Private German homes will house the SIU students under the direction of the University of Hamburg's Foreign Student Office.

Not all of the summer will be spent studying for some of the students. They're planning a short tour of Switzerland, Italy, France and Belgium. Arrival date in New York for the students will be September 4.

Pontiff Won World Praise For Christian Unity Efforts

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY

Pope John XXIII died in a coma at sunset yesterday - the end of his fourth day of pain and suffering in his simple cast-iron bed.

Death came to the 81-year-old pontiff at 7:49 p.m. (1:49 p.m. Carbondale time) - minutes after a Mass for him in St. Peter's Square.

"The supreme pontiff, John XXIII, is dead," the Vatican announcement said. "The inexorable illness...has snuffed out the strong fiber."

This was a reference to the pontiff's resistance to death since his condition took a turn for the worse last Friday.

He had a gastric tumor which caused anemia and then massive hemorrhages. Toward the end his condition was complicated by peritonitis, but his sturdy heart kept beating through crisis after crisis.

At the bedside of the Roman Catholic Church's 261st Pope when he died were his three brothers and his sister, Assunta.

The Pope's confessor, the Rt. Rev. Alfredo Cavagna, and the Pope's secretary of state, Amleto Cardinal Cigognani, had been in the bedroom before the announcement and presumably still were there when death came.

Thousands were in St. Peter's Square for the extraordinary Sunset Mass, celebrated on the balcony from which Pope John had given his first blessing after his election as supreme pontiff, Oct. 28, 1958.

With Pope John's death, the duties of the pontiff automatically went to 83-year-old Benedetto Cardinal Aosisi Masella. He immediately sealed the Pope's apartment, which must be left empty until a new Pope moves in.

A conclave to elect a new pope must start within 18 days. It could start sooner.

The Pope had described himself two days ago as serenely ready, "going sweetly toward the end."

But his stout heart resisted

Summer School Enrollment Running Ahead Of Last Year

Early registration figures indicate that this year's summer session enrollment will break last summer's record enrollment, according to Raymond Dey, director of the SIU summer session.

Dey and Marion B. Treece, supervisor of the Sectioning Center, said early enrollment is running about 200 above the figure for the same time last year.

Last summer's enrollment on the Carbondale Campus was 5,551. Total SIU summer session enrollment last year was 7,320 with 1,769 students at the Edwardsville campus, Dey said.

The total of 5,551 on this campus last year was an increase of 389 over the 1961 summer session enrollment, which totaled 5,162, according to Loren Young, assistant supervisor in the Registrar's Office.

Last year, for the first time, SIU offered 12-week summer classes for 100-level courses in addition to the 8-week summer classes.

Dey said, "The staff and students accepted the change in stride and didn't seem to object to the longer summer session." A total of 1,407 students were enrolled in the full 12-week summer session last year, he said.

This year the 12-week summer program will be expanded to include all 200 and 100 level courses. The only exceptions to this will be six or seven classes open only to seniors graduating in August who need the freshman or sophomore courses to meet graduation requirements.

Summer session classes begin on Tuesday, June 18, with the exception of certain workshop courses which begin on Monday, June 17.

Dey said the 8-week session will end on Aug. 9, and the 12-week classes will conclude Aug. 30.

Pre-registration for summer session ended May 31, but central registration for summer will be held June 13, 14 and 17.

and students will be able to sit down and wait for their turns.

Pre-registration for the summer session ended May 31 and summer session central registration does not begin until Thursday, June 13, so the only task being performed at the Sectioning Center this week is summer session program changes.

Church Bells Here Will Toll Until Pope's Funeral

The bells at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church here will toll three times a day until Pope John's funeral, the Rev. Robert T. Hutsch, pastor, said yesterday.

Shortly after the Pope's death was announced by the Vatican early yesterday afternoon the bells at the church tolled for 15 minutes to announce the Pope's death locally, the pastor explained.

Father Hutsch said that his Mass this morning was to be celebrated in commemoration of the Pope and that he is planning a special Mass on the day of the Pope's funeral.

"We will have to make arrangements for the special Mass after the date of the funeral is announced by the Vatican," Father Hutsch said.

