Senate to decide status of Moslem student group
By Andy Szaag
Staff Writer

The Student Senate Wednesday will vote on a bill to revoke the recognized student organization status of the Moslem Student Society, one of the two Iranian student groups involved in a fight Sept. 4 in the Student Center.

After meeting with representatives of the Iranian Moslem Association — the other group involved in the fight — and the Moslem Student Society, the Senate's Committee of Internal Affairs Monday recommended revoking the RSS status of the latter group.

The Senate will also vote on a resolution opposing the city's proposed amusement tax, which would be used to help finance the proposed downtown parking garage. In a public meeting scheduled for Monday, the Carbondale City Council will hear arguments for and against the tax on revenues at bars, restaurants, hotels and motels.

A resolution supporting the proposed city parking ordinance, which requires city residents to separate newspapers from other garbage, was vetoed by the Senate. Under the proposed ordinance, which the City Council will vote Monday, newspapers would be collected once a month by a private recycling firm.

The bill to revoke the status of the Moslem Student Society, as well as several other internal affairs committee bills, was vetoed by the Senate.

Khomeini students, including Iranian Moslem Association members, refused to allow anti-Khomeini students, including members of the Moslem Student Society, to speak at a memorial service.

No arrests were made and the University did not take disciplinary action against the students involved.

After three nights of discussion, the Senate committee determined that a majority of members of the Moslem Student Society attacked several members of the Iranian Moslem Association during the fight.

Revocation of RSS status would render the group ineligible for Student Senate funding and for free use of Student Center rooms.

However, revocation would only be a symbolic move because, according to Frits Looekhuis, chairman of the committee, the Moslem Student Society is presently ineligible for RSS benefits because its status is "inactive." The group, he said, has not submitted a petition to the University this year, requesting "active" status.

The submission of the petition would be the only requirement needed for the group to become "active" again, Looekhuis said.

In the spring of 1977, two other Iranian student groups were reviewed by the Senate. "RSS rule violations after one of the groups expelled members who would not denounce the former Shah of Iran. After a hearing, the Senate decided not to take action against either group.

Neither Rhode or Stutsman could be reached for comment.

Humphries said that the nenguin complaint filed against Mark Dempsey, the former SIU-C quarterback paralyzed by football injury in 1979, has been filed in the U.S. District Court in Benton.

The motion, which seeks dismissal of the negligence complaint filed againstSIU-C, SIU-C football coach, and Halligan School of Athletics trainer of the football team, was filed Nov. 20 by Shari Rhodes, chief trial attorney for SIU-C and David Stutsman, a Rochester lawyer.

Also named as defendants in the suit are the university's men's athletics director, Dan Brooks, former receiver's coach, Russ Ehring Good and Bleyer Sports.

According to Christopher Holthusen, the attorney representing Hemphill, the motion dismisses the complaint because the defense, "is an absolute immunity," any claims against the defendants must be filed in the Illinois Court of Claims because Dempsey and Schulz are "agents of the state of Illinois," were acting in their official capacities when the injury occurred, they are outside of the jurisdiction of the U.S. District Court.

The motion states that any funds that would be paid to Hemphill would ultimately come out of the state treasury. However, Holthusen disagreed and said, "that the state is not at fault is not the issue."

The defense's attorneys "have to show that the state was not at fault," Hemphill, he said, and they "would have to show that the state was not at fault and pay them out of state money from the state treasury.

Humphries said that payments could be made from the defendant's insurance "whether it's the University's or their own." But in September 1980, Hemphill filed a similar suit against the University in the U.S. District Court in St. Louis, charging that the University's athletics program did not do enough to prevent serious injuries like his from occurring.

Judge John Nandl cancelled the suit last March on the basis of "sovereign immunity," which could only bring charges against the University and the Athletics Department in the Illinois Court of Claims.

If the defendants' attorneys are successful in claiming "sovereign immunity," it would limit the top award that Hemphill could hope for to $50,000, the limit on non-auto related accident cases in the court of claims.

