Southern Bridge Teams Submit Entry To National Intercollegiate Tourney

According to William Rogge of the Student Affairs office, Southern made application before the Christmas holidays to enter the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament. Rogge has been selected to act as faculty adviser of the tournament on Southern's campus.

The tournament is an annual contest in contract bridge in which men and women undergraduate students compete for a championship title and trophy awarded by the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament committee.

Colleges and universities invited to enter are those last accredited by the Association of American Universities and those with membership in the Association of College Unions.

FOR THE PURPOSE OF the tournament, the United States has been divided into eight zones on the basis of geographical proximity and the numerical distribution of the more than 300 accredited colleges invited to participate.

Southern is in the Great Lakes Zone, zone 6, and will compete in the regional tournament with players from the University of Illinois, University of Chicago, Indiana university, Michigan State college, University of Wisconsin, University of Notre Dame, and others.

All competing colleges play a set of eighteen prepared hands on their own campuses the week of February 12-23. These hands are sent and returned by mail to the committee, to be scored by Geoffrey Mott-Smith, a recognized authority on bridge.

THE SIXTEEN highest ranking pairs (two from each of the eight zones) are then invited to a face-to-face final round to be played in April at Chicago. The expenses of the finalists enroute to and from, and during finals will be paid by the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament committee.

Working with Rogge is Grace Fulkerson, senior from Carbondale, who has been appointed to be the local tournament director. She will supervise play of the round and act as the contact between the college and the committee.

SIU President Attends Television Meeting

At the invitation of J. M. Darst, the mayor of St. Louis, President D. W. Morris along with educators from 18 states attended a meeting yesterday to discuss the St. Louis plan for establishing a nationwide educational television network.

A Committee on Educational Television has suggested a network in which educational institutions throughout the country would participate in producing educational programs. The meeting is designed to find means of financing daily television broadcasts in the educational field.

ing the bridge tournament should leave their names, addresses, and telephone numbers at the desk in the Student Center.

Each participating college can enter only eight players; therefore there will be a play-off scheduled to determine which eight of Southern's players will enter the tournament.

Speech Department Moves To Barracks

Southern's speech department has moved from what was formerly known as the speech house at 312 West Grand to the second barracks south of the university cafeteria on Thompson street.

Three rooms in the front part of the barracks are now serving as speech classrooms. Offices for speech department faculty members are also located in the barracks.

Blue prints have been drawn up for a new speech building which will house offices, classrooms, a Little Theatre, and the radio station which is now located in the Barracks K on Chautauqua street.

The new building will be located just south of the new speech barracks. It will be erected on the site where the art center was located before it moved into the Allyn building fall term.

There will be a regular Ag club meeting today, Tuesday, Jan. 8, at 7 p.m. Dr. W. E. Keefer, chairman of the agriculture department will speak on "Opportunities in Agriculture." Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Southern Mile of Dimes Drive Begins Jan. 22

Southern's Mile of Dimes campaign, sponsored by the Alpha Phi Omega, has been scheduled for Jan. 22-24 Les Barnes, APO March of Dimes chairman, announced today.

Schedule Lecture By Edgar Mowrer, Ace Correspondent

Southern's Lectures and Entertainment committee has scheduled Edgar Ansel Mowrer, famous ace foreign newspaper correspondent, for a lecture here at Shryock auditorium Jan. 23.

Mowrer has just recently returned to America from his third investigative trip to the Far East. He is the author of the Pulitzer prize winning book, "Germany Puts the Clock Back."

Few Americans have had such opportunities for understanding the world problems as Mowrer, for he is familiar with all the countries of Europe and has worked in most of them. He has visited Russia, Spain, and is an authority on the Orient.

Typical subjects of lectures given by Mowrer are "News Report from Washington," and "The Truth About the Far East."

Born in Bloomington, Ill., Mowrer's American residence is in Washington, D. C.

List Maurits Kesnar In Midwest 'Who's Who'

"Who's Who in the Midwest" has listed Dr. Maurits Kesnar, music department chairman, in its recent edition.

Kesnar also is listed in the "Musician's International Directory," "Portraits of the World's Best Known Musicians," "Who's Who in Chicago and Illinois," "Who's Who in American Education," and "International World's Who's Who."

A composer as well as an instructor here at SIU, Dr. Kesnar organized and directs the Southern Illinois Symphony orchestra. He also directs the "Messiah" performance each Christmas.

