'Star witness' gives version of killings

By Debbie Absher
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The "star witness" of the triple murder trial in Jackson County Circuit Court began his testimony Tuesday, describing to the court how he was shot and his three friends killed in Carbondale early Nov. 1.

Buford Lewis, 27, of 415 E. Fisher St., was the sole survivor of shootings in which Terry Eanes, Robert Gilmore and James Williams were killed.

Charged with three counts of murder and one count of attempted murder are Grady Bryant, Ronald Jenkins and Luther Carter.

The murders are alleged to have occurred shortly after midnight Nov. 1 in the mobile home of Eanes and Gilmore at 401 N. Barnes St.

Lewis testified that when he was searching for a job last October he had talked to Carter several times prior to Nov. 1 about a field counselor position with NARCO, a former community action drug abuse organization. All three defendants were employed by NARCO.

Carter told Lewis that three slots in the organization might open up and that he might be able to secure jobs for Lewis, Eanes and Gilmore, Lewis said.

Lewis said he had believed that

Carter was attempting to get jobs in NARCO for the three men, but that he finally gave up. "We didn't want the jobs because there was just too much confusion," Lewis said.

He said he and Eanes had decided to return to Atlanta, Ga., where they also maintained residence.

On Halloween night, Lewis said, he went to the trailer at about 9 p.m., left to go to his parents' house, went by the Club Manhattan, 212 N. Washington Ave. for 15 minutes and then returned to the trailer at about 10:30 p.m.

"When I go there Terry, Bobby and James were getting dressed to go out for the night," he told the court. "I was waiting for Terry to get dressed so I laid down on the couch and took a light nap."

He said he was awakened when the defendants knocked and entered the trailer.

"We began to discuss the job slots again. Grady was doing most of the talking," he related. "The conversation went on for a lengthy time, until about 12:20 a.m. I was still lying on the couch."

"The conversation came to a dead stop," he continued. "Grady reached into his right pocket and pulled out a .38 caliber revolver and said for everyone (Continued on page 2)

Jackson, Ford take leads in Massachusetts

BOSTON (AP)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson captured the lead in the crowded Massachusetts presidential primary Tuesday night and clipped the frontrunner's wings of Georgia's Jimmy Carter.

Carter won over two other entries in the snowbound Vermont primary, but was well back in the field in the Massachusetts main event.

President Ford swept to victory in Vermont, unopposed on the ballot, and in Massachusetts, where challenger Ronald Reagan was listed but where neither man campaigned personally.

Jackson was proclaimed the Massachusetts winner in the projection of all three television networks.

Massachusetts ranked the Democratic leaders this way, with 37 per cent of the 2,187 precincts counted: Jackson 23 per cent; Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace 19 per cent; Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona 17 per cent; Carter 14 per cent.

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana appeared to be the night's major casualty, gaining only 5 per cent of the vote, and talking like a candidate about to quit.

He thanked his supporters, and said he would meet Wednesday with "some of those who have been involved in this campaign."

"We're going to determine what role I should play as we continue to pursue the goal of electing a Democratic president," he said.

Massachusetts voted on a raw, snowy New England day, and because of the wather the turnout was low. It wasn't as bad as in Vermont—four towns there called off the balloting until later because of the heavy snow.

With 104 national convention delegates being apportioned on the basis of candidate showings, the Democratic count in Massachusetts stood this way, with 38 per cent of the precincts tallied:

Jackson 55,143 or 23 per cent.
Wallace 45,518 or 19 per cent.
Udall 40,434 or 17 per cent.
Carter 32,996 or 14 per cent.
Former Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma 17,603 or 7 per cent.
Sargent Shriver 16,882 or 7 per cent.
Bayh 10,805 or 5 per cent.

The rest were scattered.

In terms of national convention delegates, Jackson was leading for 28, Wallace for 24, Udall for 19, Carter for 16. Shriver led for 8 delegates, Harris for 6. The others were scattered.

Wallace, winding up a rally in Miami Beach, Fla., told the crowd he was running second in Massachusetts "whether they like or not..."

"And they thought I would run last," he said.

In Vermont, it was Carter all the way.

With 84 per cent of the Vermont precincts tallied, this was the picture: Carter 11,801 or 44 per cent. Shriver

7,930 or 30 per cent. Harris 4,154 or 16 per cent. Mrs. McCormack had 10 per cent there.

Ford men had been jittery about Massachusetts, even though they organized and advertised while Reagan didn't. There is a conservative bloc in the minority Republican party here.

But Reagan didn't appear to be polling any votes outside that predictable base.

With 31 per cent of the precincts counted, it stood:

Ford 21,479 or 62 per cent.
Reagan 11,929 or 34 per cent.

MEG arrests 35 on drug charges

By Debbie Absher
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

More than 97 law enforcement officials participated in a series of early morning drug arrests Tuesday and served warrants on 35 persons in five counties on charges of illegal delivery of cannabis and illegal delivery of a controlled substance.

The arrests were coordinated through the Southern Illinois Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG). MEG Director Richard Pariser said the warrants named 41 persons being sought for a total of 56 offenses.

Three persons not named in the warrants were taken into custody by officials executing warrants when contraband was found in the residences, Pariser said. Those three were charged with possession of either cannabis or a controlled substance.

Five persons named in warrants are presently out of the state, but Pariser said he expects them to be served shortly.

By Tuesday afternoon 12 persons were incarcerated in Jackson County, 12 in Perry county, five in Williamson County and one person was apprehended in Cook County on a Perry County warrant.

A 16-year-old DuQuoin youth was apprehended and will be referred to juvenile authorities, he said.

MEG undercover agents obtained about $3,000 worth of heroin, cocaine, psilocybin, LSD, phencyclidine (PCP), meth-amphetamine (MDA), marijuana, hashish and pharmaceutical drugs controlled under Illinois law.

Arrests were made in Carbondale, Murphysboro, DuQuoin, Pinckneyville, St. Johns, Coulterville, Herrin, Carterville and rural Makanda.

Agencies participating in the arrests include Jackson County Sheriff's Department, Carbondale Police Department, SIU Security Police State's attorney's Office, Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the Illinois State Police.

to hit the floor. I jumped up off the couch and was about to tell Terry not to do anything foolish.

"Before everyone could lay down Grady began to fire," Lewis said. "The first time he fired, a bullet hit me in my hip. I fell to the floor."

Lewis said the firing continued and he saw Carter and Jenkins "come to Grady's aid." He saw one of the men push Eanes toward Bryant, who shot him in the head, Lewis said.

Gilmore was the next person shot and his head fell on Lewis's arm, Lewis said. The shooting continued and moved into the back of the trailer, he said.

"I didn't say a word," Lewis said. "I didn't want them to know I was alive. They were killing everybody else, and I knew they would kill me too."

When the gunshots ceased, Lewis said, he heard someone mumble, "They're all dead." Someone returned to the living room and again shot Gilmore in the head, he said.

After the assailants fled, he said, he lay on the floor for another 15 minutes and then began dragging himself toward the door, where he heard a knock and saw his brother Robert through a hole in the door.

He said he told his brother he had been shot and to take him to the hospital. Robert and Kerry Matthews, a friend of Robert, carried Lewis to the car and drove him to Doctors Memorial Hospital in Carbondale, he said.

He remained in Doctors Hospital for three days and was then transferred to Good Samaritan Hospital in Mt. Vernon, where he remained for two months, he said.

Jackson County State's Atty. Howard Hood introduced into as evidence two pair of trousers, one of which Lewis identified as having been worn by Bryant the night of the alleged murders and the other similar in color and style to ones worn by Carter that night.

H. Carl Runge, defense counsel for Bryant, questioned Lewis in cross examination about several discrepancies between his testimony and statements Lewis had made in November and December to police officers and law officials.

