Blood donor turnout scant; only 265 units collected

Today is the last day on campus for the American Red Cross blood drive and its all-you-care-to-eat, post-donation snack session.

SIU-C faculty, staff and students have not kept up with their tradition of high donor turnouts.

The number of donors Wednesday was not adequate. Only 265 units of blood were collected. Vivian Ugent, coordinator of Red Cross blood drives in Southern Illinois, said.

Although campuswide flu cases have been reported,

Ugent said the University population that is not sick should donate.

"We need donors. We do have plenty of staff so there is no wait, not even five minutes," Ugent said.

"Today (Wednesday) the beds were half full and we can't have empty beds," Ugent said. "We have a lot of beds, a lot of staff and we need a lot of donors."

"The number of blood units we collected (Wednesday) can be used by one patient, in one surgery, in one day," Ugent continued. "A lot of non-

Thompson proposes tobacco tax increase

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. James R. Thompson Wednesday proposed an 18-cent-a-pack hike in the cigarette tax and a 20 percent tax on the wholesale price of other tobacco products which currently are not taxed to pay for various programs.

Thompson, in his 13th annual "State of the State" address, said he was making the proposal to raise additional money to help Illinois meet two challenges — that of technological change in the workplace and burdens the state suffers from drug and alcohol abuse.

"Current revenue sources will not fund the kind of massive efforts demanded by these extraordinary challenges," Thompson said.

The governor said the $180 million in revenue raised by the increased tobacco taxes would provide another $65 million for job training and scientific advancement, $50 million to battle drug and alcohol abuse and another $65 million for education programs.

The current state cigarette tax is now 20 cents per pack. There is no state tax now on other tobacco products such as cigars and smokeless tobacco. If approved by the Legislature, the taxes would take effect July 1.

Thompson called the state by many measures "robust and healthy." But he lamented a lack of sufficient funds to aid the state's schools and to keep up with needed repair of the state's roads, bridges and mass transit systems. He said he still supports an income tax

Three legislators disagree on cigarette tax increase

Three area legislators disagree with Gov. James R. Thompson's proposal for a 18-cent-a-pack cigarette tax increase.

Thompson hopes the tax increase would provide $180 million to be used for education, technology and scientific developments and the war against drugs and alcohol.

Thompson made the proposal during his "State of State" address to the Legislature in Springfield Wednesday.

"I think we should look at all the taxes in Illinois," state Sen. Jim Rea, D-Christopher, said. "Any type of a tax will have a definite economic impact on our area and the state."

People in Southern Illinois might start crossing the border to buy their cigarettes if the tax is raised and the sales tax normally collected by the state will be lost, Rea said.

State Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-Murphysboro, shares the same opinion.

"The main problem is that cigarette taxes have already been raised high enough and people are complaining about it as it is," Richmond said. "If the tax is raised, people will cross the border to get these products cheaper."

"Higher taxes could hurt the local businesses," State Rep. David Phelps, D-Eldorado, said. "People aren't smoking as much as they used to." This tax hike might give smokers the incentive to quit. It may be a tax of diminishing returns.

State Rep. Larry Woolard, D-Carterville, said at this time, he would not say he was opposed to an increase in cigarette taxes, and the idea "might have merit if there is a need for a tax increase."

Woolard said the Legislature should determine if a tax increase is needed after Thompson reveals details about the state's financial condition in his budget next month.

However, Woolard said Budget Chief Robert Manderville's has reported that the state is receiving more in revenues than officials had expected, and the Legislature may be able to "cut expenditures in ways so that we won't have to raise revenues."

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, supports the proposed tax increase.

"It suits me all right. I support it, but I know there will be lots of pressure not to vote for it."

Directors pitch for fee increases to USG senate

By Miguel Alba
Staff Writer

The directors of the recreation center and Health Services answered questions and tried to rally support for proposed fee increases at Wednesday's Undergraduate Student Government senate meeting.

Increases in the student recreation fee of $6, and student health fee of $5, represent about a four percent increase in the total general student fees. Students will have to pay $53 in recreation fees and $44.50 in off-campus insurance fees.

Mike Dunn, recreation center director, told USG senators the last fee increase for operations of the building was made in the summer of 1985. However, students have paid recreation fee increases, totaling $15 in the last two years for the new addition to the Recreation Center.

Dunn said half the money raised would go to fund the Recreation Center's daily operations, while the other half would be placed in a repair and replacement reserve fund.

Dunn said if everything goes as expected, a working cash balance of $147 would be left after the fiscal year 1990, a total he said he is not comfortable with.

"That is like trying to pay your rent each month with only a penny left over," Dunn said, adding that many variables like wages and general revenues could affect the actual results.

"It's likely that I'll come back next year and ask for more money," he said.

Dunn said the Recreation Center will have a telefund drive in March to try to raise some money for the facilities. "Let's keep our fingers crossed," he said.

When the question of program cutbacks was raised, Dunn said no one single small program could be cut in order to save the "couple of hundred thousand dollars" the center needs.

In a similar predicament, Sam McVay, health service director, said the off-campus insurance fee is a result of a 20 percent raise in insurance cost predicted by Blue Cross Blue Shield, the company that is under contract to the University.

"The cost of health insurance is on the rise," McVay said. "AIDS and other illnesses have sent insurance cost soaring across the

Alaskan cold front spreads south

United Press International

A frigid mass of supercold Alaskan air whipped by high winds plunged wind chills down to a dangerous 90 degrees below zero in the northern Rockies and Plains Wednesday and spread winter's "Big Chill" as far south as Texas.

"This is the worst of the winter but we knew it was coming down from Alaska so we are ready," said Virginia

Hull in Williams, Minn. "It was 31 below this morning and we are expecting wind chills of 50 to 60 below. But we are warm and we have plenty of wood for the fire and a freezer full of food."

The body of a woman was found on a sidewalk in Coleraine, Minn., where it was 15 below, and authorities said she apparently died of exposure. The victim, in her early 30s, was not identified pending notification of relatives.

The temperature in Russell, Kan., tumbled 72 degrees from 84 on Tuesday to 12 degrees Wednesday, the National Weather Service said. It fell from 52 to 26 degrees in three hours at Amarillo, Texas, and plunged from 70 to zero in 10 hours at Valentine, Neb.

It was a record 18 below zero in Billings, Mont. at midday.

Abandoned Argentine ship sinks spilling diesel fuel

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — An abandoned Argentine ship that ran aground in Antarctica last weekend has sunk, the navy said Wednesday, while denying reports the vessel carried a load of diesel fuel that could pollute the continent's waters. But the U.S. National Science Foundation, which has a research base about 2 miles from the site, said the Bahia Paraiso had only capsized and that a diesel fuel spill was spreading, killing some key marine life and coating feathers of some Antarctic sea birds.

