Nurses Training May Be Offered At SIU Next Year

Plans have been made to establish a nurses training program at Southern, according to Dr. Henry J. Rehn, dean of the College of Vocations and Professions.

The plans, designed to help remedy the alarming lack of trained nurses in Southern Illinois, were discussed at an all-day conference here last week.

The conference decided, Dean Rehn pointed out, that the university should first establish a basic professional course of three years duration and use this as a foundation for the development of a degree program at a later time.

Miss Emily C. Cardew, coordinator of the affiliation program in nursing of the University of Illinois, pointed out the great need of nurses, especially in the field of public health. In some areas of Illinois, she said, we have one public health nurse for every 3,000 persons and in other areas there is only one for every 82,000. "We should have an average of one nurse for every 5,000 persons," she declared.

To remedy this shortage, Dr. Henrietta Herbolzheimer of the state Department of Public Health said, we must think first in terms of enlarging the over-all supply of nurses and secondly in terms of improving the attractiveness of nursing in positions in rural areas.

Nursing students will have the same status as other University students, Dean Rehn said. They will acquire competence not only in technical nursing but also in academic work as well so that they may be thoroughly trained college people.

Beginning in September, Southern will employ a person who will survey the needs of the area and set up a training program. University officials feel that there is a possibility that the actual training may be underway as early as next Spring.

Council, WSC Sponsor China Hop

Jimmy Hudson and his band will furnish music for dancing at the Weekend Social committee—Student Council "Chinese Hop" to be held tomorrow night from 8 to 11:30 in the Old Science gym. Late leave until 12:30 will be given to girls attending, and admission will be by activity card.

Acts were being enlisted this week for a short floor show during the evening. To begin the show, group singing and group dancing will be conducted.

Also appearing on the show will be James Trigg, Ed Lunde, and Leah Bradley in a brand-new slapstick comedy routine. Roy Clark will do an exhibition of modern jitterbugging with a partner not yet disclosed. Other acts have not yet been revealed.

Dress will be strictly formal, and refreshments will be available on the lawn, including free pretzels.

Jimmy Hudson and his band is well-known on Southern's campus, having played here on many occasions for the last few years. His music is designed to fulfill his motto—"Anything old, everything new."

To Present Annual Summer Play Here Tonight

STANDING IN THE CENTER archway is "The Admirable Chrichton," (John Miller), lead character in the summer play which will be presented in McAndrew stadium at 8 p.m. tonight (weather permitting.) There will be no admission charge. Pictured from left to right are: Betty Heisner, Tom Sloan, Dorothy Clutts, Wanda Bennett, James Trigg, John Miller, Sue Smith, and Ed Lunde. SIU Plans To Convert 26 Barracks to Dorms, Classrooms, Offices

Southern officials are making plans to obtain 26 barracks and a large E-shaped building from Camp Ellis near Macomb, it was learned today.

Applications for the barracks, which will be used to help solve the pressing need at Southern for more space, were filed last week, according to Dr. Charles D. Tenney, administrative assistant to the president.

If Southern obtains the barracks, they will be converted not only into classrooms, and offices, but also a boys' dormitory and student recreation rooms, Dr. Tenney explained.

Plan Boys' Dorm

Although no definite plans have been made, tentative plans call for a boys' dormitory to house 400, Dr. Tenney said.

If approval is granted, the huge task of moving the buildings to Southern's campus will begin in about two weeks. The barracks formerly were used as wards.

There also is a possibility that some of the barracks may be converted into a temporary Student Center, since plans for a new girls dormitory on W. Grand st. call for the razing of the present Student Center.

Big job of deciding what classes and offices will go in the various barracks is being studied by the university space committee under the chairmanship of Dr. Marshall S. Hiskey.

First Doughnut Hour Held Here Tuesday

About half of Southern's students and faculty members swarmed into Old Science gym last Tuesday from 9:30 to 10:30 to take part in a "doughnut hour," the second and last refreshment period of the summer term.

Phi Lambda and Kappa Phi Kappa, Phi Kappa, men's and women's scholastic honorary in the school of education, served as host and hostesses of the affair. Members of the Girls rally and Alpha Phi Omega assisted them in the distributing of 1,500 doughnuts and 918 bottles of milk, chocolate milk and orange drink to the students and faculty members.

Original plans were to have the "doughnut hour" on the lawn between Old Main and Anthony Hall but rain made it impossible to have it on the outside.