Those who wish to contribute to the fund for infantile paralysis victims will lay their dimes in a line, starting at the main entrance to the university and going toward old main, beginning Jan. 22.

The March of Dimes campaign itself began Saturday night at the basketball game between Southern and Northern Illinois State Teachers college.

APO MEMBERS carried two blankets to catch contributions following a short talk by James R. Zimmer, Carbondale March of Dimes chairman.

Barnes said that collections will be taken at each game during the campaign.

The APO is also placing containers in business places that students frequent most.

John S. Rendleman, SIU legal counsel, has been appointed campus chairman of the drive. Virgil Brown, Carbondale, is the county chairman.

Sororities, fraternities and independent student houses have been contacted and their projects for raising funds will be announced soon.

Southern Schedules Free Movie Jan. 14

The next free movie, sponsored by the lectures and entertainment committee, and the Audio Visual Aids service, is to be shown Monday, Jan. 14, in the auditorium of the University School.

The movie, "Pygmalion," is a picture of George Bernard Shaw's play about a professor who made a lady out of a cockney flower girl. The movie has a cast of British actors and actresses. The picture is considered better than the original play by many people.

THERE WILL BE two shows at seven and nine o'clock, and students will be admitted by activity tickets.

So far, the Audio Visual Aids service has charged for only two movies. The service hopes to get many more films, put them on a paying proposition, and make them a continuous thing.

Such a system is used in many larger universities. Donald A. Ingh, director of the Audio Visual Aids service, says, "I think it will be a pain process; it just takes time."

SIU Gives Tests for High School Diplomas

Persons over 21 years of age who have not been graduated from high school had opportunity to receive high school diplomas through participation in the General Educational Development program at Southern Illinois University.

Examinations for diplomas were given on the SIU campus Jan. 4 and 5. Eligibility to participate required only that a person be over 21 and have a letter from his hometown high school principal to the effect that the high school will grant a diploma when the examination has been passed.

The examination was given without charge.

The Hand Behind the Wheel

It was 52 years ago last Sept. 13 that a bachelor real-estate man named H. H. Bliss alighted from a street car and turned to help a woman passenger in her descent. An electric taxi cab, one of the many in New York City, bore down upon him and struck him to the pavement. Bliss died before the horse-drawn ambulance reached the hospital.

That incident marked the beginning of a bloody harvest of human lives which last month claimed its 1,000,000th victim; a bloody harvest which accomplished in little more than half a century what war has taken 176 years to accomplish. The 1,000,000th U. S. service man died in battle last Sept. 4. Thus, carelessly-handled automobiles equaled the casualty rate caused by armed conflict in less than one-third of the time.

Death took a holiday during the war years—that is, the death working the nation's streets and highways. When gasoline again was plentiful, and newer and safer cars were again rolling off the production lines the toll began to mount; for American drivers proved that no safety device was too fool-proof for them.

Last September the National Safety Council, aided by the press services, began a campaign with the word "One Million" as the general theme. Soon, the figure took on a new significance to newspaper readers, radio listeners, and movie goers all over the country. A weekly magazine ran an article, based on annual statistics, to describe "Mr. Million."

Now with the year 1952 in its opening months, the deadly total threatens to climb to a new high if American drivers continue to be as careless as the cold, hard statistics show them to be. Possibly, the 1,400,000th victim will be claimed before the end of 1952. It may possibly happen on a lonely rural road, where non-collision accidents caused 26% of last year's total. Or it may be in a collision with a train, which claimed the lives of 1,500 Americans last year. Wherever it may happen, there will be virtually no preventing it, for the toll will continue to mount as long as carelessness prevails on the highways.

There are now approximately 300 cars operating on Southern's campus. During the breaks between classes, students begin the migration to other buildings. At that time, any street bordering on the campus is filled with scurrying, jay-walking students. Then on weekends there is the great migration of students to their home towns. This migration is made in cars overly packed with luggage, laundry and passengers.

Thus, Southern Illinois University could itself easily become a contributor to the alarmingly mounting figure of traffic deaths. Carelessness and tragedy go hand-in-hand. D.D.

List Debate Activities At Local Club Meeting

Jo Ann Eblen, Carolyn Reed, Lloyd Bitzer, and Carroll Boyles, debate team members, described Southern debating activities at the regular meeting of the Carbondale Lions Friday.