The Rev. Cletus Hentschel, director of the Newman Foundation said no special services would be conducted at the Foundation in connection with the Pope's death.

Central registration for summer session will be conducted June 13, 14 and 17, Treece said, and late registration for summer will be held June 18-22.

5 Weekly Editors Nominated For Lovejoy Journalism Award

Five American weekly newspaper editors have been nominated for the Elijah Parish Lovejoy Award for Courage in Journalism, according to H.R. Long, chairman of the Department of Journalism.

Winner of the award will be announced during the International Conference of Weekly Newspaper Editors, July 14-19 in Pere Marquette State Park.

Nominees for the award, given annually by SIU's Journalism Department to a weekly newspaper editor selected for outstanding editorial service involving courageous performance of duty in the face of economic, political, or social pressures within his own community, are as follows:

E.A. Donnelly of the Central Oregonian, Prineville; W. Penn

Miss Settles Wins Home Ec Honor

Karen Settles of Canton was named the "outstanding freshman" in the School of Home Economics at the annual Home Economics Club banquet.

The award, a bracelet bearing the Home Economics Club emblem, is presented each year to the freshman student who is adjudged to have made the greatest contributions to the club and to the School of Home Economics.

Jones of The Midlothian (Texas) Mirror; Roy Lee Lucas of the Canton (N.C.) Enterprise; Rod Arkell, Alachua County Free Press, High Springs, Fla.; and Lindsey Williams, Rittman (Ohio) Press.

Donnelly, who wrote editorials on flouridation, saw his home and furniture partially destroyed by fire bombs.

Jones protested radical Birchite speeches in public schools in his home town. He said, "Although the town is five to three against me, I plan to stay and not change my editorial policy." His press was fire-bombed.

Lucas campaigned against bootlegging in the edge of the Smoky Mountains and received severe criticism from some local merchants and clergymen. William P. Cheshire, his assistant editor, also was nominated for the same anti-bootlegging campaign.

Arkell crusaded against Reds, socialism and bootleggers. He suffered an advertising boycott which forced him to move his press to Gainesville, Fla.

Williams was nominated for exceptional coverage and editorial treatment of an 84-day strike at a package corporation in Rittman.

PICNIC SHELTER - Woodworking technology students at VTI erect the framework of an experimental do-it-yourself picnic shelter which was designed and constructed on a trial basis by VTI and Carbondale Forest Research Center of the US Forest Service.

Do-It-Yourself Picnic Shelter Prefabricated By VTI Students

An experimental picnic shelter suitable for "do-it-yourself" construction or low-cost prefabrication has been developed as another use for southern Illinois hardwoods.

VTI and the Carbondale Forest Research Center have cooperated on the projects, says W. W. Rice, VTI woodworking technology coordinator and superintendent of the Wood Products Pilot Plant.

The pilot plant is operated at VTI jointly by SIU and the U.S. Forest Service for teaching and research. The shelter was erected by VTI students in Rice's light frame construction course, part of a two-year VTI program in woodworking technology.

Design of the 20 by 34 foot shelter is based on principles of rigid lumber frame construction with clear spans to provide easy access. Lumber used is plentiful in southern Illinois--native oak and hickory framing, and tupelo gum and sweet gum sheathing.

Total cost of materials, based on current market prices, was $283. Construction time for a similar shelter would be about 130 man-hours, Rice estimates.

The Forest Research Center will maintain the shelter as a public demonstration of some new uses for southern Illinois hardwoods. Similar construction could be used for garages, small shops, farm buildings, warehouses and residences, Rice says.

In addition to considerable local interest, request for shelter plans have come from as far away as the U.S. Forest Service's Tropical Forest Research Center at Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico.

Tyler Receives $14,677 Grant For Psychology Research

Forrest B. Tyler, associate professor of psychology, has received a $14,677 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health to finance a year of study and research.

The award, a NIMH senior stipend in clinical psychology, covers salary and traveling expenses for a year in residence in the department of medical psychology of the University of Oregon School of Medicine.

Tyler said the grant is effective next Sept. 1. In addition to studying and conducting research during the following year, he will visit major west coast institutions engaged in graduate training in clinical psychology.

