merit Scholar.

Other veterans from the 1990 team include seniors Mike Danner, Vaughan Harry, and Nick Schwartz, junior Bernard Henry, and sophomore John Taylor.

New runners include Bob Foster, Todd Schmidt, Bennie Manion, and Rob Carter.

The SIUC team lost Scott Jonsson, Mike Kershaw, Gerallt Owen, Edwin Taylor and graduate assistant Billy Darling.

The first meet is against Kansas University Sept. 7 in Carbondale.

Cornell said he expects this to be a hard match, because KU finished 16th in the nation in 1990, and almost the entire team is returning.

Illinois State was picked by the coaches to finish first in the conference.

senior defensive specialist Kim Schaal, senior defensive specialist Jenaifer Reschlein and sophomore hitter Jodi Rae Miller.

Top newcomers include freshmen setter Kim Cassidy and middle hitter Deborah Heyne and junior middle hitter Monica Hill.

Simpson said the team has strong unity and gives the game its all, and that is what makes a winner.

"Our ultimate goal is to win and host the conference tournament," Simpson said. "But we can't look too far ahead, we must focus on one game at a time.

"Everyone must work together for us to win as a team; one person cannot do it alone. I think we, as a team, have that quality."

Olden also thinks the team has that quality.

"We work well together," Olden said. "But as an individual, I want to do all I can to help SIUC win the last Gateway Conference."

The Salukis begin with a trip to the Idaho Invitational Aug. 30-31.

she is back to where her heart is.

"I think she is doing a great job," said junior middle hitter Dana Olden. "What I like most about her is her winning attitude for the game and how much she cares for us."

Senior hitter Lori Simpson said everyone was at first filled with an anxiety about having a new coach, but now everyone has adjusted.

"She has great philosophies that are all her own," Simpson said. "She was coached by others, but she has many of her own ideas."

Locke is SIUC's No. 2 all-time kill leader (1,147), and she still holds five school records, including a career mark for attack percentage (.320).

"I was fortunate during my playing days to experience all the good things that come with being successful," Locke said. "I want my players to know that feeling. I want them to understand the importance of working hard to achieve."

Among those returning are all-conference linemen Tim McDuffy and Matt Irvin. Travis Ezard, the Bears top receiver in 1990, also will return.

Branch says his team's home schedule will work to its advantage.

"We play Illinois State and UNI at home," he said. "To play the top teams in the conference at home will be a definite advantage. I think we'll be right there at the top at season's end."

Depth and experience are the strengths of the third-ranked Illinois State Redbirds. Sixteen of the 31 returning lettermen were starters last year.

The defense will three players who crossed the 100-tackle barrier last year with the return of linebackers Wilbert Brown, Tom Newberry and tackle Tony Jones.

The offense will be run by one of two candidates for the quarterback position. Adrian Wilson and George Brown each saw action last season in relief of departed starter Brian Chaney.

The other Panthers of the Gateway Conference, Eastern Illinois, hope to leave behind a 1990 season that was riddled with injury.

Returning to the Panther backfield is second team all-conference tailback Jamie Jones. Jones was ranked fifth nationally averaging 146.1 all-purpose yards a game. He finished the season second in the Gateway Conference with 1,055 yards rushing.

Jones is one of 17 starters returning to an experienced Panther squad. Also returning is Brad Fichtel, a 263-pound second team all-conference offensive lineman.

The Indiana State Sycamores will be led by two preseason candidates for the Walter Payton Award.

Senior Tailback Derrick Franklin broke conference and school single-season rushing records in 1990 racking up 1,301 yards on the ground.

Charles Swann, a senior kick returner and wide receiver, led the nation in kickoff returns last season.

The Sycamores biggest question marks surround the quarterback position. Starter John Sies graduated and backup Andy Stephenson transferred to another school.

Question marks also surround the quarterback position at Western Illinois. Second year coach Randy Ball says he expects sophomore Willie Davis or junior college transfer Donny Simmons to win the job.

Ten starters will return to a Leatherneck team that is picked to finish in a tie for last place.

Although SIU is picked to finish last, Smith remains optimistic about the season.

With the return of two proven quarterbacks and a strong offensive line, Smith has reasons for his optimism.

Senior Brian Downey, who passed for 1,968 yards last year, will be the Salukis starting signal caller. Junior Scott Gabbert passed for more than 2,000 yards in 11 games during the 1988 and 1989 seasons and will work off the bench.

Anchoring the offensive line will be preseason all-conference center Mark Francis. Francis held the University of Illinois' All-American nose guard Moe Gardner to only four tackles in their meeting last year.

"We are looking forward to this exciting season," Smith said. "We're going to be a lot of fun to watch."

Jackson to receive rehab assignment

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bo Jackson, rehabbing with the Chicago White Sox all season from a hip injury, is ready to play, the team announced Monday night.

"We will announce on Wednesday when and where Bo will be sent for his rehabilitation assignment," White Sox General Manager Ron Schueler said in a statement, shortly after Jackson underwent his monthly examination at Comiskey Park.

"Our initial goal was to get Bo back to the first phase of playing this season," Jackson's orthopedic surgeon, Dr. James Andrews said. "We will meet that goal very soon when Bo reports to play."

All major-league teams are allowed to expand their rosters in September, and the White Sox have said all along that Jackson might be activated then.

He has been taking live batting practice for the last few weeks.

"I'm looking forward to being back on the playing field," Jackson said in a statement.

Jackson was examined by Andrews, of Birmingham, Ala., and the White Sox medical staff, led by Dr. James Boscardin.

He has not competed in a game situation since last season and since injuring his hip while playing football for the Los Angeles Raiders.

"Bo's physical went well," Schueler said, "and it has been determined that he is ready to play."

"We've been very happy with Bo's progress, and we're optimistic he will do well wherever he is assigned," Boscardin said.

Prior to the formal announcement, Manager Jeff Torborg had hinted at Jackson's imminent return.

"I just talked with Schu today, and we have a pretty good idea what we want to do," Torborg said of the September call-ups.

Asked about Jackson's status, Torborg said: "I think we're right there now. We're close."

"It looks like he's ready to go. This should be about the time."

Torborg said Jackson would have to rehab for a while in the minors and not just be activated for duty at the major-league level.

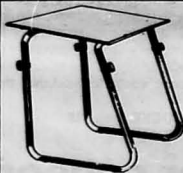

"He's got to go and get some work," he said.
