Out-of-state DUIs can affect Illinois record

By William Walker
Staff Writer

It's March 7 and you're finished with classes and ready for Spring Break. You and three friends get ready to drive down to Daytona Beach. Everything is packed: swimsuits, money, suntan lotion. And a couple of cases of beer for the road.

There's no problem with the swimsuits, money and suntan lotion, but those planning to drink while driving should reconsider their plans, says Roger Pyle, graduate assistant at the Wellness Center.

Pyle cautions students planning to drive to Florida or other vacation spots that not only is drinking and driving dangerous but it can result in legal problems both in the state where a violation occurs and back in Illinois.

L. Tom Busch of the Carbondale Police Department said when an Illinois resident receives a ticket — for drunken driving or otherwise — outside Illinois, that information is given to Illinois authorities and becomes part of the offender's Illinois driving record.

He said penalties such as fines and court costs are incurred in the state where the violation takes place but Illinois has the option of imposing additional punishment.

For instance, no state other than Illinois can suspend or revoke Illinois driving privileges, so if an offense in another state would have resulted in loss of driving privileges had it occurred in Illinois, such punishment can still be imposed. This prevents Illinois drivers from driving with immunity in other states, Busch said.

Especially serious, Pyle said, is a drunken driving charge, which can result in stiff penalties in the state where the violation occurs and additional punishment in Illinois.

And many states — Illinois included — have strengthened the penalties imposed on drunken drivers. As of last Jan. 1, anyone convicted of drunken driving in Illinois has a mandatory revocation of driving privileges, possible imprisonment for up to a year and a maximum fine of $1,000.

And having driving

Children ask: Who was this Pulaski guy?

By Elizabeth Cochran
Staff Writer

Because of "some guy in some war," or something like that was the common explanation from local children for their holiday from school Monday, which was set to honor Casimir Pulaski.

State Sen. LeRoy Lemke, D-Chicago, worked for 13 years to get legislation passed to set aside a state holiday on the birthday of the Polish general who fought for the colonies in the American Revolution.

But Lemke's efforts to immortalize Pulaski might be in vain if recognition of him among school children — let alone appreciation for his aid to liberating the colonies — is any indication.

A group of boys playing basketball at Winkler School, 1216 W. Freeman, argued about who Pulaski, born in 1747, was.

Shane Hanson, fourth grader at Thomas School said, "he was a Russian general."

But Jonathon Thor, fifth-grader at Thomas, disagreed. Thor said that Pulaski "fought his country against the Russians."

Hanson said his teacher didn't offer any details about why schools were closing for a day in honor of Pulaski. What he knows about the general came from a girl in his math class, he said.

Another group of children who were spending their holiday "just walking around" were also somewhat confused about the focus of the holiday, celebrated for the first time by Illinois this year, and his background.

"I can't remember his name, but the teacher said he's good because he got us a day off," said Dena Clemons, a seventh-grader at Lincoln Junior High School in Carbondale.

"He's very nice," Jody Pullen, another seventh-grader at Lincoln, said with a laugh.

Another group of children playing basketball at Attucks Park on Wall Street appeared more interested in their game than Pulaski, but they did know that he was "some guy in some war."

Two girls enjoying the twisting slide at Turley park, Melissa Cupp, third-grader at Lewis School, and Maria Cupp, first-grader at Lewis, knew it

Marcos' $350 million N.Y. properties frozen

NEW YORK (UPI) — A judge froze $350 million in New York properties believed owned by former Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos in the first step of a legal fight to recover "wealth that properly belongs to the Philippine people," lawyers said Monday.

Lawyers working for Philippine President Corazon Aquino filed suit in Manhattan against Marcos, his wife Imelda and 20 other people and corporations in order to recover the holdings, including a palatial Long Island estate.

The lawyers at the Center for Constitutional Rights — representing Aquino without fee — claim Marcos has $7 billion in holdings in the United States, $350 million of which is in New York City and on Long Island.

They sought, and were awarded, a temporary restraining order from state Supreme Court Justice Elliot Wilk late Sunday forbidding the property to be sold until the dispute over ownership is decided.

Wilk also ordered Marcos to appear in court in Manhattan Wednesday to argue for freezing those properties.

Included in the property, besides the Long Island estate, are buildings on Madison and Fifth avenues, Wall Street and at Herald Square.

"We wanted to freeze the assets so the Philippine government can go forward with the judicial process, which will determine whether or not money was taken illegally from the Philippines," said Michael Ratner, a spokesman for the Center for Constitutional Rights.

Among those named in the suit is New York City real estate agent Joseph Bernstein, who is currently attempting to buy several of the New York City properties.

Bernstein also has been linked to Marco's business dealings in the West Indies, Ratner said.

The restraining order signed by the judge bans any sale or transfer of ownership of the four New York City buildings and the grand estate on Sedgemere Road on the Great South Bay in Center Moriches, Long Island.

Other properties frozen are 40 Wall St., Herald Center, 200 Madison Ave., and the Crown Building on Fifth Avenue.

Arms race prompts 'die in'

By Tom Atkins
Staff Writer

Hal Parks is serious about dying.

To show everyone how serious he and fellow members of the Mid-America Peace Project are, a "die in" is planned to begin Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the south end of the Student Center.

The "die in" is a symbolic gesture to demonstrate dissatisfaction with current

U.S. arms-building policies and to raise people's awareness of the dangers of nuclear war, Parks said. "We want people to realize just how serious things are."

The event will also provide a simulation of what would happen if there were a nuclear war, said MAPP president Erian Blank. It is not designed to disrupt campus traffic or to hinder student access to certain buildings, he said. "We are not trying to get arrested," he said.

After gathering at the Student Center, Blank said, the group will move through the building to either the west side of the central breezeway of Faner Hall or to the Free Forum Area. The group will decide where to go at the event, Blank said, depending on how many people par-

Reagan seeks $100 million; says Contra support 'vital'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, raising the stakes in a foreign policy showdown, challenged Congress Monday to prove it is "as committed to democracy in Nicaragua as it was in the Philippines" and approve $100 million in aid for the Contras. Reagan insisted U.S. support is vital for the insurgent movement to be sustained and argued defeat by Congress "could well deliver Nicaragua permanently to the Communist Bloc."

Astronauts silent on NASA decision charges

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Four senior astronauts said Monday they were unaware of NASA's concern about key rocket booster seals but withheld judgment on charges the agency's launch decision-making process was flawed. Commander Henry Hartsfield, a veteran of three shuttle missions, said he felt anger when he learned that worries about the crucial rubber O-ring seals in the shuttle solid-fuel rockets were never passed on to the astronauts.

