An Objective Board?

There is serious reason to doubt the thought behind the recently proposed bill asking for a single board for the six supported state universities. The representation proposed for it would seem lop-sided to put it mildly.

Under the terms of this bill six members of the first board would be chosen from the present three boards—three from the U. of Illinois board, two from the Teachers College Board, and one from the board at Southern. The other three would be appointed by the governor and could be from any of the six universities.

Any member of the legislature can propose a bill of course. This one was introduced by six Chicago Democratic members.

The commission for higher education has proposed a committee to STUDY methods for an over-all board. The present bill would appear to be a rubber-stamp affair without a real thought or planning behind it.

An over-all board for the six universities will come eventually. But before that day much thought and planning should go into devising a plan to insure an objective board which will consider the best interests of the state AND the individual universities.

behind the news

By JOE BLEWETT

The saddest words of all—"your term papers are due tomorrow"—can be heard in many classes.

Term papers, book reports, and research projects—the rush season is on. No longer can one sit back with complacency and think, "Well, I've got six weeks to do that stuff." Now is the day of reckoning.

We are told there is a definite way to do term papers and research projects. The first step is to get going about the second week at the latest. This allows for plenty of time for the necessary planning, research, etc.

An interesting survey would be one which revealed the average period of the quarter when most students start on their term papers. My guess would be from the sixth to the eighth week.

But it would never do to release the results of such a survey to the professors. It might cause a complete revolution in teaching.

A book could be written about the different classes which students fall into when doing their term papers. There is the speedster who brags of turning out his term paper in one night—the last one. He usually neglects to mention the grade.

The "three o'clock" never begins his term paper until the wee hours when all the other excitement has died down. The ability of the college student to get along without sleep is legend and this bird is bent on living up to it.

The term paper can be just as big a headache for the instructor as the student. In some cases the instructor must grade term papers for several sections.

When the papers aren't handed in until the last minute the student often isn't the only one losing sleep.

The tricks, schemes, and other methods planned to get those last-minute reports completed would make a Dillinger blush with shame. Many are the stories on how this student or that student tricked his way through.

A quiet game is played by instructor and student in regards to those "methods" of getting by without the usual amount of work. This is the game of the student discovering a new method and the teacher relating it and devising another plan for its elimination.

While this game is a quiet one, you can bet the instructors have their own private grapevines to keep informed on the latest. Likewise, students as a rule know all the new methods—without ever thinking of employing them, of course. Much of the college education doesn't come from books.

But while the rush, rush and hurry, hurry is the main order of the day, students are still looking forward to spring vacation. The mass exodus to Florida is again being talked about. Very few of those planning the trip will actually go but it's all in the game.

Anti-Baby-Sitting League

It is a darn shame that the Southern Area resident mentioned in Tuesday's paper lost $35 in a poker game. In fact, it is a darn shame that his parents couldn't live at school with him and see that the "big boys" didn't take advantage of him.

By the time a student reaches college he should be mature enough to know what he can and can't do. If the money was his, why did he cry to his parents, and if the money was his parents' why should they cry to President Morris?

(they do trust him—don't they?)
To put it very crudely, I believe that our University is in one heck of a mess if the authorities have to babysit with students. I have taken part in many friendly poker games and never have I been forced to play (but then he could have been???)
One more thought has occurred to me: Would the president have cried to President Morris if Junior had won the $35?

Benjamin Talk Heads Dewey Anniversary

SIU will honor the 100th anniversary of the birth of John Dewey, American philosopher, with a lecture series to begin next week.

Dr. Harold Benjamin, SIU distinguished visiting professor of education, will be the first lecturer. His lecture is scheduled for 8 p. m. Monday in Morris Library Auditorium. He will speak on "John Dewey's Influence on Educational Practice." All lectures in the series will be free to the public.

Dewey, who died in 1952, was influential in shaping American cultural thinking. His ideas laid the groundwork for progressive education, which stresses "learning by doing."

Dr. Douglas E. Lawson, professor in SIU's Department of Education, Administration and Supervision, has this to say about Dewey:

"Many scholars, both in and out of education and philosophy, have recognized the fact that Dewey's ideas probably have had more impact upon American thought than those of any other single scholar in this century."
"Whether for good or ill, he has influenced the directions of thought in philosophy, sociology, law, education, psychology, and other fields.

"His many books and his teachings have disturbed thousands of persons and inspired other thousands.

