Employees to seek shorter work week

By Andrew Herrmann
Staff Writer

The Civil Service Employees Council voted to shelve a resolution Wednesday declaring that the council had no confidence in the Board of Trustees.

The resolution, submitted by Councilman Gary Auld, stated that the Board of Trustees "has engaged in a historic pattern of Executive Actions which have resulted in a systematized abrogation of the inherent rights of civil service employees at SIU-C to receive equivalent salaries, wages and fringe benefits as those received by civil service employees at other institutions..."

The shelving of the resolution came after the council had voted unanimously to back council Chairwoman Phyllis McCowen in efforts to lobby for a 37½ hour work week for civil service employees. McCowen announced that she will address the Board of Trustees at its next meeting, Dec. 9 in Edwardsville.

McCowen told the council that she has "several concerns" regarding the shorter work week proposal. Board Chairman William Norwood said at the board meeting in November that because of "scarce resources" the shortened work week plan could not be considered.

McCowen said Wednesday that, in her opinion, the plan "isn't dead" yet. "I feel we need to raise more points," she said.

Auld, speaking about Norwood's comments on the work week plan, said the decision "is another in a long series of decisions that the board has made that demonstrates, at least to me, that as far as their responsibility for our welfare is concerned, we're not getting anything in return."

"The 37½ hour work week is just one link in a long chain that stretches back a long time," he said. "It's been a domino effect. The salary and wages and fringe benefits continue to fall in a systematized pattern."

While most council members agreed that their displeasure over board actions should be expressed, most also questioned the prudence of issuing a no confidence declaration at the same time they were asking the board to consider a shorter work week.

"Personally, I would feel very uncomfortable to bring this up at this point," McCowen said. "If they repeat what they said or they make no consideration, then I think something like this is in order."

The Civil Service Employee Council has repeatedly asked the board to consider shortening the work week by 2½ hours since McCowen first asked SIU-C President Albert Somit to propose it to the board in late 1980.

Center's fee plan draws opposition

By Robert Green
Staff Writer

A proposal to charge student organizations $5 per day for use of solicitation tables in the Student Center has become a big issue to some smaller groups with small budgets.

The proposal, initiated by Student Center Director John Corker, would not apply to groups that use the tables only for distributing information or for charitable fund raising.

But groups that sell T-shirts, buttons and other items to raise money for their coffers — and for exposure — would have to pay the fee. Several such groups, including the Student Environmental Center, the Black Affairs Council, WIDB Radio and the Illinois Public Interest Research Group, have voiced opposition to the proposal.

Jennifer Larkin, SEC coordinator, said her group has sold shirts and posters of endangered species "not so much to make money but to publicize

She said the proposed fee would probably not hurt larger Recognized Student Organizations, "but groups that make a minimal amount, as we do, would be hurt."

The Student Center Board Policy Committee will discuss the proposal at 5 p.m. Monday in the Iroquois Room of the Student Center. Bob Anderson, committee chairman, said the meeting will be open.

Current policy allows free use of the solicitation area by recognized groups, but those groups using the ballrooms and other rooms for solicitation or for events requiring admission are charged fees.

Corker said the proposal would ensure a more consistent policy.

"The solicitation policy has been vague over the years, and we've decided to propose having a set of guidelines," he said. "For example, if you must pay to use meeting rooms when admission is charged, why should you use the downstairs area for free?"

He also said some sales in the solicitation area have often caused space and traffic problems in the hallway, and he said the proposed policy might encourage groups to hold such sales in the ballrooms instead.

The proposal would also require that campus groups sponsoring sales by off-campus vendors be assessed a $20 per day charge. Corker said that the facility should get some com-

Hemphill fund may pay for funeral

By Ginny Lee

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, will recommend that the money remaining in the Mark Hemphill Fund be used to cover any unpaid medical bills and Hemphill's funeral expenses. Larry Juhlin, Swinburne's assistant, said Wednesday.

Hemphill, former Saluki football player who was paralyzed by an injury he suffered in a 1979 game, was found dead in his van Friday in the parking lot of the St. Louis apartment complex where he resided.

About $10,000 remains in Hemphill's fund, which was created by money donated on Mark Hemphill Day at SIU-C on Sept. 13, 1980. Swinburne will make the recommendation, which has been cleared by the National

Thompson asks for deep budget cuts

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Pledging to "right the ship," Gov. James R. Thompson Wednesday asked the Illinois Legislature for authority to make deep cuts in the state budget and for a liquor tax hike to help make up a $200 million imbalance.