Runge read from statements Lewis made to police after the alleged murder. In the statements, Runge said, Lewis said he told police he didn't know who the assailants were, and told the state's attorney the same on Dec. 18 at Good Samaritan Hospital.

But, at about 2:15 a.m. Nov. 1 Lewis told officers the first names of the persons who he said shot him and the victims, Runge said.

"And then, sir, the next morning at 7:40 a.m. you knew their last names and you told officers their full names," Runge countered.

"That's right," Lewis replied. "It all came back to me a little at a time." He said so many people were asking him questions and there was so much confusion that he didn't remember what he had told officers.

Under cross examination by Jackson County Public Defender Charles Grace, defense counsel for Carter and Jenkins, Lewis admitted that he had put a .38 caliber pistol under a pillow on the couch.

The pistol belonged to an out-of-state friend who had left it in Lewis' car, he said, so he took it into the trailer.

Grace asked Lewis why he had referred to the pistol when talking to police as if it wasn't actually his gun. Lewis replied that "it was someone else's, but I was in possession of it."

Grace also asked Lewis why he never mentioned until Dec. 5 the part Jenkins and Carter allegedly played in the incident.

"Nobody asked me," Lewis said.

"Are you telling us you recalled more of the incident one month and four days later than you did one day after it?" Grace asked.

"I remember more every time I think about it," Lewis said. "I reached back and got a photostatic copy out of my mind."

smaller communities and rural areas emphasizes the degree of drug trafficking present there, Pariser said.

The arrests also point out the mobility of traffickers, he said. "Individuals are moving to isolated areas to avoid detection and to guard their activities," he said.

SIU students charged were —Jeffrey Anderson, of Hester Street in Carbondale, delivery of a controlled substance (cocaine), bond set at $7,500 returnable for a preliminary hearing at 11 a.m. March 19.

a controlled substance (heroin), bond set at $20,000.

—Randy Busker, 18, of Carbondale, delivery of cannabis, bond set at $3,500.

—Richard Leibow, of Carbondale, delivery of a controlled substance (cocaine), bond set at $10,000 returnable for a preliminary hearing at 11 a.m. March 17.

Another warrant is being served on a student from Union County, Pariser said.

Persons charged in Jackson County warrants are —James Buster, 23, of Carbondale, delivery of a controlled substance, bond set at $5,000 returnable for a preliminary hearing at 1:30 p.m. March 17.

—Billy Cripps, 18, of South 17th Street in Murphysboro, delivery of a purported controlled substance, bond set at $5,000 returnable for a preliminary hearing at 2:30 p.m. March 22.

—Elva Akers, two charges of delivery of a controlled substance, bond set at $10,000 returnable at 1:30 p.m. March 23.

—Andrew Niceburg, of rural Union County, two charges of illegal delivery of a controlled substance, bond set at $5,000 returnable for a preliminary hearing at 11 a.m. March 23.

Hearings underway on new tenure plan

By Kathleen Takemoto
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In nearly three hours of discussion, Faculty Senate managed to review seven of the 19 articles of the proposed tenure document in a special senate meeting Tuesday.

The 12 remaining articles of the tenure document, prepared by the senate's Salary, Rank and Tenure Committee, are scheduled for discussion at the senate's regular meeting next Tuesday.

The senate also voted to hold a special meeting March 30, to consider amendments to the document. Senate members may submit amendment proposals up until one week prior to the meeting.

If approved by the senate and then adopted by the SIU administration and the Board of Trustees, the document would replace a section of the board's statutes which deals with academic freedom and tenure.

Most of the questions on the document centered around Article IV, Section B, which defines eligibility for tenure. The section reads, "All regular members of the teaching and research staff with the rank of professor, associate professor, assistant professor and instructor are eligible to acquire tenure."

The document also states that professionally trained persons serving in a position which may be "broadly interpreted as involving teaching and or research" may also be eligible for tenure.

Frank Horton, vice president for academic affairs and research, told the senate he was "concerned with the broadness of the definition in relation to teaching."

Horton questioned whether persons working in the academic press or institutional research and librarians would also be eligible for tenure under the guidelines.

Such persons, he said, would have to be assigned an academic rank within an academic unit since the document states that the granting of tenure must be initiated by the basic academic unit.

Herbert Donow, chairman of the Faculty Senate, said the document lacks operational or qualitative guidelines in the statements of eligibility.

Harris Rubin, associate professor in the School of Medicine, said the senate should define who is eligible for tenure.

"If we're going to distribute the document to the faculty, we should indicate who is eligible for tenure," he said.

Ruth Bauner, an associate professor in Morris Library who chaired the Salary, Rank and Tenure Committee last year, told the senate the committee had problems with the definition because titles are not used consistently within the University.

Horton also criticized the provision stating that the college dean's approval of tenure for a faculty member is not subject to review by the vice president for academic affairs.

According to the document, the only time the vice president would make a decision on whether to grant tenure is when the faculty member appeals to the vice president following a denial of tenure by the college dean.

Horton said the documents provisions would not allow him to be involved in granting tenure positions, "except in messy business."

Rubin said the determination of a negative tenure recommendation "should come from peers, not at the administrative level." The faculty members' peers and immediate superiors should determine whether or not he or she is granted tenure, he said.

The proposed tenure document also received criticism for its negative tone. "I find in certain areas that this document is a negative statement about tenure," Donow said. He said the document "focused upon ways in which tenured people may be eliminated."

Horton called the document a "defensive statement of tenure." Tenured faculty are the "core of the strength of this institution," he said.

Lebanon renegades refuse to surrender

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Renegade soldiers in Lebanon's snow-covered Bekaa Valley are refusing government overtures to surrender, menacing the cease-fire that ended 10 months of civil war. The heavily armed Moslems demand a public amnesty decree from Premier Rashid Karami as a guarantee of his pledges of good treatment for those who bolted for political reasons. The most prominent break-away, Lt. Ahmed Al-Khatib, said he and his 370 men will hold out until "the goals of the impoverished people" are met and religious balance is imposed on the Lebanese army. It has an officer corps that is largely Christian and Western-trained and oriented.

Japanese fear more radical bombings

SAPPORO, Japan (AP)—A powerful explosion in a state office building that killed two persons and injured 85 touched off fears Tuesday of a new wave of radical bombings in Japan. Police said they believed the blast in the entrance hall of the 12-story building as people were going to work was caused by a time bomb. Three hours after the explosion, an organization calling itself "East Asia Anti-Japanese Armed Front" said it had set the bomb to show opposition to "Japanese imperialism."

Scranton approved as U.N. ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Tuesday approved the nomination of William W. Scranton, former Pennsylvania governor, to be ambassador to the United Nations after Scranton vowed to respond forcefully to criticism from Third World nations. Scranton said that while he will offer cooperation and understanding to all, U.S. action to cut off foreign aid to nations that consistently obstruct legitimate U.S. goals "may be useful in certain places and certain times." But he added that while this tactic might offer useful leverage, "I don't think this is a weapon we'd want to use in great proliferation. We can overdo it. It should be used sparingly."

Howlett backers raise over $815,000

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A spokesman for Secretary of State Michael Howlett said Tuesday that committees backing the 61-year-old Democrat's bid for nomination as governor raised more than $815,000 for him by Feb. 15. Reports documenting contributions were submitted Monday to the Chicago office of the State Board of Elections, the spokesman said. And elections officials said the reports were en route to Springfield where they may be examined by the public as early as Wednesday with those submitted by committees backing Howlett's opponent in the March 16 primary, Gov. Daniel Walker.

Phone rate hike subject of council letter to ICC

By Terri Bradford
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council unanimously voted Monday to send a letter to the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) about the General Telephone Company rate increase request.

