SIU-C budget to be axed by $824,400

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

An assistant to President Albert Somit will present an Illinois Board of Higher Education recommendation to the President's Budget Advisory Committee Wednesday that will force SIU-C to trim $824,400 from its fiscal year 1983 budget request.

John Baker, special assistant to the president for planning and budgeting, said he will present the IBHE's recommendation for a 1 percent cutback in staffing levels for state universities that is expected to save $167 million statewide.

Baker said that although the 1 percent cutback is only a recommendation by the IBHE, the University expects the measure to be approved by Gov. James Thompson and the Legislature.

Chancellor Kenneth Shaw has said the budget cuts will not cause anyone to lose their job. Baker agreed, saying the cost would be absorbed by attrition and by downgrading positions.

The budget cuts will be needed in order for the University to comply with the IBHE provision called the "Productivity Improvement in Personnel Services."

Baker said that the president's committee may make "some recommendations within a couple weeks" and the budget cuts are "going to be a major problem, but the seriousness will vary from department to department."

The budget cuts will also "place greater pressure on tuition increases as a source of revenue," Baker said.

Last fall, 12 University positions were eliminated and 31 others were downgraded because of budget cuts totaling $425,000, and Baker said that the same seven areas that faced those budget cuts once again will have to cope with reductions in their budgets.

Those cuts are now in the "process of being made permanent," Baker said.

Swinburne: Athletics merger decision to come by February

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

The decision whether to merge the men's and women's athletics departments should be made by the end of January, Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, said Monday.

If a decision is not made by the end of the month, "it certainly will be made in early February, but I'm still shooting for a January date," Swinburne said.

There are many reasons both for and against merging the departments, he said. If the departments are merged, "at least in theory, there should be some dollar savings, but on the other hand, you don't just merge and ask one person to take over 22 sports." He said the job might be too big for one person.

Virtually every constituency group has had their say regarding a possible consolidation, and "the major part of those groups has been opposed to a merger," he said.

The Graduate Student Council has passed a resolution against a merger, stating that the savings would be minimal, and if the departments were merged, it's possible that the women's department could be slighted under one athletics director.

Todd Rogers, Undergraduate Student Organization president, said the Student Senate in the past has been in favor of a merger, but "if there are no substantial savings, we're not for it."

Besides constituency group opinion, Swinburne said that he has sought out responses from all men's and women's coaches and community members.

If a decision is made not to merge the departments, Swinburne said that he will announce a timetable for finding a permanent men's athletics director. He declined comment on whether Acting Men's Athletics Director Lew Hartzog was being considered for the job.

Hartzog has said that he would accept the job only if he could retain his track and field coaching duties and if an assistant track coach also was named.

But the major consideration regarding a merger, is "how can we structure our operations in such a way that will generate the most support in outside contributions, because we have to expect to raise more and more of our budget through

Supreme Court upholds Scott 1980 tax-evasion conviction

CHICAGO (AP) — Former Illinois Attorney Gen. William J. Scott, once a golden boy in Republican politics, moved to within a step of jail Monday when the U.S. Supreme Court upheld his tax-evasion conviction.

The justices, without comment, left intact Scott's conviction for understating his taxable federal income in 1972, which drew a prison sentence of one year and a day. The Supreme Court was Scott's last stop in a lengthy appeal path the former four-time attorney general had pursued since his conviction almost two years ago.

Scott's only hope in staying out of the penitentiary is a reduction in his sentence.

Scott, 55, responding in a prepared statement to the court action, said: "I am deeply disappointed to see the system of justice that I have always believed in and worked for manipulated to create such a grave injustice."

However, Leonard Ring, one of Scott's attorneys, said both he and his client were not surprised by the Supreme Court decision.

Ring said because the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Scott's conviction unanimously last fall and it was a political case, the court action was "not inconsistent and it's not anticipated."

"Bill has always looked at this realistically," Ring said. "He always had high hopes that the court would review the conviction. He wasn't surprised in light of the nature of the case and the fact he was a political figure."

U.S. Attorney Dan Webb said he was "very pleased" with the decision and added he hopes paperwork will be completed within 30 days to ask for Scott's immediate surrender.

Scott Turow, an assistant federal prosecutor, said that "as far as major procedural alternatives, Bill Scott has exhausted his rights."

"The judgment is now final" and "Bill Scott is irrevocably a convicted felon," he said.

William Barnett, another Scott attorney, said he doesn't believe the defense will ask the Supreme Court for a rehearing.

Turow also said Scott would likely serve his sentence in a federal penitentiary rather than a shorter-term correctional facility.

By leaving the Scott conviction intact, the Supreme Court rejected his attorney's appeal that his 1980 trial was tainted by improper closing arguments by prosecutors and by an impermissible "presumption" about how he obtained money that went unreported on his tax forms for 1972.

Four Thunderbird pilots die in crash

INDIAN SPRINGS, Nev. (AP) — Four jets practicing for the Thunderbird precision team collided in the air Monday, and all four pilots were killed, authorities said.

No one was hurt on the ground, said Sgt. Jack Conner, spokesman at Nellis Air Force Base.

The names of the four pilots were withheld pending notification of their relatives.

The Thunderbird pilots were in their training season and practicing at the auxiliary station of Indian Springs Air Force Base when they collided, Conner said.

"Four T-38 Talons of the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds crashed at approximately 10 a.m. today," Conner said.

Air Florida's jet tail comes up empty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Salvage crews hoisted the tail of an Air Florida jetliner from the frigid grime of the Potomac River on Monday, but the achievement turned sour when the crumpled section failed to yield two flight recorders which could unravel the causes of last week's crash.

Investigators were initially exultant when, after battling the frozen river for five days, divers managed to tie straps under the Boeing 737's tail and lift it from a crane on the bridge overhead.

As the 15-foot section was pulled up, it broke away from parts of the jetliner's fuselage.

Church asked to help Poland in crisis

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Despite the Roman Catholic Church's sharp criticism of martial law, the Polish government said Monday cooperation was needed from the church to pull Poland out of its crisis.

In other developments, the Polish news agency PAP called for an increase in food and other prices to save the economy from total collapse.

U.S. attache shot, killed in Paris

PARIS (AP) — Assistant U.S. military attache Lt. Col. Robert Ray was assassinated Monday by a lurking gunman who police said fired a single shot into Ray's forehead and fled as the victim collapsed on a Paris sidewalk.

The U.S. ambassador to France, Evan Griffith Galbraith, said the gunman was "probably a professional and undoubtedly an experienced killer."

Police said Ray was shot about 9 a.m. (2 a.m. CDT) as he walked alone to his parked car near his apartment in a fashionable district. He wore civilian clothes and carried a small attache case found by his body.

The only witness police found was a woman who saw the shooting from a distance on her way to work. She said she caught a back view of the killer fleeing on foot and described him as short with long hair and causal clothes.

In Washington, President Reagan decried the assassination as an act of international terrorism, saying Ray "gave his life in the line of duty as surely as if he had fallen in battle."