If approved by lawmakers this week during the final three days of their 1982 session, the moves probably would mean hefty cuts in state spending for education and welfare.

Thompson said if lawmakers did not act this week, he would have to call a special legislative session in mid-December to deal with the state's cash crisis.

A failure of the Legislature to act at all "not only would be unconstitutional, we would go belly up," Thompson said at a Statehouse news conference after briefing legislative leaders.

Officials are required under Illinois' Constitution to make sure state government doesn't spend more than it takes in.

The Senate and House adjourned Wednesday afternoon for meetings to consider the governor's proposals.

Senate President Philip Rock, D-Oak Park, said he generally supported Thompson's proposals, but would want limits on the governor's proposed expansion of budget-cutting powers.

The state was faced with the $200 million shortage of cash because previous estimates of how much the treasury would take in this year were too high, Thompson said. The estimates were off because the predicted national economic recovery this year did not come to pass.

The Legislature's revenue forecasting arm, the Economic and Fiscal Commission, reported two weeks ago that its previous estimate was $173 million too high. The commission's revised figures were nearly $200 million below Thompson administration estimates. But Thompson said Wednesday he and the commission now agree on the state's fiscal plight.

To make up the cash shortage — which Thompson acknowledged could worsen by the end of the current fiscal year on June 30 — the Republican governor suggested raising $50 million in new revenue through the liquor tax increase and speeded-up utility tax collections.

Rea pledges to pursue plan for elected, 'accountable' ICC

By Bob Delaney
Staff Writer

State Rep. Jim Rea, D-Christopher, has pledged to reintroduce a measure calling for an elected commerce commission.

Rea said he would reintroduce the bill immediately after being sworn into his third term in January.

"Nothing has happened in the past few months to change my mind about the need to elect the Illinois Commerce Commission," he said.

Rea's call for an elected ICC was defeated in the House this year when House Speaker George Ryan, who opposes an elected ICC, yanked Rea's bill from the floor before a crucial vote. The Senate had already passed a bill supporting an elected commerce commission.

Steve Banker, staff coordinator for Southern Counties Action Movement, which first proposed an elected ICC in 1976, said Gov. James Thompson had been the main obstacle to the measure but that there was a good chance it would reach the governor's desk next year.

Banker said Ryan, who was elected Thompson's lieutenant governor, had kept the measure from reaching Thompson this year. "Getting George out there was our biggest victory this year," Banker has said.

An informal survey by SCAM, a citizen's group, earlier this year showed bipartisan support from Southern Illinois lawmakers to elect the commission which has come under fire for recent rate increases granted to Illinois public utilities.

Rea's bill will be reintroduced into a Democratic-controlled House. Rea, of the 117th District, and Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-Murphysboro, strongly support an elected ICC that they say would be more accountable to consumers.

Rea said the ICC's approval this month of a 22 percent rate increase for Central Illinois Public Service was an example of the unrestrained actions by the present appointed ICC.

pensation when such sales involving businesses are conducted, and he said internal auditors have urged the Student Center administration to pursue a more profit-oriented policy.

But the main point causing concern among many student groups is the profit that would be accrued by the $5-per-day rental charge.

Karriem Shari'ati, Black Affairs Council coordinator, said his group might have to discontinue use of the tables if the proposed policy were enacted.

"We would not be able to afford it," he said. "There are lots of other ways they could make money, if that's what they want to do."

Ken Krause, WILB music director, said the radio station usually has a table set up in the downstairs area once a week.

"We sell T-shirts, but not very many, maybe one or two a day. We're not out there to make money, but for exposure," Krause said. "The new policy sure wouldn't do us any favors."

Barbara Pisacreta, a member of IPIRG, said her group sells buttons to make students more aware of IPIRG and the issues with which the group deals. She said the proposed policy would conflict with one of the main functions of the Student Center, the promotion of student organizations.

Not all of the groups opposed to the policy are small. Joanne Elia, vice chairman of the Inter-Greek Council, said her organization "will support all the smaller RSOs."

Collegiate Athletic Association, to the three-person committee which controls the fund, Juhlin said.

"The initial concern should be paying any medical expenses and then anything left after that could be used for his funeral expenses," he said. "That has already been cleared by the NCAA."

Juhlin said that the committee will have to make a recommendation about any money which remains after these expenses have been paid. Swinburne's recommendation is followed.

The committee, which was formed in compliance with NCAA rules, comprises Lew Hartzog, men's athletics director; Charlotte West, women's athletics director; and Willard D. Klimstra, NCAA faculty representative.