Councilman Hans Fischer suggested the letter recommend "judicious and careful evaluation" of the phone company's request and ask the commission to "consider the economic situation of persons in this community."

The proposed rate increase, applicable to all Illinois telephone exchanges, will be reviewed in a public hearing at 9:30 a.m. March 18 at the ICC office in Springfield.

"I think the rate increase mainly affects people least able to pay," Councilman Archie Jones said. "The increase would place a hardship on many people, and I would like to see something done about it."

Councilwoman Helen Westberg commented, "As bitter as it is for us to accept, the increase does seem to be justified. I don't see how we can oppose this vigorously."

Fischer said, "I think we could present something more substantial than that (letter). I don't think it will have much of an effect. On the other hand, if the ICC got three or four thousand letters like this, it would certainly have an effect."

"We have a number of unemployed persons in this area, as well as a number of students going to college who are not very well off," Fischer continued. He said it was "unnecessary and a waste of time" to send the mayor or city manager to the Springfield hearing.

Carol Koerber of SIU's Student Senate said the senate has sent a letter opposing the rate increase to the ICC.

In other action, council members reviewed a site plan report for Doctors Memorial Hospital parking lots.

"I think it is a good site plan," said City Manager Carroll J. Fry. "A Council decision should be made soon, because we need to get into the next phase, which is construction."

Chaired by Fry and composed of members of the police, fire, planning, public works and code enforcement departments, the Site Plan Committee approved the plan subject to the following conditions: Shielding security lights to prevent glare on residential properties, redesigning stormwater drainage areas, specifying one lot for use only by compact cars, identifying by sign six parking spaces for handicapped persons, depressing curbs at sidewalk intersections, and allowing use of city rights-of-way for locating signs to guide motorists to hospital parking.

The committee's stipulations will reduce the total parking facilities to 299 spaces, instead of the 312 originally planned.

Council members will take formal action on the site plan report in a meeting at 7 p.m. Monday at Parrish School.

Commission examines liquor law violation

By Tom Chesser
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale's Liquor Control Commission scheduled a public hearing Monday to examine allegations that Westown Liquors in the Westown Mall sold liquor to minors.

Commissioners voted to hold the hearing at 6 p. m. Monday at 609 E. College St. after examining a police report about the liquor sales.

Earlier in the meeting, commissioners reviewed a report submitted by City Manager Carroll Fry recommending the commission take no action on a complaint alleging sex discrimination at Merlin's of Carbondale, 315 S. Illinois Ave.

The report said there is insufficient evidence that Merlin's enforced its "no same-sex" dance policy discriminately on males only. The commission voted to drop the issue.

Fry said Carbondale Police Chief George Kennedy investigated the allegations and reported that they were unfounded.

Attorney Jona Goldschmidt, representing Jerry Hemstock, the chief complainant, told the commission he would formally resubmit the complaint and expect another review of the allegations.

Goldschmidt said Hemstock's complaint did not meet the three state requirements for complaints to be specific, written and signed by five complainants.

Goldschmidt said he doesn't think a second investigation into the allegations would change the commission's mind to deny the complainant a hearing, but he says he must pursue this step before appealing the commission decision to the Illinois Liquor Control Commission.

Following the commission meeting, the members met in their capacity as the City Council to postpone a decision to eliminate the requirement that no establishment serve hard liquor within 1,500 feet of a university. The city proposes to eliminate this law under the provisions of its home rule powers.

The council agreed to postpone its decision after Harvey Welch Jr., dean of student life asked for more time for university administrators to take a stand on the issue.

Mayor Neal Eckert said President Warren Brandt and Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, were just recently notified and recommended the council postpone action on the issue until the two consider it.

Speaking for the SIU Student Senate Carol Koerber questioned the logic of the council. She asked why the council in its capacity as the liquor commission tries to limit liquor licenses and then within a week tries to bring liquor closer to campus by proposing the elimination of the 1,500-foot law.

Sam Rinella, SIU's housing director, said Tuesday the elimination of the 1,500-foot law may hurt the effect of the state law prohibiting liquor on campus since, "students would only have to cross the street."

In other action, the council decided to postpone increasing the number of Class A liquor licenses to accommodate a liquor commission decision to allow Buffalo Bob's, 1101 W. College St., a license to sell beer, wine and hard liquor.

The council set a ceiling on hard liquor, Class A, licenses at 34. The council decided to postpone expanding the number to 35 since they were notified the license to sell liquor in the Quads, 1207 S. Wall, would not be renewed when it expires on April 30.

Councilman Fischer recommended and the council agreed to table the decision until the license renewal date was up.

Applications in for SIU legal counsel

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU expects to have between 75 and 85 applicants for the position of University legal counsel. Hollis Merritt, special assistant to President Warren W. Brandt, said Tuesday.

SIU received 68 applications prior to the March 1 deadline, he said, and is waiting for applications from 15 other persons who have been nominated for the job.

The 10-member legal counsel search committee is scheduled to meet March 12 to review the applicants, Merritt said. He added that some of the members of the search committee have already begun the reviewing process.

The search committee, organized by Brandt last November, is attempting to find a replacement for John W. Huffman, Huffman, chief attorney for SIU since 1972, wants to leave the University so that he can work full-time on his private law practice. He is still working part-time for the University.

The search committee held one previous meeting to discuss the qualifications for the legal counsel position, Merritt said.

Merritt said Brandt will convene the search committee meetings and serve as chairman of the committee. He said it is hard to predict what role Brandt will take in the committee meetings, although he said it would probably be similar to the role Vice President for Student Affairs Bruce Swinburne has as chairman of the Student Center director search committee.

Brandt has said that he expects the legal counsel search to take several months depending on how fast the search committee can narrow the number of applicants. Merritt noted that delays in obtaining references for applicants sometimes slows the search process.

The 10 members of the search committee and the groups they represent are:

Judicial board accepts chairman's resignation

The Campus Judicial Board's Executive Committee has accepted the resignation of Charles Peter Allison as chairman of the Campus Judicial Board for Discipline. Philip Grosshenrich, who succeeds Allison as chairman, said Tuesday.

Allison was placed on a temporary leave of absence Jan. 8 by Harvey Welch, dean of student life after Allison was arrested and charged with aggravated battery on Jan. 5.

Allison pleaded guilty to a lesser charge at a preliminary hearing before the Jackson County Circuit Court on Feb. 17 and his resignation was accepted Feb. 18.

Carl H. Harris, coordinator of University student judicial systems, had asked Allison to resign by Jan. 27, but extended the deadline to Feb. 18, the day after Allison's preliminary hearing.

Allison submitted his resignation as chairman on Feb. 2 and his resignation

Tom Schanzle-Haskins, Graduate Student Council; Hiram Lesar, dean of the SIU Law School, representing the Deans Council; Mary Helen Gasser, University affirmative action officer, representing the Administration and Professional Staff Council; Jerry Lacey, special assistant to the vice president for University relations, who is an administrative appointment.

as a board member was submitted Feb. 10.

Grosshenrich, who became the board's chairman pro tempore after Allison submitted resignation as chairman, was elected chairman at the Feb. 18 meeting.

Deborah Biss, senior in microbiology, replaced Allison on the executive committee.

Grosshenrich said Allison's resignation brings the number of openings on the campus Judicial Board for Discipline up to three.

ISSC fails as fairy godmother

By George Haas
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

For the past few weeks I have anxiously awaited some sort of late late show ending to the saga of the Illinois State Scholarship Commission's renege of scholarship funds, but the governor has not granted any reprieves as yet.

The ISSC dropped its little bombshell in the laps of the state's colleges and universities when it discovered it did not have enough funds to handle all of its spring payments and any of its summer scholarship promises.