JoAnn Eblen, president of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary speech fraternity, began the discussion by describing the team's yearly trips which include a jaunt to Springfield where debaters and other members of the speech club have a parliamentary procedure session in the state assembly building.

Other trips, she said, include debates at Greenville, Ill., Kirksville, Mo., Illinois Normal, Eastern Teachers college, DePauw; a novice tournament at Purdue, a tournament at Bradley university; the St. Thomas Tournament at St. Paul, Minn.; the state tournament at Loyola university of Chicago, and a statewide discussion of foreign policy at the University of Illinois.

This year, JoAnn said, SIU speakers will participate in a provincial tournament at Cape Girardeau, probably in April.

Carolyn Reed described social and extra-curricular activities of the group, Lloyd Bitzer, debate technique, and Carroll Boyles, this year's debate topic. "Resolved That the Federal Government Should Adopt Wage and Price Controls."

Vocational Institute Opens Clothing Classes

Two new classes are being offered this week by Southern's Vocational Institute.

Two Clothes Magic classes have been opened to housewives in the surrounding area under the professorship of Mrs. Ruth Adams, home economics department.

Students registered for the day class Tuesday. They will meet on Monday and Wednesday each week from 1 to 3 p.m. in room Main 111, conducted Wednesday.

The second class, which is to meet in the classroom at Southern Acres, registered last night. This class has been scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m.

Both classes are to extend over a nine weeks period and are non-credit courses. They will stress garment altering and sewing techniques.

In the last issue of the Egyptian there appeared an interview of the villain from the musical comedy, "Oklahoma," written by a journalism student.

By oversight, the author's name was not included. The journalism student who wrote the article is Elaine Allen, sophomore from Beaton.

Patter by Patterson

(Editor's note: This column is the first of a series to be written weekly by Andy Patterson, SIU student majoring in art. The views expressed by Patterson are his own and not necessarily those of either the editors or the university.)

The Monday and Tuesday atrocities, the two days that took two days out of the students' vacation, should not have happened, and they could have been prevented. In these days when students are going home to see their friends, parents, and those that they dearly love, a few more days such as an extra weekend would be most welcome. Eastern Illinois for instance didn't let out school until that Friday. They weren't cheated of any time for the students actually gained one more weekend because they came back January 7, 1952. Procrastination is not the only waste of time, but also mis-management of time. And may I add that there is not excuse for it.

From the dark, damp cavern of his moss-covered dungeon cell, the patron saint of Anthony Hall clambered up the steel ladder (on New Year's Day) to let his weakened, mole-like eyes be blinded by the light of the perennially overcast skies. The wonders of the past few years marveled the study-weakened eyes of this individual. I was close enough to hear him as the words stumbled over his lips. "The years—they have been good to Southern. Especially since this new guy took over. Things could be better, but if anyone looks close enough they will see the wonderful accomplishments that have been made. I'll wager that these works will not stop. I think that . . . Oh, well, it's time to get back to studying." He turned around and clambered back down the hole from which he ascended, and the ringing of his footsteps on the steel ladder performed the diminuendo.

Excavations in Area Subject of Bulletin

Carbondale area excavations for archaeological purposes carried on in 1939-41 as a WPA project sponsored in part by SIU, are the subject of a 287-page bulletin published recently by the Logan Museum of Beloit College, Beloit, Wisc.

Dr. Moreau S. Maxwell, supervisor of the excavation project who since has joined the Beloit College museum staff, is author of the volume, entitled, "The Woodland Cultures in Southern Illinois."

Irvin Peithman, curator of archaeology in the museum, who has been probing the ancient cultures of the area most of his life, was cited by Maxwell for help in locating excavation sites and providing comparative material. Peithman's report on "Evidences of Early Woodland Culture at Chalk Bluff Rock Shelter," is referred to several times in Maxwell's volume.

ISSUES ANNUAL REPORT ON LIBRARY PERIODICALS

Mrs. Mary Belle Melvin, assistant reference librarian in charge of periodicals, has issued to the faculty a 30-page annual report listing approximately 1500 periodicals regularly to be received by the University libraries during 1952.

For the convenience of readers, the last four issues of each periodical are displayed under subject matter—agriculture, business, education, foreign government publications, or religion—on open shelves in the second floor reading room of the library. The list, arranged by subject matter and alphabetically, includes all publications received regularly by subscription or by gift.

