Students Endorse Athletic Expansion

SIU students Thursday gave an overwhelming endorsement for expansion of the university's intercollegiate athletic program.

In the special election 1,507 voted for expansion while 191 voted for no expansion and 68 for a decrease in the athletic program. The total vote was 1,809.

Also on the referendum was a question concerning a raise in the activity fee to support the athletic program. On this question 667 said they would be willing to pay a per quarter increase of more than $3.50; 724 voted for a $3.50 increase; and 339 voted for no increase. There were 46 ballots voided on this question.

Students also elected five new senators to the Student Senate.

Elected to represent University Park were Timothy J. Weber, 374 votes, and Georgia S. Bowden, 250. Also on the ballot were Stephen H. Wilson, 112, and Marcia Freeman, 95. There were 13 write-in votes and 24 void ballots.

Others elected were: west side dorm, James J. Hodl, 24 votes, 12 write-ins; west side non-dorm, Lee V. Burkard, 58, 17 write-ins; and east side dorm, Pete Rozzell, 35, six write-ins. Also running for the east side dorm seat was David Kuhs who received six votes.

Reporting the referendum and Student Senate election results was Darrell Colford, elections commissioner.

Richard Karr, student body vice president, said the results were an endorsement of the Senate's previous recommendation that the athletic program be expanded.

Karr had special words of praise for the work of Senator Steve Antonacci who headed the committee which drew up the Senate report.

"The results show that he really knew what the students wanted," Karr said.

Colford said the turnout was higher than he expected but Karr was displeased with the number, saying the total was low.

Results on the referendum questions will be sent to the dean of students first and later to President Morris. The newly elected senators are scheduled to be seated Wednesday night.

HMMM!—John Houston, Norwood, Mass. graduate student in design, like many other students Thursday found that his umbrella had finally given up from heavy use. The forecast was for rain ending today with partly cloudy skies.

Greeks Dubious On Implementing Faculty Report

By John Durbin

The Faculty Council report on sororities and fraternities is "too ideal," according to Linda Alexander, president of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority.

The committee report suggests procedures for the Greeks to use in progressing toward non-discriminatory practices. Other recommendations to the Greeks were also included in the report.

Miss Alexander said that the proposal of non-discrimination would work only "if we (Alpha Kappa Alpha) could compete with other sororities in recruiting new members."

She said that her sorority whose membership is presently made up of all Negro girls, cannot compete in offering white girls the same atmosphere they can receive in a sorority made up of white girls.

According to Miss Alexander, "we have never tried to discriminate." She said that recently a white girl pledged Alpha Kappa Alpha but depledged for no stated reason.

On the subject of directing pledges to doing service tasks rather than "childish hazing," Miss Alexander said that the actives attempt to assign the pledges things to do which are constructive to their character. "But since life is full of a lot of trivial things, it is also important to assign trivial tasks to pledges," she said.

Miss Alexander feels it would be difficult for her sorority to maintain a stable membership if the grade requirements for sororities were raised as suggested by the report.

Jack Knott, president of Theta Xi fraternity, said he felt the report offered a "very level-headed approach" in the progression of fraternities toward non-discriminatory practices.

Knott pointed out that the report needs further work and consideration by the fraternities and sororities.

The Theta Xi president feels regarding the direction of pledges to service rather than "childish hazing" that this is changing throughout the nation. "There is a trend across the country for a more modernistic view towards pledging a fraternity," he said.

Gus says he plans to hang around the polling booth for a couple of weeks until he is asked to voice his opinion on athletics again.

Sectioning Relief Sought For Religious Conflicts

The Student Senate has moved to stop the Sectioning Center from allegedly "not allowing exemptions for Saturday classes for those students whose religious training makes that day a holy day and one of rest."

According to Student Body President Ray Lenzi, Section-

ing Center is now following a policy of exempting only Orthodox Jews from Saturday classes. Lenzi said he has received complaints from Jewish and Seventh Day Adventist students about the sectioning policy.

Kirby Browning, assistant to the Registrar and head of the Sectioning Center, was not at work Thursday when the Egyptian called for comment.

The Senate also learned that at the moment it is some $3,000 in deficit. As of last week, Lenzi said, funds committed totaled $11,513 and funds available totaled $8,025.

In other action Wednesday, the Senate abolished a requirement that all Senators spend at least five hours per week in the Student Government Office.

The Senate asked the Student Activities Office to look into the possibility of having the three commercial television stations serving the area stay on the air later during final examinations periods.

A "Day of Discussion" on the Vietnam war is being planned. It will be open to all interested persons.

Year Round Activity Guidance Suggested

Year round supervision and coordination of student activities have been advocated by Anthony Giannelli, coordinator of the Student Activities Center.