The ISSC's reductions were originally approximated as 10 per cent for spring semester of 15 per cent in the last quarter for schools using the quarter system. This was later changed to 12 per cent for spring semester and the invisible buck has been passing ever since.

Supplemental appropriations were requested on the state level, but they could not be approved in time to help students this semester, unless made into an emergency bill. Gov. Dan Walker told a campaign that ISSC-aided students would not have their payments for second semester reduced, but no plan has materialized.

So colleges and universities around the state are now plagued with the most difficult of tasks—extracting more money from the already beleaguered college student. And all because the ISSC wrote a measly 93,200 bad checks.

The bureaucratic ping pong match of now-you-owe-us-maybe-you-don't, has subsided on the local level with the latest volley resulting in the invalidation of SIU's fee statements as contracts.

Although invalidating fee statements is a poor excuse for SIU to obtain its money. I have to sympathize for the institution somewhat. Forced to try and get its money from the students, the university will have to shell out some money to get it.

Eastern Illinois University estimated that it would cost $350 in mailing alone to notify its 2,250 affected students. I imagine the accounting job will cost a little more. SIU will probably lose money on students required to pay only a buck or two.

The effect the maximum fee of $36 places on the student seems negligible if it wasn't the time of year when students need the money the most. Budgeted down to the last day of school, $36 is half a month's rent and almost a month worth of food, not to mention how much beer that would buy!

The ISSC really stepped in it this time. Its policy of issuing 20 per cent more awards than it has money for finally backfired. To make matters worse, Illinois' Master Plan Phase IV calls for the ISSC to raise the maximum grant allowed students. This makes even more people eligible for an award, when it's already got too many people for the money it has. Oscar E. Shabat, chancellor of the University of Illinois-Chicago campus has already criticized the ISSC for not processing its monetary award applications year-round. Reviewing applications periodically will help keep tabs on how much money is going out, instead of leaving to chance how many students will or will not accept their monetary awards.

At any rate, some kind of monitoring system is needed so that colleges don't get stuck holding the bag as in the present situation, and then politely dropping it on the heads of the students.

Dick Gregory: A view in black

Dick Gregory spoke Sunday night in the Student Center Ballrooms, not as a comedian or humorist, but as an informationist. He went through the comedy ritual that some people came to see for about 45 minutes before getting down to real business.

Brother Gregory's main objectives were to relate information and to stimulate thoughts. Throughout the lecture he purposely insulted people, stepped on toes and called names, hoping that a few of us would awaken from our deep sleep and view the affairs of the world realistically, not as they are portrayed by others.

Gregory's lecture covered a wide variety of current national and worldwide topics. He spoke of such things as the food shortage presently creeping into the American mainstream and its impending threat to us. He commented on various ways to prepare ourselves for this shortage, such as proper diet control, consistent exercise and mass boycotts of high-priced foods.

He flawlessly yet emotionally reiterated on a topic frequently used as a political football, welfare. He mentioned the probability of the Mafia assigning welfare queens to most major U.S. cities. He also informed the audience of the not so publicized Lockheed welfare case.

Gregory appealed to the women in the audience to begin in some way to promote equal rights for themselves in all areas of American life. He illustrated the need to overturn the sexist advertisements and literature that so grossly influences the minds of young men, women and children in America.

Brother Gregory denounced the few people that run America saying, "They care nothing about you or your personal welfare, they view you simply as a dollar to be made." He spoke of the various social sicknesses that engulf America and young Americans responsibility to head off the pending disaster.

This was the first time I viewed Brother Gregory in person, and he impressed me as being extremely versatile, one who for so long was an established comedian, yet today can view the American structure with astute seriousness and see through its veil to its flaws.

The picture he presented his listeners was unblemished by subjective or foolish rhetoric. This he must be complimented on, since the material he lectured on was difficult and controversial.

Brother Gregory, keep on doing what you're doing because America so badly needs it. And for those people who were in attendance Sunday night, be overjoyed, because it's a rare opportunity to see a man of Dick Gregory's magnitude as well as hear the truth spoken, all in the same evening.

Later,
Yours in Black expression

Tuition hike threat still real; Walker budget not enough

By Lenore Sobota
Student Editor-in-Chief

Gov. Daniel Walker's promise to prevent a tuition hike next year should not lull students into a false sense of security about the proposed budget the governor will officially unveil Wednesday.

Walker has promised that the tuition hike recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) will not be in his budget. He has not promised to replace that income with General Revenue Funds. Walker has promised salary increases for university employees. He has not promised to recommend them at the 7 per cent level endorsed by the IBHE.

This is an election year and political promises are made to be broken.

While passing through Carbondale last week on a campaign swing, Walker stopped long enough to say, "I won't be able to give higher education everything it wants." But before answering how much of what it wants higher education will get, Walker zoomed off to shake a few hands and survey the blackbird situation in Massac County.

Walker has not promised to prevent program cut-backs. He has not promised to halt faculty firings. Asked whether the ax may fall on various programs later in the year, Walker's only reply was, "I don't think that will be necessary."

With the Democratic primary less than two weeks away, Walker is trying to create an impression of fiscal responsibility. He steadfastly said he could not support an increase in funding to any university during the current fiscal year. Then a few minutes later he reports that there will be over $100 million left in the General Revenue Fund at the close of the fiscal year.

Illinois public universities requested $584.9 million in appropriations for operations and grants in Fiscal Year 1977. The IBHE recommended $558 million in cluding a tuition hike of $60 for undergraduates and $90 for graduate students.

Walker has recommended appropriating $118 million for universities and community colleges in Illinois. The increase of $42 million over last year is only half the amount recommended by the IBHE.

The IBHE will have to decide how much of the $818 million will go to public universities. Walker says the amount is high enough to avoid a tuition increase, but is it?

The additional revenue generated by the tuition hike was to be used for funding two per cent of the recommended salary increases, most goods and services, equipment and library materials, according to the IBHE's budget recommendations.

If Walker does not replace the tuition increase money with General Revenue Funds, where will the universities find the money?

At SIU's two campuses and the School of Medicine in Springfield, the tuition hike was supposed to generate $2.3 million for use toward program support, salary increases, general price increases and equipment and library adjustments.

Under the plan submitted to Walker by the IBHE, the SIU system would receive $14.9 million less than it requested if it does not hit students with a tuition hike.

It is easy for Governor Dan to say there will be no tuition hike in HIS budget. It is easy for the primary candidate to promise to stop the tuition hike, "if I have my say about it." But if he decides to fund universities at a level too low to maintain quality education, the money is going to have to come from somewhere.

Administrators are not going to cut the fluff at the top and eliminate a vice president or two to make up the deficit. Either academic programs will have to be slashed or governing boards will be forced to raise tuition—and Dandy Dan can go before the voters and claim he had nothing to do with it.

Voters face crowded March 16 ballot

By Bob Springer
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The political process may not begin with voting, but voting is probably its most obvious form.

The first form voters will be asked to fill at the polls in the March 16 Illinois primary is whether they wish a Republican or Democratic ballot. And those 24th congressional district voters choosing to go as Democrats will find a ballot displaying the obvious fact that the political process in Illinois is war between maverick Gov. Dan Walker and the regular party organization.

That war has permeated beyond the state races level and into the presidential delegate selection part of the primary ballot.

The presidential part of the primary has two sections: the first is the "beauty contest" popularity poll, the second is election of delegates to the national nominating conventions.

Democrats will have four candidates in the beauty contest to choose from—Fred R. Harris, Sargent Shriver, George C. Wallace or Jimmy Carter. Republicans will have three choices—Lar (America First) Daly, Gerald R. Ford or Ronald Reagan.

The popularity poll is non-binding. While its results are important to candidates in terms of media exposure and momentum for subsequent primaries, the more crucial battle in their drives to capture party nominations lay in the election of convention delegates. That's where the war being waged by Walker against his party makes a pivotal entrance.

