Bush heads off to run in different district

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House chief of staff John Sununu, under fire from all sides and fearing he would be "a drag" on President Bush's re-election campaign, resigned Tuesday, effective Dec. 15.

Sununu gave Bush his hand-written resignation on board Air Force One, as the president was traveling to Bradenton, Fla., to give a speech.

"Responding with his own handwritten note, Bush accepted the resignation with "much reluctance, regret and a personal sense of loss," said Sununu. "You have accepted many of the arrows aimed my way."

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said Bush expects to name a new chief of staff by mid-December. The president asked Sununu and agreed, to stay on as a counselor to the White House with cabinet rank until March 1, probably to teach his successor the ropes in the demanding position.

Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner, who reportedly has made no secret of his desire for the top White House job, is said to be Bush's choice to replace Sununu.

Bush, on a flight back to Washington from another stop in Mississippi, said he would call on Sununu for advice even after he leaves the White House in January and that Sununu would have a role in the nation's first primary in New Hampshire, where Sununu served as governor.

In recent days, Sununu has been blamed for the president's sliding polls, down to the mid-40s in some samples, a 40-point drop since the end of the Persian Gulf War. Sununu also has been faulted for his administration's handling of the Persian Gulf War.

In 1981, Sununu was a member of the key National Security Council team that planned the invasion of Grenada, a former U.S. possession.

In recent days, Sununu has been blamed for the president's declining public popularity.

Bush heads off to run in different district

By Doug Toole

HERRIN — Glenn Poshard, convinced his legislative goals are unfinished, will run in the 19th District when his term ends next year and the 22nd District divorce.

U.S. Rep. Poshard, D-Carbondale, announced Tuesday that despite the odds against him, he would run for a seat on the U.S. House of Representatives to improve education, health care and transportation.

Poshard admitted his battle for a House seat would be an uphill one because he is running with little financial backing against incumbent Terry Bruce, D-Dinley. His political war chest only contains $20,000, and he will rely heavily on his legislative record and volunteer efforts to mount a grassroots, door-to-door campaign.

"If I refuse to believe money is the most important factor in determining who is elected in America," he said.

Calling for campaign finance reform, Poshard harshly criticized career legislators who rely on huge contributions from political action committees and special interest groups. These groups financially influence legislators' votes and "strain the soul of America," he said.

"I have never accepted PAC money or honorariums," Poshard said. "My friends are those who work for me, who have been a part of the campaign, in my effort to win.

Poshard's home district, the 22nd, will be eliminated under a new redistricting map approved three weeks ago and split among three other districts. Poshard will run in the 19th Legislative District, which extends from the eastern part of southern Illinois to Decatur.

The 19th district contains coal mining, part of the Shawnee National Forest, a light industrial economy and mid-sized manufacturing areas, which Poshard has dealt with in the past. It also contains several counties that used to be part of Poshard's 22nd District.

Poshard must have maxed out on his frequent flyer miles.

Theater department to add interpreters

By Kristi Rominger

General Assignment Writer

The SIUC theatre department is taking steps to incorporate sign language interpretation into its productions, following a federal mandate that forces theaters to give people with disabilities a chance to experience the arts.

Christian Moe, chairman of the theatre department, said the department will offer its first signed performance Sunday.

"Some performances of course, will be easier to sign than others (because of content and positions of characters on the stage), but as of right now, we have agreed to have one matinee performance of each of our next three productions interpreted for the deaf," Moe said.

"Mirror/Mirror," "Pinocchio" and "Tugboat" will be the first three productions signed at SIUC.

"If these three are successful, we will probably continue with the program," Moe said.

The performances scheduled for sign language interpretation are "Mirror/Mirror" on Sunday, "Pinocchio" on March 8, 1992 and "Tugboat" on May 3, 1992.

Robert Kilbury, executive director of the Coalition of Citizens with Disabilities in Illinois, said the fact the theater is incorporating sign language interpreting into its productions is great.

"It is a super idea," Kilbury said. "This will provide access to students who are deaf and would normally be excluded.

Faculty moving along with streamlined plan

Faculty leaders are beginning to assess stages in which their plan to guide the University into the next century will be carried out.

The SIUC Faculty Senate Executive Council met Tuesday, two weeks after the 21st Century plan that called for internal streamlining and a balanced budget was introduced.

Faculty Senate President Donald Paige said a task force was designated to complete the survey, and the education system with a more limited core curriculum is popular with the faculty.

He has received a list of support for the idea from the faculty, Paige said.

The core curriculum could be put into place without initializing the larger College of Arts and Sciences to house the general education courses, he said.

The College of Arts and Sciences would combine the individuals colleges of arts and sciences with departments in the fine and performing arts for general education.

Bonnilla's guaranteed contract tough precedent for owners

NEW YORK (UPI) — By agreeing to pay Bobby Bonilla the New York Mets paid the rest of baseball to pursue a deep pool of free agent hitters and set an unwanted precedent by agreeing to certain contract language.

Mets General Manager Al
Hartman agreed late Monday to guarantee Bonilla’s contract if the deal were to fall through.

But he said he “never had a problem” with the contract language, which, according to Bonnilla himself, gives him a $1.5 million pension, a $2.5 million bonus, and the right to play basketball behind the Phi

SIUC coach Dick LeFevre said

Merchant, who was the No. 1

Spikers finished as expected in Gateway play

By Cyndi Oberlie

The SIUC spikers swung through many ups and downs this season, but in the end, they finished fifth in the Gateway Conference—exactly where the preseason poll predicted they would finish.

The team began its season 0-4 while struggling to adjust to first-year coach Sonja

But two weeks later the Salukis were scoring higher than life after winning both of their home tournaments and setting a new school record for winning back-to-back home tournneys.