Hemphill's attorney, Christopher Holthaus, said that he will wait until the University contacts him about the fund before he decides to take any action

"We have to wait for the University to contact us," he said. "We really don't know what's going to happen until it happens. We're just going to have to see what develops on it."

A funeral service for Hemphill will be at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Randie Funeral Home, 4600 Natural Bridge Road in St. Louis. The burial is set for 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Peter's Cemetery, 2101 Lucas and Hunt Road in St. Louis.

Reagan agrees to give Brazil loan

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — President Reagan conferred with Brazil's chief executive Wednesday about the country's troubled economy, and agreed to provide an emergency $1.2 billion loan to help it pay urgent foreign bills until longer term financing is arranged.

The U.S. loan is intended to permit Brazil to continue buying foreign goods until it negotiates a $5-billion to $6-billion loan from the International Monetary Fund in exchange for belt-tightening measures to stabilize its economy.

Masterson waives extradition right

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kevin John Masterson, sought for questioning in the Tylenol poisoning case, was ordered back to Illinois on Wednesday after he waived extradition.

Masterson, 35, appeared in a Los Angeles courtroom after spending the night in a padded cell, the result of a violent incident in which he became enraged, scuffled with jailers and smashed the toilet in his jail cell.

But appearing before Municipal Court Judge Michael A. Tynan, the mechanic was calm and spoke softly as he acknowledged that he had been apprised of his right to fight extradition.

ICC OKs utility rate increase

CHIN (AP) — The Illinois Commerce Commission on Wednesday awarded Commonwealth Edison Co. another increase that will result in a 1982 utility rate hike of $660.7 million — the largest ever granted by the state.

The rate increase for Edison, the state's largest utility will affect some 3 million northern Illinois residents. Michael Hasten, ICC chairman, said the agency's action amounts to a combined increase of about 16.7 percent.

Residential customers will be hit hardest with increases averaging about 21 percent, he said.

Both sides claim gain in recount

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Lawyers for Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson and Republican Gov. James R. Thompson each claimed Wednesday initial results from a partial recount of ballots in Illinois' closest governor's race favored their candidate.

And both sides, in a possible prelude of what is in store in the high-stakes legal struggle, hurled bitter verbal volleys at each other as partial recounting continued in dozens of counties across Illinois.

County board approves budget, starts transition to new board

By Bob Delaney
Staff Writer

The Jackson County Board attempted Tuesday to tie up loose ends, including approval of the 1982-83 budget, for a smooth transition to a new board to be sworn in Monday.

Bob Crim, chair of the finance committee, was instrumental in putting together the $10.2 million budget approved by the board Tuesday. He warned members that the general funds budget, which is about $30,000 in the red, was fragile and would withstand few changes.

An attempt to amend the budget to give ambulance workers a $600 across-the-board pay raise failed when board members pointed out that ambulance workers were already getting a percentage pay raise.

Gene Chambers said that while he wasn't entirely happy with the budget, it was the 11th hour and there wasn't time to change every line item.

The county nursing home was allotted $3 million — the largest share of the budget. The county general fund received $2.3 million and county highway and bridge maintenance got $2.06 million.

Agencies receiving funds included the health department — $774,950 — the 706 board — $226,000 — and ambulance service — $624,976.

In other business, the board approved a bid from R.B. Stephens Construction Co. for $175,725 to install a new elevator, furnace and wiring in the courthouse and to add a gate to the county clerk's office and replace the water heater in the courthouse.

Outgoing Chairperson Mary Nell Chew said the board had not solved the problems of the jail and courthouse but had given the next board a good foundation with which to work.

Chew, who served on the board for 13 years, is leaving after an unsuccessful run for county treasurer this fall.

Crim, who also is leaving the board, said later that the elevator in the courthouse was just the tip of the iceberg. At the meeting, he reminded the board

Woman abducted from Mall and raped

A 41-year-old woman was abducted and raped at gunpoint Monday, according to Carbondale police, after she was forced to drive from the University Mall parking lot to an area near Attucks Park in Carbondale.

The woman told police that she had just left her car at about noon when she was forced back into it by a white male carrying a small silver-colored revolver.

The suspect forced her to and warned new board members present that there are 16 points of non-compliance with state code in the jail facility.

In other matters, the board approved a lease arrangement with the building commission for the county nursing home. The lease, ending Nov. 30, 1988, will cost the county $125,000 annually. The agreement was a continuance of one reached in 1971.

The board delayed an appointment to the Southern Illinois Airport Authority after Tross Pierson told the board that Don Brewer had submitted a letter of intent reapplying for the position. Board members were not aware of the application being on file and Norman Parmley was the only candidate who was being considered.

drive to an area near North Wall Street, where she was raped, police said. He was described as being 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing about 200 pounds, having sandy or brown hair and a mustache, wearing glasses and a green Army fatigue jacket.