Illinois will elect 155 delegates to the Democratic convention, with 14 more at-large delegates to be chosen later. Analysts believe the four Democratic presidential candidates will be vying realistically for 35 to 40 of the 155 elected delegates. The rest will probably be divided between Walker's camp and favorite-son candidacies marked uncommitted but backing the anti-Walker drive.

Here in the 24th congressional district, 30 delegate candidates are competing for seven posts. Half of those candidates are committed to one of the four presidential contenders—the rest are either on the uncommitted slate of Congressman Paul Simon or on Walker's own slate. There is one delegate candidate supporting Sen. Adlai Stevenson, who is also on the anti-Walker, pro-party bandwagon.

The deadline for mailing applications for absentee ballots in the March 16 Illinois primary election is Thursday, March 11.

Applications being mailed must be in County Clerk Robert Harrell's office in the court house in Murphysboro no later than that date.

However, Harrell said persons wishing to vote by absentee ballot can visit his office in person and do so through 4 p.m., Monday, March 15.

Student Government is processing applications for voting absentee in their offices in the Student Center's third floor, according to Doug Cooper, executive assistant to the student body president.

The University will be closed for spring break the week of March 13-21, and most Jackson County Democrats are predicting a lower Democratic voter turnout. Harrell said there are between 35,000 and 37,000 registered voters in Jackson County, and "students make up a large per cent of that figure."

What a substantially lower than normal voter turnout means to candidates and delegate slates few county Democrats are willing to predict, but Ray Buss, district assistant to Congressman Paul Simon, said he fears a low student vote may help the renegade ticket of Gov. Dan Walker and the Walker delegate slate. Walker aides have been virtually silent on voter turnout speculation.

The state office races between the Daley-backed ticket of Michael J. Howlett and the Walker slate may have a coattail effect on the Illinois delegate races, but no one other than the politicians themselves is willing to speculate much.

In any event, the Walker-Daley dogfight will undoubtedly have its toll on the presidential races and make power brokerage that much more dominant at the nominating convention when it meets in New York City in July.

On the other side, Republicans will elect four delegates from each of Illinois' 24 congressional districts, with five at-large delegates to be chosen later for a total of 101 delegates going to Kansas City from Illinois in August.

Republicans in the 24th district, which encompasses 22 counties and 615 precincts, will find 12 delegate candidates vying for the four posts. Ford has two candidates committed to his presidential bid and Reagan has three delegate candidates in his camp; the rest are uncommitted.

Democratic delegate candidates, with their presidential preference in parentheses, on the 24th district's ballot are:

Ken Wollin (Carter), John Ragan (Carter), Ron Mazander (Carter), Leonard DeClue, Jr. (Carter), Rad D'zambazovic (Carter), Valgene Gould (Wallace), Mike Gould (Wallace), Don H. Whistle (Wallace), Donna Jean Griffing (Wallace), Roy C. Willis (Wallace), Harold D. Miller (Wallace) and Bobby J. Green (Wallace).

Also on the ballot are: Paul Simon (Uncommitted), John Rednour (Uncommitted), Rosemary Hawkes (Uncommitted), Robert V. Walsh (Uncommitted), Gerald (Jerry) Sinclair (Uncommitted), Ben Cherry (Uncommitted), Kenneth J. Gray (Uncommitted), Lilly E. Crane (Stevenson), T. Max Aud (Harris), John Loyd (Harris), David W. Owen (Harris) and Robert J. (Bud) Williams (Walker), Kathy Walker Vaught (Walker), Betty Ison (Walker), John A. George Maksin (Walker), Larry A. Douglas (Walker) and Janet Wolff (Walker).

The 12 Republicans running for four open slots to their nominating convention, from the 24th district with their presidential preference in parentheses, are:

Rose S. Vieth (Reagan), Jane Hayes Rader (Uncommitted), James B. Wham (Uncommitted), Joseph R. Hale (Ford), John Powell (Uncommitted), John G. Gilbert (Uncommitted), John W. Oldham, Jr. Robert D. Albright (Uncommitted), Howard H. Olson (Ford), Leonard Wells (Uncommitted) and John F. Austin (Uncommitted).

Delegates elected to either of the party nominating conventions pay their own expenses. The system of choosing at-large delegates is a kind of reward by the state central committees to higher officials of the party.

Democrats will elect 10 of the 14 at-large delegates at their state convention, to be held sometime in late May. The other four will be appointed directly by the state central committee.

In another election-watch story tomorrow, this space will outline the feud between Walker and the regular Democratic party organization, and look at how the state office races are shaping up.

Traffic hazard

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to comment on the traffic conditions that exist on Grand Avenue between Washington and Wall Streets. Due to the construction of the Co-Rec building the sidewalk on the north side of the street is usually covered with mud. Also, on the south side of the street there is no sidewalk between the two parking lots.

When it rains people walk in the street. I guess they would rather get hit by a car than get muddy. I suggest that the University build some sort of temporary sidewalk on the south side of Grand between the two lots so people would not be forced to walk on the roadway.

Along with pedestrians, the bicycles present a potential hazard to the motorist and bicyclist alike. If a bike path could be put next to the temporary sidewalk this problem would be alleviated.

But I'm sure that the University will say this is a construction site and we must live with inconveniences. And once the building is completed sidewalks will be put in. I think that we can live with the trucks and mud, but when personal safety is jeopardized, action should be taken. I hope SIU will not wait until some pedestrian or bicyclist has been injured before this traffic hazard is rectified.

Thanks for Olivia

To the Daily Egyptian:

In a recent letter (Feb. 25) to the Daily Egyptian, it was implied that Olivia Newton-John offers a low quality of music to SIU. I disagree with the student who wrote that letter. He considers Olivia Newton-John a talentless act. Granted everyone has his own musical tastes. But for myself, I would like to thank the Cultural Affairs Committee for bringing her to the SIU campus. Today, Olivia Newton-John; tomorrow, Linda Ronstadt!

Instead of criticizing the acts that do come to SIU, why not criticize the committee? The acts don't come down here because they've got free time, they're asked by the committee. I'm sure the writer of that letter is not the only one who doesn't like her, but there are many who do!

Segregate smokers

To the Daily Egyptian:

In reply to Bruce Holding's article on smoking, I would prefer segregation of smokers and non-smokers in all public places. I have many friends who smoke, but if I have to make a choice between eating or watching a movie with friends who smoke or friends who don't smoke, I would choose no smoke.

Somewhere in our laws it says a person has the right to do whatever he wants, as long as he does not interfere with the rights of others. Smoking definitely interferes with my right to clean air and good health.

Segregation may be an ugly picture to Bruce Holding, but to me, a non-smoker, I'd rather have segregation of smokers than have a headache and irritated breathing passages from the choking atmosphere a smoker creates.

Ice cream chef 'flavors' cafeterias

By Rita Elliott
Student Writer

Every semester about 400,000 cups of ice cream are made for the residents of SIU's dormitories—all by one man. Chef Bob Mandrell has made the ice cream for SIU dorm residents for 11 years. Mandrell prepares 25,000 cups of ice cream each week.

Mandrell makes the ice cream at Grinnell Hall. From there it is distributed to cafeterias in Grinnell, Lenz, Trueblood Halls and the Student Center. He also supplies ice cream in bulk three gallon containers to the Student Center and the snack bars at Grinnell and Lenz Halls.

After 11 years of experience, Mandrell said he can make ice cream by ear. He said he can tell when the ice cream reaches the desired texture by the sound the ice cream machine makes.

Mandrell uses five gallons of ice cream mix and concentrated flavoring for each ten gallon of ice cream. Real fruit is used in fruit flavored ice cream.

Mandrell uses an ice cream machine which blends and chills the ingredients to a temperature of 26 degrees in just nine minutes.