Humphries said that Hemphill's medical bills to date are "probably over $120,000" and he said that he and his wife were told that the two-year limit on his University insurance has expired.

Stockman wants to cut urban aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite opposition, Senate Minority Leader Robert D. (Bob) Dole, R-Kan., plans to force a vote on a bill to phase out urban aid programs and eliminate subsidies for low-income housing construction as the Senate opens the fiscal year.

Stockman wants to phase out the federal urban aid programs and eliminate subsidies for low-income housing construction as the Senate opens the fiscal year.

The Tuscan, who declined to be identified, said Stockman wants to eliminate all new spending for fiscal year 1983 for Community Development Block Grants, which are distributed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan told the White House Conference on Aging Tuesday that the elderly have been "needlessly and cruelly frightened" by reports advocating proposals for Social Security and promised never to betray their right to the program's benefits.

At 70, the nation's oldest president ever, Reagan said he is frustrated at being "permanently situated in the midst of a controversy" over the medium-range nuclear arms talks. He also said he is "very annoyed" about the Social Security proposals.

"If this program is left open to attack, it is not because the elderly have lost their right to the program," Reagan said. "It is because people want to see whether they can take advantage of the elderly.

Reagan was responding to a series of stories that have appeared in newspapers and magazines, and which have raised the specter of Social Security being eliminated by a future administration.

Reagan said he would vigorously defend the program and pointed to the fact that Social Security is "a sound financial program." He said he would encourage progress, "but not at the expense of the elderly." He also said he would not betray those who have concurred that the program "is OK.""
Graduate Council to consider new fellowship category

By Alan Scalley
Staff Writer

The Graduate Council will consider a proposal to establish a new category of graduate fellowships for applicants to doctoral programs at SIU-C at its meeting at 1:45 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center's Mississippi Room.

The council's executive committee also will recommend that the council not take a position on the proposed merger of the men's and women's athletic programs because the issue does not directly affect graduate education.

The new Morris Graduate Fellowship Program named in honor of Dorothy H. Morris, former SIU-C president, and his wife Dorothy, would provide up to 15 fellowships paying $2,500 each, according to the proposal.

Fellowships would be for one year and would be renewable annually for another two years if the student demonstrates "satisfactory progress" toward a degree, the proposal states.

In addition, the fellowship holder would be allowed to hold other research and teaching positions.

According to the proposal, the objectives for the new fellowships would include recruiting "exceptional new graduate students" and enhancing "the doctoral programs with the increased pool of new and exceptional students."

Students who receive the fellowships would be selected on the basis of their grade-point average, scores on standardized tests, letters of recommendation and "demonstrated capability for scholarly research and publication," the proposal states.

The committee which Raids held in 'chop

CHICAGO (AP) - Evidence was seized Tuesday in simultaneous raids on alleged "multi-million-dollar" chop shops in Chicago and Iowa by federal and local law enforcement officials.

"We're not saying that these individuals are organized crime. That would be improper," said Thomas Duharway, assistant special agent in charge of the FBI here.

"Chop shop operators are involved in theft-in-order racket in which high-demand cars are stolen, then swiftly dismantled and their parts shipped across the nation for resale at auto body shops, Duharway said.

Funding for the fellowships could come from the current fellowship program, which now provides 25 fellowships at $300 a month. John Jackson, acting dean of the Graduate School, said it has not been decided if the Morris Fellowships would be shifted from the current number of fellowships or added to the present number.

New fellowship category

The proposal recommends an increase of $100,000 in funding for the fellowship proposal. The additional funding would come from a now-unused portion of the student union's international social activities fund.

The new fellowship category would be open to students in any subject area who meet "exceptional requirements," according to the proposal.

The Morristown Fellows would have final authority for making the awards.

Sensible parties policy proposed to City Council

Carbondale city officials may have found a workable solution to the problem of looting which bothers neighboring residents.

In the past parties were shut down at the discretion of the Carbondale police, who weren't always diplomatic or fair about how they broke up the affairs.