U.S. halts Bolivian aid over cocaine problem

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — The United States has suspended new economic and military aid to Bolivia until the South American nation wipes out at least 10,000 acres of coca, the plant used in making cocaine, U.S. officials said Monday. The announcement by the U.S. Embassy in La Paz marks the first time the United States has punished a South American nation for not taking steps to cut coca production.

11 'executed' for bombings by Moslem group

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A pro-Iranian Moslem fundamentalist group announced Monday the "execution" of 11 people accused of participating in a bombing campaign that it said had U.S. and Israeli backing. The statement from the radical Hezbollah, or Party of God, came as shelling and militia battles in and around Beirut killed at least six and wounded 34 and an Armenian political leader was killed by a gunman in the eastern Bekaa Valley.

Drug rackets threaten security, agency says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The mob is cashing in on a voracious demand by Americans for marijuana, cocaine and other drugs, and the military and on-the-job drug testing should be used to crack down on smugglers and users, a presidential commission said Monday. The President's Commission on Organized Crime said the $10 billion drug industry makes up an estimated 38 percent of all organized crime activity in the United States and is a threat to national security, warranting a "much bigger" military role, a massive shared information bank and drug testing by employers when "suitable."

Soviet sailor switch allegations dismissed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Monday dismissed as "without foundation" new allegations that the Soviet seaman who jumped ship in New Orleans last year was switched with another sailor who backed out of the defection. The allegations, which had been raised by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and other conservatives, go back to October, when seaman Miroslav Medvid jumped into the Mississippi River near New Orleans off his Soviet grain ship.

Ratepayers to save billions if CUB changes approved

CHICAGO (UPI) — Illinois ratepayers could save up to $2.6 billion in 1987 if utilities are prevented from charging customers for costs associated with plants that provide excess generating capacity, representatives for the Citizens Utility Board said Monday. The statewide utility watchdog group is proposing changes in the Public Utilities Act.

State below $200 million 'warning zone'

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The state's checkbook balance dipped to $112 million at the end of February, the first time the balance has dropped below the $200 million mark in more than two years. Economists have said a $200 million balance considered a "warning zone" and is necessary to ensure timely payments of the state's day-to-day bills.

Author to give preview of novel as part of honors lecture series

Distinguished writer John Barth will provide sneak previews of his upcoming writings at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Student Center Auditorium.

The award-winning author of nine books is the third guest in the University Honors Program Lecture Series.

Richard Peterson, director of the honors program, describes Barth as a "wonderful storyteller." Peterson said the novelist uses folk tales and myths to make his stories come alive.

Barth's appearance will be more of a reading than a lecture, Peterson said, adding that the author will be open to questions following his talk.

Barth, professor of English and creative writing at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, has been a major and controversial writer since completing his first novel, "The End of the Road," hailed as a major expression of "black humor."

Barth followed up in 1965 with "The Floating Opera" and in 1968 with "Lost in the Funhouse." Both were National Book Award nominees.

Also included in his collection of publications in the '60s were "Giles Coat-Boy" and "The Sol-Weed Factor," which showed readers the depths of his writing abilities by encasing stories within stories within stories.

Barth kept his name on the book chart by winning a National Book Award for "Chimera," written in 1972. This was followed by "Letters" in 1979 and "Sabbatical: A Romance" in 1982.

Barth's latest publication is an assortment of essays, lectures and autobiographical pieces called "The Friday Book."

He is now working on a new novel, "The Tidewater Tales."

Barth's talk is open to the public without charge. Following his talk, a reception is scheduled in the Renaissance Room.

was Pulaski's birthday and that he was in a war but that was it.

Apparently the holiday is not much more known in other parts of the state than it is in Carbondale because WGBZ radio station in Alton broadcast details of a fake parade not to make fun of Pulaski, but to make Pulaski and the holiday more well known, Mike Dreith of WGBZ told a United Press International.

The station also put on listeners with details of non-existent barge races and a Pulaski princess.

According to Polish National Alliance President Aloysius Mazewski, Pulaski was the only European to die for the United States. Mazewski said the general was chased from Poland after being unjustly accused of trying to assassinate King Stanislaw II. He came to this country and offered his services to the American Revolution, Mazewski said.

Deere reopens; workers return

EAST MOLINE. (UPI)—More than 1,900 Deere & Co. employees were called back to work Monday when the company reopened its East Moline Harvester Works, but another 217 workers have been placed on indefinite layoff, officials said.

Some of the 1,250 workers who were on temporary layoff were not called back to their jobs because of the continuing sluggishness of the farm economy, a Deere spokesman said.

The Illinois plant had been on shutdown since before Christmas and the regular holiday shutdown was extended to adjust inventory and production to demand for products.

Property rules approval expected from F-Senate

The Faculty Senate is expected to approve regulations governing the use of University personal property Tuesday. The group meets at 1 p.m. in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

The regulations are designed to ensure that University property is used only for educational, research or public service purposes.

The senate is also expected to approve a five-member committee or another structure for the comprehensive examination of undergraduate education at SIU-C.

The committee will receive charges from and report back to the vice president of academic affairs and the president of the Faculty Senate.

Nominations will also be made to the Special Academic Activity Fund Panel. The Undergraduate Student Organization established the panel in 1982. Its members allocate funds to students who aren't members of Registered Student Organizations and have the opportunity to take part in a career-enhancing seminar or program.

Those expected to be nominated to the panel are H. Duane Ackroyd, assistant professor in the School of Technical Careers and Allied Health Careers, and Frederick L. Williams, associate professor of foreign languages.

Saluki basketball tournament bound

A NINE-YEAR DROUGHT HAS ENDED. An SIU-C basketball team is in the NCAA tournament.

Nine years ago the SIU men's basketball team under coach Paul Lambert went to the NCAA tournament after winning the first Missouri Valley conference tournament.

This time it's the Saluki women's team, and congratulations are in order for Coach Cindy Scott and her players and staff.

The thrill, at least as far as one person is concerned, is being repeated this year with the women's team, who have received their first NCAA tourney bid in the history of the program.

THAT PERSON IS ASSISTANT coach George Lubelt, who was also the assistant coach for the 1977 men's team. It is a testament to his abilities as a coach that both teams went to the tournament. And the key to both teams, according to Lubelt, is a tenacious defense.