The victim said she was robbed of $200 and then returned to the mall's parking lot at about 2 p.m., police said.

Selective persecution not the American way

DRAFT OPPONENTS happily anticipate an early end to the draft registration program. The cause of their hope is the dismissal by U.S. District Judge Terry Hatter Jr. of the case against 21-year-old admitted draft resister David Wayte in Los Angeles last week.

Hatter ruled that the registration regulations were invalid because they were put into effect "a mere 21 days" instead of the required 30 days after they were published in the Federal Register.

Naturally, U.S. Attorney Stephen Trott will appeal the case. The government is expected to appeal "the entire order issued by Judge Hatter," he said. This includes all issues in the opinion and the order.

DRAFT OPPONENTS place their optimism in their belief that the U.S. government would have to go through the whole process of redrawing and reinstating registration if Hatter's decision holds.

Whether Hatter's ruling stands or not, there is another issue that he raised that is of greater concern. Hatter said that Wayte's constitutional right to free speech had been violated by the government's decision to prosecute only vocal opponents of the draft. This selective prosecution of men who openly defied the registration order is by far the most disconcerting issue in all the cases brought by the government.

ALL CITIZENS ARE equal under the law and should be treated so. Selective prosecution — the idea of making scapegoats of a few — on the basis of their visibility or status, is undemocratic and unconstitutional.

Letters

You leave a little tip but it pays our tuition

The failure of Carbondale restaurant patrons to leave gratuities, customarily 10-20 percent, has caused animosities in the waitresses at our place of employment. The restaurant, not named here because of its innocence in the matter, is a sit-down, family restaurant in which the customer is not required to do any type of self serving.

We, the waitresses, are nearly all college students who depend on gratuities to supplement the less than minimum hourly wage that we receive from the restaurant. We have tried to ignore this situation by telling ourselves that it is because of our patrons' ignorance of the gratuity leaving custom that we often do not receive tips. But among a predominantly college-educated patronage, ignorance does not seem to be a logically acceptable excuse.

Upon their departure we proceeded to clear the table and discovered that, in spite of the group's comments on their satisfaction, no gratuity had been left. We rechecked with the manager, who confirmed that one hundred and some odd dollar bills had been paid, but that no gratuity had been left. We are not singling out this particular group for the sole purpose of airing out our hostilities, but use them to exemplify the problem that we experience whether it be with large or small parties.

It is often argued that students do not leave tips because of limited budgets and consequently we who depend upon tips to pay our way through school suffer a loss. We believe that if someone feels he cannot afford the standard gratuity that he should have the food delivered to his home or pick it up at the restaurant. If one of these limited budget students feels that it is not fair for him to be excluded the right to a sit down meal, then we invite him to stand in our shoes for a night.

In writing this letter we hope that we have eliminated any existing ignorance of the propriety of a gratuity and dispelled the arguments of those who feel they cannot afford to tip. — Laura Ravenna, Senior in Fine Arts and Jennifer Jones, Senior in Special Education.

An incident occurred last Wednesday evening, that was, for us, the straw which broke the camel's back. A fraternity organization in excess of 40 members phoned in to pre-order their meal. Before they arrived we, the two waitresses assigned to the party, prepared and set the table for the gathering. We served the meal in a congenial manner. After the group had finished their meal we asked, as is customary, if everything had been alright and if they required anything else. The general reply was that they had been pleased with the food and

If Zionists do control the press they are doing a very poor job

By Abraham Aamidor, Graduate Student, Journalism.

About two months ago a letter to the DE advanced the argument that the U.S. media is "Zionist controlled" and offered as evidence of this the affiliation of Jews to certain New York and Washington newspapers, and also in the broadcast media. The letter-writer alleged "Zionist control" but in fact only identified people with one sort of Jewish connection or another.

A few letter-writers after this protested that the "Zionist control" piece was in essence anti-Semitic because it singled out Jews as Jews, but one letter-writer disputed that the original "Zionist control" piece author could be anti-Semitic because he was a "Semite" himself, and also challenged critics to actually refute the original piece.

The appeal to racial purity on behalf of a Palestinian Arab is itself fairly disturbing — actually, true Palestinians would have Egyptian, Turkish, Seljuk, Mameluke, Circassian, Greek, Jewish and other ancestors, for these are all peoples who have passed through the Holy Land, and appeals to racial purity are at best meaningless and at worst racist themselves. In any case, the term "anti-Semitic" is the standard English-language expression for "anti-Jewish" and, yes, even Semites and Jews can be, have been, and are sometimes today "anti-Semitic."