The mixture is then poured into a cupping machine which measures four ounces of ice cream into each plastic cup. Lids are placed on the cups and then they are stored in a walk-in freezer at 22 degrees below zero.

The ice cream is ready to eat in three hours. Mandrell prefers not to ship the ice cream out immediately. Instead, he keeps five days worth of ice cream stored in the freezer at all times.

Though he has 53 different recipes, Mandrell usually sticks to eight main flavors. These are burgundy cherry, butter pecan, chocolate, chocolate chip, chocolate ripple, strawberry, vanilla and white cherry. Occasionally he makes sherbert.

Theater series opens with short play, mime

The Theater Department began a new student-acted and directed series Monday afternoon in the Laboratory Theater. The series, entitled "Theater 4," will be presented every Monday at 4 p.m. in the same location.

"This program comes from the fact that students always want to do more than the department can afford to produce," Rob Pocklington, publicity director for the Theater Department said. "The majority of the programs will be screened by Joel Proctor, assistant professor in charge of the directing classes. If he (Proctor) approves them, they will be presented as the next date's program."

"The program is not funded by the school," Pocklington said, "any expenses come out of the pockets of the students involved and the particular director. We decided it would be good to have something similar to Quarter Night going on all the time. It gives people a chance to see theatrical productions inexpensively and gives students an outlet for their work."

The works will range from one half hour to an hour in length. The works will include cuts from known plays as well as some student-written works. "It will be a showcase type of thing," Proctor said, "just one act or a scene. It's going to be a lot of fun."

Monday's opening performance included a cut from a modern English drama featuring Rebecca Smith, a freshman, and Kim Quigley, a graduate student in theater, as well as a comedy skit by the SIU Mime Troupe.

Copyright regulations do not allow the names of the plays to be publicized in this type of program.

Sculptress to host exhibit of work

By Mary L. Heeren
Daily Egyptian
Entertainment Editor

A "Forty Years Retrospective Exhibition" of sculpture in bronze and wire by Fredda Brilliant will open with a public reception from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday in the new South Exhibit Gallery in Faner Hall.

The exhibit will continue through March 24 with visiting hours at the gallery set from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Fredda Brilliant, wife of SIU professor of research and projects Herbert Marshall, said the exhibit will contain 60 or 70 pieces of her work done over 42 years. One of the displays is not finished and will be displayed in a glass cage because "it is so very fragile." This exhibit, the figures for a mobile sculpture called the "Three Graces" will ultimately be about six feet tall, the sculptress said.

Much of her work has been done for governments and noted personalities and includes the official Mahatma Gandhi memorial in London's Tavistock Square, which will be on display at the SIU exhibit.

Also to be displayed are a bust of Professor Buckminster Fuller, a sculpted head of Sergei Eisenstein, Russian film director, a sculpted head of Vladimir Mayakovsky, Russian poet, and a bronze head of Prof. Marshall, done in 1936, chosen as one of the three best portraits in the Soviet Union at the Sculpture Exhibition of the Museum of Fine Arts, Moscow.

Of Brilliant's sculpture, art historian and critic Edmund B. Feldman of the University of Georgia wrote in the catalog for the retrospective that "we have in her work the record of a lifetime devoted equally to the exploration of personality and the discovery of form. This exacting work calls for the utmost in artistic skill...the results are solid and substantial in more than a physical sense."

Brilliant's other works include the official bust of Sir Isaac Hayward for the Hayward Gallery, London; a bust of Sir Maurice Bowra, former vice-chancellor of Oxford University, and a bust of Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives Carl Albert, none of which will be exhibited here.

Brilliant said that although many of her sculpture portraits are commissioned, "my ideas—my philosophical work—are not commissioned." She explained she "thinks in the form of sculpture like a dancer thinks in the form of choreography and an architect thinks in the form of structure."

Refreshments will be served.

Sculptress Fredda Brilliant, works on a figure called the 'Three Graces' to be displayed at her 'Forty Years Retrospective Exhibition' beginning Saturday in the South Exhibit Gallery, Faner. This section is one of three that form the total work, which will ultimately be a mobile work. (Staff photo by Carl Wagner)

Daughter of lecturer dances with pro troupe

When the Don Redlich Dance Company performs at University Convocations March 11, there will be two proud parents in the crowd, Sally and Herbert Roan of Carbondale. Roan is a lecturer in the SIU Design Department. Mrs. Roan is an interior designer. Their daughter, Barbara, is one of the five members of the dance company which will appear in Shryock Auditorium.

Barbara came to the nationally acclaimed company in 1973 after years of performing, teaching and choreographing.

As an undergraduate she studied dance at the University of Wisconsin. Her professional training includes work with Martha Graham, Jose Limon, Alvin Ailey, Erick Hawkins, Merce Cunningham, Don Farnsworth and Maggie Black. She has taught at the Dance Theater Workshop, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, the Light Dance Studio and is presently on the staff of Bennington College, Vt.

Roan's choreography has been performed at New York's Cabiculo Theatre, Lehman College, George Washington University, and as part of the New York Department of Parks New Year's Eve Festival.

Besides her own work with the Don Redlich Company, Barbara is the director of her own dance group, the Blue Mountain Paper Parade. Created in 1971 under the Creative Artists Program Service, the Blue Mountain Paper Parade is part of Dance Works Inc., and is comprised of 25 professional dancers and some non-dancers with theatrical backgrounds. Since its establishment in 1966, the Don Redlich Company has made extensive national tours, performing in over 100 major college and civic theaters. Its five members represented the United States in the 1969 International Festival of Dance in Paris and were participants in the 1969 Billy Rose season on avantgarde dance. In 1973, the company participated in the New York Spring Dance Festival.

The group will perform March 11 at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium. Sponsored by the Department of Theater, Academic Affairs and the National Endowment for the Arts, admission is free.

Lenten season begins with Ash Wednesday

By Melissa Malkovich
Student Writer

Lent has been a period when Catholics give up something—whether it be candy, smoking or watching television.

But that is changing, said the Rev. Bill Longust, pastor of the Church of St. Francis Xavier, 963 S. Poplar.

"It is not so much giving up something, but doing something for others," Longust said.

The 40-day Lenten season begins Wednesday for the various Christian denominations.

The Reverend Jack Frerker, of the Newman Center, 715 S. Washington, said, "One reason they (ash crosses) used to be worn was taken from Genesis 3:19.

"Remember man that you are dust and into dust you will return." This seems to tie in death. But there are better ways than to scare people. The emphasis on penance today is a good deal more positive. Penance should be looking to the future and making sure that some type of behavior will not be repeated," he said.

Another aspect of Lent that has changed is the traditional diet.

"The rules used to be fasting and abstinence several days a week. Fasting has changed and there are fewer rules," Frerker said.

According to the present rules those 14-years-old and older are supposed to abstain from eating meat on Ash Wednesday and all the Fridays during Lent.

Female enrollment increases as agriculture interest grows

Until recently, women students studying agriculture were pretty much an exception to the rule at SIU.

But lately, the number of women in agriculture has practically doubled each year since 1970, said William Doerr, assistant dean of the SIU School of Agriculture. This school year, 185 women have enrolled, almost 20 per cent of the entire School of Agriculture's undergraduate population.

All that interest in forestry, horticulture, general agriculture, animal industries and plant and soil science has now blossomed into a new student organization called Women in Agriculture, which bears the nickname "Waggies." The group was organized primarily to explore and promote employment opportunities for women in the agriculture field, said Doerr.

Doerr says many agriculture-related industries are undergoing a "major change in thinking" about employment practices and some firms are now hiring women—previously all male positions.