The women's basketball team, to those familiar with their style of play, uses a strong defense to stop opponents. Lubelt says their defense will be the key to how far they go in the upcoming tournament. Of course, getting a good seed doesn't hurt, either. The 40-team pairings for the tournament won't be announced until Sunday.

This year has been a dream season for the women Salukis, as they have recorded a superb 23-3 record leading into the tournament, including their victory Friday over arch-rival Drake to seal the Gateway conference championship.

AND WHAT WILL THIS YEAR'S success mean to the Saluki women's program? Probably a good recruiting position in years to come, for one. National recognition that accompanies an NCAA tourney berth enhances a school's chances at getting those blue-chip recruits necessary for any quality program to endure.

Perhaps the greatest achievement has been the image they promote for women's basketball in general, as they have shown to area fans that the women can play just as exciting a brand of basketball as the men. Of course, the devoted fans that who have trekked to Davies Gymnasium for the home games could already testify to that.

So, congratulations to the women's basketball team and those associated with the program. It's been a long time coming, but the recognition is yours at last. Now get out there and play.

Housewife overcomes odds to garner Filipino's respect

IN DECEMBER, a soft-spoken woman named Corazon Aquino said to an American reporter, "What on earth do I know about being president?" Two months later the same woman was president.

The weeks in between were remarkable ones that filled the pages of our political album with powerful images. A crowd of Filipinos forming a human barrier against tanks. A still life of an uneaten bowl of caviar left on the dining-room table by a fleeing ruler. A wide-angle shot of Americans expressing relief that for once we were on the side of the good guys. But most remarkable was the portrait, seen in time-lapse photographs, of the woman in the yellow dress becoming a leader.

In the weeks ahead, some may trace a line from her childhood to her presidency. A teacher in Philadelphia points to the good omens in her good grades. College friends in New York read prophecies into the yearbook captions. But the reality is that Cory Aquino's path to power was a widow's walk, not entirely unlike the one that other women have taken.

UNTIL THE death of her husband, Cory Aquino's highest political post had been that of courier to her husband's prison cell and hostess to his inner circle of allies. If she had aspired to office at all, it was to the office of first lady.

It was only when the man she had stood behind was murdered that she was forced into the spotlight. She inherited the family business.

This most reluctant candidate — "I am not a politician" — took on Ferdinand Marcos in order to carry on her husband's work. Inevitably, she made that work her own. At the beginning

he's just an electrician?"

More recently, when Indira Gandhi was killed, her son Rajiv, a candidate as apolitical, as inexperienced, as reluctant as Cory Aquino, was catapulted into her place. How often did correspondents ask Rajiv whether an airline pilot could be a prime minister? Is a pilot or an electrician better qualified for leadership than a homemaker and a mother of five?

Maybe I have seen too many women who have taken that widow's walk into a whole other life. Maybe I have seen something familiar in Cory Aquino's transition, the way hard-earned self-confidence can replace self-doubt.

At some point, in this short and intense initiation, Cory Aquino stopped comparing her qualifications to those of some mythical "president" and started comparing them to the competition. (What on earth did she know about being president? What did Marcos know?) At some point, she started to feel the strength that comes from building one small win into another and larger victory.

The Aquino government is in its infancy and the jostling for power has just begun. But I don't believe that Cory Aquino will end up as a figurehead in a yellow dress brought out for state occasions.

What are the odds against her success as president? In December, some of the oddsmakers bet that Cory Aquino wouldn't even live through the election. In January, they bet she'd lose handily. In February they bet that Marcos would successfully steal the election. Yet this "widow" steered her people on a safe course between defeat and civil war. The "housewife" beat Ferdinand Marcos. The odds are evening up.

of the campaign she was a symbol of her husband's martyrdom. At the end she was a symbol of her own bravery. She began as Mrs. Benigno Aquino and ended as "Cory! Cory-y!"

I don't pretend to know whether Cory Aquino will be as successful in office as she was in the pursuit of it. If it is one leap from symbol to leader, it is another from leader to ruler. But I do not find myself as dubious of her chances as many others.

CORY AQUINO was hardly installed in office and Ferdinand Marcos had hardly landed in Hawaii before the first doubters began. It was one thing to be popular, they said, quite another to be strong. The questions asked in Washington corridors and in television talk shows came in elaborate and familiar code words. Is she tough enough? Can she handle it? Can a former housewife rule 50 million people?

Home economics may not be the preferred background for a political education. But listening to these doubters I thought of a time, not that long ago, when a simple man named Lech Walesa became a leader of his people. When people wondered about his potential, did anyone say, "But

Brochure is not anti-male

Art is, by its very nature, open to a variety of interpretations and the interpretation of the viewer is frequently different than that intended by the artist. The fact that the artist, Ms. Hooker and I interpret this particular piece of art differently does not surprise nor dismay me. What does surprise and dismay is that Ms. Hooker has drawn conclusions about our entire program — its faculty, curriculum and philosophy — on the basis of her interpretation of the upper half of the artwork on the cover of the brochure.

I have been involved in Women's Studies since 1976 and have been the coordinator of the program for the last two and a half years. We are very much in the public eye — we have developed a curriculum, cross-listed courses with departments, published a monthly newsletter, maintained a library and sponsored numerous events, speakers, and research colloquia. To my knowledge, we have never been accused of being anti-male in either our activities or our philosophy.

Thus far, approximately 800 brochures have been distributed, and, with the exception of Ms. Hooker's comments, we have received only compliments with regard to its design and content from both women and men.

The narrative portion of the brochure, which is less amenable to subjective interpretation, is an accurate description of our philosophy. We encourage the power and ability of every person to shape culture and community; the right of all individuals to develop their potential as fully as possible, and an increased understanding for people of both genders and all races and traditions." — Linda Gannon, coordinator, Women's Studies.

At 10 a.m. when the civil defense sirens are tested — like they are at 10 a.m. every first Tuesday of every month — “everyone will point to the sky like here come the bombs. Then they'll all going to lie down and play dead,” Parks said.

Blank predicted that about 100 people will participate.

If the group disrupts student traffic or access to campus buildings, the SIU police could intervene to break up the gathering, said Lt. Amos Covington. If nobody blocks doorways or sidewalks, however, the police will not intervene, Covington said.

If the vice president for student affairs, Bruce Swinburne, tells the police to stay out of the way, Covington said, the group will be able to assemble anywhere they wish. Covington said Monday evening that he had received no instructions from his superiors in relation to the “die in.”