On June 15 Southern had a similar refreshment period in the form of a "Coke hour."

Refreshment hours, such as these, are made possible by the students themselves. Expenses are taken from their activity fees.

SUMMER MOVIES CONTINUE WITH KING HENRY FILM

The free summer movie series will continue Tuesday with the English film, "Private Life of Henry VIII." The film will be shown in McAndrew stadium at 8:15. In case of rain it will be shown in Shryock auditorium.

Charles Laughton, Robert Donat, Merle Oberon, and John Loder star in the picture which is a story of the lusty King Henry. Laughton received an Academy award for his performance in the film.

No Admission Fee For Noted Comedy

Tonight at 8 p.m. J. M. Barrie's "The Admirable Chrichton" will be presented free of charge by the Little Theatre in McAndrew Stadium.

"The Admirable Chrichton" is now running in New York with Jean Arthur starring. This play and "Peter Pan" are Barrie's most famous productions.

The Little Theatre's presentation of the play marks the first time that a play has appeared in McAndrew Stadium. In case of rain, the play will be given Friday night at the same time in the stadium.

Don Miller has the leading role as Chrichton, with other leading characters being played by James Trigg, Wanda Bennett, and Margie Reagan.

"The Admirable Chrichton" opens just before the monthly tea which democratic Lord Loam gives for his servants in order to prove that they and he can be equals. Chrichton, the butler, does not approve of his Lordship's idea. The tea takes place just prior to Loam's departure on a sea voyage with his three daughters, his nephew, Ernest, and a clergyman friend.

Party Wrecked

The party is wrecked, in act II, on a tropical island which Chrichton turns out to be the only successful individual.

In Act III, three years later, Chrichton has become the Governor of the island. Lord Loam and the others have become his followers. His romance with one of Loam's daughters is about to be consummated when a ship is sighted. On their return to London in Act IV, their experiences and Mr. Ernest's book on the subject bring them considerable fame. Chrichton returns to his post as butler.

Of this play John Gassner has written that it is unique among plays because it represents a compromise between fantasy and the drama of ideas that became current in England at the turn of the century.

McLeod Directs Play

Dr. Archibald McLeod is the director of the play, while Lawrence Voss is the visiting technical director. Classes in stagecraft, play production, and Little Theatre members are in charge of the scene construction.

Members assisting from the stagecraft class are Doris Schwinn, Margie Reagan, and Bob Brooks. Little Theatre members are Phyllis Alverson, William Meininger, and James.

The costume committee is made up of Johanna Deters, chairman, Sue Smith, Sherley Dollins, and James Roach. William Meininger is in charge of the lighting and Ed Lunde and Jim Trigg are in charge of sound.

Publicity chairman is W. Wayne Artis with Mrs. Linnet Lirely assisting. Pat Simpson is business chairman and Roberta Hallbrook, chairman, Tom Cox, and Tom Stubbs make up the property committee.

GRAD ANNOUNCEMENTS IN; MUST BE PICKED UP SOON

Graduation announcements ordered previously have arrived, according to Harry Dell. They should be picked up at apartment one, 804 S. University ave. within the next two weeks.

How Important Is Money?

Attendance at tonight's summer play may determine to some extent the attendance at future plays at Southern. Why?—because tonight's play, as an experiment, will be free to all university students and faculty.

In the past few years several reasons have been offered as to why there is poor attendance at Southern's plays. One reason often suggested was the cost (usually about 50c). Tonight that reason is on trial.

If tonight's attendance is exceptionally large, indicating that price of admission is a big factor, then steps may be taken to obtain money for production of plays from other sources or in another way.

Your staying away tonight may keep others away from plays in the future.—B. H.

Another Doughnut, Please

We found Doughnut hour this week to be very refreshing. And it was a welcomed change to see milk and doughnuts being served instead of the usual soft drinks and potato chips.

We think it proved that refreshments of this type can be served successfully and enjoyed by a large group. (We understand that nearly 1,000 bottles of milk or orange drink were served to the students and faculty.)

Maybe Doughnut hour will stand as an example to show other groups that it can be done. Another doughnut, please.—B. H.

Wars and Shortages

The Korean conflict has sent millions of Americans to grocery stores to buy some extra sugar or to service stations for some unneeded tires.