The rest of the season continued much the same way with exhilarating high points and heartbreaking losses.

The spikers swept into the season finale 8-two losses in Davies Gymnasium they saw their No. 3 Gateway Tournament seed drift away.

In the conference playoff match for the
No. 4 tourney seed, Wichita State battered SIUC in three games, and the 35-17 Salukis did not proceed to the conference tournament.

“We did not end the season on a good note,” Locke said. “But we do have many positive things to look upon.”

Locke said the 1991 spikers did many things that have never been done before.

“We won three of seven tournaments, and seven is a lot to play,” she said. “We won two home back-to-back tours, and we had the conference MVP (Lon Simpson).

We also had two other All-Gateway players.
Some of them have positive things to look

Attorney files for dismissal of case against SIUC official

By Rob Neft
Police Writer

The attorney for reasigned SIUC Director of Pollution Control John Meister filed a motion in Jackson County court Tuesday to dismiss his indictment for 12 counts of felony and two counts of theft by deception for lack of jurisdiction.

Meister was indicted on the charges following an investigation by the Illinois State Police. Police discovered that Meister allegedly had dumped hazardous and special wastes illegally during 1988 and 1989 and had charged his clients as if he had properly disposed of the materials.

He was scheduled for arraignment Tuesday afternoon, but it was postponed pending the results of a hearing on the motion to dismiss. No date has been set for the hearing.

Although Meister was indicted for crimes allegedly committed in his private business, University officials said they would resign Meister to a job outside Pollution Control and asked an auditor to investigate his handling of waste generated at SIUC.

Meister’s attorney, William F. Mehan, said the attorney general’s office overstated its bounds by seeking the indictment without the cooperation of the Jackson County State’s Attorney.

The motion Mehan filed in open court claimed the attorney general’s office may arbitrarily exercise authority in county court in regard to election codes.

The motion also claims there is no written record of any alliance between the two offices and asked the court to dismiss the indictment because the attorney general did not have the authority to present the case to the Jackson County grand jury that handed down the indictment.

But Assistant State’s Attorney Christopher Moore said the attorney general’s office and the Jackson County State’s Attorney’s office worked together on the case.

“The Attorney General’s office contacted us and we called the grand jury,” he said. “Then the Attorney General’s office presented its case.”

Students encouraged to donate leftover food

By Kristi Rominger
General Assignment Writer

SIUC students who have leftover non-perishable food items at the end of the semester can donate them to a city homeless shelter through a collection drive by the Daily Egyptian.

The campus newspaper office will act as a collection site for donated food items for the Good Samaritan House in Carbondale. Good Samaritan is the only homeless shelter in the city.

Jackie Spinney, DL student editor, said the editors thought a food drive would be a way for the newspaper to help the community during the holidays.

“We wanted to do a public service project to help the community in some way,” said the senior in journalism from Decatur. “I know people often see the press as an adversary. This is a way to help the homeless and to show people that we are an active part of the community.”

A drive at the end of the semester also gives students a way to get rid of leftover non-perishable food items, she said.

“I knew when I lived in the dorms that I always had extra soup cans and boxes of macaroni and cheese at the end of the semester,” Spinney said. “This way students can give their leftovers to someone who really needs it.”

Eli Spiek, director of the Good Samaritan House, said the food the shelter does not use will be passed on to its food bank.

The house serves about 450 people each year, and 20 people currently are housed in basement living quarters, she said.

Food items can be donated from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday at the Daily Egyptian newsroom, room 1247, in the Communications Building, and from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday during finals week.

Call to end fall break needs more thought

SIUC FACULTY AND STUDENT leaders are sending out a message to President John Guyon—give us back our Thanksgiving break.

But it’s a message without much thought.

Three years ago Guyon started a successful campaign to end the notorious Carbondale Halloween Party. When the city abolished a Halloween Fair Days ordinance, essentially banning the party, University officials responded by implementing a fall break to keep students away from Carbondale during Halloween.

But SIUC OFFICIALS also had to take away part of Thanksgiving break to make up for the earlier vacation time.

Students whined and complained about the end to the Halloween party, a complaint that city and SIUC officials think finally has gone to its grave.

So without a Halloween party to justify keeping students away, Guyon is left with a mid-semester break that faculty and students leaders say is horribly oppressing.

THE UNDERGRADUATE STUDENT Government will introduce a resolution tonight calling for the abolition of fall break and the implementation of a fall break and a Thanksgiving break, and the Faculty Senate is polling its own constituents.

The Faculty Senate president expects a favorable response from faculty to end the break.

USG President Jack Sullivan says the USG resolution stems from complaints from faculty and students concerning, in part, the expense of traveling home for two breaks and whether a break a during the middle of the semester is needed.

SIUC HOUSING OFFICIALS, however, already have responded to student concern about traveling expenses.

Next year the residence halls will remain open during fall break. Nobody will have to go home.

Without a doubt, students need a break from classes and school during mid-semester.

And this semester’s 12-hour load class has 139.2 hours of classes between Labor Day and Thanksgiving. That’s too long to go without a rest.

But Guyon says he will wait for the outcome of the polls to make a decision concerning the fate of fall break.

He need not wait.

Students and faculty need the break—it’s that simple.

And Guyon himself needs to take as strong a stand to keep fall break as he did to cancel Thanksgiving.

SIUC HOUSING OFFICIALS, however, already have responded to student concern about traveling expenses.

Next year the residence halls will remain open during fall break.

Nobody will have to go home.

I am writing in response to the letter, “Diverse ideas promote learning” by J. Wayne Hecht in the Nov. 20 Daily Egyptian.

I want to acknowledge that Mr. Murray did read my letter, but he did not understand it.