"The entire structure in which student activities operate is too fragmented to be... efficient..." Giannelli said in a letter to the Student Senate.

The situation is the result of a failure to update the administrative structure of student activities, Giannelli said.

He cited duplication of services, lack of cooperation among student groups, and lack of continuity of certain functions such as Homecoming, Spring Festival and New Student Orientation.

One obvious solution, Giannelli said, would be to make such functions ongoing in nature. To do this, Giannelli recommends that the student body choose a vice president for student activities to be in charge of all existing functions and committees.

Giannelli called for a general reexamination of existing structures and policies. The Senate will probably initiate discussion on the matter next week.

Wall St. Accident

$160,000 Sought In Student's Death

The parent of an SIU student who was killed when struck by a car last September on South Wall Street filled a $160,000 suit Thursday in Jackson County Circuit Court.

The suit names James J. O'Malley of Hillsdale, administrator of the estate of Brian Edward O'Malley, as plaintiff against John R. Watson Jr., and Robert W. Crawshaw.

The suit asks $150,000 damages for young O'Malley's death and $10,000 for medical and funeral expenses.

Another student, Christeen

Olson, 18, Urbana, also died after the Sept. 22 accident.

The car was driven by Pfc. John R. Watson Jr., 23, of Mattoon. Watson was charged with involuntary manslaughter and is under $15,000 bond.

Crawshaw, Route 2, Carbondale, was identified as the owner of the car.

According to the suit, Watson was driving at excessive speed, was driving under the influence of intoxicants, and drove the car through an intersection without yielding the right-of-way.

State Police to Issue Tickets To Cyclists Without Helmets

Carbondale police reported that Illinois State Police yesterday were to begin ticketing cyclists not wearing helmets.

The regulation requiring helmet for both driver and passenger went into effect Jan. 1.

Socialist to Speak At Public Meeting

Fred Halstead, Socialist Workers Party presidential candidate, will address a public meeting at 9 p.m., Tuesday in Room 141 of Lawson Hall.

Halstead will attend a class session on Vietnam sponsored by Free School at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 108 E. Grand Ave.

Halstead, 40, who lives in New York, is a member of the National Mobilization Committee and was a principal organizer of the New York antiwar demonstration reported by some sources to have drawn some 500,000 participants last April.

He has led labor organizing campaigns and strikes in California and Michigan.

Illinois State Police at DuQuoin reported that the Department has sent helmet specifications and standards information to headgear dealers.

After dealers have an opportunity to check to see if their helmets do meet specifications, students owning helmets should return to the place of purchase of the helmet to see if it meets specifications, police said.

If the helmet does meet specifications stated by the department, helmet owners will then be able to buy a seal to be placed on the helmet showing that it is approved.

President Morris Returns to Campus After Tour of South Pacific, Asia, Europe

SIU President and Mrs. Delyte W. Morris returned late Wednesday night from a three-month tour of the South Pacific, Southeast Asia and Europe.

The Morrises arrived in Chicago a few minutes before 6 p.m. Wednesday from Brussels, Belgium. They were forced to take a commercial plane from Chicago to St. Louis because the fog conditions in Carbondale made landing impossible at the University Airport.

Upon his arrival in St. Louis, University officials from the Edwardsville campus greeted the Morrises and drove them to Carbondale late Wednesday night.

President Morris will hold a press conference concerning his inspection of SIU overseas education throughout his trip at 10 a.m. Monday in his Carbondale campus office.

Cousins to Speak at Luncheon Today

William Cousins, associate professor of sociology at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., will speak at a luncheon today at SIU.

Sponsored by the Southern Illinois Chapter of the Society for International Development, the program will start at noon in the Illinois River Room, University Center. Cousins' speech will be followed by a general discussion.

Reservation can be made by calling Mrs. Sharon Cundiff, 453-2331.

Non-Participation Not the Answer

Jerry Finney, Thompson Point representative on the Student Senate, has come up with another anti-administration stand.

This time, he is against the proposed Student Conduct Review Board, which would give student membership on a committee to advise the vice president for student affairs on student discipline cases.

His reason? There would also be an equal number of faculty members, plus one graduate student, on the board. Mr. Finney feels that only students should have the role of determining action in student disciplinary cases.

That argument catches one up in the whole question of in loco parentis, to which we are opposed. But at least the Student Conduct Review Board represents the largest role students have had in this area, and is a step forward. To ignore it completely because it does not go all the way would be folly.

Also, Mr. Finney has been consistently advocating that students never serve again on any advisory or study commission with the administration, contending that such groups count for nothing. Sometimes this is true, but definitely it is not always the case.

Non-participation would lead to a lack of information and would expose the student body to further infringements on its freedom.