Poisonous algae found to be killer of dolphins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "red tide," a poisonous algae from the Gulf of Mexico, killed hundreds of bottlenose dolphins along the Atlantic seaboard in 1987 and 1988, scientists reported Wednesday. The algae was carried by small fish, menhaden or Spanish mackerel, that were eaten by the dolphins, weakening the mammals' cardiovascular and immune systems, according to Dr. Joseph Geraci, a veterinarian and professor of wildlife diseases at the University of Guelph in Ontario.

Soviets, China discuss possibility of summit

BEIJING (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze arrived Wednesday on an historic fence-mending visit to China, planning to confirm the first summit between the communist superpowers in three decades. Shevardnadze, the first Soviet foreign minister to visit China since the 1950s, landed at Beijing international airport and was met by Foreign Minister Qian Qichen and other senior officials.

Israeli minister refuses peace talks with PLO

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin Wednesday reaffirmed Israel's opposition to negotiations with the PLO, and an aide denied a report the Defense Ministry was trying to open an indirect dialogue with Palestinian officials abroad. Yediot Ahronot, Israel's largest-circulation newspaper, reported Wednesday that the ministry had decided it would be impossible to find a political solution to the Palestinian uprising without coordination with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Personnel fleeing Afghanistan on masse

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) — Despite Soviet pressure, East Bloc and non-aligned embassy personnel have joined the growing diplomatic exodus from this besieged capital. Adding to the tensions in Kabul, a bomb exploded in the central bazaar behind the downtown Kabul Hotel, damaging telephone equipment. Paramilitary officers said there were no injuries in the early evening blast, which was believed to be the work of rebel sympathizers.

Book claims Nazi Rudolf Hess died in 1941

LONDON (UPI) — British police, on the trail of Nazi intrigue that includes British nobility, said Wednesday they will investigate allegations that the man who died in West Berlin's Spandau Prison in 1987 was an impostor, not Nazi war criminal Rudolf Hess. British officials said Hess hanged himself, but a book, "Hess: The Tale of Two Murders," claims the real Nazi lieutenant to Adolph Hitler died in 1941.

Flood prevention plans will continue

Marion, croplands receive funding for improvements

By Lisa Warns
Staff Writer

Flood prevention plans will proceed full speed ahead thanks to federal funding received by Marion and several government agencies, Marion Mayor Robert Butler said Tuesday.

"We are finally at the point, full tilt, to discuss flooding improvements," Butler said. "We are pleased to get this funding."

The Crab Orchard Creek Watershed, including Marion have been plagued by devastating floods since 1839 when Williamson County was first incorporated.

The 52,500-acre watershed is an area drained by rivers and creeks, in this case, Crab Orchard Creek.

Marion is situated in a valley area. When heavy rains fall, Crab Orchard Creek overflows and gets backed up from sediment and debris. This in turn backs up West End Creek and Fairgrounds Creek, causing damage to homes along the banks, Richard Gledhill of Soil Conservation Service in Marion said.

The watershed area has experienced, in the past 10 years, four "100-year" floods which only are supposed to come once every 100 years.

"We should not have another 100-year flood for another 500 years," Butler quipped.

"We've expanded into flood-prone areas. Only when we have a 100-year flood, do we Robert Butler, Mayor of Marion, speaks to members of the press on the federal funding of a flood prevention project in the Crab Orchard Lake area.

(Marion residents) realize this," Butler said. Future city expansion will be only on higher ground, he said. Because most development in Marion has been in low-lying areas, flooding occurs.

The estimated cost of the project is $3 million plus several hundred thousand dollars for salaries, Butler said. The city does not anticipate raising taxes for the project, he added.

The project will reduce floodwater damages in Marion and the surrounding croplands by 90 percent. The plans include cleaning out and enlarging West End and Fairground creeks. Also one or two miles of channel in Crab Orchard Creek could be widened.

to it that the project gets done from top to bottom," John Eckes, state conservationist from the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, said.

"An initial draft (of options) should be ready by July 1st. Construction should begin in about two years," Gary Parker of the Soil Conservation Service said.

The Williamson County Soil and Water District, City of Marion, Williamson County, the Division of Natural Resources, the Division of Water Resources and the Association of Illinois Soil and Water Conservation District also are involved.

Research finds blood vessels, hormones link

By Lisa Warns
Staff Writer

Recent developments in high blood pressure research at the School of Medicine in Springfield has centered around the fact that hormones such as adrenaline and angiotensin are produced along the blood vessel walls.

"Previously we thought the hormones had to circulate through the system. Now we are seeing the formation of hormones right on the blood vessel walls. These hormones build up in the blood vessels causing blockage and muscles to contract which results in high blood pressure," William Cline, professor of pharmacology, said.

Cline is researching high blood pressure, the drugs used to treat high blood pressure and the actions and effects of those drugs.

The American Heart Association has declared February Heart Month.

Heart attacks are still the No. 1 cause of death in the United States. This year as many as 1.5 million people will suffer a heart attack and more than 700,000 of those will die. Two-fifths of all heart attack victims will die before they reach the hospital, according to the American Heart Association.

SPC funds caught in snare of the USG

THE CHARGES THAT have been leveled against the Student Programming Council by the Undergraduate Student Organization, specifically from the new chairman of the Committee for Internal Affairs, might be considered serious if their source wasn't so hilarious.

Charles Hagerman, Committee for Internal Affairs chairman, has accused SPC of conducting itself in an undemocratic manner. The problem is that the only people who can vote on decisions made by SPC are the 11 committee chairs and the executive chair in the case of a tie. The other problem is that the chairs of the committees are picked by a screening committee that is composed of three out-going committee chairs, a representative from the USG and a representative from the Graduate and Professional Student Council. This means that a very small amount of unselected students decide what to do with almost $100,000 in student fees CHAIRS OF SPC committees "are selected, they are not elected," as Hagerman said. What Hagerman neglected to tell us is that he also has been selected and not elected by anyone except the USG.

Rod Hughes submitted a bill to seat Hagerman and he joined the senate in the first meeting of the this semester, taking the seat of one of the senators who participated in the mass exodus and expulsions of the previous semester. He was then elected to the chair of the Committee for Internal Affairs by his fellow senators.