I indicated in my letter that the statements made by Mr. Hecht about African art, religion and culture during his lecture at SIUC were erroneous and misleading. I also pointed out in my letter that based on his questionable credentials, Mr. Hecht was not qualified to be a critic or an expert on African art, culture and religion and that University faculty was misused in bringing him to campus.

What does deceiving the beaches do to have to do with African art, culture and religion? Is this part of a lecture Hecht delivered? Also, is this what Mr. Murray considered “informed and diverse dialogue”?

Did Murray really learn new ideas from Mr. Hecht’s lecture? I believe that learning from Dr. Hecht is non-existent and that SIUC students will definitely increase Mr. Murray’s naiveté and ignorance on African art, culture and religion.

If Mr. Hecht did give a good lecture as you indicated, then why didn’t the director of the Visiting Artist Program, Dr. Robert Paulson write to him recently asking him to take some clarifications on the statements he made during his lecture at SIUC.

The letter indicates that “in the telephone conversations between the Visiting Artist Program and myself, the Association President and my staff, and the Association President and youself, issues have arisen which deserve our attention. I talked with our administration and agreed to present those relevant issues to you for a possible response.”

Dr. Paulson’s letter further reads that “From this point to date, the Association’s response has been to both the article and your essay. Paragraph two in the essay is most disturbing and made more so because of its general character. The readers made by an uninformed audience might be demeaning to the country and its people today.”

The letter concludes by indicating that “I sincerely hope that you find these observations creditable and a challenge when you address the re-write.”

Considering the content of Dr. Paulson’s letter, do you still believe, Mr. Murray, that David Hecht’s lecture was credible? One thing that bothers me about Dr. Paulson’s letter is why didn’t he make these points earlier prior to David Hecht coming to SIUC?

Mr. Murray, you need to re-read my letter. I did not talk about a budget cut nor did I advocate censorship in the letter.

You need to grow up intellectually about African issues. Frankly, misleading ideas do not promote learning at any university.

Mr. Murray, if you want to learn more about African art, culture and religion, then contact the African Student Association here at SIUC.

We could arrange a special tutoring session for you.

Think twice before you react to any other issues in the future. Mr. Murray, you and the Visiting Artist Program need to publicly apologize to the African Student Association here at SIUC because of this appalling issue.—D.

I wish David Duke had won in the South. Nealty tucked away in the Louisiana mosques, Duke’s rising star would have quickly sunk. Now we have a populist merry on our hands.

Mr. Duke’s loss in the Louisiana gubernatorial race only strengthens his support. Duke’s opponent, Edwin Edwards, an alleged womanizer and gambler, was the loser of two evils in the Louisiana race. A vote for Edwards was a vote against Duke.

Though Edwards was acquainted with the charge of paying Las Vegas collectors $550,000 in gambling debts, a dark cloud still hovers over his head. There is little popular faith in his ability to care Louisiana’s ill.

When the oil boom went bust in the 1980s, Louisiana’s economy fell on hard times. The national recession only has fueled the state’s spiraling economic decline.

Arguably, Duke’s call for cuts in state spending and the quotas would do little to solve Louisiana’s economic backslide. Also, Duke’s tough stand on crime would inflame the prison population and, consequently, divert state funds from helping the unemployed to jailing them.

Louisiana’s litigious rate also would be harsh waters for Duke to navigate without increased state spending. There is a great difference between the fine campaigner and the effective leader. Only the hot seat can completely expose a politician’s shortcomings.

As of yet David Duke’s record remains unblemished. By losing to Edwin Edwards, Duke looks like the naive small-town boy beaten by the corrupt, experienced politician.

This marred status keeps the Duke dream alive for the senatorial races in 1992 or 1994 and the presidential elections in 1992 or 1996. Only scandal or failure in power will destroy Duke’s popular support.

Duke’s constituents, though, need reminding to ignore his scandalous past, and Duke remains unstained in positions of individual power.

Unfortunately, Duke has set his rights on the federal level and his opponents attacks on his effectus on him. —J. Stacy, senior in history.

New program highlights Student Center's three-nights of feasting, frollicking at Madrigal Dinner Concert

By Jefferson Robbins
Entertainment Editor

The Student Center's 15th Madrigal Dinner Concert will transform the University Theatre into a festive, time- and space-to-a-merry-old-English-court feast three nights in a row.

The Madrigal Dinner Concert has become a staple of the Student Center's programming, bringing together culinary presentations of meals with entertainment, but diners will experience a fresher blend Dec. 5, 6, and 7, said Supreem Tose, the event director for the University Programming Office.

"This one will be different from past years," said Bose, a first-year graduate student from India, who designed the program. "We're trying to make this more theatrical."

Some 25 musicians, including the University Brass Ensemble and a crew of strolling minstrels, will flood the Student Center Ballrooms with music while jugglers, actors and other entertainers interact with patrons throughout the night.

"There'll be a lot of really high-energy stuff going on," said Bose. "At one point we'll send a bunch of jesters in to heckle the crowd." The overall design will give Ballroom B the "Renaissance Courtyard" look, complete with banners and a central stage for storytelling sessions and swordfights. Booths along the walls will offer samplings of medieval embroidery, calligraphy, and armor fashioning, Bose said.

Ballroom D, the dining area, is decorated with standards, such as Old English knights and crusaders who were emblazoned on their shields, and actors in period costumes will play a medieval royal couple at the king's table on the balcony stage.

"In the past, the king and queen simply sat at their table and the minstrels on either side would play to them," Bose said.

This year the king's table will be more kinetic, with jesters harassing the king and noblemen in a series of comedic skits, Bose said.

The preparations for the three nights required a technical crew of about 30 from the Student Center's Audio-Visual Services, plus the efforts of Dining Services.

