WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush submitted an expected $1.4 trillion budget to Congress Monday, opening up new battles with Capitol Hill Democrats over spending priorities in health care, the environment, education and space.

Bush's proposed budget, for the 1992 Fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, comes with the U.S. economy mired in a recession and at war for the first time in a generation.

Bush expects this is a budget that is largely tied to going water," House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif., said in an interview Sunday.

"So there isn’t an awful lot of room for doing anything dramatic," Panetta said. "You can shift a few chairs around and that’s probably what you’ll see on the domestic side.”

The budget will not reflect the huge but still uncertain cost of the Persian Gulf war and the Pentagon reportedly will ask to spend about $29 billion in 1992 — nearly $4 billion less than current levels.

Middle East war costs, not covered by more than $30 billion in contributions or pledges from U.S. allies, will be handled in a supplemental spending bill Congress will consider in the future.

Such a bill would increase the nearly $300 billion budget deficit projected for this year. But the administration has not yet said if

Edgar encourages citizens to take part in International fest

By Tiffany Youther Staff Writer

Gov. Jim Edgar proclaimed Feb. 4 to the 10 as International Week throughout Illinois in honor of the 10th anniversary of SIUC’s International Festival.

Edgar said he encourages citizens to take part in the festival’s activities and ceremonies. He commended SIUC’s International Student Council on its cultural, social and educational contributions to the community.

ISC President Nabhan Ghose said International Festival ‘91 running throughout the week, will be the biggest and most elaborate yet.

"The festival is no longer just an event," he said. "It is a movement that has its own history."

The festival will feature exhibitions of arts and crafts, fashion and cultural shows performed by 30 international organizations representing 105 countries. The organization and performance of festival activities is done on a volunteer basis, and most of these volunteers are students, Ghose said.

All events are free of charge except for the international buffet.

Los Angeles (UPI) — A plane disintegrated the tangled wreckage of a USAir jet and a commuter plane Sunday to help investigators search for more bodies of those killed in the fiery runway collision that may have as many as 33 lives.

At least 19 and possibly 20 people aboard the USAir Boeing 737-300 are thought to still be entombed in the charred fuselage. The recovery effort has slowed by concerns over large amounts of jet fuel in the 737's fuselage.

Beneath the USAir jet was the blackened mass that had been a SkyWest Metro liner turbo prop where all 12 passengers and crew were killed.

The National Transportation Safety Board said at a Saturday night news briefing that 20 people from the USAir jet were still missing and presumed dead. USAir spokeswoman Alice Huff said Sunday morning that 19 USAir passengers and crew were missing.

The USAir pilot was confirmed dead.

British volunteer to save birds from spill

Eastern Saud Arabia (UPI) — British experts are coming to Saudia Arabia to seek ways of protecting wildlife threatened by a massive oil spill in the Persian Gulf, a British official said Sunday.

He said the British-based Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is sending volunteers to the region.

"The scheme is master-minded by bird experts of the RSPCA and hopes to save thousands of birds who otherwise would not survive," Royal Air Force Group Capt. Niall Blenzie said Sunday.

He said it was not clear whether the team would be allowed to set up where fighting is continuing between Iraqi forces and troops from the U.S.-led coalition.

"Saudia Arabia will be responsible for them and it is up

Salukis can’t climb over Hilltoppers

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

The first five minutes looked like a drag race where one car had a dead battery. The Saluki women’s basketball came out of the gates extremely slow and had to play catch-up the rest of the way as SIUC lost to the Hilltoppers of Western Kentucky University, 66-58.

As expected, the Tops came out pressing and literally took any scoring chances away from SIUC. The Salukis were held scoreless for the first five minutes, while WKU jumped ahead 14-0. The bulk of the Hilltoppers scoring was coming on fast-break baskets after miscues by the Saluki guards. The Salukis’ 19 first-half turnovers opened the door for WKU to take as much as a 19-point lead at one point.