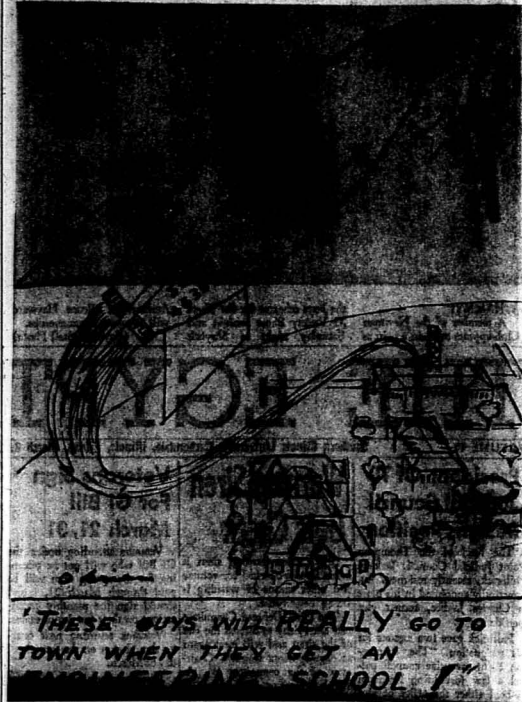

"Regardless of whether one likes or dislikes Dewey's ideas and methods," Dr. Lawson said, "no one can ignore him. His influence has been both profound and pervasive," affecting both professional theory and method in this country and in Europe.

"The current series of lectures and demonstrations will present an opportunity for many people to re-examine and re-assess the Dewey tradition and influence as discussed by some of America's leading scholars."

Dr. Benjamin, the first lecturer, is presently conducting a seminar in comparative education in the Department of Education, Administration and Supervision. He is former dean of the colleges of education at the Universities of Colorado and Maryland.

He is also currently directing the Connecticut Study of the Role of the Public Schools, a two-year project sponsored by the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Other Dewey lecturers will include Dr. John L. Childs, professor emeritus, Columbia University Teachers College; Dr. Henry N. Wieman, SIU distinguished visiting professor of Philosophy; Dr. George Geiger, professor of philosophy, Antioch College; and Dr. George E. Axelle, professor of education, New York University. Dr. Axelle will join the SIU faculty next fall.

The lectures are being sponsored by the Departments of Philosophy, Education, Administration and Supervision. Dr. Willis Moore and Dr. Arthur E. Lean, department chairmen, are co-chairmen of the lecture planning committee.

Men go for girls who go for Camels. So many of them, in fact, that this cigarette outsells every other—every filter, every king-size, every regular. That's been true now for 10 straight years. The Camel blend of costly tobaccos has never been equalled for rich flavor and easygoing mildness. The best tobacco makes the best smoke.

Scoring big with slick ideas like the Electronic Secretary* answering unit, product of America's second largest telephone system.

Your phone is always "tended" when an Electronic Secretary unit is on your "line." For it answers calls in your absence and takes messages as well.

Here's how it works. When your phone rings, a recorded voice informs the caller that you are out—and invites him to leave his name, number and any information he wishes you to have.

When you return—or when you phone in—all calls are repeated to you word for word. Result: no more "missed" messages, no more lost business, no more worrying about leaving the phone unattended any hour of the day or night.

This is just one of many ways Gen Tel is adding new dimensions to telephone communication. We know that, in America which is expanding fast on all fronts, it is imperative to expand both telephone service and telephone versatility.

And we're meeting the challenge by developing new products and better methods for bringing more and more people together.

Aquatic School At Little Grassy

SIU's Little Grassy Lake campus has been chosen for an aquatic school which will begin this summer. Edmund J. Mongeon, director of first aid and water safety for St. Louis and vicinity, and Jack Mandel, assistant director, made Little Grassy their selection of all the schools in the area and the surrounding sections of neighboring states. This aquatic school will serve sections of Illinois, Tennessee, Missouri and Kentucky.

Only 30 schools have been accepted into the aquatic school and Southern is the 31st. Both Mathei and Mongeon agreed that Little Grassy Lake was the ideal location to serve Southern Illinois and parts of the neighboring states. They also stated that Southern had the best facilities and many people including physical education instructors acquainted and interested in aquatics.

Christmas in Germany

SIU in Germany Reports

(This is the third of a series of articles from two SIU exchange students, Jean Williams and Joe Harris, in Hamburg, Germany. This article is written by Harris.)

My trip to Berlin over the holidays was bordered by two events that history will never forget: As I left for that city I was still glowing with pride over the fact that the United States, only a few days before, had launched the biggest assault on Hitler up to that time. As I returned to Hamburg on January third, I learned that, on that same day, the USSR had launched the first successful moon rocket. But my trip was all the more unique because of the great amount on discussion and conversation which is now being devoted to this city — an island torn between two factions of East and West.

I had sent a Christmas card to the parents of a German boy from Berlin who is not attending high school in my home state of West Virginia; and, upon the basis of this card, I received an invitation to spend the holidays in their home as their "son".

Since traveling to Berlin from Berlin who is not attending high school in my home state of West Virginia; and, upon the basis of this card, I received an invitation to spend the holidays in their home as their "son".