French President Francois Mitterrand and Premier Pierre Mauroy, expressing outrage, promised an intensive search to find the assassin and offered to bolster security for U.S. Embassy staff.

Tightened student loan funding could affect SIU-C applicants

By Jill Skradski
Staff Writer

Proposed regulations to tighten restrictions on federal funding of student loans could directly affect loan applicants at SIU-C.

Current rules of the National Direct Student Loan program resulted in a cutoff of loan funds from Washington for the current year because SIU-C had a default rate of 11.48 percent during the previous year.

New rules, however, could mean a partial reinstatement of federal funds for the 1982-83 school year.

The proposed rules, advanced by Terrell H. Bell, U.S. secretary of education, would place schools with default rates between 10 and 25 percent in a penalty category. This would make them eligible for federal awards reduced by the amount of loans they failed to collect.

According to Robert Eggertsen, assistant director of student work and financial assistance, restoration of some federal funding would enable his office to alter student financial aid packages to include more NDSL awards.

The financial aid office compensated for the cutoff in federal funds during the current school year by emphasizing on-campus work programs and other grant and loan programs. Students also eased the situation by applying in greater numbers for Illinois Guaranteed Loans, Eggertsen said.

In the NDSL program, students may borrow money from colleges at a five percent interest rate. As students repay the loans, the money is funneled back into the revolving fund and loaned to new applicants.

Eggertsen said that SIU-C is implementing plans to bring its default rate down

'Moonies' allowed to sue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court indicated Monday it will let Unification Church members sue an 1871 law aimed at protecting freed slaves from the Ku Klux Klan to sue people who try to "deprogram" them.

The court, without comment, cleared the way for one member of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's controversial church to sue 11 people for $51 million under the law.

In other matters Monday, the justices took these actions:

— Left intact the criminal conviction of former Illinois Attorney General William Scott for understating his taxable federal income in 1972. Scott now must begin a one-year-and-one-day prison sentence.

— Refused, with only Justice William J. Brennan dissenting, to revive a Birmingham, Ala., ordinance that required all construction contractors on city projects to give 10 percent of all subcontract jobs to minority-owned firms. The Alabama Supreme Court struck down the ordinance as unlawful discrimination against whites.

The justices could have used the case to resolve conflicting lower court rulings over whether cities, like Congress, may use racial quotas to assure minority-owned businesses a fixed share of government contracts.

— Left intact a $1.7 million fine against Reader's Digest stemming from its mass-mailing of allegedly misleading contest material.

— Rejected an attempt by the Oglala tribe of Sioux Indians to regain possession of South Dakota's Black Hills.

Murphysboro police look into infant's death

Murphysboro police are investigating the death of 17-month old Robert W. Whittington, the son of Diana Whittington, 721 North Street, Murphysboro, Murphysboro police said Monday.

Police said one of Whittington's neighbors called them and notified them of the infant's death at 7:31 a.m. Monday.

Whittington, who has no phone, requested the neighbor to call, police said.

Jackson County Coroner Don Ragsdale has conducted an autopsy, but the results won't be known until all materials are processed, police said.

Ragsdale could not be reached for comment.

Carbondale wasting its money on unnecessary improvements

Carbondale is a shining example of what is happening in hundreds of cities all over that is helping to drive this country into financial destruction.

Already built, or in the city's plans, are projects which I estimate will cost over $250 million, all of which they could well do without. Here are some of them.

Many millions for a convention center and high-rise parking garage downtown when they have the beautiful arena seating 11,000 people, with acres of parking space within the city and vacant 90 percent of the time.

The great, new Federal Building costing many millions and already leaking with air conditioning and heating not working well. Rust is running down the outside. Two large, vacant school buildings were available. One wonders why the big, well-built post office building, vacated when a new one was built, could not have been used.

A massive, multimillion dollar overpass is being constructed over the railroad within the city limits south of town. The track runs over a long bridge closer to U.S. 51. One wonders why traffic across a little-used spur of the railroad is being planned. The other day I saw rust on the rails there showing how little it is used. This will cost several millions.

As if all this is not enough to make you sick at your stomach, the city is planning to sink the railroad thru the city. Judging by the way costs go up, it will probably cost $150 million before it is finished. Even then, west to east traffic will have several traffic lights and cars going east on West Main Street will have to use one-half mile of two lane road to get across the city.

Officials in these cities, as far as I know, are honest and dedicated people but they remind me of the mule that kept running into the side of the barn and fences. The farmer said he wasn't blind, he just didn't give a damn.—Wayman Presley, Makanda.

Organic chemistry professor is outstanding part of SIU-C

After completing two and one-half years at SIU-C, I realize that the good aspects of our university often fall to the wayside of the more negative ones; however, this time I and many of my colleagues would like to recognize an example of an outstanding part of this university.

We, the undersigned, would like to commend Richard T. Arnold, professor in the Department of Chemistry, for his outstanding ability to teach organic chemistry, his dedication and service to SIU-C, and his extraordinary contribution to the advancement of organic chemistry.

Furthermore, after reading the numerous pages of Arnold's portfolio of education, experience and accomplishments, I am convinced that recognition of this man is warranted.

Arnold received his bachelor's degree in education at SIU-C, and his master's degree and doctorate in chemistry at the University of Illinois.

His teaching career began in 1937 at the University of Minnesota where he earned the title of professor. He remained there until 1952, when he was appointed Science Attache to the U.S. High Commissioner, the equivalent of the current U.S. Embassy, in Bonn, Germany. He was responsible for monitoring organic chemistry development in Germany. Arnold then returned to Minnesota as the chairman of the chemistry department until 1955, when he was invited for employment to the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. This foundation was established by Mr. Sloan, retired president of General Motors, for the purpose of articulating experimental organic chemistry by the nation's chemists.

In 1960, Arnold joined Mead Johnson and Co., as director of research, and within a year he became president of Mead Johnson Research Center. He then came to SIU-C as chairman of the department and professor of chemistry, in which capacity he served until 1975. He has been a professor in the chemistry department since then.

Arnold has received numerous awards, including the Honorary Science Degree from Northwestern University, the American Chemistry Award for pure organic chemistry and the SIU Alumni Achievement Award.

Unfortunately, all of his accomplishments, such as his 96 publications, have not been included, but what has been mentioned warrants sincere congratulations to a very outstanding person. I am very grateful to have been instructed by someone with such accomplishments and expertise.—Jerry Cook, Junior, Chemistry.

Lost money demonstrates need for tighter security at bursar's

IF YOU'RE hard up for cash, try looking around the SIU-C bursar's office. You might be lucky enough to find $3,064.

Somehow, $3,064 has disappeared, and there are apparently no leads and no suspects. Compared to the millions of dollars which pass through the bursar's office each year, $3,064 may not seem like anything to get worked up about. To the average person, though, particularly the average student, it's a considerable sum of money.

It's disturbing, therefore, that despite two disappearances in less than three months the SIU-C police and University administrators can provide no clue to where the money went.