It is the weakness of the scientific argumentation in the original "Zionist control" piece that I want to address here, however. The author did not survey the media to discover what percentage of the U.S. media is "Zionist controlled," which was equated with Jewish-owned in the original DE piece. The author merely singled out the New York Times, America's absolutely most respected paper, and a few other allegedly Jewish-owned media. I have seen estimates ranging from three to ten percent Jewish ownership of all American media, which hardly seems to represent control based on ownership.

The original author also did not differentiate between ownership and news-editorial management: Is it an owner-publisher who determines news-editorial content, or is it an independent news-editorial management team?

Forsaking a most fundamental scientific technique, the author did not even compare and contrast editorial content of Jewish-owned media with non-Jewish owned media. Does the New York Times report on the Middle East in any way fundamentally different than the Chicago Tribune? I suggest that the answer is no, but the author did not even begin to make some inquiries.

Well, Robert H. Trice, in "The Press and the Arab-Israeli Conflict" in the "Middle East Journal," Summer, 1979, p. 304, did look at this last sort of question.

The "Middle East Journal" is certainly not a pro-Israeli rag by anyone's estimation, and I urge people with a serious and honest interest in American media to look at this study.

Basically, Trice did a content analysis of 11 "elite" American newspapers' editorials between 1966 and 1974, including the NYT, Chicago Tribune, Washington Post, LA Times, and others. On a seven-point scale for intensity, from -3 to 3, Trice found that the press editorials were, in sum, slightly pro-Israel (less than 1) and slightly anti-Arab, less than -.1.

Yet, he noted that the apparent anti-Arab bias was due to uncompromising condemnation of Arab terror against Israeli civilians and Jews abroad and also Arab non-recognition of Israel. The press was decidedly anti-Israel on the questions of annexation of Jerusalem, Jewish settlements on the West Bank, and the devastating retaliation raids against PLO targets.

The papers supported Palestinian rights, and also supported Israel's right to exist and defend itself.

I am convinced that the overwhelming majority of Americans, and readers of the DE, support just these positions as expressed in American newspaper editorials between 1966 and 1974.

I further suggest that it is not any imagined Zionist control of the American media that troubles many Arabs, but it is just this true 'even-handedness' that is dangerous to their intractable and overriding anti-Israel hate.

Acting group democratically dramatic

By Kelly Reed
Student Writer

The Jackson County Stage Company was formed last January after a couple of printed lines appeared in a newspaper. Today, the Stage Company boasts a membership of more than 70 people ranging in age from 8 to 80.

"It just worked out beautifully," said Joseph Miller, president of the Stage Company. "It was just unbelievable how many people showed up at the first meeting."

Miller, who decided the time was right to experiment with a community theater group after hearing several persons express interest, said that the group works very democratically.

"This is certainly not a one-person thing. The group votes on all decisions made," Miller said, stating that membership is open to anyone and that most members have had "little or no" acting experience before joining the group.

The Stage Company will present "My Three Angels," which is about three convicts who play guardian angels to a French family because they don't want to see an evil uncle take over the family's business, at 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Murphysboro High School. Admission is $3.75.

At the second meeting of the Stage Company, the group decided that members would pay a $20 fee for the year, with a discount rate of $5 for members' children who are high school age or younger. The group also set a fee of $25 for donors and $50 for sponsors. These fees and the money from ticket sales and advertising cover the costs of the productions.

In June, the Stage Company performed its first play

"Inherit the Wind," based on the Scopes Monkey Trial, which involved a dispute in 1925 over the teaching of Darwin's theory of evolution.

For the opening night performance, which took place at the Jackson County Courthouse, formal invitations were sent to the city mayor, city manager, city board members, Gov. James Thompson, Sen. Charles Percy, former Sen. Adlai Stevenson, and other "political people."

"The Jackson County Courthouse was the ideal setting for the play. We had a full house," Miller said.

Since "Inherit the Wind," the group has put on two one-act plays, and built a stagecoach, which won an award for creativity in the Murphysboro Apple Festival. The group is currently conducting workshops on Thursday nights which focus on acting, producing and directing. It is also looking into the cost of a permanent building, as well as rehearsing and performing "My Three Angels."

"It's surprising that with such a diverse group of people there seems to be a real feeling of camaraderie. It's really solid bunch," said Roy Weshinsky, director of "Lemonade" and "The Autograph Hound." He said the group membership consists of secretaries, waitresses, retired people, social workers, children, minors and minors' wives, just to name a few examples.