Blank said Monday he had not contacted Swinburne. Swinburne, however, said Monday he had no objections to the demonstration as long as it does not disrupt classes or student traffic. “We are a free speech campus. We believe in the freedom of expression and we are very strong in the protection of the rights of individuals.”

Nuclear war is the most serious current issue, Parks said. It means the potential destruction of all the world's people, he said. “You're talking about death and that's pretty final.”

Parks said the “die in” is an activity everyone can do to show the government that people are concerned and angry about the proliferation of nuclear weapons. He suggested people should vote out politicians who support building more nuclear weapons and vote in politicians who want to reduce weapon numbers.

If students can't attend the event, Parks said, they should bow their heads in a moment of silence at class or work when they hear the sirens. Teachers could also help by having a moment of silence in class, he said.

privileges revoked is much more serious than having them suspended, Pyle said, because a suspension is for a specified period of time, whereas a revocation means privileges are taken away indefinitely and the offender must requalify to have them reinstated.

Pyle also emphasized that despite a great deal of fluctuations from state to state, those arrested for drunken driving face stiff penalties regardless of where the violation occurs.

On a trip to Florida, for instance, a drunken driver could face fines up to $1,000 and bond of as much as $5,000, Pyle said. Most states have implied consent laws, which mean that drivers who refuse to submit to alcohol testing can be subjected to mandatory punishment.

For those planning a trip, Pyle said, the best precaution is simply to not drink and drive. He also said drivers should take advantage of rest areas, such as those provided by Budweiser in Henryville, Ind., Valdosta, Ga., and Savannah, Ga.

Belfast Protestants attack police

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Protestants fired on police in Belfast Monday night, climaxing a violent 24-hour general strike aimed at forcing British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to scrap the Anglo-Irish pact.

Shortly before midnight, when the protest was scheduled to end, mobs staged hit-and-run gasoline bombs attacks on police lines in Protestant areas of northern, western and eastern Belfast, police said.

In what was described as the worst Protestant violence in 12 years, authorities said 30 police officers were injured and 20 people were arrested in Belfast alone, but no one was reported injured in any of the shootings.

Ten cities were cut off by roadblocks set up by rioting Protestants seeking to prevent the predominantly Roman Catholic Republic of Ireland from having a say in mostly Protestant Ulster.

Protestant crowds burned cars and businesses, mounted roadblocks and, in Londonderry, fought briefly with Roman Catholics until police intervened. The violence brought Northern Ireland to a standstill.

A masked man stepped from a crowd that was throwing rocks and bottles in east Belfast and unleashed a warning burst of up to 20 shots in the direction of police, who were clearing burning street barricades, officers said.

The gunman quickly disappeared back into the crowd near the Harland and Wolff shipyard, a Protestant stronghold, authorities said. No one was injured by the gunfire.

The incident was the most violent reported in 24 hours of Protestant burning and looting through the towns and cities of Northern Ireland. Police also said Protestants fired shots at officers three times in western and northern Belfast.

Authorities said a police patrol fired plastic bullets on a mob that was throwing rocks at them in Limavady, about 70 miles northwest of Belfast. One Protestant rioter was injured.

The strike was called by Protestant hard-liners who want Britain to scrap the Anglo-Irish agreement, which gives the predominantly Catholic Irish Republic a role in the affairs of British-ruled Northern Ireland, which is 65 percent Protestant. Thatcher warned in advance that the strike would not influence her to change her policy on the Anglo-Irish pact.

In the midst of the strike from midnight Sunday to midnight Monday, the Rev. Ian Paisley, the fiery leader of Northern Ireland's Protestants, said loyalists will keep up the pressure, and announced, “We are starting to turn the screw.”

The Anglo-Irish pact being protested seeks to ease alienation of the province's Roman Catholic minority by giving Dublin a say in governing the province. But the Protestants, normally allies of the London government, have revolted at what they say is a sell-out to Ireland.

In one of Monday's most dramatic incidents, some 400 demonstrators in the town of Lurgan besieged a factory where 40 women ignored the strike call and showed up for work.

Crude oil prices drop sharply

NEW YORK (UPI) — Crude oil prices dropped sharply Monday to $12.29 a barrel, and one analyst said the decline could mean a drop in gas pump prices over the next few months of between 25 and 35 cents a gallon from December's levels.

West Texas intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, dropped 97 cents to $12.29 a barrel in the contract for current delivery on the New York Mercantile Exchange Monday. That is the lowest price it has traded at since the exchange began the contract in 1982.

“It is going to make a test of $12 (a barrel),” said Sanford Margoshes, senior oil analyst at Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc.

West Texas crude was trading at $31.80 a barrel in November.

Diamond Shamrock Co. Monday said it was cutting the prices it would pay for oil by $1 a barrel, with West Texas intermediate falling to $15.50.

Subsidiaries of Chevron Corp. and Sun Co. Monday lowered the prices they were willing to pay for a barrel of West Texas crude to $18 and $16, respectively.

Abu Dhabi on Monday cut its crude oil prices by between $8 a barrel and $8.30 a barrel, and Oman cut its official selling price by $8.03 to $15.80 a barrel.

North Sea Brent dropped 50 cents a barrel to $16.20.

The lower petroleum prices fueled a bond market rally and sent precious metals prices and oil companies' stocks lower.

The 30-year Treasury bond was trading at 112 at midday Monday, up 1.25 points from Friday and yielding about 8.17 percent. A bond market analyst said the lower bond prices were also caused by anticipation of international actions to reduce short-term interest rates.

On the New York Commodity Exchange at noon, gold was down $2.90 an ounce to $336.10 and silver dropped 12.5 cents to $5.50.

“There is very little likelihood of a gasoline price war” as a result of the crude oil declines, said Dan Lundberg, the widely followed industry analyst.

Five O'Clock News offers black viewpoint

By Bratt Yates
Staff Writer

The Five O'Clock News is more than what people see every night on television. Five O'Clock News is also the name of a newsletter distributed on campus each month.

Justus Weathersby Jr., the editor of Five O'Clock News and a senior in journalism, says the target audience is black students. He said it reports news like other publications but from a black perspective.

"We call it a black perspective because our perspective page is our pivot page," Weathersby said. "It brings something different to the perspective table, and that is a black point of view, which is not a common point of view in publications that present a viewpoint."

PAPI DENNIS Makhudu, graduate student in educational leadership and a native of South Africa, is the associate editor. Weathersby said his black American background and Makhudu's African background combine to make Five O'Clock News a unique publication.