To us hoarding has always seemed somewhat asinine. To begin with, at normal buying, there is usually enough to go around. However, word gets around that there is a shortage. Hoarding then sends sales far above normal, thus creating a shortage, thereby forcing the government to ration certain items, and the hoarder, who started it all in the first place, sits back and says, "I told you so."

The one sure way to prevent hoarding is to prevent wars and the way to prevent wars—well, does anyone have a suggestion?—B. H.

A Card of Sympathy

About the most-asked question on the campus the past two weeks has been, "Are the Obelisks out?" We hear that the Obelisk staff was in hiding as much as possible and even the Egyptian office has been besieged by calls.

However, an important question not often asked is, "Whose fault is it that the yearbooks are late?"

People seem to jump to the conclusion most of the time that it is always the editor's or the staff's fault. In this case, however, both are innocent. The 1950 Obelisk staff met every deadline prescribed by the engravers and printers. The fault for the delay in your receiving your Obelisk rests with the latter.

Not only does the lateness of the yearbook cause the staff and editor to be the brunt of many sarcastic remarks but also the additional mailing of Obelisks burdens them with otherwise unnecessary work.

In college days I must confess,

I've often heard it said:
"The biggest block to one's success
Is usually one's head."

Advocates Cup--or Cot For Farthest Commuter

How dead can summer students be and still be? (Note: this is not a quotation from Shakespeare.)

By way of explanation, what appears to be rigor mortis is not that at all, but somnus profundus which is brought on at odd hours of the day due to the fact that the nightmares do not have a chance to occur sub sidera.

Indeed the somnus became so profundus in one class that the teacher's lecture plus the attraction of a complex contraption for making static electricity, an electro-scope, and other apparatus failed to keep one poor piscis inscipius awake.

One might understand this predicament in a stuffy, old language class, but to be an addict of somnus, in a class as profundus as physics, is simply "... not to be." —(Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice.)

Let this be said—the somnus was really no fault of the instructor or the student. A body can only become as weary as its resistance permits before it loses all of its weight in slumber. (Shade of Archimedes!!!)

This brings us down to the proposition in mind. Southern should award a cup (or cot) to the group of students who travel farthest to school.

One car lot of weary students travels 90 miles a day. This adds up to about seven hours in school, six hours on the road, three hours for meals and necessities, eight hours for study, sleep, and incidentals. (The government might get a good tip from these students on balancing the budget.)

Chief complaint of the women is, "My dress looks terrible, and my hair is a mess." The men don't complain. They just grin and bear it. (Don't pat yourselves too hard boys; you don't have Tonies, and you don't wear chambray dresses.)

Geel Summer school is grand! Ask any commuter.

New Music Hour Has High Interest

A musical salute goes to Dr. Maurits Kesnar, chairman of the university music department, for instituting the music hour programs in the Student Center on Monday evenings. The music is of the best, and Doc's comments would make it interesting, even to a Tin-ear. (No pun intended this time).

It is good to see something of a cultural value being offered on campus. In doing this, Dr. Kesnar is devoting his time toward the furthering of one of the main aims of a university—cultural improvement of the students. It is just as pleasing to see the interest expressed by students in the program.

Last week we lauded some students who are helping place Southern on the map. It seems appropriate that this week we should lift our hats to those faculty members who have recently made an important step forward in biological research. These persons, too, are helping bring Southern the type of recognition it needs, in addition to serving humanity as a whole.

Well, 'pun my word: Then there was the auctioneer who became rich the hard way—he rose bid by bid.

words, the following may be used as a vocabulary to decipher the above letter.

Somnus—sleep; profundus—deep; sub sidera—under the stars; piscis—fish; and inscipius—ignorant.)

Korean War Talk Echoes In Athens

by John Anastaplo

ATHENS, GREECE—Conversation on Athens streets today is confined almost exclusively to the invasion of South Korea, America's future position with the unexpected (here anyway) development, and what that move signifies in regard to Communist insurrections on a European scale.

Here in Athens alone 13 newspapers appear on the newsstands daily—13 papers with a preponderance of speculation, anxieties—and no comics.

The situation is tense—especially so at the Yugoslavia-Bulgarian border—just a day and a half from Athens.

Relations with Yugoslavia have been strained with the announcement in Paris by the former ousted Premier Venezelas that Yugoslavia is attempting to annex land west of the Grammos mountains and its 50,000 Bulgarian population.