The new proposal is that the party policy is an idea from another college town. Normal, the home of Illinois State University. Normal Republicans must have city permit to produce "loud and raucous noise" audible up to 100 feet away from the amplifying equipment. Without a permit, the limit is 20 feet.

In Carbondale, the plan would be modified to permit noise to be heard 15 feet from the property line.

An interesting feature of Normal's plan is a "Student Association Party Patrol" set up by the student government there. The Patrol reports to the City Council and supplies the police with a report of loud parties up to 200 feet away.

If another complaint is received, a city patrol car is dispatched to warn the party that the noise is being heard.

The party acts are less likely to be defensive if a student approaches them with the first warning. The plan is designed to prevent trouble before it happens, said one city official.

THE RARE occasions when Republicans wrestle with intellectual matters makes one wish the occasions were more frequent. Consider the case of "Brownie" at the Southern Illinois University in the person of the "Bonapartist" President Douglas.

The story of Lincoln's rule at Carbondale police. who weren't always diplomatic or fair about the hosts, evaluate the problem, and then report to the city police.

If another complaint is received, a city patrol car is dispatched to warn the party that the noise is being heard.

The party acts are less likely to be defensive if a student approaches them with the first warning. The plan is designed to prevent trouble before it happens, said one city official.

What benefits Paul Simon, benefits Southern Illinois

After much partisan haggling by legislators, a panel of three federal judges has approved a plan for the reapportionment of Illinois congressional districts.

The plan, which reduces the number of districts from 34 to 22, reflecting a population loss in the 1980 census -- has not startled the present state Republican, who have called it a "gerrymander," a chance to improve the student image with the city. Indeed, there is the problem of getting volunteers for the patrol. Not too many people, apparently, want to give up their time on weekends to be in the noisy areas and be surprised if it happens there.

The proposal sounds like a gimlet behind the scenes, and it's easy to listen to the party may not be a problem. Students will continue to party anyway, and this plan may make them more responsible about it.

Letters

Praise, rather than criticism

Another letter (Nov. 18) on abortion in the Daily Egyptian?

The writer was a little harsh, spending so many men's letters and wondering why women never consult with the men before deciding to answer one of the questions.

In my first letter I suggested that the many men who are interested in the current problem of abortion look at the many women who are not. I suggested that the issue of abortion be discussed in a manner more likely to be understood by the average person. I do not mean to imply that the issue of abortion is not important or that women should not be involved in the discussion. I do mean to suggest that this letter is not the place to discuss the issue. The letter is not the place to discuss the issue.

First, praise are due Colman Salter, Steve Trudy, Dwayne Redd, and Bob Turner for their supportive letters. These letters are a refreshing change from the many letters that are simply negative and unconstructive.

Ronald Reagan is an excellent example of a political leader who has shown the ability to unite the American people. He has demonstrated his ability to work together with members of both political parties, and has shown a willingness to compromise in order to get things done.

The tragic is that the issue of abortion is still viewed as a controversial topic. This is unfortunate, as it is a topic that affects all Americans. It is important that we work together to find a solution that is acceptable to all.

SOUTH-Central Illinois family artists will exhibit their creations beginning with a public reception from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at Faner Hall Museum.

Biggs, a retired coal miner and farmer, is perhaps the last traditional split oak basket maker in Southern Illinois. He learned the craft as a young boy from his grandfather but didn't pursue it until he retired from the mines and moved to the Saluki area.

The 68-year-old Biggs has been working on egg baskets and their衍生产品 in split oak and redwood for the last 12 years.

Boyett, also a retired miner, has been carving most of his life. He taught himself wood carving as a boy, mostly to provide himself with toothpicks or wooden guns and other toys. He eventually created his own designs, and has done so in the coal mines. He whittles mostly with a pocketknife, but he also enjoys using a small chainsaw when the occasion arises.

On display at the museum will be Biggs' baskets and Boyett's woodcarvings, as well as other artwork created by local artists. The exhibit is free and open to the public, and will continue through December.