Though Hagerman was not elected to the USG this semester, he was the chairman of the Committee for Internal Affairs in the fall of 1987 and spring of 1988 until he took over as vice president of the USG later in the same semester. He is probably the most able candidate for the job and it is doubtful that he will create the chaos that his predecessor Juliana Taylor did.

NOW HE HAS set out to right the wrongs of the tyranny known as Student Programming with a bill in the USG. Hagerman also wants to reinstitute a committee that was formed in the spring semester last year to recommend SPC reforms.

The goal of reforming the selection or election, or whatever you want to call it, of SPC committee chairs is a noble one. The council's charges include student activities ranging from concerts to the Saluki shakers, while their last budget from the USG netted $37,500.

In short, their is more responsibility — i.e. money — laid on the shoulders of Student Programming by the USG than on any other organization on campus.

IT IS HAGERMAN'S tactics that are less than commendable. Instead of talking to SPC about the problem as USG President Bill Hall recommended, Hagerman has issued a threat of an SPC funding freeze unless the SPC meets certain undefined USG requirements.

Brian Wood, executive chairman of SPC, said he has yet to be contacted by the USG and be told what the problems with the organization are.

Hagerman has begun his tenure as chair of the committee with a dubious action. Dragging the issue of SPC conduct into the adversarial forum of the USG before consulting Student Programming will serve little purpose — except perhaps to give his committee something to do.

'Mississippi Burning' realistic, portrays South of the 1960s

It embarrasses me to admit this, but I think the movie "Mississippi Burning" is a terrific movie.

The reason I'm embarrassed is that many deep-thinking pundits say it's a terrible film. So do most civil rights activists.

They don't like it because it doesn't present the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. And they're right; it doesn't.

In case you haven't been following this controversy, the movie is loosely based on the murder of three young civil rights workers in Mississippi in 1964.

THE YOUNG MEN — two white, one black — were murdered by Klansmen who didn't think they should be encouraging Mississippi blacks to register to vote.

That part of the movie, the murders, is reasonably accurate. So is the portrayal of the killers and their rednecked sympathizers as a bunch of ignorant, sadistic, racist terrorists. And so are the church-bombings, the beatings and other violent acts that were an almost daily event in the South during those times.

So what's the gripe? Basically, it's because the movie's heroes are two dedicated FBI agents who eventually solve the crime, using a combination of "Dirty Harry" muscle and "The Sting" trickery.

THE CRITICS say the movie is dishonest, even immoral, because everybody knows that J. Edgar Hoover, the head of the FBI, was a racist himself and loathed the civil rights movement.

Mike Royko

Tribune Media Services

And they say it's wrong to make heroes out of fictional FBI agents.

There are other complaints. But they boil down to the fact that the movie is not a factual documentary. Instead, it is an action thriller that exploits a genuine tragedy and monumental period in American history.

I can't argue. No, the movie isn't a documentary. Yes, it weaves fiction with fact. And J. Edgar was a louse.

BUT SO WHAT? I still think it's a fine movie, and here are my reasons.

Most important, it shows the South as it was in 1964. And for those who weren't around 25 years ago, or were too young or distracted to notice, the movie can be educational. Such things can and did happen in a supposedly civilized, law-abiding, God-fearing society.

How do I know? I was in the South during the great voting rights drive. Not in Mississippi, but in Alabama. And the same breed of clods were killing civil rights workers there, too.

WHAT PUZZLES me most about the complainers is their demand that a movie be an accurate recitation of the facts and only the facts.

If they want facts, here's one. It is a fact that making movies is a business. And documentaries are not good business.

But if they insist on facts only on the screen, they should get together with some investors, come up with about $20 million, make such a documentary and put it in the theaters.

Then they should get their lawyers and file for bankruptcy when the movie bombs at the box office.

YOU DON'T GO in a movie theater expecting to see and hear facts. The best you can hope for is a sense of reality. And that's what "Mississippi Burning" provided.

So for those who are going to see the movie, no, that's not how the murders were solved.

ACTUALLY, IT'S a bit ironic that so many civil rights activists are panning the movie for bending facts.

As I recall, Jesse Jackson didn't mind mixing fiction with reality when he showed up on TV in that blood-stained shirt the day after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was murdered.

So, it didn't happen exactly as Jesse described it. He wasn't the last person to talk to Dr. King. Dr. King didn't anoint him.

But what the heck, it could have happened that way. And if there's ever a movie about Jesse, I'm sure it will.

Student says pro-life activists small-minded

ABORTION. To have not. That is indeed the question. As our newly-elected President has unequivocally expressed, it is his desire to have not. To overrule Roe vs. Wade is the goal. For some.

Others object to the legislation of morality; the reduction of individual rights. Rights.

Behind every pro-life activist, I find a small-minded, closed-minded moralist attempting to legislate one moralistic belief. Why would anyone insist on forcing one view on all? Is society so childlike and irresponsible as to be forced to be limited in possible courses of action?

Pro-life activists are attempting to limit society's rights through incredible means. Disinformation and misinformation appall most thinking individuals. Yet they continue.

Is abortion bad or good? An individual decision, for the individual. Let's keep it that way. — Sam Gayle, senior, finance.

increase, and would like to see the gasoline tax increased as well.

"My optimism is tempered only by the knowledge that we could have done more by investing more in ourselves sooner, and we still should," Thompson said. "I still stand ready to support and sign a modest increase in the lowest income tax in the nation — the Illinois income tax. Without it we will see local property taxes go through the roof or public education pounded into the ground."

Thompson essentially has given up on the prospects of raising the personal and corporate income tax due to continued opposition from House Speaker Michael Madigan, D-Chicago.

Madigan and Thompson are continuing their stand off on income taxes which is entering its third session of the Legislature. But the Republican governor has indicated he now is ready to move forward with other ideas and will go back to the income tax to increase state revenues only when Madigan gives in.

"You and I have worked together on a multitude of issues over the past 12 years, but you have made it clear that you will block any attempt to raise needed revenues from the income tax," Thompson wrote to Madigan in a letter a few weeks ago. "We must now put that issue aside and work together, along with the other leaders, to put in place a plan of action for Illinois' future."

The Republican governor made the speech one month before he is to unveil his fiscal 1990 budget, which he has said will contain no new tax proposals.

Last week Budget Chief Robert Mandeville said revenues coming into the state are more than $200 million more than officials expected a year ago. And, for the first time in six years, personal income growth in Illinois is increasing at the same rate as it is nationally.

Governor outlines changes

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Here are the highlights of initiatives outlined by Gov. James R. Thompson in his "State of the State" address to lawmakers on Wednesday:

Drugs and alcohol

- Make police and drug-sniffing dogs available to high schools.