The coming months in Greece will necessitate the application of first-rate diplomatic maneuvering by the United States personal representative, especially if civil war is renewed.

The people, however, seem to remain apathetic and lackadaisical to the events which soon might follow. It's a spiritual climate which shouldn't, on close examination, be entirely unexpected.

For ten years, since the fall of 1940, the Greece people have seen nothing but war, poverty, and more war. After so long one becomes rather oblivious to any provocations and "border incidents" become just "incidents."

Could the reason for compulsory P. E. for college men and women be to get them in shape to open some of the doors on campus?

"WHY—UM—YES, I know the classroom is the other direction, professor, but I'd be going to the h-health c-center—I don't feel well."

Surprising Women . . .

Nuns Amaze Students; Take Industrial Arts

By Phyllis Alverson

Perhaps the last course a nun would be expected to take is one in the industrial arts department. However, we have two nuns on campus this summer who are doing just that.

The nuns are Sister Valeria and Sister Mary Constance. They are Ursuline nuns from the mother house in Belleville. During the school year they teach. In the summer, like so many other teachers, they sometimes go to school, as they are doing now.

The day begins for the sisters at 7:30 when they go into the shops at Parkinson laboratory. They remain there until the shops are closed in the afternoon.

In the shops, amid the screaming of a power saw on wood, the chatter of shapers and planers, and the noise of hammers, the sisters spend the hot summer days. They are learning together the secrets of machine wood-working. Sister Valeria is taking an upholstery course and Sister Mary Constance is learning plastic and leather-working.

Industrial education is not the traditional course of study for nuns. The Sisters are aware of the amazement in the eyes of the people who see them at work for the first time. This attitude is the cause of much quiet amusement to them.

"I teach in Mascoutah in a two-year high school. Many of the children do not go any farther in school and shop training is an essential part of our curriculum," Sister Valeria explained. "I have not enough college training to give them credit in their high school work. I must get that training."

Sister Valeria and Sister Mary Constance first learned that they were to come to Southern together in the winter while they were taking an extension course in Mascoutah.

Sister Valeria is very tall; Sister Mary Constance is very short. The teasing began early about the picture they would make while walking down the streets of Carbondale.

Sister Mary Constance teaches crafts in an after-school recreation program at a grade school in Millstadt. "The children love to make things. Last year we had an exhibit and they were very proud of their work," Sister Mary Constance said.

The Sisters feel that people at Southern have been very helpful and considerate. They were a bit apprehensive about coming to a new school, but, according to the sisters, everyone they have come in contact with has been so kind that they feel at home already.

Tri Sigs . . . Southern Alums Elected Officers At Convention

Lt. Pauline Potts and Mrs. Betty Furr Glatheart, alumnae members of Southern's Alpha Nu chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority were elected national officers of the sorority at the national convention held at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago June 24-28, 1950. Lt. Potts is the new membership chairman and Mrs. Glatheart is the collegiate secretary.

Twenty-four members of Southern's Alpha Nu chapter attended the convention. Audrey Mayer was one of the two pledges to be initiated at the convention.

Other features of the meeting were a moonlight cruise on Lake Michigan, a formal dance to the music of Tex Beneke, and a luncheon for the Illinois chapters of the sorority. Highlight for the members of Alpha Nu chapter was a party given by Psi Omega, dental fraternity of the University of Illinois.

Girls from Southern who attended were Mrs. Jo Parker Rush, Phyllis Wolfe, Judy Gurley, Jeanne Webb, Margie Reagan, Rosie Knight, Rio Honda.

Runette McCarthy, Jane Mayer, Audrey Mayer, Jeanne Palmer, Sharon Womack, Marilyn Maulding, Jane Kibler.

Wilma Beadle, Joyce Rushing, Jean Lloyd, Joan Kimber, Betty Neburgh, and Betty Canaster.

Mrs. Annabel Ritter, Carbondale; Dee Haynes, Chicago; Lt. Pauline Potts, Centralia; and Mrs. Verna Legg Rossi, Chicago, were the Southern alums who attended.

TO HOLD DEMONSTRATION
An instructional mimeograph demonstration by Miss Florence Raye will be held in Barracks 3-C, the business administration department, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon tomorrow.

The demonstration, which is being sponsored by Pi Omega Pi, business teachers fraternity, is open to all and is of special interest to all future teachers.