During his absence, Tyler's position as head of the clinical training program in the SIU psychology department will be filled by William Simmons, a 1956 graduate of Southern. Simmons received a Ph.D. from Ohio State University in 1960, and is now director of psychological services at the University of Nevada. He is originally from West Frankfort.

Final Interview For NSD Borrowers

Graduating seniors, withdraw students, transfer students and those leaving for military service who are currently under the National Student Defense Loan Program must report for a final interview, according to Thomas J. Watson, Bursar at SIU.

The interview will involve an explanation of the repayment of the National Student Defense Loan.

Also to be discussed will be a review of the entire program and the rights and privileges which a student has under the program.

The requirements will be restated to make sure the students who have taken out a National Student Defense Loan fully understand their rights regarding cancellation or suspension of the program, according to Watson.

The exit interview is one of the requirements of the program itself. The majority of those interviewed will be graduating seniors under the program.

Federal Judge Delays Ruling In Alabama Governor's Case

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.

Federal Dist. Judge Seymour H. Lynne withheld an immediate ruling on the Justice Department's request for an injunction barring Gov. George Wallace from interfering with enrollment of Negroes at the University of Alabama next Monday.

"I expect to prepare a written memorandum," Lynne said after a 80-minute hearing on the Justice Department's petition. "I hope to have the memorandum not later than 9 a.m. Wednesday."

Lynne went into a conference with the battery of federal and state attorneys immediately after the hearing which Wallace did not attend.

The hearing opened with testimony from two witnesses called by the Justice Department in its effort to keep the fiery segregationist governor away from the university next Monday.

President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan of India arrived by helicopter at the White House yesterday to receive a welcome in the rain from President Kennedy.

The Supreme Court overturned Monday the murder conviction of a Louisiana Negro whose confession was broadcast on television to the community before he was tried.

Southeastern Illinois College issued 35 liberal arts degrees and five business certificates in its first commencement Sunday.

Dr. Delyte W. Morris, Southern Illinois University president, told the new college's graduates that larger institutions are encouraging development of junior colleges to take the burden of large enrollments off the four-year schools.

But he urged the college's graduates to seek further education because of what he termed a growing need for trained leaders.

President Kennedy conferred with Democratic congressional leaders Monday on civil rights amid indications that a message proposing new legislation may be sent to Congress shortly.

The White House was silent on whether there would be a message and those attending the conference said little more, but Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., acting Senate majority leader, said new civil rights proposals "will be presented by the administration later this week."

WASHINGTON

A senatorial inquiry into an unpledged elector movement aimed at denying President Kennedy Southern support in 1964 was ordered Monday by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn.

Kefauver said in a statement the Senate's Constitutional Amendments subcommittee heads will seek public testimony Tuesday on the effect and legal aspects of efforts in five states to free presidential electors from even the moral obligation of voting for the candidate heading either party's national ticket.

The United States announced it will resume normal diplomatic relations with the Haitian regime of Dictator Francois Duvalier.

Normal diplomatic dealings with the Haitian government were suspended following Duvalier's retention of office beyond May 15, when, in the U.S. view, his constitutional term expired.

State Department authorities said that it is in the best interests of the United States to resume normal diplomatic relations with his government.

President Kennedy said today that the concern of Pope John XXIII for the human spirit "transcended all boundaries of belief or geography."

In a statement after the death of the Pope, Kennedy said that "his wisdom, compassion and timely strength have bequeathed humanity a new legacy of purpose and courage for the future."

Pope John, the President said, brought compassion and understanding to the most divisive problems of a tumultuous age.

"He was the chosen leader of world catholicism, but his concern for the human spirit transcended all boundaries of belief or geography," the President said.

Pope John XXIII Dies At Age 81

beyond the expectations of medical men.

The Pope was stricken a year ago with a stomach tumor that caused hemorrhaging but he continued his heavy tasks virtually to the end.

A grave relapse occurred two weeks ago and he suffered a final crisis last Friday when peritonitis set in.

The Pope's death automatically terminates the major undertaking of his reign - the second Vatican Ecumenical Council. One of his successor's first major decisions will be whether to continue the council. It has been in recess since Dec. 8, and was scheduled to resume Sept. 8.