The menu features cream of watercress soup, Waldorf salad, tangerine-wellington and chestnut jubilee, among other foods.

Tickets are $18.50 for the public and $12 for students for Dec. 5. On Dec. 6 and 7, all tickets are $19.50.

Local legislators ask students to write laws

By Teri Lynn Carlock
General Assignment Writer

The Illinois Network to Organize the Understanding of Community and local legislators are trying to increase student participation in shaping public and social policy through high school and college students to write bills.

Last year Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, and Rep. Larry Hicks, D-Mount Vernon, agreed to consider ideas submitted to them by youth from the 12 counties of the Porkchop Area 17 for an InTouch program developer of a Senate bill itself.

"The center has been involved with the InTouch program since 1986, after a Senate bill was passed in 1985," she said.

The center offers this opportunity to young adults because it wants them to take part in the policy writing, Janzen said.

"We want to give youth access to the legal system and get them involved," the said.

Supreme Court Justice Foley, a freshman at Rend Lake College, submitted a law to the center regarding the funding of education as a commodity of the Government group at Mount Vernon High School last year. It took the five-member group about two months to prepare the bill, Pearson said.

The law Pearson's group submitted was accepted by Hicks as acceptable policymaking.

Its concept for funding education involved changing the tax base from a property tax base to an income tax base.

"It involved proportioning taxes so schools that didn't have as much money as others would not have to pay as much," she said. "We tried to make it equal." Also participating are the prevention specialists from Southeastern Illinois Family Counseling Centers, Community Resource Center, Jefferson Hamilton Comprehensive Services and Egyptian Public and Mental Health.

The deadline for submitting laws to InTouch is Feb. 28, 1992. The program is funded by the Department of Substance and Alcohol Abuse.

Michael D. Hanes, director of bands, will open the program with "Theater Music," by Philip Sparke.

Guest conductor Daniel H. Phillips, assistant director of bands, will perform "The Henry Suite." From his transcription of the Laurence Olivier film classic.

Two of the components of the Wind Ensemble also will take turns as guest conductors.

Design students win $500 award

University News Service

A team of four interior design students from SIUC won second place and $500 in a design competition at the University of Missouri at Columbia in October.

The team, consisting of 16 students from 30 schools in 11 states, was among 80 universities to compete in the first Retail Case Design: Furniture. The team members, all seniors in interior design, were Robert S. Gregson of Bloominguro, Ming-Pan (Eddie) Chou of Taiwan, Melinda S. Graham of Edwardsville and Ashley C. Green of Highland...
Economic slump predicted despite higher sales receipts

By Sarah Anderson
General Assignment Writer

State officials are predicting a slowdown in holiday shopping this year, but local store managers say they have not been hit yet by the Christmas blues.

John A. Linehan, store manager of J.C. Penney in Carbondale, said he is very optimistic about the way people are spending their dollars.

"We all have to be careful to make sure it goes as far as we want it to," he said.

Linehan said J.C. Penney has tried several different tactics to entice the customers to spend extra dollars.

Pre-season sales have indicated a strong shopping season, but it is early in the season, Linehan said.

"People tend to take advantage of the earlier sales so they can stretch their dollar," he said. "We're seeing nice increases from our earlier indicators. The last month has been very encouraging."

The shopping season should be better this year than last, because last year families were faced with the Persian Gulf and the possibility of an earthquake, he said.

"While there still is trouble, we are in much stronger shape this year," Linehan said.

Paul Trent, SIUC professor of economics, said the recession may be over, but people are still being cautious about their spending.

"Most of the things we see in the media are lukewarm," he said. "People are concerned the recession is not over."

Changes may be seen in holiday spending, compared to previous years because of the threat of recession, Trent said.

"The forecast for the holiday shopping season is a little on the pessimistic side," he said. "People are going to be spending less than they did last year."

Retailers are in the stock-market and could influence people to watch their spending this season, Trent said.

State government is dependent on business for its revenue, and the state could suffer from lower seasonal revenue, he said.

Gayle Winkel, store manager of Famous Barr in Carbondale, said because of the grand opening of the store and the pre-shopping season, the store has not seen effects of a recession.

"People have become more competitive in all stores to attract more customers, but the results will be scrutinized by one factor," Winkel said.

"Good customer service will be the deciding factor," she said.

Bashir Mughal, owner of International Fashions in the University Mall, said he has seen a big decrease in sales since the recession.

"I have seen too much (of a decline)," he said. "Business has been very slow."
Students show concern about fitness

By Ken Carr
Wellness Center

Nutrition and fitness are areas of concern to many students.

Many students use the Wellness Center Outreach offices in the Student center, Thrubold, Grinnell and the Student Recreation Center to get accurate nutrition and fitness information. Health Advocate and Wellness Center staff members are always available to answer questions. Here are the answers to some of the more common ones:

- How can frame size be determined?
  Frame size can be determined by dividing height in inches by the measurement of the right wrist where it bends. A man has a large frame if the result is less than 9.6 and small, if the number is greater than 10.4. For women, large is less than 10.1 and small is greater than 11. It is helpful to be aware of your frame size when determining a healthy weight.

- What does body fat percentage tell me?
  Testing body fat percentage can let people know how much of their body is lean tissue and how much is fat.

- Muscular people like athletes often weigh more than others suggest, but have very low body fat percentage. This means their higher weight is not hazardous to their health and they may actually be very fit.

- For college-aged women, the average is 24 percent, for men, 12 percent. Athletes often are 10 percent (men) to 25 percent (women).

- A high body fat percentage is considered 25 for men and 30 for women.

- Students can have their body fat percentage tested at the Student Health Assessment Center in the Student Center of the Sports Medicine office at the Recreation Center.