David Murphy

Editorial Page Editor

That loss in perspective, that's enough to just about pay the tuition and fees for six students for an entire semester. It's also enough to buy hundreds of books or periodicals for financially strapped Morris Library.

It is, in short, a lot of bread, much more than the University can afford to write off in such economically troubled times.

ALSO DISTURBING is the fact that the second loss was also reflect poorly on the ability of the SIU-C police, who so far have been unable to turn up any clues in either case. Stricter security at the bursar's office is obviously needed.

Buffum has said that the second loss was discovered in the process of implementing new cash control measures and increasing security. The losses suggest that the new controls should be made as stringent as possible, to prevent similar occurrences.

IN THE interest of maintaining the University's credibility, the investigation should also be carried as far as possible, until someone knows or has some idea what became of the money.

The money did not, like Lazarus, suddenly become animate and walk away. The students, from whom all money at the University ultimately derives, deserve to know what has happened to the missing money.

This $3,064 mystery demands a solution.

'The SIU system has increased the risk of errors' discovered close on the heels of a report in November by the Illinois auditor general's office which criticized the collection and processing of cash receipts in the SIU system.

The system has "increased the risk of errors and irregularities" by failing to establish adequate controls over the cash collection and processing system, according to the report.

THE DISAPPEARING cash and the auditor general's report raise serious doubts about the efficiency of operations at the bursar's office. The cash losses

State lawmaker faces 'peace march' criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Illinois Rep. Gus Savage is set to return Tuesday from a two-week trip to Europe, financed by a controversial group, during which he defended the American people but harshly attacked U.S. foreign policy.

Savage, a freshman Democrat from Chicago, appeared in Lisbon on Saturday at the head of 50,000 demonstrators, described as mainly Communist trade unionists, protesting U.S. arms policies.

Savage's administrative assistant, Herman Gilbert, said Monday the congressman's travel expenses are being paid by the World Peace Council. Gilbert said the goal of the trip was to study the anti-nuclear movement in Europe.

John McMahon, a Central Intelligence Agency official, testified in 1980 before the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence that the World Peace Council is a Soviet front and "a political action tool in support of Soviet foreign policy goals and military strategy."

Ronald Young of the American Friends Service Committee, a leading American peace group, said in a telephone interview the council "by and large takes positions that are sympathetic to Soviet positions" on arms control and related issues. But he said it was impossible for him to classify it flatly as a Soviet front because "sometimes the World Peace Council sponsors things with other groups and it's a mixed bag."

"The World Peace Council is a worldwide organization," he said. "It's not simply a Soviet organization."

The Directory of International Organizations lists the World Peace Council as being founded in 1950 in Warsaw. The listing says its current headquarters is in Helsinki.

Reports from Lisbon said the Portuguese Socialist Party boycotted the rally there, denouncing it as "an exclusive reflection of the diplomatic and military logic of the Soviet bloc."

The reports quoted Savage as saying at a news conference he was "more concerned with the concrete objectives of the march than with who supports it." The demonstration was aimed at the Reagan administration's policies of developing the neutron bomb and deploying U.S. missiles in Europe.

Gilbert refused to comment on the council, saying, "You have the resources to do find out."

Savage, he said, went on the trip "to find out for himself how broad and how deep the peace movement in Europe is."

Breakfast more costly thanks to the weather

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — It won't be long until the cost of bacon and eggs follows the upward trend of orange juice prices, according to an agricultural economist at the University of Illinois.

Darrel Good said Monday that the severe winter weather, which has damaged the orange crop in Florida, probably will reduce the supply of pork and eggs, and also beef and chicken.

"In the Southeast, where there is a concentrated poultry industry both in eggs and broilers, the buildings are not constructed to handle this weather," said Good. "There is a higher death loss than under normal circumstances."

Pigs born this winter also have been affected by the weather, said Good, and the supply in about six months should be down. He pointed to a 5 percent increase in the number of deaths of young pigs during the severe winter of 1978-79.

Another factor is that pigs and cattle do not gain weight as fast in unusually cold weather, so it takes longer to get the animals to market.

"This whole thing kind of slows down the production process," said Good. "Immediately, there will be a reduction in broiler supplies; later, a reduction in pork and beef."

Good said pork prices also should increase because producers, faced with unprofitable operations, are cutting back on production.

Drinkers, beware! Don't drive, for police have tougher law

By Rod Furlow
Staff Writer

State legislation has made it more risky to drive while intoxicated, and local police are happy about it.

During the last legislative session, lawmakers amended Illinois statutes on the subject.

Lt. Terry Murphy of the Carbondale police force expects the new statute's biggest advantage will be the time it will save officers who have to process offenders.

Unlike the old statute, the new one doesn't allow offenders 90 minutes to decide whether to take a breath test. Under the implied consent aspect of the new statute, Illinois motorists "volunteer" to take tests when they receive their driver's licenses.

"Under the old law, one officer could be tied up for three and a half hours on a DWI case," Murphy said. "We'd like to have our officers free to carry out duties we feel are more important."

Elimination of the 90-minute wait isn't the only time-saving device of the statute. The old law required police to administer two breath tests 20 minutes apart. The new statute recognizes one test as conclusive.

The statute also allows police to administer two other kinds of tests—on blood and urine—which weren't allowed under the old statute. District 13 State Trooper Melvin Kersten thinks such tests will give police a chance to detect intoxicants besides alcohol.

"Because of the blood and urine tests law, we're not just dealing with alcohol anymore," he said. "We'll be able to prosecute drivers who are under the influence of narcotics."

Murphy pointed out another possible effect of the addition of blood and urine tests.

"If a person is involved in an accident and there was probable cause that he was under the influence, police can ask a doctor to take the blood and urine tests," Murphy said. "That gives the police evidence they wouldn't have had without the implied consent rule."

Even with the implied consent rule, motorists can still refuse to submit to "breath, urine, and blood tests. But there is a stiff, automatic penalty.

By refusing to be tested, violators will forfeit their driver's license for six months after a first offense, compared to three months under the old law. The new law provides a one-year suspension for second offenses.

According to Murphysboro Police Chief Tinscher, second offenses could become more common under the new law. But it would only be because first offenses were previously not recorded if the offender was sentenced to court supervision.

Murphy, Kersten, and Tinscher said they thought the tougher law would act as a deterrent and decrease the number of cases.

"We've already noticed a difference," Murphy said.

'Reds' a beautifully told, epic love story

By Joe Walter
Staff Writer

Perhaps the most illustrative way of saying that one has enjoyed a three-and-a-half hour film is to make it seem as if it was not enough, as if you wanted more of it.

"Reds" is that type of movie. In this film, director Warren Beatty chronicles the years 1915-20 in the life of radical journalist John Reed, played by himself, and the aspiring feminist-journalist he fell in love with and married, Louise Bryant (Diane Keaton).

Reed was the author of the famous eyewitness account of the Russian Revolution, "Ten Days That Shook the World," which he observed with Bryant. He is also the only American buried within the walls of the Kremlin.