His death also leaves up in the air recent Vatican contacts with the Communist regimes of Hungary and Poland. It came just before President Kennedy, the first Roman Catholic chief executive of the United States, had planned to call on the pontiff.

Pope John - born Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli - had been spiritual ruler of the world's half-billion Roman Catholics for four years and seven months.

In his comparatively short reign, his warm simplicity, his great concern for his fellow men of all faiths and his outspoken dedication to peace, Christian unity and social justice made him one of the most beloved popes in the long history of the Church.

His last days were spent in suffering relieved only when he fell into coma.

Crisis had followed crisis and still his astonishing heart pumped life through his veins. His fever rose and so did his pulse rate. He was in what the Vatican called "atrocious pain." But he clung to a crucifix on his breast and suffered the agony with fortitude. When he could, he concentrated on prayer.

Embassies and legations of the 50 nations which have diplomatic relations with the Vatican immediately were notified of the Pope's death.

Expansion Dispute

Differences between SIU and Carbondale concerning the university's intention to buy private property north of Grand Avenue involves a failure to see the total situation on a long-range basis.

Carbondale's argument against the land acquisition is that property taxes now going to the city, and property taxes the city would gain after the construction of dormitories, would stop if the university bought the land. SIU does not pay property taxes.

However, as was pointed out by President Delyte W. Morris, the housing developments west of Oakland Avenue are a direct result of the growth of the university, and Carbondale receives the property taxes from that area.

The problem involves growth, and the failure to look beyond the next few years to see that growth. The university and the city each has it within its power to urge and promote and stimulate the expansion of the other--or to restrict it.

The city of Carbondale and SIU are both growing and are constantly alert for ways to grow faster and in the right direction. Carbondale, like any other city, works to improve its streets, commercial buildings and public services so that it might attract industry.

Likewise, Southern works for growth. It works to expand its research program and to improve and enlarge on its educational facilities to accommodate the growing number of students wanting an education. The new campus at Edwardsville is probably the best example of this.

The offer of land for facilities from the Murphysboro Chamber of Commerce indicates that city leaders there appreciate the long-range growth that can result from cooperation between a progressive city and a great university. It also is further grounds for disputing Carbondale's insistence that it stands to lose from Southern's growth.

Communications is another aspect of the Carbondale-SIU land controversy, for it must be present if there is to be growth without the antagonism and mistrust that had dominated the present dispute. According to city officials Southern's announced intent to acquire the land north of Grand Avenue came as a surprise to everyone and disrupted plans and zoning ordinances, which the university had helped to develop, for that area.

University officials, however, are attempting to mend their communication fences by frequent meetings with Carbondale city officials. It would be a mistake to discontinue these after the controversy passes.

Fallacy Of Self-Limitations

Part I:

The Dick Moore--Gerry Howe team, preparing for its take-over of Student Government, generally stands in agreement with the "conservatives" who opposed Student President Bill Fenwick all year.

That opposition was a negative vote on issues which began with Student Council backing of responsible non-violence, ran through the Athletics controversy and ended somewhere in the vicinity of a discussion on moral behavior.

Our main objection to the "conservatives," led by Gerry Howe, is the attitude summarized by Council member Robin Carpenter: "Who are we to take a stand on this item. After all, we're only students."

It has always been apparent that the "who are we" faction did not care to involve Student Government in issues which went beyond the physical confines of this campus.

The liberal group, by contrast, showed concern with the Blue Ballot, IPAC, student participation in university policy-making, a creative (if unfeasible) approach to student activity fee study, and even items of international scope.

The "who are we" attitude is self-defeating. It relegates Student Government to the kiddie corner. It doesn't belong there because a goodly portion of last year's Council was comprised of students over 21. Even if that were not the case, one should expect college students to be concerned with a little more than weekend activities and similar odds and ends.

Perhaps the conservatives felt the SIU administration would pat them on the head for their attempt to limit the influence of Student Government.

But we maintain that an administration worth its salt is proud of any student who wishes to participate in activities a little more important than programming dances, even if that activity involves the danger of controversy.