- Make the possession and delivery of steroids for non-medical use a criminal offense.

- Ban tobacco use in all grade and high schools.

- Develop standards for the offense of drugged driving.

- Require parents of minors convicted of drug offenses to pay into a treatment fund.

- Expand from 10 to 15 the number of Metropolitan Enforcement Groups, including 80 more state police agents.

- Increase funding to operation Cash Crop, the state's marijuana eradication program.

- Require signs at liquor sale outlets to point out the dangers of drinking to pregnant women and their unborn children.

- Ban the use of beepers in schools and on school grounds. The beepers are used to warn drug traffickers that police are near.

- Provide communities funds for local anti-drug campaigns.

- Increase drug and alcohol treatment programs, including 9 new outpatient and 12 intensive outpatient treatment programs.

Technology, science and education

- Appoint Nobel Prize winner Leon Lederman as science advisor to the governor.

country."

Last year, the on-campus health fee was increased. Cutbacks made in the infirmary services helped to prevent another fee increase this year.

But McVay, like Dunn, warned that he would "be back next year" to ask for an on-campus fee increase.

Addressing the off-campus fee increase, McVay said students could choose between reduced benefits or paying the increase to keep the current benefits offered.

The USG senate will vote at the next senate meeting Feb. 15 on the recommendations they will make to the Board of Trustees. The student health advisory board has voted in favor of the fee increase.

Man shot after leading police on wild chase

BOSTON (UPI) — A man drove a stolen Greyhound bus through Boston in a wild chase, slamming into at least a dozen cars and injuring three police officers before he was fatally wounded by police, authorities said Wednesday.

Police said they did not know what prompted Donald Johnson, 19, to steal the empty bus from a lot in either Bristol County or Rhode Island on Tuesday night and drive to Boston where he went on a rampage, chased by Boston and Metropolitan Police, said Boston Police spokesman Jim Jordan.

After Johnson crashed into a car, police chased him to the Jamaica Plain section, trapping the vehicle on a dead-end street, Jordan said.

"MDC officers approached from either side. The operator was not visible when the officers looked inside the bus," Jordan said.

"Then the driver suddenly hopped back into the seat, driving the bus backward, ramming four police cruisers," he said.

The bus careened onto Forest Hills Avenue, slammed into more vehicles and traffic signals, then drove menacingly at officers who were on foot.

"He had no qualms of injuring others. He was running after police officers," Jordan said.

Police opened fire, wounding the driver, who lost control of the bus, which crunched a parked car and ended up on the lawn of a home, he said.

The man died about 11:20 p.m. at Boston City Hospital, Jordan said.

Three officers were injured during the incident, Jordan said. All were treated for minor injuries and released, he said.

Police were trying to determine where Johnson obtained the bus and what sparked his wild ride. Several media reports said the man was a former Greyhound bus driver and that he had stolen a bus on a previous occasion, but police spokeswoman Jill Reilly called the reports "speculation."

Ugent stressed that giving blood has to become a personal habit, not a once-in-a-while activity.

"We need all types of blood because the shelves are not stocked. On days like these, you hope and pray for no major emergencies in the area," Ugent said.

Anyone 17 and older who weighs 110 pounds or more is urged to donate.

On Friday the drive is from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Carbondale City Council chambers, 607 E. College.

MBA program lacks minority population

Seminar to discuss problem, alleviate grad student fears

By Theresa Livingston
Staff Writer

The University's large minority population is not accurately represented in the Master of Business Administration program, according to John H. Summey, director of the University's MBA program.

A seminar to address this problem will be held at 8 a.m. Saturday in the fourth floor video lounge of the Student Center.

"The Destination MBA program was designed a couple of years ago in response to the decline in the number of applications (for graduate schools) received from blacks, Hispanics and native Americans," Summey said.

Designed to resolve the problems and alleviate some of the fears minority students face when considering graduate school, the program encourages minority students to consider graduate programs in business and accountancy.

Items covered in the seminar will include the importance of graduate education in career development, preparation basics, admission requirements and financial aid options.

Sponsored by, among others, the Graduate Management Admission Council and the National Black MBA Association, the Destination MBA program is held throughout the year in several cities across the country.

The program has been specifically designed with college junior and seniors in mind because this is the time in their academic careers that they should prepare for graduate school.

"There will be two panels in the morning and in the afternoon, there will be a special seminar on how to study for the Graduate Management Admissions Test," Summey said.

The GMAT is an analytical exam that measures the verbal and mathematical abilities developed during the course of an academic career.

Offered four times a year, the GMAT is among the criteria for admittance to graduate school. It is considered along with an individual's undergraduate record and past academic performance, military or work experience, application essays or recommendations and other factors.

Free GED classes offered

John A. Logan College will offer free classes on campus and in various communities to students who are preparing for the General Educational Development (GED) Test.

The classes, which are for students who have dropped out of school, will meet three evenings a week. For more information, contact June Hickey at 549-7335.

ABC defends airing of tape

ABC News used taped portions of North in report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — ABC News defended using taped portions of Oliver North's congressional testimony Wednesday in its report on the start of North's Iran-Contra trial, criticizing the judge's consideration of a contempt action against the network.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell said he was considering a contempt act on against ABC News for its Tuesday broadcast, which included a portion of North's 1987 detailed testimony to Congress about his involvement in the Iran-Contra affair. ABC legal affairs reporter Tim O'Brien said in the report that anyone watching his piece would be excused as a juror.

Because North had received immunity from prosecution in exchange for his testimony before Congress, none of the information from those sessions can be used in his trial.

George Watson, ABC's Washington bureau chief, defended the report, saying the jury selection story was reported in a similar fashion by the other networks.

"I don't see how we can report on issues before the court without going back to the public record of what Colonel North has said on the subject himself. If that causes a problem for jurors, that must be addressed by Judge Gesell himself," Watson said. Gesell, in fact, told the potential jurors to ignore accounts of the trial so that they could remain impartial.

"We are very mindful of the rights of Colonel North or any defendant to a fair trial, but we have a responsibility ... to report what's happening. This is an occasion in which the rights of a free press and a fair trial are in tension, but I don't think reporting on North's testimony to Congress falls within that category," he said.

NBC's Tuesday broadcast also included a clip from North's congressional testimony, NBC spokesman Paul Reader said.

"We did, in fact, use a clip from congressional testimony just to prove what can be admissible as far as a broadcast is concerned ... as far as the difference between congressional testimony and other types of court cases," he said, adding portions of North's testimony may be used in future broadcasts "as stories warrant."

The Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press contended the ABC report is protected by the First Amendment.

"There is no basis in law for holding ABC in contempt," said Jane Kirtley, executive director of the group.

Elephant with bad reputation breaks keeper's collarbone

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (UPI) — A keeper at the San Diego Wild Animal Park was in fair condition Wednesday after being attacked by an elephant with a bad reputation.

David SaoMarcos, 21, suffered a broken collarbone and numerous scrapes and bruises Tuesday when he was kicked, beaten and knocked into a moat by Cindy, an 8,000-pound Asian elephant once branded as dangerous.

"There is no explanation as to what caused the attack," said Martha Baker, spokeswoman for the park. "He wasn't even near her."

Baker said SaoMarcos, hospitalized at Palomar Medical Center, was pushing a wheelbarrow filled with manure through the elephant enclosure when Cindy suddenly charged.

Loans not always safe route for financial aid

By Daniel Wattenberg
Staff Writer

Reducing the number of loans students receive and increasing the number of grants available to all students are common concerns of U.S. Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos and Pamela Britton, financial aid director at SIU-C.

"I am very concerned with the amount of money students borrow during their time in school and with their ability to repay loans when they're out in the workforce," Britton said.

The American Council on Education and UCLA's Higher Education Research Institute surveyed college freshmen and found that 15.6 percent received Pell Grants, the lowest amount in the history of the survey. Pell Grants are the federal government's major financial aid program for low and middle income students.

The number of students receiving Pell Grants between 1980 and 1988 was cut in half from 31.5 percent, the survey said.

The use of Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants also fell to 3.7 percent, from 8 percent in 1980 and 5.8 percent in 1987, the survey found.

The survey said that freshman participation in the College Work-Study program also dropped by more than half since 1980, from 14.5 percent to 6.6 percent in 1988.

Former Education Secretary William Bennett reduced the number of grant programs available to students. The decrease caused more students to turn to loans to cover tuition bills.

Cavazos wants to reverse his predecessor's programs and issue more grants. However, he does not want to make grants, like the Pell Grant, entitlement programs. An entitlement program is one that provides money to all those eligible — even if requests exceed the amount of money appropriated for the program.

Britton said she supports programs which reduce the amount of money students must borrow.

"I'm not worried about government expenditures but the amount of money students have to repay," Britton said. "Potentially, students could leave here $13,000 in debt. Anything that could change loans to grants is an advantage to students."

Britton said 5,899 undergraduate students at the University received Pell Grants, totaling $8,342,967, from fall 1987 to summer 1988. About 19,400 undergraduates attended the University during that time, she said.

Figures for 1988-89 school year were not available.

About 704 students receive the Supplemental Education Opportunity Grant, totaling $439,736. Unlike a loan, a grant does not have to be repaid.

The state's equivalent of the federally funded Pell Grant, the Illinois State Scholarship Commission's Monetary Award Program, is given to 5,672 students, totaling $6,589,601.

The Stafford Loan (formally called Guaranteed Student Loan) is given to 5,370 students totaling $12,725,489.

Cavazos said he would also like to see an increased participation in work-study programs.

There are 1,811 students in the work-study program at SIU-C with total earnings of $1,723,321. The University's work-study program is one of the largest in the country, Britton said.

Britton said 11,565 undergraduates receive some sort of grant, 5,970 receive loans and 5,801 are employed by the University.

Bruce Koehler, vice president in charge of marketing and member services for the SIU Credit Union, said taxpayers are in a losing position.

"It would seem to me that grants would be an additional burden to the taxpayers as opposed to loans where the student pays back loans little by little," Koehler said.

To alleviate the problem of high default rates with student loans, Koehler suggests moving toward a tougher screening process for students seeking loans.

Britton said, "Although there is no monetary repayment with grants, society is repaid with an educated workforce."

Local supermarket receives time extension for building

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

A one-year time extension for beginning construction on a building expansion by National Food's Supermarket was tentatively agreed to by the City Council.

The Council agreed in its meeting Tuesday night to make a formal decision on the time extension Feb. 14.

Store manager Mike Morrison said the company has given him no indication when the construction should begin.

"They keep me in the dark as much as everyone else," Morrison said.

Morrison said the store expansion will double the size of the store from 25,000-to-50,000-square feet and increase the number of employees from 100 to 200.

The Council agreed to limit the time extension to one year to correlate with the zoning board of appeal's Jan. 12 grant for a zoning variance, allowing National a 12-foot setback along the south property line instead of the planned business district's required 20-foot setback.

The present zoning expansion was to expire this month.

In other business, the Council tentatively approved a 5-percent increase in the amount of budgeted city money for four community-base organizations.

Attucks Community Service Board requested $27,523 for fiscal year 1990, the Council on Problems of the Aged requested $22,985, Jackson County Community Mental Health's Youth Services Program requested $3,048, and the Women's Center requested $8,137.

The City also tentatively approved a capital improvement budget for more than $3.6 million for fiscal year 1990.

The project calls for improvements for the southeast wastewater treatment plant, building an overpass or underpass for East Walnut and East Main streets, sewer extensions and a water extension system for South Wall Street from East Main Street to East Grand Avenue.

Bundy's last words to be sold on video

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Executed serial killer Ted Bundy's final interview with Christian anti-pornography crusader Dr. James Dobson will soon be offered to the general public in exchange for a donation of under $30.

The Tampa Tribune reported Wednesday that the marketing plan is being prepared by Focus on the Family, Dobson's ministry in California. The 29-minute videotaped interview shows Bundy blaming pornography for helping to turn him into a serial killer.

"We'll probably put the videotape in the hands of people with anti-pornography groups," Paul Hetrick, a vice president of Dobson's organization, said. "We'll meet whatever demand is there."

Internal Revenue Service regulations prevent direct sale of the videotape by the ministry.

"If someone asked for it, but couldn't pay, we'd probably send it if we were sure it wasn't going to be misused," Hetrick said. "We're not going to send it out all over the place for free. We couldn't afford to do that."

The 29-minute videotaped interview shows Bundy blaming pornography for helping to turn him into a serial killer.

The tape the group plans to offer would include opening and closing remarks by Dobson, Hetrick said.

In his final interview hours before his execution Jan. 24, Bundy told Dobson, exposure as a child to pornography fueled his sexual urges to the point he sought satisfaction through kidnapping, rape, mutilation and murder of up to 24 young women.

Experts familiar with pornography and Bundy's case have been openly skeptical of Bundy's claims in the interview, saying he was trying to pass blame for his behavior.