This may make "Reds" sound like a very political film, which is not the case. It is more a film about Reed's individual idealism and the torrid romance he shares with Bryant.

Scott, Hutton are excellent, but 'Taps' is an uneven film

By Tom Travis
Staff Writer

"Taps" is a film about honor. It is also about devotion, discipline and friendship—a spirited allegory about life at a military academy and about how boys are often forced to become men, regardless of whether they are ready for it.

"Taps" tells the tale of the cadets of Bunker Hill Military Academy and their crazed commander, General Harlan Bache, played by George C. Scott. For 14 years Bunker Hill has turned out honored cadets, but the board of trustees wants to shut down the academy within one year and develop the land for condominiums.

The decision meets stiff opposition from both Bache and the ranking cadet, Major Brian Moreland, played with unflinching emotion and intensity by Timothy Hutton. After an accidental shooting involving Bache and a local civilian, the general is carted off by the sheriff's police and the board decides to close the school early.

Movic Review

Reds, produced and directed by Warren Beatty, starring Warren Beatty and Diane Keaton. Varsity Theater. Reviewer's Rating: 3 1/2 stars (4 stars tops).

What "Reds" does is beautifully tell of a time, around the late nineteenth and early twentieth century, when airy parlor intellectuals and committed social activists felt that Marx's socialism carried the blueprint for the highest form of charity. It was considered a fair deal for everyone and the best way to share the wealth of all. It was even thought of as Christian, until events in the Soviet Union caused reconsideration.

Beatty reinforces the authentic feel of the time by including documentary-type footage of interviews with some contemporaries of Reed and Moreland is incredulous, and he and the other cadets seize the campus and its amazingly well stocked armory, turning it into an armed camp. They make a

Bryant. But this doesn't make the film into a documentary. One problem here, though, is that we don't know who most of them are because Beatty does not tell us by using name titles.

The performances in the film by Beatty and Keaton are very good. Both seem to carry a charm that makes likeable in any film one sees either in. Maureen Stapleton is also good—when we see her—as Emma Goldman, the socialist who became disillusioned with the Russian Revolution.

Jack Nicholson does a fair job of drawing his way through a lackluster characterization of Eugene O'Neil, the tormented playwright, who was a friend of Reed and onetime lover of Bryant.

But most of the film is great. The photography is beautiful and yet simple.

However, the cadets are treated as terrorists by the local police, and talks with both the cops and some of the boys' parents do nothing to resolve the stalemate. Finally, the National Guard is called in and rolls up complete with M-60 tanks and armored personnel carriers.

The commander, played with deadpan concern by Ronny Cox, also tries to reason with Moreland, but Brian is mentally too far gone and the film slogs towards its predictably bloody conclusion.

Though "Taps" is at times a powerful and riveting movie, it is not without problems. Director Harold Becker has difficulty with the flow of the film, as it moves much too slowly in some parts and flies by in others. The screenplay, written by Darryl Ponicsan and Robert Mark Kamen, is replete with motivational dialogue and images that are never fully developed.

The best thing about "Taps" is the performances. Scott is excellent in his maniacal militarist routine, and Hutton is beyond comparison. As the film progresses he becomes so deeply entrenched in his role that he almost drowns in it.

Sean Bean is convincing as Moreland's roommate and only real friend and plays the part with the necessary sensitivity. Tom Cruise is perfect for the role of crazed Dave Shawn, the only cadet who really wants confrontation and bloodshed.

"Taps" is a film with a lot to say, but it communicates more through the performances than it does through the actual dialogue. Though far from a perfect movie, it provides a valuable insight into the lives of boys struggling to reach manhood.

Division of Continuing Education Southern Illinois U

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1982

BICYCLING FOR FUN AND FITNESS: Designed for the average or beginning cyclist, of any age, to show how fitness and enjoyment can be obtained through cycling. (Essentially a riding course). Instructor is 8 times Illinois State Cycling champion, member, National Olympic Cycling Team. His experience covers cycling on a road race, tourist, commuter, and cycling spokesman. Inst.: Dan Casabear, M 8 TH. 5-7 pm. 5 wks. Comm. 1017 $22.50. Begins March 22.

FOCUSING: Based on research at the University of Chicago focusing is a new technique of self therapy that teaches you to identify and change the way your personal problems concretely exist in your body. Focusing consists of steps of felt change. Unlike methods that stress "getting in touch with your feelings," there is a built-in test each focusing step: when done correctly is marked by a physical relief, a profound release of tension. Focusing guides you to the deepest level of awareness within your body. It is on this level, unfamiliar to most people, that unresolved problems actually exist and only on this level can they change. CEU's. Inst.: Alvin Humphrey, M 7-9 pm. 8 wks. Quigley 208. $19.25 (text fee $3.50).

GUITAR-BEGINNING: Basic techniques and principles in the guitar will be covered. Folk and classical styles are studied with emphasis on techniques and music fundamentals. For beginners and those with little or no previous knowledge of music. Bring notebook and guitar to 1st class meeting. Inst.: Alexander Chu, M 7-9 pm. 8 wks. OBF 7. $16.50.

ITALIAN CONVERSATION: This course is designed to introduce individuals with little or no knowledge in the basics of Italian conversation. Emphasis will be on grammar and developing a vocabulary. Inst.: Patricia Irish, M 7-9 pm. 10 wks. Quigley 203. $19.00 (text fee $3.00).

PIANO FOR ADULTS-BEGINNING: Beginning piano instruction is included for adults with little or no experience in music. Development for skills in music, reading, chording, and playing by ear are included in serious and popular styles. Inst.: Joy Starks, M 6-7:30 pm. 10 wks. OBF 201. $15.50 (text fee $7.50).

PIANO FOR ADULTS-INTERMEDIATE: The course is designed for students who have a basic knowledge of piano and wish to continue their study. Emphasis will be placed on elementary piano literature, basic keyboard skills, chording and harmonizing tunes. Inst.: Joy Starks, M 7:30-9 pm. 10 wks. OBF 201. $15.50 (text fee $7.50).

TOUCH FOR HEALTH: This popular class is offered again. In Touch for Health classes you will learn how to use applied kinesiology (muscle testing) as a way to communicate with the body in order to locate possible health problems, and how to use acupressure and touch and massage to correct imbalances before they turn into major illness. Come and learn how to keep all your body systems working together at their very best so that you can feel your very best. 2 CEU's. Inst.: Carol Colyott, M 6-8:30 pm. 8 wks. Pulliam 310. $23.25 (text fee $12.95).

UNIVERSITY SINGERS: The choir will sing two requiems, one by Mozart and one by Beethoven. No experience necessary. Regular attendance required. Three cuts allowed. No one may register after February 1, 1982. Inst.: Robert Kingsbury, M 7:30-9:45 pm. 16 wks. Altgeld 115. $10.00 (text fee $5.00). Begins Jan. 18.