“I was really upset,” head coach Cindy Scott said. “The first half we played as poorly as we could play. It’s not too smart to give the 11th ranked team in the country a 14-0 lead.”

Scott’s frustration with his squad’s play showed as she was assessed an early technical foul by the referees.

“We knew they would press,” Scott said. “We might have been intimidated by their size, quickness or crowd. But there’s no excuse for that.”

Neither the men in the stripes, nor the Hilltoppers could keep Scott and her team from clawing back to make a game of it. An 8-0 SIUC run late in the first half cut a dent in the Tops large lead, thanks mostly to a pair of three-point plays by seniors Amy Rakers and Alison Smith.

The Salukis made a game of it earlier on as the Salukis outscored WKU 15-6 in the opening minutes. Smith, Rakers and sophomore Kelly Fehli carried the scoring load as the trio combined to notch points, Rakers led all scorers with 19 tallies.

“Kelly played very, very hard,” Scott said. “She did a great job on...”

Women’s track takes first at home meet

By Cyndi Oebler

The SIUC women’s track and field team’s winning streak was not broken as it took first place in its quadrangular meet Saturday at the Recreation Center. SIUC won the meet with 83.3 points, Southwest Missouri came in second with 53 points and Eastern Illinois and Western Illinois came in third and fourth respectively with 20 and 13.5 points.

Women’s track and field coach Don DeNee said it has just like the meet last weekend, he “like he was in a planetarium with shining 5 stars.” Except at this meet he knew where the finish line.

"As long as we have more and more people coming together with great performances like we have been," DeNee said. "I think we should be pretty well off at conference, DeNee said."

The Salukis are preparing for the Gateway Conference Championships which is in three weeks. Assistant coach Kathleen Raske said she thinks the girls will definitely be ready.

"The winning of this meet shows we are just fine tuning for the conference championships," Raske said. "We can do it. It will all come together for conference.

"The Salukis, along with winning the entire meet, had seven first place finishes, the most of any meet all year.

Sophomore Cheryl Evers took first place in the shot put with a throw of 43-1/2 while sophomore Cynthia Grammer took second in the same event with a toss of 39-1/2. Junior Becky Causey won first in the 55-meter hurdles with a time of 8.41 and sophomore Nacoila Moore had first place win in the triple jump with a leap of 37-4/16. Junior Michele Williams took third in the same event with a jump of 35-5/16.

The distance runners also had many first place finishes. Assistant coach Keith Johnson, who works mainly with the runners, said she couldn’t be more proud of them.

"I wasn’t quite sure how they would prepare without a lot of external competition," Alford said. "But they have proved themselves. They look like they are ready for the bigger meet, like Purdue next weekend, and conference in three weeks.

Junior Amy Padgett won first in the 5,000-meter run with a 18:06.84 and 3,000-meter run with a time of 10:11.04. This is her second straight first place in the distance events.

Senior Amy Oehrle won first in the 1,500-meter run with a time of 4:46.29.

"I’m glad Darren is back on track again," Cornell said. "After he jumped 7-4/12 and won, we decided not to have him jump any more. We didn’t want to jump him out.

"Nick had a great run, but I believe he has still got more in him. I think if we get him in the right race he will definitely qualify.

Other Salukis winners were senior Garrett Hines who took second in the 1,500-meter dash with a time of 4:19.97 and "I’m looking forward to the 3,200-mile race, "Cornell said. "He has run good recently and we are looking to move him up another event.

Lakers lose Magic in win

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UP) — Magic Johnson had been knocked out with a concussion Sunday, but the Los Angeles Lakers showed they had the defense and bench strength to survive the loss of their All-Star guard.

With Johnson in an ambulance on the way to the hospital, the Lakers turned to rookie playmaker Tony Smith and a suffocating defense to hold off the Portland Trail Blazers, 100-87, and give the Lakers their first victory of the season.

The Lakers, who have been missing Johnson for three games, got a boost defensively from Smith, who started in place of Johnson.