Siporin Cartoon Speaks For Many

We were delighted with the recent Siporin cartoon, "WSIU-Impressions". He has spoken for a sizable group in this university community who is ashamed of and dismayed by the mindless pap that is dished out by the "voice of SIU".

We hope that after the initial embarrassment has faded away, those responsible for policy and programming will realize that the stuff they are mounting is simply not consistent with the standards of this university.

While there is no excuse for the painful and repetitive mispronunciation of even well known composer's names, this is just a symptom of the madaday. A fundamental question must be answered by the station's directors as well as by the administration. This question is, what is the primary function of a university sponsored FM radio station? Is it merely a vehicle for the grooming of aspiring commercial radio announcers? If so, is this the task of an agency of an institution of higher learning?

Obviously an intelligent policy must be forged and implemented. Surveys and studies of long established and distinguished university FM stations ought to be launched if only to make clear how bad WSIU-FM really is. It is no solution to throw in a good taped program haphazardly, or to grind out the tried and true and for the most part dead "classical" warhorses twice a day. The very names of the present programs, which Siporin has satirized so well, reveals the sort of thinking which is absolutely antithetical to the values of the university idea.

WSIU-FM has a clear opportunity to begin to establish a reputation for quality and literacy in a wasteland of commercial broadcasting in southern Illinois.

This Writer Questions Value Of WSIU

I enjoyed and applaud Michael Siporin's "WSIU Impressions" in Wednesday's Egyptian. As a sometime student and taxpayer, I have wondered about the value of maintaining WSIU.

As I see it, a university radio station should provide learning experience for students expecting to go into radio broadcasting, culture and information for the community not available elsewhere. WSIU, in my opinion, provides none of these. The good music programs are made ridiculous by the mispronunciations of the announcers (my favorite to date is Respaghetti for Respighi) and the lack of attempt to fit compositions into the time allotted.

The five and fifteen minute news summaries are exactly the same as carried by other local stations, except that for the most part they are more poorly read. Apparently no attempt is made to upgrade or even change the programs, since the same format, with some few exceptions, is followed year after year.

I have listened to several state university radio stations over the years and have thought that many of them could stand improvement, but WSIU is far and away the poorest I have ever heard. Does it have any justification for existing?

Really Better Than A Live Show

In her recent series of articles concerning the use of instructional television at SIU, I think Cathy Drummond is guilty of "much ado about nothing." I don't want to belittle her efforts but some of her arguments were a bit shaky. For instance, she stated that instructional TV removed student-teacher relationships. How much of a relationship is there in a regular lecture hall of two-hundred or more students?

In my opinion instructional TV is very practical and beneficial in most cases. There is a definite advantage in that it removes the necessity of scheduling separate discussion classes for large sections, especially in General Studies courses. In CSC 103 the first half-hour is devoted to a televised lecture and the remaining portion to quiz and discussion. This eliminates the necessity of having to wait until the next discussion section which is three or four days later in some cases, in the standard lecture system. Instructional TV also takes the burden off sectioning in that they don't have to juggle separate quiz sections into a busy student class schedule.

I enjoy TV lectures (well almost) because it's the only time I get a chance to watch TV without commercials.

Campaign Rules

Senator George V. Graharr has stated that "the elections commission ought to suggest a set of campaign rules which will protect the integrity of the election and insure that acts of the calibre of Mr. Richard Moore's are in the future speedily punished."

I suggest that the commission should protect the integrity of an election by allowing each student an equal vote in the election. I believe the campaign rules presently in effect perform this function.

It can be argued that government should be institutionalized to assure an officeholder superior to the electorate. This is done to a degree by requiring a candidate to have at least a minimum academic average. There are, however, grave dangers in allowing a governmental body to judge the merit of a publication or to punish those involved in its composition or distribution. It is the prerogative of the electorate to judge the quality of what a candidate says.

Dear Governor

Apparent Requirements for a Governor in the South

1. To believe in the individuality of the "South", and as an area apart from the rest of the country, to put "it" before the interests and good of the nation...
2. To let one's governing decisions, when dealing with particular minorities, be ruled by emotionalism and prejudices rather than by personal integrity and intelligence...
3. To never hear the phrase "Love thy brother" and, upon hearing it by accident, to be unable to comprehend...
4. To consider educational institutions as a means of maintaining the status quo and the traditions of racial supremacy...
5. To be in a state filled with enough individuals steeped in prejudice and tradition, to be elected governor.