WOMEN AND WALL STREET II: An advanced class for those having taken Women and Wall Street last semester or those having background in investments. Inst.: Joy Cullen Mark, M 7-9 pm. 10 wks. Lawson 121. $18.00 (text fee TBA).

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1982

ASTRONOMY: An observational course for the layman (non-mathematical). Students will learn to identify constellations, moon, planets, and the Milky Way as well as to identify the deep sky objects. Binoculars recommended. Telescope not required. Inst.: Martin King, T 6:30-8:30 pm. 8 wks. Tech 210. $23.00.

GUITAR-BEGINNING II: Basic techniques and principles in the guitar will be covered. Folk and classical styles are studied with emphasis on techniques and music fundamentals. For beginners and those with little or no previous knowledge of music. Inst.: Alexander Chu, T 7-9 pm. 8 wks. OBF 7. $16.50.

PSYCHOLOGY FOR THE LAY PERSONS: Applying psychology in basic ways to improve your everyday life. Participants will discuss and experience different ways to improve their communication skills, outlook on life and ability to deal with stress and anxiety. SPECIAL FOR SENIOR CITIZENS: Senior adults (age 60 or over) may register for classes for half the enrollment charge unless otherwise specified.

VISA OR MASTERCARD: Those wishing to use these cards may do so to pay class charges. The Continuing Education office requires the card's account number, the expiration date, and the interbank number as well as the name of the person to whom the account belongs.

REFUNDS: Full refunds are granted if a course is cancelled by DCE. Full refunds are granted if a student withdraws prior to the second class session and a signed request is submitted to DCE POSTMARKED BEFORE THE SECOND CLASS SESSION. There are no partial refunds for this program.

CLASS CANCELLATION: The Division of Continuing Education reserves the right to cancel any course which does not have sufficient enrollment. Should it be necessary to cancel a course, those registered will be notified and a full refund will be made.

LIMITED ENROLLMENT: Some classes have limited enrollment. Should a class fill and there are more people interested in taking the class, a waiting list will be kept and as vacancies are available, those on the waiting list will be called on a first come first served basis.

PARKING: Adult Evening class students may park without stickers in all lots marked VISITORS. Unless you have an appropriate sticker, do not park in lots not designated VISITORS.

Textbook or Supply Charges are NOT paid to the Division of Continuing Education. Information about texts and supplies will be provided by the instructor.

COMMUNITY LISTENER'S PERMIT PROGRAM

If you can't find what you are looking for in the adult non-credit evening program, try the COMMUNITY LISTENER'S PERMIT PROGRAM. It allows persons not enrolled in an SIUC degree program to sit in on most credit classes.

The purpose behind the CLPP is to allow people to sample freely the regular University courses so that they choose in a non-competitive atmosphere and on a non-credit basis.

For more information and registration, check with the Division of Continuing Education at 536-7751.

Co-op sales better than anticipated

By Julie Guadagnoli
Staff Writer

Sales were better than expected during the first day of operation for the Undergraduate Student Organization's book co-op, with sales topping $2,600 by mid-Monday. David McAnally, co-op director said.

McAnally said he is almost sure there will be another co-op after spring semester, but the USO has learned from the mistakes of the first one.

The co-op should have stayed open for collection the Friday of finals week, McAnally said. But the USO kept it closed because it thought most people would have already left campus and most of the co-op workers were gone.

The bookstores got a lot of the last-minute business, McAnally said.

Next time, the collection period might be moved more towards the end of the week, he said.

USO President Todd Rogers said it would take a couple years before the co-op was fully organized. He said the co-op would "grow the fastest and help the most people by happy students spreading word of mouth."

McAnally said that after people had seen the results of the first co-op, they would realize that they could save money by using it instead of a bookstore.

Even so, USO Chief of Staff Jerry Cook said the first co-op was "a very good start."

When the co-op opened Monday, 382 people had turned in a total of 1,004 textbooks to be sold, McAnally said. By Monday afternoon about 60 more people had turned in books, he said. The number of books those 60 had turned in could not be determined because books were being sold while they were turning them in.

He said that the volunteers from Sigma Kappa have done a good job "rolling with the punches." Sigma Kappa co-sponsored the co-op with USO, the American Marketing Association, Alpha Kappa Psi, Pi Sigma Epsilon, the Society for Advancement of Management and the Accounting Society.

McAnally said the co-op shows that students "are concerned about where their money goes."

That's why Sue Burns used the co-op. Burns, a freshman in engineering, said "Students wouldn't get ripped off so much here."

Douglas Appling, a sophomore in radio and television, had just bought his textbooks at a bookstore. After noticing that the prices for the same books were lower at the co-op, he said he would get a refund and buy his books at the co-op.

Appling said, "I'm astounded by how many books they've got and how cheap they are."

More cold coming; death toll rises

By The Associated Press

The worst cold wave of the century shifted its grip to the Northeast on Monday, stranding thousands of city commuters as trains quit running and cars refused to start in temperatures at record lows. Temperatures were on the rise in the Midwest and the Deep South, hard hit last week, but more extreme cold may be on the way. The National Weather Service forecast below-normal temperatures across the eastern two-thirds of the nation over the next 30 days.

At least 283 deaths have been attributed to the polar air mass that first pushed into the country on Jan. 9 and dealt cities such as Chicago, Milwaukee and Akron, Ohio, their coldest temperatures since the weather service started keeping track.

The cold wave set record lows for the date Monday from Pennsylvania through New England, where Chester, Mass., posted a minus 34.

Millions of Americans trying to get back to work after a largely snowbound weekend found the going rough.

contributions and we have to be successful at that," Swinburne said.

"Political acceptance becomes an element when you consider your fund-raising efforts," he said.

However, the Saluki Futures fund-raising campaign has netted nearly $30,000 in contributions and pledges, bringing total contributions to SIU-C's athletics program to more than $110,000 this year.

The campaign's goal is $150,000, one that Swinburne calls "fairly realistic."

"I believe we will have that much. Reaching that goal partly depends on our success in contacting people," he said.

The objective of the campaign was to reach 2,000 people, and "we should have reached 2,000 by now, but I'm not sure we have."

Needy families to get cheese

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois will start handing out 1.5 million pounds of cheese free to the needy late this month, and the state's role in the Great American Cheese Giveaway should be completed by the end of February, Gov. James R. Thompson said Monday.

The state Public Aid Department has been working on the giveaway program for several weeks, following President Reagan's announcement that the federal government would hand out about 30 million pounds of surplus cheese.

Reagan announced the program after being told some of the surplus processed American cheese was starting to rot. Groups representing the poor have argued for years the government should give away some of the surplus food it buys from farmers to bolster agricultural prices.

In Illinois, the 300,000 five-pound blocks of cheese will be given out over a five-week period starting in late January. Distribution will be handled by more than 170 food pantries, charities and local community action agencies who have volunteered their help.

"The response from these volunteer groups around the state has been overwhelming. The community service and religious organizations thus far involved have shown their usual good will in aiding those in need of assistance," Thompson said.