Even though Weshinsky hadn't directed for 20 years, he decided to direct the two one-act plays performed in October because he "thought that the Stage Company needed something between 'Inherit the Wind' and 'My Three Angels.'"

"I always wanted to do some plays that had good roles about women," Weshinsky said, adding that "Lemonade" is about two middle-age women who are bored with life, so they set up a lemonade stand in the middle of a highway. "The Autograph Hound" is about a woman who has spent her entire life collecting autographs, thus ignoring her husband and child.

Although Deidre Cocking had never directed a play before, she thought that she might like to try her hand at directing "My Three Angels."

"My husband had heard about the play, so I read the script and saw the play, and I decided that it might be fun to direct," Cocking said. She had directed choirs, she said, but "had to do a lot of reading to learn how to direct plays."

"This has been a very exciting experience for me. Everything's run exactly as I planned," Cocking said. "This particular group is especially great on cooperation and getting things done on time."

Group's songs refreshing

Christian band uses rock beat

By Cynthia Rector
Staff Writer

Christian rock bands seem to always feel a need to justify their existence, and Servant was no exception.

"Why should the devil have all the good music?" Jesus-rock pioneer Larry Norman wrote, and Servant lead vocalist Bob Hardy belted out during the group's Tuesday night SIU-C appearance.

Norman's view was dramatically presented during "Jungle Music," a song of the group's new "Word of Sand" LP. Before the song started, the stage was stripped bare of performers. The steam of dry ice began pouring onto the platform, which was turned into a spaceship, according to a booming voice. The voice warned the audience that they were entering a new galaxy and that the next sound they heard would not be human.

It wasn't. It was a series of drum beats followed by primitive chanting. "Sacrilege safari into jungles of tradition... we want to reach the heathen tribes but our methods are forbidden," sang the performers, who changed from their new-wavish attire into stereotypical missionary garb. "Jungle music, can God really use it?" they asked.

Throughout Servant's show, the creativity of lighting and stage effects rivaled that of most current secular groups, save possibly Devo. But Servant's rapport with its audience was so casual, unpretentious and humorous that it was refreshing, especially for a Servant newcomer prepared for a "preachy" approach.

Servant is the central outreach of an 80-member community based in a 25-acre farm near Grants Pass, Ore. The community shares a common rural life of work, worship and evangelism.

"Two Masters," one of the songs with a clear message, was made even clearer by a down-to-earth introduction from lead vocalist Sandie

Concert Review

Brock, warning how easy it can be for a spiritual person to misplace those priorities for more materialistic concerns. Also off their last album, this song was one of several showing a new wave influence, progressive guitar work, and synchronized dancing on the part of the guitarists and singers which seemed to imitate The Supremes.

The most powerful work, without a doubt, was "Sudden Death," a song intimately tied to the group's own experience of suffering and growth.

Three members of the community, one of them a child, were killed in a sudden head-on collision on June 23, 1981, and this song tells their story.

Switching mood from a light depiction of three young people heading for a day in the woods, the song deals with their deadly collision and the traumatic reaction of a young mother, portrayed by Brock, standing beside the accident site shouting a primal scream of pain.

The eight-minute song spent sufficient time in poignant mourning before resolving itself in the woman and the community's new-found faith.

Gas chromatography lecture slated

By David McAnally
Student Writer

NASA chemist Glenn Carle will discuss a technique used to partially determine the atmospheric composition of planets like Mars and Venus, in a lecture Friday.

Carle, director of NASA's solar system exploration office, will discuss the technique of gas chromatography with students and faculty, according to John Phillips, faculty member in chemistry and biochemistry. Carle will speak at 4 p.m. in Neckers 240.

"Gas chromatography has been used by NASA to investigate the gas and atmosphere around Mars and Venus," said Phillips, who worked with Carle for two summers at NASA.

Gas chromatography enables chemists to separate mixtures of gas compounds or substances that can be converted to gas by heating.

Chromatography, which comes from Greek words meaning color description, is usually done with a column formed by a glass tube packed with an absorbent material.

After a chemical process, the absorbed chemicals separate and form colored bands in the column. Different colors indicate different gasses.

"NASA used probing instruments and gas chromatography in 1976 to study Mars' atmosphere," Phillips said. "The probe, 'Lander,' entered the atmosphere and crashed onto the surface, collecting valuable samples of gasses," Phillips said.

Carle was the director of the project, he said.

Graduate Council to discuss record exam requirements

A proposal that the Graduate Record Exam requirement for admission to graduate programs be at the discretion of individual departments will be discussed Thursday by the Graduate Council.