- How many calories does someone need?
  Multiplying current weight times 12 if sedentary, 13 if moderately active and 15 if very active (five hours or more of exercise each week). The total is the approximate amount of energy needed every day to maintain current weight.

- Visit us in the Student Center, Grinnell, Thrubold and the Recreation Center Sports Medicine office for more information or call the Student Health Program Wellness Center at 536-4441.

Hospitals pays $18.5 million to Chicago man

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Midlothian man has won an $18.5 million judgment against LaGrange Memorial Hospital and two doctors for misdiagnosing a heart problem.

As a result of the heart problem, Robert Tenney, 45, a former project manager for Modern Copy Corp. of Chicago, suffered a stroke in July 1983. He later lost his wife because of emotional changes resulting from the stroke and an attempted suicide, his attorney said.

Blockade of seaports lifted by Yugoslav federal forces

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Federal troops removed blockades of all but one of Croatia's coastlines, a federal official said Tuesday, allowing passengers and cargoes to travel through the Danube River that Minister Milan Kramaric said was blocked by Serb and Croatian forces in order to prevent movement of Yugoslav forces in the province of Vojvodina.

Vance, pursuing his mission to develop a plan for the peaceful deployment of U.N. peacekeeping troops, began his day with a meeting with Maj. Gen. Andrija Biserovic of the federal army in Dalj. Vance spoke of the need for a federal army corps that would be able to move around the country and begin a campaign against the Serb forces.

Kramaric, Croatian Deputy Prime Minister Milam Rajalj, local defense force officials and European Community observers, said state-run television in Zagreb confirmed the blockades of the embattled city, official and news reports said.

The removal of the blockades follows a 40-mile march by Serb and Croatian forces in order to prevent movement of Yugoslav forces in the province of Vojvodina.

Hitler bunker believed to house lost artworks

BERLIN (UPI) — Demolition experts are set to blast into one of Hitler's bunkers in the former German state of Thuringia in hopes of finding pieces of the legendary Amber Room, lost to the Nazis from Tsar's Peter the Great.

In recent weeks, treasure hunters have swarmed to the former Soviet military base at Jonassat, near the site of Erfurt, in the Thuringia region of Germany. They said they were searching for the exact location of the Amber Room.

"Give us permission now and we will dig it out," Yelkin told German parliamentarians, apparently confirming speculation the treasure was buried on the site of a Soviet military base in eastern Germany.

One persistent rumor has been that the treasure was shifted to the Jonassat base. That base was built over a network of rundown tunnels built by 90,000 prisoners from the Buchenwald concentration camp.

More than 10,000 inmates perished building the bunker—code named Project Ogra—from which Hitler planned to make a final stand against the invading Allied forces.

Hitler never used the bunker, but in the closing stages of the war, Nazi officials fled from all over Europe including the Amber Room. They were reportedly transported to the bunker.

Lawyers to argue Haitian refugees deserve asylum

MIAMI (UPI) — Advocates for 6,000 Haitian refugees held on ships and in three countries said Monday conditions are so bad that it has been possible for federal interviewers to make intelligent decisions on political asylum.

Attorneys for the Haitian Refugee Center returned Sunday night from a two-day visit to the naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba. They said they were told at a federal court hearing Monday night that because of overcrowded conditions, the refugees did not get a fair chance to show Immigration and Naturalization Service officers that they are legitimate candidates for political asylum.

"It's been such a horrible, horrendous situation the last couple of weeks," said Cheryl Little, an attorney for the center. "We would love to see a permanent injunction against the INS, certainly not comply with what we believe is a reasonable request—that is fairly reviewing the Haitians who are here, and bringing those who are potential candidates to shore.

So far, only 161 of the Haitians have been declared legitimate candidates for political asylum and flown to the United States.

The ramadhan are subject to return to Haiti if a temporary federal injunction against repatriation is lifted. Meanwhile, they are being held on Coast Guard cutters, Navy ships and in camps at Guantamano, Honduras and Venezuela.

Sexual Harassment Policy and Overview of the Complaint Resolution Procedures for Faculty, Administrative/Professional Staff, Civil Service Employees, and Students Revised 1989
Effective March 15, 1989
Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

University Policy on Sexual Harassment
Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is committed to creating and maintaining a community in which students, faculty, and staff can work together in an atmosphere free of all forms of harassment, exploitation, or intimidation. Sexual harassment, like harassment on the basis of race or religion, is a form of discrimination expressly prohibited by law. It is a violation of Title VII of the federal 1964 Civil Rights Act and Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972 and a civil rights violation of the Illinois Human Rights Act.

In addition to being illegal, sexual harassment runs counter to the objectives of the University. When people feel coerced, threatened, intimidated or otherwise pressured by others into granting sexual favors, or are singled out for decision or abuse because of their gender, their academic and work performance is liable to suffer. Such actions violate the dignity of the individual and the integrity of the University as an institution of learning. Academic freedom can exist only when every person is free to pursue ideas in a non-threatening, non-coercive atmosphere of mutual respect. Sexual harassment is unlawful not only to the persons involved but also to the entire University community.

The university will take whatever action is needed to prevent, stop, correct, or discipline behavior that violates this policy. Disciplinary action may include, but is not limited to, oral or written warning, demotion, transfer, suspension, or dismissal for cause.

Definitions and Examples
Sexual harassment is defined as unwanted sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, verbal or other expressive behaviors, or physical conduct commonly understood to be of a sexual nature, when: submission to, or toleration of, such conduct on or off campus is made, either explicitly or implicitly, a term or condition of instruction, employment, or participation in other University activities; submission to, or rejection of, such conduct is used as a basis for employment or for academic decisions or assessments affecting the individual's status as an employee or student; or such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's status as a student or an employee or creates an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work or educational environment.