"We maybe not be able to put it all together," head coach Pat Riley said. "The game goes down in the column, but it was not picture perfect by any means. The Lakers turned the ball over 15 times, but managed to survive the wholesale turnovers."121102

"Our style of play is always going to turn the ball over," Riley said. "The Lakers showed the ability to survive the turnovers."34458

Riley said the Lakers defense was key in their victory.

"Our defense was the difference," Riley said. "We were able to hold the Trail Blazers to 100 points, which is a testament to our defense."121102

The Lakers improve to 1-0 and hold the lead in the Western Conference with a 1-0 record.

"We have to continue to play well defensively," Riley said. "We have to continue to play well defensively."121102

Men’s track moves toward conference win

SIUC men’s track and field team fared well overall at the Indiana Invitational this weekend. The Salukis put their team together and progressed toward winning the Missouri Valley Conference Championships.

Men’s track and field coach Bill Correll said his team is looking to improve at every meet.

"We are rounding into shape and progressing," Correll said. "And that is what we are looking for. Hopfully we will reach a peak by the conference championship which is in three weeks, but until then, we still have some work to do.

Some leading Salukis were sophomore Darrin Pab who won first in the high jump with a leap of 7-4/12 and junior Nick Schwartz who, with a mile run time of 4:05.54, was only 02 away from provisionally qualifying for the NCAA championships.

"I’m glad Darren is back on track again," Cornell said. "After he jumped 7-4/12 and won, we decided not to have him jump any more. We didn’t want to jump him out.

Catholic chaplains in gulf spread thin among soldiers

WITH U.S. FORCES IN SAUDI ARABIA (UPI) — The shortage of Catholic chaplains in the Persian Gulf region is so great that men dying in battle may wind up having only the brothel lady and their Catholic neighbors apply. Catholic priests in the gulf ranks are spread so thin that even with one-third of America’s military chaplains in the gulf — where an Army division, comprising at least 3,000 troops, is authorized 70-73 chaplains — “you’d be lucky if you have two Catholic chaplains for an entire division,” on average at least 4,000 soldiers, and one chaplain. Care of the ground war opens, most chaplains will serve at the battalion level, in hospitals or aid stations.

Italy’s Communist Party votes to drop name

RIMINI, Italy (UPI) — Western Europe’s largest Communist Party voted itself out of existence Sunday, changing its name to the Democratic Party of the Left and replacing its former-old sickle symbol with that of an oak tree. The 20th and last Congress of the Italian Communist Party voted 877-75, with 49 abstentions, to adopt the new name and turn its offices over to the center-left. The party, which was formed in 1919 in opposition to World War I, has been considered a federalist and social democracy.

Legal notes to help scholars study Lincoln

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Scholars of Abraham Lincoln now have a hand-written transcript that can help them study one of the former president’s greatest legal victories. Last week, an Alabama woman donated a 100-page transcript that contains testimony from the 1859 trial of 21-year-old Pecky Quinn Harrison. Only a year before he was elected president, Lincoln successfully defended Harrison and kept him from being sentenced to death or prison.

Four fair finalists from SIUC fare well in contest, freshen finishes first

By Julie Author
Staff Writer

Of 66 contestants in the Miss Illinois County Fair pageant, four of the Top 10 finalists are SIUC students. One brought home the crown.

Kristen Jahraus, an 18-year-old freshman majoring in philosophy from Fayette County, was crowned Miss Illinois County Fair in Springfield. She was awarded a $1,000 scholarship and a $250 in-kind donation.

Not only is Jahraus the first girl from Fayette County to make the Top 10, but also in the pageant’s history, she is the first girl from Anna, said her goal was to make the Top 10.

"I went there to do my best," Bruchuscher said. "I was relieved when I made the Top 10. When they announced my name I thought, 'I did it, I did the best I could.'"

Jahraus stated all her hope to do was represent Fayette County the best she could.

"I knew there were people there to stress on the pageant and make it go over the Illinois State Fair and the Du Quoin State Fair," she said.