Traveling by thumb and by the most direct route toward Berlin, I reached Lauenburg, on the border, about 2:00 p. m. on "Heiliger Abend" (December 24); but there the "Bolkopplerei" informed me that only Germans were permitted to use this route and that I, as an "Ausslander," would have to go 150 kilometers farther south in order to travel via the autobahn (turnpike). However, in Lauenburg I was lucky — a young German, whose wife was Austrian, also had to take the autobahn, and he took me in his car.

When we again reached the border, it was already dark, but after an hour of plowing through buying a visa and declaring our baggage, we continued on our way, reaching Berlin about 9:00 p. m. In Berlin the driver of this car explained that this was his first trip to the city of his birth since 1943; he then pointed out the house in which he and others had been "buried alive" for 11 hours after one of the heavy bombings of the Second World War.

In Germany "Heiliger Abend" rather than Weihnacht (December 25) is the chief day for the Christmas celebration (the Germans explain that the children do not have the patience to wait until Christmas morning to open their presents), and, like Christmas in the States, has its greatest significance within the family. As I arrived at the home of my Berlin family, the Ullrichs, I was quickly made to feel at home, particularly through the many gifts left for me — presumably by the "Weihnachtsmann." The best example of the particularity of these, from a student's standpoint was a beautiful portable alarm clock! On Christmas day our special treat was roast duck and on each afternoon thereafter we enjoyed homemade apple or peach kuchen — a kind of cake that is uniquely German and West Berlin, it is particularly symbolic today of a divided city. At the Tempelhof Airport we saw the "Luftbrücke Denkmal," a monument to the air bridge which brought relief to the blockaded city in 1948-49.

The "Kongresshalle" is the structure most representative of Berlin itself; for in its design we note a kind of unreserved plunge into the modern period. But most impressive of the whole city of West Berlin are the myriad of new apartment houses distributed throughout the city. Designed by architects from many countries, they exhibit a truly international atmosphere and pool of ideas. I had to think of Berlin, in particular, as I walked the brightly-colored paneling of many of these new 15-20 story structures. We concluded this day by attending a local production of Mozart's Don Giovanni.

On the following day we prepared a tape to be sent to the Ullrichs' son in America. In the evening the Ops and Oma (the grandparents), two aunts, and a cousin met at the home of the Ullrichs in order to say "Hello" across the ocean. For me, the experience of sharing the feelings of these people sending their Christmas wishes to their young men in the state provided my best insight into the importance which the Germans place upon their family relationships.

Rebuilding Of Rodgers Theater Set

The Rodgers Theater in Carbondale will be rebuilt, Manager Tony Luckenbach said today.

Luckenbach said the decision to rebuild was made by Carson W. Rodgers, owner of the Rodgers and Varsity Theaters in Carbondale...

The new Rodgers will be designed and operated as an "art" theater. The Rodgers, built originally as a movie and vaudeville theater, had been operated as an "art" theater about two years before it burned.

Luckenbach said until the new Rodgers is built, the management hopes to offer some of the foreign and "art" type pictures at the Varsity Theater on a limited basis.

The new Rodgers will have a wide screen, with seats set back from the screen to provide better viewing than in the old theater, he said.

The space between the screen and first seats conceivably could be used for programs of other types, Luckenbach said, although this will depend on final plans.

Luckenbach said the new Rodgers will have about 530 seats and a larger foyer. The old theater had 770 seats and a balcony. It was a three-story brick structure.

Loss from the Feb. 23 blaze was estimated at $150,000.

Bypass Needed On Rt. 51, Lochner Says

Action on a Rt. 51 bypass around Carbondale must start quickly, engineers said at a formal presentation of the Lochner traffic report Wednesday afternoon.

About 50 persons heard H. W. Lochner of the Chicago consulting engineering firm explain the report.

District Highway Engineer W. D. MacLeod and other agreed action on the bypass must start quickly or subdivisions will be expanded so far west that the bypass route will have to be shifted or expensive right-of-way through new housing developments purchased.

Wednesday's meeting was the University School auditorium. State highway officials and representatives of Carbondale City and township governments, Jackson County and Southern Illinois University attended.

The tentative bypass route is just west of the city limits. Shifting it farther west, Lochner engineers said, would tend to defeat its purpose, which is to get through traffic of city streets.

The Rt. 51 bypass—given first priority by Lochner—would be a State Highway Department project, as a federal aid route in conjunction with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The second priority item, a Rt. 13 bypass to the north of the city, also would be a state project.

Carbondale's share of the program would consist of work inside the city limits and on state highways through the city. Cooperation with the township and county on roads bordering the city also would be included.

The local abate of the total $7.6 million project would be about $2.5 million, Lochner said. Two-thirds of the total would come from state and federal funds.