Sexual harassment may involve the behavior of a person of either sex toward a person of the opposite or the same sex. Examples of behavior that would be considered sexual harassment include, but are not limited to, the following: physical assault; direct or implied threats that submission to sexual advances will be a condition of employment, work status, promotion, grades, or letters of recommendation; a pattern of conduct, annoying or humiliating in a sexual way, that includes comments of a sexual nature and/or sexually explicit statements, questions, jokes, or anecdotes; a pattern of conduct that would annoy or humiliate a reasonable person at whom the conduct was obviously directed. Such conduct includes, but is not limited to, gestures, facial expressions, speech, or physical contact understood to be sexual in nature or which is repeated after the individual signifies that the conduct is perceived to be offensive sexually.

Consenting Relationships
Consenting romantic and sexual relationships between a faculty member and a student or between a supervisor and an employee, while not expressly forbidden, are discouraged. Taking note of the respect and trust accorded a professor by a student and of the power exercised by the professor, a relationship between a faculty member and a student should be considered one of professional and client, in which sexual relationships are inappropriate. A similar relationship exists between a supervisor and an employee. The power differential inherent in such relationships compromises the subordinate's free choice. A faculty member or supervisor who enters into a sexual relationship with a student or an employee, where a professional power differential obviously exists, must realize that if a charge of sexual harassment is subsequently lodged, the burden will be on the faculty member or supervisor to prove immunity on grounds of mutual consent.

Relationships between a graduate student and an undergraduate, and between a student and an employee, may be considered sexual harassment whenever the student's or employee's status is related to the focus or power of the relationship. University officials who have supervisory responsibility for that student or employee.

Protection for the Complainant and Others
No student, faculty member, or staff member may be subjected to any form of reprimand for seeking information on sexual harassment, filing a sexual harassment complaint, or serving as a witness in a proceeding involving a complaint of sexual harassment. Any retaliatory action will be a violation of this policy and will be grounds for disciplinary action.

Individuals who believe they have been subjected to reprimand for their participation in a sexual harassment complaint may use the procedures of this policy to seek redress.

Protection of the Accused
Accusations of sexual harassment are grievous and can have serious and far-reaching effects on the careers and lives of accused individuals. Allegations of sexual harassment must be made in good faith and not out of malice. Individuals who believe they have been falsely accused of sexual harassment may use the procedures of this policy to seek redress.

Responsibility of Supervisors
Supervisory personnel are charged with maintaining an atmosphere that discourages sexual harassment and ensuring that the University policy is enforced in their areas. Supervisors are directed to discourage all behavior that might be considered sexual harassment and to respond promptly to sexual harassment complaints. University officials who knowingly condone incidents of sexual harassment or instances of reprisal for reporting such complaints will be subject to disciplinary action.

Complaint Resolution Office
The President has assigned responsibility for the administration of this policy to the Office of the Provost and the Division of Student Services and Labor Relations and has named its Executive Director as the complaint resolution officer for the University. The complaint resolution officer will disseminate the policy to the University community, devise education and training programs, maintain centralized records of sexual harassment complaints, oversee the grievance process, coordinate the resolution of complaints, and evaluate the effectiveness of the complaint resolution procedures and related educational programs.

For further information about the sexual harassment policy and complaint resolution procedures, you may contact one of the Sexual Harassment Information Centers: Affirmative Action 453-1196; Counseling Center 453-5371; International Programs and Services 453-5774; Ombudsman 453-2411; Personnel Services and Labor Relations 336-3836; Women's Services 453-3655; Women's Studies 453-5141; and the Graduate School 453-4540.

An individual may initiate a charge with either the Illinois State Department of Human Rights and/or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Such a charge must be filed within 180 days of the alleged act of discrimination or sexual harassment.

Breast cancer detection now faster, easier

CHICAGO (UPI) — A new imaging technique shows great promise for early detection of breast cancer in women, researchers said Monday.

Baylor University Medical Center radiologists say "a new improved 3-D magnetic resonance" could dramatically improve the diagnosis and treatment of the second leading cause of cancer in women.

Doctors said the procedure should ensure that mammograms are not performed when simpler, less drastic lumpectomies are sufficient. It also is expected to ensure that surgeons do not miss anything when they perform lumpectomies.

"The most important point of all this is we missed no breast cancers," Dr. Steven Harms, director of the center's magnetic resonance imaging unit, said after presenting his study to the annual meeting of the Radiological Society of North America in Chicago.

"This is by far the most exciting thing I've ever done," Harms told the Dallas Times Herald. "It is 100 percent effective." The method uses radio and magnetic waves to create a detailed, three-dimensional picture of the breast. The computer image does not show fatty tissue.

"Because the breast is composed primarily of fat, the presence of other issues such as tumors really stands out," Harms said.

Cafeteria to re-open in Texas after shooting

KILLEEN, Texas (UPI) — The cafeteria that was the scene of the nation's worst one-day shooting massacre will reopen and a memorial will be built at another location in memory of the 23 victims, officials announced Tuesday.

Ralph "Pete" Erben, president of Lub's Cafeterias, Inc., said the company had received hundreds of phone calls and letters since the Oct. 16 shooting spree, urging them to re-open the popular restaurant.

"What has struck us about these calls is that so many people have told us that by re-opening, we would actually help the healing process and help this community, which has so undeniably been in the national and international spotlight, get back to normal," he told reporters.

Erben and Mayor Major Blair also announced that a memorial would be constructed in memory of the 23 victims at a downtown park away from the cafeteria. The newly-remodeled cafeteria will have no mural, they said.

The cafeteria was crowded with more than 100 people when gunman George Hammond crashed his pickup truck through the front window.

He methodically slaughtered diners before shooting himself in the head as police entered fire.