To her knowledge, Schilpp has lived longer than any other member of his family.

"But it is not how long you live," he said. "It is what you do.

"I have a brain, I think for myself, regardless of what the media says." "I am not the president, I am a student," she said. Jahraus said, "I went home the weekend after I won," and put off the stress of going for a reception for me in my hometown, I just now starting to get back into school.

"I have been known for the "Library of Living Philosophers" series, a collection of 19 volumes exploring the work of great philosophers as John Dewey, Jean-Paul Sartre and Albert Einstein."

"I am not a governor, I am just an ordinary school teacher," Schilpp said.

Support of soldiers obvious by actions

TELEVISION has allowed Americans to keep closely informed on the three-week-old Gulf war. Television has also made the minority of people who protest military involvement in the gulf seem like a public opinion majority. Only 20 percent of the public opposes the war. And even that small percent have consistently declined its support for the troops. But the message being sent to soldiers is mixed when news reports show protesters marching almost daily.

THE TRUTH is that Americans are taking great strides in making sure the troops, and people at home as well, are supported. After being suffocated with packages marked for Saudi Arabia, post office officials began encouraging people to limit their overseas support to letters. Support groups have formed across the nation as families and friends of those in the gulf lean on each other to deal with the fears that accompany war.

YELLOW APPEARS to be the new national color for display by the Red Cross, who are placed around car antennas, trees, and on people's shirt collars are quickly becoming common sights. American flag retailers are reporting skyrocketing sales. Local people have given their blood at emergency drives held by the Red Cross in response to a government request to ensure supplies are well-stocked.

Sunday was declared a national prayer day by President Bush, who said the United States must remember to pray every day to ensure supplies are well-stocked.

With all the turmoil over the justice/injustice of U.S. involvement in the Gulf war, which is more complex and far more insidious question remains unanswered: What is a "New World Order?"

Bush has made repeated allusions to it. Is it an international Camelot or a Fourth Reich? From the president's actions, it is obvious that whatever else the New World Order is, it is a militant state willing to use violence to achieve its aims. Bush promises an era of global peace and order will result from the realization of his vision.

But will this peace be like the Pax Romana—a reality only because everyone else is afraid of the powerful, vengeful United States empire?

In an editorial published earlier this month, a certain Sgt. Rock was keen to compare this war and its background to World War II and its aftermath.

I did not agree with his argument, but he was correct to compare the two. They are similar. The Super Bowl half-time show was so reminiscent of the 1936 Munich Nazi propaganda rallies that it was frightening.

But will this peace be like the Pax Romana—a reality only because everyone else is afraid of the powerful, vengeful United States empire?

Peace uncovers 'cloak of war'

"He who joyfully marches to music in rank and file has already earned my contempt. He has been given a large brain by mistake, since for him the spinal cord would fully suffice. This direction to civilization should be done away with at once."

Sunday was declared a national prayer day by President Bush, who said the United States must remember to pray for peace and the safe return of the troops.

YES, THERE ARE Americans who oppose the war in the gulf. And yes, there are protesters marching almost every day.

But the national outpouring of emotional, material and spiritual support leaves no room to question America's support of the soldiers in the Persian Gulf.

Quotable Quotes

"The pursuit of who we are should be an ongoing event." —Yolanda King, daughter of the late Martin Luther King Jr., told an audience at Shroyker auditorium.

"We actually have women in the military...and for the first time, Americans can see that they can be killed." —said a spokeswoman of the National League of POW/MIA Families in reference to the first American woman being taken as a POW.

"I have learned, as all presidents have, that you cannot be president of our country without faith in God." —President Bush said in reference to declaring Sunday as a national prayer day.

To the alumni from DeSoto who so graciously expressed his free opinion, I would like to express my opinion in response.

I am a pro-choice advocate. I believe that the decision for abortion should be left up to the woman herself. No government stipulations or laws should interfere.