Although some states have required applications from

About $116,000 is needed to meet this year's budget, he said, and if the $150,000 goal is reached, $34,000 would be placed into an intercollegiate athletics' endowment fund.

The interest generated would be used from year to year, but the principal would remain intact. Swinburne said that eventually he would like to see the endowment fund reach $1 million, and already the fund is growing faster than anticipated. One of the reasons for the rapid growth is contributions like E.T. Simonds' of Carbondale. Simonds has pledged $10,000 for the fund this year and $15,000 for the next two years.

"If we would have started an endowment fund 20 years ago, we wouldn't have the problems we have today," he said. "But we couldn't start any sooner than this year."

people who want the cheese. Illinois is shunning red tape. Thompson said.

Instead, the local groups will be responsible for making sure that the cheese gets to people who need it.

"Many of these groups already are distributing food regularly and are well equipped to distribute additional food in a timely and orderly fashion to those needing it," Thompson said in a statement.

"Likewise, many of those needing food are familiar with the locations and operations of these agencies," he said.

The cheese, now stored in a Kansas City warehouse, will be delivered at federal expense to 15 storage sites in Illinois. Participating agencies will take over from that point, Thompson said.

The amount of cheese going to each county will be determined by the number of food stamp recipients in that county. But the cheese is not limited to people receiving food stamps nor to those on welfare.

At a Springfield supermarket chain, processed American cheese was going for $2.17 a pound on Monday.

teams in the nation," and they proved him correct as they drounced the Salukis 44-3

Dillick was the only Saluki to enter the victory column, winning the 142-pound division with a three-point decision Richards, Hedstrom, Shea, Keith Abney and Ted Bessette all lost decisions.

The Salukis will be on the road again Thursday and Friday, meeting Indiana and Indiana State. Long said if SIU-

C was allowed to score just four or five weights, it would beat the Hoosiers and the Sycamores. But, he added, since 10 weights must be scored, the Salukis don't have a realistic chance of winning the meet. Long said Abney, who suffered some torn cartilage in a knee at Wyoming, will compete, depending on how "strong" he is mentally. Shea hurt his shoulder over the weekend, and Long isn't sure whether the senior will compete this week.

Cold repels Illini recruits

CHAMPAIGN (AP) — Two Illinois football recruits, apparently shocked by the cold weather, have returned to California.

Coach Mike White says Elton Veals, a top junior college running back, and his friend, linebacker Delton Edwards, left the University of Illinois campus Sunday.

Both had transferred from Merritt Calif. Junior College, saying they would play for White next fall.

"These aren't exactly ideal conditions to recruit athletes from California. Mentally, they just weren't ready for this," said one of White's assistants. "They didn't have enough clothes and their car got stuck three times going back and forth to their room."

Hot 2nd half shooting leads cagers to victory

By Keith Mascetti
Staff Writer

In the first half of SIU-C's 68-63 win over Western Kentucky in the Arena, the Salukis' shooting was as cold as Monday night's weather. SIU-C shot a miserable 39 percent and went to the locker room down 39-32.

Then came the second half. The Salukis ran their "Southern Style" fast break, shot 74 percent, took a 47-45 lead at 15:00 and never looked back. The key to this Jekyll and Hyde performance is in the defense, according to Coach Cindy Scott.

"At halftime we decided what defense to use and went to the 1-3-1 zone," Scott said. "It cut off the inside passes and won the game for us."

The zone may have won the game at the defensive end of the floor, but in the second half, guard Sandy Martin opened up

Western Kentucky's zone by hitting 15-foot jump shots from all over the floor.

Martin strafed the Lady Topper's defense for 16 points, but more importantly, she opened up the inside and allowed her taller teammates to score from close in.

Martin's bombs also opened up the game for guard D.D. Plab. With Martin as an outside threat, Plab had the luxury of getting open for shots — she scored 18 — and also dished the ball off for five assists, and stole the ball four times.

"I thought she played super," said Scott of Martin. "She's the best outside shooter on the team. She's a zone breaker."

Before the game started, Martin knew that breaking the zone was her job. Scott had enough confidence in her shooting to give her the starting assignment over Beth Stevenson.

Stevenson injured her finger but Scott said that Martin would have started anyway to break the Lady Topper's zone.

The zone defense also held Western Kentucky's Diane Depp to 11 points. Depp has been averaging 18.9 points per game this season.

"We played a good zone defense and forced the ball to the outside and Debbie couldn't hurt us," Scott said.

Connie Price played another strong game. The 6-3, Saluki center scored 13 points, grabbed seven rebounds and came up with two steals before fouling out with 2:50 left in the game. The win evened SIU-C's record at 7-7.

Hartzog sees record-breaking potential in Saluki mile relay

By Ken Perkias
Staff Writer

It's going to be at least another week before track Coach Lew Hartzog makes his annual predictions on how good his 1982 squad will be. But he doesn't hesitate to give one prediction: he's got one talented group of quarter-milers.

"We will break mile relay indoor and outdoor records this year, no doubt about it," said Hartzog, who is starting his 22nd year as coach of the Salukis. "I'm really excited about this group of quarter-milers."

And he has reason to be. At Sunday's "warm-up" meet, the Chicago Goodwill Indoor Game at the Rosemont Horizon, the relay team of freshman Mike Franks and sophomores Perry Duncan, Javell Heggs and Tony Adams placed first in one of two heats with a 3:22.35.

Adams anchored the relay that not only avenged a 1981 Drake Relays loss to Jackson State, but turned in the second-best time at the meet, only two seconds behind front-runner Villanova. Adams, the 1981 400-meter MVC champion, brought in a fast 48.09 finish, while Duncan galloped at 51.39. Heggs at 50.95 and Franks at 50.29.

Duncan, a former Harrisburg prep star, was the only Saluki challenged in the race, according to Hartzog. After the speedster broke open a lead down the stretch, Heggs, Franks and Adams widened it.

The two-mile relay team didn't fare as well, however, finishing fifth with a time of 8:16. The lead runner, Mark Hill, a freshman out of St. Louis' O'Fallon High School, had the baton knocked out of his hand and "lost about three seconds," Hartzog said.

Hill said he was finishing up the second lap and holding the baton in his right hand when a runner tried to pass him on the outside. "When I swung my arm back, it hit him and flew out of my hand."

The bright spot in the two-mile relay was junior Tom Ross, who, despite being out of the race, turned in a good 1:57.0 half-mile clip.

Another bright spot came in the individual events when distance runner Mike Keane, competing against some of the nation's best, placed sixth in the two-mile run with a "respectable" 9:10.1. Pole vaulter John Sayre, also in tough company, failed to place.

Former Saluki standout David Lee, competing for the second time this season, "looked good," said Hartzog. The 1980 Olympian finished third in the 300-meter dash, turning in a time of 32.3.

Hartzog was pleased with the performances, considering the terrible weather conditions which the runners had to fight to work out. Hartzog said Duncan, Franks and Heggs had to work outside in the weather, while Adams spent time on a 160-meter banked track.