Baseball Squad Winds Up Season With 3-0 Win Over Menard

The long hard season is over for SIU's baseball team following its 3-0 win over Menard State Prison Saturday.

Glenn Martin's SIU baseball team ended the year with a 15-6 record, including the last eight games in a row. The Salukis didn't lose a game following the one-run defeat at the hands of Tulsa early in May.

John Hotz continued his fine pitching Saturday with a four-hit performance against Menard. He struck out 10 and walked only one in nine innings.

It was Hotz's fourth victory this spring to go with one setback. In his last three outings he has given up only one run. He gave up that one run in the 13-inning 3-1 win over Southeast Missouri two weeks ago.

Jerry Qualls and Jim Long gave Hotz all the runs he needed in the first inning. Qualls drove in Gib Snyder with the first Saluki run with a sacrifice fly. John Siebel scored on Long's sacrifice fly.

Clem Quillman drove in the final Saluki run in the sixth inning with an infield out.

Jeff Spillman singled off Hotz in the third inning for the first Menard hit. It was of the Texas League type. It dropped in front of Dennis Gentsch, who was playing the outfield in place of Dave Leonard. Leonard was forced to stay at home because of a final examination.

Spillman also singled in the seventh inning for his second hit of the game. The other two Menard hits were of the scratch variety.

Qualls again led the Salukis in hitting with two hits in three times at bat. He singled off the right field fence at the 320 foot mark. He was thrown out at second base trying to stretch the hit into a double.

He hit a ground rule double over the left field fence which was only 275 feet away from home.

Qualls ended the year with a .420 batting average. He had 39 hits in 93 times at bat. He also led the team in total hits, home runs, runs-batted-in and doubles.

Bardo To Try Out For St. Louis Hawks

Harold Bardo, former SIU basketball player and graduate will try out for the St. Louis Hawks professional basketball team.

He is one Of 17 Rookies who have been invited by Harry Gallatin to the Hawks tryout camp.

Bardo scored 233 points in 27 games for an 8.6 per game average during his senior year in 1960-61. He hit on 92 of 191 field goals for a .482 percentage and 49 of 70 free throws for a .700 percentage. He pulled 120 rebounds off the backboards.

Ed Searcy, former University of Illinois student and basketball player, plans to enroll at SIU in the summer. Searcy played one year at Illinois and then left.

Several other Illinois athletes are reported heading south to SIU. Bob Brown, former West Frankfort High School all-around athlete, is reported dissatisfied with Illinois and plans to enroll here in the fall.

Don Freeman, all-state basketball player from Madison, is reported also leaving Illinois. He has not said where he plans to go in the fall but it is believed he is headed here.

Belleville Basketball Star Will Enroll At SIU This Fall

Roger Bechtold, guard on last year's Belleville High School basketball team, will enroll at SIU next fall according to Jack Hartman, SIU basketball coach.

Bechtold averaged 18 points a game and is regarded as an excellent playmaker. He can also score from out front.

Bechtold joins teammate Dave Renn at SIU. Renn had already announced that he was coming to school here.

SIU Delegate Returns From D.C.

Robert Jacobs, coordinator of International Programs, has recently returned from Washington, D.C., where he attended a series of meetings with delegates from Great Britain.

The purpose of this meeting was to explore the possibilities of cooperation between the U.S. and Great Britain to promote the English language as a second language in foreign countries, Jacobs said.

Discussed at this meeting was the improvement of the teaching facilities in those countries that have already recognized the English language and giving assistance to agencies that are promoting the English language in various other countries, he added.

TOURNAMENT BOUND - Southern's tennis team brings a fine 16-2 record into the College-Division NCAA tournament at Washington Uni-

Tennis Squad To Play In NCAA Meet Thursday

Going into the College-Division of the NCAA championships, Southern's tennis team takes an impressive 16-2 record and some equally impressive statistics into St. Louis Thursday afternoon.