John Epperheimer.

Letter

'Cattle in a Slaughterhouse'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Student Body President Ray Lenzi has asked the Daily Egyptian to reprint in the form of a letter this portion of a speech he delivered recently to the Student Senate.

The powers that be have hurled another lightning bolt from Mt. Olympus at the students.

A letter has gone out to all householders to the effect that the University is going to subsidize certain off-campus landlords by attempting to require all underclassmen to live in dormitories with food service.

We now are forced to bear the higher cost of having someone cook our breakfast, lunch and dinner and pay for the privilege of missing meals we cannot eat on many occasions, besides being put in cell-type rooms, which are common in these dormitories.

I do not quarrel with any student who prefers a dormitory with food service to another living pattern; however, the administration apparently feels that we as college students are not competent to live in an environment other than that which is found in only two circumstances in the civilized world—either prison or the army; while our less gifted or less ambitious contemporaries who are not in college are apparently able to function in the real world.

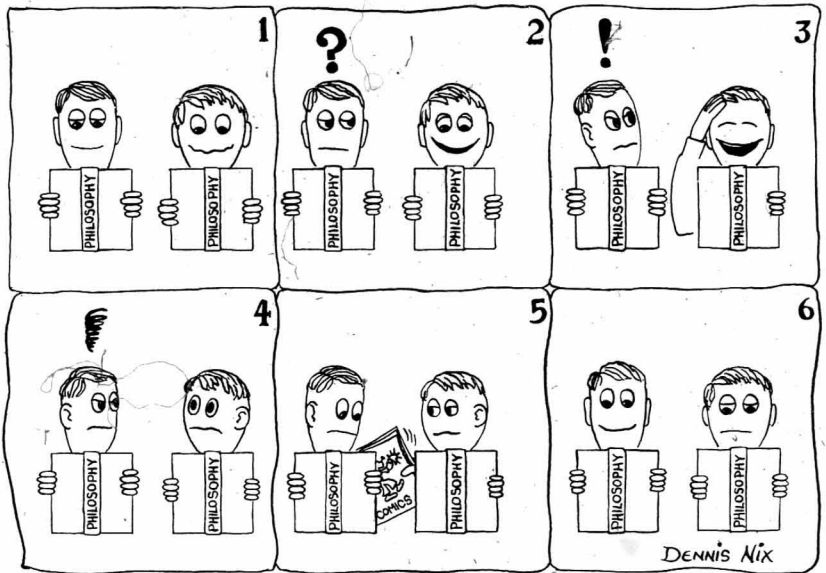

They apparently have, by extension, dictated that whatever our maturation level or age we cannot make a value judgment relative to how we shall live.

I have researched the figure relative to how many spaces there are off-campus and on-campus and it would seem that the whole pattern is unnecessary due to the availability of an adequate supply of students to satisfy the state bonding requirement. There are many causes for student rejection of housing. Among them are poor construction, poor location, poor food, high prices and mis-management in general.

Can the University administration abrogate another of our rights and thereby line the pockets of the landlords who have built housing which is unacceptable to the student body?

It is insulting enough that they claim to function as our parents—to a greater extent than our parents would—without having to further insult us as a means to what, by any standard, is unethical, by virtue of forcing us to be so many cattle in the slaughterhouse of economic expediency.

Raymond Lenzi

Remove Campus Police ?

Order, Freedom on Campus

From The Los Angeles Times
State legislators should waste no further time on an ill-considered proposal to remove the control of campus police from University of California and state college authorities.

Although a relatively few campus disturbances have gotten out of control, The Times believes that academic officials' capability to deal with trouble should be strengthened rather than diminished.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is considering the possibility of creating a California Campus Patrol with "full responsibility and primary jurisdiction" for law enforcement throughout the UC and state college systems.

In an over-reaction to recent disorders some lawmakers favor the formation of a state police force in which the campuses become merely precincts under the command of a Sacramento-based commissioner appointed by the governor.

The Times agrees with UCLA Chancellor Franklin Murphy that the plan "would create an intolerable separation of authority and responsibility on each of the nearly 30 separate college and university campuses."

Although must accompany the responsibility of campus officials to cope with their increasingly complex relationships with students. For as UC President Charles Hitch noted last week, an institution of higher learning is always subject to "the tensions that inevitably accompany inquiry, challenge and change."

"Is it equitable to demand a different standard of behavior for students than for the public at large?" asked Hitch.

"The university's obligation is not to hide, nor to retreat to the proverbial ivory tower or to cloister behind ivied walls, but fearlessly to seek solutions to the problems that beset us all."

Although Max Rafferty, superintendent of public instruction, took exception, Hitch properly defined the role of the modern university.

