Judge rules 'quick-take' law unconstitutional

by Andrew Linder

The city of Carbondale can now take 'quick-take' property according to a ruling by Judge David E. Stonestreet. The city had previously been unable to take property according to a "quick-take" provision of the Illinois Constitution, but has now been granted the ability to take property under certain circumstances.

Carbondale Mayor William S. Proctor said the city was pleased with the ruling, which he said would allow the city to move forward with projects. "This is a huge victory for the city of Carbondale," Proctor said.

However, Attorney General George Napolitano, who will represent the city in the case, said he was disappointed with the ruling. "We believe the city's interpretation of the "quick-take" provision is incorrect," Napolitano said.

Napolitano said the city's interpretation of the "quick-take" provision is incorrect.

The city of Carbondale has been trying to take property for several years, but has been unable to do so under the "quick-take" provision of the Illinois Constitution. The city has been seeking to take property for a variety of reasons, including to build a new police station and to expand a park.

Soviets tell U.N. they won't be first to use nukes in Europe

"UNITED NATIONS AP" — The Soviet Union warned yesterday that it would not use the first nuclear weapon "unless we are forced to do so by a thrust of aggression." The statement was made at a United Nations meeting in New York by an aide to Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev.

"We will support our allies in defense of their freedom and independence by all means at our disposal," the aide said. "If our sovereignty and independence were invaded by force, we will repel the aggression with all means at our disposal." The aide did not spell out what means could be used.

"The Soviet Union, adhering to the principles of the United Nations' charter and to the laws of the U.N. and international law, would not be the first to use such weapons," the aide said.

The statement was made at a meeting of the U.N. special committee on the status of national sovereignty.

Court ruling is "necessary" for all

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled that a state law permitting the use of capital punishment is constitutional. The court ruled that the law, which has been in place for more than a century, is constitutional.

The court, in a 5-4 decision, held that the law does not violate the Eighth Amendment to the Constitution, which prohibits "cruel and unusual punishments." The court also held that the law does not violate the Fourteenth Amendment, which guarantees all persons equal protection under the law.

WCIL to lobby for nighttime radio

Fears that a nighttime radio station may take the station should have been addressed to a group of 39 people attending a meeting of the American Association of Broadcasters last week. The meeting was sponsored by the National Association of Broadcasters, who hope to lobby Congress to pass legislation that would allow nighttime stations to broadcast. The meeting was held in Washington and was attended by a group of representatives from various radio stations.

Preliminary work was done last year on a bill to establish a nighttime radio station in the United States. The bill was introduced by Representative John B. Anderson of Illinois and is designed to protect the nighttime audience. The bill would allow nighttime stations to broadcast within a certain range of hours, which would be determined by regulations set by the Federal Communications Commission.

The bill, which is still in the early stages of development, would require stations to obtain permission from the FCC to broadcast during the nighttime hours. Stations would also be required to provide programming that is appropriate for nighttime listeners.

Professors help Marion recorer

For the first time in 10 years, a group of professors from the University of Illinois have gathered to discuss the problems of nighttime radio. The meeting was held in the University of Illinois' Marriott Hotel.

The group, which includes professors from the schools of communication and broadcasting, discussed the problems of nighttime radio and strategies for improving nighttime programming.

The meeting was held in response to a request from the FCC for ideas on how to improve nighttime radio. The FCC is considering a rule change that would allow nighttime stations to broadcast for longer periods of time.

Nora S. Post turns down research job

By Michele Imman
Staff Writer

A decision by Nora Somit, president of the research administration, to leave her position as research specialist for the arts in the University's Office of Research Development and Administration has left Michael Dingerson, director, undecided on how to fill the position.

"I haven't decided whether to go through the search process," Dingerson said Tuesday. "Either I'll go to a list of the two other candidates who were interviewed or go through the search process again."

Dingerson said the two candidates are Carbondale residents but he declined to disclose their names.

Dingerson said he is undecided whether the search process, if implemented again, will be national or local.

Dingerson said he will meet with the research development staff Friday to discuss the research specialist position.

Ms. Post was selected from five finalists in a national search. The position was advertised in two issues of "The Chronicle of Higher Education" in the spring. John C. Caven, vice president for academic affairs and research, said the research development staff served as a search committee.

The number of applicants has not been disclosed.

Dingerson said that in the opinion of the search committee, Ms. Post was the best candidate for the job. Ms. Post, an accomplished oboist, would have been paid $12,000 a year to find grants to fund performing and applied arts at the University.

Dingerson said he is undecided whether the search process, if implemented again, will be national or local.

Ms. Post declined the position because of personal reasons after accepting it in May. Dingerson said she and Somit are legally separated, and she spent most of the past academic year in the East.

According to news reports, Ms. Post said negative reaction in the community to her appointment contributed to her decision to decline the appointment.

The position formerly was held by Sonya Eveslage, who resigned in the fall. Guyon said, "The job has been in place for many years," he said.

Tom Busch, assistant to President Somit, said the position should be filled as soon as possible. "We need to get moving in this area," Busch said. "It has been neglected.

Hawks ready to name new coach

CHICAGO (AP) - The Chicago Black Hawks have called off their search for a new coach this Wednesday at which they are expected to name former NHL head coach of the Buffalo Sabres as the head coach of the parent club.