"Dennis and I do not always agree on everything," Weathersby said. "In fact, we disagree on quite a few things,

Women's roles explored in play

The Calipre Stage will present "One Blinding Moment: Women and Their Work" at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The performance will explore the changing roles women face in their professional lives today and the questions raised by those changes.

Admission for the performance is $2. The Calipre Stage is located on the second floor of the Communications Building.

and that makes for a better publication."

WEATHERSBY SAID the newsletter was named Five O'Clock News because most people watch the evening news on TV between 5 and 6 p.m. and consider it reliable.

"We felt calling it the Five O'Clock News would kind of replay in people's minds that we are a hard-nosed publication," Weathersby said. "We deal with news just like the visual media do, and we only differ in that we are a print medium."

"It seems to somehow help motivate people to read the publication when they might feel somehow they are still watching TV."

THE FIVE O'Clock News policy is to capitalize the first letter in black, contrary to the common newspaper style, in reference to black persons.

"We capitalize black because it is the proper reference to the black people," Weathersby said.

"Black uncapitalized refers immediately to a color," Makhudu said. "But when you capitalize it, it refers immediately to a race. When it is uncapitalized, you think of a color. That's why, I think, we capitalized it."

Weathersby said the Five O'Clock News had its roots in the Black Unity News, first published in 1968 by the Black Student Union. The publication title was changed to Uhuru Sa-Sa in 1970.

WEATHERSBY SAID that before the Black Unity News was published, the consensus in the black community was that blacks weren't given fair consideration by the media.

Uhuru Sa-Sa, which means "Freedom Now" in Swahili, lasted until February of 1980 when it became the Black Student Observer. Last fall, the Black Observer became Five O'Clock News.

Weathersby said the publication has a circulation of 2,000. Five reporters work on a "volunteer basis" and more are needed, Weathersby said.

The Five O'Clock News is funded by the Undergraduate Student Organization through the Black Affairs Council.

International students, staff offered tax form assistance

By Catherine Edman
Staff Writer

International students, faculty and researchers with F1, H1 and J1 visas can receive help in filing 1985 tax returns at an Income Tax Help Session in Lawson 201 from 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Those included on F1 visas are students; H1 visas, temporary faculty; and J1 visas, graduate assistants, professors and researchers.

The Tax Reform Act of 1984 creates several changes that will be explained during the workshop.

Beverly Walker, assistant director of International Programs and Services and the coordinator of the workshop, said the most significant change is that international persons with F1 and J1 visas are now considered non-residents.

The change limits people with those visas to claiming only one exemption when filing income tax returns. This means that they cannot claim their dependents as exemptions.

Non-residents must follow these restrictions for the first five years of their visas starting with 1985 returns, she said. The amount of time they have already spent here does not apply.

Although there are a few exemptions to this change, she said, this and other changes can create new burdens.

Walker said the changes have confused people about what information to supply and how to file their returns.

The workshop Tuesday will be an information session where questions about the new laws will be answered and income tax forms for this year will be distributed.

Walker said an additional in-depth session will be provided at International Programs and Services, 910 S. Forest, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Former priest to lecture on Islam and Christianity

Steve Johnson, a former Roman Catholic priest and now a member of the Islamic Society of North America, will give a series of lectures this week on Islamic beliefs and the religion's relationship to Christianity.

On Tuesday, Johnson joins the Rev. Robert W. Gray, pastor of the Our Saviour Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Student Center, in a dialogue on Islam and Christianity at 6:30 p.m. in Lawson Hall Room 171.

Johnson speaks Wednesday on "Islam, the Misunderstood Religion," at 6:30 p.m. in Lawson Room 171.

On Thursday, Johnson will have an open lecture at Brown Auditorium, located at the west end of Parkinson Laboratory.

The lecture series is sponsored by the Muslim Student Association and is open to the public.

Jazz band to perform at Shryock

The SIUC Jazz Band, under the direction of Robert Allison, will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Shryock Auditorium.

The band will perform pieces that include "Fast

Little Feet," "Keepin' Track of Time," "Passing Fancy," "Song for My Lover" and Dizzy Gillespie's "Manteca."

The concert, sponsored by the School of Music, is open to the public without charge.

Edgar to speak to Republicans at Student Center

Secretary of State Jim Edgar will speak at a meeting of the College Republicans at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center Mackinaw Room.

Edgar will answer questions at a press conference that will follow at 6 p.m. in the Mackinaw Room. Both meetings are open to the public.

Edgar, who was appointed secretary of state in 1981 by Gov. James Thompson to fill a vacancy created by Senate-bound Alan Dixon, was elected to the post in 1982.

The republican Edgar faces democratic challenger Aurelia Pucinski, daughter of Chicago alderman Roman Pucinski, in the upcoming 1986 race.

Gimmickry is ZZ Top's smoke but music is still the band's fire

By Wm. Bryan DeVasher
Entertainment Editor

ZZ Top, the Texas trio famous for fuzzy guitars, souped-up cars and cheap sunglasses, scorched into the Arena Sunday as the band's "Afterburner" tour landed for an evening of blistering rock 'n' roll.

The band — guitarist Billy Gibbons, bassist Dusty Hill and drummer Frank Beard — performed all their hits — major and minor — from 1975's "Tush" to 1986's "Stages." There was hardly a warm seat in the house as the band kept 'em standing, screaming and clapping throughout a 90-minute set that not only rocked but entertained as well.

As a sunglasses-clad sphinx, which has become ZZ Top's latest icon, shot laser beams from behind its shades, the band members proved that although they use an abundance of stage gimmickry and razzle-dazzle special effects, the music is the focus of the show. Unlike some special effects-obsessed bands, ZZ Top's show was no meringue pie — all fluff and no filler — as the band demonstrated that a group can use lasers and special effects without compromising the quality of the music.

The band rocked from the beginning of the set, starting things off with the song "Pressure" from their 1983 LP "Eliminator," the album that shot the band through the upper stratosphere of rock 'n' roll and into the lofty heavens of superstardom.

Although the band has had an avid cult following since the release of "First," their debut LP released in 1970, the band did not enjoy widespread mass appeal until the release of "Eliminator" and its videos, which made ZZ Top an MTV favorite and introduced them to a new audience of mainstream popsters.

Following "Pressure" the band launched into "Sleeping Bag," the first hit from the group's latest LP, "Afterburner." Unlike many bands that use new material for the bulk of the show to promote record sales and only perform previous hits to keep the audience placated, ZZ Top did not lean too heavily on material from "Afterburner." There were a few other "Afterburner" songs included in the show, such as "Stages," "Velcro Fly" and "Rough Boy," but it was the band's older material that kept the crowd screaming its appreciation throughout the show.