Hartzog has to wait only until this weekend to find out just how good his squad will be. The Salukis travel to West Lafayette, Ind., to tackle Purdue, Murray State, Eastern Kentucky and SIU-Edwardsville on Saturday, and to Normal to face state rival Illinois State and Big Eight indoor champ Iowa State on Sunday.

Men swimmers upset Cal-Berkeley

By JoAnn Marciszewski
Staff Writer

The men's swim team reached a major goal by beating California-Berkeley, ranked fifth in the nation, in a dual meet, and placed third in the Cornhusker Invitational, held in Lincoln over the weekend.

"We had some outstanding performances," said Coach Bob Steele of the 61:52 victory over Cal-Berkeley. "We aimed at beating them since the first of the season. We were keyed for the competition."

According to Steele, the big event for the Salukis was the first, the medley relay. The team of Conrad Porta, Pablo Restrepo, Roger VonJouanne and Keith Armstrong won with a time of 3:23.1, a new pool record.

Other first-place finishes included Restrepo in the 200 breaststroke, VonJouanne in the 200 individual medley and 200 butterfly, Porta in the 200 backstroke, and John Consemi in the one-meter and three-meter diving.

"The 200 backstroke was a heck of a race," Steele said. Porta, with a time of 1:52.79, outouched Berkeley's Dave Wilson, the national high school record holder, who came in at 1:52.8.

Other performances that pleased Steele were the third-place finish by freshman Kipp Dye in the 500 freestyle, the second-place finish by sophomore Armstrong in the 100 freestyle and the sweep of the 200 breaststroke by Saluki swimmers Restrepo, Anders Norling and Larry Wooley.

At the Cornhusker Invitational, a score of 324 placed SIU-C behind Nebraska's 411 and Cal-Berkeley's 394. Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota and Iowa State all had less than 235 points.

Five meet records were set by Saluki swimmers at the individual. VonJouanne had three, with times of 1:52.3 in the 200 individual medley, 4:04.31 in the 400 individual medley and 1:50.11 in the 200 butterfly.

Restrepo set the other two records, 57.4 in the 100 breaststroke and 2:06.3 in the 200 breaststroke. Although both were meet records, Restrepo's times were a little off his times against Cal-Berkeley, the previous night, according to Steele.

"It gets to be a long weekend," Steele said. "The whole weekend wasn't disastrous. We did have some good performances in the invitational, most by people who were training hard through break."

The Salukis will meet invitational-champion Nebraska in a dual meet at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Recreation Center pool.

Dillick stands out in grapplers' gloom

By Steve Metsch
Sports Editor

The team wrestled in the Air Force Falcon Invitational at Air Force, Colo., on Jan. 9. Thanks to what Long termed a "pretty good weight allowance," Dillick was able to compete in and win the 134-pound weight class. He won two bouts to get into the final round, where he beat North Dakota State's Lyle Clem with a fall at 2:58.

Sophomore Mark Hedstrom, competing in the 190-pound division, beat his first opponent with a fall at the 4:35 mark. He lost his semi-final meet by falling at 2:35. The rest of the team lost in the opening matches.

The Salukis met the Air Force in a dual meet two days earlier and were shot down, 30-15. However, the meet was the team's best on the Western trip, as four of the six Saluki grapplers won their respective weight classes. Dillick and Hedstrom won three-point decisions, while Dale Shea captured a four-point decision and Richards won a fall. Hedstrom suffered a scratched cornea in the meet, but was able to compete, Long said.

"I hate to lose. I don't even want to think about it," Long said.

Dillick's performance was the main bright spot in the grim grappling picture. The latest addition to his victory string came at the Wyoming Tournament, held in Laramie, Wyo., Friday and Saturday. Dillick won one four-point and two three-point decisions to nab the 142-pound weight class title.

"I think Tim is starting to lose the fat he gained since last season," Long said. "If he can solidify his weight at 140 pounds, I think he can qualify for the nationals. He should wrestle at 134 pounds the rest of the year. He's in better shape and able to wrestle at a greater pace at that level."

Dillick also won the 142-pound division in a dual meet with Adams State at Alamosa, Colo., on Jan. 12. He beat his opponent 9-3 to claim a three-point decision. Teammate Jerry Richards pounded his challenger 14-4 to win the 118-pound division. The Salukis were void in four classes and dropped two decisions and a fall to lose the meet 34-7 to the Indians. SIU-C is 0-6 in dual meets.

The Salukis began their 11-day road trip on Jan. 5, when they met Northern Colorado in a dual at Greeley, Colo. The Bears growled their way to a 33-12 triumph.

Bright points for SIU-C were Richards, who won a three-point decision; Dillick, who won a four-point major decision; and Hedstrom, who won a five-point superior decision by whipping the Bears' Tom Miner, 22-8. Northern Colorado upped its record to 3-0 while the Salukis dropped to 0-4.

The Salukis opened up 1982 by meeting Oklahoma State in a dual at the Arena on Jan. 2. Before break, Long called the Cowboys "one of the toughest

Professor, researcher dies

Jefferson F. Lindsey Jr. of Murphysboro, a retired SIU-C professor and administrator and former National Aeronautics and Space Administration research expert, died Friday in Carbondale. He was 67.

Mr. Lindsey suffered apparent heart failure while being driven home from a Carbondale appointment by his wife. He was pronounced dead shortly after 11 a.m. at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

He had been on disability retirement from SIU-C's Department of Guidance and Educational Psychology since 1974 as a result of a heart condition. He and his wife, Helen Lucile, lived in Pomona and Murphysboro after his retirement.

Mr. Lindsey was born Aug. 30, 1914, in East St. Louis. He held a bachelor's degree from Carthage College and received a master's degree from Washington University in St. Louis. He was awarded a doctorate in education from the University of Texas at Austin.

Before joining the SIU-C faculty in 1967 as an assistant to then-President Delyte W. Morris, Mr. Lindsey had spent more than 20 years as a psychology and statistics researcher and research administrator for the U.S. Air Force and NASA. His work included analysis of aircraft and missile tests, human engineering studies and the collection and analysis of medical information during the formative years of the manned space flight program.

Before beginning his Air Force career, Mr. Lindsey taught algebra, science and music in East St. Louis public schools and directed the school system's band and orchestra. As an assistant to Morris, Mr.

Lindsey oversaw academic computing, data processing and institutional research operations at the University's Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses. He also taught statistics and research classes as an associate professor in the guidance department. He was assigned as a full-time teacher in 1970.

Survivors other than his wife include: his mother, Mrs. Annette E. Lindsey of Macon, Ill.; a son, Jefferson F. Lindsey III of Carbondale, a professor in SIU-C's Department of Technology; a daughter, Helen Lucile Lindsey of Fort Walton Beach, Fla.; and four grandchildren.

A memorial service was held Sunday at First Presbyterian Church in Murphysboro. Memorials may be made to the church.