To assure that the university police force is adequate to the task, a survey will be undertaken of law enforcement needs on the nine UC campuses. Included in the study by two former Berkeley police chiefs will be organization and training of campus officers and their relationship to surrounding jurisdictions.

The results of that study should point the way to campus law enforcement that assures order and stability without the sacrifice of any essential academic freedom.

Letters Welcome

It is the policy of the Daily Egyptian to encourage free discussion of current problems and issues. Members of the University Community are invited to participate with members of the news staff in contributing items for this page with the understanding that acceptance for publication will depend upon the limitations of space and the apparent timeliness and relevance of the material. Letters must be signed, preferably typed, and should be no longer than 250 words. Contributors should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and the rights of others and are urged to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. It is the responsibility of the Egyptian to select the material to be used. Contributors also should include address and phone number with a letter so that the identity of the author can be verified.

A Native's View

Finland: A Psychedelic Experiment?

By Antero Pietila

Year in and year out he has been chosen as "the most popular Finn of the year" in magazine polls. Yet, at 67, Dr. Urho Kekkonen, recently elected President for the third consecutive six-year term, remains his country's most controversial person.

In leading neutralist Finland, a Montana-sized nation of 4.5 million inhabitants, he has shown personal leadership of the kind that drives his opposition to a similar kind of exhausted desperation as his party driven during the President's winter cross-country ski hikes, often up to 30 miles in length.

After the last war, his predecessor J. K. Paasikivi made the nation accept the fact that in its geographical position Finland has no other choice but to be on friendly terms with the neighboring Soviet Union. During his terms, Kekkonen has succeeded in keeping his country out of the crises-filled front pages of the world press. His policy has strengthened the relations between Russia and Finland, to an extent that the opposition sometimes describes Finland as "Kekkoslovakia," this referring to the fate of Czechoslovakia.

This kind of talk is mere political demagoguery, though, and does not correspond to the actual situation, although Finland is experimenting with a "people's front" cabinet.

After a decade of Moscow's disfavor, the Social Democratic party that in its anti-Communism often was understood by the Kremlin to be as anti-Russian as well, smoothed its line. In 1966, the Social Democrats went to the cabinet along with Kekkonen's predominantly agrarian Center party and the Communists. Finland thus became the first non-Communist nation in Europe to have Communists in the cabinet in the 1960s.

This was due much to Kekkonen's personal desire to extend the democratic responsibilities to the Communists, who occupy 41 of the 200 seats in the Parliament. They have been discriminated against since a short period in the late 1940s, when they held the portfolio of Minister of Interior, they also infiltrated the security police and allegedly planned a take-over.

Kekkonen's opposition still has grave misgivings about the Communists' true intentions. They point out that the Communist leadership is essentially the same Stalinist clique they had in the 1940s and that never have they officially rejected their doctrine of seizure of power by violence.

More than a year in the cabinet has shown, however, that the Communists have compromised in many issues they earlier exploited. And the Finnish experiment has been undoubtedly welcomed by Moscow, which apparently sees it as a chance to improve the "respectability" of other European Communist parties, an attempt that, if it succeeds may lead to "popular front" type governments in other non-Communist countries.

A veteran parliamentary politician, Kekkonen is a master of timing. He suggested the acceptance of Communists to the cabinet just as the Social Democrats had upsurged in elections and his staunchest opposition, the Conservative party, was more and more losing its grip on the young postwar generation of new voters.

The Conservatives have failed to see the profound changes in the Finnish postwar society, especially in general thinking, a mistake Kekkonen's own party only recently corrected.

In many addresses during Finland's 50th anniversary of Independence jubilation in December, the fact was underlined that the country's position in today's world seems to be more secure than ever before. True, hardly anyone expects external danger of any kind but there certainly looms a danger from within.

In their desperate efforts not to irritate the Russians, Finland's politicians have made indulgent compromises that often may have satisfied Moscow but, in the final analysis, have hardly been of best interest to their own country.

Last year the cancellation of purchase of what was to be Finland's first nuclear power plant developed an international trade farce. This was only because the Russians entered the bid after the deadline.

And just before this January's presidential elections a controversial program on the government owned television network was preempted. Produced by a special staff, the report on the Finnish foreign policy intended to answer questions often asked but never answered in detail before.

Example: What would the government do if a refugee from a Communist country would seek political asylum in Finland? Also an interpretation of a controversial article in the agreement of friendship and mutual cooperation between Finland and the Soviet Union was to be given.

The program was cancelled, however, and shown only after the director general of the television had edited it himself.

The Finns have become accustomed to all kind of oddities from the part of public servants (Prime Minister Karjalainen's most famous answer to a newsman's question: "It certainly is not your business.")