As for George Bush's supporting the protesters: There are more urgent things to tend to, i.e the war.

As for the 2 million couples who want to adopt: What about all the children in orphanages who aren't babies, say ages 7 to 18, who need homes and have needed them for years? Don't you think they would like to be adopted into a loving home?

If abortion is made illegal, in my opinion, women will have abortions regardless, and I can foresee the death rate of women escalating from unsafe back alley abortions. We want the right to choose a safe option.

Look how many unwanted pregnancies occur today. These are the children that end up not cared for, on the street, in trouble and into drugs.

Our government will not budget more money to alleviate these problems, but certain groups would like to see the taxpayers pay for this problem. Surprise, surprise.

Mr. Alumnus, your opinion is yours and mine is mine. Don't push your beliefs on others. That's why we live in America. It is our right to make decisions that best suit our own needs.

As a person, you are the only one who has to live with the consequences of any decision you may make. You have to answer to no one but yourself. It is a question of conscience, not murder or what is moral, and I choose to be free to decide that for myself.

It is the woman's choice and decision: no one else should be involved. —Daphne Pettett, Murphysboro.

20th century work on modern contemporary painters, Schilpp said during his 60-year teaching career, which he spent at four universities, he maintained one teaching philosophy.

He said many times he has been asked the question: “What do you teach?” Schilpp said he has a standard reply.

“I teach students,” he said, granting his students a sound in a loud voice. “I do not teach subject matter. For 60 years I have lived by this teaching method and am now interested in other things, not books, not even my own.”

“My teaching is that I teach human beings. Human beings, that is what I have always been interested in.”

Because Schilpp has lived through all wars in the 20th century, students often ask for his opinion on the war in the Persian Gulf.

“They’ve lived through World War I, World War II, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, and now still another,” he said. “That proves to me that my teaching on love and peace has still not taken, although the youth are more opposed than any other generation. For that, I congratulate you.”

Touch of Nature trips provide camping, climbing, rappelling

By Brandi Tips
Staff Writer

SIUC students have a chance to " Touch of Nature." Southern Outdoor Adventure Recreation trips give people the opportunity to conquer nature through camping, rock climbing and rappelling.

The programs are primarily recreational in focus but also are educational, said Jim Bradford, assistant program coordinator for SOAR.

For example, the rock climbing and rappelling activities are recreational, but the instructors make it educational as well, "he said.

People signed up for the courses will learn what equipment to use and procedures to follow, Bradford said.

Rappelling is a method for a climber to descend the sheer face of a cliff. The climber uses a double rope—held fast to trees at the top of the cliff and tied to the climber's body—so he can control the slide to the bottom.

Touch of Nature has planned seven rock climbing/rappelling trips this year, Bradford said.

Two day trips will be to Giant City State Park and Cedar Bluff, said. Will Marble, outdoor program leader at Touch of Nature.

Usually the group goes to Giant City the first day and Cedar Bluff the second, Marble said.

Marble said people who sign up for the trip usually climb the man-made rock at Touch of Nature before going out on a real cliff.

Then they can get the feel of what it's like to be on the rocks, he said.

The first day of the trip is devoted to instructions on signaling, such as when to throw the rope to the top or bottom of the cliff and how to communicate with the person at the bottom of the rocks, Marble said.

Marble said the group finishes the first day with some climbing and rappelling after discussing the signals and introducing the equipment and rock climbing and rappelling procedures.

The group progresses to more difficult climbs the second day, Marble said.

"Our goal is to expose them to the experience," he said.

The first trip is planned for April 20 and 21. The cost is $105 which includes equipment, instruction and transportation to and from Touch of Nature. Accommodations are not included.

Marble said people interested in a place to stay at Touch of Nature can choose, from about 20 hotel type rooms at the new lodge or rustic cabins located on the property.

Bradford said the enrollment for the trip is limited to 10 people.

Other trips are scheduled in May, June, July, September, October and November.