Women have always been interested in agriculture-related studies, Doerr believes, but it was not until a few years ago that they actually began responding to those inclinations. One spur, he said, has been the women's movement and the federal government's stand on equal employment opportunities.

In 1970, 17 women were enrolled as agriculture majors. By 1973, that figure jumped to 59, and in 1974, SIU listed 102 women agriculture undergraduates, Doerr said.

The new organization will meet twice monthly to promote educational and social programs in the School of Agriculture.

Charter officers include: Sherry McKenzie, chairperson and a junior in general agriculture; Bethann Pesman, vice-chairperson and a junior in animal industries; Cynthia Obamwonyi, corresponding secretary and a junior in plant and soil science; and Wendy Sue Hall, reporter and junior in general agriculture.

Mountaineers seek membership climb

By Rick Korch
Student Writer

The Shawnee Mountaineers are having a membership drive at 8 p.m. March 9 in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center for all interested persons.

The club, which is funded by the intramural office, takes a trip every weekend in Southern Illinois in which they do backpacking and climbing. Currently there are about 25 members in the club, but that number is expected to double as the temperature rises.

Meetings are held every Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Activity Room C of the Student Center. At these meetings, the site is determined for the coming weekend trip. The Shawnee Mountaineers leave Saturday mornings and return Sunday evenings. A membership fee of $4 per semester is required to join the club.

The trips are usually in a 60 or 70 mile radius in Southern Illinois, but trips are occasionally planned for Clark National Forest in Missouri. A trip to Colorado is planned after finals week in May.

A trip has been planned to Jackson Hollow for March 7-8. Besides climbing, the club will clean up the area.

There is no experience necessary to join the club, and experienced climbers teach the new members.

Diet sours swimming team

By Mark Kazlowksi
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

The SIU men's swimming team is not as sweet as it used to be.

Since being put on a carbohydrate depletion diet that eliminates desserts, the swimmers have been irritable and are swimming slower, Coach Bob Steele said.

"They're just about where I want them to be," he said, sounding more like a tyrant than a coach who is sending his team into an important meet.

SIU will compete in the National Independent Championships Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Columbia, S.C. Steele said the third annual meeting of independent swimming teams has been rated among the top four conference meets in the country by many coaches.

While the diet has not been a piece of cake for the tankers, preparation for the meet has not been all bad. They have been resting.

"They've had the most rest since they've been swimming," he said. "They've had so much rest that they don't know what to do."

With the rest and an increase in carbohydrates, Steele is hoping the swimmers will be able to lower their times at the championships.

"The competition and facility are so good that it should help the guys that haven't swum so good swim better times," Steele said.

The team to beat in the 18-team field appears to be Miami, Fla., according to the SIU coach. The second through sixth spots are a tossup between SIU, South Carolina, Florida State, Cincinnati and Texas at Arlington.

Last year the Salukis were third behind South Carolina and Miami.

Entry is limited to 18 swimmers per team. SIU is taking 15 tankers.

Steele suggested the depth Miami and South Carolina have might make both tough to beat. For all 15 of the Salukis to score, Steele said some of his swimmers would have to have big drops in time.

The meet represents the last chance the swimmers will have to make the standards for the NCAA championships. For those who have already met the standards, it will be the last chance to get good seeds for the nationals.

Steele said Paul Schultz, Steve Jack, Rick Fox, Dave Boyd, Greg Porter and Bryan Gadekan should make the standards in the meet while Dennis Roberts and Pat Miles have an outside chance.

Jorge Delgado is a favorite in the 200-yard butterfly. Dave Swenson is among the top swimmers in the 1,650-yard freestyle. Mike Salerno is also in the race for the championship in the backstroke events.

After the National Independent Championships, the Salukis will have until March 24 to prepare for the NCAA meet which begins March 25 at Providence, R.I.

City, Marion face off in AA playoff opener

By Jeff Schwartz
Student Writer

After dropping two heartbreakers to Marion, Carbondale High School hopes to take advantage of its last shot with the Wildcats in their Wednesday night opening round Class AA basketball game.

Each team knows how effective last shots can be.

Marion tossed in a bucket with four seconds remaining to hand Carbondale an 80-78 defeat in mid-December. Then, in early February, the Terriers struggled through two overtimes before losing to the Wildcats 70-69.

"Marion is a fine basketball team," Carbondale Coach Doug Woolard said. "They've gotten a lot out of their talent. But, then again, our kids have played very well with them and we feel Marion can be beaten."

Marion, supposedly in a rebuilding year, tied Herrin for second in the South Seven Conference with a 9-5 record. The Wildcats are 15-8 overall.

In Woolard's first year in command, Carbondale enjoyed its first winning season since the 1971-72 campaign. The Terriers are 15-10 overall, but only 6-8 in the South Seven.

"We've had trouble winning on the road," admits Woolard.

Carbondale dropped six of its eight conference road games this season.

"And, that may be one factor against us Wednesday because the game is on Marion's home floor," Woolard said.

However, Carbondale is riding the wake of a road victory Saturday night against Harrisburg in its season finale. The 68-61 triumph might instill the confidence his ballclub needs to get past Marion, Woolard said.

"It's been said that it's very hard to beat a basketball team three times in one season," Woolard said. "But, we can't rely on that because anything can happen during playoff time."

Carbondale's starting line up against Marion will be Doug Cherry and Phil Waters at guards, Sherman Farmer and Calvin Cowens at the forward slots with high-scoring Gordie Welch holding down the center post. Welch is averaging around 20 points a game.

As far as crowd support, Woolard said that Carbondale fans usually get behind the team more at playoff time than during the regular season.

"And, since we are playing at Marion," Woolard said, "a large cheering section could do nothing but help us."

Women tankers set for tourney

The women's swim team will participate in the regional swim meet on March 5 and 6 at Western Illinois University in Macomb.

Nine Salukis will make the trip. Mindy McCurdy, Jan Salmon, Anne Gutsick, Candy Miller, Diane Freidman, Molly Schroeder, Kathy Kincaid, Karen Keegan and Ann O'Donnell.

Schools from Michigan, Indiana, Ohio as well as Illinois will be at the meet.

The meet will begin at 8 a.m. on both days with the swimming and diving preliminaries. Finals will be held both evenings.

Women cagers seeded first

By Scott Burnside
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer
No. 1 team in the state!
That's the verdict on the prowess of the women's basketball team on the eve of the state tournament.
Because of the top rating, SIU will receive a bye in the first round of the tournament, which will be held this week at Western Illinois University in Macomb.

This doesn't mean it will be an easy tournament route for the Salukis.

Last weekend SIU split two games at Champaign, to end its regular season play. Friday night SIU beat Illinois State University 69-67, its first win over the Redbirds in five years.

However, Saturday SIU faced a fired-up University of Illinois team and lost 73-60.

"It was a perfect example of a team being totally up for us," Coach Mo Weiss said about the Illinois defeat.

Guard Sue Schaeffer agreed with her coach's explanation. "We were so psyched up for Friday's ISU game. We can't get that high two nights in a row."

SIU won the ISU game in overtime and the victory was due in part to Jeri Hoffmann's freethrow shooting. With only four seconds left, she tied the game 60-60, with two free throws.

Hoffmann said the situation was extremely tense, especially since her dad had driven over from Hammond, Ind., for the game.

However, while at the line, Hoffmann wasn't thinking about impressing her father, she was contemplating the two dollars she could win.

Before Hoffmann shot Coach Weiss jokingly told her if Hoffmann made the baskets she'd give her two dollars.

Southern went on to win the game, but the Salukis have had troubles at the freethrow line. During the Illinois game SIU made four out of seven chances, and the Illinois counted 13 of 22.

Weiss said the team is shooting only 56 per cent of its free throws. Only three of the players, Hoffmann, Helen Meyer and Vicki King are over 70 per cent.