But this act of censorship was something they have not been subjected to before. Many saw it as a crucial evidence that Kekkonen really has monopolized the country's foreign policy to an extent that even discussion on it is not looked at favorably.

Connery's Finland

The following description of Finland is from Donald S. Connery's "The Scandinavians" (Simon and Schuster, 1966), a book translated into all Scandinavian languages and praised as a first-rate introduction to the contemporary scene of the Nordic countries:

"Finland is Europe's odd man out. Its real name is Suomi. It is neither a member of the Western alliance nor a Soviet satellite. It is part of the Scandinavian community, but with certain qualifications. It is neutral like Sweden, but it is prevented from being a strongly armed neutral. Finland is a fiercely independent country, but its independence is compromised by the facts of life in its relationship with the Soviet Union. Although it has had democratic traditions for centuries, a fifth of the electorate votes Communist. Lodged in the cold northeastern corner of Europe, it is far removed from the mainstream of world affairs, yet it is peculiarly affected by the slightest changes in the political and economic policies of the great powers. It is the least advanced of the Scandinavian welfare states, yet it hums with prosperity and enjoys one of the ten best standards of living in the world. Above all, it is a stubborn, individualistic, indomitable, resilient, resourceful and courageous nation, magnificent in its loneliness.

The wonder is that there is a Finland at all. It has fought forty-two wars against Russia and lost every one."

Graduates in Forestry Hold Successful Jobs

Forestry graduates of the SIU School of Agriculture are working in 28 states and four foreign countries, not counting the 14 who are in the armed services and the 24 who are continuing their education in graduate work at SIU and other institutions.

SIU Forestry Professor Neil Hosley, who is trying to keep in contact with the alumni, says the 155 graduates of SIU's forestry program are becoming well established in forestry jobs. Of the number, 67 are foresters with federal and state agencies and 15 are employed in industry. Those working abroad include one each employed in New Brunswick, the Philippines, Iran and Cambodia.

Illinois retains the most graduates with 22 working in the state. The next most popular states of employment for the SIU graduates are Missouri with nine, Washington with seven, Oregon with six, California with five and Wisconsin with four. Idaho, Montana and Minnesota each have three graduates, and two each have jobs in Indiana, Michigan, New York, Ohio, and Tennessee.

Kenney in Panel On Manpower

David Kenney, director of the Public Affairs Research Bureau at SIU, is participating in a panel discussion meeting on "Manpower Needs of Illinois Government" at Alorton Park today and Friday.

Former acting dean of the SIU Graduate School, Kenney heads the SIU Public Affairs Research Bureau, whose primary function is research into state and local problems and publication of pamphlets and monographs pertaining to its findings. Staff members of the bureau are consultants to various governmental commissions and other bodies.

Kenney holds bachelor's and master's degrees from SIU and received his doctoral degree in political science from the University of Illinois.

U.S. Command Reports High Viet Cong Death Toll

SAIGON (AP)—North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong have suffered 10,553 killed in savage fighting this week and have failed to hold any major South Vietnamese cities, the U.S. Command said Friday.

As fighting throughout the country continued into a fourth day, Allied forces were killing the enemy at a ratio of 11.5 to 1, military spokesmen said.

They added that allied forces also captured 3,076 enemy suspects and seized 2,100 weapons.

In a communique, the U.S. Command said:

"Although the enemy raided numerous cities and towns throughout the republic and achieved some temporary successes, they have failed to take and hold any major installations or localities. Although some enemy units are still occupying positions in a few cities, they are rapidly being driven out."

The announced toll underlined a feeling expressed earlier by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander, that the Red drive was being blunted.

While conditions in much of the country remained chaotic, Westmoreland told newsmen it was a go for broke proposition by the Communists and there was evidence to suggest that the enemy "is about to run out of steam."

"He has, however, some reserves yet to be committed," Westmoreland said. "We are watching this."

Pueblo Release Suggestion Receives Quick Response

WASHINGTON (AP)—Responding quickly to a North Korean suggestion, the United States said Thursday it is prepared to try again to seek release of the Pueblo and its crew through the military armistice commission at Panmunjom.

North Korea harshly rebuffed the first U.S. request at the Korean truce commission meeting place Jan. 24, just after the Reds had seized the American intelligence ship and its 83 crewmen.

After 10 days of fruitless attempts to win back the vessel and men through the U.N. Security Council, the International Red Cross and various diplomatic channels, U.S. authorities are willing to make a second effort at Panmunjom.

But no one here is predicting early success. The last time the armistice commission handled a U.S. prisoner case, it took a year of meetings before the Americans—two helicopter pilots—were freed by the Communists.

The North Korean hint came in an English-language Pyongyang radio broadcast of a statement by a secretary of the Communist Korean Workers Party, Kim Kwang Hyop.