Admiral's polar feat disputed

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI)—A lost document that supposedly proved Arctic explorer Adm. Richard Peary failed to reach the North Pole was written in 1908 — more than three years before Peary's expedition, navigation experts said Wednesday.

Last fall, historian Dennis Rawlins, of Baltimore, said his analysis of a navigational worksheet conclusively showed the "discoverer of the North Pole" actually missed his mark by more than 100 miles — and knew it and covered it up.

Tower assures senators of fortitude at hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary-nominee John Tower assured senators at the conclusion of his confirmation hearings Wednesday that he has no alcohol problem and has "zero tolerance" toward sexual harassment of women.

It was Tower's first public response to critics who alleged during committee hearings Tuesday that the twice-divorced former Texas senator was a heavy drinker and a womanizer.

Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said panel members "expect and hope" to vote Thursday to recommend full Senate confirmation of Tower's nomination to the Cabinet, although Nunn added he had not made up his own mind.

Nunn said the Senate probably would not vote on President Bush's choice to head the Pentagon until next week.

In a fourth day of public and private confirmation hearings by the committee, Nunn told Tower: "You have assured us privately and I hope you'll also give us in public your own views toward alcohol and whether you, yourself, have any alcohol problem."

"I have none," replied Tower, 63. "I am a man of some discipline."

Earlier Tower told senators, "It is essential that the secretary of defense be at all times capable of exercising the duties and responsibilities of the office. And therefore I think there should be zero toleration of anyone... who has an alcohol problem."

Nunn also asked Tower his attitude toward "treatment of women in the military and... particular, whether you would tolerate sexual harassment."

"I will answer again with the term 'zero tolerance' toward discrimination against women, for sexual harassment of women. I believe that professional women should be afforded respect," Tower said.

Quayle criticizes debt plan in Caracas

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Vice President Dan Quayle, on his maiden mission as an envoy for President Bush, criticized the incoming president of Venezuela Wednesday for supporting a Third World plan to form a "debtors' cartel."

While Quayle said he carried no specific message on his trip — the first foreign policy mission of the new administration — the vice president promptly assailed the idea embraced by Carlos Andreas Perez, who is to be inaugurated Thursday.

The inaugural festivities in Caracas is the highlight of

Such an alliance by the debt-ridden countries is particularly worrisome to the banks that have made the loans

Quayle's three-day trip, which also is to include a stop in El Salvador.

Perez has supported the concept of debtor nations, which owe billions to banks in the United States and other industrial nations, banding together to seek better terms from their creditors. Such improved terms could range from deferred interest payments to outright forgiveness of debt.

Such an alliance by the debt-ridden countries is particularly worrisome to the banks that have made the loans. There have been threats, both direct and indirect, that if international bankers do not help debtor nations, the countries might default on the loans.

As he arrived in Venezuela, Quayle reiterated that he is more interested in listening to regional leaders than he is in lecturing them, and said his goal is to be "a real cheerleader" for democracy in the region. But he had strong words in opposition to the Perez-backed Third World debt initiative.

"We're absolutely opposed to the idea of a debtors' cartel," Quayle told reporters shortly before a meeting with Perez. "Any forming of a cartel would be counterproductive for a number of reasons."

Sports, rec show to begin Friday at SIU-C Arena

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

Please Be Sure To Check Your Classified Advertisement For Errors On The First Day Of Publication

The Daily Egyptian cannot be responsible for more than one day's incorrect insertion. Advertisers are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser which lessen the value of the advertisement will be adjusted.

All classified advertising must be processed before 12:00 Noon to appear in the next day's publication. Anything processed after 12:00 Noon will go in the following day's publication. Classified advertising must be paid in advance except for those accounts with established credit. A 25% charge will be added to billed classified advertising. A service charge of $7.50 will be added to the advertiser's account for every check returned to the Daily Egyptian unpaid by the advertiser's bank. Early cancellation of a classified advertisement will be charged a $2.00 service fee. Any refund under $2.00 will be forfeited due to the cost of processing.

All advertising submitted to the Daily Egyptian is subject to approval and may be revised, rejected, or cancelled at any time.

The Daily Egyptian assumes no liability if for any reason it becomes necessary to omit an advertisement.

A sample of all mail-order items must be submitted and approved prior to deadline for the publication.

No ads will be mis-classified.

Pressure growing on House to record vote on pay raise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pressure grew on the House Wednesday to take a recorded vote on a controversial 51 percent congressional pay raise and Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., said lawmakers seeking to get the money without a vote were like cockroaches fleeing a "bright light."

Only the Senate has scheduled a vote on the recommendation of a presidential commission that the salaries for members of Congress, the judiciary and senior officials of the executive branch be increased from $89,500 to $135,000.

Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, has refused to allow the House to take up the issue, saying his decision reflected the will of the 435-member House.

But Wright, apparently feeling the political heat reflected in national opinion polls showing overwhelming opposition to the pay raise, was privately polling his colleagues Wednesday on whether they wanted the issue to come up for a roll-call vote.

An aide said the results of the confidential poll — members can return their questionnaires to Wright's office without signing their names — likely will not be released until at least Thursday.

CBS News surveyed 145 members of the House and found that 65 percent would vote against the raise.

name the schools he is in contact with. "As to the exact options I'm going to have, I'm not sure right now. I'm in a decision-making process right now."

Asked if he would accept a position with Smith if offered one, Tompkins was uncommittal.

"I can't answer that right now," he said. "We (Smith and Tompkins) have talked and are still talking. He seems to be a nice guy."

Fred Riley, Rhoades' offensive coordinator, said Smith has told the staff he will notify them once a final decision has been reached.

"He's doing anything he can to wrap it up as quickly as possible," Riley said.

Riley said part of the staff's first meeting with Smith was a discussion of job retention.

"One of the first things he asked us was did we want to stay here," Riley said. "There was a unanimous yes, with several adding they believed we can win here."

"If he asked me to join his staff, I am willing to make that commitment. I don't believe I have that much to say about the decision, though."

A job hunt is also in progress on Riley's part, he said.

"You've got to take care of yourself," Riley said. "If I wasn't (looking for a job) I'd be an idiot. This is the nomadic kind of life we live."

Rod Sherrill, offensive line coach under Rhoades and an eight-year coaching veteran at SIU-C, said he doesn't believe his longevity at the University will have any bearing on whether he is retained.

"That is what a lot of people thought when (Ray) Dorr retained me and when Rhoades retained me," Sherrill said. "You just have to get six good coaches in there you feel comfortable with. If you fit that criteria, you're in. It is a lot easier to work with someone you've already worked with."