One of the 17 people who were wounded, the Rev. Kirby Lack of Killeen, told reporters that not opening the cafeteria would create the wrong memorial.

"I think if we were to close Lub's it would give Hammond the memorial he was looking for," he said, standing for the first time without a cane. "Everybody would drive by and say that was the where 23 people were killed and they would remember the murderer and not the people who were murdered."

Program teaches international women business skills

By Fatma Janvekar
General Assignment Writer

International women trying to enter the business field in countries dominated by men are finding new opportunities through a global economy that is becoming more competitive.

Women from 16 countries who were interested in starting businesses on returning to their native lands underwent a month-long training program last month in Carbondale for small business development.

The program was designed to help the women strengthen their managerial abilities and leadership skills when working independently.

It was sponsored by the International Programs and Services at SIUC in conjunction with the Office of Women in International Development at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

"The aim of these lecture sessions was to create an opportunity for a global network where participants can interact with role models who have been successful in micro-enterprise development at local and regional levels, and exchange culture-specific knowledge and concerns," said Naseem Ahmed, research project specialist at IPS.

"We wanted to create an awareness of potential by getting women involved in projects especially designed for them," she said.

Ahmed said the global economy has reached greater heights of competitiveness and interdependence, and many countries now want to increase entrepreneurial spirit among their citizens.

In less-developed nations, women are often at a disadvantage. They have little access to facilities and training in their areas of interest. They may have knowledge about basic business skills, but lack encouragement to put those skills to use," she said.

"This program enabled this group of international women students in relevant disciplines to gain systematic information about small business development and to take the experience back to their countries," she said.

We hoped the program would encourage them to initiate and sustain their own businesses, as well as motivate other women, she said.

The program originally was created for women sponsored by the Agency for International Development, which provides financial aid to foreign women students.

Not many were available on campus, so it was expanded to include women students who were not sponsored by the association.

The majority of the AID-sponsored women came from the University of Illinois, to attend training workshops at the Southern Illinois Small Business Incubator and Touch of Nature in November.

The women also visited the World Trade Center and female-owned businesses in Chicago.

A four-day conference by the Association for Women in Development in Washington, D.C., concluded the program, allowing the participants to share their knowledge and information with women from around the world.

Throughout the month, the participants met with people from the business world, to allow them to gain information about all aspects of setting up and running a business successfully, and enabled the participants to make contacts that could be useful in the course of their work," Ahmed said.

Diane Wixtinger, foreign student adviser with IPS, said she realizes the intensity of the culture shock international students, particularly women, faced on re-entering their homeland.

The attitudes of some societies toward working women were different from the relative equality given to U.S. women, she said.

"Social change, support and cultural and traditional readjustment after having lived in American society is difficult, but do not forget what your beliefs, morals, ideas and values are," Wixtinger said.

"Women should be aware of the differences in the social, moral, business and political systems in the U.S. and their countries of origin, and be smart if they want to see a change for the better," she said.

Rosinta Panjaitan, a U of I graduate in Agronomy from Indonesia, said women must be educated to assume managerial roles.

"I gained a great deal of knowledge and information on how to be a good leader, which is very important to women who want to assume authority roles in management," Panjaitan said.

"It has been inspiring for me to see so many women from so many cultures come together to discuss, to enter business, and to try to be innovators in our country," she said.

"Today's modern Indonesian business woman does not differ much from the American woman—both take care of their home as well as their work. They try to maintain a balance everywhere, and Indonesia has many women who are successful in it," she said.

Panjaitan said media coverage given to Indonesian business women is increasing, and a number of newspapers now carry regular features and interviews with women who have reached the top rung of the corporate ladder.

The local government is encouraging women to contribute to the welfare of the community, Panjaitan said.

Government five-year plans include incentives to practice family planning and the local population has shown an affinity for families with mother, father and only one or two children.

"The status of women in Indonesia is more moderate than in other Far Eastern countries, we are given quality in our five-year plans," Panjaitan said.

Lucy Kebide, a Nigerian UI student in agriculture communications and education, said the system of government and the social patterns in her country would not accept a woman leader as easily as the American people.

Women have been suppressed for long enough, she said.

Student government votes on elimination of fall break

By Katie Fitzgerald

The Undergraduate Student Government and Graduate and Professional Student Council will vote tonight on resolutions to eliminate fall break and to restate the original week-long Thanksgiving break.

University officials shortened Thanksgiving break three years ago to add a fall break, which provides students a mid-semester break and keeps them away from Carbonel during difficult weeks.

The break issue is important to students, said USG President Jack Sullivan. He has heard 10 to 15 testi monies from students opposing fall break, but no supporters have come forward, Sullivan said.

Students have opposed fall break because of the financial need it places on them to travel home twice during the semester, Sullivan said.

But Steve Kirk, assistant director of residential life, said student residence halls will remain open next year during fall break.

In the past, students have been allowed to stay for financial reasons on a case-by-case basis, he said.

If the administration wants a more valid measure of student opinion, USG has considered putting the issue to a spring student referendum for change in the 1993 academic calendar, Sullivan said.

Fall break 1992 is scheduled for Oct. 10 to Oct. 17. Thanksgiving break will be from Thursday to Sunday of the holiday week.

Sullivan expects the resolution to pass, he said.

GPSC President Susan Hall said a lot of graduate students are from out-of-state and the two breaks make it difficult for them to travel home.

"So many are far away from family members. The negative aspects of having two breaks outweigh its benefits," Hall said.

The Faculty Senate committee is in consultation with administration to determine the most efficient break, said Madison undergraduate education policy committee chairman.

The administration is more receptive to re-evaluating fall break, Sullivan said.

"President John Gayon has encouraged us to seek out the students' opinions," Sullivan said. Gayon is responsible setting vacation policy.