Century Old—

Millstones Become Campus Markers

Campus markers for Southern are in the form of two old millstones which have an interesting area history behind them.

Nearly a century old, the two half-ton disks of hard, flinty stone were retrieved from the wreckage of an old grain mill near the mouth of Cedar Creek, southwest of Murphysboro, through the efforts of John W. Allen, curator of history in the SIU museum, and brought to the campus in 1951. They were placed "temporarily" near the University's old heating plant, now being torn down to make way for relocation of U. S. Highway 51.

HISTORY OF the millstones, as picked up by Allen and Roy V. Jordan, curator of the SIU Clint Clay Tilton library, is brief. According to the writing of Daniel Harmon Brush, founder of Carbondale, these stones were brought in St. Louis and sent to Carbondale in 1854, either by steamer down the Mississippi and up the Big Muddy river to a point near Carbondale, or to Cairo and thence to Carbondale on the newly-built Illinois Central railroad.

Brush installed them in a mill he was building beside a pond existing in the low area now comprising the University school parking area. Carbondale's Mill street derives its name from the old Brush mill.

By 1870 the millstones had been moved to another mill that was erected in the east part of Carbondale where Attucks school is now located, and were used there until about 1900. Then they were taken to a mill operated by a Mr. Palmer near the junction of Cedar Creek and Big Muddy river, remaining there until their removal and transportation to the SIU campus.

THE STONES are eight to ten inches thick, about four feet in diameter, rough-hewn on one side and flat on the other. The flat grinding surface has a pattern of grooves that lead the grain away from the center as it is pulverized.

The imminent relocation of Highway 51 at the south end of Carbondale, skirting the east side of the Southern campus area, prompted the millstone moving. They were lying in the proposed right-of-way, facing possible destruction in roadbed preparation. Jordan started action to get the stones moved and recruited assistance from the physical plant staff for the job.

Send Classes to Scott Field Base

Twelve SIU credit courses will begin this month at Scott Field for air force personnel who desire additional college training.

The courses will offer both graduate and undergraduate work to the Scott Field personnel and to others in the area. The classes will be taught through the SIU extension division headed by Raymond H. Day.

The university's vocational technical institute also will offer one non-credit speech course, taught by Horton Talley of the speech department. This class and an extension credit course in business and professional speaking opened at the Air Force base last night.

Classes of 11 other extension credit courses will meet in the high school building at Mascoutah, starting late in January.

Registration for these classes will be at the Air Force base Jan. 17, but others may enter at the first meeting of the classes.

LUTHERAN STUDENT CLUB TO MEET TOMORROW

Gamma Delta, Lutheran student organization, will hold its regular meeting Wednesday, Jan. 9, at the Lutheran church. Time for the meeting has been set for 7:30 p.m.

Employ Five Students Here During Vacation

Five Southern undergraduate students found work over the Christmas holidays through the facilities offered by the Student Employment Bureau, according to Warren Seibert, faculty member in charge of the student employment division of the Office of Student Affairs.

Seibert announced that 13 students originally signed for work over the two-week vacation but what with some deciding to go home at the last minute employment was given to only five.

DILIP KUMAS Biswas from Calcutta, India, along with Joann Cunningham of Carbondale, worked in SIU's statistical service. Three other Carbondale students: Betty Black, Carol Mueller, and James Stricklin worked at the Student Christian foundation, on practice teaching, and at a local real estate agency respectively.

Seibert added that job openings are available at present at Southern's Horticultural Experiment station for students interested in that phase of agriculture. Interested students should contact Seibert in the Office of Student Affairs.

'Life' Prints Photos By Southern Student

Life magazine has notified Tom Wiedemann, Harrisburg junior, that the Jan. 7 issue carried a picture taken by him of the West Frankfort mine disaster. The magazine appeared on newsstands Friday.

Wiedemann said that the magazine offered to use one of his pictures for their cover if he could identify two little boys in it. Time entered in however, and he was unable to get the identities.

Wiedemann was listening to police calls on the radio when one of the state troopers called in to the main office reporting the mine explosion. Wiedemann left immediately for the scene and arrived there at approximately 10:30 p.m. on the evening of the disaster.

Ball to Talk on Pottery At Next Sunday Soiree

"Puttering in Pottery," a talk by Carleton Ball of the art department, will be on the Sunday Soiree program Jan. 13 at the Student Center.