Kim said the United States cannot solve the Pueblo affair by military threats, aggressive war or "illegal discussion at the United Nations." But "it will be a different story if they want to solve this question by methods of previous practice," he said.

Quoting Kim's words, State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey announced "the United States is prepared to deal with this matter through this channel."

Sororities, Fraternities Doubt Feasibility of Faculty Report

Knott said that he thinks "anytime the grade requirements can be raised they should be because first of all we are in college for an education."

Phi Kappa Tau President Jerry Kravat does not like the idea of setting a time limit of two years for fraternities to become integrated. "They want us to do in two years what it has taken the United States over 100 years to accomplish."

Kravat feels that since fraternities are social organizations "we should be able to choose whom we want to join."

It is also Kravat's opinion that a fraternity man should not be required to have any higher grade point average than an independent. "Fraternity men contribute much more than the average independent in the area of activities," he said.

According to Kravat, Phi Kappa Tau is already assigning pledges service tasks as opposed to "childish hazing." "Our fraternity has performed such service tasks as reading books and tapes for the blind, cleaning jails and assisting in maintenance at Holden Hospital," Kravat said.

Robert Carter, president of Phi Sigma Kappa, said that "on the whole the suggestions presented in the report are good but late." He says such suggestions should have been presented several years ago.

On the suggestion that fraternities should be financially responsible, Carter pointed out that only one house on Greek row has been in trouble.

Carter stated, "our pledges are being asked to do responsible things" as opposed to the "childish hazing" in the past.

The Phi Sigma Kappa president, in response to the suggestion that fraternity members should have high social and moral standards, says "fraternity men act higher morally and socially than do independents."

Kappa Alpha Psi president John Bell tends to agree with the faculty council's suggestions on non-discriminatory practices. He said he does not like a proposed two-year time limit for integration of the fraternities.

"I feel the administration expects more from fraternity members than they do from independents," Bell said.

Bell pointed out that Kappa Alpha Psi is assigning service tasks to pledges such as tutoring Job Corps students in remedial reading.

"It is necessary for fraternity members to possess high social and moral standards because what a member does reflects on the whole organization," Bell said.

Roger Ashley, president of the Little Egypt Agriculture Cooperation fraternity, says that "we already filed an application form with the University stating that we will not discriminate according to race, color, religion or culture group."

Ashley stated that he feels "individual fraternity members should be required to have higher grade point averages than independents. But I do not think the fraternity house should be forced to have a particular over-all grade point average because of the various activities we are engaged in," he added.

Sandy Robertson, president of Sigma Sigma Sigma, and Richard Maloney, president of Tau Kappa Epsilon, declined to comment on the faculty council report.

An attempt was made to obtain comments on the report from all the presidents of the fraternities and sororities. Some presidents, however, were unavailable for comment.

Resident Ambassador To Discuss UN Aid

Willard Beaulac, ambassador in residence, will discuss economic aid at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Morris Library Auditorium.

Beaulac's presentation will concern a resolution on whether economic aid should be channeled through the United Nations or whether it should be multilateral.

The resolution will be introduced at the Model U.N. Feb. 15 through 17.

Beaulac has served as United States Ambassador to Paraguay, Columbia, Cuba, Chile and Argentina and was Deputy Commander for International Affairs in the National War College. He was also chief of the Latin American Division in the Department of State.

He is currently serving as a consultant to the Department of State and is engaged in a study of the consular function for that department.

Beaulac has written two books entitled, "Career Diplomat" and "Career Ambassador."

Officials Believe SIU Unit Safe After Saigon Attack

No word—usually a good sign—has been received about the well-being of the SIU education team in Saigon, where the U.S. Embassy was attacked Wednesday by a Viet Cong suicide squad.

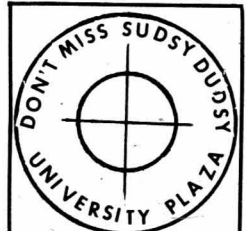

Harold DeWeese, campus coordinator for the training project, said that if a message is warranted, procedures have been set up to inform the SIU Division of International Services.

The SIU team consists of 11 educators, including two women, and a woman secretary. Families of six of the male educators live in Kuala Lumpur, capital city of Malaysia. Other families are in the United States.

DeWeese said an attack on the embassy in the heart of Saigon could not be unexpected at "Tet time," the oriental New Year.

At 1967 "Tet time," he said, huge fireworks exploded constantly from morning into the night as natives celebrated. Under such cover incidents happen, he said, although heretofore they had not been as brazen as attacking the embassy.