Brother, sister duo beat odds

By Tracy Sargeant
Entertainment Editor

A new local band’s chances of breaking into the Top 40 are about as good as students receiving loan checks on time.

But it can happen, and for Carbondale duo Sibling Rivalry, breaking into Top 40 isn’t only a radio station away.

It has taken months of knocking on doors and distributing sample tapes to record stations, but the brother and sister duo seem to be gaining ground.

Tracey and Jason Moore, who “work from their home studio in Carbondale—Dog & Plans Studios—recently decided to record and distribute their songs in hopes of making it big.

“We have been thrilled with the response we are getting,” Tracey Moore said. “Everyone told us that we would never make it, but the doors are opening and we are making contacts.”

She said the hardest part about being independent is that she and her brother must do the work of many people.

“There is a record company, they can make the doors open faster. We have to convince record companies that we will work for the record company,” she said.

Tracey Moore graduated from Indiana University with a bachelor’s degree in vocal performance and Jason Moore graduated from the University of Miami with a bachelor’s degree in music engineering.

Tracey Moore said they decided to move back to Carbondale because it was centrally located between Indiana and Miami. While the two were in college, they had to make long trips to work on recording music together.

After getting their home studio in order, they wrote and arranged several songs together but after reviewing the lyrics, Jason Moore said he thought there was still something missing.

The Moors wanted someone who could rap. So Sibling Rivalry sent out the word that they were looking for someone to help record their songs.

Tracey Moore said they searched but didn’t find anyone they liked until the WIBB “Rap-off” contest when they met Dewinski Patrick. Patrick, who had won the previous year’s contest with a song called “One of a Kind,” said he almost didn’t make it to this year’s contest.

“My roommate and I were in St. Louis and didn’t know we would make it back in time,” Patrick said. “When we got there, we didn’t have any money to get in and some girl loaned us the $1 we needed.”

Patrick caught the Moors’ eyes after winning the contest for the second year in a row. He didn’t even have a song prepared.

Patrick, a veteran in Industrial Technology, and he first became interested in music when he was young.

“My uncle would take me to blues nightclubs in Chicago,” Patrick said. “I really loved the music.”

He said he now takes his lyrics from everyday situations.

“I also listen for interesting words and then stalk of rhymes for them,” Patrick said.

Although Tracey and Jason Moore have been playing and writing music since they were 15 and 10-years-old respectively, 2 “Racer at the Same Time” is their first single to be released. The single features Patrick.

Sibling Rivalry’s Tracey and Jason Moore of Carbondale are two siblings who are rivaling established pop artists with their new sound available at most local music stores.

Sibling Rivalry packs singles with jazzy rap, slow ballads

By Tracy Sargeant
Entertainment Editor

The group Sibling Rivalry didn’t get where it is today without a few arguments. But the brother and sister duo Tracey and Jason Moore have produced music that packs quite a punch.

Their latest release, “2 Places at the Same Time,” also features the work of SIUC rapper Dewinski Patrick.

The cassingingle contains the songs “2 Places at the Same Time,” a jazz-rap song with a funky beat, and “Give Me the Words,” a slow melodic ballad on the flip side.

Patrick and Tracey Moore play off each other’s voices in “2 Places” and the result is exciting.

The ballad “Give Me the Words” really shows off Tracey Moore’s voice range. She has a hauntingly melodic voice with gruff jazzy overtones. This makes for an excellent combination with Patrick’s, also known as M.C. Whiskey, smoother than smooth jazzy rap.

All instruments are played by Jason Moore, and the tracks are digitally mixed in sound so if a live band is accompanying Tracey Moore. Sibling Rivalry’s overall sound is hard to compare to any band, but it sounds almost like a cross between Taylor Dane and Kim Carnes.

The lyrics of “2 Places” tell the story of a man who is seeing two women at the same time. Although not highly original, the way the lyrics are sung really make the song what it is — hip, hop and happening.