Ball, who will use a potter's wheel to help illustrate his discussion, will speak from 8 to 9 p.m. Refreshments will be served preceding his talk at 7:30 p.m.

Library At Southern Has Expanded; Book Collection Totals 135,000

by Beverly Fox

Rapid advancements of our library service has marked Southern as having one of the finest libraries in this part of the state.

SIU's book collection has grown from 125,000 to 135,000 volumes. The number of library school graduated personnel who are classified as faculty on the staff has dropped from 14 to 12 this year, but the total number of staff members, 30, has not changed.

Funds spent each year on the university library have been substantially cut. The amount now available annually for the purchase of library books, periodicals, and binding, is now only about $36,000.

The establishment of a new "Department of Library Service" in the College of Education has been approved by the Board of Trustees. It was provided with a budget for the employment of a permanent instructor to teach courses designed to train prospective teacher-librarians for small elementary and secondary schools and to offer courses in the use of the library to freshmen and other new students at SIU. This department is expected to be fully activated in the summer of 1952.

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS section of the library now has increased the number of microfilm reels to 900, and the long-playing phonograph records to 300. During the first nine weeks of the record loan service over 600 records were borrowed by the students and the faculty.

In July of 1951 the Illinois General Assembly approved a plan to send bound volumes of all public laws, journals of both houses, reports, documents, etc., to Southern's library. Previously, the University of Illinois was the only institution of higher education designated as an official depository for Illinois government documents.

The number of U. S. government publications has risen from 4,000 to over 6,000 copies.

Steps have been taken in the direction of using the I. B. M. accounting system for bookkeeping in the order work of the library.

THE CAREFULLY selected

"Books for Living" library, which was established in the Student Recreation Center in the fall of 1951, provided the first open-shelf collection of general non-fiction on the campus for browsing as well as home circulation.

State-controlled SIU has become increasingly area-conscious and does not limit its activities to campus offerings in Carbondale. Through academic extension courses, surveys, advisory service, non-credit vocational training, and basic research, it contributes greatly to the improvement of the entire area.

A drama loan service for secondary schools is currently in the planning stage as part of the service of the Education Library and will begin operation toward the end of 1951.

The organization of the library is divided into Public Service and Technical Services, each headed by an Assistant Director of Libraries.

SIU Beats Northern In Overtime, 71-66

by Don Duffy

Southern's Salukis scored their third straight IAC basketball victory last Saturday night 71-66 when they came from behind in a dramatic overtime finish to hand the Northern Huskies their sixth defeat, and second at the hands of the SIU Cagers. Trailing 57-65 with three and one-half minutes left, the Salukis battled back to come within two points of tying the score. Approximately fifteen seconds remained when the Holdermen took possession of the ball. The clock was speeding toward the ten second mark when Tom Millikin arched a two-hand jump shot from thirty feet out. The ball swished through the net, sending the game into an overtime period.

The Huskies scored first in the extra five minute period when Rudy Skul sank a free throw. But a two-hand jump shot by Bob Nickolaus, followed closely by Chuck Thate's tip-in gave the Southern squad a lead which they refused to relinquish. Northern moved to within two points of the Salukis on Dick Staas' free throw. But that one point ended the scoring for the visitors. Millikin contributed one more free throw to bring his point total to 25, and Jack Theriot made good on both free shots as the period ended, to make the final score 71-66.

The game was close and hard-fought all the way. Southern led at the end of the first quarter 19-12, but Northern came back to tie the score at 30-30 before the half-time arrived. The Huskies got hot in the third quarter, when they dropped in 25 points, and shot .610 as a team average to take a five point lead. Al Freyman and Jake Stap scored 18 points between them when they began to hit on their set shots. Freyman made five field goals in six attempts, and Stap four in six in the sensational Huskie attack.

The Salukis managed to turn back this third quarter rally from a rout into an overtime victory mainly because they controlled most of the rebounds. They were definitely off on their shooting, hitting only 29 field goals in 112 attempts, for a team average of only .258. The Huskies were sharp on their shooting, sinking 26 buckets while trying only 61, for a respectable .426, good enough to win oftener than not. But the difference was in the rebounding. As a team, the Salukis grabbed 41 offensive rebounds off the backboard, and 24 off their own backboard. The Huskies took possession the same number of times defensively, but managed to take control only seven times while on the offense.