Visiting English Painter Initiates 'Space-Age Count-Down' Classes

An English painter who is also a stage designer, a graphic artist, and an art historian, is a visiting professor at the Carbondale campus for the winter and spring quarters.

Jeff Hoare, faculty member of the Central School of Art and Design in London since 1963, has developed a unique approach to teaching students how to paint, an approach he is using with graduate students at SIU.

In one three-hour class session each week, entitled "A Holiday from Art," he puts the students through a fast drawing session, using the space-age "count-down" to time them on each exercise.

He sets up a live model before the class. By drastically narrowing time and rapidly changing the shape, the student gets "direct experiences of the figure in a changing world of perceptions," Hoare says.

Sometimes he gives exercises in divided attention, by having the students perform parallel physical movements--moving the "free" arm in a circle connecting with a leg movement and counting, even executing a dance--while the drawing is taking place.

"In this way," he explains, "the student makes simultaneous inner and outer connections resulting in unity of expression."

"The aim is to create situations of immediate perception and increased awareness," says Hoare. "In this intense activity, by the end of a session, the student and teacher have arrived at the same state of sustained interest, words then become meaningful, the teacher and the students can communi-

Hoare said he has on some occasions continued these exercises for as long as six hours. "The students are tired but exhilarated," he declares. "Between each stage of development are possibilities of discovering new psychic freedoms. Then and only then are we ready to paint."

Hoare was at SIU for six weeks last summer as a visiting faculty member. He is an "old friend" of Nicholas Vergette, SIU associate professor of ceramics, also a Britisher.

Class Bigness Remedy Sought by Instructor

A government instructor at SIU is trying a new recipe for combating bigness.

Melvin Kahn teaches government courses to some 200 undergraduate students. "It's a pretty impersonal relationship with that many students," Kahn said, so he arranged for the use of a meeting room in the University Center from 4 to 5 p.m. each Monday. Now he holds a weekly informal discussion session there, on a free-wheeling basis.

"The students get to know me better," he said "and the discussions become most interesting, anything from 'black power' to prospects for big-time football."

A specialist on labor politics and pressure groups, Kahn served as a legislative assistant to the chairman of the house labor committee in the Indiana General Assembly. He received his Ph. D. from Indiana University and taught at Indiana State University before coming to SIU in 1965.

Kahn is presently working on a book on state labor politics. Last summer he traveled extensively talking to top labor union leaders throughout the country.

'The Collector' Set For Movie Hour

"The Collector" will be shown at the Movie Hour on Friday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 and 10 p.m. in Furr Auditorium. It is co-sponsored by the Student Activities Center and the International Relations Club. Admission price will be 75 cents.

"The Collector," starring Terrence Stamp and Samantha Eggar replaces the previously announced film, "Moment of Truth."

Governor Appoints Richardson to Post

Charles E. Richardson, associate professor of health education, has been appointed by Gov. Otto Kerner to the Illinois Committee for the 1970 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

Richardson said the committee will serve as the overall policy and planning group, working with the Illinois Commission on Children, to carry the responsibilities for all fact-finding activities in Illinois leading to the Conference in Washington in 1970.

With the appointment, Richardson was commissioned to write the committee's "working paper" on family planning.

Dick Garrett Continues To Lead Cagers' Scoring

Chuck Benson has taken over the No. 2 spot in the scoring race, according to the latest SIU basketball statistics.

His 17 points in the loss to Southwest Missouri State Wednesday gave him a total of 196 for the season, surpassing Willie Griffin, who has 182.

Griffin failed to connect on a field goal against Southwest and finished with five points—all from the charity line.

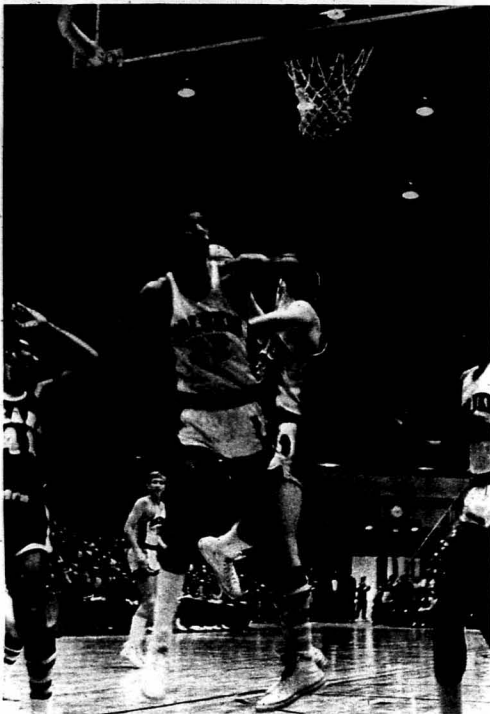

Benson's totals are attributed to 77 of 173 shots from the floor for a .44 percentage and 22 of 41 from the line for a .53 percentage.