The SIU-C College of Engineering and Technology, like most of the nation's engineering colleges, is having trouble recruiting faculty.

According to Dean Kenneth Templemeyer, seven faculty positions in the college are occupied by part-time or temporary instructors, but recruitment of professors to fill the permanent positions, one of which has been open for three years, has been negligible.

A study by the American Council on Education's Higher Education Panel found that more than half of the nation's 244 colleges and universities with accredited engineering programs are having a tough time finding and keeping qualified instructors.

Templemeyer said a lack of teaching is not appealing to engineers who can earn a beginning salary in industry equal to that of a professor with a Ph.D.

Because engineers with a bachelor's degree can earn such high salaries in industry, Templemeyer said there is little incentive for engineers to complete a graduate degree.

Although many of SIU-C's openings are the result of new positions, Templemeyer said nearly 50 percent of the last three years.

The number of faculty positions in the eight departments of the college has increased, the increase has not kept pace with the growth in enrollment, Templemeyer said.

Conversely, more graduate students are serving as teaching assistants.

The ACE study found that 54 percent of the nation's engineering schools with teaching difficulties are unable to offer certain courses, but Templemeyer said the number of courses offered at SIU-C has increased since three years ago.

However, Templemeyer said the courses are filled rapidly, and, as a result, students have to wait to take classes they need.

The ACE study also reported that a significant percentage of the schools having teaching difficulties reported the quality of teaching had also declined.

Templemeyer said research quality at SIU-C is not declining, but the amount of research has decreased because faculty members have become more involved in teaching.

Six of the 60 engineering and technology faculty members do not teach faculty members do not teach.

Templemeyer agrees that the quality of teaching is declining because teachers with increased class sizes have less time to spend with each student.

He said there are nearly 34 SIU-C students for every engineering and technology faculty member who teaches.

'Texas-style' concert will be Friday

Aileen and Elkin Thomas will bring their Texas style of music to SIU-C Friday evening in a Spotlights Concert in the Old Main Rotunda.

Aileen and Elkin met in Nashville in 1975 and have since toured with Leonardo Cohen in Europe with such greats as Chet Atkins, Don Winders and Bob Dylan.

Elkin recorded with the folk-rock duo Avent-Garde, which in 1968 gained national recognition for the song "Naturally Stewed." Elkin left the duo to pursue a career in writing in 1970, his song "McGill Girl," sung by Marty Robbins, became a Top Ten country hit.

Together or individually, Aileen and Elkin have played song on albums with Bob Dylan, Leonard Cohen, Pete Seeger, Earl Scruggs, Waylon Jennings and Ramblin' Jack Elliott.

The ACE study also reported that 75 percent of the schools having teaching difficulties reported the quality of teaching had also declined.

Templemeyer said research quality at SIU-C is not declining, but the amount of research has decreased because faculty members have become more involved in teaching.

Six of the 60 engineering and technology faculty members do not teach faculty members do not teach.

Templemeyer agrees that the quality of teaching is declining because teachers with increased class sizes have less time to spend with each student.

He said there are nearly 34 SIU-C students for every engineering and technology faculty member who teaches.

'Texas-style' concert will be Friday

Aileen and Elkin Thomas will bring their Texas style of music to SIU-C Friday evening in a Spotlights Concert in the Old Main Rotunda.

Aileen and Elkin met in Nashville in 1975 and have since toured with Leonardo Cohen in Europe with such greats as Chet Atkins, Don Winders and Bob Dylan.

Elkin recorded with the folk-rock duo Avent-Garde, which in 1968 gained national recognition for the song "Naturally Stewed." Elkin left the duo to pursue a career in writing in 1970, his song "McGill Girl," sung by Marty Robbins, became a Top Ten country hit.

Together or individually, Aileen and Elkin have played song on albums with Bob Dylan, Leonard Cohen, Pete Seeger, Earl Scruggs, Waylon Jennings and Ramblin' Jack Elliott.