Tom Millikin, playing one of his last few remaining games before exchanging his maroon uniform for a khaki one, was high scorer for both teams with 25 points. Jim McKinzie, hard driving guard, was high for the Huskies with 18. Al Freyman, whose sensational third quarter shooting almost brought his team their first conference win, was second with 17 points. Turning in a fine game for the Salukis was center Chuck Thate, who totaled 15 points and grabbed 25 rebounds.

Jerry Hallopeter, who had been out with an injured leg since the opening game, returned to the line-up. He still favored his injury, though, so was used sparingly by Holder. The next home game will be against Illinois Wesleyan next Saturday night, starting at 8:15.

Inside the . . . INTRAMURALS

Intramural basketball is off to a successful start. Forty-nine teams, the largest number to participate in the history of Southern, are now grouped into seven leagues.

In the Stanford league, the Maroon Manor and Chi Delta quintets are tied for the lead. Theta Xi "A" team holds the lead in the Tennessee league. In the Michigan league, the Kaps and Gamma Delta are in a tie for the top position. The Commercial Club and the T.K.E. "B" team are tied in the Kentucky league, the Yanks are winning in the Illinois league, and the Mountaineers and Men's Residence A are tied in the Ohio league. The Texas league, seventh circuit in the intramural program, just started action last night.

In team scoring, the Maroon Manors have set the pace thus far by chalking up 82 and 83 points respectively in their two games.

In individual scoring, Herb Cummins of Maroon Manor is out in front with 55 points. Closely following him are Hubbard and Foster of the Oilers with 45 and 43 points respectively.

ChiDelts Win Three, Keep a Game Ahead Of Sigma Pis

In the Southern Illinois University edition of the Carbondale bowling league the Chi Delta Chi quintet retained its one-game lead when they notched the week's high 2312 to sweep their series from Delta Sigma Epsilon. Bill Wangelin paced the leaders with 487, Doug Garber and Jim Throgmorton supporting on 476 and 454 respectively. Libby Mars' 357 topped the Delta Sigs.

The runner-up Sigma Pi outfit kept pace with the leaders by registering a clean sweep at the expense of Pi Kappa Sigma due principally to Bob Williams' 505 series. Mary Ann Klingenberg's 472 set promoted most of the scoring threat for the Pi Kaps.

In the Sigma Sigma Sigma-Sigma Tau Gamma match the former missed a shut-out by winning the final game by four pins. Jim Milford pitched the top series of the session with his 518 to pace the winners while the victims had Connie Conatser defending with a nifty 419 series. In the final encounter, Tau Kappa Epsilon chalked up a three-ply win over Theta Xi as Charlie Nance, Bob Karch and George Murphy parlayed their efforts of 457, 448 and 448 in a low scoring match.

Southern Holds Edge In Western Series

Southern's cagers will be in search of their fourth straight IAC victory of the season this Thursday night when they invade Macomb, home of the now high-flying Western Illinois State aggregation. In addition, however, the Carbondale boys will be looking for win number 27 in a long and lopsided series which now stands at 26 wins for Southern, 10 for Western.

In 36 previous meetings the SIU and Western cagers have compiled a total of 1798 and 1592 points respectively and each will be seeking to gain ground in the composite box score which now shows an average yearly Southern victory of 50-44.

SOUTHERN TOOK the first two contests of the series in 1917 and in 1918 and after a ten-year lay-off between the two resumed play in 1928 with a 36-31 victory. Since then the up-state rivals have won 16 times in 33 tries including last year's 73-51 win in February.

DESPIE the fact that the series has been far from close throughout the years, Thursday night's contest promises to be a stiff struggle between two of the four teams now in the fight for the conference lead. The upper part of the IAC standings seems to be shaping up as an Eastern, Western, Southern, and Illinois Normal affair thus far in '51-52.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

NONE of the girls were wild about this Wildcat. His hair looked like something the cat dragged in! "I'm feline mighty low," he told his Paw. "Every Tomcat, Dick and Harry on campus has dates but me!" "Yes, Sign aware of that, son. You need Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. All the cats are using it because it's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Help you puss—I mean pass the Finger-Nail Test." So Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil, and now he's the most popular Persian at school. Purr-haps it's what you need! Take some small change out of your kitty and pussy-four it to the nearest drug or toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. And ask for professional application at your favorite barber shop. Hurry—meow is the time!