City, owner differ on residency rule

By Bob Boudarant
Staff Writer

Although the City of Carbondale objects, rules restricting occupancy in Carbondale Towers to people who are elderly or handicapped may be relaxed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The City Council has recommended that a request by owners of the project to permit 10 percent of the project's 271 units to be rented to those who are not elderly or handicapped be rejected by HUD.

The total project is two towers with 231 units on West Mill Street, 40 units to the east of the towers on Mill Street, and eight townhouse units located on South Poplar Street.

The conflict surfaced after HUD notified the city that five low-income families living in the townhouse apartments would be allowed to receive rent subsidies. The city had been denying the rent subsidies since December, 1980.

In addition, the letter said that HUD would consider a request to open the Carbondale Towers up for rental to the non-elderly and non-handicapped.

The City Council has based its opposition to the moves on agreements made between the city, HUD, and UMIC, Inc., the project developers, and on its understanding that the towers would be open only to the elderly and handicapped.

UMIC agreed that no more than 20 percent of the units could be rented to non-elderly and non-handicapped units in receiving a zoning variance from the city. The towers are now owned by National Corporation for Housing Partnerships Inc.

The city acts as monitor of the project so that people qualify for rent subsidies and for the amount of subsidy.

The primary reason for the request, according to Jane Hughes, the city's interim director of renewal and housing, is the financial burden on NHP. Currently, 190 of the 231 apartments in the towers are occupied, and the towers need to be near full occupancy to be profitable.

"They feel that this will help them get 100 percent occupancy, and keep the project financially sound," Hughes said.

Also, other residents could be of assistance in case of emergency situations.

Even if non-elderly and non-handicapped rentals were allowed, Hughes said, the elderly and handicapped would receive priority in placements in housing.

A maximum of 35 units could be made available if HUD permits the change.

"It is possible that some of the 27 units could go to single persons who are students," Hughes said. Being a student does not factor into eligibility requirements, she said.

Logan courses on WSIU-TV

Students taking four special courses from John A. Logan College won't even have to visit Carterville to keep up with lectures. They'll be able to watch the class on television or see a videotape of it in a local library.

The courses are: "Making it Count," an introduction to data processing; "The Home Gardener"; "The American Short Story"; and "Japan."

All but the short story course will be broadcast by Channel 8, WSIU-TV between 7 and 8 a.m. during the week starting Jan. 25. Videotapes of all the courses will be available at the DuQuoin, Marion Carnegie, Murphysboro Sallie Logan and West Frankfort public libraries.

The special courses were designed to give students an opportunity to see if they like college material and for people who can't just drop what they are doing to attend a class during the day, according to Larry Adams, director of the Center for Instructional Change, at Logan.

Texans reject anti-gay housing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Backed by voter rejection of a proposal that would have allowed housing discrimination against homosexuals, the City Council will soon consider giving minorities protection in housing, a councilman says.

"The voters spoke very clearly today. I'm ready to act as soon as possible to make sure the ordinance is very clear," Roger Duncan said, adding the council should consider the anti-discrimination proposal within two weeks. The proposal would cover homosexuals as well as other minorities.

His comments came after residents of this city of 346,000 voted against an ordinance amendment that would have allowed property owners to discriminate against renters and buyers because of "sexual orientation."

The Saturday vote was 36,239 to 20,997. Austin has a reputation as the most liberal city in Texas.

Robb Southerland, a businessman who led the Citizens for a United Austin in fighting against the amendment, said voters "sent a message to the rest of the country that (Austin) is made up of open-minded and fair people who don't want anybody to be denied housing."

Southerland was pleased with the 27 percent voter turnout compared with the expected 20 percent turnout — and with the margin of victory.

Dr. Steven Hotze, who led the petition drive by Austin Citizens for Decency that put the proposal on the ballot, told his backers the battle is not over.

Throughout the campaign Hotze called homosexuals "criminals" and "sodomites." Texas law makes it illegal to perform homosexual acts.

WRIST AND HAND PROBLEMS

BY DR. ROY S. WHITE
Doctor of Chiropractic

If you feel a weakness, numbness or pain in your hand and wrist, the problem may be carpal tunnel syndrome.

This is caused by pressure on a nerve as it goes through a tunnel in the wrist. The tunnel is made up of several small bones and ligaments that form a groove. The nerve that passes through the groove is vulnerable to injury, especially when the wrist is bent back forcefully. This can happen when you fall with your hands outstretched to brace yourself or when you hit a swinging door with the wrist bent backwards.

Sometimes it results from the kind of physical exertion that is normal in your daily activities. A carpenter, for example, can develop the syndrome from heavy hammering. So can a mechanic who pulls forcefully on a wrench. So can a housewife who scrubs the floor by leaning on one hand with the wrist bent backward.

Whatever the cause, treatment is available to relieve the pressure and return your wrist and hands to their normal condition. Free of weakness and pain.

Book claims Christ survived crucifixion

LONDON (AP) — To call "The Holy Blood and the Holy Grail" controversial would be an understatement.

The book, published here Monday, suggests Christ married and had a child by Mary Magdalene, staged and survived his crucifixion and has living descendants among European noble families.

"Academically absurd," says the Right Rev. Hugh W. Montefiore, Anglican bishop of Birmingham. "It's worthless. (It contains) howler after howler."

"Absolutely obnoxious," says the Duke of Devonshire who, according to the book, is one of Jesus' descendants.

The derision is inevitable, says writer and filmmaker Henry Lincoln, 51. "We've been expecting it."

Lincoln, a Briton, and co-authors American novelist Richard Leigh, 39, and New Zealander Michael Baigent, 34, spent more than 10 years researching the book.

The work began with Lincoln's preparation of a 1972 British Broadcasting Corp. documentary on a 19th-century French priest, Berenger Sauniere.

The cleric reputedly amassed great wealth after discovering and deciphering four parchments hidden in a hollow pillar of his church at Rennes-le-Chateau, a hilltop village in the south of France.

The authors say they have discovered those parchments, or facsimiles, still exist and disclose the existence of a secret society called the Priore de Sion, founded in the 11th century. Its aim was to guard the Holy Grail — according to medieval legend, the cup used by Jesus at the Last Supper.

According to the authors, the words "Holy Grail" are a mistranslation of early French words for "royal blood," and the true purpose of Priore de Sion, which they say still exists, is to protect alleged royal descendants of Jesus and prepare the way for their accession to world power.

All this is controversial enough, but author Leigh said it led the three to re-examine the conventional interpretations of the New Testament. That study led them to propound a "hypothesis" that:

— Jesus married Mary Magdalene and had at least one child by her.

— He and sympathizers staged his crucifixion and resurrection, and he survived into old age somewhere outside the Holy Land.

—Mary Magdalene and her offspring made their way to southern France — then Roman-ruled Gaul.

—Jesus' bloodline has mixed with that of the Franks and started the Merovingian dynasty of the early Middle Ages. That line extends into the modern noble houses of Europe, so Jesus' descendants are alive today.

The book's contentions have met a religious firestorm.

"It is a sign of the degeneracy of our times that a publisher like Jonathan Cape should take this book," said Montefiore.