The Salukis were placed in the College-Division bracket and will compete in an eight team field at Washington University June 6-8. If coach Dick LeFevre's squad comes out on top, they will advance to the University - Division in Princeton, N.J., on June 17-22.

LeFevre will enter only four players in the championships with the list being headed by Lance Lumsden. Captain Pacho Castillo, and Bob and Roy Sprengelmeyer comprise the rest of the squad.

Lumsden, who missed the last three matches, posted an 11-4 won-lost record in singles play for a .733 percentage. Castillo won 14 matches out of 18 starts for a slightly better .778 percentage.

Bob Sprengelmeyer completed the regular season with an unblemished 18-0 mark while Roy lost only one match in 18 starts for the campaign.

Although Wilson Burge and George Domenech will not compete in the NCAA tournaments, both players have chalked up fine season's totals. Playing at the number five and six singles positions most of the year, Burge and Domenech have both returned in identical 14-3 records.

Vic Seper, who only appeared in the last three matches after Lumsden left for Jamaica to try out for the Davis Cup team, won two of his three singles matches.

As a team, SIU won 90 singles matches and only dropped 16 for a .906 mark. In doubles action, the Salukis posted a 43-10 record for an .811 percentage.

LeFevre utilized 12 doubles combinations during the year with the tandem of Lumsden-

A graduate exhibition by Daniel Devitt of Chicago, graduate art student, is being shown by the Art Department in the Magnolia Lounge at the University Center.

His current exhibit will be on view until June 14. Devitt recently exhibited in the 31st annual show of drawings and graphics at Wichita, Kan.

Bob Sprengelmeyer chalking up a perfect 8-0 slate.

The teams of Castillo-Domenech, Roy Sprengelmeyer-Burge, and Burge-Domenech were undefeated in four singles matches. Bob and Roy Sprengelmeyer teamed up in only two matches and were victorious in both.

Castillo and Roy Sprengelmeyer worked together in the most matches, 11, and won 7 of those. Lumsden and Burge copped 5 of 6 of their matches, while Domenech and Bob Sprengelmeyer captured 4 of their 6 matches.

Combined season totals find the Salukis compiling 133 points while holding their opponents to only 26. Combined individual percentage (singles and doubles) finds Bob Sprengelmeyer leading with a near perfect .919 season percentage. He is followed closely by his brother Roy and Burge with .857 marks.

Domenech posted an .818 percentage to close out his career while Castillo compiled a .750 mark. Lumsden turned in a .773 percentage and Seper listed a .500 percentage.

Student Fined For Intoxication

A student who passed out on the lawn of Woody Hall last Thursday night was fined $15 by Police Magistrate Robert Schwartz on an intoxication charge, University officials said.

The student, after partying at Crab Orchard Lake Thursday, went to Woody Hall Thursday night and was attempting to attract the attention of a girl friend when he became unconscious and the police picked him up, authorities said.

During his hearing in police magistrate court yesterday the student gave a false name to the magistrate to avoid having his name in newspapers, they said. He then called a girl and asked her to come to the magistrate's office to pay his fine. But when she arrived she used his correct name telling the magistrate she was there to pay the fine.

The student has been assigned by campus authorities to explain to Police Magistrate Schwartz why he gave a fictitious identification.

Library Of Congress Requests Copy Of Adam's Dissertation

The work of the head of the student work program at SIU is going to the Library of Congress.

The Library at Washington has requested a copy of the dissertation for doctorate written by Frank C. Adams, director of the Student Work Office, which is titled "A Classification System for Student Employment in State Universities of Illinois."

"Primary purpose of the classification plan," Adams explained, "is to aid in determining the educational value of student jobs."

Other purposes are to aid in establishing a system of job promotions in keeping with job performance and the instructional program; to establish an hourly rate range; and to develop a student employment classification plan which will supplement 'Class Specifications,' the classification plan for University Civil Service in Illinois, he said.

Adams' study recommends a student-work scholarship program on a national basis.

It is based on 166 job descriptions covering all areas of employment as of July, 1960, and is focussed on the development of a system of classifying by title, code and description the part-time jobs