The Chicago conference, which will be at the Americana Congress Hotel, is a culmination of four regional meetings in Illinois that were conducted in October and November.

Coughlin is also chairman of the Illinois Department of Corrections Juvenile Division.

Gifts both large and small push athletics fund drive toward goal

David Murphy
Staff Writer

When one gives a gift, it's the thought that counts.

When the members of the IUC ground maintenance crew chipped in to help the Saluki Futures athletics fundraising drive, the gesture was that mattered, says Duan Schroeder, grounds maintenance supervisor.

The 50-member crew took up collection and raised a total of $300. Schroeder said the action showed that the workers care about the University.

"It may not sound like much, but they all wanted to participate in some way," he said. "It's a loyalty thing. Many of them feel very strongly toward the University, and they want to support it."

The fund drive, which began Oct. 1, has raised about $80,000 toward its goal of $150,000, according to Joan Paratore, assistant to the vice president for student affairs.

University officials had already received contributions or commitments for $78,000 when the drive began, and have received an additional $4,000 since then, Paratore said.

"Right now we have received money from Joe Herina, Benton and Chris-opher areas," Paratore said. "There are still 19 other fundraising areas which we have yet to get donations from."

The deadline for the drive has been extended to the end of next week so workers have a chance to make additional contacts in the Southern Illinois area, Paratore said.

"Our original deadline of Nov. 15 was a little bit unrealistic," she said. "We extended it to the end of next week because some of the workers didn't have enough time to get in touch with people in their community."

Paratore said that it is too early to say if the fund drive will be completely successful. "It depends on what you say success is," she said. "It has been successful in that people throughout Southern Illinois are going to hear from us and get to know us. As far as money, though, I really have no idea."

The University hopes to raise at least $116,000 in athletics expenses which were budgeted to charity and fundraising, according to Paratore.

At least 10 percent of all Saluki Futures contributions will be set aside to create an endowment fund for the athletics program, unless otherwise designated by the donor, according to Bruce Swinborne, vice president for student affairs.

GREAT WRITING STARTS WITH A LITTLE LISTENING, A LITTLE BEER, AND A LOT OF LEGWORK.

by Mickey Spillane

When the guys at Miller asked me to write an ad on writing, I said, "Forget it.
This even if you held a gun to my head! So they held a bottle of Lite Beer to my mouth.
They're a pretty persuasive group.

THINGS TO MIND:

- You're going to write anything, no matter what you're talking about. And that means throw things. Research, research, and more research. The more you know, the more you can tell your reader.

Take my characters. A lot of them I base on actual people. There's this buddy of mine who pops up in every book I write.
In one story he's a cop. In another, a private eye. Once, I made him a millionaire.
Using him not only helped me change character development a heck of a lot easier, he was so carried away by the high image, he bought me a lot of fried dinners (and a lot of Lite I swear Miller.) So use the people you know as models.

Even locations should be based on real things. If you're writing about a bar that has the best mustard in the world, write about a bar that has the best mustard in the world.

ME, DL.

No corpse can complete with dames or ladies in proper English. Experience has shown me that in mystery writing, the sexier the damsel, the better. Experience has also shown me that sexy scenes make great punctuation marks. This is where research has the greatest potential.

So you own your own decision in this matter. But when you write about it, don't be too austere. That was, in short, gets to point:

CAPER TO PAPER

O.K. you've got your characters, locations, and dames lined up. Now comes the good part: Putting your caper in paper. There's no mystery to it. As long as you write the ending first, the rest will follow.
Write short, terse, do-the-point sentences.

Be as clear as possible. And make sure you've got the right stuff around for when you get broody. After all, writing is pretty thrifty work.

I suggest a couple of mugs of Light
Beer-- who ever heard of a caper that didn't involve a couple of mugs?

Why Light Beer? It's a swell drink and my books--great taste, less filling. Some can't get their fill of my books, and that's always good to spend with.

At any rate, follow my advice and who knows--you might turn out to be a heck of a Light Beer drinker.

by Mickey Spillane

Inconsistent grapplers lose first three meets

By Steve Metzach

As Coach Lisa Long expected, the wrestling team ran into both tough opponents and inconsistency in its first three meets this season.