Sherrill said he previously knew Smith, and has spoken at some of Smith's clinics, but is also searching for employment.

"He has got some definite people in mind," Sherrill said.

Self-Defense for Women

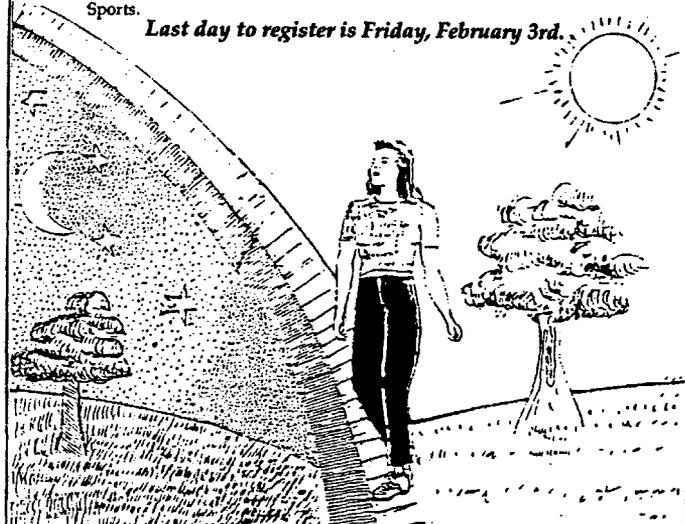

Tuesday, Feb 7, 14, 21, 28, and March 7 from 7:30-9:30pm

Free to all women

Self-defense classes for women will meet for five weeks, two hours each week, in the Student Recreation Center, Room 158. In each session there will be time for reviewing skills, doing warm-ups, learning and practicing the skills for that session, and "talk time" during which participants can discuss their feeling about the training exercises.

Come and learn physical and mental/emotional self-defense skills in a safe and supportive atmosphere. To register, contact Susan Powell at Women's Services, 453-3655. Co-sponsored by Women's Services, the Campus Safety Fee board, and the Office of Intramural-Recreational Sports.

Last day to register is Friday, February 3rd.

will only be a matter of time before he adds career victory No. 700 to his list of accomplishments.

Eventually the talk settles on the weather, since baseball and weather are invariably inseparable. Have the mild January temperatures been a blessing, Itchy

"The weather's been too good," says Itchy with a smile. "It's confusing, because no matter how warm it gets this early we can still only get out on the blacktop. The field's too soggy. We'd be better off if it was this way in mid-February. Someone said that we'll pay for this good weather in February, when we need it. But I can't say that. I say the weather's great, so let's enjoy it while we can."

The balmy conditions, at least for mid-winter, also have Itchy concerned about something else. Typically, his players want to start the first few weeks of practice strong. They are trying hard, Itchy says. "But, in the warm weather they have a tendency to overextend. We have to make sure they understand they don't have to overthrow this early."

Itchy's always on the lookout to prevent injuries, which he's learned can sap the strength and momentum of the best team. In fact, Itchy's already received the first bad injury news of the season. Senior lefthander Tim Holliman, who went 6-2 in his first two seasons, won't be able to recover from the shoulder injury that limited him to only two mound appearances.

But Itchy will cope, even if he has to convert someone like junior outfielder Doug Shields into a pitcher.

Itchy Jones

Itchy is something special. In a sport that by its nature almost demands a laid-back personality and statistical mediocrity, he has bucked the norm on both counts and made himself and his Salukis winners.

John Madden hopes to buy into baseball

By Frank Cooney
San Francisco Examiner

CBS football commentator John Madden called himself for a balk when he announced his desire to get into baseball.

Madden said his tongue should have come to a complete stop before he let fly with a surprise delivery — that he wants to buy a minor-league baseball team. He made the statement on his radio program in San Francisco.

"It just came out," Madden said. "(The announcer) said, 'Well, you don't have anything to do,' and I said, 'Yeah, I do, I'm buying a baseball team.' I don't know why I said it."

Madden is interested in buying the Class-A Visalia team in the California league, but says his talk was premature.

"I'm just looking into it," he said.

On the Salukis' part, Scott would like to see guard Tonda Seals and forward Amy Rakers reassert themselves offensively. Statistically, both are capable of the task.

Seals, a 5-7 senior, has scored in double figures three times this season, including a 25-point performance against Southwest Missouri. Last year at Cedar Falls she led all scorers with 17 points and had two goals in the overtime.

"Tonda's more effective against a zone, but I'm pleased with her defense and rebounding for us. She's really tried hard to shore up that aspect of her play," Scot. said.

Rakers, a 6-2 sophomore, has scored double-figure points and double-figure rebounds on five occasions. But in the last three games, she has scored a total of only 23 points.

"She needs to make a surge," Scott said. "She needs to take her game to another level. I want her to become more of an offensive player. She's had lots of opportunities, kicking it out when she should take it to the hole more. She needs to believe in herself more."

For Rakers, it's a matter of confidence and feeling comfortable on the floor.

"I think I have to play more relaxed and have fun," Rakers said.

Football coach near decision on staff

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

SIU-C's new head football coach Bob Smith said he is tentatively planning a press conference at 2 p.m. Friday to announce his assistant coaching selections.

"We are making progress right now, but there are no final decisions yet," Smith said. "I'm not denying I'm talking to people, but there is nothing official."

Although Smith said he is searching outside the University before considering the Salukis' current staff, Smith added he is just searching for the best people for the job.

"I am trying to put together the best staff I can in terms of coaching ability and in terms of commitment," Smith said. "You tend to grab the ones you've known for a period of time."

Smith was hired Monday to replace Rick Rhoades, who resigned Jan. 23 to accept an assistant coaching job at Alabama. Smith was Southeast Missouri State's head coach from 1984 to 1987 and was offensive line coach at the University of Illinois from 1980 to 1983 and again in 1988.

While Smith deals outside the University, SIU-C's current staff of assistant coaches awaits the outcome, which Smith said has been a smooth process so far.

"They are very professional people," Smith said. "We have had a good relationship. As strained as it can be, there have been good visits and talks."

Smith met with the staff Tuesday and Wednesday with both sessions producing pleasing results, he said.

"They are still committed to recruiting," Smith said. "We met (Wednesday) and most of those men are willing to go on the road and do what is necessary."

Despite the potential of being retained by Smith, most assistants said they are searching for employment at other universities.

"Most of these coaches won't be here," said one of the assistants, who wished to remain anonymous.

Jim Tompkins, defensive coordinator under Rhoades and interim head coach before Smith's hiring, said he is job hunting.