SIC is the only Illinois university besides Illinois State University to have such a break.

Madigan said he questioned whether SIC students really need the break.

early meet will help him to gauge his preparedness.

"I’ve done plenty well in practice," he said. "I’m anxious to see where I am and find out what I need to work on over Christmas break.

Williams has a personal best of 3.72 in the 55, said he is optimistic he can improve this year.

"I’ve done pretty well in practice," he said. "If that’s an indicator I should do well."

Corell said one Saluki to watch is junior high jumper Darrin Plab, who holds a personal record of 7 feet 6 1/2 inches for his junior high jumper Darrin Plab, indicating he should do well. Plan.

Plab, said, however, that he feels no pressure to perform early in the season.

"It wouldn’t be outrageously disappointing if I don’t qualify in the first meet," he said. "My goal is to improve as the season goes along, and there’s plenty of time to worry about that between now and the end of the season."

It has because I had really high aspirations for this football team," Noll said. "I thought we could get done what we had to and overcome the problems that you would have through a year.

"I think we had more depth than we had in 10 years past. We have some people who have the potential to be outstanding football players. The problem’s we’ve had with them is the potential doesn’t pay. Doing it is what pays, and we’ve had inconsistencies in getting it done."

Noll has a regular-season record of 14-14-1 as coach of the Salukis, and he is only one of five coaches to win 200 games, including playoffs, in the National Football League. Pittsburgh won 346 games, and he said.

Noll refused to blame anyone else for the Salukis’ poor season.

my tennis," he said. "It helped put me in the right frame of mind to play at the Orange Bowl."

In the first round Merchant beat Mike Miller from Little Rock, Ark., 6-0, 6-1. He beat Bobby Middletan from Comest, Miss., 6-1, 6-0 in the second round.

In the third round he beat Morgan Parker from Nashville, Tenn., 6-1, 6-2. Morgan is ranked as one of the top 10 southern juniores.

Merchant said he pulled off some good passing shots that made the difference between winning and losing in the early rounds.

But he lost in the semifinals to Michael Mathers from Louisville 6-1, 6-1. Mathers was the eventual winner of the tournament.

Merchant said Mathers played his toughest match of the day against him. The match took two hours, he said.

Merchant lost to Brian Facklan from Lexington, Ky., 6-4, 2-6, 6-3 in the final for third place.

advantage next year because they will have a feel for how it runs.

The Salukis were paced by their three returning starters, senior outside hitter LORI SIMPSON, senior setter MARTHA FIRMHABER and junior middle blocker DANA OLDER. The fourth returnee, senior middle blocker DEBBIE BRISCO, fractured her ankle early in the season and missed six weeks.

Simpson was the spikers' catalyst in seven all-tournament teams. And with her selection to the District V team, she will be eligible to repeat. Firmhaber ended her career No. 2 on SIUC's all-time list with 935 digs. She was named the Most Valuable Player. She was named the league's Player of the Week three times and was selected to five of seven all-tournament teams.

Firmhaber set an SIUC record for digs in a single season with 473 and led the team with 35 service aces and 449 kills. She finished second in hitting percentage at .254.

In league statistics, Simpson led the conference in digs with a 4.0 average, was fourth with a 3.77 kill average and was seventh in hitting.

Simpson ranks No. 3 on SIUC's all-time list with 935 digs, No. 7 with 915 kills and No. 7 with 2,281 spike attempts.

Firmhaber was the pillar of strength behind the Saluki attack. She contributed a single season SIUC record 1,378 assists.

A scholar as well as an athlete, Firmhaber recently was selected to the 1991 GTE District V Academic Team. In 1990, Firmhaber was a GTE Academic All-American, and with her selection to the District V team, she will be eligible to repeat.

Firmhaber ended her career No. 2 on SIUC's all-time list with 2,433. She was selected to two all-tournament teams and was ranked nationally for her assist average three times in her career.

Olden did the job in the middle court. She led Saluki with 54 block solos and 112 block assists.

Olden was named the Gateway Player of the Week twice and was selected to four all-tournament teams, including two MVP tourney honors. She was the fifth Saluki to collect more than 1,000 career kills and the fourth to net more than 100 block solos.

In 1991 Gateway play she finished No. 3 in hitting percentage with .364 and No. 2 in kill average and block average.

On SIUC's all-time list, Olden is No. 2 with 1,174 kills, No. 3 with 2,836 spike attempts and No. 4 with 246 block assists.

"We had a lot of good and had this season," Olden said. "It was a big disappointment for me, and I think it was for everybody else not to make the conference tournament. But still it was a good year."

The team accomplished some of its goals by winning three tournaments and having many individual players recognized.

"Our win-loss record doesn't show anything, especially when we have the league MVP," she said.

Other veteran spikers who led the Salukis in 1991 include junior middle blocker STACY SNOOK and sophomore outside hitter JOHN MILLER.

Snook was selected as one tournament MVP and was playing hard until she suffered a strained finger midway through the season. She missed 23 of 119 games, but managed to finish fourth on the team with 173 kills and third in block assists with 52.

Miller collected 367 digs, taking second to Simpson. She was third on the team with 290 kills and second with 31 service aces.

Newcomers who saw action were freshmen middle blocker DEB HEYNS, setter KIM CASSADY and junior middle blocker MONICA HILL. All three filled voids left by Saluki starters when SIUC was beset with injuries.

Locke said she was proud of the way the newcomers stepped in and filled the holes.

"They came in and did their job," she said.

"All the players are important, individually, but as a whole we are a team and we play as a team. No one or two players could have carried us through."

The spikers will lose five seniors to graduation this spring, and Locke said the team will have to depend on more newcomers to fill the resulting holes.