The grapplers met a "very tough" Oklahoma in the Oklahoma Open at Norman, Okla., Nov. 27-28. Senior Dale Shea and junior Tim Dillick each performed well in their respective weight classes. Dillick, recovering from tooth surgery, had a 3-2 record to finish fourth in the 142-pound class. Shea finished fourth in the 190-pound class, winning two of five matches.

Although he had planned to wrestle just four weight classes early in the season, the Salukis competed in seven classes at McMahon, Allen.

Top AP's list of All-Americans

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim McMahon of Brigham Young, major college football's all-time passing king, and Marcus Allen of Southern California, the first single-season 2,000-yard runner, were named Tuesday to The Associated Press All-America team for 1981.

They were joined by three repeaters from the 1980 squad — wide receiver Anthony Carter of Michigan, defensive tackle Kenneth Sima of Texas and running back Herschel Walker of Georgia, the only Sophomore on the first team. Others named to the offensive unit are tight end Tim Wrightman of UCLA, wide receiver Julian Dawkins of Pitt, tackles Ed Muransky of Michigan and Terry Tauch of Texas, guards Kurt Becker of Michigan and Sean Farrell of Penn State, center Dave Rimington of Nebraska, and placekicker Gary Anderson of Syracuse.

The defensive unit includes ends Billy Ray Smith of Arizona and Andre Tippett of Iowa, tackle Jeff Gaylord of Missouri, middle guard Tim Kromrie of Wisconsin, linebackers Johnie Cooks of Mississippi State, Bob Crame of Notre Dame and Pitt's Sal Sunseri, backs Terry Kinard of Clemson, Mike Richards of Arizona State and Tommy Wilson of Alabama, and punter Reggie Ruby of Iowa.

Norman Sophomore Gerald Richards, 116; Junior Keith Abney, 126; and freshman Derek Woolard, 130, were all wireless in their classes. Freshman Mike Turnbull was 1-1 in the 126-pound class and freshman Ted Bessette was 1-2 in the 170-pound class. According to Long, no team scores were kept since it is early in the season.

The Salukis were "beaten pretty good," by Southwest Missouri State at Springfield, Mo., on Nov. 24. SWMO won the meet 37-7, dropping SIUC's dual meet record to 0-1.

Sophomore Jerry Richards won the 118-pound class defeating Southwest's Ron Embree 9-3. Shea scored an 11-2 victory over Steve DeGraeve to capture the 160-pound class.

A dual meet against Oklahoma State, which was to be held at the Arena on Nov. 25, was postponed.

The grapplers opened their season Nov. 30 at the St. Louis Open at Forest Park Community College. Team scores were not kept. Turner, Richards, Shea, Bessette, and Junior Keith Abney competed for the Salukis.

Freshman Kevin Powars quit the team during break. Long said Powars told him he was tired of the same old practice routine.

"We won't miss Powars," Long said. "The rest of the guys are working hard in practice each day."

Go home for 3 minutes.

Home. You couldn't wait to get away. And now there are times when you'd give anything to go back. So go back.

You're never really further away than the closest phone. Whether it's a twinge of homesickness, the drudgery of studying or a terrific piece of news, call them. You'll be there in seconds. Because one thing they never taught you in Math 101 is that the shortest distance between two points is long distance.
Proposal could change SIU-C football status

By Rod Furlow
Staff Writer

A special NCAA meeting will be held in St. Louis Thursday and Friday, and the results could change the division status of Saluki football next year.

The Salukis competed in Division IA this season. A push by the College Football Association to realign college football divisions could change that.

The CFA, which was formed one year ago, is made up of 61 schools with big football programs.

"They want some kind of realignment," acting Men's Athletics Director Patricia Hartwig said. "After they formed, they threatened to become a new division—Division IV. What they're really worried about is TV money."