The negotiations have been completed, Teister said last Friday from his New Westminster, British Columbia home. "I'll be in Chicago next week for the official announcement."

His family confirmed in a telephone interview Tuesday that he had arrived in Chicago, but they would not be released for comment.

Teister, 41, has been a consistent winner during 18 seasons as a head coach in the American Hockey League's play a very high-level schedule at LU, so she played against some of the toughest teams in the country last year. She's an extremely talented and ver-table player and she's a very classy lady.

The women's basketball team will learn from Carr and Pepe's Petra Jackson, a 5-9 guard from University City, Mo. Ocana brings the long-range jump shot that the Hawks sorely need. Last year her senior. Jackson averaged over 25 points per game while leading her University City High School team.

"I believe the freshmen has all the tools to develop into a strong conference player," O'Brien said. "She has a very consistent jump shot, something we really need... the Saluki coach said.

"She has so much raw talent that needs to be developed. She's going to be a good one."

After returning from hockey, he went to work for Molson's Breweries in Canada, then joined the junior coaching ranks at Cornwall, Ontario in the 1977 season.

He stayed there through the 1978 season, winning the Memorial Cup since the 1978 season, winning the Memorial Cup since and coaching the Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins, retired in the old Western Hockey League in the 1983-84 season.

"I wasn't a very good skater," he recalled. "I could slide and I could put the puck in the net, but you have to get there to put it in the net." After returning from hockey, he went to work for Molson's Breweries in Canada, then joined the junior coaching ranks at Cornwall, Ontario in the 1977-78 season.

"I don't think I have to prove anything anymore," Teister said last week. "When you win in junior, they say you can do it in the pros."

Football Saluki hires defensive coordinator

By Gene Stohlman
Staff Writer

Men's Athletic Director Lew Hartwig announced Tuesday that Carl Angelo will be the defensive coordinator of the SIU-C football team.

Angelo, former defensive coordinator at Howard University, will be in his third year as the defensive coordinator at Howard.

He is a graduate of Bowling Green University, where he was a three-year member of the football team.

He has been at Howard since 1979 and will be the first Saluki hired by Angelo.

Scott signs 4 recruits

By Jackie Rodgers
Staff Writer

Saluki women's basketball coach Cindy Scott leaves her office on Tuesday around 5 p.m. to make the drive to St. Louis to watch a girl's basketball camp. At the end of the camp, she makes the 90-mile trip back to Carbondale so she can be at work in the morning. She will keep this up for the rest of the summer.

Why does she do it?

"It's good exposure, good publicity for our program," Scott says, with a tired sigh. "It will help a lot."

The Salukis must have had some good publicity last year, as Julie Beck was able to lure four first-year newcomers to SIU-C.

Heading the list are a pair of transfers, Eileen Casey and Rose Peggles. Carr is a 5-foot-4-inch forward who led Morrisville Junior College to a 35-1 record and the Junior College National Championship.

Carr was also selected MVP of the JUCO All-Star game, which featured the top 20 JUCO players.

Scott believes Carr can add what the Salukis have been missing the past few years.

"He's a point guard who can kick the ball out and make them. They said head football coach Roy Dempsey. "He definitely will play a major role in our defense."

Dempsey said the change in coaches will not mean sweeping changes in the Saluki defense, which is a 5-2-2 alignment.

Howard's offense was 12-7-2 during Angelo's three years as defensive coordinator.

Dempsey said the professors at Howard University don't want the Salukis to look too different.

"I don't think we're going to change too much," he said. "I think they're going to make it. But statistically speaking, all three have done well. Free agents in the past have made the team. Some have even started."

Some Saluki punters have received a lot of acclaim and a chance to make the team.

"Every day around noon, they'll go out and punt," said Scott. "Some days they'll punt at 10 a.m. It's a really good way to get your kicks in."

Some Saluki defense have received a lot of acclaim and a chance to make the team.

"We are excited," said Scott. "It's a really hard team."

The Salukis also hope to get some good publicity last year.

"We are excited," said Scott. "It's a really hard team."

Various Saluki sports camps offered at SIU-C this summer

By Gene Stohlman
Staff Writer

A number of instructional camps in various sports are being offered at SIU-C for area youth this summer.

The second annual Roy Dempsey football camp, for boys ages 13-17, began Monday and runs through Thursday.

He is entering his seventh year as head football coach at SIU-C, said, "We have had some good All-Americans, including people who have the talent and a little bit of savvy at 13-17. These camps are always well attended and we have had a lot of success."

The Salukis will be former SIU-C football standout Kevin House and Tom Simons.

House, who is preparing for his third season with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football League, will coach receivers and offensive backs.

Simons, who finished third in the nation in puntin last season after redshirting as a free agent with the Dallas Cowboys, will coach defensive backs.

Other instructors included in the daily workouts at McAleer Stadium are Mike Emery, former SIU-C assistant coach and newly hired University of Arkansas defensive coordinator Bob Shaw, who will coach the defensive backfield, and area high school coaches Gary Gentry of Pinckneyville, Don Hawkins of Nashville, Bob Karms of Du Quoin, Jim Lovin of Carbondale and Rodney Sherrill of Perryville.