Turnout still low for RSO council

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

Representatives from 14 registered student organizations heard reports on the proper way to request funding, a state income tax surcharge renewal and the Persian Gulf War at a Presidents council meeting Friday.

But representatives from more than 250 RSOs did not attend the meeting.

Richard Fasano, chairman of Presidents Council, said the council is open to the presidents or designees of every active RSO to inform them about important issues and to let them voice their concerns.

Fasano said he left notes in the mailboxes of all RSOs with mailboxes and put a brief in the Friday edition of the Daily Egyptian with information about the meeting.

The University Directory lists 250 RSOs at SIUC.

He said he wasn't surprised by the turnout because the meeting took place early in the semester and because only about 20 people usually attend Presidents Council meetings.

Mark Duiker, representative from the Agriculture Business Club, said he wished more RSOs had attended.

"It's hard to accomplish much with the low turnout (at these meetings)," Duiker said.

Marcia Dossie, representative from the Black Togetherness Organization, said she expects turnout at the meetings to improve after more students get settled into their schedules.

At the meeting, Jack Sullivan, chairman of the Undergraduate Student Government Finance Committee, said fee allocation request forms still are available through Feb. 8. Forms must be completed and returned to the USG by Feb. 18.

The finance committee will sell the RSOs how much money they will receive, and then the organizations will itemize their own list, Sullivan said.

Fasano urged RSO members to support renewal of the state income tax surcharge, saying that if funds to the University are cut, extracurricular activities will be cut.

The temporary tax surcharge, which provides money to public universities, school districts and local governments, is due to expire this year. SIU received $7.8 million from the surcharge in fiscal year 1991.

The war is another issue facing RSOs, and Fasano said if a draft is enacted many students may be sent overseas.

Fasano passed out information for writing legislators and said now is the time to express views.

One more day in SIUC light for former Saluki Itchy Jones

by Paul Pabst

February 4, 1991

When it came time for former Saluki basketball coach Richard "Itchy" Jones to speak to the paper last night, he spoke few words about himself.

More than 200 of Jones' friends, former players and many family members showed up to make one of the more colorful men in the history of SIUC sports. The dinner was a chance for his old 4's to give him one last pat on the back and for Jones to thank his supporters.

Toward the end of the evening, Jones got the chance to speak about the forum which had been telling old jokes and stories for most of the evening. He thanked his friends, his many friends from his hometown of Herrin and all of his former players that were in attendance.

"There's any money in the bank of Herrin, hit it tonight. Everybody's here," Jones said.

It was a very light-hearted occasion from the outset as Master of Ceremonies Mark Newman kept the crowd laughing from open to close. But it was some of Jones' former players and friends that were doing most of the telling.

The subject of Jones' departure to University of Illinois was raised often during the evening. Sportswriter Rick Taylor, as a letter read by Newman, said, "How can 'Itchy' live in Champaign? One, he can't spell it and two, he's never drunk it."

Jones said his change of venue didn't have to do with him opening his locker and saw that big, orange "I" in front of him. He said the crowd was the master here, which is Southern Illinois home.

"You will always be in my heart," Jones said.

From the tales of Jones as a 10-year-old bathtub for the Herrin Stags, courtesy of his former high school coach Lee Cabutti to the true explanation of where the name "Itchy" came from, the stories just kept coming.

By the way, "Itchy" became "Itchy" when he was in the third grade. He was wearing a cast for his broken leg and to scratch it he would use the metal end of a fly swatter. His brother started calling him "Itchy," obviously it stuck.

The recurring stories from former Saluki players Jim Adduci and 4-Champion showed the crowd "Itchy" in prime form.

"I thought I was a hot-shot recruit when I came down here," Adduci said, "But the whole time I was down here he kept calling me Tom. "Itchy" molded me into the borderline player I am." Champion summed up Jones' coaching style as a one of things. "Recreats would come in and say, 'I'm from Chicago,'"

Champion said, "Itch" would say, "Yeah, I've heard of it."