Although the band's music was at the heart of the concert, the band's stage show provided an attractive concert package. The band performed on a stage that featured an oversized dashboard behind them, complete with a working fuel gauge and steering wheel. The group made the most effective use of lasers during a concert since The Who and Pink Floyd experimented with the devices in the late 1970s.

Following a rousing rendition of "Legs," complete with the fur-covered guitars featured in the video for the song, the group disappeared amidst a cloud of smoke and the stage then transformed from the dashboard of the "Eliminator" car into the dashboard of a space shuttle, another image that the band has adopted. The band reappeared following a shuttle blastoff that was accented by laser-image countdown numbers and more smoke than the Physical Plant produces.

The band closed the show with "Party on the Patio," one of their older numbers, but the crowd beckoned for an encore, which featured one new and three older numbers. The band performed "Velcro Fly," from "Afterburner," before jumping into "Tube Snake Boogie," "La Grange," and "Tush," the three closest approximations to hits the band had before "Eliminator" became a Top 40 hit. The songs, which were conspicuously absent during the main portion of the show, have been concert staples for years and no ZZ Top performance would have been complete without them.

The crowd appeared more than pleased at the show's end. In the late 1970s ZZ Top made the claim that they were the "most popular concert band in the world," and based on Sunday's concert, it's easy to see why.

Women tracksters good in indoor season; looking forward to spring outdoor season

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's track team finished second in the Gateway Conference Championships this past weekend in a performance that Coach Don DeNoon hopes will reflect on the Saluki's chances in the upcoming outdoor season.

"It's an exciting situation for us," he said. "This weekend is a reflection of what we're capable of doing as a team, and we really should be even stronger in the outdoor season."

The Salukis finished second at the meet behind Western Illinois, but managed to outscore defending champion Illinois State, which could manage only a tie for third place.

"I'm pretty pleased with our move from fifth place last year to second place this year," DeNoon said. "It's a reflection on where we are for the upcoming season. It was a good meet for our kids."

Turning in first place performances for the Salukis were sprinters Denise and Carlton Blackman and pentathlon performer Sue Anderson.

Denise Blackman, a junior from St. George, Barbados, set a conference record in the 300-yard dash with a time of 35.36. She also contributed to the Saluki's record-setting 1:42.70 first-place finish in the 200-yard relay.

Denise also led the way in the Salukis' second-place performance in the 440-yard relay. Denise teamed with Angie Nunn, Darcie Stinson and sister Carlton Blackman to set a team record of 3:51.74 in the race. Denise turned in an outstanding 54.45 split time in the event.

In the 60-yard dash, Denise finished second with a 7.06 effort, .01 second away from a team record.

Denise was named the Gateway Track Athlete of the Week for her performance in Charleston.

"She had one outstanding meet," DeNoon commented. "She was pretty well in a class by herself."

Carlton, Denise's sister, ran the 440-yard dash in 56.86. DeNoon credited Carlton with an outstanding performance, despite some lingering health problems.

"They're two outstanding, national-level athletes," DeNoon said. "Without them, we'd really be a different team."

Anderson and Kathy Raske punched in a one-two finish in the pentathlon.

Also turning in strong performances for the Salukis were distance runners Vivian Siou and Amy Marker and field-event specialist Rhonda McCausland.

Siou smashed the team record in the 2-mile run, finishing fourth overall with an effort of 10:44.50. She also finished third in the 3-mile run with a time of 16:55.64.

Marker, a sophomore from Riverside, finished fourth in the 3 mile with a 17:05.88 time.

McCausland finished second in the shot put with a 47.7 throw. DeNoon called the second place finish a "surprise upset."

He said he expected McCausland, who is ranked No. 1 in the conference in the shot put, to be the uncontested winner of the event.

Shelly Wichman, a freshman from Milwaukee, Wis., placed fourth in the shot put with a 42.7 effort.

In the triple jump, Brenda Beatty took fourth place with a 36.4 effort, while freshman Christiana Philippou took fifth with a 35-11 effort.

The Salukis begin the outdoor season March 10 at the University of South Alabama in Mobile, Ala.

DeNoon said the outdoor season favored the Salukis roster because shorter distance events give way to longer running events, where the Salukis are stronger. "The schedule favors our runners, plus we'll have some strong competitors in the throwing events," DeNoon said.

Tracksters take 2nd at MVC final; Cornell disappointed with team

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

NORMAL - For Saluki men's track coach Bill Cornell, the Missouri Valley Conference Indoor Track and Field Championships was a frustrating experience.

Cornell was disappointed with the Salukis' second-place finish Saturday at Horton Fieldhouse and felt some of his athletes didn't perform up to their potential.

"We took 25 men to the meet, and 11 didn't even score a point," Cornell said. "I can't afford to have athletes on full scholarships not scoring points."

"These particular athletes have to get their butts moving for the outdoor season and have to stop coming up with alibis to get out of their training. I refuse to keep losers around me."

Host Illinois State won the meet for the second consecutive year with 126.3 points, while SIU-C scored 165 points to finish second.

The Salukis' only individual winner was weightman Tom

Smith, who won the 35-pound weight throw and shot put events.

Smith won the 35-pound weight throw with a 59-9.25 effort on his fourth attempt and the shot put with a 58-5.75 effort on his third attempt. The two wins made Smith one of only two double-winners at the meet.

Wichita State's Marvell Reid, the other double-winner, was awarded the meet's most valuable athlete.

"Most of the conference coaches wished there were two awards so they could give them jointly to Reid and Tom," Cornell said. "I would have liked to have seen Tom get the award in his last indoor team meet."

The other Saluki first-place finish was recorded by the two-mile relay team in 7:34.3, largely because of the efforts of anchor runner Mike Elliott, who had a team-best 1:50.4 split time.

Elliott also finished second in the 880-yard run with a 1:53.7, added a sixth-place finish in the mile at 4:14.8, and ran a leg on the Salukis' mile relay team, which finished second in 3:16.3.

Elliott (49.74) teamed with Connor Mason (48.90), Kevin Steele (49.10), and anchor runner Bret Garrett (team-best 48.48) on SIU-C's mile relay team, which finished second to Drake's 3:16.2.

"I can't get down on Elliott because he did a super job," Cornell said.