The CFA isn't so concerned with the amount of TV money available, they're worried about the number of appearances they're entitled to, according to Dave Pickle, the NCAA's assistant director of public affairs.

He said the bulk of the NCAA's $33 million of TV revenue paid by ABC-TV this season goes to Division IA schools, but that a prescribed percentage goes to Division II, Division III, and Division IV schools.

The CFA has a separate TV contract with NBC-TV. Approval of the Division IV proposal would create a division with its own TV contract. Only part of revenue from games between Division IV schools and schools outside the division would get outside Division IV coffers.

"We're not too optimistic about our Division IV proposal. The NCAA's proposal might provide a compromise," said Elaine Donahue, a CFA administrative assistant.

The NCAA's proposal is to confine the IA Division to schools with an average minimum attendance of 26,000 per game. The average minimum attendance this season was set at 17,000.

Another aspect of the NCAA proposal is the elimination of the provision allowing schools participating in 12 major sports to compete in IA football. Under this provision, schools lacking the required minimum attendance have been able to participate in IA football.

If the proposal is adopted, SIU-C would become a IAA football school.

"As I read it, it will pass," said W.D. Klimstra, SIU-C's delegate to the session. "Division IV's not in the cards for this meeting, and this provides an alternative. We'll vote against the Division IV proposal and play the IA proposal by ear."

Hartwig said the Missouri Valley Conference teams will probably all end up in Division IAA.

The move to Division IAA will require some some scheduling adjustments, which would make scheduling difficult but not impossible, according to Klimstra. He said Division IA teams must play 60 percent of their games against other Division IA teams.

Another way SIU-C will be affected is in the number of football scholarships it will be allowed to offer.

Gymnasts to focus on growth

By Steve Metzch
Staff Writer

Coach Herb Vogel would rather see his women gymnasts just maintain their status than lose their first couple of matches than win.

"I worry that losing in meets are that important now," said Vogel. "I'd rather see that teams grow than win shabbily."

Vogel will begin his 15th season with SIUC when the Salukis meet Iowa State and Western Illinois at Ames, Iowa on Dec. 3. The gymnasts will then compete in the Iowa Invitational on Dec. 5.

"We start earlier this year because before we had only lost one meet in 15 years. This year we would help the team. Now, I'd like to have that much extra help as we could practice more," Vogel said.

Last year's team finished a disappointing fifth in the Midwest and was the first Vaulter Vogel to fail to receive a national bid Vogel said that "If we will go to our second floor (the potential) to be better than last year, I hope that each meet is a little more progressive. I plan for the season to be like a pyramid—with us peaking at the end. We've been strong early."

"Just get injured and that these meets help build their confidence. Injuries are one thing the team doesn't need. Two all-arounders have already cloude the future of the team."

Sophomore Pam Turner, who Vogel calls his "best all-around," has a sprained ankle and will probably only compete in uneven bars. Vogel said the team "badly needs" her score.

"We will lose at least six points, since Turner is more experienced than her replacements," Vogel said. "I'm allowing her to bear her own work based on how her ankle feels."

Junior Debbie Chase and sophomore Mary Runck will replace Turner in vaulting, but Vogel said the seventh and eights won't replace Turner's score. Runck, whose individual exercise score is in the low eights, according to Vogel, will replace Turner.

Vogel was expecting sophomore Dee Dee Mooney to help lead the team before her recurring ankle problem came back to haunt her.

"I thought she should get nine or better in floor exercises, beam and vaulting," Vogel said. "Her ankle tends to get puffy and give her discomfort, and she has decided to get it repaired right away. That may or may not be a selfish move."

Her progress this year has not been hampered by her ankle, though.

As a result, the Salukis will lose about 1.5 points. The loss of those potential points plus the six lost because of Turner's injury, led Vogel to say he would be satisfied if the Salukas score near the national qualifying score of 130. The national cut off isn't all that dark for the gymnasts, though. Two-time All-American senior Vai Painton and junior Lori Erickson are both in top shape for the season opener.

"Vai had a bit of the senior mania," Turner said.