The council will meet at 8 a.m. in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

Graduate School policy requires that all graduate students complete the exam before the end of their first semester of classes.

The Educational Policies Committee proposal states that while about 40 departments make some use of the exam results in their admission decision, many departments do not, "and their students are understandably upset that they must take the exam after they have already been accepted into a degree program."

Graduate School records show that in the fall semester of 1981, 70 percent of students admitted to graduate programs had not taken the exam, and in the spring semester of 1982, 50 percent of students admitted had not taken the exam.

The committee resolution recommends that because of differences between departments in the use of the exam as a selection tool and the widespread acceptance of students into graduate programs without the exam results, the requirement should be optional for each program.

In other business, the council will discuss summer session allocations for faculty, and whether to support a flat-rate grant for summer research proposals or a salary-based rate.

New photo gallery to open Friday with faculty exhibit

SIU-C's Department of Cinema and Photography will open a new photography gallery Friday with a faculty exhibition and reception.

The reception is scheduled for 4 to 6:30 p.m. in the gallery, located in Communications 1107. The name of the new gallery will be announced at the reception.

On display will be work of photography faculty members David Gilmore, C. William Horrell, Gary Kolb, Kathryn Paul, Duane Powell, Charles Swedlund and Timothy Wilbers.

The show is the first of two faculty exhibitions this year, according to Paul, assistant professor in the department.

The gallery will feature nine monthly exhibitions during the academic year.

Gallery hours are tentatively set at 10 a.m. to noon and 2 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The reception is free and open to the public.

Wood utilization specialist hired

A wood utilization specialist has been named assistant professor of forestry in the SIU-C School of Agriculture.

Joseph Denig, who received his doctorate in forestry from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, joined SIU-C in November.

Denig said he expects to teach courses in wood utilization and to research use of the low grade hardwoods, which are common in Illinois.

He had previously taught wood identification courses and conducted research in wood drying and yield estimation.

ents. There will be no team competition at the meet. Instead, all gymnasts will perform individually. Because there will be no team score, the Jalukis will enter all events without worrying how an individual score will affect the team finish. Compulsory and optional events will be held, allowing the possibility for a gymnast to perform 12 times if he enters on all six pieces of equipment. "It's good there's no team score, because they can go all out and we can see what some of them can do," Meade said. The gymnasts who do not have much experience in some events will be able to experiment on those.

One gymnast who is not lacking in experience as an all-arounder is Brian Babcock, who will be looking to attain a goal he just missed reaching at the Windy City Invitational Nov. 19-20. The senior did score his highest mark, 112.75, but a missed move on parallel bars kept him from attaining his goal of 113.

ensively than we were last ar at this time. Offensively e're still getting used to each er. I think we'll need five or t games to see who's going to what, who's going to help. e're still a long way from howing how good we'll be, but I really do think we'll be a very good defensive team." SIU-C has limited its two opponents to 37 percent shooting from the floor. The Salukis have been re-introduced early to the shooting ability of forward Ken Byrd.

Byrd has made 22 of 38 shots and has scored 50 points in two games.

Most of the Saluki scoring has come from their front line. Walker has scored 24 points, and forwards Jones and Nance have added 37 between them. And the team still has depth at the guard line, even with the redshirting last week of Roy Birch.

Birch, a junior college transfer from Coffeyville Community College in Kansas, was the odd guard out. SIU-C has three senior guards - four if Byrd is considered - and two promising freshman.

"The other reason was for Roy's development as a player," said Van Winkle. Birch will spend the year learning the Saluki system. Being a juco transfer, Birch is being brought along slowly.

"It was something we discussed together," said Van Winkle. "The final decision was his."

After the Murray State game, SIU-C will return to the Arena Saturday night to play Southeast Missouri.

THE FLORIDA EVERGLADES AN ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES WORKSHOP

A two week expedition to immerse participants into the rich-forest biomes of Southern Florida and provide opportunities to study many unique areas such as the Florida Pine Flatwoods, Big Cypress Swamp, and other environmentally sensitive areas of the Florida Everglades. Participants will explore hiking and spend time down at Cape Sable during an extended canoe trip.

The educational focus of the workshop will center on issues of Everglades and the focus which stresses this large and fragile ecosystem. Daily excursions will enable participants to get a close look at the abundant bird-life, alligators, and other wildlife.

Turnovers kill Saluki women

By Jackie Rodgers
Sports Editor

Turning it over; and over, and over...

Once again, the SIU-C women's basketball team committed a mound of turnovers and failed to hit free throws in its 68-63 loss to Western Kentucky Tuesday night.