Women gymnasts notch 2 of 3 in Texas competitions

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

The women's gymnastics team fell one meet short of a three-meet sweep in the Lone Star State.

The Salukis defeated Texas Women's University Wednesday and Southwest Texas State University Friday, but fell to Houston Baptist University Sunday to level out their season's record at 4-3.

Junior Michelle Spillman continued her string of strong performances by taking first place in two events against TWU (vault and floor exercises), grabbing the top spot in all-around competition, and taking second place in the uneven bars.

Senior Lori Steele followed Spillman's lead with a second-place in vaulting, third in uneven bars, second in floor exercises and second in all-around with a score of 34.60.

Margaret Calcott scored her season best (9.35) to take first place in uneven bars.

Amidst all the Saluki victories was one major setback. Junior Jennifer Moore suffered a badly sprained ankle during the first pass on her floor routine. Freshman Cheri Crosby filled in for the injured Moore and scored a respectable 8.35.

Senior Maggi Nidiffer came through for the Salukis on the balance beam, taking second-place with an 8.90 and placing third in the all-around (34.35).

Moore's injury placed more weight on Spillman and Steele, but the team leaders handled it and carried SIU to the victory over Southwest Texas State University.

Steele outscored teammate Spillman in the all-around and took the top spot in vaulting, traditionally Spillman's best event.

Steele also tied with Cheri Crosby for fourth-place on uneven bars, rated second-place in floor exercises and was the highest Saluki scorer in a very disappointing team performance on the balance beam.

Spillman was not to be outdone by Steele, however. The junior gymnast took first-place in floor exercises, second-place in vault and second-place in uneven bars.

Nidiffer and Crosby tied for fourth-place in the vault, while Calcott scored an 8.70 to take third-place in the uneven bars. Crosby and Steele each scored an 8.55 to tie for fourth-place in the same event.

The Salukis had a comfortable 5.45-point lead after two events but the team's 37.85 score on the balance beam broke the lead.

The SIU tumblers came back strong to grab the top three spots in the floor exercises. Making her first appearance as an all-arounder, Crosby scored an 8.95 to take third in floor exercises behind Spillman and Steele. The freshman also placed third in the all-around with a score of 33.30.

The Salukis' last stop was Houston Baptist University, where the team had a "very bad meet" Vogel said.

SIU managed to win only one event at HBU, thanks to first- and second-place performances by Steele and Spillman in the vaulting event.

Men gymnasts tumble to Oklahoma Sooners

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

It was a weekend of ups and downs, actually downs and ups, for the men's gymnastics team. The Oklahoma Sooners handed the Salukis' their first loss of the season (279.40-273.95) but the tumblers came back to beat Houston Baptist University 275.00-267.90.

The Salukis did not win any events against the Sooners on Saturday, but junior Mark Ulmer managed to take third place in all-arounds with his best score of 55.40. Ulmer was second on rings (9.50) and vault (9.40) and tied for third with Preston Knaut on horizontal bar (9.40).

Junior David Bailey scored his personal best (9.45) to take third place on parallel bars. No other Salukis placed in the top three.

The Salukis arrived at Houston Baptist University determined to raise their scores as well as their record. SIU took a 4.70-point lead after the first two events and finished the meet winning four of the six events.

Senior Brendan Price took top spot in the all-around for the first time this season (55.15). He won floor exercises (9.50), vault (9.30) and accomplished a personal best on parallel bars (9.60). Price also tied for third with Ulmer on horizontal bar (9.25).

Ulmer, who has been turning in strong performances recently, took second in the all-around (54.75) and parallel bars (9.30) in addition to his tie with Price on the horizontal bar. Despite a strong 9.60 performance on the rings, Ulmer did not place in the top three.

Freshman Brent Reed scored his season-best all-around score (54.65) to taking third ahead of senior David Lutterman (54.35). Reed rated a second place on horizontal bar (9.45) and tied with Lutterman on vault (9.25).

Lutterman nabbed second place on pommel horse (9.20) and tied for third in floor exercises with Tom Glielmi (9.25).

Knaut, a junior from Glen Ellyn, Ill., finished third on pommel horse (9.00) and parallel bars (9.25).

Ken Clark, whose previous high score on horizontal bar was a 9.45 in the Salukis' victory over Indiana State University, improved with a first-place score of 9.55.

The Salukis' loss to Oklahoma could prove an asset in that they know what they must improve for the upcoming home meets against ninth-ranked Penn State (March 5) and second-ranked University of Nebraska (March 7).

Billikens hope for shot at NIT title

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — If the National Invitation Tournament wants a Cinderella team, St. Louis University coach Rich Grawer knows where it can look.

"It all depends on what criteria the NIT selection committee uses," Grawer said. "If they're hoping for a Cinderella team, we could be the team. I think we're a good basketball team."

The Billikens finished second in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference Sunday by dropping a 74-66 nationally televised decision to Xavier. St. Louis also finished second in the regular season after being chosen sixth in a preseason poll of the eight league schools.

"We didn't get upset," Grawer said. "That should be important. My private prediction before the season was to finish fourth. But who would have thought we'd beat Detroit three times and beat Loyola, which we'd never done?"

St. Louis finished its season at 18-12, including nine wins in its last 11 games.

Jeff Fogelson, athletic director at Xavier, is a member of the NIT advisory committee and has recommended St. Louis for a berth. So has Jim Shaffer, commissioner of the MCC.

"We'll follow that up with calls this week," Fogelson said. "St. Louis has a lot going for it. They did nothing to embarrass themselves or the league. We'll push them."

Women cagers' win over Wichita no shocker

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

WICHITA, Kansas — The 19th-ranked women's basketball Salukis celebrated their Top-20 voting by thumping Wichita State 70-52 in Levitt Arena Monday night.

The Salukis (24-3, 17-0) nailed their 22nd win in a row and ended the Shockers' (12-14, 9-8) hopes for a .500 season.

"We were very happy we won because we were worried about an emotional letdown," Coach Cindy Scott said. "We've never beaten Wichita by 18."

Typical Saluki defense forced several Shocker turnovers early, and the outside shooting of Petra Jackson and Ann Kattreh opened up the game.

WSU got back in control and got some shots off, most of which missed in a 35-percent first-half effort.

Jackson hit six of eight with Kattreh hitting five of six to give the Salukis a 34-19 half-time advantage.

"Pete came out ready to play, and Ann played like the old Ann," Scott said.