SIU's record is 10-6 going into the state tourney. After the bye in the first round the Salukis will face the winner of the Northern Illinois

Chicago State game. SIU has beaten both teams by wide margins this year.

"Since we've been selected first everybody will be out to get us," Weiss admitted.

Of course, if SIU does take the state championship it will mean a better chance at the regionals. The top Illinois school will meet a lower ranked team during the first round of the regionals.

But first Weiss and her team will have to finish in the top three places at the Illinois tourney. Six of the 13 players traveling to Macomb will be freshmen, which brings in an inexperience factor.

Freshman Schaeffer said "I'm nervous and really excited about playing at state. We're ready to kick the U of I."

No matter what SIU does at Western, this season's results have already started to produce more interest in women's basketball. Over 70 high school basketball players have sent in applications for scholarships.

Valley indoor track title fails to surprise coach

By Mark Kazlowski
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

Success hasn't changed Lew Hartzog. The SIU track mentor isn't gloating over the fact that his team won the conference indoor track championship in its first try Monday at Columbia, Mo. It doesn't even matter that Wichita State, the second place team was 53½ points behind (104-50½).

He expected the victory. When one of his tracksters asked him how he felt after the team scored 104 points, he replied without boasting, "I expected it."

Tuesday Hartzog was already looking forward to the outdoor season.

"The conference was really the climax of the indoor season," he said. "For the main team we're looking forward to the trip south."

SIU opens its outdoor season with a dual with Southwest Louisiana at LaFayette, La. March 16.

"If we're in a conference, our objective is to win it. I think we'll be better outdoors than we were over there (Columbia)." SIU is the defending outdoor champion in the valley.

"Although we made it look ridiculously easy, Drake, Wichita and West Texas have really pretty good track programs."

Drake, the champion of the last eight indoor meets, was third with 49½ points. West Texas was fourth with 45 points. Bradley finished last with seven points.

SIU won championships in 10 of the 16 events and scored in all 16. SIU set five new conference records and tied another in the win.

"Outside of a very small number of kids who had a substandard performance, the rest of the kids competed very well. They're just about where we want them." One of the "encouraging things" Hartzog mentioned about the meet for SIU was the number of points (52) scored by underclassmen. Five freshmen and one sophomore won championships or were on the championship relay team.

Freshman Rick Rock won the long jump; freshman John Marks won the shot put with 55-3½ heave; sophomore Earl Bigelow captured the 440-yard dash in a record-setting time of 48.7; freshman Mike Kee won the 6-yard dash in a record-setting time of 6.2; freshman Michael Bisase won the 880-yard run in a record-setting time of 1:52.3 and the record-etting mile relay team included Bigelow and freshman Steve Lively.

Hartzog mentioned three "pleasant surprises" coming out of the meet.

One was George Haley winning the high hurdles with a 7.1 clocking that tied the Valley marks. "I didn't expect to score more than one point. He did a good job," Hartzog said.

A second surprise was in the intermediate hurdles where Haley and Andy Roberts finished one-two.

The other surprise was in the shot with Marks breaking his own freshman record in the win, and Stan Podulski taking third. He mentioned that both weightmen are past the mark that former Salukis weightman George Woods was at the same time.

Bigelow and the mile relay team both qualified for the NCAA indoor meet with the times in Monday's meet.

Philip Robins was the other SIU record breaker. He smashed the triple jump mark by 12½ inches on his first jump (51-10).

Valley basketball playoffs projected

Tentative basketball playoff sites have been set by Missouri Valley Conference Commissioner Mickey Holmes, SIU Sports Information Director Butch Henry said Tuesday afternoon.

A possible playoff for the conference title between SIU, Wichita State and West Texas is quite confusing.

Should all three teams be involved, a draw will be held to see which team will get a bye. The winner of the first game will then play the team that received the bye.

If two playoff games are necessary, they will be played either Monday and Wednesday or Tuesday and Thursday of next week.

The first game of the playoffs will be played at Tulsa if either Wichita or SIU or Wichita and West Texas are matched up. If SIU were to meet West Texas in the first game, it would be played at Wichita because the crowd appeal would be greater.

The second game, if there is a three team playoff, will be played at North Texas State. The champion of the Valley plays its first round NCAA post-season game at North Texas on Saturday, March 13 so this site would be convenient. It would also mean the Valley champion would also have a game under its belt on the North Texas floor.

If only two teams are tied for the championship, it will be played at Tulsa, most likely on Tuesday, unless SIU meets West Texas State. Then the game will be at Wichita.

After SIU's game with West Texas Thursday, things should be a little clearer. Henry said that Holmes will have another conference call of Valley athletic directors Friday to finalize plans for the playoff.

Jerry Sloan

Potential Evansville change is lot of Bull

By Dave Wiczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

There was a lot of Bull walking around the Arena Saturday night during the SIU-Evansville basketball game and it wasn't the referees.

It was Mr. Bull himself, Jerry Sloan.

Sloan was sitting on the bench of his alma mater, Evansville, alongside his former college coach Arad McCutchan. Sloan was in the area for a speaking engagement Monday in Mount Vernon and he took advantage of a rare opportunity to see Evansville play.

A native of McLeansboro, Sloan played on the 1964-65 Purple Aces team that was 28-0 and national small college champion. Since then, he has been playing a brand of professional basketball that most players do not have the physical or mental capacity.

His shooting is not much better than good, but Sloan's defense and rebounding are among the best in the NBA. The 6-foot-4 swingman can rebound with the best 6-7 and 6-8 forwards in the league.

Sloan has not played much this year due to an injured knee, much to the chagrin of fans who have admired him for more than a decade.

Over the years Sloan has taken more bumps and bruises than a third rate boxer (some accuse him of being a first rate boxer on the basketball court). He has had his share of injuries, but continued playing with most of them. Earlier this year, however a nagging knee injury became too much to bear. In January he was forced to the sidelines and five weeks ago the knife finally caught up with him.

Wit 'n

He has been recuperating since the operation and only recently has Sloan's doctor let him out of the house.

Sitting on the sidelines and watching has not been easy for the highly competitive Sloan. When the Bulls are in town he attends the home games. Sloan said his Chicago team is out of town right now and that makes it a little easier on him, both mentally and on his wallet.

"This is the team I've lived and died with over the years," Sloan said while standing outside the Saluki dressing room. "I make a helluva cheerleader and I get a lot of technicals called on me when I'm sitting on the bench. That gets expensive after awhile."

Sloan manages to earn technicals no matter where he is on the court and he may soon be earning them as a coach.

Rumors have been heard for at least the last year that Sloan, can have the head coaching job at Evansville when present coach Arad McCutchan retires. The rumors were looking better earlier this year when it was thought that Sloan might hang up his Converse All-Stars because of the knee injury and subsequent surgery.

McCutchan has been at Evansville 29 years and people were beginning to figure that he was ready to retire. Sloan reportedly has two years left on a good-paying Chicago contract and would have to take an enormous drop in pay for the Evansville job. Sloan will probably end up playing for as long as he can. But if he cannot give 100 per cent physically and play with the reckless abandon of a Bull in a china shop, you can be sure his NBA playing days are over.

"Whatever happens, happens," Sloan said. "We just have to wait and see what happens. I know I still enjoyed playing the game two months ago. I think everyone is getting too anxious to make this decision. Evansville still has some games to play this season and Coach McCutchan still has not retired."

Sloan would not come right out and say coaching college basketball is in his future but you can bet he will coach somewhere. Basketball is in his blood. He would be a great addition to college basketball and a great loss to professional basketball, although many of his opponents would beg to differ on that latter opinion.

Sloan gets paid a good salary for his basketball skills but he's one of those guys that loves the game for what it is—good, hard, fun competition. We could use more Jerry Sloans on both the collegiate and professional levels.