The Salukis committed 30 turnovers and made only 15 of 30 free throws. SIU-C has averaged over 20 turnovers and has a free throw shooting percentage lower than its field goal percentage.

"We've got a problem," Coach Cindy Scott admitted. "If we could shoot free throws we would be 3-0 instead of 1-2."

They probably would. The Salukis lost to No. 18 Oregon State by two points, hitting only 47 percent of its free throws and made only 50 percent Tuesday night in Bowling Green.

"We're going to have a lot of free throw shooting practice," Scott said. "We're going to have to put more pressure on them when they're shooting. I really don't have an explanation. We shoot all right in practice."

SIU-C is going to have to get some steady play from its point guards as well. D.D. Plab started Tuesday's game, but watched the second half from the bench in street clothes. She had no points and three turnovers in seven minutes of action.

Eleanor Carr, the highly touted transfer, has failed to prove herself on the major college level yet. She turned the ball over 10 times, was 0-3 from the field and fouled out Tuesday.

On the bright side, Connie Price had 21 points to lead the Salukis. Sue Faber added 16 while Rose Peebles and Char Warring had 10 each.

The game was tied at 33 at the end of the first half. SIU-C led late as 9:15 in the second half, 50-49. That was the last Saluki lead, though. They pulled to within two with 2:57 remaining, but Western Kentucky held on and pulled away.

The Salukis out-rebounded, out-shot (47 percent to 36 percent from the floor) and had more blocks and assists than Western Kentucky. The only two statistical categories they trailed in were turnovers and free throw shooting. In all three of its contests, those have been the only two categories SIU-C has trailed in.

"I'm disappointed in the fact that I know we're better than what we've shown," Scott said. "If we get it together, we could be a good team. If we don't, its going to be a very up and down season."

Saluki Coach Cindy Scott has had plenty to yell at this season

Saluki defense faces test at Murray

By Dan Devine
Staff Writer

The SIU-C frontline, short on stature but long on scoring punch so far, will get its first major test Thursday night at Murray State. SIU-C will play the Racers at 8:05 in Murray, Ken.

Coach Allen Van Winkle will need to devise a defense to contain the Racers' 6-7 center Ricky Hood and 6-5 forward Glen Green. Along with off guard Lamont Sleet, that pair forms the heart of a Murray State team that knocked off National Invitational Tournament champion Bradley last week.

Murray State is 1-1, with a 90-67 win over Bradley, and an opening day 84-75 loss to West Virginia Tech. The Salukis are also 1-1, routing Charleston 87-44 and then dropping a 62-61 decision to Northern Illinois.

"They're a good team," said Van Winkle. "Their beating Bradley at their place wasn't a surprise."

The Racers led 75-67 late in that game and then scored 15 straight points to end the game.

Green and Hood have supplied most of the Racer offense and Van Winkle said he still isn't sure who will have defensive responsibilities for them. Saluki center Pie Walker, at 6-6 a center partly by default, will have a major role defensively.

Green has scored 43 points in two games and Hood has added 39. Sleet has been the rest of the offense with 26 points.

"Those three players are the key," said Murray State Sports Information Director Doug Vance. "How they go tells us how we'll go."

Van Winkle will counter with the same Saluki lineup: Darnall Jones and Ken Byrd will be the forwards, Walker is the center, and Dennis Goins and James Copeland will be the guards.

"I think we're a little bit ahead of last year," said Van Winkle, who still anticipates that a consistent lineup may not emerge until January, when the conference season gets underway.

"We're a better team

Men gymnasts shooting for personal bests

By JoAnn Marciszewski
Associate Sports Editor

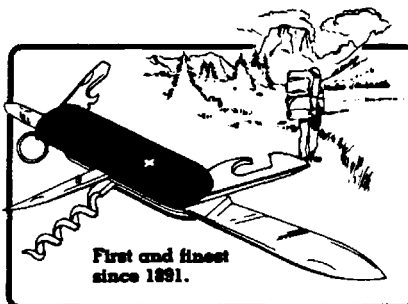

Men's gymnastics coach Bill Meade will get some new ideas of his squad's line-up when the team travels to Iowa City for the Iowa All-Around Invitational Saturday and Sunday.

Joining five Salukis who have competed in three meets so far are sophomore transfer Gregg Upperman and freshman David Lutterman. Lutterman competed in the season opener but has not seen much action since, and Upperman appears in his first meet since injuring his wrist before the season began.

Both are expected to bring strength to the Saluki weak spots, parallel bars and pommel horse, and add depth in other