Wichita State played a more aggressive defense in the second half, especially in the lane where Bridgett Bonds and Mary Berghuis got into foul trouble. Shocker coach Karen Harden said, "Both teams pride themselves on defense as the top two in the conference. But we didn't show it until the second half."

Jackson made up for Saluki foul trouble by grabbing 14 rebounds while Cozette Wallace got nine rebounds while substituting for Bonds.

The Salukis survived offensive dry spell which allowed the Shockers to pu within nine at 57-48 score under the four-minute mark.

The Shockers were led by Allison Daniel who scored 14 points.

Despite Wichita's attempts, the Salukis dominated the boards until the buzzer.

While the Shockers tried to foul, the Salukis finally converted, led by Wallace, who hit eight of 10 freethrows down the stretch to ice the win.

Scott said, "We got great play from Wallace and our good freethrow shooting may be a good omen that we'll make them the rest of the way."

Jackson led all scorers and rebounders with 22 points and 14 caroms for the game. Wallace totaled 14 points and Kattreh added 12.

The Salukis hauled down 41 total rebounds over the Shockers 25 and shot 78.2 percent from the line.

"Our defense pulled us through once again when our offense was dry," Scott said.

First-round bye a goal for 19th-ranked Salukis

By Steve Merritt
Sports Editor

The SIU-C women's basketball team is heading for the NCAA tournament — for sure.

As champions of the Gateway Collegiate Athletics Conference, the Salukis are assured of an automatic berth to the tournament. After Monday night's game with Wichita State, the Salukis have on remaining regular-season game before heading into the prestigious tournament.

Pairings for the 40-team tournament will be released this Sunday, with first-round games to be played starting on Tuesday, March 11. Second-round games will begin March 14-16 at sites yet to be determined.

Regional contests will be held at Philadelphia, Iowa City, Austin, and Long Beach.

The top eight teams nationally will be seeded, with No. 1 and 2 in one region, No. 3 and 7, No. 5 and 6 and

No. 4 and 5 in the other three regions.

As in the men's NCAA tournament, the nine-member

NCAA women's basketball committee will attempt to keep teams in their own geographic region but will consider moving teams to balance the strength of the particular regions.

The tournament brackets have eight first-round games, meaning that 24 teams will receive first-round byes. Ranked right behind the Associated Press Top 20 for the last quarter of the season and presently ranked 19th, the Salukis are considered to have borderline chances of receiving a first-round bye.

"If we can win our last two games (Monday at Wichita State and Wednesday at Southwest Missouri), I think we'll get a first-round bye," said Mitch Parkinson, sports information director for the women's athletics department.

Saluki women cagers break into AP Top 20 poll

By Steve Merritt
Sports Editor

The Saluki women's basketball team, for the first time in history, is ranked in the Associated Press Coaches Poll.

With the nation's second longest winning streak (22 games), the Salukis wrapped up their first Gateway Conference title Saturday night by bouncing the Drake Bulldogs, 49-47.

The Salukis are the 88th team to be ranked in the 10-year history of the poll, and are the third Gateway team to be ranked in the Top 20 poll.

Illinois State was ranked as high as 15th in 1981, and defending conference champ Drake has been ranked as high as 16th.

With the Gateway title comes an automatic berth to the NCAA tournament, which represents another first in Saluki women's basketball history.

Going into Monday night's contest with Wichita State, the Salukis were only one of three teams already assured of automatic berths.

Other berths will be decided Monday night, when the Southeastern, the Metro and the Atlantic Coast Conferences hold their post-season tournaments.

Even though Saluki coach Cindy Scott said the ranking "added pressure and responsibility," it was a "great thing for the program, the conference and the Midwest."

Scott said getting into the poll had long been a goal and added that the Salukis had spent most of the year trying to get ranked. The Salukis hovered for the second half of the season near the No. 20 mark, but failed to break into the AP poll.

"It was kind of frustrating, but I knew if we kept winning, we'd get noticed," Scott said from Wichita, Kan. "I think we're one of the top 15 teams in the country, but we'll settle for

No. 19 now."

Besides entering the SIU-C athletics history books with the three firsts (AP ranking, Gateway Conference crown and NCAA tournament berth), the Salukis also enjoyed firsts of another kind this weekend.

By beating Drake in front of a sold-out Davies Gymnasium, the Salukis accomplished two firsts: the first sell-out home crowd and the first clean sweep of the defending conference champion Bulldogs.

1st school to hit 30 wins this season

Braves lead MVC teams into semi-final action

The Bradley Braves became the first Division I school to win 30 games this season by downing the Buffaloes of West Texas State 61-55 Monday afternoon in first-round action of the Missouri Valley Conference basketball tournament in Tulsa, Okla.

Mike Williams scored 18 points while teammates Hersey Hawkins and Jim Les combined for 31 en route to the Braves' 21st consecutive victory.

West Texas trailed by a slim 48-47 margin with five minutes left to play, but Williams took over in the final minutes to assure a Bradley victory.

Having only seven players dressed for the contest, it was West Texas' last game in the MVC before dropping out of the conference to pursue basketball at the Division II level next season.

With the win, Bradley's record raises to 30-1 while the Buffaloes finish the season with an 11-16 overall mark.

In the second game of the tournament, Illinois State advanced to the semi-final round to face the Braves Tuesday night by downing Wichita State, 78-70.

The Shockers, who trailed by as much as 13 points, came to within two points of Illinois State on two occasions but senior guard William Anderson hit six straight freethrows in the last 19 seconds to ice the game for the Redbirds.

A physical game to say the least, a tournament record of 63 fouls were called on the two teams. Wichita State was whistled for 34 fouls while the Redbirds were called for 29; both teams lost three players for exceeding the limit.

The win assured the Redbirds of their 16th consecutive winning season. The Redbirds now stand at 15-13 on the year while the Shockers finish the year with an even 14-14 record.

In the third game, No. 3 seed Drake prevailed over sixth-seeded Creighton 82-56 to move into the semi-finals against the winner of the Tulsa-Indiana State game.

Drake, 19-9 with the win, was never in serious trouble during the game, leading 41-29 at the intermission. The Bulldogs stretched their lead to as much as 32 points with just over two minutes to play. Carbondale native Glenn Martin had 16 points in the contest.

Drake joins Bradley and Illinois State as the Valley's semifinalist. The Bulldogs will take on the winner of the Tulsa-Indiana State game on Tuesday night. Results of the Indiana State-Tulsa game were not available at press time.

If one of the semi-final teams manages to upset Bradley, it is highly probable the NCAA would go two deep into the MVC.