Housing Office to Hold Householders Workshop

A Householders Workshop sponsored by the housing office of Southern Illinois university will be held July 26 and 27. This Workshop is for all persons who rent to students, and the purpose is for them to get together and discuss problems.

Mrs. Mabel Pulliam, Director of Housing Service, states that there is an enthusiastic response from the householders and that reservations are now coming in. There is a registration fee of $1.00, which includes two lunches at Anthony Hall.

The program will be opened by an address of welcome by Dr. Charles Tenney, Wednesday at 10 a.m. Following the address there will be a panel on "The Householder Shares in the Education of Students," which will keynote the entire program.

Members of the panel will be Miss Helen Shuman, chairman; Tom Sloan, President of the Student Council representing the boys' unorganized house; Lorene Sturgeon, student worker in the Dean of Women's Office representing the girls' unorganized house; Mrs. William Randle, householder of a boys' organized house; Mrs. Alto Doolin, householder of a girls' organized house; Mrs. Hilda Stein, faculty sponsor of Delta Sigma Epsilon Sorority.

Gher, Swan To Solo At Concert Tonight

Southern's summer chorus and Madrigal Singers under the direction of F. V. Wakeland will present a concert here tonight at 7 o'clock in the Little Theatre.

Georgia Gher, pianist; Ivan Swan, baritone, will be guest soloists, while Bette Mitchell will be the accompanist.

The program is designed so it will be completed in time for the audience to attend the play, which will begin at 8 o'clock.

Klingberg to Speak On Korean Situation

Dr. Frank L. Klingberg, associate professor of government, will speak on the Korean situation and its effect on world affairs at the Student Center at 7 p.m. next Wednesday night.

Dr. Klingberg will talk about the relation of the Korean affair to the world picture. He will give background material and also touch on the American foreign policy and the United Nations.

The speech will last half an hour, and the meeting will then be thrown open to questions and discussion.

At Last . . . After Long Wait Obelisks Arrive

At long last, the Obelisks are here! Southern's 1950 yearbooks went out for distribution Monday morning at the Student Center.

In order to simplify distribution of the Obelisks, all students who have not received their yearbooks should note the following conditions.

1. Students who were enrolled, at full activity fee, all three terms of the 1949-50 school year are entitled to an Obelisk at no cost.
2. Students having paid full activity fee for two terms may obtain a book for one dollar. Also, students who have paid one term's activity fee may get a book at the cost of two dollars.
3. Persons outside the university, faculty members, and university employees may receive an Obelisk at cost which is four dollars.
4. Obelisks will be mailed to all June graduates who meet the other qualifications providing the Obelisk office has their present, correct address.
5. Each student must get his own yearbook.
6. All payments must be made in cash.

All university departments will be presented with a complimentary copy of the book.

THREE BASKETS made by Southern students were among the several items exhibited at a special Giant City crafts exhibit on the first floor of Parkinson lab last week. The baskets were made in one of the several classes being offered at the SIU workshop at Giant City state park this summer.

Food Demonstrations Slated for Next Week

Four food demonstrations open to all students are scheduled for Main 110 next week.

Yvonne Lattig will give the first demonstration Thursday, July 25, at 10:20 a.m. She will talk on "Evaporated Milk."

Second of the demonstrations will be "Salads Styled for Holidays" by Doris Mathews, at 11:15. As an added attraction, holiday salads will be projected on a screen. "Seafood Special" will be the title of a demonstration by Louise Lux at 12:10 p.m.

A pressure-saucepan demonstration given by LaDonna Mitchell will be held Tuesday, July 25 at 1:10 p.m. Chop suey and hasty rice pudding will be featured.

A 45-minute demonstration on "Seafood Specials," which will include the preparation of three seafood dishes, will be given by Louise Lux at 12:10 p.m. Thursday, July 27.

Wall in New Library To Have Inscription

Suggested inscriptions, for use on the interior wall area of Southern's new library, have been sent out to university faculty members, requesting them to indicate their first, second, and third choices. They were also invited to add their suggestions to the list.

The proposal for the inscription on an interior wall area, which measures 8½' wide and 22' high, was made by Joseph Booton, Chief of Design, State Division of Architecture and Engineering. He proposed that it carry a suitable inscription in attractive, contemporary lettering.

The interior wall area will be strategically located facing the main (North) entrance and will be visible to all library visitors as they enter the building.