He is far out in front in the rebounding race with 145 in 16 games for an average of nine per game.

Hot shooting forward Dick Garrett holds a solid lead in the scoring race with 306 points for an average of 19.2 per game.

Garrett's totals have come on 117 field goals in 236 attempts for a .496 percentage. He has scored on 52 of 60 free throws for a superlative .87 percentage.

Bruce Butchko is averaging seven ppg, Bobby Jackson, 5.6 ppg, Howard Keene, 2.9 ppg, Rosborough, 2.1 ppg, and Rex Barker, 2.7 ppg.

READY FOR TAKEOFF—SIU's Dick Garrett (22) appears to be preparing to takeoff during Wednesday night's game against Southwest Missouri. He didn't fly but he was able to score 20 points in his team's 67-62 loss to the Bears.

Scout Predicts Salukis' Return to NIT

By Dave Palermo

His name is Snowy Simpson and he's a scout for the Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball Association. The Oaks are owned by popular singer Pat Boone but as Snowy puts it, "It don't mean I gotta wear his white bucks."

Seated in the Chicago Stadium press box during the triple-header last Saturday night, Snowy had a lot to say. However, the majority of Simpson's monologue was buried in obscenity, a raspy voice or an indistinguishable Eastern accent.

"You guys (SIU) have got a real good ball club," he commented. "You're quick, and I like a quick ball club," he stated.

Snowy says he has a lot in common with SIU since he used to play football with Coach Dick Towers while they both attended Kansas State.

"Towers was a darn good ball player," Simpson remembered. "He was fast and he hustled a great deal."

Coach Towers was just as complimentary towards Simpson.

"He was a great person," said Towers. "He was well liked and respected by everyone who knew him."

Simpson, who entered college at the age of 31 on an Armed Forces grant, was also in Towers' gymnastic and wrestling classes.

"He was older than the rest of us," added the SIU coach, "and had to work twice as hard."

"I saw the Salukis on television back east against Wichita and they looked real good," said Simpson.

Asked about Southern's NIT chances, the veteran scout was highly optimistic.

"You're the defending champs," said Snowy. "With any kind of record at all you'll make it."

He was not impressed with Michigan State and predicted the Salukis would win by 12 points.

Even when the Spartans pulled out to a 38-34 lead at halftime, the aging scout remained with his prediction. "Stace hit .48 from the floor the first half," Snowy said, pointing to the halftime statistics. "They (MS) won't do that the second half."

Michigan State, behind the 15-point performance of reserve Jim Gibbons, came out on top, 68-56.

"That's basketball," said Simpson. "Boy, that Gibbons really killed you."

Former Iowa State Recruiter Fills Football Vacancy

A long-time friend of Coach Dick Towers, is expected to replace Pat Naughton on the SIU football coaching staff.

Tom O'Boyle, who comes from Iowa State following a football staff shakeup there, is currently on the campus as a faculty replacement for Naughton, who has joined the football staff at Northwestern University.

The 35-year-old O'Boyle was a standout lineman at Kansas State in the early 1950s and was an all Big Eight Conference guard for two years.

While O'Boyle was at Iowa State, he was a recruiter and specialized in the areas of southern Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri.

Coach Towers said that O'Boyle's appointment will not be official until approved by the Board of Trustees at its meeting Feb. 15, but the head coach assumes he will be appointed.

O'Boyle began his coaching career with the Ft. Carson, Colo., army service team during the Korean War. He later coached prep football in Iowa and Indiana. He was line coach at Drake before working in Iowa the past two seasons.

O'Boyle's appointment leaves only one vacancy in the SIU football staff, the slot left by Jim LaRue when he resigned Tuesday for a job at Utah.

Towers also announced that two prep gridgers have signed letters of intent to SIU.

They are Dave Schminck,

6-1, 225 pound tackle from Harrisburg, and Paul Middleton, 6-2, 230 pound tackle and linebacker from Nashville. Both players won numerous All-State honors.

Packer Boss Steps Down

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Iron-willed Vince Lombardi stepped down Thursday night as coach of the world-champion Green Bay Packers and named long-time assistant Phil Bengtson to succeed him.

Lombardi said he would remain in Green Bay as the National Football League club's general manager.

The decision came only a month after Lombardi guided the Packers to a third straight NFL title and a second straight Super Bowl triumph.

The coach told a gathering of Packer directors and newsmen that the responsibilities of both coaching and running the team as general manager had become too much for one man.

Draft Advice Available

Draft counseling will be available for all students today between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. in Room H of the University Center. The counseling is being sponsored by the Southern Illinois Peace Committee.