"I'm talking with a couple people right now," said Tompkins, who declined to

Preseason has Jones itching

Like the boyhood habit that earned Itchy Jones his nickname, the anticipation of the preseason has become another itch he can't stop scratching.

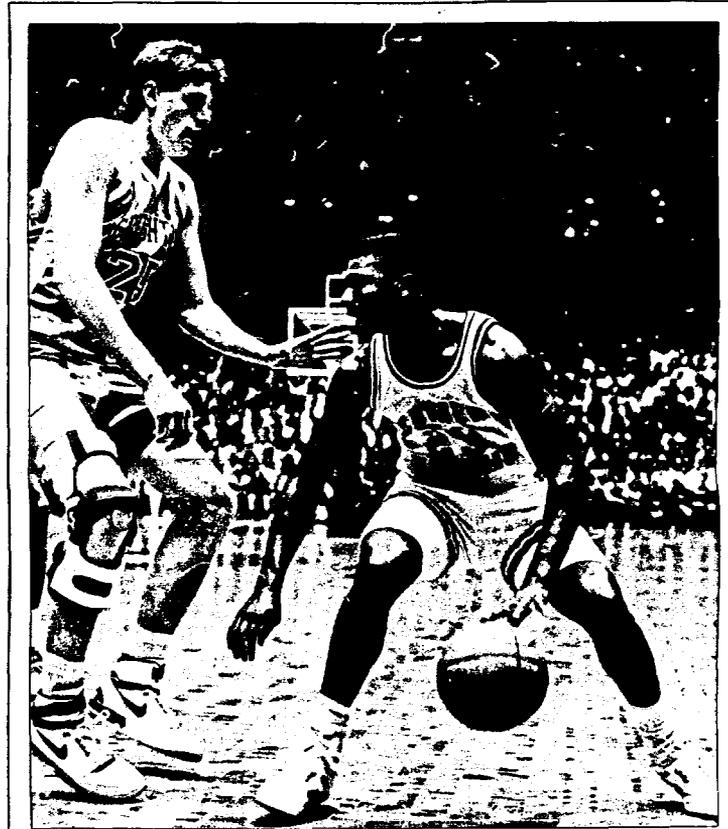

For Itchy Jones, this will be his 20th season as head baseball coach for the Salukis. The intervening years have not tempered the coach's youthful and often nervous approach toward an upcoming season.

Though the Salukis' first game is not until March 13, Itchy is still all anxiety in his office. A thousand things must be done and Itchy wants to do each one at that moment. He is up and about, to and fro, a bundle of energy.

Unless you've been acquainted with Itchy before, you'd swear he was acting like he might prior to his team playing in the College World Series. But Itchy is simply preparing for a preseason practice session.

The abundance of energy Itchy displays has served him well. Last season's team went 40-22 to put his collegiate coaching record, which includes two seasons at MacMurray College, at 686-323. It

Loyola coach sets goal of 200 points

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Loyola Marymount Coach Paul Westhead says the Lions can do better than the 181 points they piled up in the highest-scoring college game ever played.

"I've said before that we could score more, but I'm satisfied with 181," Westhead said after Loyola's 181-150 victory Tuesday night over U.S. International University.

A reporter asked how many points the run-and-gun Lions are capable of: "Easily in excess of 200 — without any bizarre things happening," Westhead said.

The game saw five NCAA records broken — or smashed.

Loyola's 181 points obliterated the record of 164 the Lions had shared with Nevada-Las Vegas. The combined total of 331 was 25 points better than the record 306 scored by the same two teams in a 162-144 Loyola victory Jan. 7. Loyola's 94 first-half points was another record, as was the combined halftime score of 94-76. U.S.I.U. broke its own record of 144 points by a losing team.

The teams took a total of 220 shots from the floor and made 130 as they scored at a rate of 8.3 points a minute. The teams took an average of 5.5 shots per minute, roughly one every 12 seconds.

Both teams shot well from the floor considering the prodigious output.

"We played a very consistent offensive game," said Westhead, the former Los Angeles Lakers coach.

Women's basketball looks to end 2-game skid

To the coaches and players of the women's basketball team, a road game at the University of Northern Iowa has become something to dread.

Not because of the competition — the Salukis are 11-0 against the Panthers since the series began in 1984 — but because of the cold.

The mean February temperature for Cedar Falls, Iowa, is 24 degrees, which makes Carbondale's 35 degrees a tropical paradise by comparison. But more so than low temperatures, it is the biting, penetrating and chilling wind that blows across Iowa's upper prairie which has the

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS AT NORTHERN IOWA
Tipoff: UNI-Dome (8,200), Cedar Falls, Iowa, 7:35 p.m.
Records: Southern Illinois (9-9, 7-2); Northern Iowa (4-12, 1-8).
What to watch: The Salukis, after winning seven straight games, have lost two in a row. Northern Iowa also is looking to break a three-game losing skid. SIU-C is 3-4 on the road while all four of Northern Iowa's wins have come at home.
Last meeting: Southern Illinois 66, Northern Iowa 43, Jan. 9, 1989 at Carbondale.
Series: Southern Illinois leads 11-0.

The cold air often has meant cold shooting on the Salukis' part in the spacious 8,200-seat UNI-Dome. Last year, for example, the Salukis barely squeaked out a 60-58 overtime victory.

"We've never played really well in Cedar Falls," Scott said. "The UNI-Dome is a different type of surrounding, unlike anything in the conference. And for some reason it always feels cold in there."

With a 9-8 record and a tenuous second-place 7-2 Gateway Conference mark, the Salukis can't afford to let Northern Iowa heat up at their expense.

"We'd better be ready to play," Scott said. "We're not a very good team when we're not ready to play."

Northern Iowa is desperate for a good showing during this homestand, which includes a game with Eastern Illinois on Saturday. The Panthers have lost its last three games — all on the road — to put their overall record at 4-12. They are 1-8 and tied with Wichita State for last in the Gateway.

Northern Iowa, led by fifth-year coach Kimberly Mayden, is a senior-dominated team.

Sandy Grabowski, a 6-0 forward from Crown Point, Ind., has set the pace of late, scoring 16 points against Bradley on Thursday and 21 points against Western Illinois on Saturday.

On the season, Grabowski averages 12.5 points and 7.3 rebounds per game. She also shoots 51.2 percent from the field, which is sixth in the conference.

Another player making headway in the Gateway rankings is 5-9 guard Kris Huffman. She leads the conference in free throws, making 30-of-33 for 90.9 percent.

Huffman averages 11.5 points while 6-1 center Cindy Harms leads the Panthers in scoring at 14.3 points per game.