Lochner recommended that locally-financed projects be completed as repairs to existing roads become necessary. While not advocating huge indebtedness, Lochner said a bond issue is the only sure way to raise money to finance the improvements.

Ted Mof, chief of the Highway Department's Bureau of Research and Planning, told a questioner that the Rt. 51 bypass would not hinder expansion of the residential area to the west.

Basically, Lochner's report recommends "boxing in the whole city" with bypass routes. This series of interconnected bypasses would allow traffic freedom of direction to go around the city, relieving crowded city streets.

Lochner cited SIU as a major influence on increased traffic. He said much of the Rt. 51 bypass traffic would be to and from SIU.

Tuesday, March 17 Four, three, two, and one-hour classes which meet during the first period (5:45 or 6:00-9:00 p. m.) on Tuesday and/or Thursday 6:00. Classes which meet only on Tuesday night: Examinations will start at same times as the class sessions ordinarily start.

Wednesday, March 18 Five-hour classes which meet during the first period (6:00-7:25 p. m.) on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday 6:00.

Thursday, March 19 Four, three, two, and one-hour classes which meet during the first period (7:35-9:00 or 9:15 p. m.) on Tuesday and/or Thursday 6:00. Classes which meet only on Thursday night: Examinations will start at same times as the class sessions ordinarily start.

Friday, March 20 Four, three, two, and one-hour classes which meet during the second period (7:35-9:00 or 9:15 p. m.) on Tuesday and/or Thursday 6:00. Classes which meet only on Thursday night: Examinations will start at same times as the class sessions ordinarily start.

A special note needs to be made relative to examinations for evening sections for those classes which have been granted a special time for examining all sections. As some students attending at night may not be able to attend the special examination period scheduled for the daytime, each department involved will have to arrange special examination periods for such students.

This problem involves those night students who are fully employed during the day and who are taking night courses because it is the only time they are able to do so.

General Information

(1) Examinations for three, four, and five-credit hour classes will begin at the hours scheduled and will run for two hours. Examinations for one and two-credit hour classes will begin two hours and ten minutes later and will run for one hour. For example, an 11-o'clock class carrying four hours of credit will have its examination from 7:50 to 9:50 a. m. on Wednesday, March 18. A 11-o'clock class carrying a one-hour of credit will have its examination from 10:00 to 11:00 a. m.

(2) A student who finds he has more than three examinations on one day may petition, and a student who has two examinations scheduled at one time should petition, his academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day of the term. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that a student may decide to miss his scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for a student who has been approved by his dean.

(3) A student who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. In the event a student misses a final examination and is not involved in a situation covered in (2) above, a "W", followed by the tentative grade with sections, as some students attending at night may not be able to attend the special examination period scheduled for the daytime, each department involved will have to arrange special examination periods for such students.

STEGALL-BAILEY HOLD EXCHANGE

A pantomime performed by Mickey Sparks, and songs by Charles Schell, Lee Clark, Bruce Bagg, Dave Toth, and John Carlisle, were the highlights of an exchange party held for residents of second floor Bailey and second floor Stegall Sunday night.

Palm trees, pictures of "crazy" hats, and Bermuda shorts worn by the guests excited the mouth of the party, a record dance. Punch and cookies were served at intermission.

Captain and Mrs. Warren C. Moore were the chaperones for the evening. Jack Coats and John Carlisle planned the entertainment.

Chairmen for the Delta Chi section in the Variety Show are Don Wittman, Dean Hammingood, and Len Foss. Dan Bode is a candidate for the Service to Southern award.

Chaperones of the successful date party held Friday evening at the chapter house were Mrs. Boswick, housemother for Sigma Kappa sorority, and Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Maltes of the psychology department.

THEA XI POLISHES UP VARIETY SHOW

Social activities at Theta Xi fraternity were quite limited this week as the group made last-minute preparations for tonight's Variety Show. On Thursday morning, Fraternity members were interviewed on the WCFL Breakfast Club; first coffee was a main attraction for the early risers.

Ticket chairman Jerry Wallis announced that reserved seats for tomorrow night were sold out early this week, and tonight's reserved seats were proceeding at such a pace that a sellout appears likely. A complete sellout before show time would be a record for the fraternity.

Movie Hours

Humor, Drama Featured

Just imagine Ava Gardner shipwrecked on a desert island with her two favorite men!

This unusual situation comes about in tonight's campus movie, "The Little Hut." Stewart Graner and David Niven share top billing with Miss Gardner in this adult comedy, where three not only isn't a crowd, but a pretty neat arrangement.

Typically British, full of industry and originality, these three island-dwellers have all (almost all, anyhow) of the comforts of home, including a conch-shell telephone system. Their guardian and companion during the sojourn on the tropical isle is none other than a comical, hand-biting bulldog named Winston.

Saturday's movie is mindful of some of the goings on at SIU. "Bedtime for Bonzo" features