The evening did have its serious spots, especially when Athletics Director Jim Hart officially announced the retirement of Jones' jersey. He was then presented an encased No. 1 SIUC jersey.

In addition to the jokes, the praiseworthy comments were very much in abundance. "He taught me about life," Adduci said. "My wife and child lived in the apartment above 'Itch's' house. He showed what faith is about and to put your priorities in place."

Former Saluki Steve Weber did his best to sum up his feelings about Jones in one comment.

"If the good lord put anybody on this earth that's perfect," Weber said, "it's 'Itchy'."

The man who spent 21 years as the Saluki coach, never wearing anything else than an SIU or USA cap, "He little guy was quick with a grin and a joke and made the SIUC basketball program one of the strongest in the nation."

He put 26 former players into coaching jobs in either college or the Pro and introduced 12 major leaguers. In summing up his career, Itchy told the crowd what he felt his purpose as a coach was at SIUC.

"If me it's not if you win or lose, it's the caliber of men you put out."

USC players cheated on drug tests

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Football players at the University of Southern California regularly cheated on drug tests, with many players buying, “cleaning” urine, the Los Angeles Times reported Sunday. USC, which was among the first schools to begin drug testing athletes has come under scrutiny following the Jan. 20 arrest of star quarterback 1,3d Marinovich for cocaine possession.

Initially, after USC began testing in 1985, about 10 percent of athletes failed USC says only 2 percent now fail. USC Athletic Director Mike McGee told the Times “that he knew more than a year ago that athletes may have been cheating on drug tests, but was unable to stop the practice. The university has established a task force to examine the problem.”

“We heard in the fall of ’89 that one of our athletes may have cheated on a test—not how it was done,” McGee said. “At this point, we put into motion what we thought were some extra precautions that involved, in addition to a technician, a university administrator to be an observer.”

But the Times said the word among USC football players is the test can be beaten and that someone is always willing to teach how it is done.

“Players get around drug-testing all the time,” said one former lineman who has been one of the USC program for two years. “(At USC) they were pretty flexible.”

sophomore Leean Conway took first in the mile run with a 5:05.36. Teammate sophomore Dawn Barefoot came in second in the same event (5:10.65) and also took first in the 3,000-meter run, with a time of 10:39.34. Sophomore Brandi Mock had a first place finish in the 400-meter dash with a 57.57 and sophomore Laura Batsi (2:23.65) and freshman Jennifer Kostechny (2:34.60) placed second and third in the 800-meter run respectively.

Other Saluki finishers included a second place in the long jump for Williams (18-1/4) and a third place for Moore in the same event (17-6/4). Freshman Crystalia Constantino took second in the 5,000-meter dash with a 17:35 and sophomore Shauna Wisefield came in second in the 600-meter run (1:39.66).

Junior Theresa Lyles had a second place win in the 200-meter dash (26.1) and senior Beverly Kent took second in the high jump with a leap of 5-4.

The SIUC 4X400 relay team of Lyles, Constantino, Moore and freshman Danielle Melton came in second (1:56.02) and the 4X400 relay team of Mock, Winfield, Melton, and Lyles also took second with a 4:00.48.

“I thought the meet went well,” DeNeon said. “The competition was a little bit stiffer than I thought it would be, but our girls just came through and won.”

The Salukis ace the Big 10 schools of Purdue and Illinois at the 1989 Purdue Quadragan meet next weekend.

Sabatini beats Navratilova in championship 2-6, 6-2, 6-4

TOY (UPI) — Gabriela Sabatini, displayed a form that won her the 1990 U.S. Open, came from behind to beat Martina Navratilova 2-6, 6-2, 6-4 Sunday to capture the $350,000 Toray Pan Pacific Open tennis tournament.

After an early case of nervousness, the fifth seed settled down to defeat Navratilova for the third time in four matches. The move worked as Navratilova broke Sabatini on her first serve in the first set.

Sabatini appeared shaken early in the match, serving three of her seven double faults in the first set.
